Increasing productivity

- it did not work. The time zones were all broken, I had asked a question and they would get it twelve hours later. They would respond, turned out that I would not get the respond for another twelve hours. It turned out they did not understand the question so I had to clarify the question. It was just horrible. So when we tried to get very, very formal, we did all the things that you are supposed to do, but in end, it just did not really work out particularly well.

Preventing a mess

- I chat to people about a lot about this and say; “Look, you can use e-mail to discuss, to plan, to coordinate – as soon as there is a disagreement – if you can’t resolve the disagreement two or three e-mails. It’s time to stop the e-mail and set up a phone call”
- it’s really hard to get out of a fight on e-mail. It’s really easy to get into fights on e-mail, but it’s really hard to get out of a fight on e-mail

For heavens sake...
