FORCED BIRTH CONTROL

Uyghur women are forced into operations where they have intrauterine devices inserted without consent in fear of being placed in a concentration camp if they refuse. 80% of all net IUD placements in China were performed in East Turkistan.

The population grown in East Turkistan decreased by 84% between 2015-2018 and in 2020, the Chinese government put forth a near-zero birth rate target for one Uyghur region through "family planning work."

"Alif Baqytali and his mother, Gulnar Omirzakh, at their new home in Shonzhy, Kazakhstan. Omirzakh, a Chinese-born ethnic Kazakh, says she was forced to get an intrauterine contraceptive device, and that authorities in China threatened to detain her if she didn't pay a large fine for giving birth to Alif, her third child. Document dated January 2018 telling Omirzakh that she must pay a fine of 17,405 RMB ($2685) for having a 3rd child. She was forced to get an IUD with the Chinese authorities threatening to detain her if she didn't pay the fine for having a third child. (Courtesy Gulnar Omirzakh via AP)

In order to control curb the Muslim population, the Chinese government is injecting Uyghur women with a foreign fluid that leave women sterile. This oftentimes happens inside detention centers where after the women are injected, they feel ill, lose their menstrual cycle and sometimes bleed to death.

“We had to stick our arms out through a small opening in the door. We soon realised that after our injections that we didn’t get our periods any more.... It’s like we were just piece of meat”

FORCED ABORTIONS

The Chinese government forces Uyghur women to have abortions regardless of how far along in their pregnancy they are. There are reports of women in late stages of their pregnancy (8th/9th month) being aborted. If the baby is alive after the abortion, they are then killed.

Gulzira Mogdyn says she was forced by the Chinese government to abort her fourth child in 2018 (@Joel van Houdt/For The Washington Post)

"They wouldn't give the baby to the parents – they kill the babies when they're born. It's an order that's been given from above, it's an order that's been printed and distributed in official documents. Hospitals get fined if they don't comply, so of course they carry this out."

"Pair up and become Family" Program: Han Chinese cadres are assigned to monitor the homes of Uyghurs. Oftentimes, Uyghur women are home alone because their husbands have been sent to concentration camps or forced labor facilities.

Uyghur women are often forced to share a bed with the male cadres. This leaves them subject to mental, physical and sexual abuses. Women cannot object/report abuses because they fear they are in danger of being placed in a concentration camp for "noncompliance"

FORCED MARRIAGES

Uyghur women are forced to marry Han Chinese men and are unable to refuse. If the "bride to be" or her family protest the marriage, they are branded "Islamic extremists" who refuse marriage to a Chinese man and are placed in concentration camps.

These coerced marriages the the Chinese governments attempts are further eradicating the Uyghur culture and forcefully assimilating them into Han Chinese culture. In order to encourage these mixed marriages, the Chinese government gave monetary incentive. When those failed, videos were produced of "happy couples" and magazine articles on "how to win a Uyghur girls heart"
