

Securities Offering Liability

A public offering of securities entails a prospectus signed by the company issuing securities and its board of directors and executive management. If the prospectus misleads or scantily describe the offering risks, the issuing company and signatories may face claims from new investors, current shareholders, and regulators.

Our tailorable Securities Offering Liability insurance (SOLI), also known as a Public Offering of Securities insurance (POSI), lets your management team focus on your core business rather than potential claims and subsequent personal financial default.

- Underwritten to specific risks and exposures
- Broad appetite covering most industries with less interest in professional sports SPACs
- Market leading coverage forms and relevant enhancements available in the (local) marketplace
- Ample capacity (EUR 25M+)
