The sculpture at Skanderborg Arts Centre, Denmark
1998

The sculpture is made of polished bronze and is more than 300 meters long, stretching from Algade to Skanderborg Lake.

300 meters is the actual distance from one end to the other of the sculpture, which in fact only appears in larger or smaller fragments. The totality is not accessible to the eye but can be formed only in the mind of the viewer. The sculpture which is 60 cm wide, consists of five pieces placed in a straight line connecting the level of the street with the Library Square, the park and the lake.

The parts are of different sizes, but all are formed as the top of a disc.
