

Where to solve organizational problems

We can never solve the root causes to our built-in problems, by nudging (or yanking) our people to change their interactions!
Here are the complexity people!

We can never solve the root causes to our built-in problems, by wishing these to become better!
Above all it is these that the top management sees (and tries to do something about)!

We need to act here instead!

* for example: right product, cheap product, cheap and fast development of the product, well-functioning and qualitative product, long-lived product, secure product, user-friendly product
 **for example: respect for people or not, mindset, values, culture, master suppression techniques, etc.
 ***miss in the communication, mistakes, Murphy's law, inexactness, etc.