Our Product

Dragon Fruit/Pitahaya

Dragon fruits or pitahaya are a plant that belongs to the cactus class. And has a shape resembling dragon scales. The fruit has a pink or yellow skin, with white or red flesh and black seeds. The pitahaya's flesh is sweet and refreshing.

These fruits are commonly known in English as “dragon fruit”, or pitahaya and pitaya derive from Mexico. The dragon fruit is cultivated in Southeast Asia, India, United States, the Caribbean, Australia, and throughout tropical and subtropical world regions.

My Kind

Sweet pitayas come in three types, Selenicereus undatus (white-fleshed pitaya) has pink-skinned fruit with white flesh. Selenicereus costaricensis (red-fleshed pitaya) has red-skinned fruit with red flesh. Selenicereus megalanthus (yellow pitaya) has yellow-skinned fruit with white flesh.

Alas, we can only supply red-skinned pitahaya. Because the yellow one is very rare to get.

Packaging

Dragon fruit are arranged in flat cardboard boxes, with each box consisting of 6-9 pieces. Dragon fruit weight can be ordered upon request, ranging from 350-500 grams. Or can be ordered special size weighing above 500 grams.

Our Product

Avocado

Avocados are round to pear-shaped fruits that have soft, uneven skin, dark green to purple brown, depending on the variety. The flesh of the avocado is light green near the skin and light yellow near the seeds, with a creamy, nutty flavour.

Avocados are cultivated in tropical and tropical climates of many countries. The fruit has many benefits for humans. Avocados contain at least 11 useful vitamins and 14 minerals. Avocados are rich in protein, riboflavin (otherwise known as vitamin B2), niacin (otherwise known as vitamin B3), potassium and vitamin C. This green fruit is often used for juices or ingredients in mixed ice or other dishes.

My Kind

Alas, only one type we can supply now, and it is butter avocado. Butter avocado is included in the superior avocado type because it has a fruit with thick flesh, a chewy texture, not watery, yellow color on the fruit that looks clean without blemishes and is similar to butter.

Packaging

Butter Avocado's sizes have an average of about 350 grams per fruit. The size, especially the length of the fruit is around 13 to 17 centimeters and fruit diameter 10 to 14 centimeters, while the fruit skin is only 1 mm thick and the pulp is 1.9 to 2.1 centimeters thick. 1 pack contains 9 avocados and one layer only.

Our Product

Salacca / Snake Fruit

They are very short-stemmed palms, with leaves up to 6–8 m long. The fruit grow in clusters at the base of the plants, and are edible in many species, with a reddish-brown scaly skin covering a white pulp and one to two large inedible seeds.

The Salacca (S. zalacca) or snake fruit is the species most widely grown for its fruit; the firm white pulp has a slight acidic taste. The skin of the snakefruit has a unique texture not unlike that of a snake's skin, rough to the touch in one direction but smooth in the other.

My Kind

Only one type of salacca that we can supply, namely the pondoh type. Has a sweeter taste and bigger meat than the other types.

Packaging

Salaccas are arranged in flat cardboard boxes, with each box consisting of 15-20 pieces. And it's weights is ranged from 50-60 grams.
