RETURNING TO STUDY

Increasingly individuals are becoming aware of the needs for counselling therapy and the many positive benefits that derive from it. Counselling, at its best, can help an individual to change the course of their life. That is why, here at Life-Force School, we not only believe that it is crucial to offer the best training, but that in the process of training, students become more aware of their strengths, weaknesses and past problems. Experiential learning and support enable the student to learn in an enjoyable and safe atmosphere.

The LIFE-FORCE Centre building incorporates specialist training rooms that are comfortable and superbly equipped. Facilities for refreshments are readily available and a well-equipped, hygienic kitchen is available for lunches and tea breaks.

Course costs are included in the prospectus. Fees can be arranged to be paid monthly. In considering the study time commitment to the course, candidates should allow for at least double the amount of time on the course to be spent on personal study time.

BACP COURSE ACCREDITATION

The British Association for Counselling & Psychotherapy (BACP) is the largest and broadest professional body within the sector of counselling and psychotherapy. Its work is multifaceted in the field and this includes the accreditation of counselling training programmes who meet the definitive standards and criteria set by BACP. To attain this accreditation status is a formal recognition of high professional standards regarding course format, delivery, assessment methods plus policies and procedures.

Life-Force School of Counselling is an independent organisation that has been providing counselling training courses since 1995. The School has been delivering a BACP Accredited training course programme since 2005, and gained Re-Accreditation to BACP Gold Book Standards in 2010, 2015 & 2020.

Life-Force School is proud to be the first training organisation to have developed a course programme which successfully meets these new BACP 2009 training course criteria, and the School continues to be committed to the maintenance and raising of professional standards in the area of counselling training.

The School aims to be at the cutting edge of both course development, informed by evolving requirements, and course delivery which intends to achieve excellence in terms of training professional counsellors.

In pursuit of these goals the School provides a coherent structure for the delivery of the course programme, which includes an external moderation process and the certification of students who successfully complete each level of the course.

Students who successfully complete the Life-Force School Diploma in Integrative Counselling will graduate from a BACP Accredited Course and will have the required number of training hours to enable them to work towards individual counsellor BACP accreditation, for which they will need a minimum of 450hrs of supervised counselling practice, over a period of 3-5 years. Students will also be able to join the BACP Register of Counsellors and Psychotherapists which is a voluntary register that was opened early in 2013 and is overseen by the Professional Standards Authority for Health &

INTRODUCTION TO INTEGRATIVE APPROACH

The core model of the course is an integrative approach which is based on a humanistic client-led philosophy and practice informed by a theoretical integration of existential, psychodynamic and other theories to enrich the understanding of both human development generally and the dynamics of the therapeutic relationship. The holistic approach of the course emphasises the need for the integration of thinking, feeling and behaviour together with awareness of the social and cultural contexts of counselling.

An emphasis on the therapeutic relationship and empowerment of the client are seen as core to the process of therapeutic change at all times and we encourage our students to develop their own style of counselling within the core integrative model being offered.

During the Level 2 course, students are introduced to Egan's 3-stage model of counselling before then proceeding on to the Level 3 Certificate in Counselling Skills during which they study the humanistic approach from both a theory and skills perspective. At Level 4, students go on to explore and integrate other existential models and by developing an increasing understanding of a range of other theoretical approaches, theories and therapeutic practice, they are led towards developing their own integrated approach wherein humanistic interventions are progressively informed by a growing understanding of counselling theory and the process of counselling itself. Throughout the course, the student will experience the process of counselling, both as a counsellor and as a client and during Level 4, having undertaken an extensive practical placement working with clients, the student can become a fully qualified counsellor by attaining a Diploma in Integrative Counselling.

During the training period, students will have a rich learning experience as they will be taught by different tutors all of whom are qualified counsellors practising in a variety of therapeutic approaches. The course is mostly experiential; taught in a creative, challenging and interactive way and double-staffed throughout, aside from the PD Group held during both years of the Level 4 Diploma Course.

The teaching team considers professional practice to be a key component of counselling training and to be the future success of all qualified counsellors. Emphasis is also placed on students assuming self-responsibility in their general approach to their learning experience and meeting coursework requirements.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

Open Access at All Three Levels

No previous experience or qualifications are needed to apply for Level 2.

Equal Opportunities

Candidates from all backgrounds are welcomed as we believe students with diverse cultural experiences enrich the learning environment. Students will be treated and valued equally and with recognition of the differences of race, gender, sexual orientation, age and where possible, disability. The Centre has limited disabled access and facilities.

Age Limit

Candidates applying to join at Level 2, 3 or 4 must be at least 21 years old.

Residential Weekend Attendance

Candidates applying for Level 3 and Level 4 must ensure they are able to attend the residential training weekend by checking the course dates prior to application. Students who do not attend the residential weekend without extenuating circumstances, supported by written medical evidence, will fail the course. Expectant and nursing mothers should read the relevant policy on the Life-Force School website.

English Language

Prospective students must be able to meet the English language entry requirements (see Course Application Form on School website).

I.T. Skills

Candidates must have regular access to internet/email/printing facilities and sufficient I.T. skills to be able to create word processed documents, communicate online and undertake research via the internet.

References

At Level 3 and Level 4 candidates will need to supply 2 references, one professional from their previous counselling trainer and one personal. Reference Format Guidelines and the Training Reference Form can be obtained from <http://www.lifeforce-centre.co.uk/admissions.html>

Accreditation of Prior Learning (APL)

The School considers APL applicants for Level 3 or 4 who have been awarded counselling training certificates detailing 35 or 175 contact teaching hours respectively. This applies to Life-Force School students who have had time out from training and those who have trained with an alternative provider within the last 3 years. Distance learning does not meet this entry requirement. Details of professional and personal development during the interim time out and a statement of why they wish to resume counselling training is also required.

APPLICATION & INTERVIEW

Candidates can apply by following the School's Admissions Policy which requires applications to be made online by submitting a Course Application Form along with an A4 page detailing their reasons for wishing to attend the course. There is no automatic right of entry between levels.

At Level 2 a group or personal interview and at Levels 3 & 4 a personal and group interview will be required prior to being offered a place on the course. Candidates will need to show they have the human qualities and potential that would enable them to become a responsible and capable therapist. They will also need to demonstrate interpersonal skills and a willingness to participate in the experiential work of the group.

At each level of the application process, candidates who are offered a place on any level of the course will be required to complete a confidential Medical and Learning Support Form, in order to identify any special learning needs they may have. Life-Force School can then determine whether or not appropriate and sufficient reasonable adjustments can be provided to create a suitably supportive learning environment, without which the offer of a place may need to be withdrawn. Therefore early disclosure of any medical conditions or learning disabilities is essential in order to ensure students will be clinically fit to practice and work with clients who may have a range of psychological needs. Students who have a history of mental health problems may be required to obtain a signed Fitness to Practice form from their GP prior to the start of their clinical placement.

Successful candidates will also need to complete a Life-Force School Criminal Convictions Disclosure Form which requires disclosure of any prior disciplinary proceedings, criminal convictions, and current criminal allegations, any of which may not necessarily result in being unable to complete the course programme. The decision as to whether the candidate is suitable to provide a health care service to vulnerable adults will be determined by the nature of the disclosure, as well as the circumstances and background of the offence. Before applying candidates who have any such disclosures to make, must check with BACP that they would still be eligible for individual BACP student membership. They will also be required to obtain a DBS Enhanced Certificate prior to applying for the next step of the course programme. Also Level 4 students will need to provide a DBS Enhanced Certificate, prior to commencement of clinical placement. A copy of the Life-Force School DBS Enhanced Certificate & Safeguarding Policy is available upon request.

Life-Force School reserves the absolute right to refuse admission onto a course or to request that a student discontinues, where this is deemed necessary.

PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

The course is presented as 11 units which are divided into four areas of learning and assessment covering theory, professional practice, skills and personal development. These are the foundation of the programme and are therefore developed throughout the three year training.

Life-Force School acts as a support system for its students from registration to qualification. Students will receive regular individual tutorials throughout both Level 3 and Level 4 of the course programme.

INTRODUCTION TO COUNSELLING

35 hours

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

The course is open access at this level, and applicants should check the course dates and ensure they can attend all 5 days. Prospective students should be aware, that the course involves experiential learning and self-awareness exercises, that will be demanding of self in interaction with others. This will be explained at the individual interview.

Prospective students should be aware that this level of the course is not intended to train counsellors and that the student will not be qualified to practice as a counsellor on completion of this course, or even claim to be competent in the use of counselling skills.

AIMS

- a) To acquaint students with counselling processes and experiential learning.
- b) To introduce students to personal growth work and an understanding of its place in counselling training.
- c) To raise awareness of what counselling is and is not, how its use is appropriate, and the basic ethics and responsibilities involved.
- d) To introduce students to basic counselling skills that can be used to improve their communication processes.

OBJECTIVES

By the end of the course students will be able to demonstrate:

- a) Increased self-awareness, both personally and professionally, especially with regard to helping relationships.
- b) An understanding of what professional counselling involves, including the ethics and code of practice of the professional counsellor, with an emphasis on confidentiality and professional boundaries.

- c) An awareness of their own limitations and knowledge of appropriate referral resources.
- d) A knowledge of further counsellor training available and an understanding of the central role of personal growth work in training, as well as an understanding of the implications for self of such work.
- e) An awareness of the distinctiveness of the counselling approach, including the inherent inequality of power in the counsellor/client relationship.
- f) An understanding of the basic counselling process including the basic skills of developing trust, active listening and attending, empathy, reflecting and summarising, focusing, challenging and enabling change.
- g) A knowledge of anti-oppressive counselling practice.

ASSESSMENT

Assessment is based on the following:

- a) A Personal Journal and Learning Evaluation
- b) On-going assessment of Skills and Self-Development
- c) A Final Skills Practical Assessment
- d) Attendance 100% (min 80% in extenuating circumstances)

END RESULT

At the end of an introductory counselling course successful students:

- a) Will have a basic understanding of the counselling relationship and what counselling is about to compare and contrast with other forms of helping.
- b) Will have some basic skills of listening and responding and also interpersonal skills which will improve further their own communication processes.
- c) Will understand more clearly what counselling training entails and be able to make a more informed choice as to whether or not she or he wants to undertake further counselling training, e.g., a Level 3 course.
- d) Provided they fulfil and pass the assessment criteria, will be awarded an INTRODUCTION TO COUNSELLING, Life-Force School Certificated.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

Those wishing to enter a Level 3 course must ensure they can attend all the course dates including the Residential. They also need to satisfy the following entry requirements:

- a) Successful completion, within the last 3 years, of the Life-Force School Level 2 Course, or an equivalent level of counselling training totalling 35 hours. Evidence will be required in the form of certificates, relating to attendance, quality of the course and methods of assessment. Please note distance learning does not meet the entry criteria.
- b) At the group and individual interview, satisfy the course tutors of their suitability for and commitment to this level of the training programme.
- c) Outside applicants and Life-Force School students who have had time out from training will be required to attend an APL interview.

AIMS

- a) To further develop self-awareness and reflect on how life experiences may facilitate or impede the counselling skills process.
- b) To increase knowledge, skills and awareness of the counselling skills interaction and process, and the inherent structural inequality in the process.
- c) To increase student understanding of the tasks, processes and dynamics of the learning group and the impact the group has on personal and professional development.
- d) To enable students to recognise and use a complete set of core counselling skills within the framework of the humanistic counselling model.
- e) To understand and operate, as appropriate, within the framework of the humanistic model of counselling.

OBJECTIVES

By the end of Level 3 students will be able to demonstrate:-

- a) An ability to reflect constructively on themselves and their own experience and also on their interactions with individuals and groups through exposure to personal and professional growth processes.
- b) A respect for other people's views, attitudes, belief structures and cultures, with particular respect to those who are disadvantaged in society by reason of class, race, religion, disability, age, gender or sexual orientation.
- c) A commitment to anti-oppressive and non-discriminatory use of counselling skills.

- d) An acceptance of and commitment to the ethics and code of practice for the use of counselling skills.
- e) An understanding of the differences between a counsellor and a person who uses counselling skills.
- f) A working understanding of the humanistic theory of counselling
- g) An ability to use counselling skills in their own settings, appropriately and with sensitivity.
- h) An awareness of other models and ways of working and of the need to avoid the danger of using techniques based on limited understanding.
- i) To value and make use of supervision in their own practice in which they use counselling skills, but are not counsellors.

ASSESSMENT

Assessment is based on the following:

- a) A Personal Journal and Learning Evaluation
- b) On-going Skills Development, including a Tape Analysis of skills, with a peer client
- c) Two Personal Development Reflective Statements
- d) An Essay considering practice, theory and self-development
- e) A Final Skills Practical Assessment
- f) Evidence of 16 hours of Weekly Personal Therapy
- g) 100% attendance (min 80% in extenuating circumstances)

END RESULT

At the end of a Level 3 Counselling Skills Course successful students:

- a) will be able to use competently and effectively a range of counselling skills within a paid or voluntary helping relationship.
- b) will subscribe to the current BACP Ethical Framework relating to the use of counselling skills.
- c) will recognise that they are not trained as qualified counsellors.
- d) will have the basic knowledge, skills and attributes to undertake a Level 4 counselling course.
- e) provided they fulfil and pass the required assessment criteria, will be entitled to receive a CERTIFICATE IN COUNSELLING SKILLS, Life-Force School Certificated.

LEVEL 4

DIPLOMA IN INTEGRATIVE COUNSELLING

300 hours including two residential weekends, spread over two years.

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

For the purpose of validation those wishing to enter study at Level 4 must ensure they can attend all the course dates including the Residential. They also need to satisfy the following entry requirements:

- a) Successful completion, within the last 3 years, of a Life-Force School Level 3 Course, or an equivalent level of counselling training totalling 175 hours. Evidence will be required in the form of certificates, relating to attendance, quality of the course and methods of assessment. Please note that distance learning does not meet the entry criteria.
- b) At the group and individual interview, satisfy the course tutors of their suitability and ability to undertake a course requiring an in-depth study of the philosophies and rationale of integrative counselling.
- c) Outside applicants and Life-Force School students who have had time out from training will be required to attend an APL interview.

AIMS

- a) To raise students' awareness of how their own particular experience of life may influence the counselling process, both positively and negatively.
- b) To consolidate the use of the basic skills acquired at Level 3 and to expand the range of skills.
- c) To understand more about the theoretical background to the different counselling models. To acquire an in-depth understanding of the integrative model of the course, which is based on a humanistic-existential foundation, combined with elements of the psychodynamic approach, and which emphasises the therapeutic relationship as the source of growth and change.
- d) Students will examine two further models (cognitive-behavioural and Gestalt), in order to contrast, compare and complement the in-depth understanding of the integrative model of the course.
- e) To deepen students' understanding of anti-oppressive and non-discriminatory counselling and their commitment to a recognised code of practice and ethics for counsellors.
- f) To understand, accept and be committed to regular supervision of their counselling practice.
- g) To recognise the need for and be committed to ongoing professional and personal development and learning.

OBJECTIVES

By the end of Level 4 students will be able to demonstrate:

- a) An ability and commitment to practise as a competent professional counsellor who values and uses regular structured supervision.
- b) That they have worked sufficiently on their own material to be aware of its possible influence on their own counselling practice and be committed to continued personal and professional growth through the appropriate use of supervision and training.
- c) An ability to conceptualise case material arising in the counselling process, i.e. they should not work in a purely intuitive fashion.
- d) An ability to use the counselling relationship itself as a vehicle for change.
- e) An ability to use consistently a predetermined set of skills including those outlined for Level 3.
- f) An ability to respect and accept other people's views, attitudes, belief structures and cultures.
- g) An in-depth understanding of the integrative model of counselling.
- h) An understanding of the two other models of counselling to inform, contrast and complement the in-depth understanding of the main model.

PROFESSIONAL AND PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

- a) The student will be required to obtain a DBS Enhanced Certificate prior to starting their clinical placement. Some agencies may provide this, alternatively, applications can be made via Life-Force School office at a cost of £74 (incl VAT)
- b) The student is required to become a student member of BACP at the start of the Diploma Course. The current student BACP membership fee is £86 per year or is a reduced fee if in receipt of state benefit.
- c) The student is required to take out individual professional indemnity insurance, the cost for this is approximately £50 per year.
- d) The student is required to complete a minimum of 100 hours of client counselling practice during the two year Diploma Course in a placement setting. The work must be a majority of face-to-face practise with adults over 18 years of age, but can be blended with remote counselling. Students will need to find their own placements. However a list of previous placements is available. Placements normally commence after Easter in the first year of the Diploma course. All clinical placement clients hours will count towards individual BACP accreditation.

- e) The Student is required to complete a minimum of 1 hour supervision per fortnight during the period of the Diploma Course. Supervision must commence at the same time as client work, or preferably, just before. A Directory of Life-Force School Approved Supervisors is available. The approximate cost for supervision ranges from £30 to £60 per session.
- f) The student is required to actively participate in an on-going personal development group during year two of the Diploma Course. The group is facilitated by an outside qualified experienced counsellor, who has no other involvement in the course programme.
- g) The student is required to complete a minimum of 54 hours of individual personal therapy during the two year diploma course. Previous therapy hours do not count for this. Also the student must complete at least 16 sessions of their own personal therapy before commencing client work (previous counselling within the last year does count for this). Students can choose their own counsellor whose therapeutic approach must be in line with the integrative core model of the course programme and whose qualifications and training meet course requirements (see Course Handbook or ring the office for further information). For confidentiality reasons the student must ensure the counsellor they wish to work with is not providing counselling to any of their peers from the same training course cohort. The student should also ascertain the name of their counsellor's supervisor, as they will need a different personal supervisor for their own clinical practice. The approximate cost for therapy ranges from £30-£50 per session. A full counselling service is available at the LIFE-FORCE Centre where the office aims to provide a student service from £35 per session. The students personal therapy hours will count towards individual BACP accreditation requirements.

NB. Any outside applicants that APL onto the diploma course who have not completed the 16 hours of personal therapy requirement, will need to complete 70 hours during the two year course.

ONLINE PHONE THERAPY (OPT) MODULE

The Level 4 Diploma is primarily a face-to-face training course, however the Counselling Placement incorporates an OPT Placement Module which is delivered online via Zoom over 2 course training days.
