

Complaints Policy & Procedure

This policy applies to Colchester Operatic Society (COS) and its committees, including Colchester Operatic Society Second Edition (CO2), who are collectively referred to as “The Society” and “Colchester Operatic Society”.

Policy

Colchester Operatic Society believes that members and individuals volunteering or employed for any of our productions are entitled to feel safe and expect courtesy from one another, from members and officers of the Executive committee and members of any sub-committees. Members of the Executive committee, who manage the Society, make every effort that is reasonably possible to ensure that all of its members and appointed/employed personnel are treated with dignity and respect. Bullying, harassment and discrimination of any kind will not be tolerated. We encourage individuals to report any incidents of bullying, harassment and/or discrimination to the Executive committee as per our Inclusion, Equality and Diversity policy. Any evidence or reports of bullying, harassment and/or discrimination will be taken seriously by the Executive committee, discussed and appropriate action taken.

The Executive committee welcome suggestions on how to improve our Society and will give prompt and serious attention to any concerns or complaints about the running of our productions and/or our Society in general. We anticipate that most concerns or complaints will be resolved quickly by an informal approach to an appropriate appointed individual and/or member/s of the Executive committee. If this does not achieve the desired result, we have a set of procedures for dealing with concerns and complaints. We aim to bring all concerns and complaints about the running of our Society and its productions to a satisfactory conclusion for all parties involved.

Whistleblowing

Individuals should feel comfortable to make their concerns and complaints known to the necessary people without fear of recrimination. Any individual receiving a concern or complaint regarding the Society, its management and its productions must report the concern or complaint to any other relevant people including the Executive committee and any appropriate sub-committees both sensitively and appropriately. Where requested or if possible, necessary and/or appropriate this should be done anonymously.

Complaints Policy & Procedure

Unreasonable Complainants

Colchester Operatic Society is committed to dealing with all complaints fairly and honestly, openly listening to and taking into account the views of the complainant whilst balancing the importance of acting in the best interests of the Society as a whole. However, we do not expect our Executive Committee members and/or appointed personnel to tolerate unacceptable behaviour and will take action to protect individuals from that behaviour, including that which is abusive, offensive or threatening.

COS defines unreasonable complainants as ‘those who, because of the frequency or nature of their contacts with the Society, hinder our consideration of their or other people's concerns or complaints and/or hinder our consideration of other important Society matters and decisions'.

Complaints Policy & Procedure

A complaint may be regarded as unreasonable when the person making the complaint:-

- refuses to articulate their complaint or specify the grounds of a complaint or the outcomes sought by raising the complaint, despite offers of assistance;
- refuses to co-operate with those trying to address the complaint while still wishing their complaint to be resolved;
- refuses to accept that certain issues are not within the scope of the Society to address (see later section for more information);
- insists on the complaint being dealt with in ways which are incompatible with our complaints procedure, good practice or with the best interests of the Society;
- introduces trivial or irrelevant information which the complainant expects to be taken into account and commented on, or raises large numbers of detailed but unimportant questions, and insists

Complaints Policy & Procedure

they are fully answered, often immediately and to their own timescales;

- makes unjustified complaints about individuals who are trying to deal with the issues and/or are trying to ensure they fulfil their roles & responsibilities within the Society or as appointed by the Society, and seeks to have them replaced;
- changes the basis of the complaint as any investigation proceeds;
- repeatedly makes the same complaint (despite previous investigations or responses concluding that the complaint is groundless or has been addressed);
- refuses to accept the outcomes or findings of any investigation into their complaint where the Society's complaint procedure has been fully and properly implemented and completed;
- seeks an unrealistic outcome;
- makes excessive demands on Society and/or Executive Committee time by frequent, lengthy, complicated and stressful contact with individuals and/or committees regarding the complaint in person, in writing, by email and/or by telephone, especially while the complaint is being dealt with.

Complaints Policy & Procedure

A complaint may also be considered unreasonable if the person making the complaint does so either face-to-face, by telephone, in writing or electronically:-

- maliciously;
- aggressively;
- using threats, intimidation or violence;
- using abusive, offensive or discriminatory language;
- knowing it to be false;
- using falsified information;
- publishing unacceptable information in a variety of media such as in social media websites and newspapers.

Complainants should limit the numbers of communications to the Society while a complaint is being dealt with. It is not helpful if repeated correspondence is sent (either by letter, phone, email or text) as it could delay an outcome being reached.

Whenever possible, the Chair or an Officer of the Society will discuss any concerns with the complainant informally before applying an 'unreasonable' marking.

If the behaviour continues the Executive Committee will write to the complainant explaining that their behaviour is unreasonable, asking them to change it.

In response to any serious incident of aggression or violence, the concerns and actions taken will be put in writing immediately and the police informed. This may include banning an individual from attending rehearsals and/or a production or ceasing their membership to Colchester Operatic Society and/or CO2.

Complaints Policy & Procedure

to our Social Media Policy and agreement for more details.

We ask members to refrain from publicly complaining using posts on our Facebook group/s and/or other social networking sites, as this can be detrimental to individuals, personal relationships and/or the reputation of the Society.

Written complaints

If following any of the above procedures does not end in a satisfactory outcome, or if the problem reoccurs, an individual can put their concerns or complaint in writing to the Executive committee. Contact emails are listed at the end of this document, although the first point of contact should be the COS Secretary.

We investigate all written complaints made to the Society and address them as a committee at the next relevant committee meeting. If a complaint relates to a member of the Executive committee, then that member may be asked to leave the meeting whilst the complaint is discussed by the rest of the committee. Any response, decisions and/or actions taken will then be reported back to the complainant, following this meeting.

Actions

As a result of any complaints/concerns we may need to refer to rule 18 of the COS rulebook (see below) in particular when the complaint relates to bullying, harassment, discrimination or general conduct of any individual.

Rule 18. Expulsion Of Members

The Executive Committee may, by a two thirds majority of its members, vote to remove from the list of Members the name of any Member (a) who has persistently neglected the work undertaken by the Society, or (b) whose conduct it considers likely to endanger the welfare of the Society.

Other actions that may be taken include; removing individuals from our Facebook group/s (in accordance with our social networking agreement) and/or members area of the website, removing an individual's role, position or status from any of our productions, committees and/or Society and if necessary reporting an individual to the police for criminal prosecution. These actions will not be taken lightly and only in a situation in which other solutions have failed to work.

What happens if I'm not happy with the outcome of my complaint?

The outcome of any written complaint that has been ratified by the majority of the Executive Committee will be final. However, if the complainant is not satisfied that their complaint has been addressed in line with our policy and procedures, they can request to attend a meeting with the committee or at least 2 selected members of the committee that they feel comfortable meeting. They can also bring an independent witness/mediator or advocate with them to this meeting. An agreed written account of the discussion will be made including any decision or action to take as a result. It is important to note that final outcomes will only be overturned following such a meeting in exceptional circumstances. This course of action is a last resort and is in place to ensure all complainants are dealt with fairly, have appropriate opportunities to be heard and to have their complaint addressed in line with this policy and procedures. It is not applicable if complainants simply don't like the outcome of their complaint, have already met with members of the committee and/or have had sufficient amount of time dedicated by the committee to their complaint. If complainants repeatedly contact the Society regarding an ongoing or resolved/closed complaint, they will be deemed unreasonable complainants -please see the 'unreasonable complainants' section of the policy for more information.

Complaints Policy & Procedure

The Executive Committee will also ensure any complainant has access to the appropriate legal guidelines and advice in line with their complaint, should this be requested and/or necessary.

Please note that all members have the opportunity to stand for election onto the Executive Committee and contribute to the running of the Society. Any members that feel they want to have more involvement in decisions and actions the Society takes should consider standing for the Executive Committee at the next appropriate time.

Complaints outside the Scope of the Society

Complaints Policy & Procedure

There may be occasion when a complaint directed towards the Society will not be able to be addressed directly by the Society, as it involves matters and/or individuals that fall outside the scope of the Society. In such instances, complainants will be directed to the appropriate individuals and/or channels to which they can make their complaint.

Matters out of the scope of the Society may include (but are not limited to);

- Complaints regarding outside professionals or individuals not hired by or directly working with the Society
