Poul... who?

"Most of us live on the bottom of a cube.
If we put the walls even with the floor,
we get a lot of space to live on."

Poul Cadovius (September 1911 – March 2011), a Danish designer and manufacturer, designed and self-produced the Royal System in 1948. As one of the world's first floating wall systems, it is considered one of the greatest successes in Danish furniture history. Back in the days, the system was produced at the Cadovius factory in Denmark.

At one point Poul Cadovius employed a workforce of 300 persons to support demand for his designs that were exported to over 30 countries. There have been made many attempts to copy this famous design, but Royal System is and remains the original. The Royal System is back in production since 2010, but we collect and restore the original vintage pieces.

Personal

A reading shelf for magazines, a display case for your gin collection or perhaps an eye-catching sideboard to store your books? You choose! At Nome Furniture, you have the possibility to fully compose your own unique wall unit.

Guidance

Composing your own wall unit might seem a bit overwhelming at first. This is anything but necessary: our staff has been working with these wall units for years and will be happy to help you.

Authenticity

All the materials used to compose a wall unit are vintage. They may show some signs of use. An authentic proof of the previous life these units have lived.

How to start

How much space do you have?

We recommend first measuring the space that can be used for the wall unit. Don't forget the height of your ceiling.

What functions will it have?

Do you intend to use the wall unit as a bookcase, desk or rather as storage space? This information is very helpful to determine your perfect composition.
