The International Journal of Coaching Psychology (IJCP) has been launched in 2020 as a new peer-reviewed journal aiming to publish theory, research and practice articles on all aspects of coaching psychology. This journal is freely available to view online without paid subscription or author publishing fees.

The journal welcomes research and discussion papers, brief reports, short papers on techniques, book reviews and conference reports. We may also commission contributions from experts in psychology and the applied fields including perspectives, position papers, leading articles, invited papers and keynote speeches.

This IJCP joins The National Wellbeing Services Ltd journal collection, which already consists of three peer reviewed journals including the established and popular European Journal of Applied Positive Psychology.

The editorial process and publication of IJCP is dependent upon the voluntary commitment of the Consulting Editors, International Advisory Board and panel of reviewers. The Executive Editor of the IJCP is Prof Stephen Palmer. We would like to thank each of the international experts in the field of coaching psychology, positive psychology and other disciplines of psychology who have already agreed to be involved.

We are pleased to announce that the International Society for Coaching Psychology will be a Professional Body Sponsor of the journal (<https://isfcp.info>). The Corporate Sponsors of the IJCP are the Centre for Coaching, London and International Academy for Professional Development Ltd.

Further guidance and information for authors are available on the website (<https://ijcp.nationalwellbeingsservice.com/submission-review-process/>).

We look forward to receiving your submissions. ■
