A CONVERSATION

A real murder case. A meeting between two families.

A CONVERSATION is an important contribution to the ongoing discourse on restorative justice. The film is based on a theatre performance of a real case where two families meet in the presence of a facilitator, the parents of a young woman who was raped and murdered and the family of the offender. The film aims to raise awareness on the potential power of dialogue between people affected by serious crime, but it does not picture a process fully in line with all methodological requirements of a restorative justice process.
