

The Curiosity Game

Setup: Pairs

Time: 10-15 minutes (one way)

1) Set up the game

- Team up with a friend, partner, family member or stranger.
- Designate roles: A and B
- Find a timer.

2) The game starts

A has 5 minutes to ask B any question they are really curious about. It is important that A only asks questions about which they are really curious.

B can answer or decline to answer any question.

3) Feedback

B gets 1 minute to give A feedback on the questions. Particularly if they liked some questions and if there were something else they would have liked to be asked.

4) Questions based on the feedback.

A gets 3 more minutes to ask questions, based on the feedback.

5) End the game

The game ends with A (the person who has asked the questions) finishing these three sentences:

- "My first impression of you was..."
- "The moment where I felt you the most was..."
- "One thing I really get about you is..."

6) Continue

Switch roles or partner up with someone new.
