

Report by Peter Behrmann,

The summer seasonal was played on Wednesday July 12th on the Hooge Rotterdamsche Golfbaan (probably still known by many as the Rottebergen Golfclub). The weather was atrocious in the twelve hours prior to the competition, and most bunkers had turned into water hazards, but the fairways and greens were in surprisingly good shape, and much to the relief of the organizers and many players golf carts were allowed on the course (however, on buggy roads only!).

Attendance of the summer seasonal suffered somewhat from the beginning holiday period, but still 14 players turned up. The Rottebergen golf course is known for its difficulties but the best three players still returned a respectable 30 Stableford points. The event was won by Carl Todd with the best back nine, with runners-up Alan Thirkettle and Brian Taylor.

A total of nine players participated in both the Spring and the Summer Seasonal. The halfway leader in the Granny Smith standings is Carl Todd, followed By Bob Davis and Tony Rosmalen.
