

The flower with the four leaves and the circle of realistic optimism

As you can see, it is really simple to create. You do not have to put pictures of the children inside the flower - it is just a proposal.

On this picture, you can see the titles of the four steps in a change process: focus, observation, ideas and change. However, you should not write the words until the activity day, where you then can write them as you go along with the process.
