PRODUCTION

We ensure the quality from raw materials to final production from beginning to end. so that all our partners get the best quality in every product

OUR PRODUCTS

Coconut shells use to be considered agricultural waste, but today, they are considered a resource. They can be found in their natural form, or compressed into a briquette. Made from natural materials which is coconut shell charcoal and small portion of natural starch as binder, coconut charcoal is environmentally friendly because it burns very clean, and leaves almost no black residue to the touch.

With high quality control standard in every step of process, from coconut shell selection until briquetting and packaging, we deliver high quality coconut charcoal briquettes in any desired size and packaging based on your requirement that perfect for use in Shisha/hookah.
