

A close-up photograph of a hand cupping a globe. The hand and the globe are covered in a vibrant, multi-colored, textured pattern resembling a rainbow or a watercolor wash. The colors include shades of blue, green, yellow, orange, and red. The background is a solid, deep purple. The text "PEACE WITHOUT POISON" is overlaid in white, serif, all-caps font, centered over the hand and globe.

FINAL NOTICE TO HEADS OF STATE

You were elected to lead not to poison us. The path of least resistance with respect to checks on population growth is no longer acceptable, if it ever was. You have inherited this system and are therefore not responsible for the crimes committed in the past to prevent war, but you are responsible for the crimes that are being committed in the present to preserve peace.

The plan of controlled depopulation has been in place since 1945 and has been gradually imposed on nation states by mutual coercion mutually agreed upon to ensure that no country outgrows its resources and is tempted or forced to invade its neighbors and take by force that which it needs for the survival of its people. In the nuclear age that is indeed the only responsible way for nations and people to coexist on a finite planet.

The United Nations has acted as a neutral agency and has coordinated this substitute to war globally so that not even the mightiest of nations can escape or eschew their responsibilities towards international peace and trigger a nuclear war that would end up in our assured mutual destruction.

The program of population control must remain in place and will proceed towards controlled depopulation as soon as our numbers peak, in a couple of decades, and continue until such time as human civilization becomes sustainable and we no longer harm the planet by disrupting the equilibrium of life. The covert methods of depopulation in place since the end of World War II, however, will have to be retired immediately and replaced with global population control legislation that restricts family size to two children across the world and in perpetuity or until such time as we can reach other planets, which may never happen.

Neither we nor the remaining life on the planet can survive a doubling of the global population from 7 to 14 billion, which would occur in thirty years without artificially impeding human fertility. This being the case, it makes no sense to pretend otherwise and fail to involve every human being on the planet in an open, fair and transparent program of population control. This is not rocket science and every human being will be able to understand the logic and the necessity of such a plan. Failing to understand will condemn us all to poverty, misery, filth, pollution, and ultimately war. As UN technocrats will put it, population dynamics is inextricably linked to macroeconomics and planetary boundaries and we can no longer afford to ignore this fact.

I have freed you from the self-imposed prison of covert depopulation by mutual coercion mutually agreed upon. It is now up to you to take the next step and free us from mass poisoning by putting in place the necessary political entity capable of overseeing the worldwide transition from covert to overt population control peacefully and gently.

If I am not needed to oversee the transition or to lead this organization then I will return to my inconspicuous and private life. To be able to do this I ask that my children are returned to me without delay. They have been taken away from me by force and have been held hostage by the government of Canada for nearly four years now in the hope that I would acquiesce to the system of global genocide and abandon my fellow human beings to mass murderers. I think by now it is painfully clear to everyone that I will never acquiesce. Nor will I abandon my children.

It should also be painfully clear that I have put an end to the secrecy and the deception and freed not only you but also the truth. Over the course of the next few weeks, I will address in writing each and every one of the individuals at the helm of the world's 196 sovereign states to ask that they too change course before it is too late.

Several of you have already changed course in response to my work and entreaties, but only all of you together can convince the world that population control is mankind's ticket to salvation and therefore inevitable. The sooner you muster the courage to stand in front of the world united to explain to the people the brutal facts of overpopulation and the bitter reality of covert depopulation practiced over the past seven decades, the sooner humankind will forge a new and common course that demands a small sacrifice from all of us, namely limiting our families to maximum two children, and promises great benefits to all of us: enduring peace, universal prosperity, and planetary health.

I have done my duty and have shown not only that a common man can understand the complexity of global governance on his own and despite the extraordinary obstacles in place, but also act accordingly. It is now your turn to do your duty and what you were elected for, namely pass laws that benefit us all and not just the 1%.

This day and age demands from every head of state that he or she is also a global leader and thinks not only about the wellbeing of his or her fellow nationals but also of the wellbeing of all people on the planet. For all intents and purposes, and until such time as the world has a recognized global parliament, we already live in a world that is a single and indivisible political unit.

Be brave and act accordingly! If you fail to be brave and act accordingly, the efforts made to prevent war will be the cause of war. And this war will not be a war between nations but a war between the 99% and the 1% in response to and in defense against the silent and devious war the 1% has waged against the 99% for nearly seven decades.

This is your final notice.

NATIONS

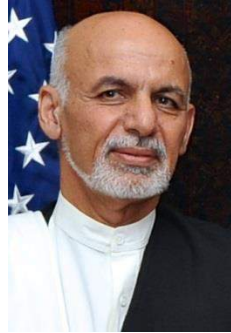

ISLAMIC REPUBLIC OF AFGHANISTAN

30 September 2014

Ashraf Ghani
President of Afghanistan
<http://en.ashrafghani.com/contact/>

Abdullah Abdullah
Prime Minister of Afghanistan
<http://president.gov.af/en/form/contactus>

President Ghani and Prime Minister Abdullah,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

No people in the world have a more illustrious history of resistance to foreign intruders than the Afghani people. Afghanistan is indeed the graveyard of empires and I pray that it will remain a bastion of defense against tyranny for all times. But I also hope that Afghanistan will climb out of the Middle Ages and stop its slide backwards towards ever greater depths of despair.

To do so, Afghanistan will have to pass a law that restricts family size to two children only. This will not only enable it to get richer from generation to generation but also avoid the covert methods of depopulation employed since 1945 by the West and more recently by much of the rest of the world. In this manner, Afghanistan will realize social and economic progress without repeating the mistakes made by the West; mistakes that have rendered the populace physically and intellectually enfeebled and the countries of the West but empty shells.

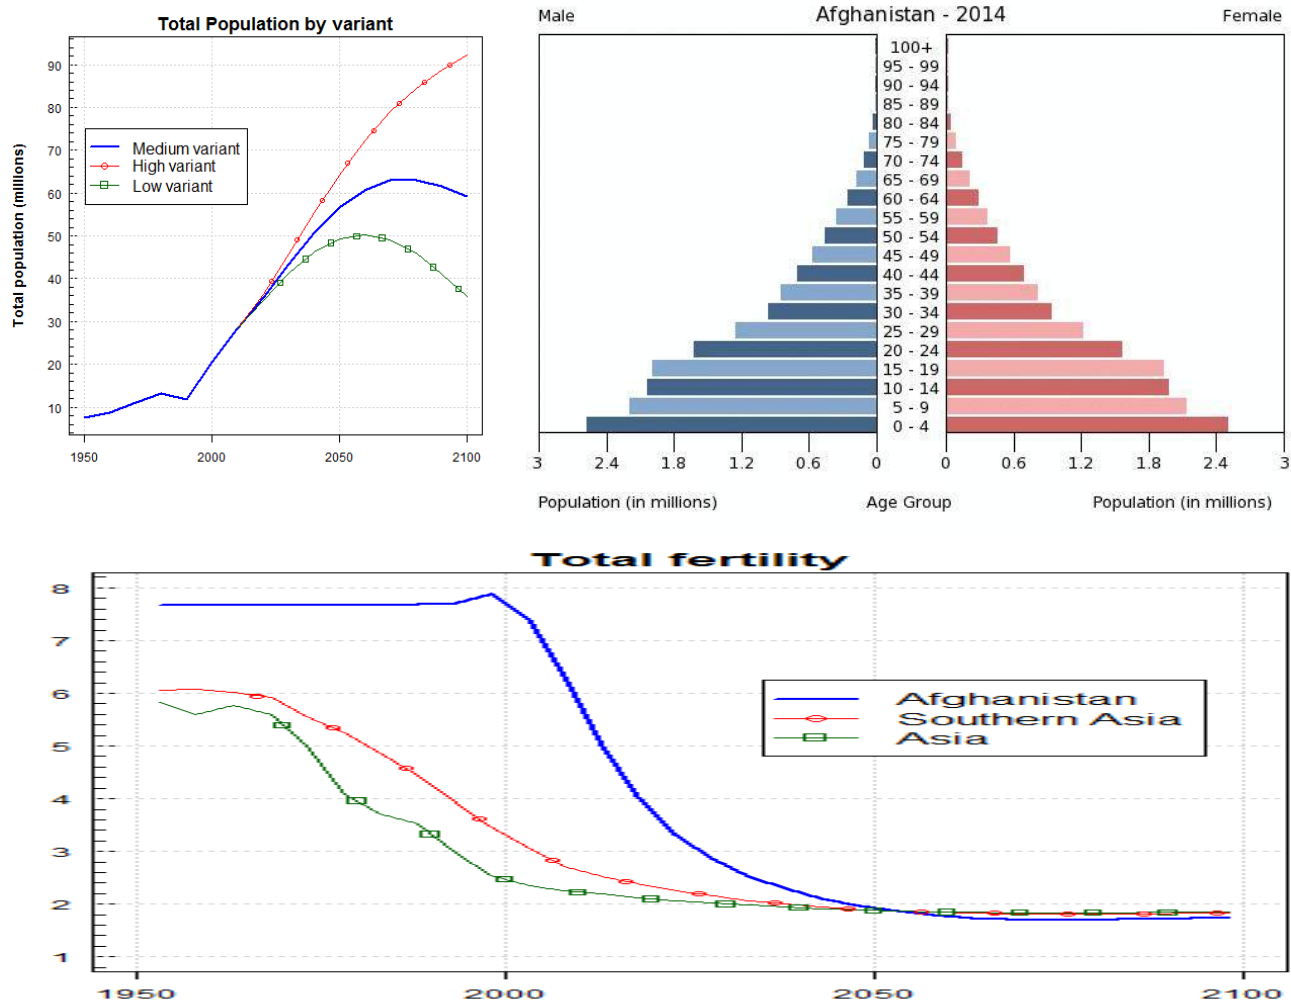

Beware of the gifts and aid offered by the international community and keep in mind that it gives with one hand and takes with two. And please make sure that you do not allow the United States and its allies to use your country as a stage of war against your neighbors in order to cut off China from the oil reserves found in Central Asia or vice versa.

Afghanistan must adopt a policy of neutrality and independence and keep all foreign forces off its territory but invite the world in for trade and for business, as that is the best way to get out of poverty.

Should you need my advice I will give it freely and without expectations.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Afghanistan has been a UN member state since 1946, but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until the Americans invaded the country in October 2001 and the Taliban government was toppled and Hamid Karzai was installed as the President of the new Afghan government. In December 2001, the UN Security Council established the International Security Assistance Force (ISAF), a NATO-led mission, to provide security for the new government and to start implementing covert methods of depopulation.

As a result, Afghanistan's total fertility rate (TFR) decreased from 8 children per woman prior to the US invasion in 2001 to 5 today. As the graphs above show, the TFR was unaffected by the Soviet War, which lasted from 1979 to 1989, or by the ensuing civil wars, which lasted from 1989 to 2001. However, as soon as the US military and the NATO-led ISAF invaded Afghanistan, the TFR started dropping like a plane from the sky. The invasion, however, also put an end to the incessant conflict between the various war lords, conflict that had suppressed population growth.

Despite the incessant war and nearly 2 million casualties between 1979 and 2001, the terror of the Taliban, grinding poverty, and 3 million refugees who left the country, the population increased from 15 million in 1979 to 32 million to date and is expected to peak at 82 million by 2050 (according to the UN low variant scenario) if the methods of covert depopulation installed by NATO forces remain in place under the new government of President Ashraf Ghani, who was elected to office on 29 September 2014.

Afghanistan's experience shows that conventional war is powerless in stopping population growth while covert methods of depopulation are most effective.

Exactly what depopulation methods are in use is impossible to determine due to lack of data, but given Afghanistan's poor infrastructure and largely rural population it is safe to assume that sterilizing vaccines administered under the pretext of improving child and maternal health are the method of choice.

Knowing what we now know about the nature of the 9/11 attack, namely that it was a false flag event, we can safely conclude that the invasion of Afghanistan was a foregone conclusion and was intended solely to force its unwieldy people to accept depopulation measures before the country disintegrates due to population pressures and destabilizes the entire region.

The total fertility graph shows that Afghanistan has not only a far higher fertility rate than the rest of Asia and even Southern Asia, but is also the last country on that continent to be forced to adopt depopulation measures and start its downward slide towards replacement level fertility.

Afghanistan is in stage two of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF ALBANIA

Bujar Nishani, President of Albania
info@president.al

Edi Rama, Prime Minister of Albania
info@akshi.gov.al

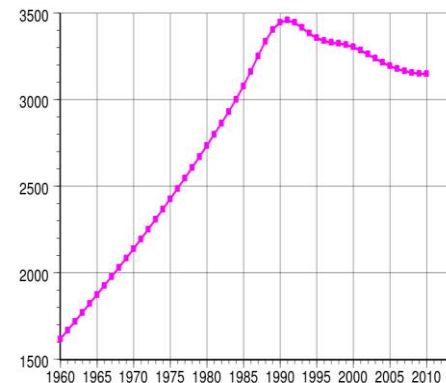

President Nishani and Prime Minister Rama,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Albania joined the Global Depopulation Policy in the 1960s when it began distributing fluoride tablets to school children, a program that lasted until the early 90s, at which point the fertility of the Albanian people was subverted through western food imports laced with endocrine disruptors. As a result, the total fertility rate went from more than 6 children prior to 1960 down to 1.5 children per woman today.

Since 1991 the Albanian population began a steep decline first due to massive emigration after the fall of communism and the opening of borders and since 2004 due to sub-replacement level fertility. Given that Albania's population grew from 1.2 million in 1950 to more than 3 million today, it is understandable that an effective population control program had to be instituted sooner or later. Since 2010, the Ministry of Health and the Albanian Dental Association have begun a topical fluoridation project to apply fluoride varnishes twice a year directly in the mouths of school children so as to regain control of the nation's fertility and abandon dependence on foreign sources.

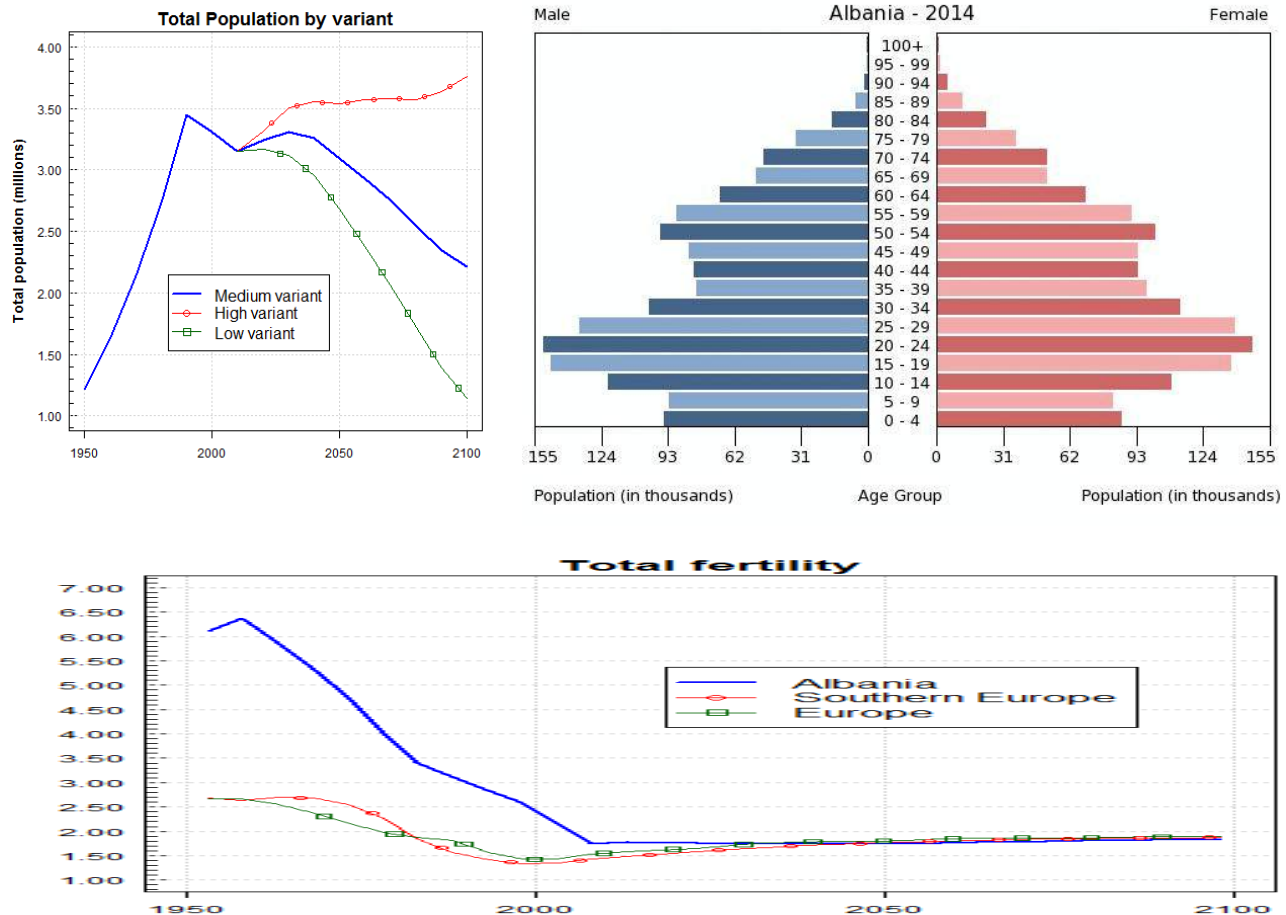

If your administration continues to poison the Albanian people with endocrine disruptors to subvert their fertility and in the process destroy their bodies and minds, you will end up in front of a firing squad in the not so distant future. I therefore strongly advise you to join my effort to legislate population control worldwide from the global governance level as a Planetary Security Prerogative.

You can obtain all the information you need to make the right choice by accessing my work free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>. To ascertain that my effort is global, I also urge you to read my address to other heads of state: <https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>. I stand by to assist you in any way I can and to see you in person on Albanian soil.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Albania became a UN member state in 1955 and within five years succumbed to international pressure and joined the Global Depopulation Policy.

Albania's population pyramid shows that the country implemented population control measures from 1960 to 1980 (under the first leader of Albania, Enver Halil Hoxha, 1941-1985) and abandoned them from 1980 to 1991 (under the second and last socialist leader of Albania, Ramiz Alia, 1985-1991) only to resume them again in 1992, after the fall of communism, under President Sali Berisha (1992-1997) and to continue them to this day by his freely-elected and presumably democratic successors: Rexhep Meidani (1997-2002), Alfred Moisiu (2002-2007), Bamir Topi (2007-2012), and the incumbent Bujar Nishani (since July 2012). This means that since independence in 1944 the only Albanian leader who has protected his people from covert methods of depopulation is the communist Ramiz Alia.

Equally responsible for committing genocide are the following prime ministers: Fatos Nano (1991-1991, 1997-1998, 2000-2005), Vilson Ahmeti (1991-1992), Aleksandër Meksi (1992-1997), Pandeli Majko (1998-1999, 2002-2002), Ilir Meta (1999-2002), Sali Berisha (2005-2013), and incumbent Edi Rama (since September 2013).

The total fertility graph shows that Albania started the depopulation program with a far higher fertility rate than the rest of Europe (nearly 6.5 children per woman) and accomplished replacement level fertility much later than the rest of Europe, namely in 2002. It currently has a low fertility rate of 1.5 children per woman.

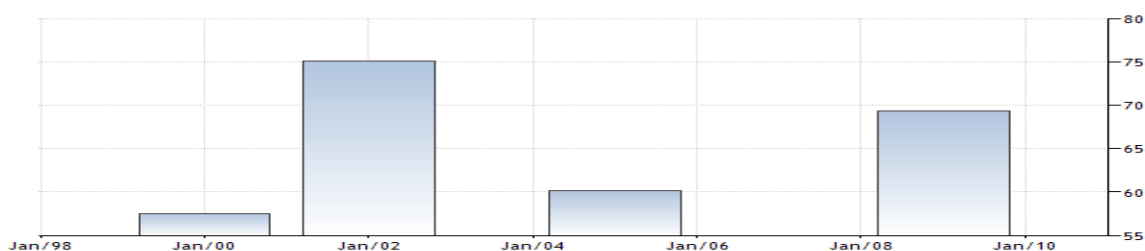

Albania's much higher fertility rate, until recently at least, than the average Europeans is undoubtedly due to the fact that the majority of the population adheres to Sunni Islam rather than Christianity and did not adopt the social practices of Christians (late marriage, compulsory education for girls and boys) that helped Europe curb population growth prior to the application of covert chemical methods of sterilization after World War II.

The decline in population (shown by the 'total population by variant' graph) since the fall of communism in 1992 is due to heavy emigration. Live births still exceed deaths by circa 15,000 a year and this means that the population is still growing modestly, but not for much longer.

The fact that Albania, which is Europe's poorest country with a nominal GDP per capita of $5,200, reached replacement and even sub-replacement level fertility despite its poverty demonstrates that low fertility has nothing to do with affluence. The historical record shows clearly that the GDP began rising only after Albania had nearly reached replacement level at the turn of the century.

Albania's contraceptive prevalence rate demonstrated that low fertility also has nothing to do with contraceptives. As the graph below shows, Albania's contraceptive prevalence rate had barely reached 57% by the year 2000 when replacement level fertility had nearly been reached. And prior to 1990, when Albania experienced the steepest fertility decline, contraceptive use was almost non-existent.

Albania has just entered stage four of the demographic transition.

President Bouteflika and Prime Minister Sellal,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Algeria joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1976 and its total fertility rate went from 7.5 children per woman down to just 2.8 to date; a decrease that was long overdue considering that the population has more than quadrupled since 1950 and is currently almost 39 million strong.

While the landmass that is now Algeria was Rome's granary in the past due to its abundant cereal production, the Algeria of today is heavily food dependent and spends 8% of its income to import food, having the lowest per capita food production in the Sahara region. Algeria is in this situation because it has outgrown its land and water resources.

With your economy dependent entirely on hydrocarbons, which are expected to run out around 2050, by which time the population will have swollen to almost 50 million, Algeria is in deep trouble and will only be able to avoid disaster if it rapidly depopulates.

That is why I urge you to abandon all covert methods of depopulation currently used by the Algerian government – namely the adulteration of your food and beverages with endocrine disruptors that render the people infertile or subfertile, as well as the ingestion of genetically modified foods – and to legislate a one-child policy for the next two generations and replacement level fertility afterwards.

As an authoritarian regime you have the means to impose such a law long before the public can be educated about the inescapable facts and comes to realize that every man and woman must sacrifice their reproductive freedom if their children are to survive and know peace.

To make your task easier, you can help me forge global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative derived from the global governance level as a duty that all nations and all people must respect in order to preserve the peace and rescue the planet from human destruction. My work can help you see the light and convince your people of the necessity of depopulation: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

You may want to begin your people's education with a couple of simple videos about depopulation that I made while on hunger strike at the Vatican in Rome, Italy, this spring:

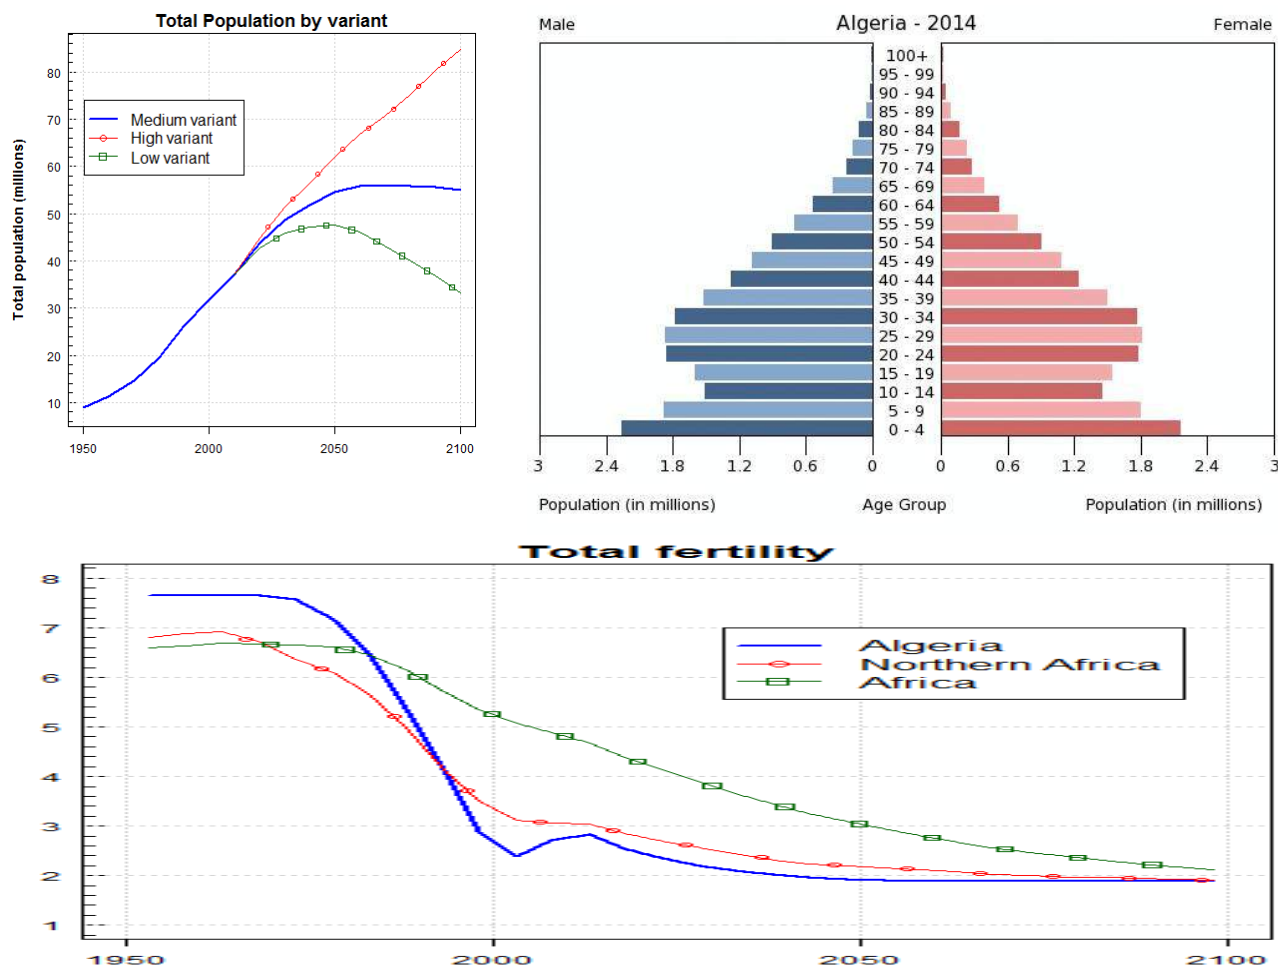

1. Addressing Pope Francis
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=pIIRzWF27Sc>
2. First Prayer
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wqrDNnVfA78>
3. Methods of Depopulation
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-Hj3LGvWWLU>
4. Phases of Depopulation
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=l9nsFFZon1E>

The cat is now out of the bag and no one can put it back in, which is why it is imperative you and your counterparts around the world act resolutely and without delay to bring the depopulation program out of secrecy and illegality into the open and within the rule of law. The people will understand once they are presented with the facts.

Should you decide to act and be proactive I will help you in any way I can to save your people.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Algeria's population pyramid and the total fertility graph both clearly show that the Algerian government began interfering with the fertility of its citizens in 1976 and continued to do so until ten years ago, which is why the total fertility rate declined from more than 7 down to nearly two children per woman from 1976 to 2005 and from 2005 until today it has climbed back up to nearly 3 children per woman.

This means that Algeria's population control program began under President Houari Boumediene (1965-1978) and continued under presidents Rabah Bitat (1978-1979), Chadli Bendjedid (1979-1992), Ali Kafi (1992-1994), Liamine Zéroual (1995-1999), and the incumbent Abdelaziz Bouteflika (since April 1999).

President Bouteflika, however, relaxed the program of covert sterilization from 2002 onward and the total fertility rate has as a result recovered somewhat. As former president of the United Nations General Assembly (1974-5), President Bouteflika is intimately familiar with the UN-delegated Global Depopulation Policy, its methods and means.

The country's history of contraceptive use shows that during the 1980s, when fertility began to decline steeply, the contraceptive prevalence rate was a measly 10% and reached a maximum of 36% towards the end of the decade. Even at the time of highest use, namely 63% in 2000, contraceptives cannot account for replacement level fertility.

Nor can Algeria's GDP account for the decline in fertility since Algeria is a poor country with a nominal GDP per capita of $5,800 in 2014 and with half that in the late 1970s when fertility began declining due to covert sterilization methods.

Algeria is in stage three of the demographic transition.

François Hollande

Co-Prince of Andorra

<http://www.elysee.fr/ecrire-au-president-de-la-republique/>

Prime Minister Martí, Archbishop Vives Sicília and President Hollande,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Andorra joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1945 and abandoned it in 1958 only to rejoin it again in 1975. As a result, the total fertility rate has decreased from 3 children per woman to 1.3 today.

Due to a lack of raw and statistical data it is impossible to determine what covert method of depopulation the government of Andorra uses in order to subvert the people's reproductive rights. What is certain is that the government does covertly subvert human fertility probably through immunizations though in the past it may have done it through fluoridated bottled water, just as the government of Spain and France did and continue to do.

Since abortion is illegal and sterilization for contraceptive purposes has been legal only since 1996, and since the contraceptive prevalence rate has swung up and down like a wild horse, it is clear that the government of Andorra, with the help or at the very least the blessings of the Catholic Church, has employed a covert method of depopulation, but one that does not seem to have impacted the life expectancy of the Andorran people, which is the second longest in the world.

Nevertheless, subverting people's reproductive rights is illegal and I ask that you cease and desist any and all covert depopulation methods, especially since your people's fertility is so severely damaged as to be far below replacement level.

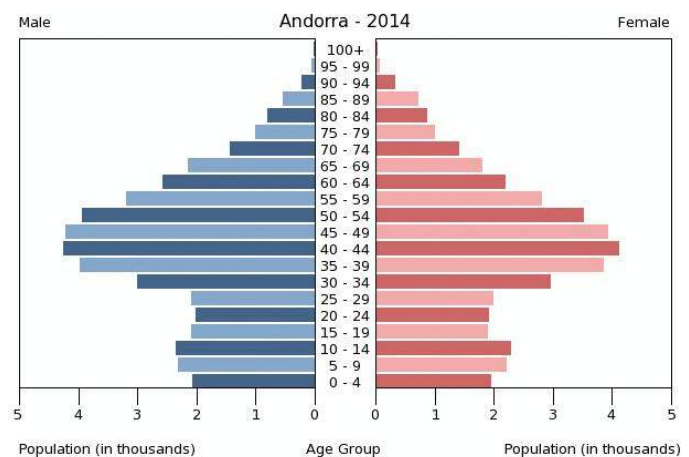

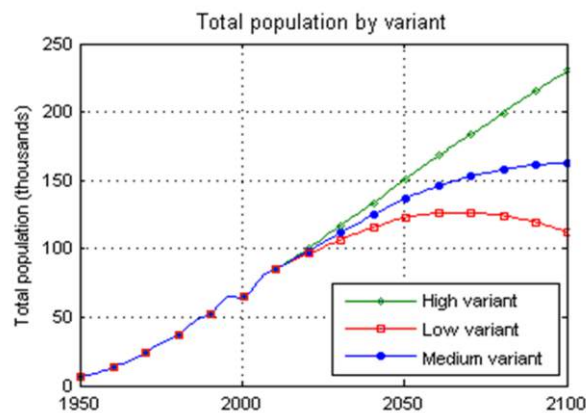

Instead of violating the people's fundamental rights I ask that you join my effort to forge global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative enshrined in international law at the global governance level and that you instruct your permanent mission at the UN to compel a vote in the General Assembly to this end.

Since the Catholic Church is part and parcel of the Andorran government, and I have been in contact with the Vatican since July 2012 on this issue, though without any success since the Vatican is central to the global depopulation effort, I advise you to abandon hypocrisy and to tell your people the truth before the people's trust in their government and institutions is irrevocably lost.

If you decide to live according to the Christian values that purportedly define Andorra, I will assist you in way I can and will not hesitate to travel to your country to speak to you in private. If you continue to hide behind lies and deception, however, you will do irreparable harm to the credibility of the Church and the viability of the state, to say nothing about the genetic and intellectual endowment of your people, which can only have disastrous consequences.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Andorra is too small to be statistically significant for the global population. It is however of great interest because it is the only country in the world where the Catholic Church, which is purportedly defending the unborn, is part of the government. This means that the Vatican and the College of Cardinals, contrary to their public statements, have known about covert methods of depopulation and tacitly approved their use in Andorra, where they have legislative powers, since the inception of the UN in 1945. That explains why Pope Francis remained silent throughout my 46-day-long hunger strike at the Vatican's doorsteps in 2014. The Vatican is pro-life but it is also pro covert contraception to prevent the moment of conception so that people do not have to abort. In light of its public stance against contraception this is a grossly hypocritical position.

Andorra is also interesting because it employed covert methods of depopulation 18 years before it became a UN member state in 1993 and thus of its own volition. This means that Andorra, despite its catholic credentials, committed to covert depopulation in 1975, when Joan Martí i Alanis (1971-2003) was the Bishop of Urgell and Episcopal Co-Prince of Andorra, and has stayed the course ever since. It also experimented with covert depopulation from 1945 to 1957 when Ramon Iglesias I Navarri was the Bishop of Urgell and Episcopal Co-Prince of Andorra, a position he held from 1943 to 1969.

Due to Andorra's peculiar political system, which designates the President of France as Co-Prince of the Principality of Andorra, the two countries are connected at the highest level of governance and this makes the presidents of France co-responsible for the crimes committed in Andorra in the name of population control.

Andorra is in stage five of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF ANGOLA

14 October 2014

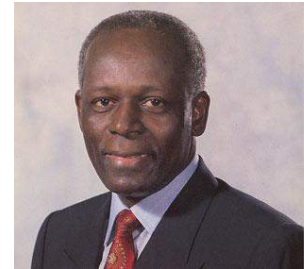

José Eduardo dos Santos

President of Angola

ghcharmer@hotmail.com, massano@lda.bna.ao

proprio@armandomanuel.net

President dos Santos,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Angola's population has grown from 4 million in 1950 to nearly 19 million today, a fivefold increase, and is expected to swell to 47 million by 2060 due to having one of the highest fertility rates in the world at 5.6 children per woman. More than half of all Angolans are under 15 years of age, infant mortality rates are among the highest in the world at an estimated 180 deaths per 1000 births and life expectancy is among the lowest in the world at 37 years.

Until the year 2000, the total fertility rate of Angola was unchanged at 7 children per woman even though the country had been suffering civil war for more than 25 years. Since fertility rates do not decrease on their own, one can only assume that you are allowing the international community to sterilize your people through vaccines that contain sterilizing agents, but are administered under various pretexts; perhaps as anti-tetanus shots, oral polio vaccines or to presumably protect girls against cervical cancer.

Your country has vast mineral and petroleum reserves, the fastest growing economy in Africa and a close relationship with China, which is the only country on earth that has tackled population control honorably and legally. You should therefore abandon all covert methods of depopulation, as they cause untold illness and suffering, and legislate family size restrictions.

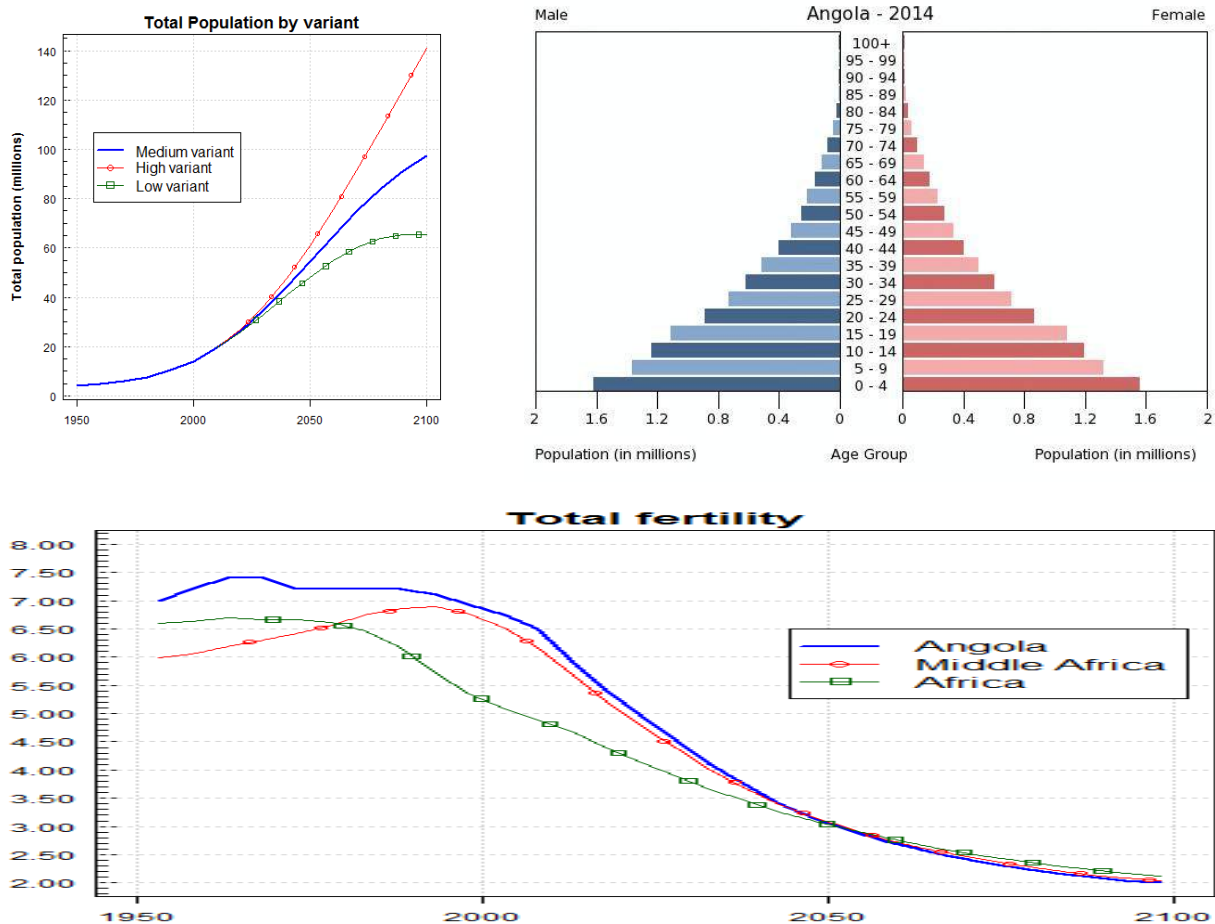

Instead of stealing billions of dollars of oil revenue from the government coffers, your civil servants and your members of government must think about the country's future and invest in Angola's children rather than buying property and stocks in Europe. Political authoritarianism and pervasive corruption will take your country nowhere but back to war. Angola was once a breadbasket of Africa and a major exporter of food while now it is dependent on expensive food imports from abroad.

Population control is an absolute necessity and you have the opportunity to do it the right way and not the West's way, which will devastate your people's bodies and minds and leave your country inhabited by walking dead. Join me in forging global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide and you will have a lasting positive legacy on Angola and on the world. Sell your soul to the UN and make yourself a party to genocide and you will end up in front of a firing squad. I hope you will make the right choice and that you will reach out to me to help you make the right choice.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

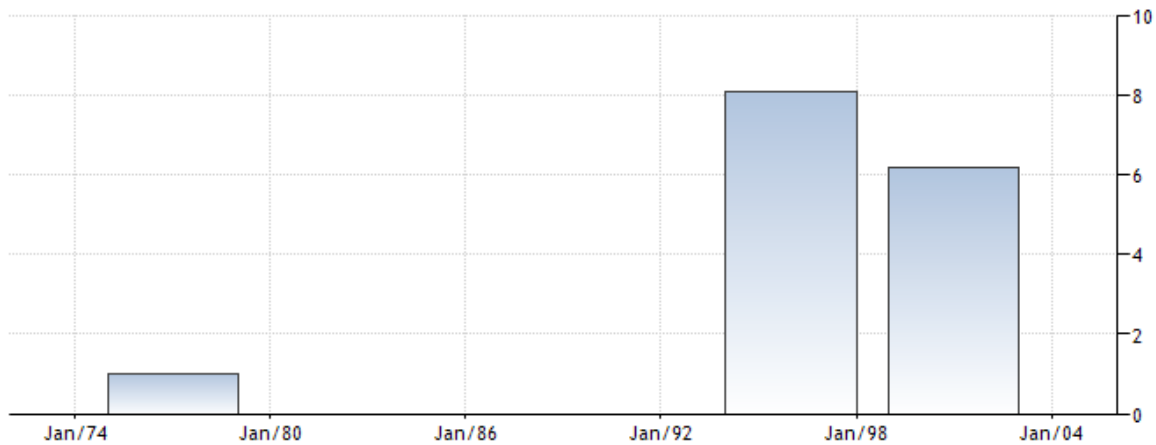

Angola has been independent from Portugal since 1975 and a UN member state since 1976, but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1995. The decline in fertility from 7.2 to 5.4 children per woman has been accomplished through adulterated sterilizing vaccines and the malaria drug Artemisinin.

The program of depopulation was agreed to by the current president of Angola, José Eduardo dos Santos, undoubtedly under heavy pressure from the UN and the international community. President Santos resisted the overtures of the UN from 1979, when he assumed office, until 1995.

After independence in 1975, Angola faced several decades of devastating civil war that claimed millions of lives but had little or no effect on its population growth and no effect whatsoever on its total fertility rate.

As a late starter, Angola will not reach replacement level fertility until the end of the century under a high variant scenario (and not until 2080 under a low variant scenario), by which time its population will have swollen to 98 million people from the current 24 million.

That Angola's recent fertility decline is not the result of contraceptives is amply demonstrated by the country's abysmally low contraceptive prevalence rate, which has never exceeded 8%.

Abortion is also not a factor since it is illegal and performed only to save a woman's life.

Angola is in stage two of the demographic transition.

Prime Minister Browne,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Antigua and Barbuda was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1960. The country gained its independence in 1981 and abandoned covert depopulation measures in 1991 only to resume them again in 1997. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from 4.5 children per woman in 1960 to 2.1 today.

You can continue to commit genocide and write your name in history as a mass murderer or you can join my effort to forge global consensus for replacement level fertility as a planetary security prerogative enshrined in international law at the global governance level.

To accomplish this we need to reform the UN system along the lines I have outlined in my recently published book, The Future of Global Governance. We also need to educate the people why this is necessary and to do this governments have to confess to having employed covert depopulation measures through chemical, biological and bacteriological means since the inception of the UN in 1945. You will find all the information you need to educate your people in my freely available work:

Antigua and Barbuda is well-positioned to reform the UN since the General Assembly elected your Permanent Representative to the UN, Ambassador John Ashe, in 2013 to serve as the President of the 68th session, whose agenda is to accomplish sustainable development. There can be no sustainable development without depopulation and depopulation can no longer proceed by covert poisoning without triggering a global civil war, which is why the time has come to bring the depopulation effort out into the open and accomplish it legally, fairly and safely.

I hope that you will instruct Mr. Ashe and your current Ambassador to the UN, Mr. Webson, to push for UN reform and for an international system free of genocide.

I stand by to help you in any way I can.

Prime Minister Sir Vere Bird (1981-1994), the first Prime Minister of Antigua and Barbuda after gaining independence from Britain, inherited the program of covert depopulation from the British and kept it in place until 1991 when he stopped it. His successor, Sir Lester Bryant Bird (1994-2004), reintroduced it in 1997, thus three years after taking office. The program has been continued by his successor, Baldwin Spencer (2004-2014), and remains in place today under the incumbent Gaston Browne (since June 2014).

Antigua and Barbuda accomplished this reduction in fertility first through involuntary sterilizations and more recently through fluoridated salt, as in all CARICOM countries. It certainly did not reach replacement level fertility due to contraceptives since the country's contraceptive prevalence rate has never exceeded 53%, and before 1980, when it experienced the most rapid decline in fertility, fewer than 30% used contraceptives. Abortion is also not a factor in the fertility decline since it is illegal and permitted only to save a woman's life.

Antigua and Barbuda is in stage four of the demographic transition.

Cristina Elisabet Fernández de Kirchner

President of Argentina

webmaster@presidencia.gov.ar, secretariageneral@presidencia.gov.ar, prensa@jgm.gov.ar, consultas@msal.gov.ar, contacto@mincyt.gov.ar

President Kirchner,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Argentina is on the wrong path. Your country's adoption of water fluoridation, adulterated vaccines and GMOs as methods of population control is illegal and immoral.

As president you have the power and responsibility to protect your citizens from global policies that though correct in intent are misguided in methods. The end does not justify the means, especially when there is a civilized, enlightened and humane alternative to population control, namely a clear law that restricts family size and provides citizens with the contraceptives they need to keep Argentina's fertility rate at replacement rate, just as the international community insists from every country.

I am in the process of forging global consensus for worldwide legislation for population control and hope that you will meet with me to discuss how I can help you bring Argentina's government back to the rule of law with respect to responsible population control and how you can help me tell the world the truth.

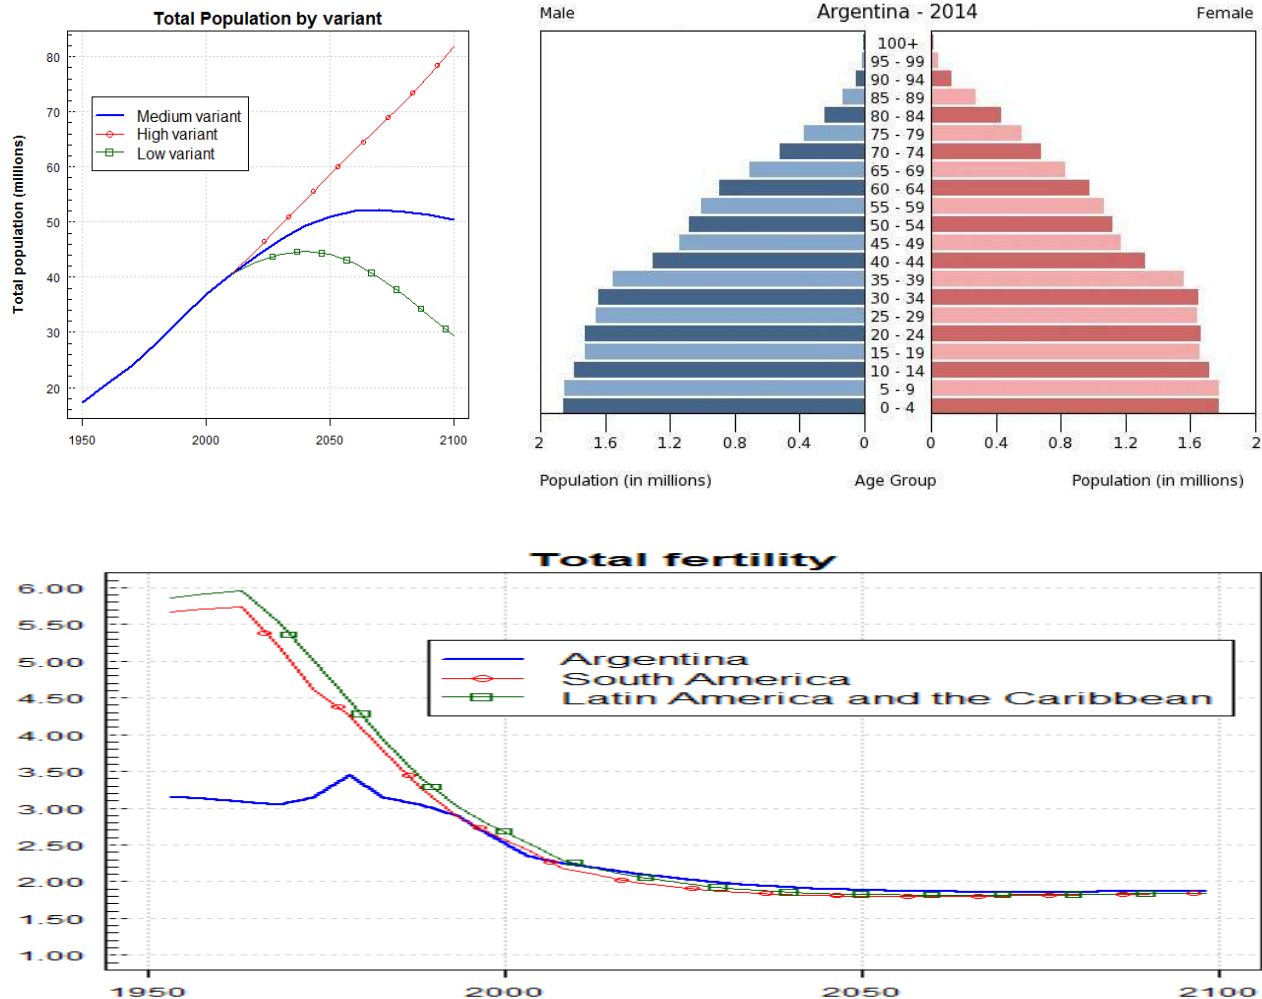

Hesitating and waiting for the UN to act will have dire repercussions on your country and will make you complicit in crimes against humanity. The UN is not capable of changing course, as it is too committed to genocide. And when the public awakens to the reality that their freely elected governments have been poisoning them covertly to damage their reproductive systems, subvert their health and shorten their lives as a matter of intentional policy the consequences will be devastating and brutal.

This is the time to change course and to lead rather than follow.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

Argentina joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1980 and the total fertility rate has since decreased from 3.4 to 2.2 children per woman. Prior to 1980, Argentina kept its total fertility rate low by Latin American standards through illegal abortions, which ended nearly half of all pregnancies, and a high contraceptive prevalence rate of 74%. Abortion was and remains illegal in Argentina to this day.

The program of covert depopulation was introduced soon after Isabel Martínez de Perón was deposed by the senior commander of the Argentine army, Jorge Rafael Videla, in 1976 and a military dictatorship took root.

The program remained in place throughout the military dictatorship, which lasted until 1983, and has continued under the democratically elected presidents that have since followed: Raúl Alfonsín (1983-1989), Carlos Menem (1989-1999), Fernando de la Rúa (1999-2001), Adolfo Rodríguez Saá (2001-2001), Eduardo Duhalde (2002-2003), Néstor Kirchner (2003-2007), and the incumbent Cristina Fernández de Kirchner.

The drop in fertility has been accomplished through water fluoridation, fluoride tablets and veneers, and most recently also through GMOs and sterilizing vaccines. The indigenous population was the first to be decimated, then the people living in the largest cities, and now the entire population is affected by one or more methods of covert depopulation.

Argentina does have a high contraceptive prevalence rate but Argentinians do not use contraceptives faithfully and the use of contraceptives play only a marginal role in the struggle for replacement level fertility, as attested by the fact that even though the contraceptive prevalence rate has hardly changed since the 1970s, when women had 3.4 children on average, until today, when women can barely muster 2 children.

Abortion is illegal in Argentina but it is estimated that 40% of all pregnancies end in abortion. If true, then abortion would be an important factor in Argentina's low fertility, but would still not explain how Argentina reached replacement level fertility. Given Argentina's low fertility prior to the commencement of covert depopulation measures in 1980 it appears that the estimated number of abortions is an accurate figure.

Argentina's per capita GDP, which had been stagnant throughout the second half of the 20th century, began to grow as soon as Argentina reached replacement level fertility at the beginning of the 21st century. Affluence follows low fertility and not vice versa, as it is falsely asserted in order to hide the use of covert methods of depopulation.

Argentina is in stage four of the demographic transition.

President Sargsyan and Prime Minister Abrahamyan,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Armenia was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy in 1962 by the Soviets, as demanded by the United Nations of all its member states. As a result, the total fertility rate decreased from 4.6 to 2.6 children per woman by 1990 when the country regained its independence after the collapse of the Soviet Union. As throughout the former eastern bloc, independence from the Soviet Union brought not only greater economic misery and social dislocation but also western style depopulation methods via covert poisoning of the basic elements of life – water, beverages, food – with endocrine disruptors. As a result, the total fertility rate sunk to just 1.1 children per woman by 2001 and has since recovered to 1.5, but is still far below replacement level.

The country's population graph shows just how drastic the depopulation efforts have been since independence and how abruptly the population stopped growing and leveled off, even considering emigration.

While this demographic engineering is slowly bringing economic stability, it will also result in the sickening of the vast majority of Armenians, and will degrade the genetic and intellectual endowment of the people until all there will be left is a sterile, enfeebled, mentally retarded and chronically ill lot of walking zombies, as we are witnessing in North America and Europe.

If you want to escape the genocide and pursue depopulation in a civilized, legal, ethical, fair and safe way, then I suggest you read my book The Future of Global Governance and delegate your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Mnatsakanyan, to push for the reform of the UN system as I advise in my book and as the dire circumstances require.

The time is now. Later this year, as you well know, the world will be meeting in Addis Ababa, New York and Paris to forge a new course of sustainability. This new course will have to include a change from covert to overt depopulation and this can only happen if replacement level fertility is declared a Global Security Prerogative and all people in all nations will henceforth limit their reproduction by dint of law and in a manner of their own choosing.

To make this transition possible, I suggest you disseminate my work through your nation's media so as to educate your people of what is at stake and how international peace and stability have been maintained since 1945 through covert depopulation and coerced globalization. From 1962 to 1980, Armenia pursued an aggressive population control program under Soviet occupation, the result of which fertility declined from 4.5 to 2.4 children per woman. From 1980 to independence in 1991, the Soviets relaxed their depopulation program in Armenia, as they did throughout the Eastern Bloc, only to be resumed with renewed vigor and encouragement from the West and the UN by the first freely elected government of independent Armenia, which began employing western methods of covert depopulation. Armenia's total fertility rate has been at a dangerously low sub-replacement level since 1998 but has been rewarded with a growing per capita GDP.

Armenia has had negative population growth since 1991 due to the double onslaught of high emigration and low fertility since 1994. Every freely elected government since independence in 1991 – starting with President Levon Ter-Petrosyan (1991-1998) and continuing with President Robert Kocharyan (1998-2008) and incumbent Serzh Sargsyan (since April 2008) – has conducted an aggressive program of depopulation.

COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA

24 September 2014

Tony Abbott

Prime Minister of Australia

libadm@liberal.org.au

<https://www.pm.gov.au/contact-your-pm>

Prime Minister Abbott,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

As a member of the Five Eyes Alliance, Australia has made itself into a pariah state and has shattered its longstanding reputation as a country of the rule of law and a respectable member of the international community. More alarmingly, Australia's governing elites have become a party to mass murder in 1962, when they mandated the fluoridation of the country's drinking water.

As expected, that act of genocide has been followed by many others and today Australia employs every covert depopulation method in the arsenal of the genocidal coalition that is being delegated from the UN.

You have inherited this system and as such are not responsible for the crimes committed by your predecessors, but you are responsible for the crimes that are being committed on a daily basis through the structural violence perpetrated on the Australian people by the institutions of state in the name of the Global Depopulation Policy and under your leadership.

Neither you nor your predecessors have the people's mandate to condemn them to sterility, ill-health and mental retardation, for these are just a few of the consequences of chronic, long-term poisoning by endocrine disruptors and neurotoxins. Your government is therefore illegitimate and you can only reclaim legitimacy when you stand in front of the people and ask them for forgiveness for fifty-two years of government-sponsored genocide.

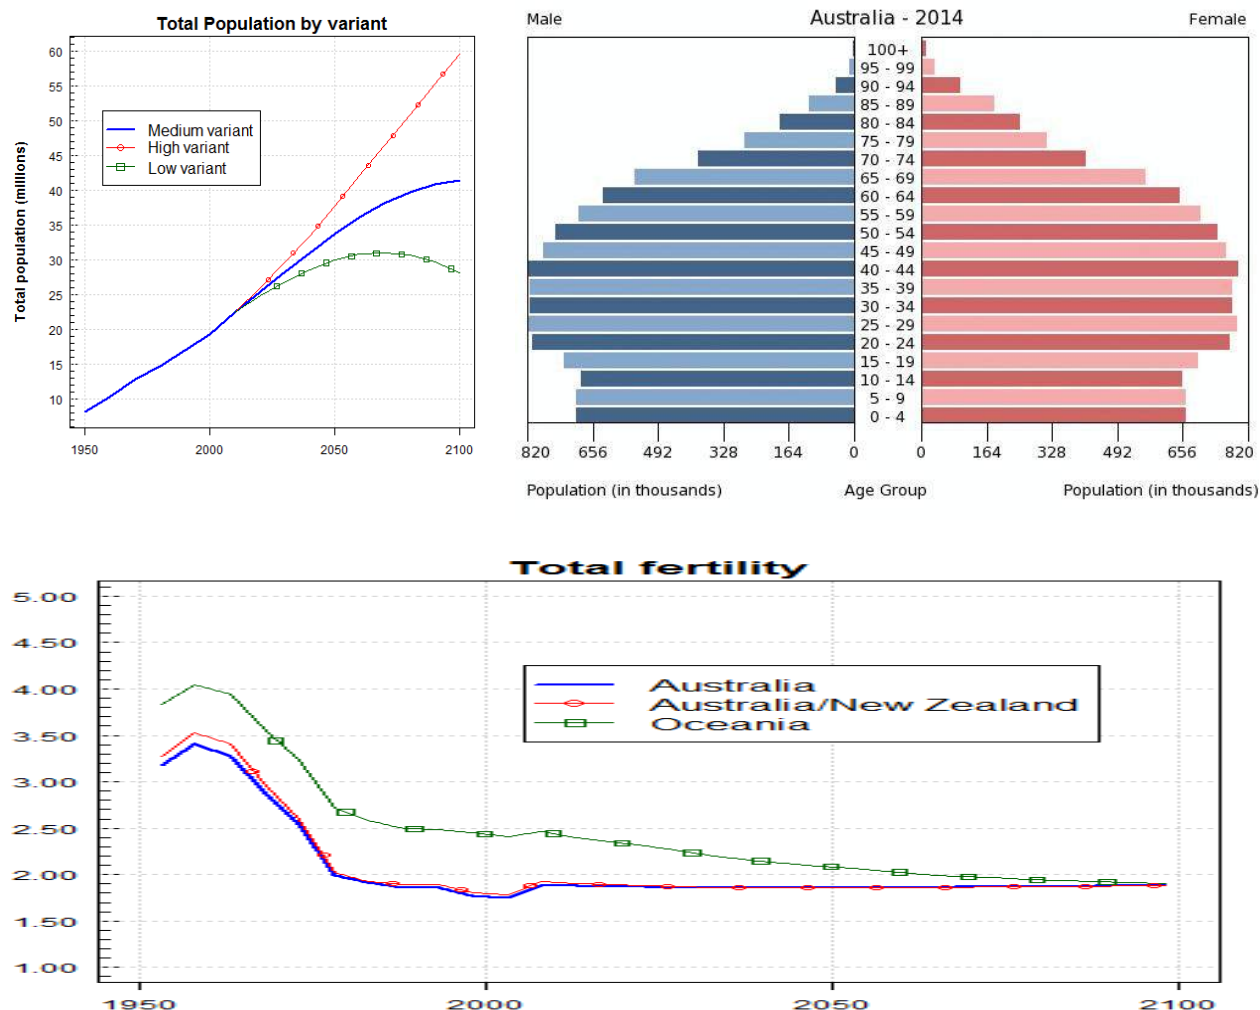

Shut down all the poisons before the people shut you down. I have done what none of the world's leaders have had the courage, decency or intelligence to do, outline and expose a seven-decades-old program of genocide. Follow my lead and get on the right side of history by guiding your country to legal and transparent means of population control before it is too late and Australia descends into chaos.

I stand by to fly to Australia if you need my help or my guidance.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

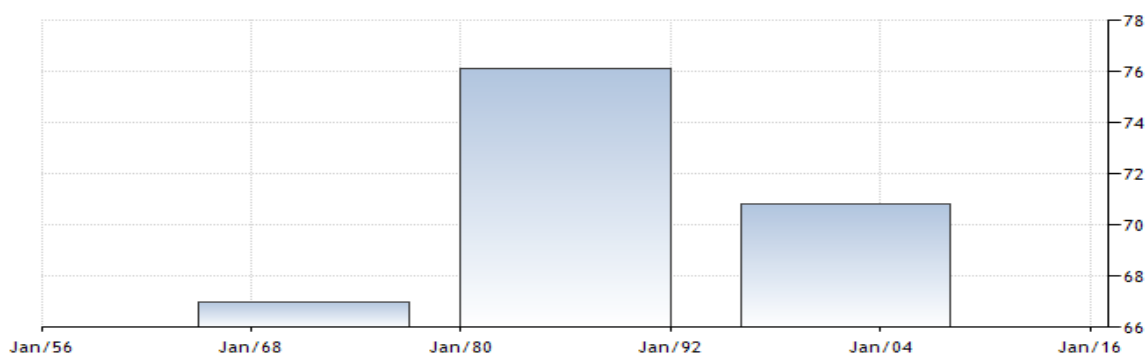

Australia is a UN founding member, but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1962 when it began fluoridating the water supply and in this fashion reduced the total fertility rate from 3.5 children per woman prior to 1962 to 1.8 to date. In the late 80s, Australia added bisphenol A to its arsenal of depopulation and has had sub-replacement level fertility since 1977.

Water fluoridation is particularly well-suited for Australia as a depopulation method due to the fact that more than three-quarters of all Australians live in metropolitan areas and also since Australia is a high immigration country and water fluoridation is the fastest way to subvert the reproductive systems of incomers to bring them at par with those born in Australia. Incidentally, this is also why all high immigration countries (USA, Canada, New Zealand, Brazil and Argentina) employ water fluoridation as their method of choice for population control.

Australians can curse their 12th Prime Minister, Sir Robert Gordon Menzies (1949-1966), for introducing covert depopulation methods during his second term in office. The next three prime ministers – Harold Holt (1966-1967), John McEwen (1967-1968), John Gorton (1968-1971) – put the program on hold. Every subsequent prime minister, however, has continued the depopulation program irrespective of political party: William McMahon (1971-1972), Gough Whitlam (1972-1975), Malcolm Fraser (1975-1983), Bob Hawke (1983-1991), Paul Keating (1991-1996), John Howard (1996-2007), Kevin Rudd (2007-2010, 2013-2013) and the incumbent Tony Abbott (since September 2013).

As elsewhere, the data shows that Australia's low fertility has little or nothing to do with contraceptives. From 1962 to 1976, when the country's fertility rate declined at the fastest rate, the contraceptive prevalence rate was below 50% throughout the sixties and below 67% throughout the seventies. Furthermore, since the early 1990s contraceptive use has been going down, but fertility is not increasing and has remained below replacement level.

Nor can abortion be responsible for the fertility decline since the historical record shows that Australia's abortion rate has been stable at 18%-23% since 1984.

Australia has been rewarded for its genocidal zeal with a growing GDP. As the data shows, the GDP per capita began rising rapidly around 1980 when the country had already reached replacement level fertility. As elsewhere, Australia's prosperity is a consequence of low fertility and not vice versa.

Australia's population is still growing but solely due to high immigration.

Australia is in stage four of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF AUSTRIA

20 October 2014

Heinz Fischer
President of Austria

heinz.fischer@hofburg.at, buergerservice@hofburg.at

Werner Faymann
Chancellor of Austria
direkt@spoe.at

President Fisher and Chancellor Faymann,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Austria joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1963 when its total fertility rate (TFR) was almost 3 children per woman. From 1945 to 1955, the Allied powers subverted the reproductive rights of the Austrian people through fluoride supplements. By 1973 the TFR dipped below replacement level and has never recovered. To date, it stands at 1.4 and the country's population remains stable only due to heavy immigration, which is why 15% of the population is foreign-born.

Since the prevalence of contraceptive use is 51%, it cannot account for the extremely low total fertility rate. What is responsible for the gradual annihilation of the Austrian people is the use of fluoridated salt, water-based beverages high in fluoride, and regular fluoride applications by dentists. In addition, Austrians are being scientifically poisoned into sterility or low fertility with bisphenol A, through plastic packaging and metal cans, and other endocrine disruptors (such as artificial sweeteners) deliberately added to food and drinks. This chronic exposure to endocrine disrupting toxins ensures that Austrians will cease to exist within a century.

Already the median age is an astoundingly high 44 years and since Austria has the second-lowest fertility rate in the EU after Germany the population will continue to decline rapidly and to be gradually replaced by foreigners in order to keep the country from slipping into economic depression and to prevent its social and health care systems from collapsing. To mitigate for the high proportion of elderly and their ever growing lifespans, Austria, like the rest of the OECD countries, is allowing the aerial spraying of aerosols to lower the lifespans of the elderly by a decade or two before they plunge the national budget into bankruptcy.

Unless your government breaks rank with the depopulation lobby and its central coordinating agency, the UN, Austria will descend into violence and its entire governing structure will face crimes against humanity.

I therefore urge you to be proactive and to stop the genocide of your own volition by legislating population control and allowing your citizens to exercise control over their reproductive rights with safe contraceptives.

Your people's reproductive systems are so severely degraded after decades of chronic poisoning that it will take decades for them to recover and to be capable of normal reproduction. It will be decades before the Austrian people will rebuild their genetic and intellectual endowments which have been set back by millennia through covert poisoning.

I do not know if you still have the intellectual ability to understand what I am telling you, but if you are ignorant and not part of the depopulation lobby I urge you to read my books and to educate yourselves and the public, for that is the only way you will survive the engineered demographic transition, which was conceived by the Anglo-American alliance. My work is available free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

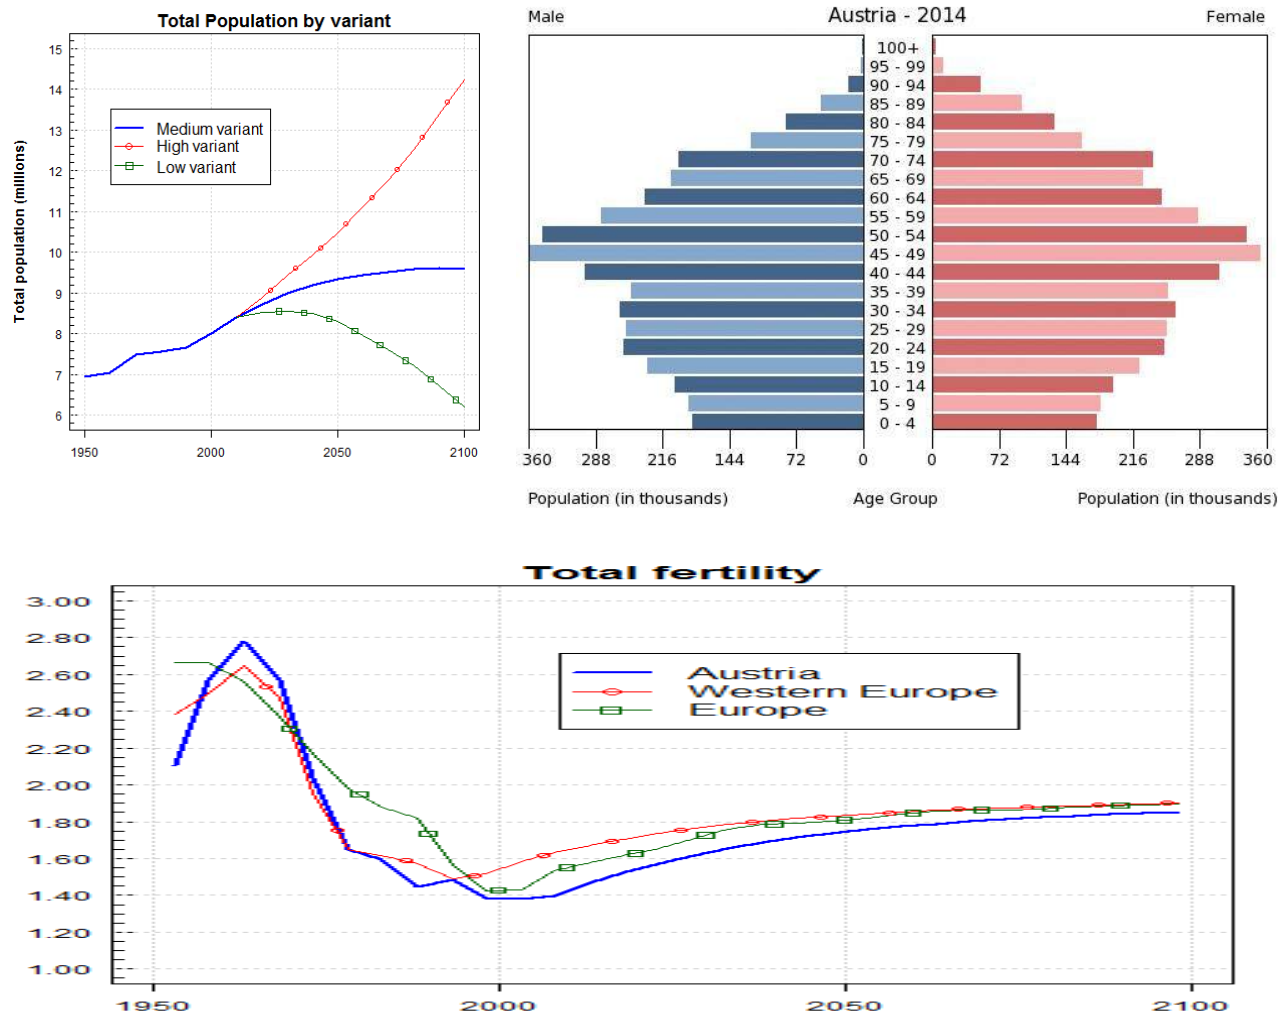

FPÖ boss Heinz-Christian Strache is wasting his breath in saying "I want 100,009 Austrian babies by 2030, not 100,000 immigrants", for the only way that will happen is if the entire country is told the truth and mobilized and if in the meantime you follow my advice and protect your people from any further sterility causing poisons.

To strengthen your hand both nationally and internationally I urge you to help me forge global consensus at the UN level for a worldwide law that restricts family size in every country on earth as a Planetary Security Prerogative so that population control can henceforth be pursued legally, openly and fairly.

Should you wish to discuss these matters with me in person, I could be in Vienna within hours.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Austria's total fertility rate started to dive as soon as covert methods of depopulation were introduced in 1963 by President Adolf Schärf and Chancellor Alfons Gorbach.

They have been kept in place by all subsequent presidents and chancellors and were particularly aggressive while Kurt Josef Waldheim, an Austrian diplomat and former intelligence officer in the Wehrmacht during World War II, was the Secretary-General of the United Nations from 1972 to 1981. During this time, Austria's leadership was in the hands of Chancellor Bruno Kreisky and President Rudolf Kirchschläger.

The Austrian government uses fluoridated salt and bottled water as well as fluoride veneers and bisphenol A to subvert its people's reproductive systems.

As soon as Austria reached replacement level fertility in 1972 its per capita GDP began exploding. Once again, affluence follows low fertility and not vice versa.

That Austria did not reach replacement level fertility, or has kept below replacement level since 1973 and below 1.5 children per woman since 1993, is made painfully obvious by the country's low contraceptive prevalence rate. Furthermore, while the contraceptive prevalence rate peaked from 1976 to 1987 at 72% and has been going down ever since, fertility has continued to decline and remains at 1.4 children per woman to this day.

Nor can abortion be a factor since Austria's abortion rate is very low at less than 3%.

Austria is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

Artur Rasizade, Prime Minister of Azerbaijan
info@mia.gov.az, health@health.gov.az, contact@justice.gov.az

President Aliyev and Prime Minister Rasizade,

Azerbaijan was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy in 1962 by the Soviet Union. By 1991, when Azerbaijan regained its independence, the total fertility rate had declined from 5.5 children per woman to 2.9; a level it had hovered at since 1972.

As elsewhere, the depopulation program intensified and accelerated once Azerbaijan joined the UN in 1992 and NATO's Partnership for Peace program in 1994. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from 25 births per 1000 to just 13 by 2001 and thus far below replacement level. The government eased up on its poisons and the total fertility rate has somewhat recovered and is currently at 2.3 children per woman.

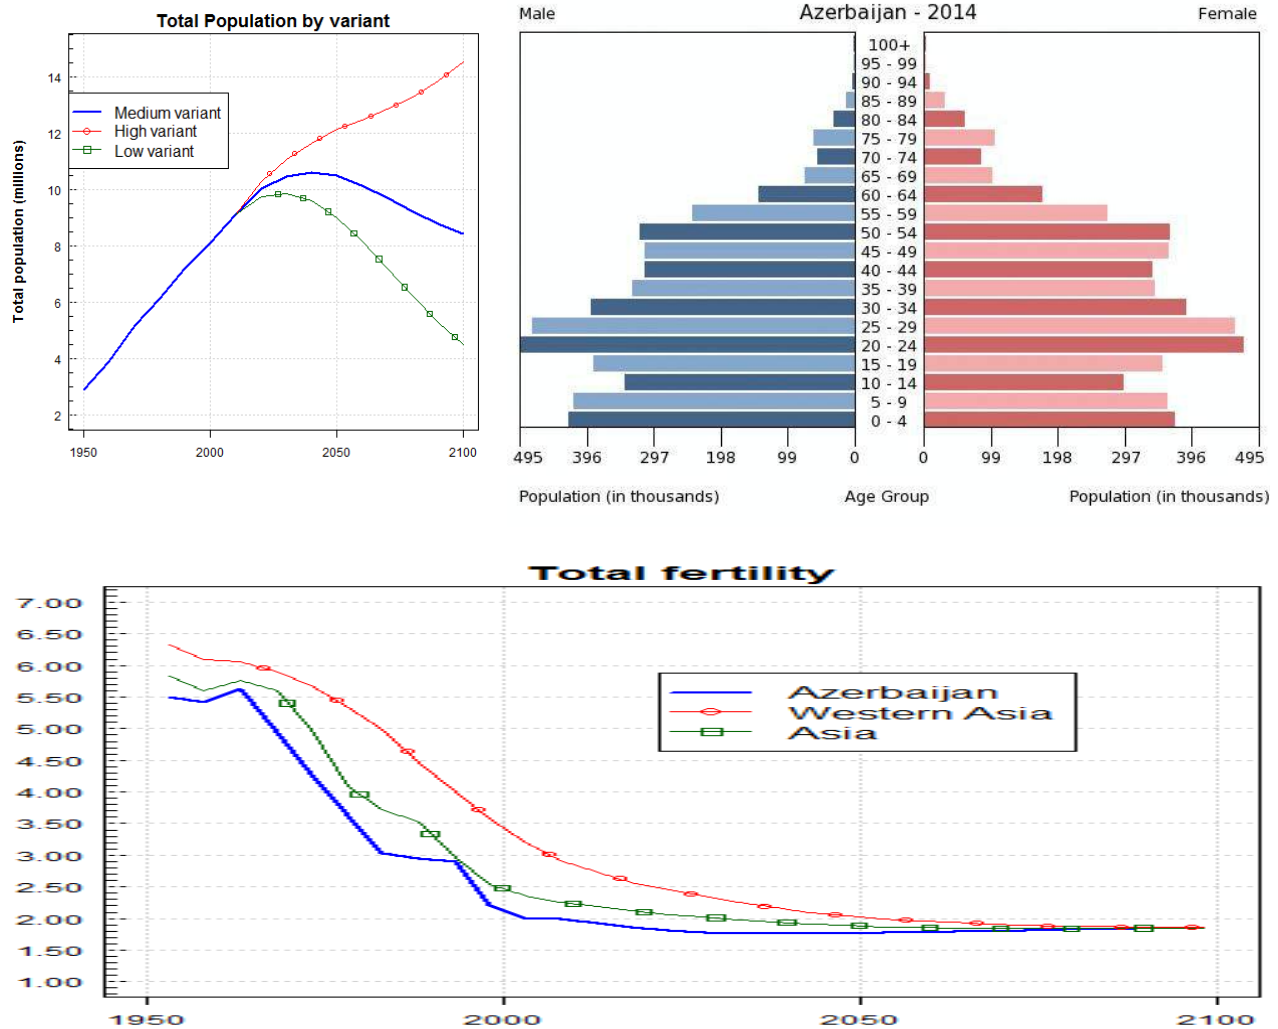

To make sure that the world escapes genocide and pursues population control legally, fairly and safely we have to change the international structure and reform the UN system along the lines I have suggested in my just published book, The Future of Global Governance. We also need to educate the public so that people accept responsibility for replacement level fertility.

I hope you will add your voice to mine and will instruct your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Yashar Aliyev, to lobby for UN reform and for peace without poison. I hope that will also free the media to educate the public on the need to assume responsibility of reproduction as that is the only way we can attain sustainability and maintain international peace. My freely available work can assist you in this task: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

And should you need my help, I stand by to assist you in any way I can.

Azerbaijan suppresses human fertility since 1962 when it was a Soviet republic. From 1980 until independence from the Soviet Union in 1991 the program of covert depopulation was eased up by the Soviet leadership of Leonid Brezhnev, Yuri Andropov, Konstantin Chernenko and finally Mikhail Gorbachev only to be accelerated and intensified as soon as Azerbaijan became independent.

Judging by the rapid transition of power from one administration to another in the early days of independent Azerbaijan, it is safe to assume that the depopulation measures were first implemented by the ministry of health with little or no input from the executive.

The only three politicians who have been in office long enough not to be able to pretend that they did not know what is happening are the current prime minister, Artur Rasizade, and the current president, Ilham Aliyev, as well as his father and former president Heydar Aliyev. These three key figures are certainly deeply implicated in the poisoning of their people and bear the brunt of the responsibility for the damage done to the genetic and intellectual endowment of the Azerbaijani people.

Since Azerbaijan's contraceptive prevalence rate has never been above 56%, its low fertility is clearly not the result of contraceptive use.

Nor do abortions play a role in the country's current replacement level fertility since only 10% of all pregnancies end with an abortion according to statistics.

Azerbaijan has been rewarded with a rapidly growing GDP ever since it reached replacement level fertility in 2000.

Azerbaijan has had sub-replacement level fertility since 2001 and has just entered the fourth stage of the demographic transition.

Perry Christie

Prime Minister of the Bahamas

Prime Minister Christie,

The Bahamas was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British administrators in 1967 until 1970 and has resumed covert depopulation measures upon becoming independent and joining the UN in 1973. As a result, the total fertility rate has decreased from circa 4 children per woman in the 1960s to just 1.9 since 2006.

From 1967 to 1970 the fertility reduction was accomplished through forced, coercive and involuntary surgical sterilization programs conducted by western NGOs. Since 1973 the fertility and health of the Bahamian people have been subverted through fluoride in various forms. From 1990 to 1992, for instance, a daily fluoride mouth-rinse program was in effect targeting children in public schools from first to sixth grades. From 1994 to 1996, children in elementary schools received 0.5 mg F daily as a dietary supplement. Fluoride varnish treatments, fluoridated salt and even fluoridated water have been in effect or continue to be in effect depending on the period, island and socio-economic class.

The Pan American Health Organization (PAHO) and your own Ministry of Health are in charge of covertly subverting the fertility of your people with endocrine disruptors such as fluoride and in the process doing untold damage to the health and to the genetic and intellectual endowment of Bahamians. Just how much damage is being done worldwide in the name of demographic objectives dictated by the UN you can ascertain from my work, which is freely available here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

Considering that your population has increased from 80,000 in 1950 to 320,000 today, a fourfold increase in just six decades, and that your natural resources and landmass are very limited, I can understand your nation's need for effective population control. What I can neither understand nor tolerate, however, is the underhanded, illegal, immoral and perverse methods chosen to accomplish low fertility targets.

If you continue violating your people's rights and liberties and perverting the rule of law and democracy in the process you will inevitably face charges for crimes against humanity now that I have freed the truth and your people as well as people everywhere on earth are finding out about the ongoing genocide and that their own governments and elected officials are behind it.

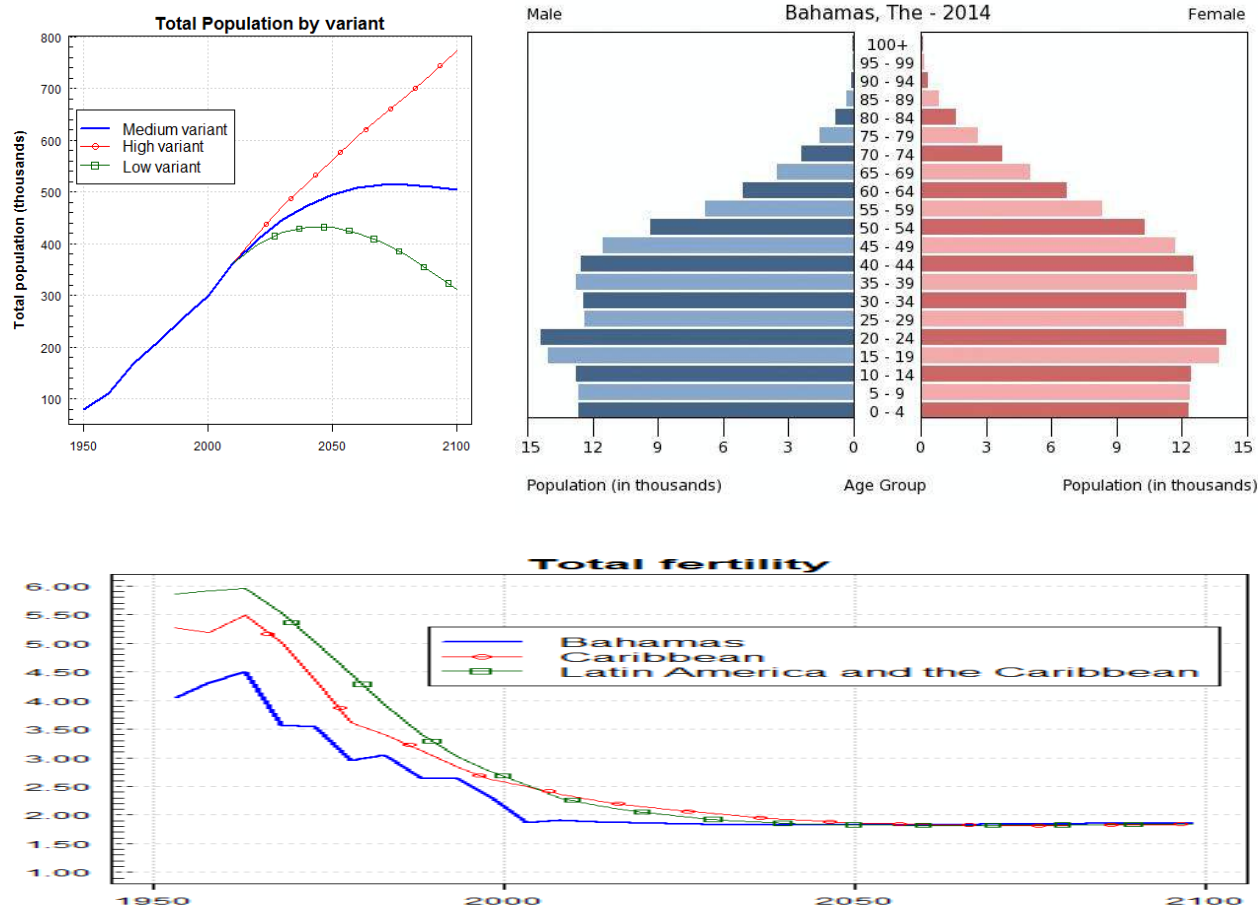

I therefore urge you, for your sake and for the sake of peace and stability, to immediately change course and to legislate population control. You should be aware that I am in the process of forging global consensus for a replacement level fertility law that applies worldwide and derives from the global governance level as a Planetary Security Prerogative. By throwing your support behind my effort, which invites all heads of state and government to contribute, as you will see in my public appeal (<https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>), we can prevent genocide and achieve the Millennium Development Goals.

You will undoubtedly agree with me that the Bahamian people will not willingly trade their hard-won freedom from slavery two centuries ago for a far more diabolical and intrusive form of slavery for population control purposes in this century. The Bahamas can fulfill its international obligations and national ambitions while at the same time protecting its people, respecting the law, and retaining its values and norms. I can show you how.

I look forward to meeting with you to discuss this most important subject.

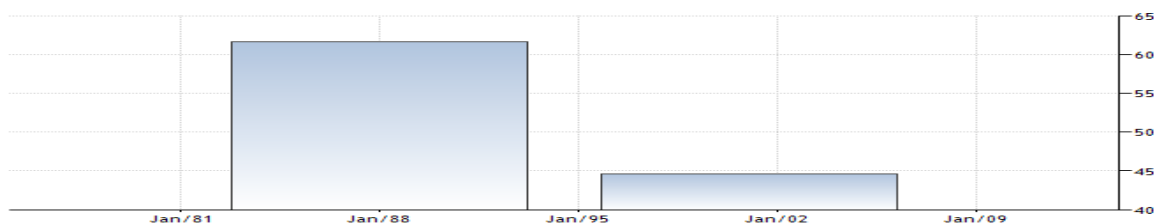

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

While the British forced covert depopulation measures onto the Bahamian people, the first president of independent Bahamas, Sir Lynden Pindling, the “Father of the Nation” and in office from 1973 to 1992, shut down the depopulation program twice during his presidency and protected the people. The same cannot be said of his successors, Hubert Ingraham and incumbent Perry Christie, who have held the presidency in alternate administrations since 1992.

The Bahamas have had replacement level fertility since 2002 but not due to contraceptives since fewer than 45% of Bahamians use contraceptives. Nor do abortions have anything to do with the low fertility since it is illegal and allowed only to save a woman’s life or health.

The Bahamas is in stage four of the demographic transition.

King Al Khalifa, Crown Prince Al Khalifa and Prime Minister Al Khalifa,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Bahrain joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1971, as soon as it declared its independence and also became a UN member state. As a result, its total fertility rate decreased from 7 children per woman to 1.8 as of 2014.

2010 was a crucial year for Bahrain's depopulation effort, which is why the total fertility rate experienced the most abrupt fall ever, from 2.5 to 1.8 children per women, a 28% reduction in just one year; a fall that can only be accomplished through involuntary surgical and chemical sterilizations and which undoubtedly triggered the 2011 uprising because the Shi'a population was targeted by the Sunni leadership in the hope of tilting the demographic balance in favor of Sunnis.

As the fourth most densely populated sovereign state in the world, with a whopping population density of 1,627 people per square kilometer, a landmass that is useless for agriculture, dwindling fresh water resources, and a total dependence on imports to feed its people, Bahrain has no choice but to practice strict population control.

Three peculiarities indicate that fluoride poisoning is the method of choice for the Bahraini government to subvert the people's fertility since 1971. First, Bahrain is an aluminum exporter and the aluminum industry is the biggest fluoride polluter. Second, the groundwater on which Bahrain depends for agricultural and domestic use contains fluoride levels that are high or even unsafe for drinking according to a 1996 study. And third, since 1976 Bahrain depends increasingly on water desalination plants to meet the water demand of its people and since sea water has rather high levels of naturally-occurring fluoride the government can decide what fluoride concentrations to provide its citizens with and of course the government will follow the WHO guidelines, which are meant to do maximum damage to human fertility.

In 2003, for instance, the total water withdrawal of Bahrain was 357 million m³ and it was met by three different sources: primary groundwater 239 million m³, desalinated water 102 million m³, and treated sewage effluent (used for the irrigation of crops) 16 million m³. This means that irrespective of where Bahrainis get their drinking water from it will contain sterilizing levels of fluoride in it.

Those who drink bottled water, whether imported or domestic, will drink it out of plastic bottles made from bisphenol A plastic, which is a known endocrine disruptor and just as effective a sterilizer as fluoride. And since the vast majority of foods consumed in Bahrain are imported and wrapped in bisphenol A plastic packaging or augmented with just enough fluoride by western genocidal corporations with seven decades of experience in subverting the reproductive systems of westerner, none of the basic elements of life that Bahrainis depend on are safe for human consumption, as they are all adulterated with endocrine disruptors to cause sterility or subfertility.

And that is how Bahrain has accomplished a drop in fertility rates from 7 to less than 2 children per woman in a little more than a generation without having any family planning services to speak of.

As an absolute monarchy with half the government composed of Al Khalifa family members (all of whom have a multitude of children because they alone have access to non-sterilizing water, drinks and food) and torture as the method of choice for suppressing freedom and democracy, it is fair to say that Bahrain is a family fiefdom frozen in the distant past, utterly indifferent to the people's rights and liberties and interested only in the enrichment and perpetuation of the Al Khalifa clan.

If you King Al Khalifa, Crown Prince Al Khalifa, and Prime Minister Al Khalifa want to hang on to your heads, you better listen to what I have to tell you and do as I tell you without delay. Stop poisoning your people into infertility, imbecility, ill-health and enfeeblement and legislate population control or you will be torn to pieces by the very men, women and children you now poison. Your situation is already precarious and the UN technocrats, the American military and the British monarchy will not save your necks again because their own necks will soon be on the chopping block.

To legislate population control you must be honest with your people and freely disseminate my work so as to educate them of the facts. You will find my publications and videos free of cost here:

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCZf9rWLgwzGW34EITo0x7fA>

And since population control makes no sense unless all countries practice it, for that is how international peace can be maintained, I suggest you instruct Ambassador Almansoor to use the full weight of your UN permanent mission to force a vote in the General Assembly that enshrines replacement level fertility in international law as a Planetary Security Prerogative. That is the only way the world will preserve peace and accomplish sustainability.

Should you need my help or advice I will not hesitate to travel to Bahrain to speak to you in private and to assist you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

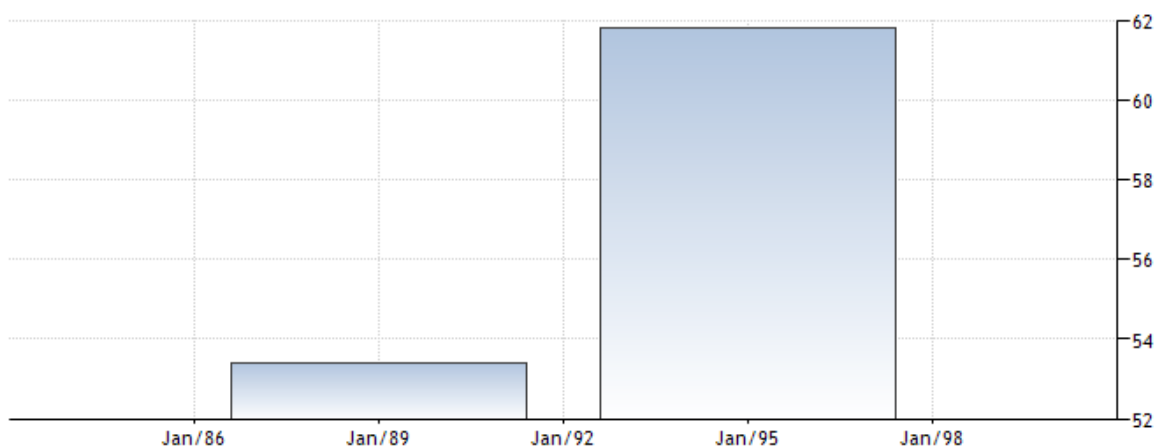

Covert depopulation measures were first introduced in Bahrain by Emir Isa bin Salman Al Khalifa, who reigned from 1961 to 1991, and have been continued without interruption by his son and successor, the current King of Bahrain, Hamad bin Isa bin Salman Al Khalifa.

As an absolute monarchy, with pretenses of being a constitutional monarchy, power belongs entirely to the ruling family, the Al-Khalifa clan. Therefore, the responsibility for poisoning the Bahraini people falls also entirely on the shoulders of the ruling family.

The Al-Khalifa rulers are acting undoubtedly under heavy pressure from the UN and the international community as well as due to resource pressures caused by water scarcity and complete dependence on imported food. Bahrain's extremely high population density poses additional problems and gives irresistible impetus for aggressive population control measures.

Bahrain's lopsided population pyramid on the male side is the result of the large number of foreign workers who live in the country and has nothing to do with covert depopulation measures and everything to do with economic necessity.

Bahrain reached replacement level fertility in 2011 but clearly not due to contraceptives since fewer than 62% of the people use them. Abortion is also not a factor in the fertility decline since the abortion rate, the historical record shows, has been constant at c. 11% since 1997.

Bahrain is in stage four of the demographic transition.

President Hamid and Prime Minister Hasina,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Bangladesh became a UN member state in 1974, three years after winning its independence, and immediately joined the Global Depopulation Policy. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from nearly 7 children per woman prior to 1974 to just 2.4 today.

Considering that Bangladesh is the eighth most populous country on earth with 165 million people and the most densely populated large country in the world with more than 1,000 people per square kilometer, no one can doubt its absolute necessity for population control. What is equally clear is that no covert methods of depopulation – be they chemical, biological or bacteriological – can be carried out without devastating human health, shutting down the reproductive system within two or three generations, and downgrading the genetic and intellectual endowment of mankind. Last but not least, it is by now also universally clear that we will destroy the planet and cause our own demise unless we attain sustainability, which is an impossible task without lowering the population of every country on earth to optimal levels.

Given these conditions and dilemmas, the time has come to bring the depopulation effort out in the open so it can continue openly, legally, fairly and safely. This requires that we reform the UN system and declare depopulation a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law. How we can do this and why I have outlined in my just published book The Future of Global Governance.

To bring the depopulation effort out in the open also requires that the people of the world know the facts and understand why every human being on the planet from now until the end of time will have to limit himself or herself to replacement level fertility. And this calls for a massive and global program of education. I am providing the core material for such a program in my freely available work, which I encourage you to access and disseminate through your nation's media:

While your media begins educating the Bangladeshi people, your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Momen, must call for reform of the international system. As a low-lying country visited by devastating floods almost every year, you of all nations know just how vitally important is to attain sustainability and halt climate change, both of which necessitate depopulation.

I have already done the groundwork and freed the truth. It is now time for politicians to do their jobs and earn their keep.

Should you need my help, do not hesitate to reach out to me.

Sincerely,

Responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation is the third president of the People's Republic of Bangladesh, Mohammad Mohammadullah, who held the office from 1973 to 1975, and Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, who held the office from 1972 to 1975.

The program has been running without interruption under the leadership of Abdur Rahman Biswas (1991-1996), Shahabuddin Ahmed (1996-2001), Badruddoza Chowdhury (2001-2002), Iajuddin Ahmed (2002-2009), Zillur Rahman (2009-2013), and incumbent Abdul Hamid (since March 2013).

As Bangladesh's fertility has declined its GDP per capita has increased.

That Bangladesh could not have possibly accomplished such a rapid fertility decline through the use of contraceptives is amply demonstrated by its low contraceptive prevalence rate, which even today is no more than 51% for rural and 54% for urban areas.

The abortion rate in Bangladesh, at 18.2 per 1,000 women, and the menstrual regulation rate (a post-contraceptive way to control fertility), at 18.3 per 1,000 women, can also not explain the drop in fertility from 7 to 2.4 children per woman.

Prime Minister Stuart,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Barbados was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1954, twelve years prior to gaining its independence, and, as a result, the total fertility rate decreased from 4.5 to 1.8 children per woman. Barbados reached replacement level fertility in 1980 and has had below replacement level fertility since 1985.

Although the Barbados Family Planning Association (BFPA) was established in 1954, the population control effort did not take off until 1967, when the government of Barbados decided to address the problem of overpopulation by an Act of Parliament.

Since the contraceptive prevalence rate is only 55%, Barbados' below replacement level fertility cannot be attributed to the use of contraceptives and is the result of covert methods of depopulation. In the early years of the depopulation program, Barbados subjected its people to involuntary surgical sterilization and to sterilizing vaccines. Over the past thirty years, however, the people's fertility is suppressed according to advice from the Ministry of Health through "systemic dietary fluoride supplements for children up to thirteen years of age" and through "topical applications of fluoride" as a free oral health provision for adults of reproductive age.

As a result, the people's endocrine systems are ruined and this damage is increasingly reflected in the prevalence of obesity, diabetes and cardio-vascular conditions. The 2000 Barbados Food Consumption and Anthropometric Survey (BFCAS), for instance, "found the prevalence of overweight (pre-obesity) and obesity among adult Barbadians to be 55.8% in men, 63.8% in women" and "nearly 30% in young men and over 50% in young women".

The sterilization of the population is completed through chronic BPA poisoning via food and beverage packaging. Since Barbados relies entirely on imported food, it is western food corporations that are responsible for the chronic poisoning of your people, as well as the government of Barbados for its tacit cooperation in this genocide.

As the 15th densest place on earth, with 660 people per square kilometer, and the world's most densely populated isles, Barbados has no choice but to maintain a strict population control program until such time as it reaches a sustainable population level of circa 100 people per square kilometer. As it is, despite good governance and a high national income, 20% of Barbadians still live in poverty and 10% suffer chronic hunger while the environment, despite conservation measures, continues to deteriorate.

But Barbados does have a choice in how to achieve depopulation and sustainability. So instead of poisoning your people into sterility and eventual extinction, Prime Minister Stuart, I am giving you the opportunity to save your soul and your people from hell in this and the next world. Legislate replacement level fertility and empower your citizens through education and safe contraceptives to take control of their reproductive systems and freely limit the number of children to a maximum of two per woman. Continue to commit genocide and you will be severely punished.

To make your task easier, I suggest you also instruct Ambassador Goddard to compel the UN to allow the General Assembly to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law so it can be pursued openly, transparently, justly and safely across the world.

As the total fertility graph shows, Barbados is far ahead of its Caribbean neighbors in undermining the fertility of its citizens. It reached replacement level fertility in 1980 – thus in just 15 years and starting from a high fertility rate of nearly 5 children per woman – and has been well below replacement level fertility since 1985.

While the British are responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation, every freely elected administration since independence has continued the program. From Errol Barrow in 1966 to Freundel Stuart today, Barbados' prime ministers are all guilty of genocide without exception.

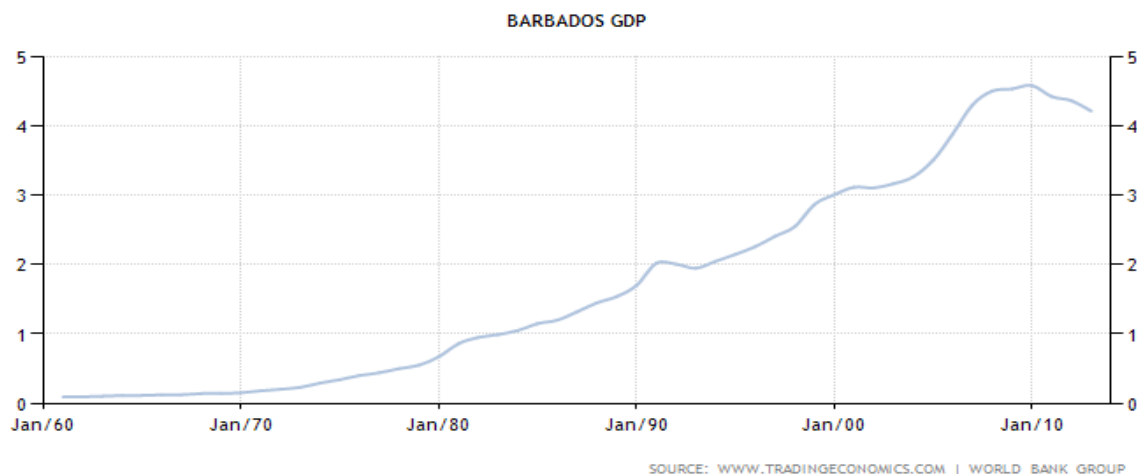

Not only have Barbados' elected politicians continued the British-initiated depopulation program they have accelerated its pace and amplified its scope which is why the total fertility graph show a far steeper decline in fertility from 1966 onward than from 1954 to 1966, when the British were in charge of the island.

That Barbados' rapid drop in fertility from 1966 to 1980 or its sub-replacement level fertility since 1985 have little or nothing to do with contraceptives is clearly shown by the country's contraceptive prevalence rate, which was near zero during the 1960s, lower than 20% during the 1970s, below 47% during the 1980s, and below 55% to date.

Barbados' abortion rate, at c. 14% since 1988, can also not account for the low fertility.

The GDP of Barbados began exploding just as fertility petered down to replacement level in 1980.

Barbados is at the end of stage four of the demographic transition and about to enter stage five.

REPUBLIC OF BELARUS

Alexander Lukashenko

President of Belarus

Mikhail Myasnikovich

Prime Minister of Belarus

http://www.sovrep.gov.by/index_eng.php/feed_back.html

smajewski@unicef.org, ldjuhari@unicef.org

President Lukashenko and Prime Minister Myasnikovich,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Even though a founding member of the United Nations, Belarus did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1959; probably because a third of its population had been decimated during the Second World War and the political leadership of the Soviet Union decided to give it time to recover. Belarus' total fertility rate (TFR) has declined from 3 children per woman in 1959 to a low of only 1.2 children per woman by 2003.

To subvert its people's reproductive rights the government of Belarus has used fluoridated salt since 1991 when the Soviet Union fell apart and the country became independent once again. By 1993 the population started decreasing and has since lost 800.000 or nearly 8% of its people due to negative natural growth. That the decrease in fertility is attributed to covert depopulation measures and not to voluntary use of contraceptive is demonstrated by the low percentage of women using contraceptives, which throughout the 1990s stood at only 13%.

An additional or alternative method of covert population control, contraceptive vaccines, was adopted by your government in 2011 probably to replace fluoridated salt, which I exposed in 2011 as a method of population control that does terrible damage to the human body. Either you acted in response to my work (as President Obama did when he lowered fluoride concentrations in America's tap water) or to allow the government to better calibrate people's fertility at replacement level, which fluoridation cannot do. This is probably why since 2012 the TFR has bounced back up to almost 1.7 children per woman and continues to improve.

Nevertheless, this engineered demographic transition has resulted in an old and sickly population with a median age of 37, which is projected to rise anywhere from 55 to 65 by 2050. What this means is that your country is dying and it is dying under your leadership and due to covert depopulation measures that you approve and oversee.

Instead of continuing to commit genocide, I hope that you will join my effort to forge global consensus for a population control law that restricts fertility to replacement level across the world as a Planetary Security Prerogative imposed from the global governance level for the sake of true peace and environmental sustainability and to protect this and future generations from covert poisoning for demographic objectives; poisoning that threatens the survival of our species because it degrades man's genetic and intellectual endowment to undermine fertility and does irreparable harm to human health in the process.

The time has come to bring to an end seven decades of covert methods of population control and to institute a true era of peace rather than continue to live with a substitute to war that causes untold misery across the world by forcing governments to commit unspeakable atrocities against unsuspecting civilians as a matter of policy and in the framework of state-sanctioned structural violence that devastates individual and social wellbeing and perverts the social contract between the government and the governed.

I look forward to meeting with you to discuss what role Belarus can play in changing global policy and saving the world from genocide and self-destruction. In the meantime, you can access my work free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

As throughout the former Soviet Union, fertility declined rapidly due to rampant abortions and covert methods of depopulation from the 1950s to the late 1970s and then stabilized just above replacement level until the dissolution of the Soviet Union in 1991.

With independence, however, the total fertility rate plummeted to lowest low fertility rates and after a slow ascent fertility remains far below replacement level and Belarus' population is decreasing rapidly since the early 1990s due to the double onslaught of emigration and sub-replacement level fertility rates. This means that Belarus' leadership has deliberately chosen the low variant population trajectory that will halve the population by 2060. Responsible for this aggressive program of depopulation are: Stanislav Shushkevich, Vyacheslav Nikolayevich Kuznetsov, Myechyslaw Hryb, and the incumbent President of Belarus, Alexander Lukashenko.

Until 1995, abortions exceeded live births two-to-one and were a significant factor in the country's low fertility rate. By 2008, however, the number of abortions decreased by 75% but there was no corresponding increase in fertility. In fact, fertility declined to a lowest low of 1.2 children per woman by 2003 despite far fewer abortions, which can only mean that covert chemical methods of sterilization adopted from the West began to work their miracles in Belarus.

Belarus is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

Philippe Léopold Louis Marie
King of the Belgians

Elio di Rupo
Prime Minister of Belgium

King Philippe and Prime Minister Rupo,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

In previous centuries, Belgium was the battlefield of Europe's bloody wars. In the latter half of the 20th century, Belgium became the battlefield of the conflicting ideologies with respect to the substitute to war settled upon in 1945 and pursued since then as a secret war on human fertility.

I put an end to the secrecy. You must put an end to the war. If you fail to do your duty and protect your people and the world from the engineered extinction of the vast majority of the human species, you will go down in history as members of the most odious coalition of mass murderers, a distinction that I am certain you do not wish to take to your graves, especially since Belgium is one of only two European strongholds against genocide and held out the longest.

The Belgian government deserves praise for refusing to institute domestic measures of covert population control until 1971 and for abandoning them in 1989. It does not deserve praise however for its policy of see no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil, thus for allowing adulterated food imports from other EU countries to reduce the total fertility rate of the Belgian people and for sickening them in the process and enfeebling their minds.

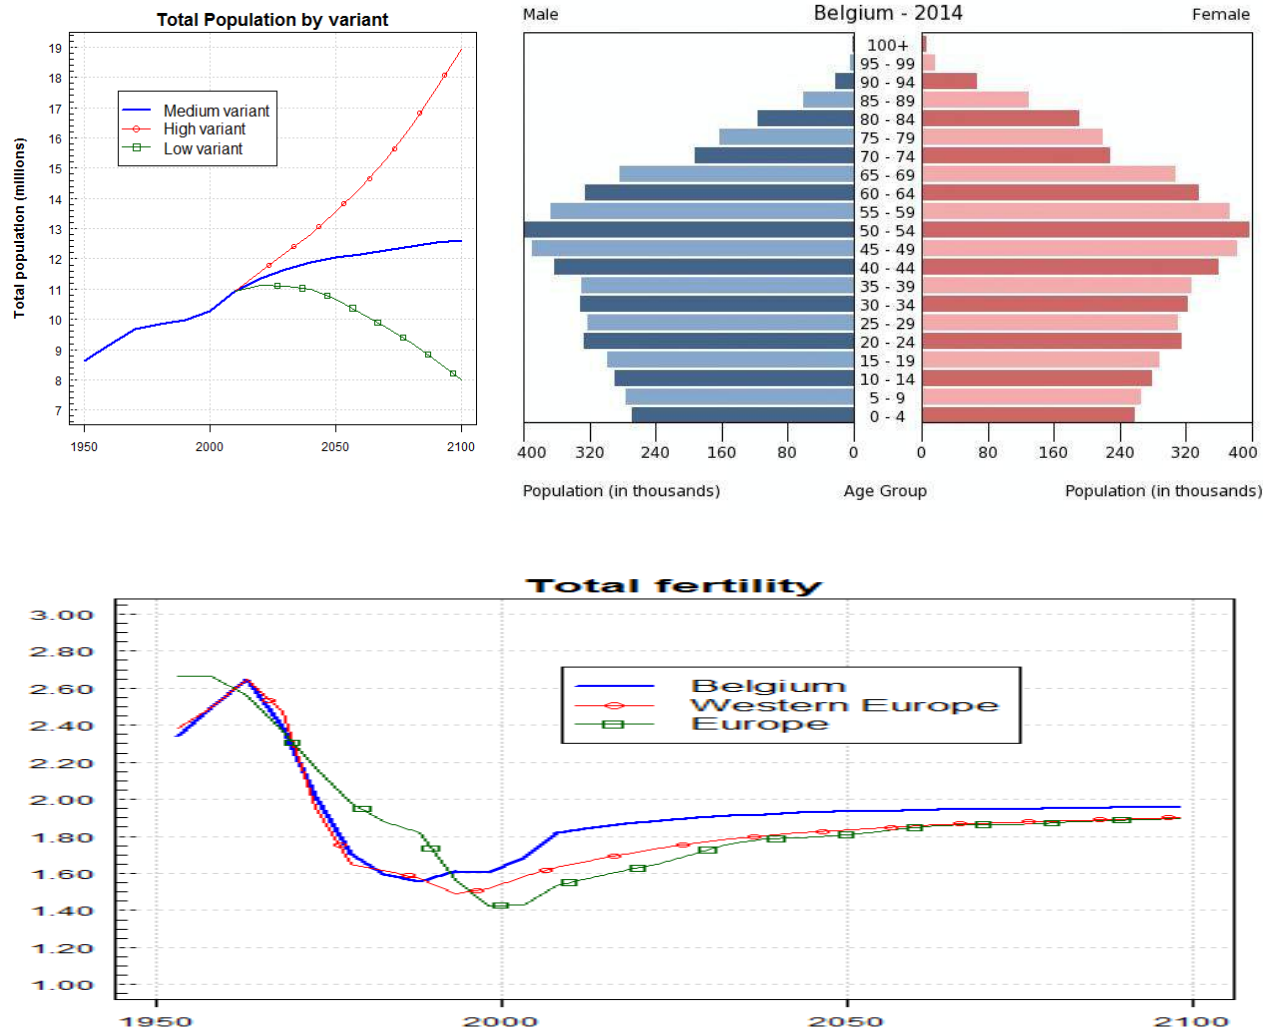

While you are not directly responsible for poisoning your people's food with endocrine disruptors, you are personally responsible for failing to tell your people that they are at the receiving end of a global program of genocide dictated by the UN and enabled by the EU authorities and by every government in Europe.

There is a better way. Legislate population control. The Belgian people have had low fertility rates for over a century and will easily accept a two-child policy. I am in the process of forging global consensus for a worldwide population control law, which is inevitable and the only way to protect humankind from genocide and rescue our democracies and our planet.

I look forward to meeting with you to discuss how to set an example for the world to follow. Since Belgium is home to the main EU institutions and to NATO's headquarters, being the first to legislate population control would be symbolically crucial and send positive ripples throughout the world.

Sincerely,

Belgium's population pyramid and total fertility graph both show that depopulation measures came into effect in 1965 on Belgian soil and within 7 years the country – which is highly urbanized and therefore easy to sterilize, and started from a low fertility of just 2.6 children per woman – reached replacement level fertility.

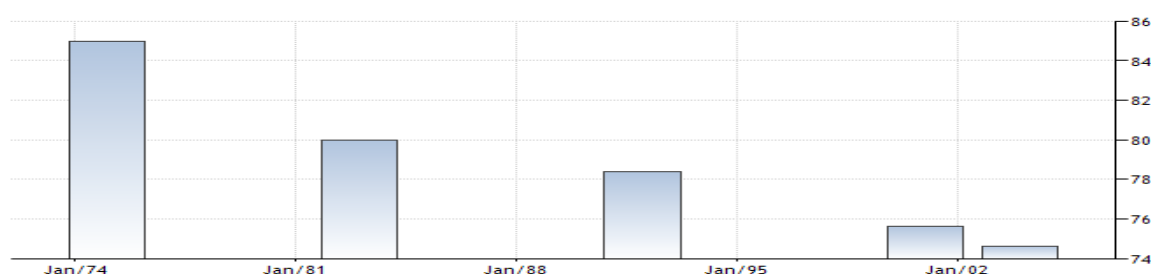

The demographic history of Belgium shows that it is undergoing a second demographic transition, having undergone a previous demographic transition in the first half of the 20th century through social measures and war. The current transition, however, is accomplished as elsewhere in Europe through food, water and beverages adulterated with endocrine disruptors and through topical applications of fluoride by the nation's dentists.

This engineered demographic transition is in blatant violation of the genocide convention and ignores and bypasses all democratic checks and balances.

Every Belgian leader since 1965 is therefore complicit in crimes against humanity.

Belgium had a high contraceptive prevalence rate during the mid-1970s, but by then the country had already reached replacement level fertility 5 years earlier. Equally suspect is that even though the contraceptive prevalence rate has decreased for the past 30 years, the fertility rate has not increased, as one would expect if contraceptives were truly the reason for low fertility. Instead, fertility continued to decrease and has been at sub-replacement level since 1973, showing no relationship whatsoever with the contraceptive prevalence rate.

Belgium's abortion rate has never exceeded 13% and was below 2% when the country reached replacement level fertility in 1972. Therefore, abortion is not a factor in Belgium's fertility decline.

The Belgian people have been robbed of their fertility and deprived of children, but have been given growing affluence in return, as the graph below shows.

Belgium is in the fourth stage of the demographic transition and has stalled entry into the fifth and last stage through heavy immigration.

Prime Minister Barrow,

Belize joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1981 and its total fertility rate has decreased from 6.2 children per woman to 2.7 today. Belize has accomplished this drop in fertility through fluoridated salt since 1999 and through involuntary sterilization programs from 1980 to the year 2000. Endocrine disruptors in food, beverages, bottled water and dental products keep the populace in a state of chronic poisoning and further suppress reproduction.

If you keep pursuing this road to complete the demographic transition all you will be left with fifty years from now is a sterile, feeble and mentally retarded population that will die out by the end of the 21st century. In other words, all you will have accomplished is to write your name in history as Belize's greatest mass murderer. That you are committing genocide and crimes against humanity alongside nearly all other heads of state on earth and with the support and encouragement of the UN and its agencies will do absolutely nothing to atone for your crimes in this and the next world. More than this, not only you but also your children and children's children will be reviled and persecuted for your crimes.

I am giving you the opportunity to save your soul and your nation by joining my effort to forge global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative and thus as a duty of global citizenship and conscience; a duty that no man and woman and no state can henceforth eschew. Belize became a UN member state in 1981 and immediately began covertly sterilizing its people. As a result, its total fertility rate has declined from 6.3 to 3 children per woman to date.

The first prime minister after independence, George Cadle Price (served as First Minister of British Honduras from 1961-1964, Premier of British Honduras from 1964 to 1973, Premier of Belize from 1973 to 1981, and Prime Minister from 1981 to 1984) is responsible for bringing the Belizean people into the Global Depopulation Policy. Every prime minister since has stayed the course: Manuel Esquivel (1984-1989, 1993-1998), Said Musa (1998-2008), and the incumbent Dean Barrow (since February 2008).

The total fertility graph shows that Belize escaped covert depopulation measures far longer than its neighbors, despite being a British colony. This is undoubtedly due to the country's low population density, which even today is the lowest in Central America at just 14 people per square kilometer.

Due to the country's rich biodiversity and crucial place in the Mesoamerican Biological Corridor, however, Belize could not be allowed to grow at natural rates. And that is why as soon as environmental concerns were recognized at the international level as crucial to the planet's life support system, Belize was subsumed into the depopulation program.

Contraceptives use is too low to have played an important role in Belize's declining fertility. As the graph below shows the contraceptive prevalence rate never exceeded 56% and for the past decade has been below 30%. The abortion rate, at c. 12%, is even less important, which leaves only covert chemical poisoning.

Belize is in stage three of the demographic transition.

President Boni,

Re: depopulation measures

Benin has not joined the Global Depopulation Policy despite being independent from France since 1960 and becoming a UN member state the same year. This puts Benin in the fortunate position of being able to pursue open population control without having to first confess to having committed genocide.

Considering that Benin's population grew from 2.5 million in 1960 to nearly 10 million today and that the total fertility rate is nearly unchanged at 5.5 children per woman, no one can question the need for population control in Benin. This being the case, Benin can pursue population control openly, legally and fairly by legislating replacement level fertility. Of course, Benin will not be able to accomplish this without first changing the entire international order, which is based on covert depopulation measures and coerced globalization. How to reform the UN so that we can save our children from genocide and have genuine international peace and not just peace by poison, I describe in my recently published book, The Future of Global Governance.

I hope that you will support my effort to reform the UN system by empowering your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Zinsou, to call for reform. I also hope that you will use my work to educate your people of why they need to assume control over their reproductive systems. You will find my work free of cost here:

Benin's growing urbanization and accessibility to contraceptives and education in the cities are mostly responsible for the decline in fertility from a peak of 7 children per woman from 1975 to 1985 to 5.5 today.

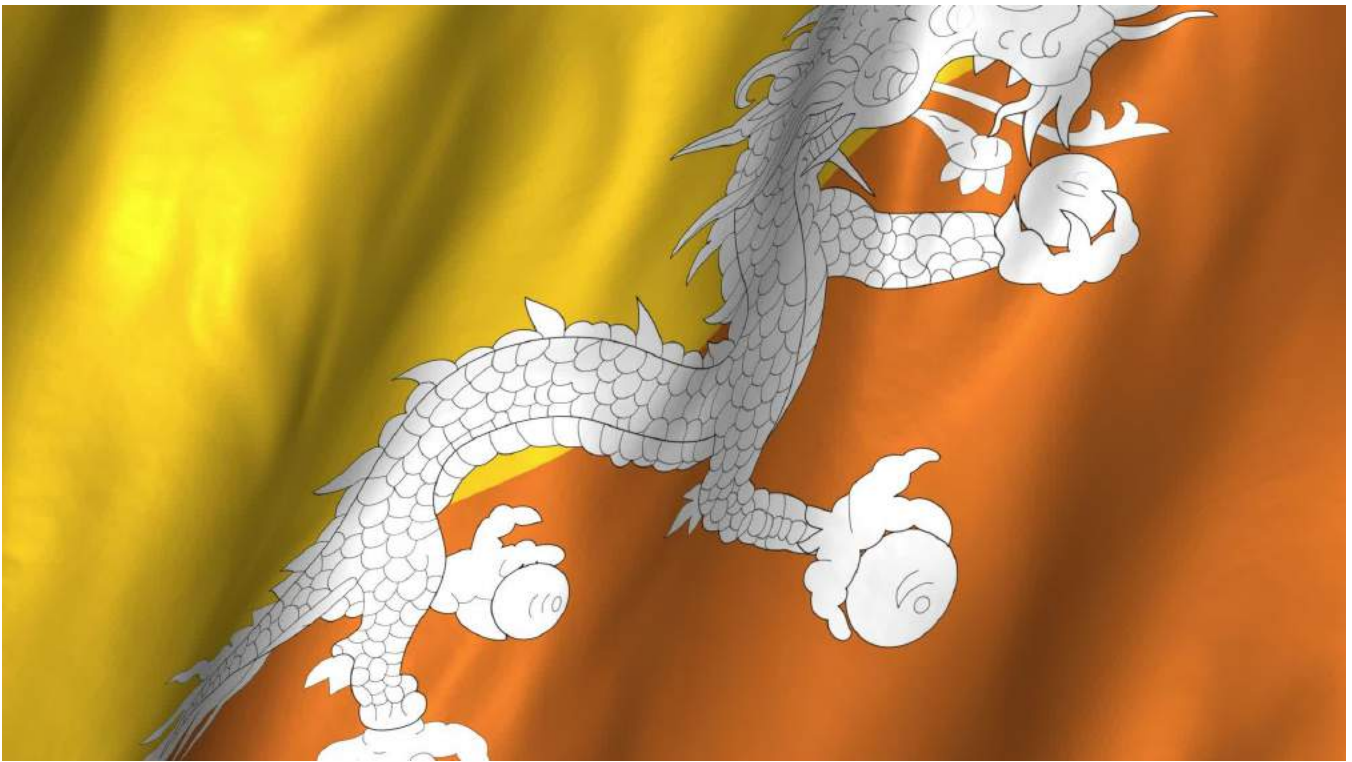

Benin's leaders deserve credit for protecting their people from the poisonous methods of depopulation conceived by the UN and its western sponsors. They cannot however ignore population growth much longer and must proactively start to reduce the total fertility rate by open, legal and ethical means.

The international community has occasionally managed to chip away at fertility in Benin by underhanded means but there is no evidence to suggest that it has done so with the government's knowledge and consent. The reason I assert this is because it would have been impossible to accomplish a decline from 7 to 5.5 children per woman with a contraceptive prevalence rate as low as Benin's. As the data shows, Benin's contraceptive prevalence rate has yet to reach 20%.

King Wangchuck and Prime Minister Tobgay,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Bhutan joined the UN in 1972 and the Global Depopulation Policy in 1985 and has used coerced surgical sterilization (and more recently sterilizing vaccines) to bring the country's total fertility rate from 6.7 children per woman prior to 1980 down to 2 children per woman today.

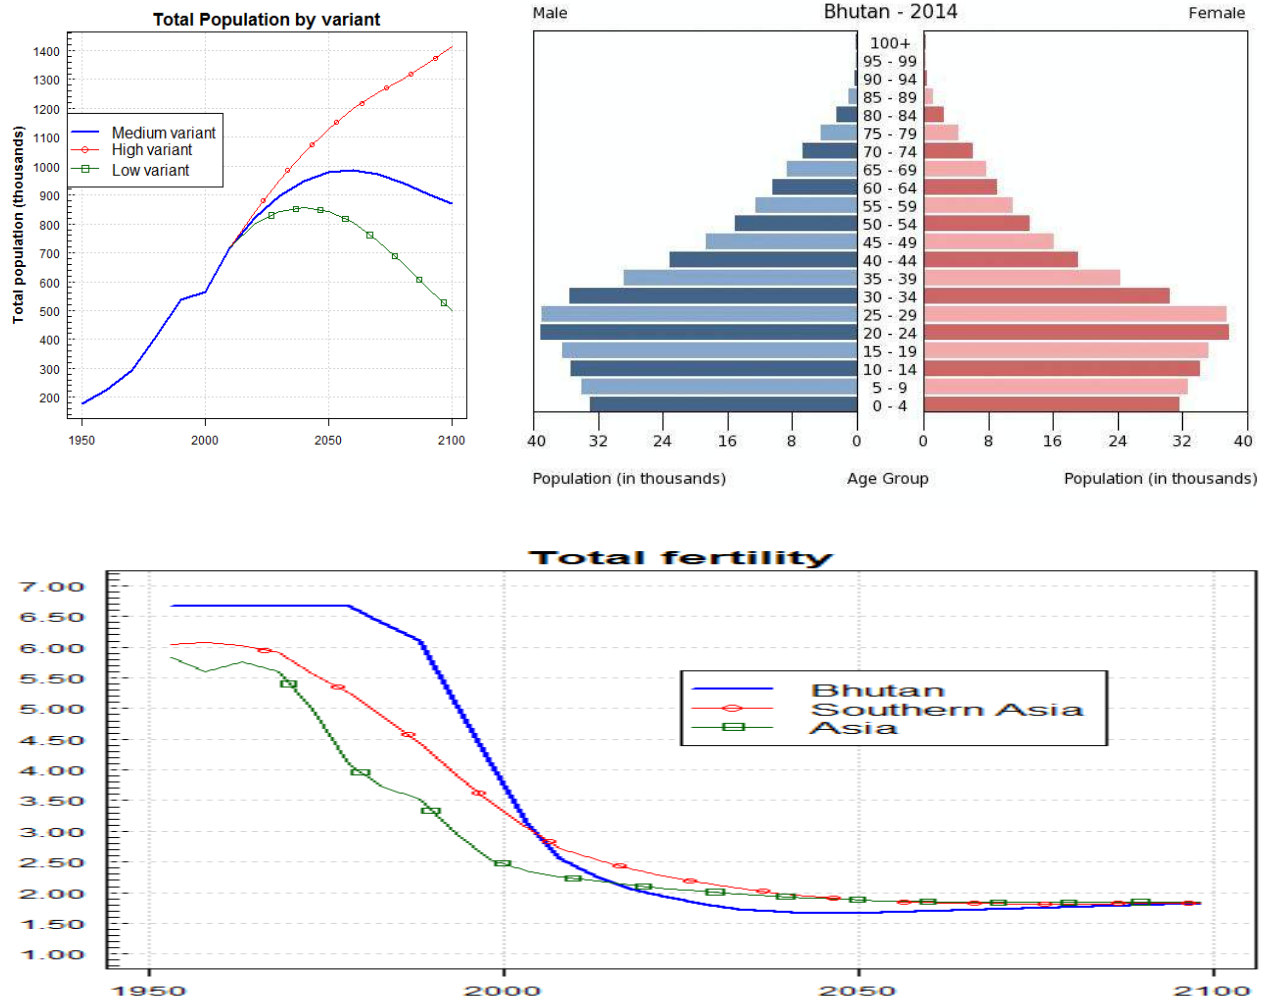

Given that Bhutan's population had tripled since 1960, that the country is landlocked and underdeveloped, and that the UN and the international community offered development aid and easy money, I can understand why the leadership succumbed to the international system of genocide. I applaud you however for resisting pressure to poison your people with endocrine disruptors and to instead use the more humane method of coerced surgical sterilization to achieve necessary demographic objectives before resource pressures become acute.

With a population density of only 18 people per km² Bhutan is among the most sparsely populated countries on earth (196th out of 242 countries and dependent territories) and in no need for extra-judicial and immoral methods of population control. It is laudable that your country has taken early measures to control population growth, but I urge you to use legal and ethical means for this effort rather than continue to coerce people into replacement level fertility by illegal and unethical means.

I am in the process of forging global consensus for worldwide population control legislation and you could help me by being the first country in Asia to do so. I look forward to travelling to Bhutan to advise you on how best to proceed and to enlist your help in saving humankind from genocide.

Sincerely,

King Jigme Singye Wangchuck (1972-2006) is responsible for signing up Bhutan to the Global Depopulation Policy in the early 1980s. His son and current King of Bhutan, Jigme Khesar Namgyel Wangchuck (since December 2006), has continued the population control program started by his father with the assistance of the UN.

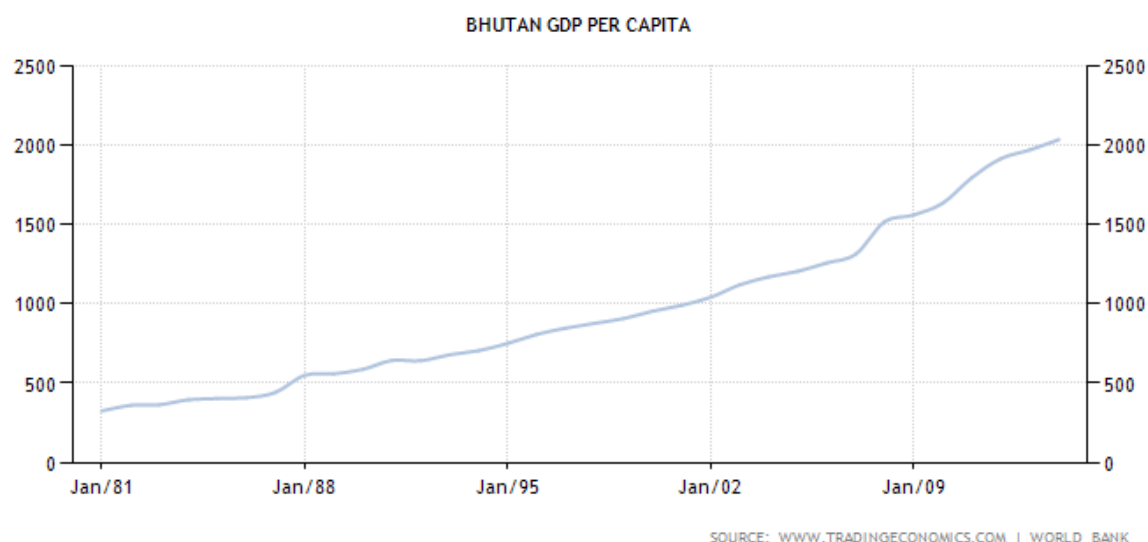

Bhutan's total fertility graph shows that its leaders have resisted pressure from the international community to subvert their people's reproductive rights a decade longer than their neighbors in Southern Asia. This is undoubtedly to the credit of Bhutan's royal house, which has the people's best interests at heart and has long pursued policies that increase happiness and wellbeing rather than GDP growth.

Bhutan's leaders, however, have caved in and fertility has been reduced from nearly 7 to just 2 children per woman without abortions or contraceptives since the contraceptive prevalence rate in Bhutan was insignificant until recently and abortions are extremely rare.

The rise in the contraceptive prevalence rate from 36% to 66% since 2008 signals a genuine effort on the part of the current king to shift from covert chemical poisoning to voluntary use of contraceptives.

Bhutan's GDP per capita began rising as soon as its fertility rate began decreasing in the 1980s and has experienced the fastest growth since 2007, which is when Bhutan's total fertility rate sunk below 2.5 children per woman, therefore approaching replacement level.

Bhutan is in the third stage of the demographic transition.

President Morales,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Bolivia is one of only a handful of countries that has long resisted pressure from the genocidal lobby that operates from the UN with the backing of powerful banking and corporate interests primarily from the U.S. and the U.K. and secondarily from western Europe. Nevertheless, even Bolivia adopted covert depopulation by fluoridated salt, which is the least harmful method but still unlawful and immoral.

You are a good president, a people's president, and one of my favorite presidents and I trust that you will heed my warning and follow my lead to help forge global consensus for worldwide legislation to restrict family size and thus shut down all covert methods of depopulation that are genocidal and threaten the very survival of the human species.

Vilifying the Americans will not preserve the world's people from the scourge of overpopulation and its side effects: poverty, pollution, famine, disease, misery and ultimately chaos and perhaps even nuclear annihilation. For better or worse, the U.S. has delayed and minimized these inevitable global outcomes by playing a role that nobody wanted but that in the absence of concerted international action someone had to assume for the good of all people on earth.

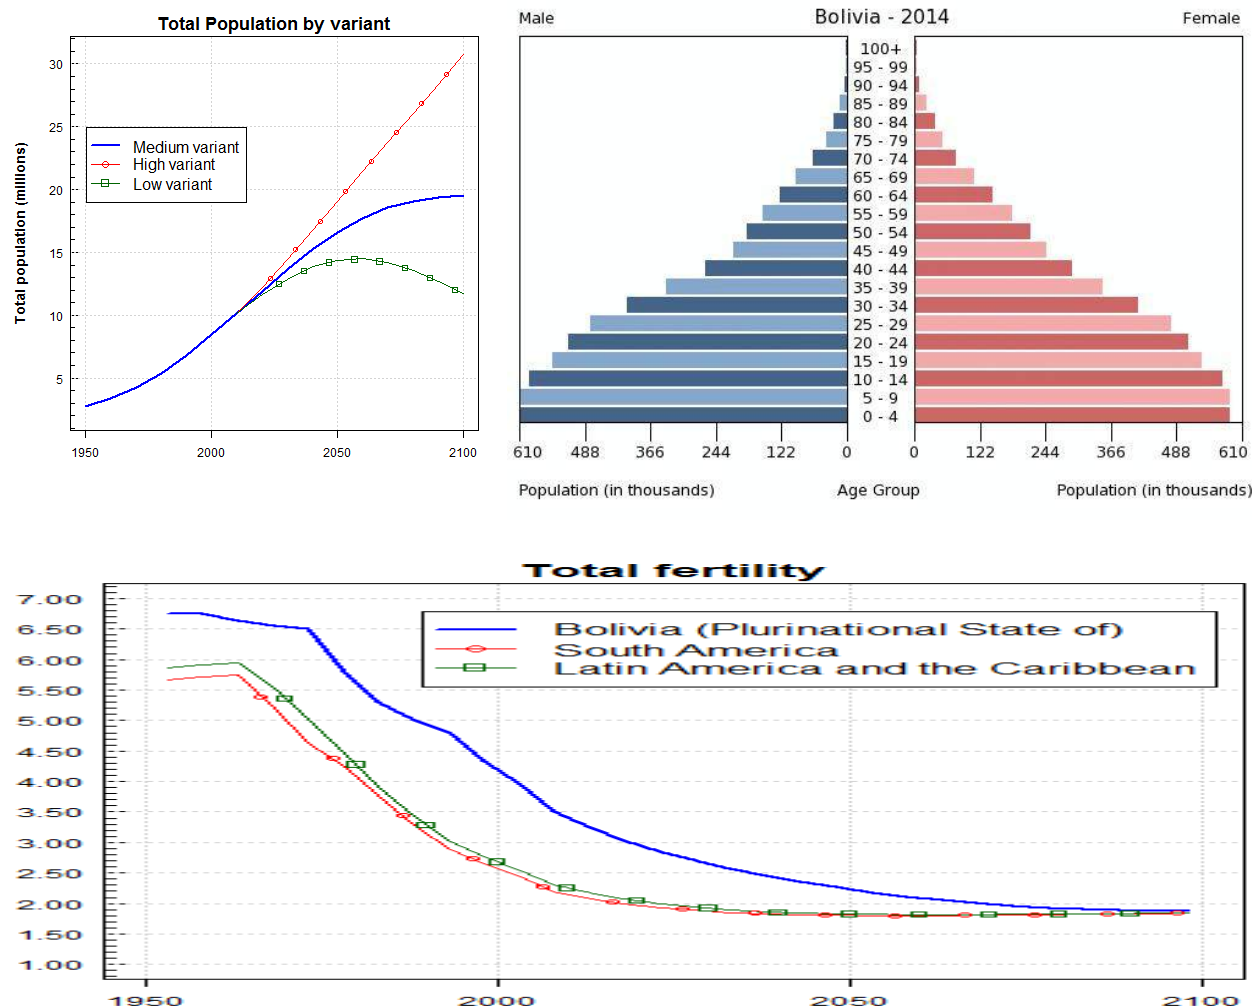

Depopulation and globalization are unfortunately absolutely necessary to preserve international peace and ensure universal prosperity but the methods employed are diabolical and therefore wrong. These methods, however, have come to be by default, because the good people of the world have failed to assume responsibility and to lead. It is therefore up to each and every one of us to provide a better alternative and to be able to do this I am soliciting the help of every head of state to forge global consensus for worldwide legislation for population control so as to bring this planetary security prerogative back within the rule of law and the people's oversight.

I stand by to fly to Bolivia to speak with you in person, should you wish to take a leading global role in the fight to preserve our humanity, our freedoms, our dignity and our planet.

Sincerely,

Center of Global Consciousness

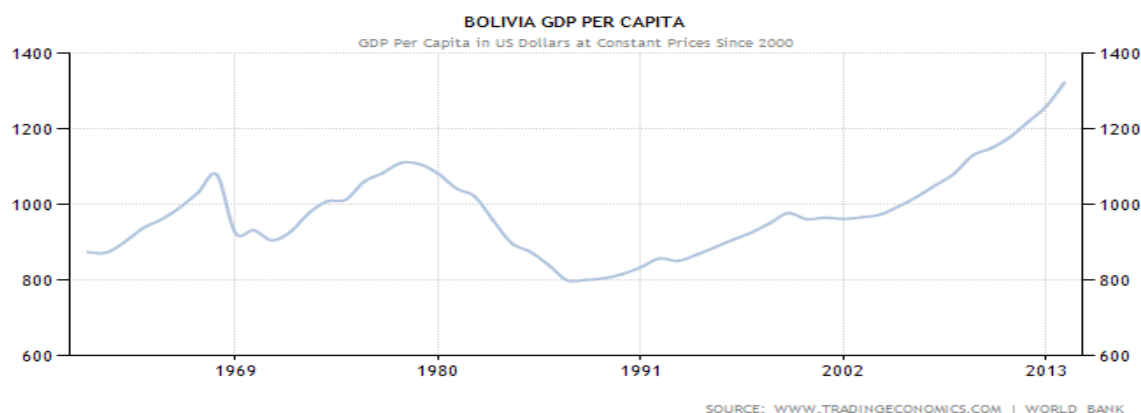

Despite being a UN founding member, Bolivia did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1973, just two years after General Hugo Banzer (1971-78, 1997-2001) seized power with help from the Nixon administration and became president and dictator of Bolivia. Undoubtedly under pressure from Nixon, Rockefeller and Kissinger, the trinity responsible for imposing genocide in the western hemisphere, General Banzer began sterilizing his people.

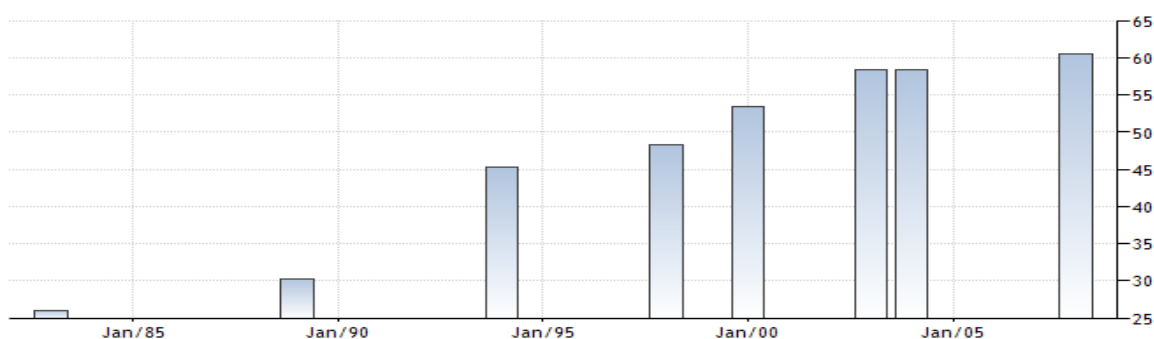

The program of population control has remained in place to this day but has proceeded with far more care and circumspection than elsewhere in South America except Ecuador. To date the following presidents have undermined their people's reproductive rights: Juan Pereda (1978-1978), David Padilla (1978-1979), Wálter Guevara (1979-1979), Lidia Gueiler Tejada (1979-1980), Luis García Meza Tejada (1980-1981), Celso Torrelio (1981-1982), Hernán Siles Zuazo (1982-1985), V́ctor Paz Estenssoro (1985-1989), Jaime Paz Zamora (1989-1993), Gonzalo Sánchez de Lozada (1993-1997, 2002-2003), Jorge Quiroga (2001-2002), Carlos Mesa (2003-2005), Eduardo Rodríguez (2005-2006), and the incumbent Evo Morales (since January 2006).

To impose salt fluoridation on the Bolivian people, General Hugo Morales was made president a second time by his American sponsors and served his second term from 1997 to 2001. In 1999, in the middle of his second term in office, he began fluoridating the country's salt to poison his people into infertility just as the World Health Organization (WHO) and its smaller sister, the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), advise countries in Latin America to do because salt fluoridation is a far cheaper method of mass sterilization than water fluoridation.

Bolivia's total fertility rate has decreased from nearly 7 children per woman prior to 1973 to 2.8 children per woman today and as the country's fertility continues to decline its GDP continues to increase.

Since the turn of the 21st century, Bolivia's presidents have made great efforts to increase contraceptive use so they can eventually shut down sterilization by fluoridated salt. To accomplish this, however, the contraceptive prevalence rate would have to climb to 90% and be buttressed by clear legislation limiting family size. So far it has reached 60%.

Abortion plays no role in Bolivia's fertility decline since it is illegal and performed only in cases of rape, incest or to protect a woman's life.

President Ivanić and Prime Minister Bevanda,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Bosnia and Herzegovina joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1956, while a part of former Yugoslavia, and its total fertility rate decreased from 4.8 children per woman prior to 1955, to replacement level in 1979, and to just 1.3 today.

The population grew from 2.6 million in 1950 to a peak of 4.2 million in 1991. Through war (1992-1995), emigration and negative birth rates the population has declined to 3.8 million today. The decline is accelerating since 2007 and in 2013 Bosnia and Herzegovina lost nearly 5,000 people due to low birth rates, a decline that is projected to continue until the end of the 21st century, at which time the population will have sunk below 2 million.

As throughout Europe, the decline in fertility was accomplished through fluoridation. In the former Yugoslavia people were made to ingest fluoride in the form of food supplements. Since 1996, the reproductive systems of the Bosnian people is being subverted, as elsewhere in Europe, through the universal adulteration of food and beverages with endocrine disruptors (fluoride; bisphenol A, S and F; artificial sweeteners), which is why the total fertility rate has declined so far below replacement level.

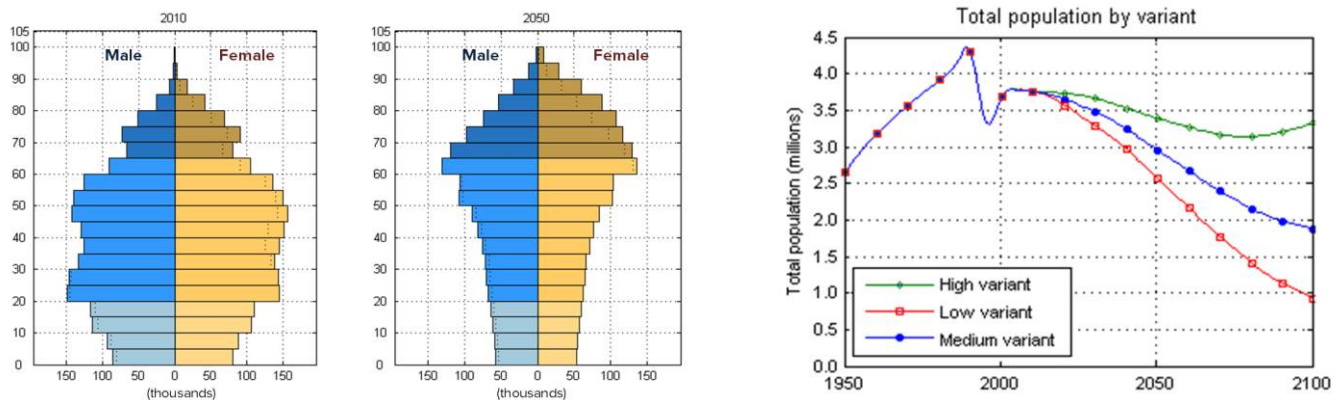

If your administration continues this engineered genocide, half of all Bosnians will be infertile by the middle of this century and all Bosnians will be infertile by the end of the century. The same statistics will apply for chronic morbidity. Of course, unless you change course immediately, none of Europe's leaders will be alive ten years from now since they will have all been executed for crimes against humanity and genocide.

This is the first and last warning you will receive and the only chance you will have to change course and save your lives and the lives of your people. To understand just how precarious the situation is I encourage you to read my books and view my videos and to disseminate this material to the general public through the state-owned media. I provide it free of cost here:

Otherwise, you can get an idea of where your country is heading by simply looking at the latest UN projections in the graphs below.

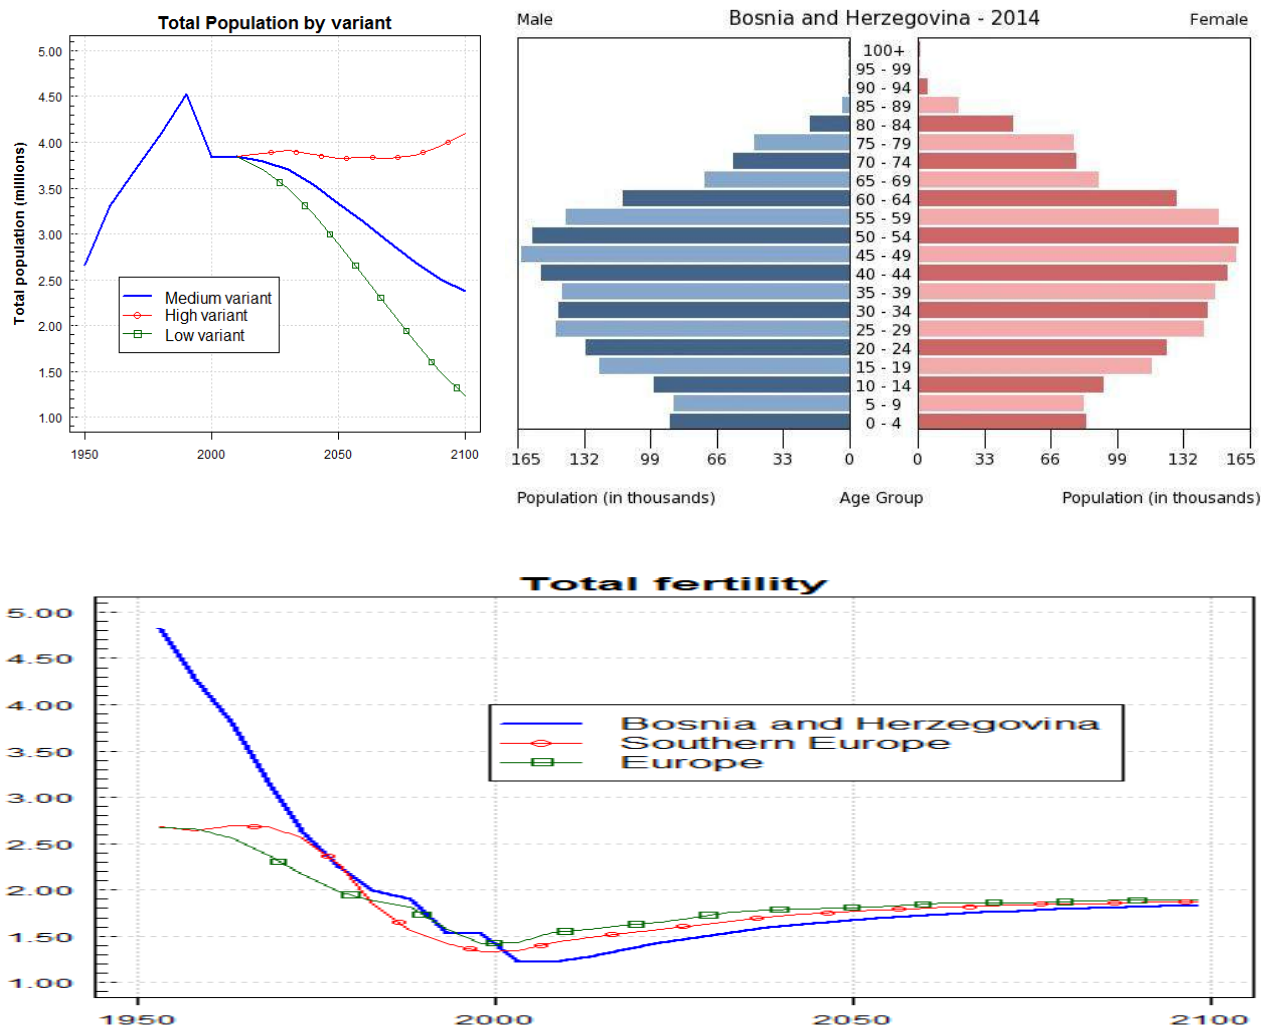

If you want to prevent the annihilation of your people, and your own untimely deaths, I suggest you also order Ambassador Čolaković to demand a vote in the UN General Assembly that would declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law.

Surely you must understand that we, the people, will not allow a self-serving political and administrative elite to poison us into extinction and to sicken our children. If you are so far removed from reality as to fail to understand that we have the legal right and moral responsibility to protect our offspring by any means necessary then you will suffer untold misery and deservedly so.

If you wake up now and immediately change course we, the people, will forgive and forget. And I will help you in any way I can and will travel to your country to advise you on how best to proceed.

Responsible for Bosnia's early participation in the Global Depopulation Policy is Marshal Josip Broz Tito, President of the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia from 1953 to 1980.

Since independence in 1991, responsibility for the covert depopulation program has passed to the Ministry of Health and it is doubtful that the diffuse and inconsequential executive leadership of Bosnia and Herzegovina is even aware that their people are being poisoned into sterility and early death, especially since this is being accomplished through imported western European beverages and food.

At 46% the contraceptive prevalence rate is far too low to explain the country's sub-replacement lever fertility. At 1.4 abortions for every 1,000 women, the abortion rate is also a non-factor in the country's fertility decline.

<http://www.gov.bw/en/Footer/Contact-us/?FromPageID=1655>

President Khama

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Botswana was brought into the Global Depopulation Policy in 1975 and its total fertility rate dropped from 6.5 children per woman to 2.4 today. This reduction was accomplished with sterilizing vaccines and sterilizing oral contraceptives. Even so the population has increased from 300.000 in 1950 to 2.1 million as of 2014, a sevenfold increase. Having stopped the population explosion from the front end of life, by subverting fertility, the depopulation lobby set out to stop it also from the back end of life by increasing mortality and unleashed the human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) on the African population towards the end of the 1970s. By the end of the 1980s the lifespan of your people began to rapidly decrease due to the AIDS epidemic and within 25 years it went from 61 years in 1985 down to 35 years in 2006 and has since bounced back up to 54 years.

To date, more than a quarter of your people are AIDS infected; the second highest infection rate in the world after Swaziland.

While it remains one of the most sparsely populated countries on earth, with a population density of just 3.4 people per km², the ecosystem is under great stress because 70% of Botswana's land surface is occupied by the Kalahari Desert. This fragile land is overexploited by grazing, the livestock population having increased from 1.5 million in 1960 to 6 million animals today, the result of which your country now suffers from drought, desertification and soil erosion. More alarmingly, three quarters of your people depend on dwindling groundwater reservoirs as there is hardly any surface water available.

Botswana, however, is well placed to tackle its population and resource scarcity problems through legal and moral means because it has the highest Human Development Index and one of the highest living standards of Sub-Saharan Africa, enjoys political stability since its independence and has a functioning democracy.

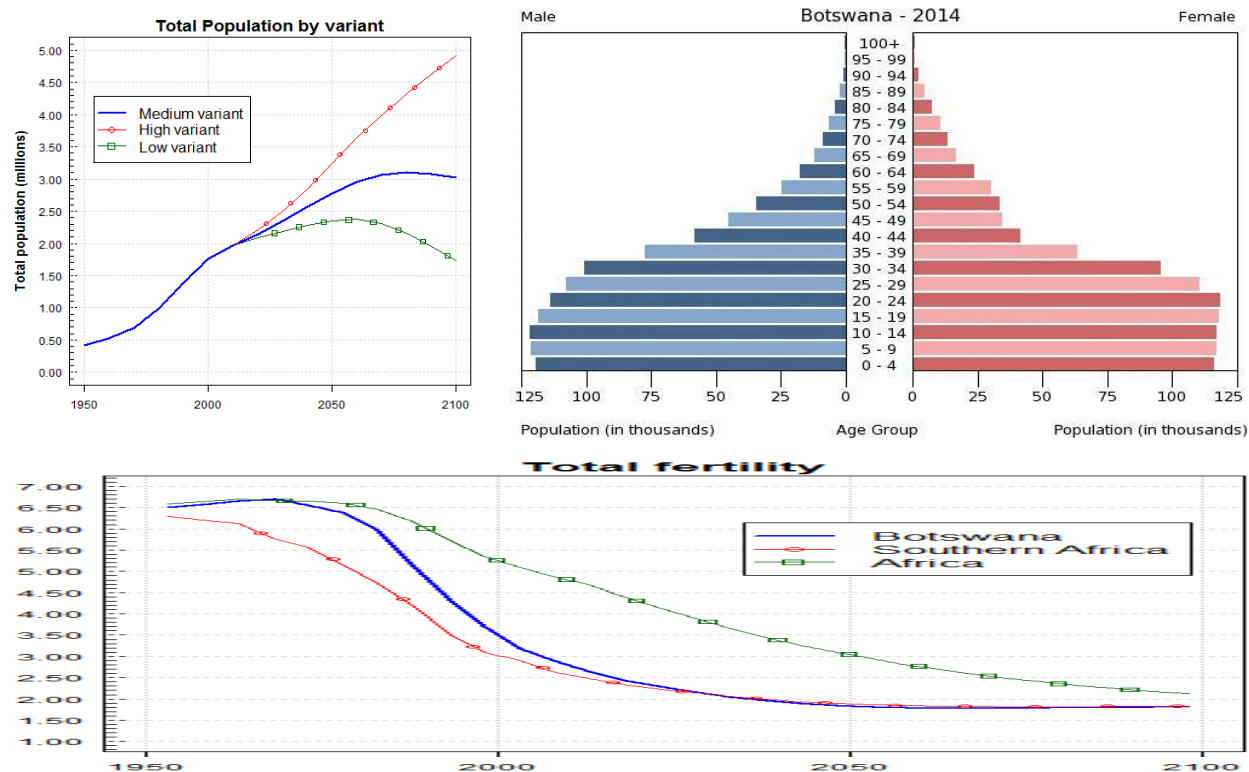

But instead of using your political and human assets to solve your nation's problems you have accepted the West's covert methods of depopulation and are subverting your people's fertility under the pretext of combatting the HIV/AIDS epidemic and with the aid of genocidal organizations such as the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation and the Merck Foundation.

You can continue on this path and irreversibly damage the health of your people and their genetic endowment, as well as perverting the rule of law and destroying democracy, or you can join me to forge global consensus for a worldwide population control law that restricts families to two children, thus to replacement level fertility.

For your own sake and especially for the sake of your people, I hope you will choose the latter. If you do, I stand by to advise you on how to accomplish your socioeconomic aspirations, preserve your national and personal integrity, and fulfill your international responsibilities without waging an undeclared war of attrition on your own people.

Responsibility for introducing population control measures in Botswana falls on its first President, Sir Seretse Khama (1966-1980), who proceeded gingerly and mostly by providing family planning services. Upon the death of Seretse Khama, however, Quett Masire (1980-1998) was elected president and he allowed the UN and international NGOs to ravage the people's fertility by covert and involuntary means. The program has been continued but with less fervor by President Festus Mogae (1998-2008) and the incumbent President Ian Khama (since April 2008), who is incidentally the son of Seretse Khama.

The last two presidents have made great efforts to increase contraceptive use in the hope of eventually replacing sterilizing vaccines, but for the time being to mask their use. Abortion is illegal (and restricted to saving the life or health of the woman, fetal impairment, rape and incest) and not statistically significant.

Botswana is in stage three of the demographic transition.

Thank you for the tacit assistance your administration has given me through the Brazilian civil society to ensure that I have a secure website to inform the people of the world about the lethal threat they face. Most of all, thank you for heeding my calls and taking immediate steps to protect your people from covert depopulation through GMOs.

The world looks with anticipation at your nation in the hope of seeing that you terminate the use of all covert depopulation measures, including endocrine disruptors. The people of the world applaud Brazil's cooperation with Russia, China, India and South Africa in creating a development bank and a reserve fund independent of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, which serve as tools of monetary coercion to western interests and are using debt to create artificial scarcity and condemn countless millions to starvation.

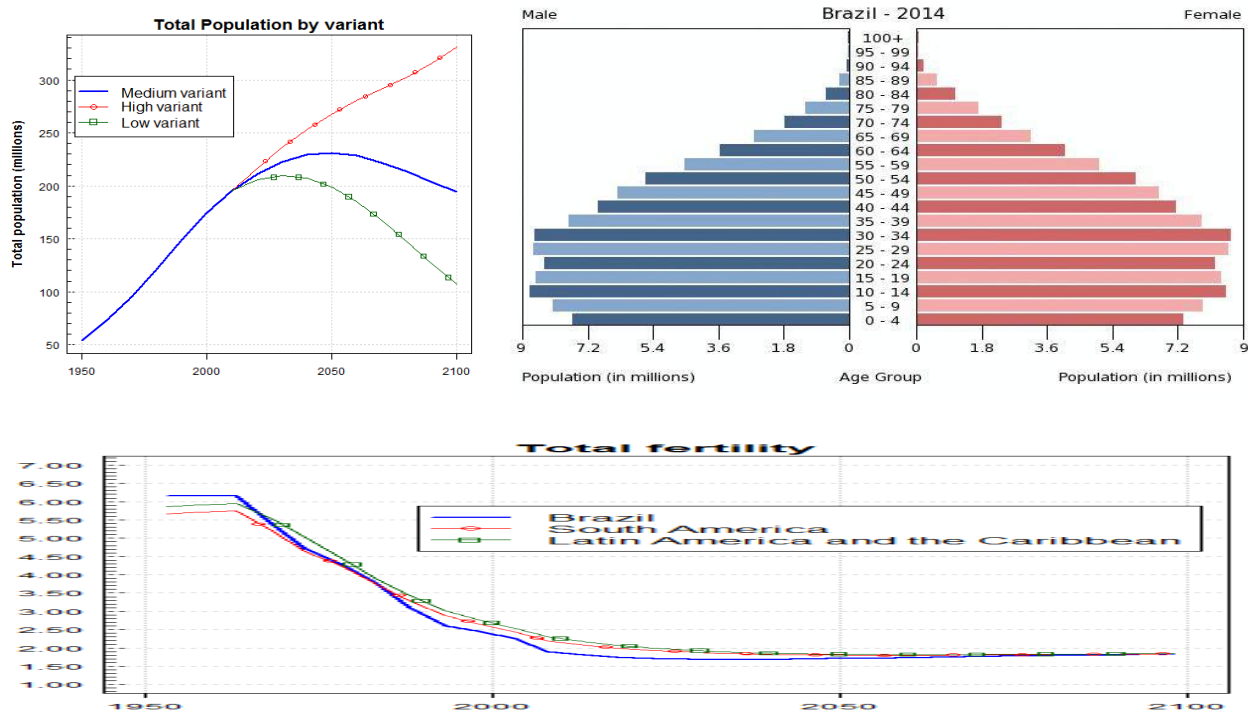

I look forward to meeting with you to discuss how to free the international framework for peace of covert methods of depopulation that constitute genocide and cause untold misery and suffering worldwide. Lethal structural violence as a substitute to war is not peace and is not decent. It is beyond contempt and unworthy of savages let alone civilized human beings.

The people of the western world are beleaguered and betrayed by the very people and institutions we have entrusted with our rights and liberties and who have instead set themselves above the law to deprive us even of the right to life and to do it in the most dishonorable and diabolical fashion possible, by covertly poisoning us into extinction.

Brazil has a unique opportunity to help save the world from self-destruction. I hope you will not make the fatal mistake of failing to avail yourself of this opportunity. It will not come again.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Brazil is a UN founding member but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1965. As a result, its total fertility rate declined from more than 6 children per woman prior to 1965 to just 1.8 today and has been below replacement level since 2001.

Brazil has accomplished this decline through fluoridated water in the cities and fluoride veneer applications by dentists throughout the country, which is why Brazil has far more dentists per capita than any other Latin American country and nearly four times more dentists than Canada or the US. Brazil also mandates fluoride in bottled water so that its citizens cannot escape the sterilization program by drinking bottled water.

To be able to institute covert depopulation measures, the architects of the Global Depopulation Policy in the U.S., U.K., the Soviet Union and at the U.N. needed to install a military dictatorship in Brazil. Field Marshal Castelo Branco was therefore encouraged to seize power in 1964 through a coup d'état and as soon as he became President and assumed emergency powers under the First Institutional Act he began poisoning his people with fluoridated water.

His military dictatorship was bankrolled by the World Bank, the IMF and various American corporations involved in the Global Depopulation Policy. Branco's military dictatorship was propagated until all opposition to covert depopulation measures had been silenced.

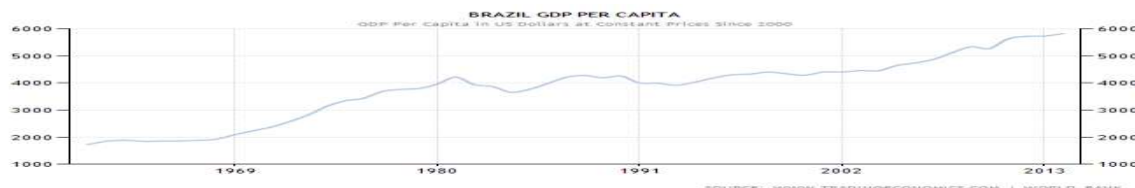

The covert depopulation program was continued, accelerated and intensified by Army General Artur da Costa e Silva from 1967 to 1969, by the Brazilian Military Junta of 1969, by Army General Emílio Garrastazu Médici from 1969 to 1974, by Army General Ernesto Geisel from 1974 to 1979, and finally by Army General and former Chief of the Secret Service João Figueiredo from 1979 to 1985, all of whom served as presidents of Brazil during this two-decade-long military dictatorship placed in power specifically to commit genocide in the name of the UN-delegated and western-financed Global Depopulation Policy.

Once the depopulation program was firmly entrenched and all opposition to it eliminated, the military dictators were replaced with Brazil's oligarchs in 1985 when José Sarney became president of Brazil and continued to poison his people with the same fervor as the generals before him. Sarney was followed by the first president of Brazil directly elected by the people, Fernando Collor de Mello (1990-1992), then by Itamar Franco (1992-1995), both of whom continued to poison the Brazilian people with abandon.

Brazil's covert depopulation program did not ease up until Fernando Henrique Cardoso, a noted sociologist, was elected president in 1995. The program was further humanized by Luiz Inácio Lula da Silva (2003-2011), the founder of the Worker's Party, who was elected President in 2003 and finally sidelined the country's parasitical elites from power. Nevertheless covert depopulation continued under President Lula and continues to this day under incumbent President Dilma Rousseff (in office since January 2011).

As elsewhere, Brazil has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing GDP. As soon as fertility began declining in 1965 the GDP began increasing.

The steepest fertility decline took place from 1965 to 1990 when Brazil's contraceptive prevalence rate was on average below 40% and could therefore not have been a factor. Since Cardoso's presidency, the government has made great efforts to increase contraceptive use, which is now at 80%, but has yet to stop covert chemical poisoning.

Abortion is not a factor since it is illegal and allowed only in cases of rape or to save a woman's life. The World Bank deliberately inflates the number of illegal abortions in order to help the government of Brazil conceal its secret program of sterilization.

Brazil is in stage four of the demographic transition.

NATION OF BRUNEI, THE ABODE OF PEACE

Sultan Bolkiah,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

You are a big fish in a small pond, wasting your nation's oil and gas wealth on personal whims like your 1800 room palace and your 3000 strong luxury car collection, changing your wives like dirty shirts, declaring yourself infallible, fleecing the state coffers, relying on the British monarchy and navy to keep you in power, bestowing on yourself just about every title and high office in the nation, and pretending to be a God-fearing man when in reality you are nothing but a hypocrite; all the while poisoning your people with fluoridated water to subvert their fertility and induce their obedience.

As a result, Brunei's total fertility rate has declined from 6 children per woman in 1967, when you inherited the sultanate from your father, to only 2 today. Thanks to your chosen method of population control, Brunei's children are among the sickest in Asia and almost a quarter of them are obese because you have shattered their endocrine systems.

You started using fluoridation to undermine your people's fertility, and with it their health, in 1987, having learned it from your British masters, and if you continue in this fashion you will turn your people into walking dead, just like the West has done, and then you will no longer be a big fish in a small pond, but a lone fish in a dead pond and you will have no one to wash and polish your countless Lamborghinis, Ferraris, Bentleys and Rolls-Royces.

Since I have exposed the covert methods of depopulation used by the world's elites on the hapless global population your days are numbered unless you change course immediately and apologize to your 415,000 people. Yes, Brunei and every country on earth must stabilize and even reduce the population to a sustainable level but not by covert poisoning as by overt legislation.

Since you are Sultan, Prime Minister, President, Minister of Defense, Minister of Finance, Head of Islam, Head of Customs, Supreme Commander of the Royal Brunei Armed Forces, Inspector General of the Royal Brunei Police Force and God knows what other empty honorific title you have bedecked yourself with, it should be a walk in the park for you to pass a law that restricts family size to two children in Brunei.

This will allow Brunei to fulfill its international obligations as a UN Member State and protect the people's bodies and minds, rights and liberties, dignity and norms. For your own sake and for the sake of your people, I suggest you do this sooner rather than later. It would also help if you returned the US$24 billion that you have misappropriated from the people back to the people. No human being needs such obscene wealth. It is an offence to God and an offence to man.

So instead of talking nonsense about instituting Sharia law to protect the people from bad influence from the Internet, look in the mirror and practice some introspection and you will discover that your people need to be protected from your ineptitude and greed.

It may help you to know that you are not the only head of state that I have exposed, but just one of many: <https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>. It may also help you to know that I am in the process of forging global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide as a Planetary Security Prerogative. You could redeem yourself by helping me make this global law a reality so that no leader has to ever again poison his people.

Sincerely,

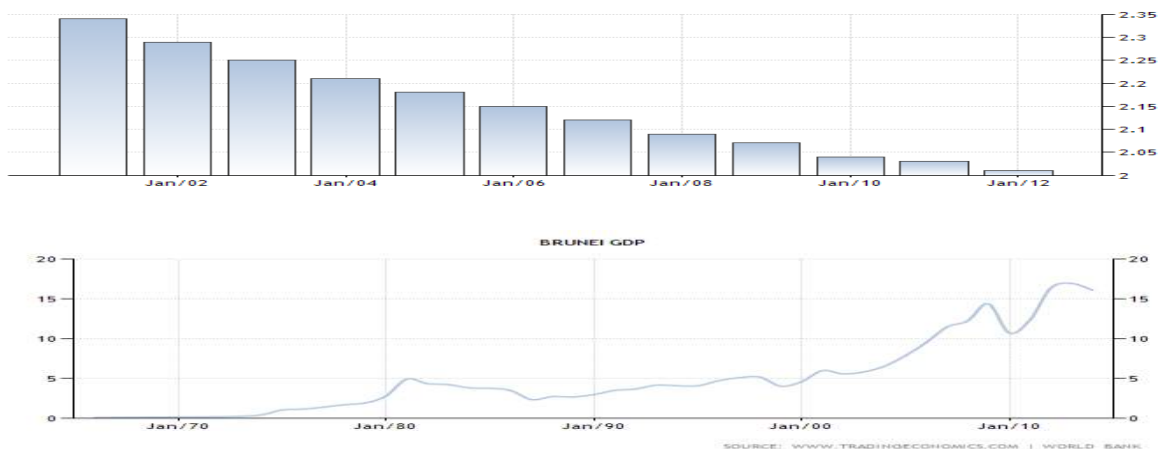

Kevin Galalae

Hassanal Bolkiah, the current Sultan of Brunei, is responsible for introducing covert depopulation measures in Brunei as soon as he inherited power from his father in 1967, a full 17 years before Brunei ceased to be a British Protectorate and became a UN member state. As a result, the total fertility rate has decreased from 6.5 to 1.8 children per woman.

Despite having the financial means to provide family planning services and free contraceptives to Brunei's small population, as well as the absolute authority to impose family size restrictions and thus pursue population control safely, legally and ethically, Sultan Bolkiah prefers to commit genocide.

The graphs below show that as fertility has gone down (first graph) the GDP has gone up (second graph).

Brunei reached sub-replacement level fertility in 2007 and is in the fourth stage of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF BULGARIA

President Plevneliev and Prime Minister Borisov,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Bulgaria joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1949 and reached below replacement level fertility in 1987. Since 1989, the year when the borders opened to western products, the population has been declining. To date, Bulgaria has lost 1.8 million people or 20% of its population; some to emigration but most due to low fertility rates.

Bulgaria's leaders have made wise decisions in discontinuing milk fluoridation and in 2010 banning GMOs, both of which are methods of depopulation, but have yet to outlaw salt fluoridation or stop giving children fluoride supplements. Until such time, the Bulgarian people will continue to disappear from the face of the earth at the rate of circa 40.000 per year and there will be none left 150 years from now.

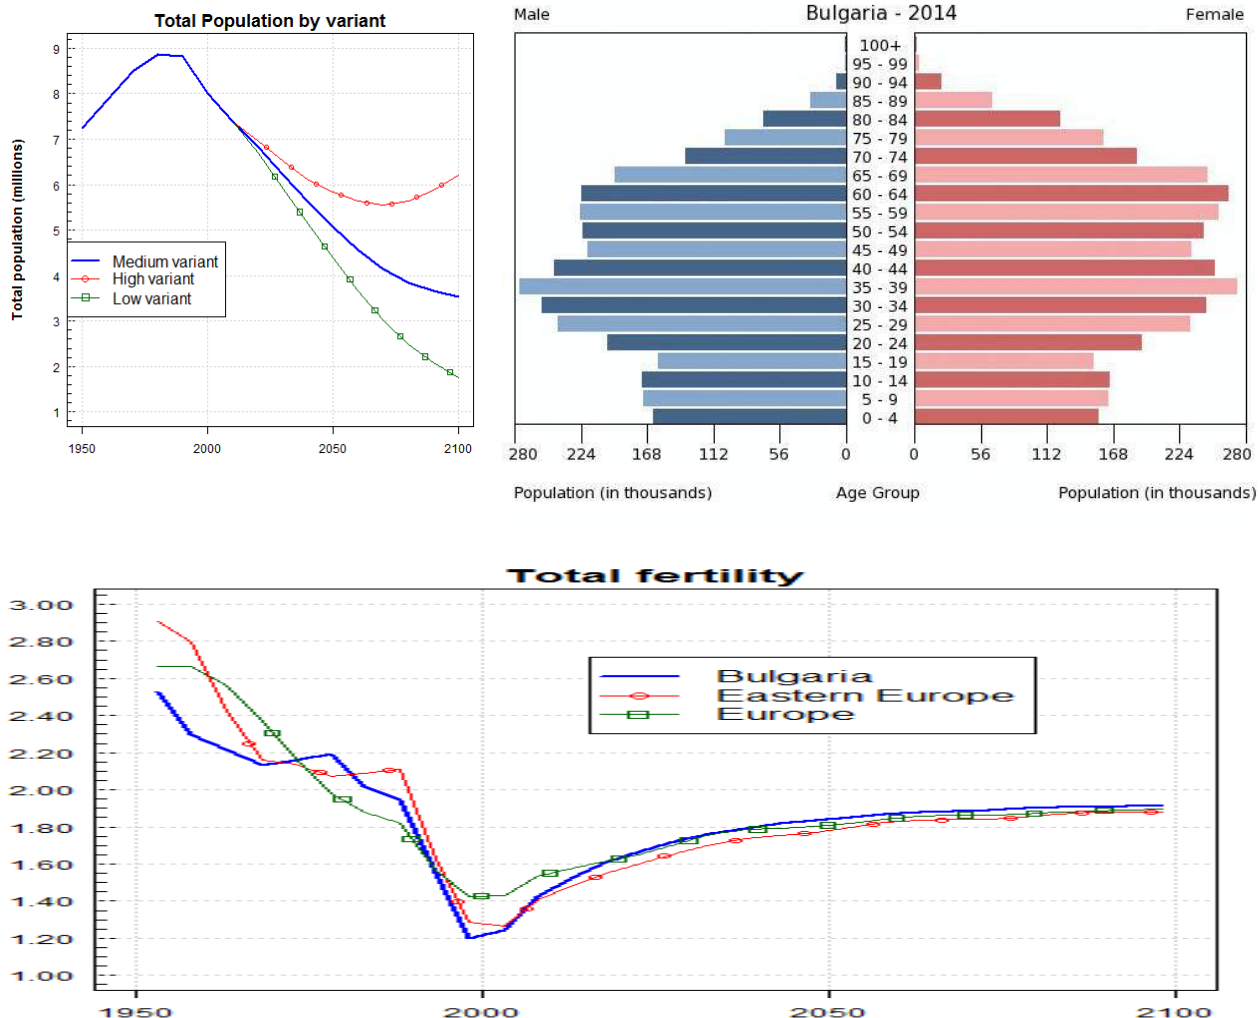

To combat population ageing, the Bulgarian government is allowing NATO to chemspray the population with neurotoxins and endocrine disruptors intended to shorten the lifespan of the elderly so the government can save money. Accelerating this engineered genocide are the adulterated food imports from Western Europe which are laced with endocrine disruptors in order to keep the Bulgarian people sterile or sub-fertile as well as increase morbidity and mortality. Annual flu vaccines complete the genocide.

You now have the chance to break rank with the genocidal lobby or face the death penalty or worse in the near future. Instead of murdering your own people join me in forging global consensus for legislative means of population control. This will enable your country to fulfill its international obligations with respect to population control as well as safeguard your people's rights, liberties, dignity, and health.

I stand by to fly to Bulgaria to help you become law abiding once again and save your people from genocide.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Bulgaria started depopulation measures in 1949 as soon as Vulko Chervenkov (1949-1956) came to power and 6 years prior to becoming a UN member state. The program was continued by his successor, Todor Zhivkov (1954-1989), until 1968 when he shut it down only to resume it again ten years later and continue it until the end of his presidency in 1989. The last leader of communist Bulgaria, Petar Mladenov (1990-1990), continued where his predecessor left off.

The program of depopulation was accelerated and intensified by the first non-communist president of Bulgaria, Zhelyu Zhelev (1990-1997), and by the end of his presidency the country's total fertility rate fell to the lowest low rate of 1.2 children per woman. Petar Stoyanov (1997-2002), Georgi Parvanov (2002-2012), and the incumbent President of Bulgaria, Rosen Plevneliev (since January 2012), have continued to covertly subvert their people's reproductive rights and to date Bulgaria has one of the lowest fertility rates in the world at 1.4 children per woman.

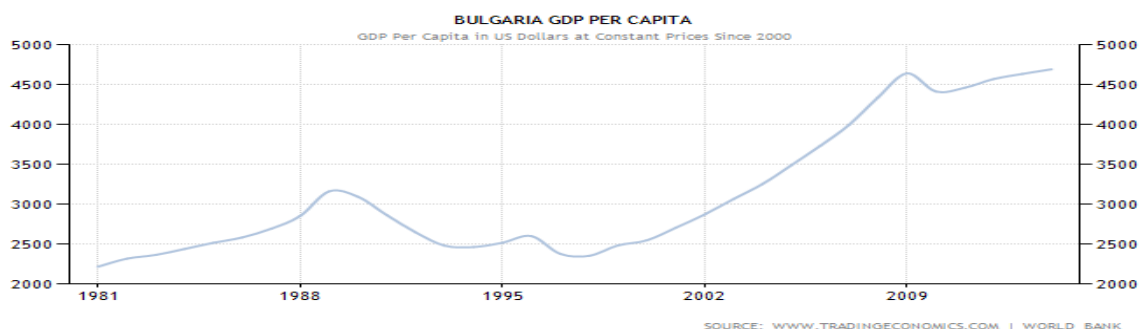

Bulgaria's population has been declining rapidly since abandoning communism due to a toxic mixture of emigration, low fertility rates caused by chronic poisoning with endocrine disruptors and lack of economic security.

The patchy history of Bulgaria's contraceptive prevalence rate reflects the leadership's inept efforts to hide covert poisoning measures. Although contraceptive use has fluctuated wildly (from 86% down to 42% in a single decade) it has had no effect whatsoever on fertility, which has been below replacement level since 1981. Furthermore, the data is corrupted since no country in the world had an 80% contraceptive prevalence rate in 1975, let alone an Eastern European country.

Abortion has played an important role in achieving low fertility but by no means a primary role. That distinction goes to fluoride poisoning. From 1960 to 2000, about half of all pregnancies were terminated by an abortion. Since the turn of the 21st century, the abortion rate has gone down to 30%.

Bulgaria too has been rewarded for its genocidal efforts with a growing GDP. No sooner did Bulgaria reach replacement level fertility in 1979 than its GDP began to rise. The dip during the 1990s marks the transition from a centrally planned to a free market economy. Interestingly, the GDP began to rise again in 1997, which is also the date Bulgaria reached its lowest fertility ever, just 1.09 children per woman.

With a third of all households having only one person and three-quarters of all families without children under the age of 16, Bulgaria is a dying country in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

President Kafando and Prime Minister Zida,

Re: covert depopulation measures

At nearly six children per woman, Burkina Faso has the sixth highest total fertility rate in the world and 65% of its people are under 24 years of age, which ensures rapid population growth for decades to come unless a strict depopulation program is adopted.

Your country's population has quadrupled in the past 60 years and will quadruple again in the next 60 years unless the total fertility rate is brought down to replacement level by all means possible before the country collapses due to poverty and hunger.

The good news is that your people can be the beneficiaries of knowledge acquired by the developed world the hard way; knowledge of how population control should not be attempted because it causes untold damage to human health; knowledge that I have freed from the paranoid hands of an international system that has committed genocide since 1945 to preserve the world from worse; knowledge that you can access and use free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

Beware of any and all offers from the international community to help improve maternal and child help because the vaccines and drugs they will administer your people will be disguised sterilizers. Until such time as the United Nations and its western sponsors bring the depopulation effort out in the open I suggest you politely refuse the double-edged gifts they will so generously offer you.

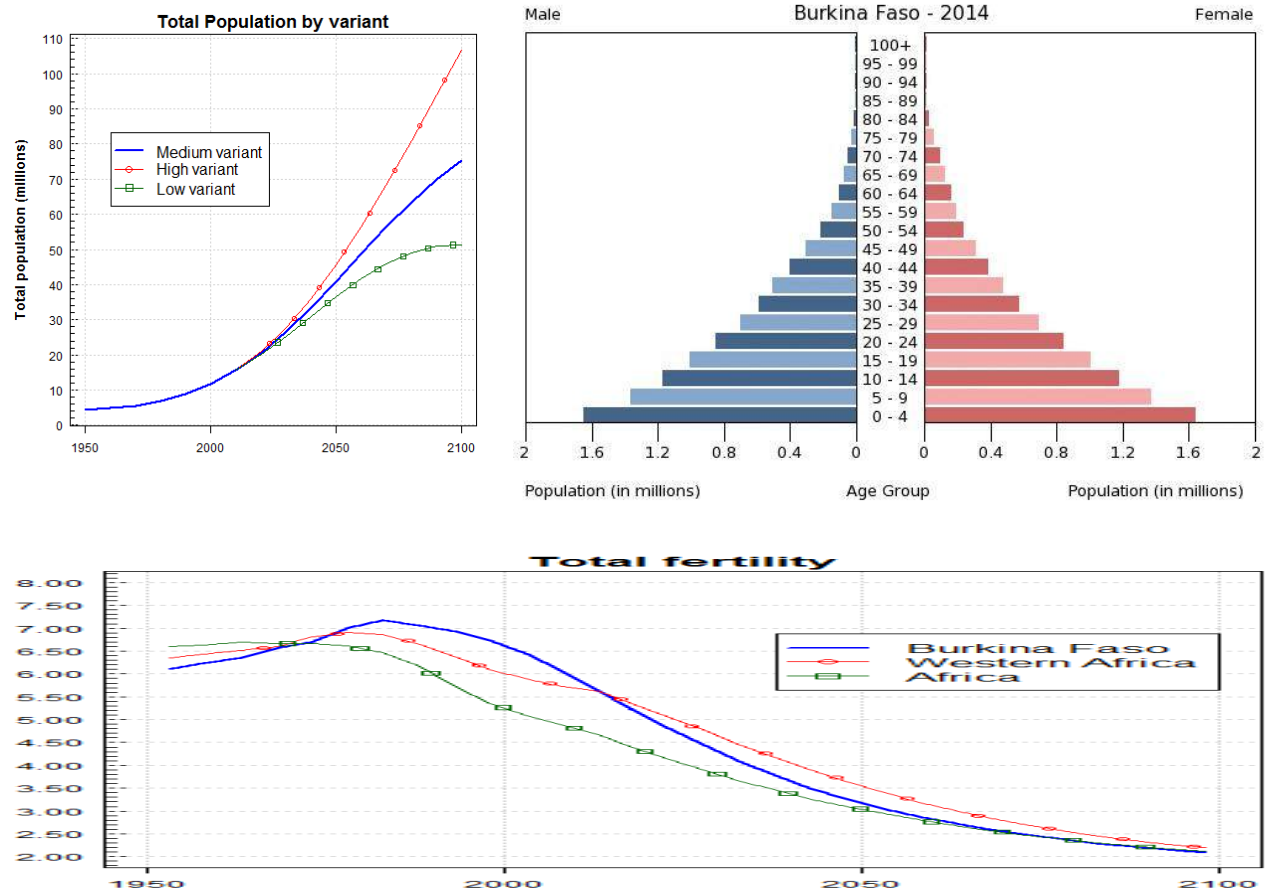

I understand your country is in a difficult political situation, but there is no reason why you should not play an important role in helping me bring honesty, decency and sanity to the global governance level by insisting that replacement level fertility is enshrined in international law as a Planetary Security Prerogative to save what there is left to save of our beautiful planet for our beautiful children.

If you decide to join me on the right side of history, I will help you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

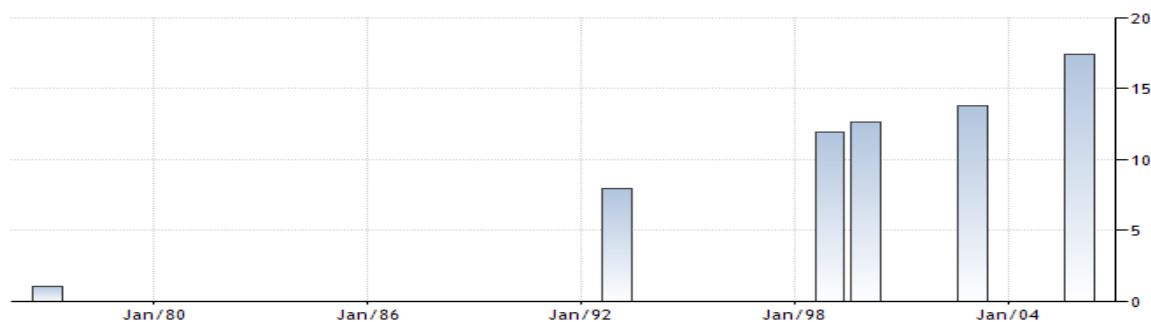

The modest fall in fertility rates from 7.2 children per woman in the 1980s to 6 children per woman today is due to growing urbanization, better education and improved access to contraceptives and not to any deliberate population control program.

Burkina Faso's leaders have not covertly subverted their people's reproductive rights to comply with the UN, which is why the people continue to procreate at natural levels and the country is still poor.

The low contraceptive prevalence rate reflects the modest progress made on fertility.

President Nkurunziza,

Re: covert depopulation measures

Burundi has not joined the Global Depopulation Policy and its total fertility rate remains above 6 children per woman. For the past ten years, however, the international community has been attempting to help Burundi escape the poverty and conflict trap by reducing the people's fertility through sterilizing vaccines (meningococcal, tetanus toxoid, and human papillomavirus vaccines) and sterilizing malaria medicine (Artemisinin).

Given the dire situation of Burundi, caused primarily by overpopulation, and the fight for resources between Tutsis and Hutus, you have no choice but to allow your people's sterilization through adulterated vaccines. With a population density of 315 people per square kilometer, the fifth highest total fertility rate in the world, all of Burundi's land already used for agriculture, a state of complete deforestation of the entire country, 56% of Burundi's children suffering from chronic malnutrition, 80% of Burundi's people living in poverty, heavy dependence on foreign aid, and the lowest satisfaction with life in the world, Burundi stands on the edge of disaster and only the most drastic intervention can pull it back from the brink.

Burundi will know neither peace nor prosperity until such time as replacement level fertility is reached by any means possible as urgently as possible. I therefore urge you to legislate a two-children-policy and to avail yourself of any and all international help to provide your people with the contraceptives and sterilizations necessary to accomplish this goal.

If you do not take this drastic step famine will lead to war and war will lead to more famine and the country will be trapped in a cycle of violence and misery for decades to come. To prevent the collapse of Burundi and contain the misery within the country's borders, the international community will infect your people with a new man-made virus as it did in the 1980s with the HIV/AIDS virus, and as it did recently in West Africa with the Ebola virus.

To help you take proactive measures, I am providing you with my books and videos free of cost so that you may educate yourself and your people of the dangers you face and to choose the least painful way out.

Burundi's leaders are not poisoning their people to infertility but western NGOs and the UN system are attempting to subvert the people's reproductive rights through adulterated vaccines.

Because Burundi has not subverted fertility its GDP has not grown and has in fact decreased. For that is the choice leaders face; either they protect people's reproductive rights and condemn them to poverty or they subvert fertility and achieve prosperity.

King Sihamoni and Prime Minister Sen,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Cambodia joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1985 and its total fertility rate has decreased from 7 children per woman down to 2.4 today. That this decrease has been achieved through covert methods is amply demonstrated by the fact that Cambodia has the lowest contraceptive prevalence rate in Asia, with only 7% coverage in 1995, 18% coverage in 2000 and 27% in 2005 according to government data.

The evidence points towards tetanus toxoid vaccines as the covert method of sterilization used by the Cambodian government and the usual international organizations involved in the depopulation agenda. Since 2008 your government has also added fluoridated salt to the arsenal of covert population control. And of course your people's fertility is being subverted by soft drinks and food imports from western companies that add endocrine disruptors either during the manufacturing process or through packaging to their products, which is why urban Cambodians living in the capital city and who consume such products far more often than the rural population have a fertility rate around replacement level.

Given that your population has quadrupled since 1950 despite war and genocide, that 50% of your people are below 22 years old and are about to start their families, that Cambodia ranks as the 32nd hungriest nation in the world and 40% of its children are chronically malnourished, that the population is still rapidly growing, and that among the ten ASEAN countries Cambodia ranks last in terms of quality of life, I can understand your eagerness to stop population growth and climb out of poverty.

Committing genocide, however, is not the way to go especially since you are in a position to learn from the mistakes made by the West and avoid repeating them. That is why I ask that you join my effort to forge global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide and restricts family size to just two children so we can preserve the environment, secure peace and prosperity for all, and ensure the health and future of our children.

Cambodia can fulfill its international obligations and reach its national ambitions without committing genocide, by empowering its people to assume control over their reproductive rights and to be responsible global citizens.

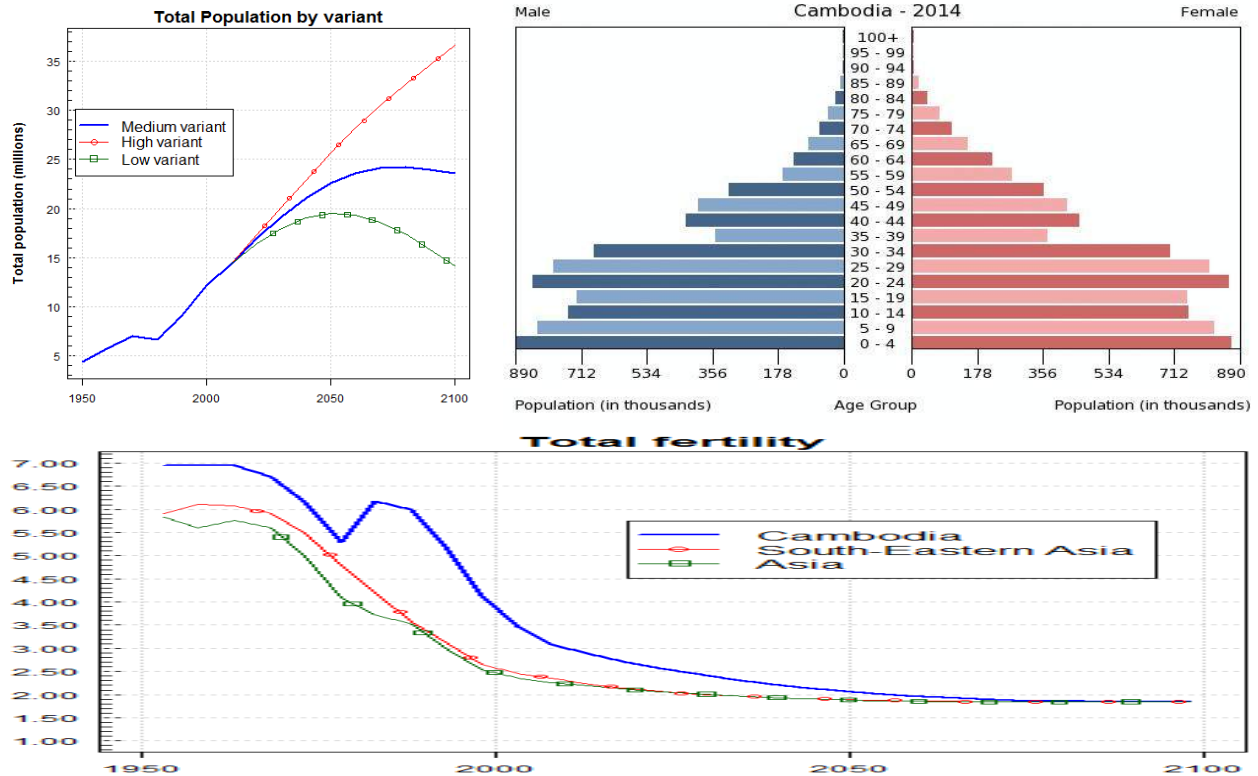

I have exposed the secrecy and shattered the walls of dishonesty and deception erected by the UN and its western sponsors to bypass democracy and the rule of law and no one will henceforth be able to commit crimes against humanity and genocide in the name of peace. An era has come to an end a new one is about to begin. And in this new era we must all think and act as a big family because our combined actions will determine whether our children live or die.

You will find all the information you need to make the right choice in my freely available work: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

I look forward to meeting with you to discuss how Cambodia can use its permanent UN mission to help me accomplish this global policy change.

The man responsible for introducing covert depopulation measures in Cambodia in 1985, as soon as he assumed power, and for continuing to poison his people ever since is Han Sen, the current Prime Minister of Cambodia who in one way or another has been in control of the country since 1985.

As Cambodia's fertility has declined, its GDP per capita has increased in inverse proportion.

Contraceptives are not a factor since they were below 20% until 2000 and have yet to exceed 50%. Abortions are even more uncommon.

Cambodia is in the third stage of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF CAMEROON

16 September 2014

Paul Biya
President of Cameroon
cellcom@prc.cm

President Biya,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

The diphtheria and tetanus vaccines that are being given to the Cameroonian people since the early 1990s by international aid agencies and are sponsored by the World Health Organization are fronts for sterilizing your people.

They are designed to neutralize the biological functions of hCG (human chorionic gonadotropin), the female hormone that signals the presence of the embryo to the maternal endocrine system, and therefore lead to miscarriage and sterility in women.

These contraceptive vaccines are the covert method of depopulation used by the UN, its agencies, and their western sponsors in your country without the knowledge or consent of the Cameroonian women.

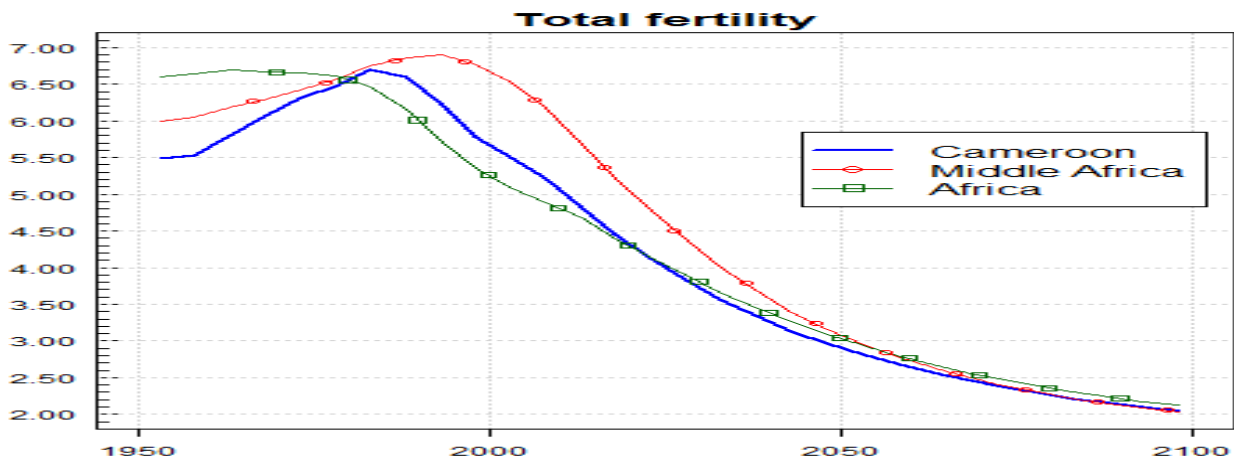

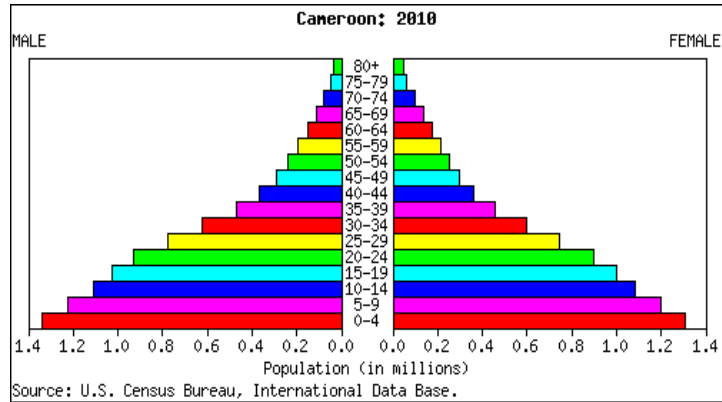

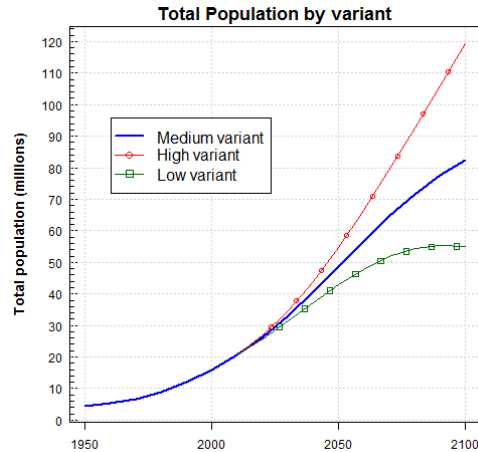

Many other chemical, biological and bacteriological methods of population control are being covertly used throughout the world to defuse the population bomb and all are in contravention of the Geneva Genocide Convention and therefore constitute crimes against humanity. Genocide, I remind you, is punishable by life imprisonment or, depending on the country, death.

I urge you to expel from Cameroon all foreign aid and UN agencies since they serve merely the demographic objectives of the genocidal lobby that masquerades as the international community. Cameroon can fulfill its international obligations by legislating population control and distributing save contraceptives to the populace. Making yourself complicit in the forced sterilization of your people, as well as in causing mass morbidity and early mortality, will sooner or later result in your execution by the very people you govern.

Should you decide to protect your people and pursue population control legally and honorably, I suggest you meet with me without delay so we can discuss how to forge global consensus for population control and save the world from genocide.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Cameroon became a UN member state in 1960 but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1982 and has only reluctantly cooperated with the international community in subverting its people's reproductive rights. Nevertheless the total fertility rate has decreased from 6.4 children per woman prior to 1982 to 4.3 today.

The man responsible for bringing covert depopulation to Cameroon is President Paul Biya. He signed up to the UN-delegated depopulation program as soon as he assumed office in 1982.

The former president of Cameroon, Ahmadou Ahidjo (1960-1982), could not be convinced, coopted or coerced to poison his people into sterility.

Adulterated vaccines and the malaria drug Artemisinin are used by western NGOs and UN organizations to subvert the people's reproductive rights.

Considering that Cameroon's population has grown from 4.5 million in 1950 to 23 million today, a whopping fivefold increase in less than seven decades, that the median age is a young 19.3

years, and that the population grows at a rapid rate of 3.1% per year, Cameroon has no choice but to implement strict population control measures.

The contraceptive prevalence rate of Cameroon, which has never reached 30%, is too low to explain the drop in fertility.

Even less significant is abortion in Cameroon since it is restricted to rape, incest and medical necessity. Moreover, abortion facilities are available only in the largest cities and even in urban settings it is rare.

Cameroon is in the second stage of the demographic transition.

CANADA

9 September 2014

Stephen Harper
Prime Minister of Canada pm@pm.gc.ca

Prime Minister Harper,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

Since 1945, Canada has been harnessed to the globalization/depopulation axis devised by the Allied Powers as a substitute to war and pursued by the United Nations since its inception. While this international order has, for better or worse, preserved us from nuclear annihilation it has achieved nothing else and has destroyed everything we hold dear both as a country and as a people.

The structural violence perpetrated on the Canadian people by the institutions of state and on the people of the world by the United Nations is unacceptable and criminal. Unless it stops society will collapse and the people will turn on their governments with a vengeance the likes of which history has never witnessed.

Now is the time for Canada and for the world to change course. If you would like to be on the right side of history and save Canada from self-destruction, you must set everything else aside and see me without delay so we can shut down all covert methods of depopulation, save the Canadian people, and set an example for the world to follow.

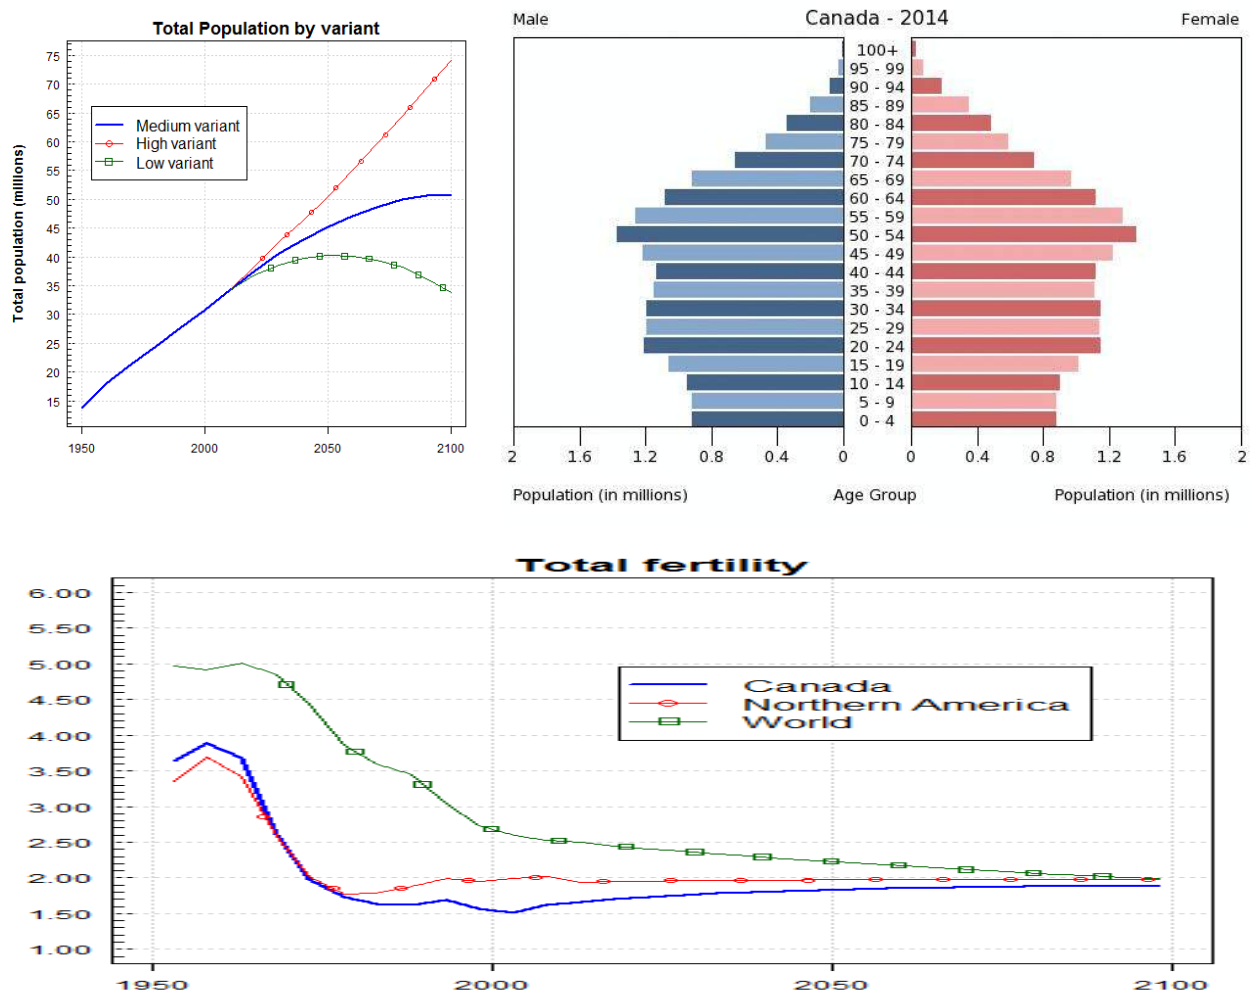

To show your willingness to be on the right side of history and your readiness to decouple Canada from the genocidal lobby, I ask that you grant me full diplomatic credentials and task the institutions of state inside and outside Canada to assist me in forging global consensus to implement worldwide legislation for population control.

The international security prerogative of population control can and must be brought back within the rule of law. Until such time, this Canadian government, as all previous Canadian governments since 1945, is illegitimate. You have inherited this system from your predecessor, but must not bequeath it to your successor. If you do, you will be held responsible for crimes against humanity.

I look forward to hearing from you,

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Canada is a UN founding member but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1963 although it assisted the depopulation lobby from the very beginning by performing experiments with fluoridated water on the unsuspecting citizens of Brantford, Ontario, since 1945.

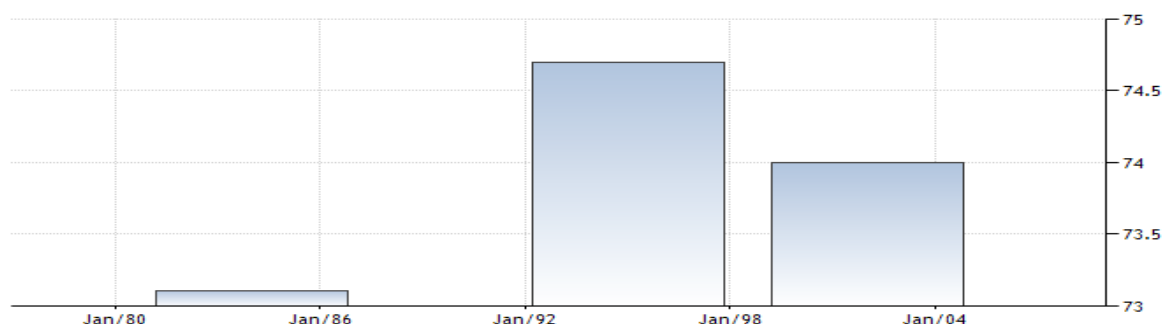

As a result of water fluoridation and fluoridated dental products and dental treatments, the total fertility rate decreased from nearly 4 children per woman prior to 1958 to just 1.6 today. Starting in the 1980s, bisphenol A polycarbonates and epoxy resins have also been used to subvert people's reproductive rights, which is why glass bottles have been replaced by plastic bottles and metal cans are since then lined with bisphenol A epoxy resins. And starting in the 1990s, genetically modified organisms have been added to the government's arsenal of depopulation, which is why Canada refuses to label GMO foodstuff.

Canada also uses a variety of psychosocial, juridical and economic methods to decrease fertility and subvert the family structure so that families are formed late, stay small and fall apart prematurely.

The man responsible for introducing covert depopulation measures as soon as he took office in 1963 is Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson (1963-1968). This is not surprising as he participated in the establishment of the UN in 1943 and 1944, then headed the Canadian delegation to the UN from 1946 to 1956, and served as the 8th President of the United Nations General Assembly in 1952.

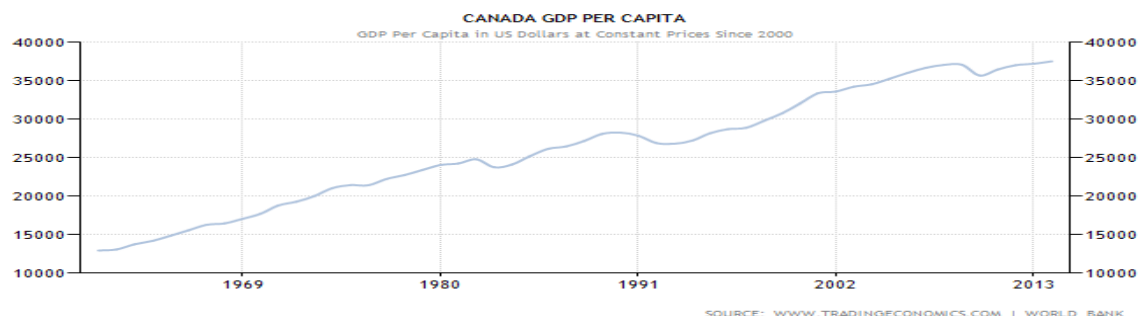

Every subsequent Canadian prime minister since Pearson has continued to poison the Canadian people and has contributed to the covert depopulation program: Pierre Trudeau (1968-1979, 1980-1984), Joe Clark (1979-1980), Brian Mulroney (1984-1993), Jean Chrétien (1993-2003), Paul Martin (2003-2006), and the incumbent Stephen Harper (since February 2006).

Canada's total fertility rate dropped from almost 4 to just 2 children per woman in ten years, from 1963 to 1973, at a time when contraceptives were rare and could therefore play no role in the fertility drop. Even the current contraceptive prevalence rate of 74% cannot possibly explain the extremely low fertility of 1.6 children per woman.

Nor can Canada's abortion rate of 14.7 abortions per 1,000 women be anything other than an insignificant factor in Canada's sub-replacement level fertility. Furthermore, when Canada's fertility dropped like a plane from the sky during the 1960s, the abortion rate was near zero.

In return for its war on fertility, Canada has been rewarded with a growing GDP. As the historical record shows, Canada's GDP per capita began rising at the same time as fertility began dropping in the early 1960s.

Canada is in the fourth stage of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF CABO VERDE

Jorge Carlos Fonseca, President of Cabo Verde
capeverde@un.int, <https://www.facebook.com/Presidencia.cv>

José Maria Neves, Prime Minister of Cabo Verde
igs@ms.gov.cv, edith.santos@govcv.goc.cv, margarida.cardoso@gocv.gov.cv

President Fonseca and Prime Minister Neves,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Cabo Verde joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1975, as soon as it gained independence from Portugal and also became a UN member state. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from nearly 7 children per woman prior to 1975 to 2.3 today. Cabo Verde's program of population control, as elsewhere in the world except China, is illegal because the people are involuntarily subjected to sterilizing toxins. As such, it constitutes genocide by any definition.

Instead of continuing to commit genocide in order to comply with the international order, I encourage you to help me reform the UN and enshrine replacement level fertility in international law as a Global Security Prerogative. How to accomplish this and why I explain in my recently published book The Future of Global Governance.

To be able to abandon covert methods of depopulation and adopt overt methods, the people need to be told the truth and the facts. You will find both the truth and the facts in my work:

The time to change the international order is now and you can be part of it by instructing your nation's ambassador to the UN, Fernando Jorge Wahnnon Ferreira, to begin the process.

I stand by to assist you in any way I can.

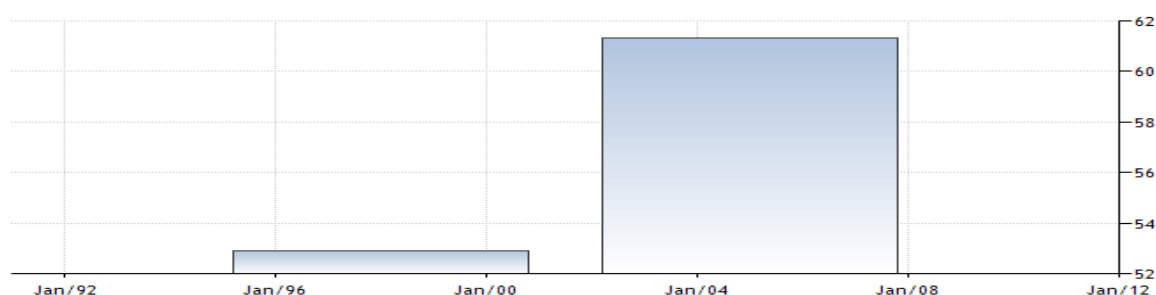

Sincerely,

The man who introduced covert methods of depopulation as soon as he took office in 1975 is the first President of Cabo Verde, Aristides Pereira (1975-1991). His successors, António Mascarenhas Monteiro (1991-2001) and Pedro Pires (2001-2011), have stayed the course. The current President of Cabo Verde, however, Jorge Carlos Fonseca, who took office in September 2011, has somewhat relaxed the depopulation program.

From 1975 until today, fertility has declined from nearly 7 to just 2.3 children per woman despite a dismally low contraceptive prevalence rate during the 1970s and 1980s, 50% during the 1990 and just above 60% during the first decade of this century.

Nor can the drop in fertility be ascribed to affluence since Cabo Verde was dirt poor when the drop in fertility began in the 1970s and even today has a modest nominal GDP per capita of just $4,000.

What is rather obvious, however, to any casual observer is that as the people's fertility has been decreasing their GDP per capita has been increasing.

Cabo Verde is in the third stage of the demographic transition.

President Samba-Panza and Prime Minister Kamoun,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The Central African Republic joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 2003 and by 2006 the Ministry of Public Health and Population (MPHP) drafted its second National Development Plan for Health (NDPH II) to make sterilizing vaccines (tetanus toxoid and pneumococcal vaccines for adults) as well as sterilizing malaria drugs (Artemisinin) part and parcel of its strategy to combat population growth.

This population control effort receives technical assistance from the Global Alliance for Vaccines and Immunizations (GAVI), which in turn is generously funded by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation that also funds the sterilizing vaccines and drugs employed in the Central African Republic and elsewhere on the continent.

Considering that the country's population quadrupled since independence in 1960 and now numbers 4.7 million, that 60% of the population is under 24 years of age, that the Central African Republic is among the poorest countries in the world, and that it depends heavily on foreign aid, the need for an effective population control program is undeniable and imperative for the nation's future wellbeing.

Since malaria is endemic in the Central African Republic, the depopulation lobby is using its fight against malaria as a cover for its fight against fertility with a drug called Artemisinin that is based on the sweet wormwood plant (Artemisia annua).

Considering that sweet wormwood has been used to prevent pregnancy since times immemorial, that it was "discovered" by the Chinese army as a cure for Malaria, that the Bill and Melinda

Gates Foundation funds the development of a synthetic artemisinin vaccine, that the World Health Organization prevents studies of its toxicity, and that several recent studies have shown it to cause sterility, one can safely concluded that the new wonder drug for treating Malaria is also a sterilizer in disguise.

Instead of subjecting your people to toxic drugs and involuntary sterilization programs disguised as improved public health, I suggest you abandon your cooperation with the genocidal lobby and join my effort to forge global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative so the people know what is expected of them and why and so that individuals can take control over their reproductive rights and curtail them in accordance with the law.

If you proceed with genocide you will fall victims to genocide because sooner or later we, the people of the world, will turn the tables and will start our own depopulation program and put our political leaders and our captains of industry at the front of the row.

To ascertain the seriousness of my warning, I urge you to read my appeals to your counterparts around the world: <https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>. And to educate yourselves about the facts and the methods of the ongoing covert methods of depopulation I give you free access and unrestricted use of my work:

The sooner you decide to protect your people from engineered genocide and to help the world evolve towards a legal and ethical global depopulation effort, the better it will be for your country, for your children, and for the planet.

Do not hesitate to reach out to me for advice and support. When you come this far I will travel to the Central African Republic and assist you and your people in any way I can and without any expectations of personal reward.

Although a UN member state since 1960, the leaders of the Central African Republic have resisted covert depopulation measures until 2003 when General François Bozizé became president after ousting Ange-Félix Patassé (1993-2003) whom he served as Army Chief of Staff.

The Central African Republic's total fertility rate has decreased from 6 children per woman prior to 1990 to 4.4 children per woman to date and contraceptives are not a factor in this decline. As the graph below shows, the contraceptive prevalence rate has never exceeded 28%. Nor is abortion since it is illegal and permitted only to save the life of the woman.

Prime Minister of Chad

President Déby and Prime Minister Deubet,

Re: covert depopulation measures

Chad is among a handful of countries in the world that has not yet joined or has been forced into the international system and this means that you have a unique opportunity to pursue population control and economic development honorably, legally and humanely.

Since your population has grown from 2.4 million in 1950 to 11.2 million today (a 370% increase), 50% of your people are children under the age of 15, the median age is an astoundingly young 17 years, the total fertility rate is unchanged at 6.2 children per woman, 80% of your people live below the poverty line, half of your people are crowded into the southern fifth of the country because it is the only region that has a propitious climate and sufficient rainfall, and most Chadians live as subsistence herders and farmers, you are facing a humanitarian, environmental and political catastrophe unless you immediately institute a population control program.

Having said this, I urge you not to follow the remedies promoted by the World Bank, the UN and its agencies and their western sponsors, which are nothing more than genocide and will pervert the very soul of your nation and destroy the bodies and minds of your people. To know how to protect your people from the engineered genocide perpetrated on the world since 1945 you must read my books, as I am the man who exposed the covert methodology of the Global Depopulation Policy and to date am the only trustworthy source of information, having refused to be bought and having managed to survive the regime of oppression and the vicious attacks on my person, family and life.

Feel free to translate my books in your official languages of French and Arabic and to disseminate them freely throughout the country. I expect no financial reward and offer them as a gift to your people so that they may avoid the mistakes made by the West and escape the terrible and irreversible damage that is being inflicted on the people whose governments have succumbed to a diabolical international system of covert depopulation and coerced globalization.

You are listed as a failed state by the Fund for Peace and as the most corrupt country on earth and your administration is seen as rife with cronyism and rooted in tribalism. You are also the seventh poorest country in the world according to the UN Human Development Index. But you are the heart of Africa and can go nowhere but up, which is where you must indeed go for the sake of Chad’s children.

To move up you must devote all of Chad’s oil revenues to development projects and poverty reduction while at the same time pass a law that restricts fertility to two children per woman and use all the aid you can get to provide free and safe contraceptives to your people, for that is the only way you will escape the cycle of poverty and conflict that has trapped your nation.

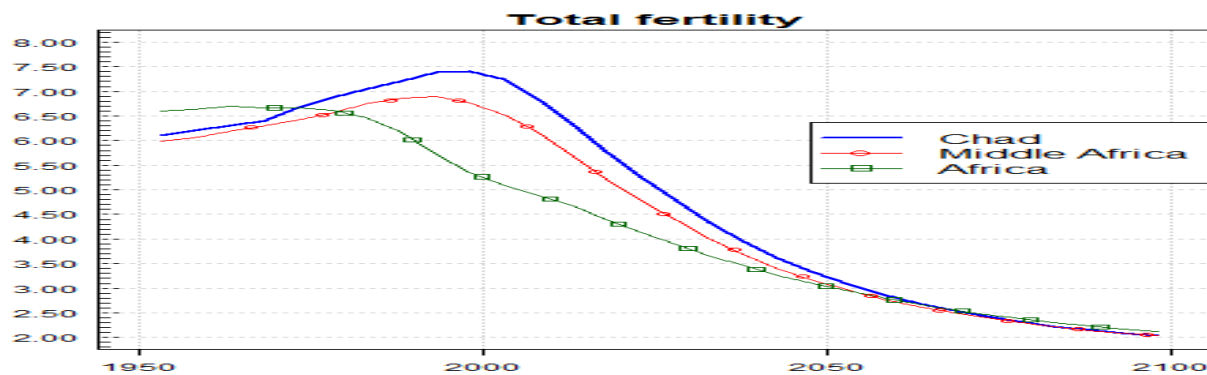

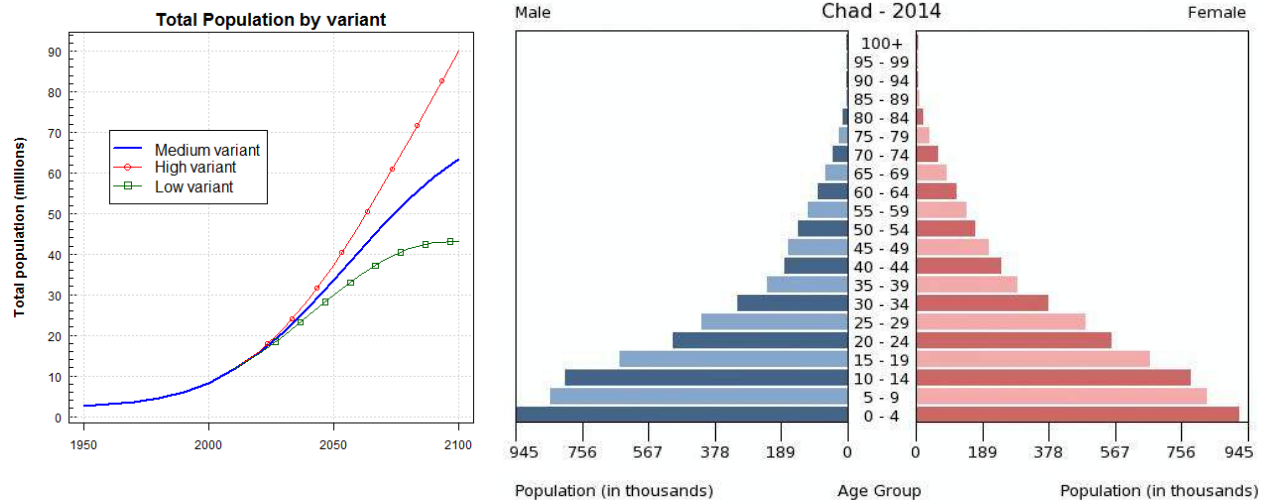

You are a military man and military discipline is what is needed to make this leap into order and sustainability. You have entrenched your power by abolishing the two term limit and you must use your authoritarian rule to do what no democracy seems able or willing to do, which is be honest with your people and give them the hard facts so the entire nation can pull in one direction towards a better and brighter future and the liberation armies that flourish like mushrooms after the rain in Chad are once and for all robbed of the fuel that fires them.

Future generations will thank you if you muster the courage to pursue economic development and population control at the same time. I stand by to help you without expectations or conditions in the hope that you will join me in forging global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide and frees national politics of the fear of unpopularity by making population control a planetary security prerogative that no nation can avoid and no person can deny. You will then have written your names in history for helping the world escape genocide and protecting the planet from human recklessness.

I will travel to Chad when and if you need me.

Chad has been a UN member state since 1960 but the international community has not been able to co-opt its leaders into the Global Depopulation Policy.

The latest figures show that Chad's total fertility rate has declined from 7.4 to 5.7 children per woman since 2000, despite a contraceptive prevalence rate of just 8%, and this has already resulted in a modest boost in GDP from $400 to $750 for the same period.

REPUBLIC OF CHILE

29 September 2014

Michelle Bachelet
President of Chile

<http://michellebachelet.cl/contacto/>

President Bachelet,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Building wealth by sickening your people is not progress. Yes, your country's human development index has been improved by controlling population growth through covert poisoning of the peoples' reproductive systems to cause sterility and subfertility. But ill-health, mental retardation, cognitive disorders and premature death are the side effects of this diabolical policy of population control, which took effect in 1965 during President Eduardo Frei Montalva's administration and was accelerated by the murderous administration of General Augusto Pinochet.

The walls of deception and lies that have kept this system secret until 2012, when I exposed it in all its hideousness, have fallen and the heads of state who oversee the implementation of covert poisoning on their own people and under the guidance of the UN and pressure from the US are responsible for crimes against humanity and genocide. I am now giving you a choice to immediately stop poisoning the Chilean people or face crimes against humanity in the very near future or much worse, the wrath of your people, whose trust you have betrayed.

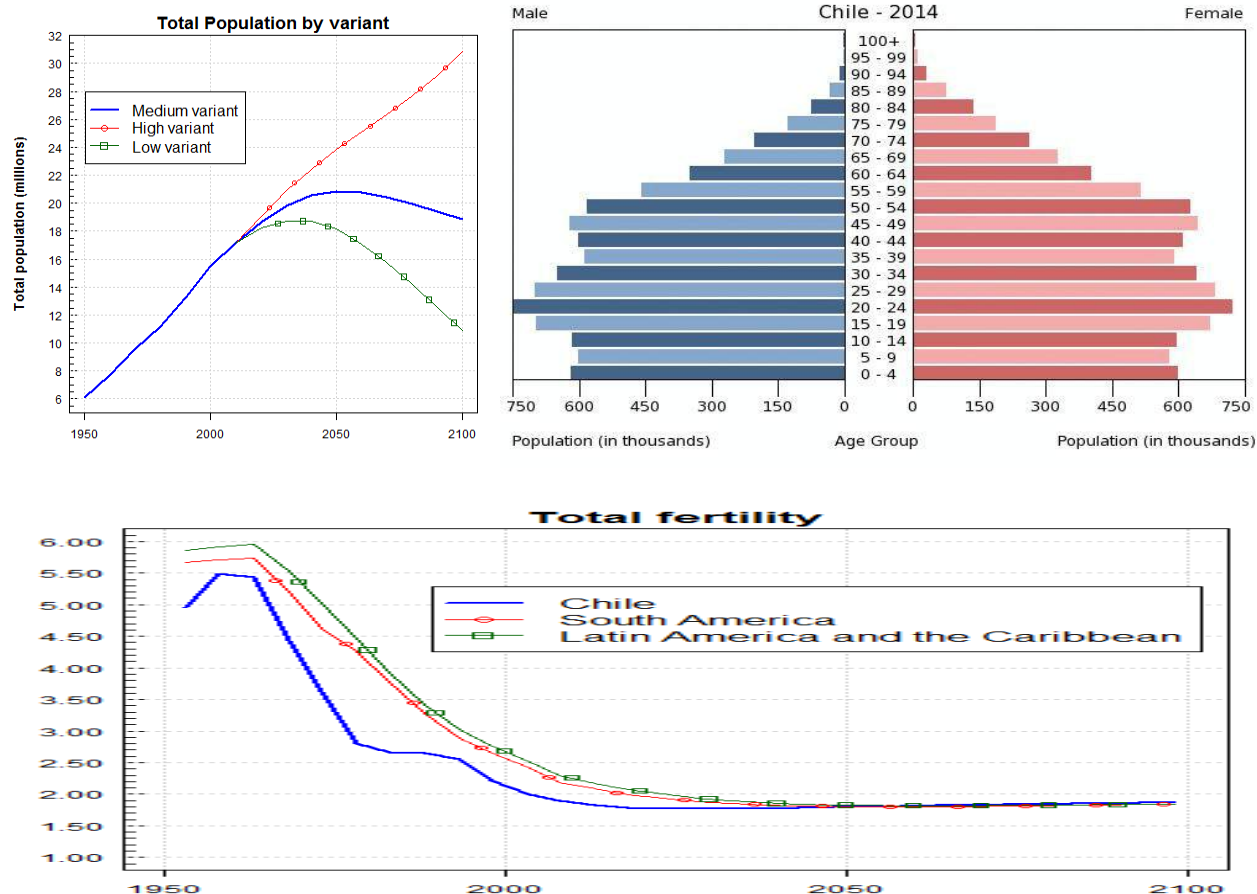

Since you are not responsible for bringing this cursed system on your people you have a chance to change course without violence and chaos by simply telling them the truth and convincing them to accept legislation that restricts family size to two children per woman from this point onward.

I am in the process of forging global consensus for worldwide population control legislation that would limit all nations to replacement level fertility, this being a planetary security prerogative that can no longer be ignored, delayed, or accomplished through covert poisoning.

I hope you will meet with me in the near future to discuss how we can work together to protect the people of Chile and indeed all people on earth from the engineered genocide that has been growing by leaps and bounds since 1945 and has become the greatest threat to humanity and the primary cause of misery and suffering on earth.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Chile joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1964 and its total fertility rate decreased from 5.5 children per woman prior to 1964 to 1.8 today. This puts Chile fifteen years ahead of the average South American country in terms of the demographic transition and is undoubtedly the principal reason why Chile has prospered more than its neighbors.

The person responsible for first implementing covert depopulation measures in Chile is President Eduardo Frei Montalva (1964-1970) who did so as soon as took office in 1964. He used fluoridated water in the cities, a practice that is still in use throughout Chile, and fluoridated powder milk in the countryside to suppress fertility throughout his term in office, which lasted until 1970. He and his wife, however, had seven children.

The policy was continued by President Salvador Allende (1970-1973) until he was deposed by a coup and murdered in 1973. His successor, General Augusto Pinochet, eased up on the poisoning program and throughout his term in office, which lasted from 1973 to 1990, the total fertility rate leveled off at circa 2.7 children per woman.

President Patricio Aylwin, who succeeded Pinochet and stayed in office from 1990 to 1994 continued in the same fashion as General Pinochet.

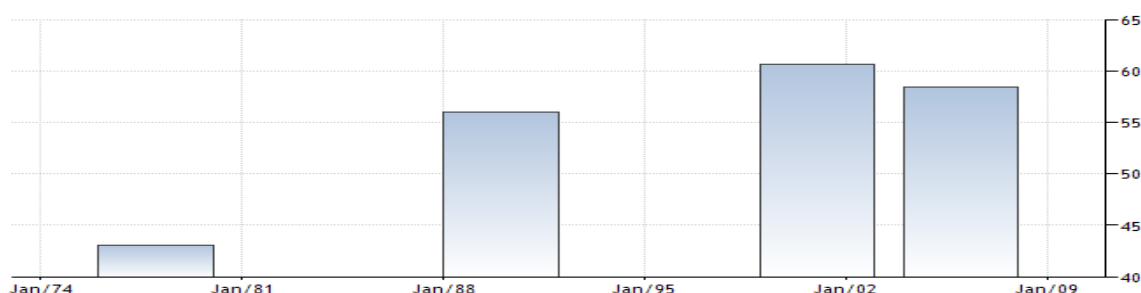

The depopulation program was accelerated and intensified once President Eduardo Frei Ruiz-Tagle took office in 1994 and by the time he left office in 2000 Chile had nearly reached replacement level fertility. His successors, Ricardo Lagos (200-2006), Michelle Bachelet (2006-2010) Sebastián Piñera (2010-2014) and then again Michelle Bachelet, who is the incumbent president, have placed the depopulation program in a holding pattern once the country reached sub-replacement level fertility in 2002.

Surprisingly, since the inception of Chile's depopulation program in 1964, only General Augusto Pinochet, who ruled as a brutal dictator, was kind to his people in terms of protecting their reproductive rights, their health, and the integrity of their minds, all of which are usurped by endocrine disruptors.

Chile has been rewarded for waging war on fertility with a growing GDP. As the country reached near replacement level fertility in 1990 the GDP per capita began rising rapidly and has continued to rise as the total fertility rate has continue to decrease.

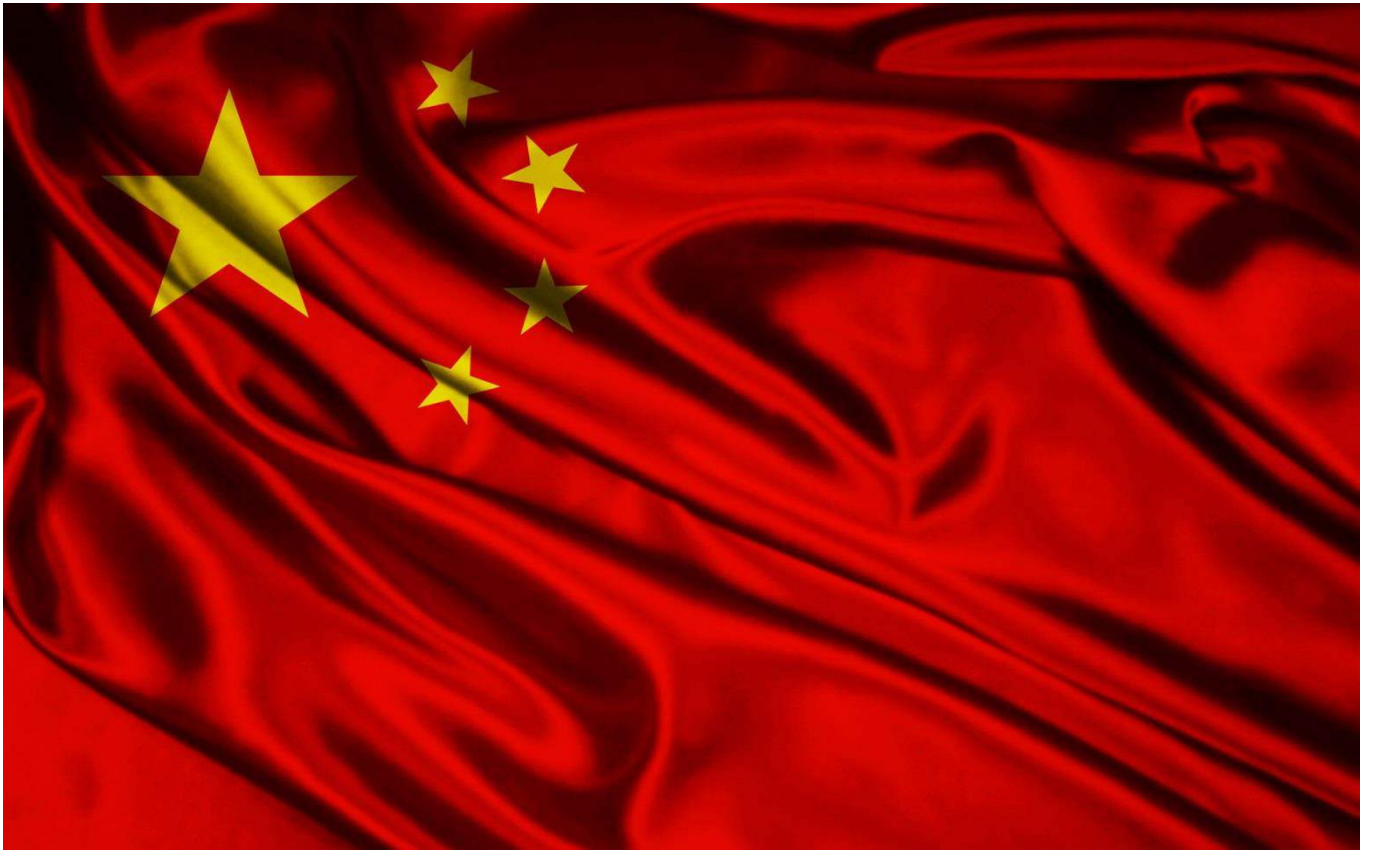

Chile's drop in fertility has little or nothing to do with the country's contraceptive prevalence rate, which has never exceeded 61% and was below 30% during the 1960s and 1970s when fertility dropped fastest.

Chile also has an extremely low abortion rate of 0.5 per 1,000 women, a statistically insignificant figure. The drop in fertility, therefore, is unrelated to the abortion rate.

Chile is in the fourth stage of the demographic transition.

PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA

10 September 2014

President Xi Jinping

info@cppcc.gov.cn, xhszbs@xinhuanet.com

Premier Li Keqiang

english@npc.gov.cn , zxc@szhealth.gov.cn

President Xi and Premier Li,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

As the only country in the world to have pursued population control lawfully and honorably, China is in a unique and fortunate position.

Unlike China, which has passed its One-Child Policy in 1978, the West, and under its direction much of the rest of the world as well, has pursued population control in a criminal manner by covertly poisoning the populace with endocrine disruptors in food, water, drinks, and most recently also in the air. As a result, the western populace is severely downgraded both intellectually and genetically and on the brink of extinction. Already a quarter of the population has lost the ability to procreate and, as a result, millions of genetic lineages are dying out. And the remainder of the populace suffers from chronic and debilitating illnesses related to their weakened immune and damaged endocrine systems. In their current state, the people of the western world are incapable of defending themselves and the vast majority is even incapable of recognizing that their own elected governments and the moneyed elites who control them are actively pursuing their engineered extinction.

Without help from the outside we will not survive the slaughter. As the last point of resistance left in the western world, I ask for China's help to save the people of the world from attack by covert, immoral and diabolical methods.

China has made the right choice in joining the other BRIC nations to decouple itself from the Anglo-Saxon world order based on globalization and depopulation, by which the world's people are being impoverished and annihilated by diabolical elites.

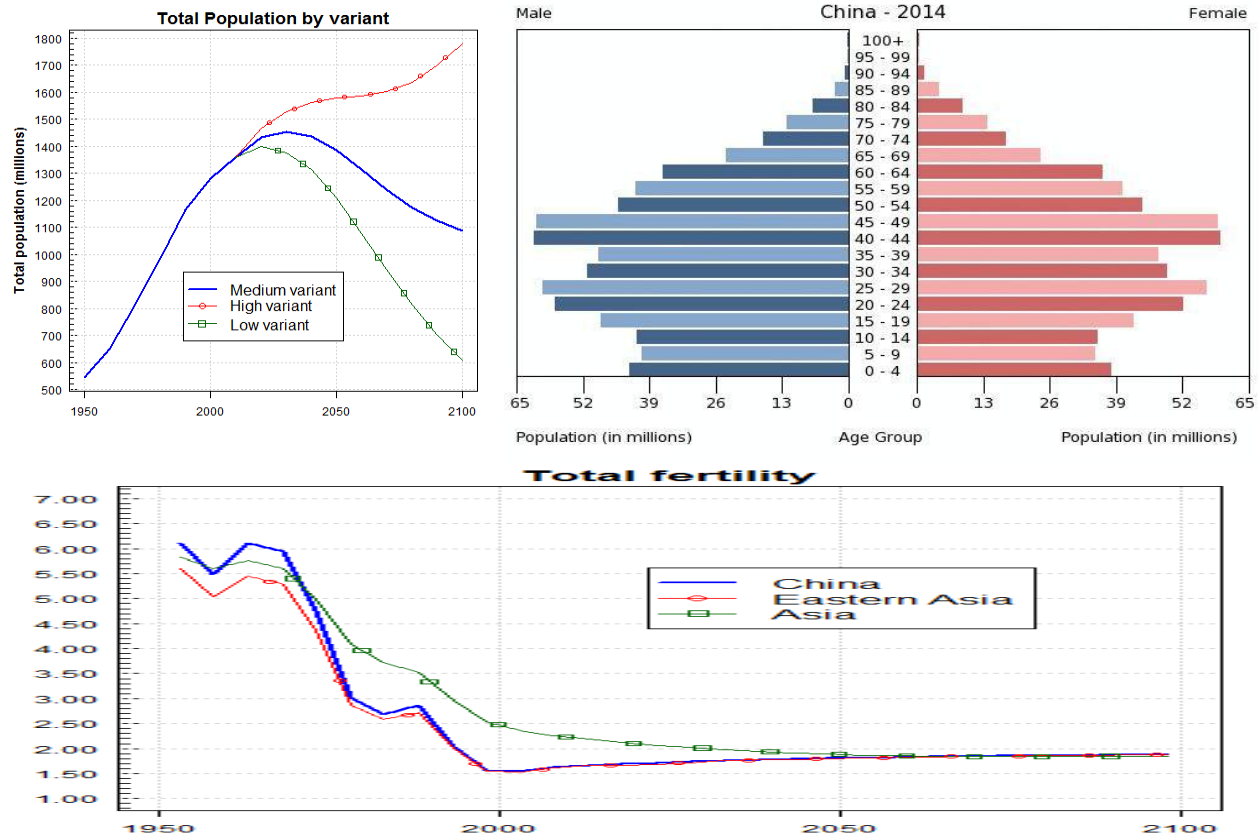

I ask that you empower the institutions of state and the Chinese media to assist me in ridding the world of this last embodiment of evil and in forging consensus for global legislation of population control, without which the world will never escape the cycles of poverty and war.

I look forward to meeting with you on Chinese soil do discuss how best to accomplish this life and death goal.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

If the data of the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs/Population Division is accurate, and there is no reason to doubt it, then contrary to common knowledge and the Chinese government's statements, the Chinese leadership did not start interfering with their people's fertility in 1978, when it passed the One-Child-Family law, but in 1968 when no legislation restricting family size existed.

The total fertility graph above shows clearly that the total fertility rate started to nosedive in 1968, when women had on average 6 children, and that by 1978, when the One-Child-Family law was passed, the total fertility rate had already halved to just 3 children per woman. We can only conclude that from 1968 to 1978 the Chinese government used covert methods of depopulation, undoubtedly fluoride, to subvert the people's reproductive rights and lower the total fertility rate in advance of legislation restricting family size.

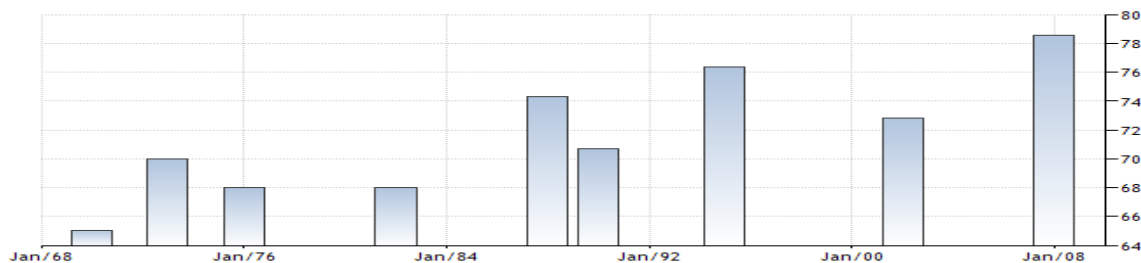

From 1978 to 1988 the total fertility rate stalled at 2.7 children per woman, as it took time to put in place the legal, medical and enforcement apparatus necessary to make contraceptives available to the masses and to perform abortions when contraceptives failed.

Once the apparatus was in place by 1988, fertility dived again rather steeply and by 1998 it reached a low rate of just 1.5 children per woman, where it has been hovering ever since.

This means that the man responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation in China is none other than Chairman Mao Zedong (1945-1976) the founding father of the People's Republic of China. This fact has been kept secret undoubtedly not to ruin Mao's legacy but also, and primarily, to hide the country's covert depopulation measures.

Deng Xiaoping (1978-1992), introduced the One-Child-Policy two years after Mao died and he assumed sole control of China after he outmaneuvered Hua Guofeng (1976-1981). The policy remains in place to this day and is credited with having prevented the birth of 400 million Chinese.

Yet despite China's high contraceptive prevalence rate of nearly 80% and the stringency of the One-Child-Policy, the data shows that contraceptives fail often, which is why China has a far higher abortion rate than one would expect at 19.2 per 1,000 women, the tenth highest in the world (according to 2013 UN data) after Russia (37.4), Cuba (28.9), Kazakhstan (27.4), Georgia (26.5), Estonia (25.5), Romania (21.3), Ukraine (21.2), Sweden (20.8), and the US (19.6).

And that is why China augments its legislative and medical population control methods with fluoridated toothpaste, which in China contains four times more fluoride than elsewhere in the world. But at least China refrains from poisoning the water, food and beverages of its citizens.

China too has been rewarded for its population control efforts with a rising per capita GDP. As soon as China reached replacement level fertility around 1990, the GDP began to grow rapidly.

China has recently entered the fourth stage of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF COLOMBIA

4 December 2014

Juan Manuel Santos

President of Colombia

reclamos.minjusticia@minjusticia.gov.co, usuarios@mindefensa.gov.co

President Santos,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Colombia joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1963 and its total fertility rate declined from nearly 7 children per woman to just above 2 as of 2014. The government of Colombia engineered this drop in fertility through water fluoridation, which started in the Ciudad de Girardot in 1963 and quickly spread to Cali, Bogota, Medellin and Manizales, and through salt fluoridation since 1989.

Since the Colombian population is being poisoned through both water and salt fluoridation for depopulation purposes, more than a quarter of the children suffer from dental fluorosis and the entire population has been severely degraded both genetically and intellectually. If Colombia continues to subvert fertility in this fashion there will be only mentally retarded, obese, sterile and feeble people left fifty years from now and the entire country will die out by the end of the 21st century.

You and your predecessors, President Santos, are committing genocide and belong in prison and not at the helm at the nation. Colombia, moreover, has served as the primary nest in South America for the UN and its western backers and has aided the depopulation lobby to spread its cancer throughout the continent.

Considering that Colombia's population has grown from 12 million in 1950 to 48 million today, a fourfold increase, I do not for a second doubt the need for strict and effective population control, but I will never condone mass murder as the way to accomplish the demographic transition. The government's duty is to legislate not to poison. So stop poisoning your people and legislate population control before we, the people, hang you from the next tree.

Colombia is important because it is one of the most bio-diverse countries in the world, housing nearly 20% of the global species and having the highest rate of species per square kilometer worldwide and the largest number of species that are not found anywhere else. But that does not mean that you have a license to treat your people like vermin, poison them into extinction while keeping them impoverished despite the country's great natural wealth. A third of all Colombians live in poverty and 10% in extreme poverty, despite the fact that Colombia is the third largest oil producer in South America, while the nation's elite swims in wealth.

And considering that 30% of your people are under fifteen years of age and that the population is being poisoned into infertility to peak at 51 million by 2020, this is the time to change course before you irreversibly sicken and degrade these generations of children as well.

To change course you will need to educate yourself and your people and, to this end, I am providing you with my work free of cost:

If you ignore this letter and do not change course immediately I will personally see to it that you pay for your crimes. If you however change course at home and use your country's permanent mission at the UN to move the General Assembly to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative that no person and no nation can henceforth eschew, than you will find a friend and ally in me and you will have exonerated yourself of crimes against humanity by helping me save the world from the current diabolical international system that we have all inherited.

Just because previous generations have failed to reach consensus and combat population growth legally and honorably does not mean that our generation will fail. Our generation has no choice but to succeed.

If you need to see me in person I will not hesitate to make my way to Colombia to help you do the right thing.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

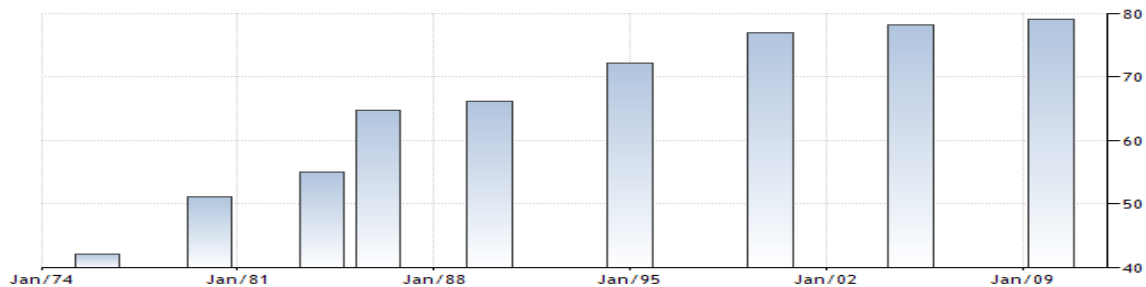

The man responsible for initiating a covert depopulation program in Colombia is President Guillermo León Valencia, who led the country from 1962 to 1966. His successors – Carlos Lleras Restrepo (1966-1970), Miguel Pastrana Borrero (1970-1974), Alfonso López Michelsen (1974-1978) – have stayed the course and poisoned their people without mercy.

Presidents Julio César Turbay Ayala (1978-1982), Belisario Betancur (1982-1986) and Virgilio Barco Vargas (1986-1990), however, eased up on the poisons somewhat during their terms in office.

Presidents César Gaviria (1990-1994), Ernesto Samper (1994-1998), Andrés Pastrana Arango (1998-2002), Álvaro Uribe (2002-2010), and the incumbent Juan Manuel Santos (since August 2010) have continued the covert program of depopulation.

When Colombia's fertility began declining rapidly in the early 1960s the contraceptive prevalence rate was below 20%, nevertheless fertility declined from 7 to 5.5 children per woman.

During the seventies contraceptives were used by 45% of the population but somehow fertility declined from 5.5 to 3.7 children per woman. During the eighties 65% used contraceptives and fertility declined from 3.7 to 3.1 children per woman. During the nineties nearly 75% used contraceptives and fertility declined from 3.1 to 2.6. And since the beginning of the 21st century nearly 80% use contraceptives and fertility has declined to replacement level.

Considering its history of contraceptive use and that abortion is very rare in Colombia and therefore a non-issue, the drop in fertility from 1963 to 1990 cannot be explained by contraceptive use. Since 1990, the drop in fertility could conceivably be explained by contraceptive use of one is willing to believe the fiction that Colombians use contraceptives at all times, without accidents, and despite the fact that the preferred number of children in Colombia is at least three. Colombians have fewer children than they wish (namely 2.1 instead of 3 children) because their government poisons them on the sly and not because they use contraceptives faithfully and without fail.

If the Chinese, who also use contraceptives to the tune of 80% and who face severe penalties for violating the one child policy, cannot use contraceptives without fail and have to abort 31% of their pregnancies, then how on earth would Colombia succeed? Clearly Colombia's low fertility rate is not the result of contraceptives but of covert chemical sterilization with fluoride and other endocrine disruptors.

But, the government of Colombia reckons, it is alright to poison people into infertility, ill-health and imbecility because that is how you get rich. As the data shows, Colombia's GDP per capita has grown in inverse proportion to the declining fertility rate. Thus, as fertility has declined the GDP per capita has grown.

Colombia is in the third stage of the demographic transition.

UNION OF THE COMOROS

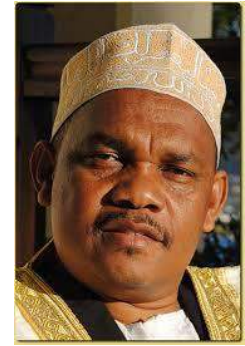

8 December 2014

Ikililou Dhoinine

President of Comoros

presidence@comorestelecom.km, comoros@un.int

President Dhoinine,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Comoros joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1983 and left it in 1995, by which time the total fertility rate declined from 7 to 5 children per woman. As a result, the population has exploded from 200.000 in 1950 to 800.000 today, a fourfold increase, and the population density has become the 25th largest in the world at 275 people per square kilometer.

With as many as 1000 people per square kilometer in the densest agricultural zones, Comoros faces economic and environmental catastrophe. Comoros is already one of the world's poorest countries with half the population living below the international poverty line and its GDP per capita continuing to decline, which is also why Comoros has not known political stability since independence in 1975 and has experienced more than 20 coups or attempted coups.

Whether it wants to or not, Comoros needs to overcome its cultural and religious reservations to birth control and legislate replacement level fertility. Solving its population pressures through emigration is no longer possible since receiving countries and people are no longer willing to accept incomers from Comoros or elsewhere for that matter. Even inter-island migration inside Comoros itself is no longer tolerated by the less crowded islands of Mwali and Maore.

The alternative is mass starvation and war, or your people will become victims of covert methods of depopulation instigated by the UN and its western sponsors, methods that will devastate your people and nation. I therefore urge you to act without delay by educating your people to empower them to take responsibility over their reproductive rights and restrict their own families to no more than two children. My work may help you do so.

Since population control is already a global security prerogative and every nation on earth is obligated to bring population growth to a halt, I urge to instruct Ambassador Toihiri to demand from Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon a vote in the General Assembly to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law so that people can be empowered to limit their reproductive rights and governments no longer have to poison their people into infertility, as the international community has been doing for nearly seven decades with dire repercussions on the genetic and intellectual endowment of our species.

Should you need my help, I will not hesitate to travel to Comoros to assist you in any way I can.

Covert population control was short-lived in the Comoros Islands on its first run. It was introduced by President Ahmed Abdallah in 1983 and was continued by his successor Said Mohamed Djohar until he was deposed in a coup d'état in 1995.

Judging by the subtle downward slope of the total fertility graph starting in 2003, it appears that the UN and the international community are using either adulterated vaccines or endocrine disruptors to undermine fertility in the Comoros Islands. The current total fertility rate in Comoros is 3.8 children per woman, down from 7 children per woman prior to 1983; and that is impossible to accomplish with a contraceptive prevalence rate of less than 20% and with an abortion rate that was never higher than 2.2% in the Comoros.

DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF THE CONGO

12 October 2014

Joseph Kabila

President of the Democratic Republic of the Congo

Augustin Matata Ponyo

Prime Minister of the Democratic Republic of the Congo

https://www.facebook.com/augustinmatataponyo.mapon?fref=browse_search

President Kabila and Prime Minister Ponyo,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The West does not want China, which already receives more than half of the minerals mined in your country every year, to gain control of Congo's mineral wealth and has been fomenting war with the help of President Kagame of Rwanda and various rebel groups in the hope of installing a puppet regime beholden to western interests, like that of Joseph Mobutu. As a result, your country has been ravaged by two decades of war and nearly 6 million Congolese have died since 1996, the economy has been devastated, and your country now ranks almost last in the world on the Human Development Index.

Since your vast mineral resources, considered among the largest in the world, are indispensable for the West's security needs and are the object of fierce international competition – as you possess 80% of the world's cobalt, 70% of its coltan, 30% of its diamonds, 10% of its copper, and vast untapped deposits of cadmium, gold, silver, zinc, uranium, radium, bauxite and much more – you will know only death and destruction until you are fully subsumed into the global economy, your resources are controlled by multinational corporations, and your population has stopped growing.

Despite your country's extraordinary wealth, which at the time of your independence in 1960 ranked you as the second most industrialized country in Africa, your citizens are among the poorest people on earth, your government is among the most corrupt on earth, and nearly 50.000 Congolese die every month from disease and famine caused by the total collapse of what little social order existed in the Congo.

To make matters worse, your population is still growing unsustainably fast and is six times larger today, at 77 million people, than it was in 1950, and nearly half of your people are children below the age of 15. Since your country is of strategic significance to the world, you will be under relentless pressure to accept a rapid and aggressive program of depopulation and the UN and related western “aid” agencies will try to force you to employ a vast arsenal of covert depopulation measures that subvert fertility and increase mortality.

You can avoid being drawn into the genocidal lobby in control of the international order by instituting a law that restricts fertility to two children per woman and by using foreign aid to provide your people with free contraceptives. That would take care of your international obligations with respect to population control and you would not have to commit genocide. In addition, you could invite both western and eastern corporations into the country to develop your country’s unsurpassed energy potential and provide hydro-electric power to the entire continent, which would allow you to fulfill your international obligations with respect to resource sharing. Last but not least, you could stop filling your own pockets and start giving a damn about your people and act like human beings rather than animals for a change.

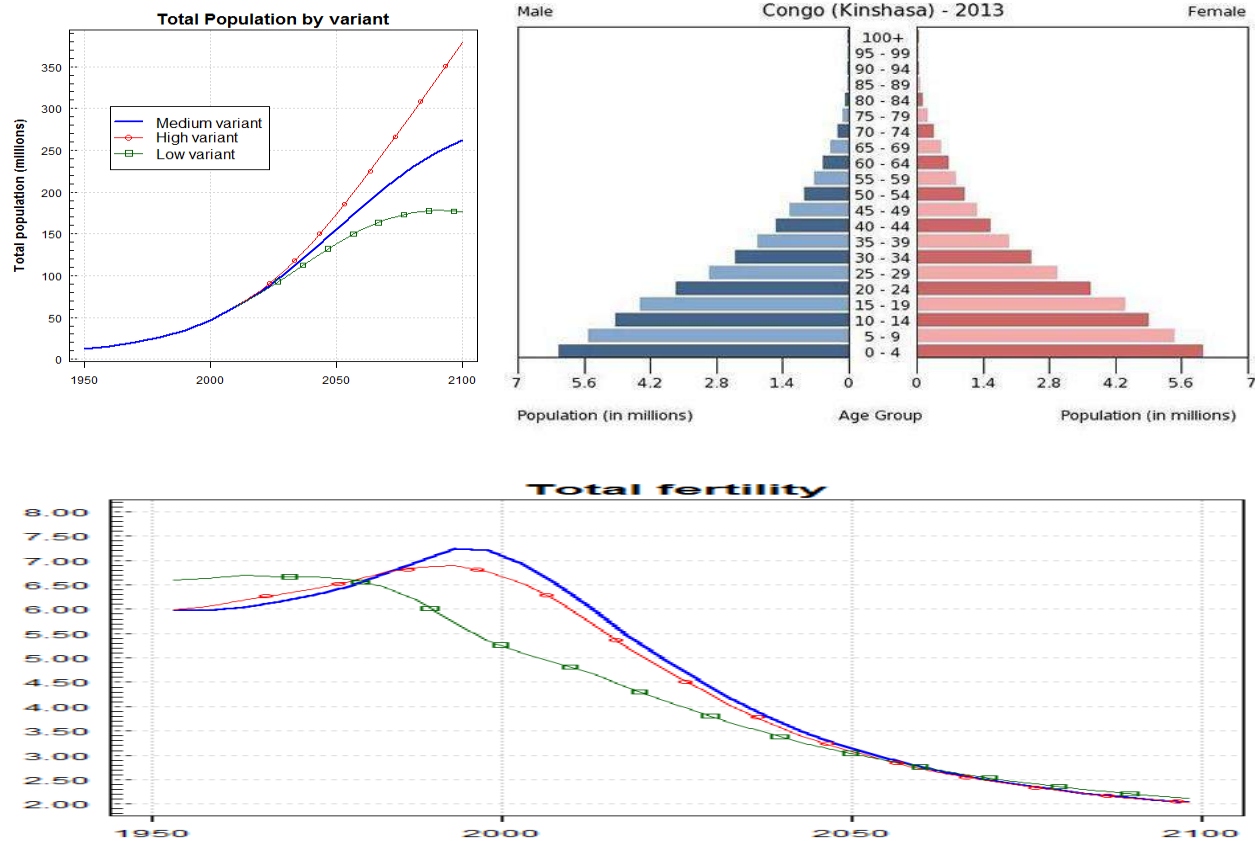

Since you must give up power in 2016, as you are approaching the end of your third consecutive term in office and thus of constitutional term limits, now is the time to do something for your people. Follow my advice and all will be well. Disregard it and you will most likely be assassinated, just like your father.

If you need my help to educate your people about the world we live in and the global requirements we must all fulfill, I stand by to assist you without conditions or expectations. In the meantime, you can access my work free of cost and educate yourself here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Congo's total fertility graph shows that fertility is decreasing since the beginning of the 21st century. The decrease from 7.2 to 6.2 children per woman is however too low to be attributed to covert methods of depopulation and is most likely the result of family planning services and better accessibility to contraceptives in urban areas. The contraceptive prevalence rate is at 18%.

REPUBLIC OF THE CONGO

18 January 2015

Denis Sassou Nguesso, President of the Republic of Congo congo@un.int, mpcongo_onu@hotmail.com

President Nguesso,

Re: covert depopulation measures

The Republic of Congo did not join the Global Depopulation Policy, but the international community and various UN organizations have begun covertly subverting your people's reproductive systems through adulterated vaccines and the malaria drug Artemisinin.

Because Congo is sparsely populated it has escaped the scrutiny of the depopulation lobby. Nevertheless, since Congo's population grew fivefold since 1950 and the total fertility rate is very high at five children per woman you are certainly coming under pressure from the UN to begin poisoning your people with chemical and biological toxins.

To protect your people from engineered genocide and bring them out of poverty, I urge you to join my effort to reform the UN system and bring the depopulation effort into the open so it can be pursued openly and legally worldwide by declaring replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrining it in international law. How to reform it and why I explain in my just published book, The Future of Global Governance.

Reforming the UN and the international system, however, will not succeed unless people are told the truth and presented with the hard cold facts so they understand why it is necessary that we all assume responsibility for limiting our family size. You will find all the information necessary to educate your people in my freely available work:

The year 2015, offers us a unique opportunity to change the global governance level. World leaders will meet three times this year to forge a path to sustainable development, a path that will lead nowhere without depopulation and decarbonization. This is the time to make our voices heard and this is the time for you, President Nguesso, to instruct your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Raymond Serge Balé, to call for reform.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

From 1978 to 1992 the fertility of the Congolese was interfered with by covert means and lowered from 6.3 down to 5.2 children per woman. This coincides with the time when President Marien Ngouabi was assassinated and Colonel Joachim Yhombi-Opango became the head of state, a position he held from 1977 until 1979. It also covers the leadership of Denis Sassou Nguesso, who was head of state from 1979 to 1992.

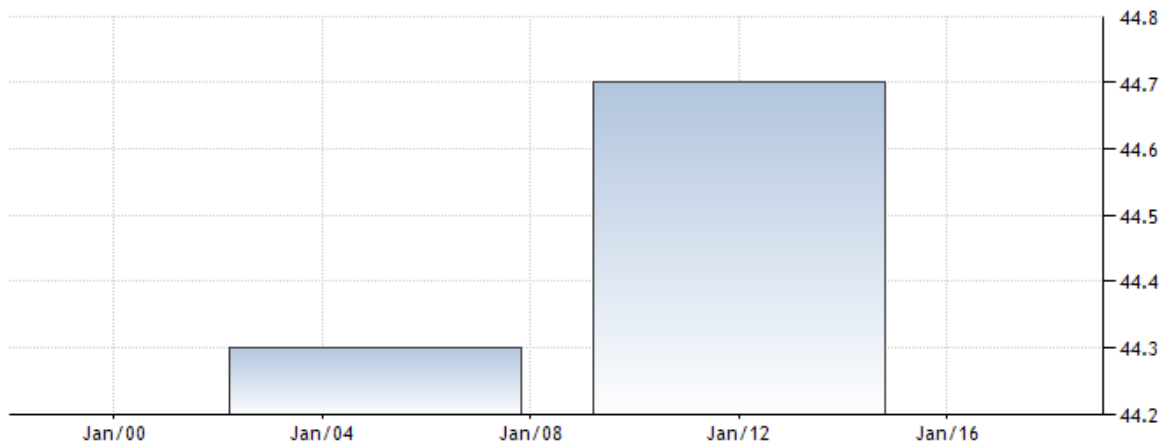

From 1992 to 1997 the program was halted by president Pascal Lissouba, the first democratically elected president of the Republic of the Congo, and then restarted in 2006 by the incumbent President Denis Sassou Nguesso who overthrew Lissouba and returned to power in 1997.

The central figure in the attempt to submerge the Republic of the Congo into the Global Depopulation Policy is therefore the Congolese military and the current President, Denis Sassou Nguesso, who is the military's strongman.

Having served as Chairman of the Organization of African Unity from 1986 to 1987 and as Chairman of the African Union in 2006, President Nguesso is certainly familiar with any and all covert depopulation measures promoted by the UN, but is playing a careful game and appears not to have committed to covert depopulation by involuntary means.

It appears that the decline in fertility since 2006 (from 5.2 to 4.8 children per woman) is the result of legitimate family planning and not due to covert depopulation. The rise in the contraceptive prevalence since 2006 supports this conclusion.

As Chair of the African Union in 2006, Nguesso came under heavy pressure from the UN and from his African peers to begin population control in his country, which is why Congo's fertility rate has been pointing downwards since 2006.

COOK ISLANDS

Prime Minister Puna,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The Cook Islands rejoined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1995 when the Cook Island's Policy on Women and a Programme of Action were formulated. At that time women had an average of 5 children. The total fertility rate has in the meantime decreased to 2.3 children per woman as of 2013.

Due to heavy migration to New Zealand the population of the Cook Islands has remained stable at circa 15,000 people for the past decade. The contraceptive prevalence rate is the highest in the Pacific at 48% so there is no reason to believe that coercion and compulsion were used in the Cook Islands by the family planning program to accomplish the desired demographic objectives.

Nevertheless, your people must be aware that the UN and western aid agencies have used covert methods of depopulation since 1945 and one such method, endocrine disruptors, affect your people every time they consume a soft drink or bottled water from a plastic bottle or a metal can, as well as every time they eat anything that comes out of a metal can or plastic packaging, as they are all lined with epoxy resins made from BPA, a potent sterilizing agent.

That your people are severely affected by endocrine disruptors deliberately inserted in food and drinks for sterilizing purposes is made evident by the astoundingly high prevalence rate of obesity, which for adults stands at 64%, one of the highest in the world. Since the desired family size of your people is 3 children according to a recent survey, Cook Islanders have clearly been rendered physiologically incapable of reaching their dreams. This is supported by the data collected and published by your government in a 2005 report, which shows that Cook Islanders are rather reluctant to use contraceptives yet nevertheless their total fertility rate has dropped like a plane from the sky.

With a population density of 87 people per square kilometer and no natural resources to speak of, Cook Islanders, however, have no choice but to limit themselves to replacement level fertility, but they do have a choice in how to accomplish this goal.

If your government continues to cooperate with New Zealand, with which you are in free association and on whom you depend for social services, and with the UN and its agencies in covertly subverting your people's reproductive rights you will be charged with crimes against humanity sooner rather than later. If, however, you legislate replacement level fertility and endow your people with safe contraceptives to be able to abide by the law, you will ensure the perpetuation of your people and safeguard their health along with their genetic and intellectual endowment.

As the Europeans who first made contact with your ancestors in 1606 remarked you are a "beautiful people", but will not remain so for long if you do not free yourselves of the poisons by which westerners are slowly driving you into extinction.

Beware of the World Health Organization (WHO) and the United Nations Population Fund (UNFDP), which exist solely to commit global genocide, as well as of any food imports from the West and you will survive into the future. Statistical data on the historical progression of the total fertility rate of the Cook Islands is scant. From the meager data that does exist we can conclude that the total fertility rate in 1950 was 6 children per woman, by 1970 it had declined to 3.8, and today it is 2.3.

The statistical history of the Cook Islands indicates that population control was practiced from c. 1970 to c. 1980, which coincides with the presidency of Albert Henry (1965-1978), halted from c. 1980 to c. 1990, which coincides with the presidencies of Tom Davis (1978-1987) and Pupuke Robati (1987-1989), and practiced again from c. 1990 until today, which coincides with the presidencies of Geoffrey Henry (1989-1999), Terepai Maote (1999-2002), Robert Woonton (2002-2004), Jim Marurai (2004-2010) and the incumbent Henry Puna (2010-today).

The 43% contraceptive prevalence rate of the Cook Islands can certainly not explain the country's low fertility. Nor can abortions, which are rare and allowed only to save the life or the health of a woman.

The Cook Islands are in stage three of the demographic transition but due to heavy emigration the country appears to be in stage five.

President Solís,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Costa Rica is a founding member of the United Nations and a willing participant in the Global Depopulation Policy since 1966, which is why the total fertility rate has decreased from 7 to 1.9 children per woman.

Until 1987, by which time the total fertility rate had plateaued at 3.5 children per woman, the government of Costa Rica succeeded in slowing population growth by mostly legal and ethical means: sexual education, delayed marriage, keeping boys and girls in school for as long as possible, postponing entry into the workforce, and by making barrier contraceptives available.

Since 1987, however, the government abandoned all legal and ethical means and began chronically poisoning its people with fluoridated salt to subvert their reproductive rights (so that Costa Rica could reach replacement level fertility) and in the process causing irreversible damage to the human endocrine system with dire repercussions on the genetic and intellectual endowment of all Costa Ricans.

Costa Rica has many noteworthy features: its environmental policies, universal education and pacifism being just a few, but covert depopulation is not one of them and unless stopped it will lead to civil war in the short term and universal mental retardation, sterility and chronic illness in the long term. Neither you nor your predecessors have the right to violate the Geneva Genocide Convention or your people's fundamental rights and unless you immediately stop the genocide you and your predecessors will face criminal charges for crimes against humanity in the near future.

I hope you will not let it go this far and will join my effort to bring the depopulation program out of the dark and from the realm of mass murder into the open and within the law. To this end the political leadership must restrict fertility worldwide to replacement level as a Planetary Security Prerogative derived from the global governance level.

If you believe that you can proceed as usual and even augment your current genocidal methods with chemtrails and GMOs in order to fulfill the goal of becoming the first carbon-neutral country in the world by 2021, which is impossible without lowering your current population by 1.4 million (according to the overshoot index) and reducing your per capita carbon footprint from 1.8 tons to zero in the next 7 years, then you are about to find your dreams collapse into the worst nightmare.

Since you are a civilized and forward looking country with a well-educated population and a stable political system there is no reason why you cannot accomplish all your environmental, economic and demographic goals by legislating replacement level fertility. I can help you do this and you can begin by preparing your people for the inevitable with the help of my freely available books and videos:

I hope that you will take this letter seriously and invite me to Costa Rica to discuss how to bring your government back within the rule of law and democratic processes. Ignore it and I will soon visit you in prison.

You have just begun your presidency and I am giving you the opportunity to continue with a clean slate and an even cleaner conscience.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

From 1966 to 1974 Costa Rica's total fertility rate plummeted from more than 7 children per woman to 4.3 due to an ambitious population control program introduced during the presidency of José Joaquín Trejos Fernández (1966-1970) and continued by his successor, José Figueres Ferrer (1970-1974).

From 1974 to 1986 the program of population control was more restrained but continued nevertheless. This was during the presidencies of Daniel Oduber Quirós (1974-1978), Rodrigo Carazo Odio (1978-1982), and Luis Alberto Monge (1982-1986).

From 1987, when salt fluoridation was introduced, to 2006, the pace of fertility decline slowed down even more, undoubtedly due to the time needed for fluoride poisoning to take effect. This occurred during the presidencies of Óscar Arias (1986-1990), Rafael Ángel Calderón Fournier (1990-1994), José María Figueres (1994-1998), Miguel Ángel Rodríguez (1998-2002), and Abel Pacheco (2002-2006).

By the end Abel Pacheco's term the total fertility rate had reached replacement level and his successors have only needed to maintain it, which is why the concentration of fluoride in salt was lowered and the total fertility rate has leveled off at 1.9 children per woman during the presidencies of Óscar Arias (second term in office, 2006-2010) and Laura Chinchilla (2010-2014).

It is too early to tell how the current president, Luis Guillermo Solís, who took office in May 2014, will deal with what is now a depopulation program since the total fertility rate is at sub-replacement level.

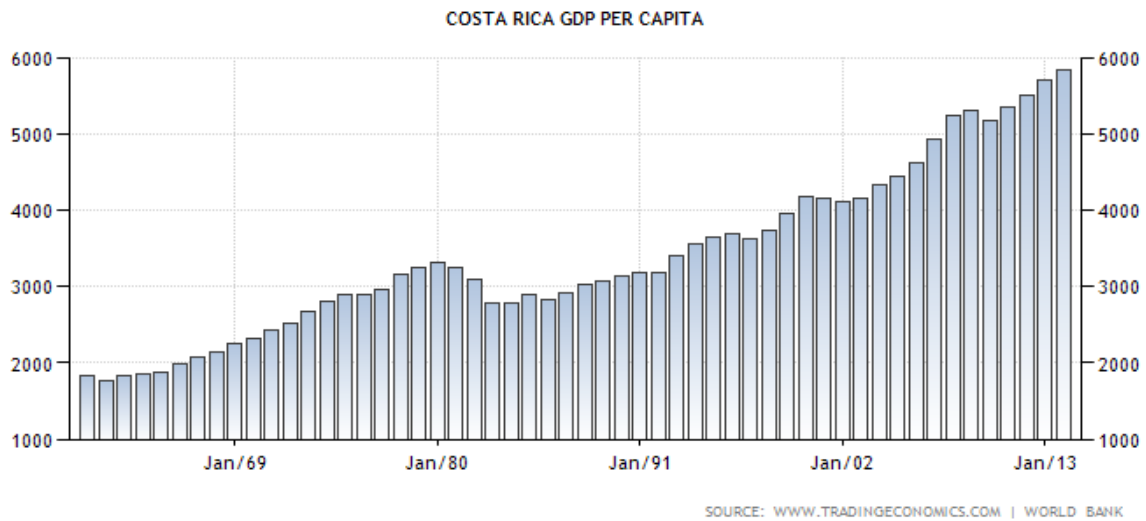

Costa Rica's history of contraceptives shows that the country's fertility began dropping rapidly in the sixties before contraceptives were available. By the time contraceptives became available in the late 1970s the fertility rate had already dropped from more than 7 to less than 4 children per woman; a decline that could have only been accomplished through covert and therefore involuntary sterilization.

Since the 1980s, Costa Rica's government has raised the contraceptive prevalence rate in the hope of being able to cover up the anticipated drop in fertility due to fluoridated salt, which was introduced in 1987. From 2002 to 2006, thus during Abel Pacheco's presidency, the government made great and genuine efforts to raise the contraceptive prevalence rate to 96% (the highest level in the world) to see if contraceptives could replace covert chemical poisoning.

The experiment must have failed, which is why the contraceptive prevalence rate has since dropped to 80% and fluoridated salt is still the only kind of salt available in Costa Rica.

Costa Rica's economic growth shows that per capita GDP growth did not start growing until fertility began declining in the 1960s and that when fertility plateaued in the 1980s economic growth stalled too only to begin to ascend again in the 1990s as soon as fertility began to drop again. Clearly, fertility and economic growth are inseparably linked. Just as clearly, affluence follows declining fertility and not vice versa.

Costa Rica's abortion rate has been steady at circa 10% for the past twenty years and plays only a minor role in the nation's fertility decline and sub-replacement level fertility rate.

Costa Rica is in the fourth stage of the demographic transition.

eu.fondovi@miz.hr, <http://www.zdravlje.hr/en/contact>

President Josipović and Prime Minister Milanović,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

As part of the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, Croatia has been a founding member of the UN and subject to covert depopulation measures since 1949, when it joined the Global Depopulation Policy. As a result, Croatia's total fertility rate decreased from 3 children per woman in 1949 to just 1.4 today and the population has been decreasing since 1991. This fertility reduction has been accomplished as elsewhere in Europe through covert chemical means.

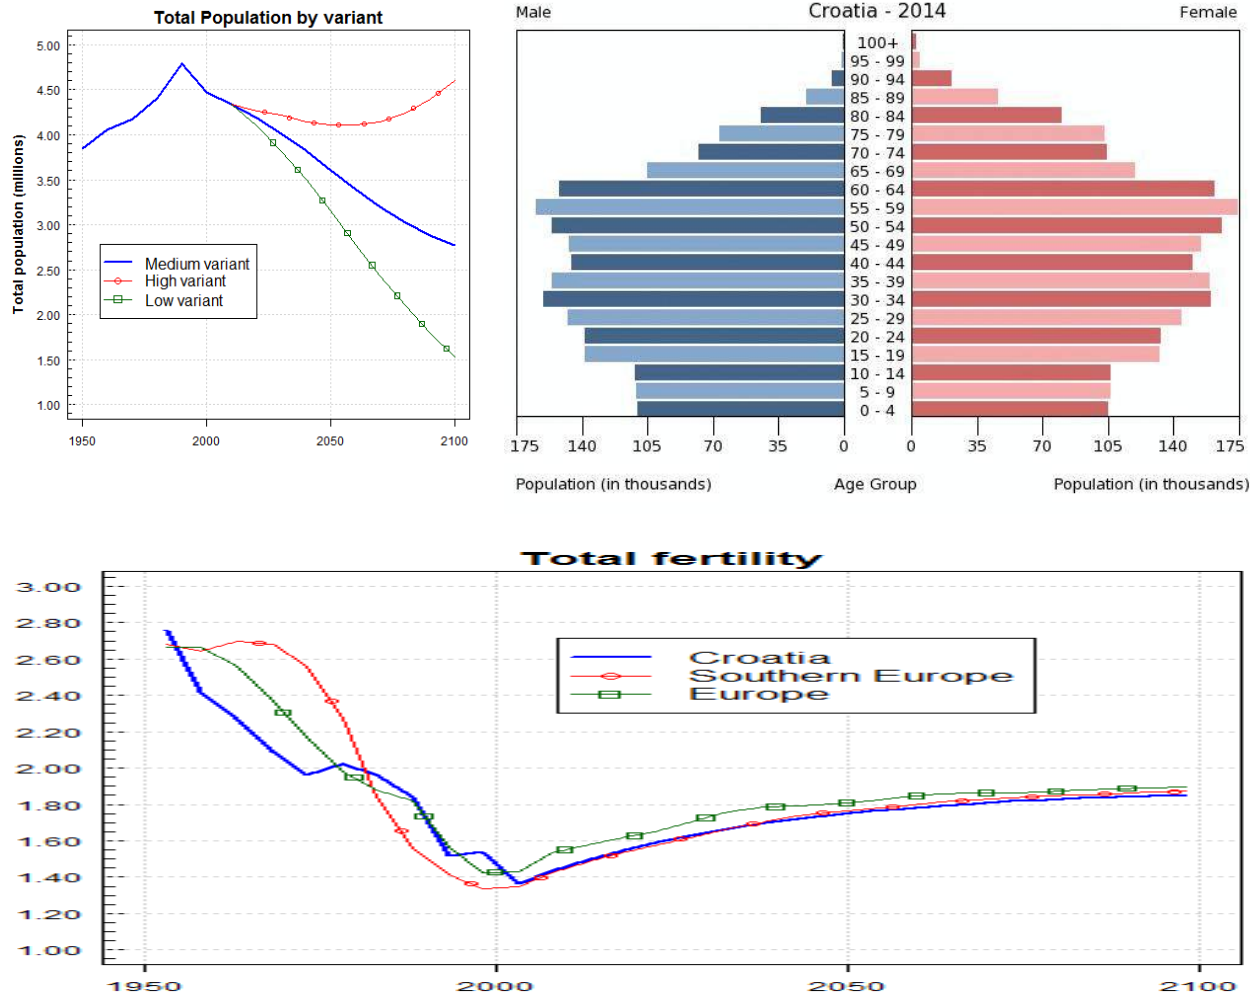

If Croatia continues to subvert the people's reproductive freedom in this fashion there will be no Croatians left a century from now. Already the population has been severely degraded intellectually, genetically and reproductively. Furthermore, if your government continues to commit genocide in the name of international peace, your country will disintegrate in civil war and you will spend the rest of your days behind bars for committing crimes against humanity. If however you join my effort to forge consensus at the global governance level to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative so it can be pursued openly, legally and fairly by every country on earth then you will rescue your people from genocide and your legacies from eternal damnation.

To this end, I encourage you to read my just published book, The Future of Global Governance, and to instruct your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Drobnjak, to lobby for reform of the international system so that sustainability can be accomplished without genocide and international peace can be safeguarded without mass poisoning. My freely available work may help you understand what is at stake:
<http://www.linkedin.com/in/kevingalalae>.

Should you need my help, I will assist you in any way I can.

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

As a federal constituent and autonomous unit of former Yugoslavia, Croatia's leaders are responsible for subjecting the people to covert population control measures from 1949 until full independence in 1991.

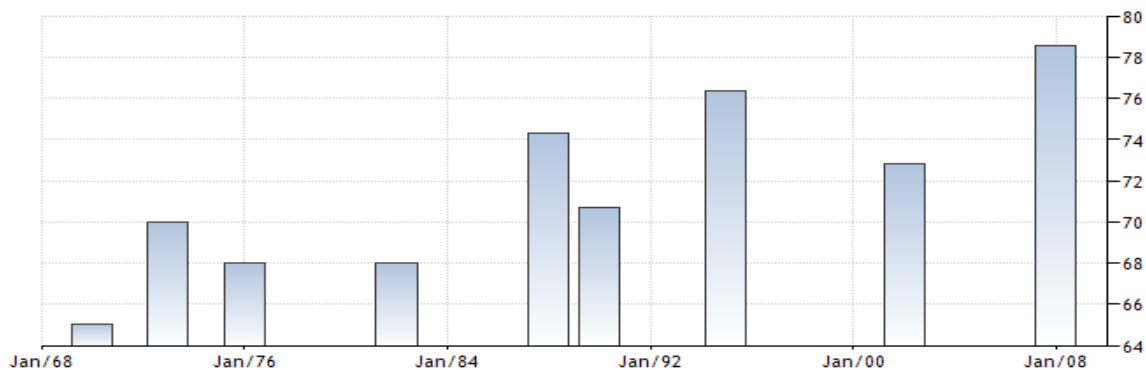

Croatia's leaders since independence in 1991 have subscribed wholesale to western European methods of population control, which involve the adulteration of food and beverages with endocrine disruptors.

All Croat presidents and prime ministers without exception have poisoned their people for population control purposes; starting with President Vladimir Nazor and Prime Minister Vladimir Bakarić in 1945 and up to the present day duo of President Ivo Josipović (and since February 2015 President Kolinda Grabar-Kitarović) and Prime Minister Zoran Milanović.

Due to its early start, Croatia reached replacement level fertility very early, in 1963, sub-replacement level fertility since 1968 and lowest low fertility of 1.33 in 2003.

The population has been in freefall since 1991 due to emigration and negative growth rates. As a result, children have become a precious rarity and most Croat genetic lineages are dead or dying.

Croatia's history of contraceptive use shows that contraceptives did not play a role in the rapid drop in fertility experienced during the 1950s and 1960s when contraceptives were not available. Croatia, therefore, achieved replacement level fertility before contraceptives. Its contraceptive prevalence rate since then has served only to conceal the use of covert chemical sterilization.

Abortion has played an important role in suppressing the fertility rate, but can also not account for the rapid drop in fertility to replacement level, drop that took place during the 1950s, when there were no abortions, and 1960s, when the abortion rate was on average 34%. Furthermore, Croatia's history of abortion shows that it peaked in 1989 at 48% and has been decreasing ever since without having an impact on the fertility rate, which has remained below replacement level.

By the 1990s, the abortion rate fell to 24% while fertility instead of rising sunk even lower and stayed below 1.4 children per woman throughout the decade. Since the turn of the century, the abortion rate has fallen even further: to 19% in 2005, 16% in 2008, 9% in 2009, and has been below 8% since 2012 while fertility, instead of rising, has remained constant at a very low rate of 1.4 children per woman.

As Croatia has adopted Western Europe's methods of covert chemical sterilization through endemic adulteration of food and beverages with endocrine disruptors, abortion has become less and less important and since 2000 it plays a statistically insignificant role in the country's unnaturally low fertility rate.

The only time abortion has played a statistically significant role – so much so that in conjunction with contraceptives it could explain the low fertility – was from 1977 to 1993 when the leadership tried hard to abandon covert methods of sterilization by increasing contraceptive use and abortions, which during that time ended, on average, 40% of all pregnancies.

Croatia is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF CUBA

15 September 2014

Raúl Castro

President of Cuba

cubaminrex@minrex.gov.cu, apoblacion@infomed.sld.cu, presidencia@icrt.cu

President Castro,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

No other country in the world is a better global citizen than Cuba. No other leader has had a more transformative role for his country than Fidel Castro. And no other nation meets the definition of sustainable development and has a smaller ecological footprint than Cuba.

Despite America's subversive activities, aggression and sabotage, and a socio-economic system that has many shortcomings, Cuba has survived and flourished as an independent, proud and ethical nation.

Yet your people's extraordinary accomplishments are in peril due to the program of population control adopted by the Cuban government in the 60s. Unless and until Cuba stops deliberately subverting its people's reproductive systems through endocrine disruptors, the intellectual and social accomplishments realized since independence will gradually evaporate and all Cuba will be left with will be a sick, feeble and retarded population.

Cuba is ideally placed to pursue population control honorably and legally and thus fulfill its international obligations with respect to international security without harming the minds and bodies of its people in order to placate the genocidal policies of the United Nations and its sponsors in America and Europe.

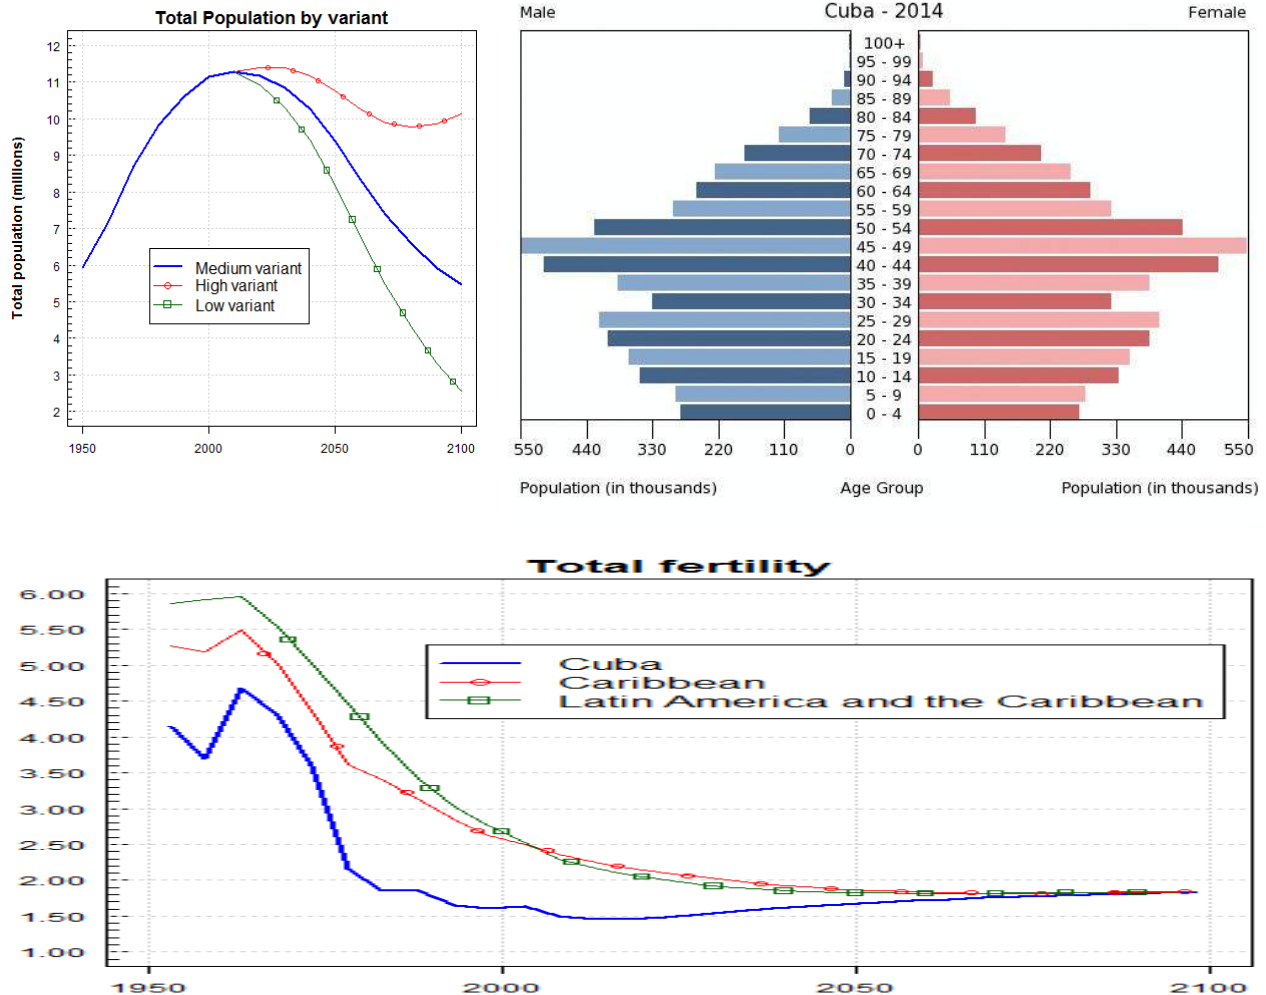

Cuba's high metrics in health and education, combined with its very high Human Development Index and its one-party political system, will make legislating population control relatively easy. I urge you to abandon covert depopulation and to adopt overt legislation to accomplish your demographic objectives and complete the demographic transition within and not outside the rule of law.

I can help you do this and you can help me forge global consensus for worldwide laws limiting family size, an outcome that is absolutely necessary and inevitable.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

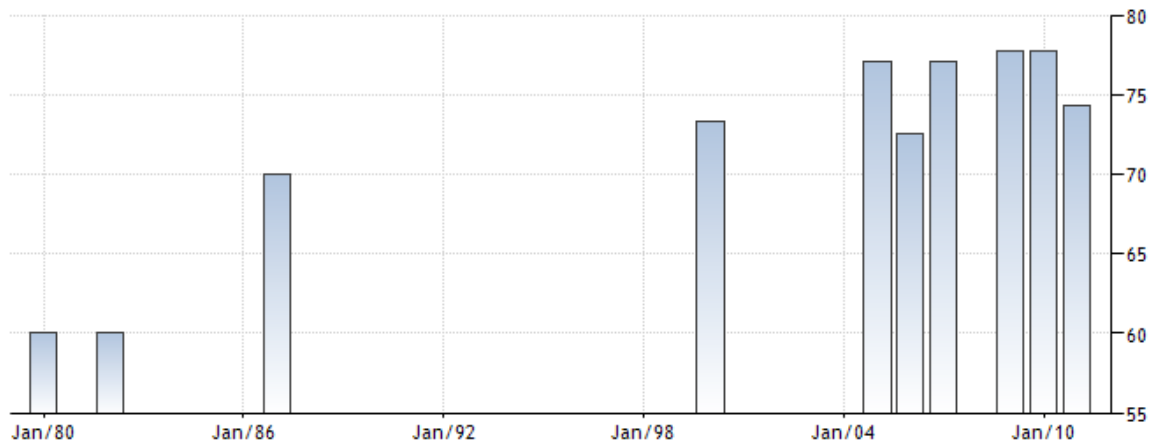

Cuba is a UN founding member but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1962. As a result, the total fertility rate decreased from nearly 5 children per woman prior to 1962 to just 2 children per woman by 1978.

None other than Fidel Castro is responsible for instituting covert methods of depopulation, for he has been in full control of the country since 1959. Despite his populist credentials and the anti-American rhetoric, Fidel Castro has been no better and no worse than the architects of the post-World War II international order.

His brother and successor since 2006, Raúl Castro, has continued to poison the Cuban people with fluoridated salt, which has been Cuba's method of choice for sterilizing the people since at least 1989. Prior to 1989, Cuba used fluoride tablets, injectable contraceptives and surgical sterilizations. In addition, Cuba has relied heavily on abortion, which, the historical record shows, has on average ended 40% of all pregnancies since the early 1970s until today.

Cuba's total fertility rate has been below replacement level since 1980 and is at 1.4 children per woman to date. That this low fertility could not have been accomplished through the voluntary use of contraceptives is clearly demonstrated by the fact that the country's contraceptive prevalence rate was below 60% prior to 1980. Even the 77% contraceptive rate of today cannot account for Cuba's sub-replacement level fertility.

While Cuba's abortion and contraceptive rates are significant factors in the war on fertility, they are not the primary factors. Covert chemical sterilization via fluoride takes the lead in Cuba's sub-replacement level fertility.

Cuba is in the fourth stage of the demographic transition and will enter the fifth and last stage in five to ten years.

REPUBLIC OF CYPRUS

Nicos Anastasiades, President of Cyprus
info@presidency.gov.cy, mission@cyprusun.org

President Anastasiades,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Cyprus joined the Global Depopulation Policy as soon as it joined the UN in 1960 and its total fertility rate was brought down from 4 to 1.4 children per woman today and it is below replacement level since 1997. In 1960, your population stood at 570,000 and today it is just over one million, but much of the growth is due to immigration from Turkey and other countries. Cyprus' population will begin decreasing within a decade due to artificially low fertility rates.

The Cyprus Family Planned Association (CFPA), which is a member of the International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF), was created in 1971, but its services are merely a front for covert chemical sterilization via endocrine disruptors inserted without people's knowledge or consent in food, water and beverages as elsewhere in Europe and throughout the western world and hemisphere.

While I understand that your island nation has limited natural resources and it must reduce its population to a level that is sustainable, I cannot condone the methods employed by your government. Poisoning your people to infertility over multiple generations is illegal, immoral and ill-advised and will lead to sterility in the vast majority of the population within half a century.

Since I have exposed the covert methods of depopulation employed by the UN and governments throughout the world since 1945, their continuation will inevitably lead to civil war and to the eradication of the 1% by the 99% if the elites continue to commit crimes against humanity and genocide despite growing and justified anger and disgust among the populace.

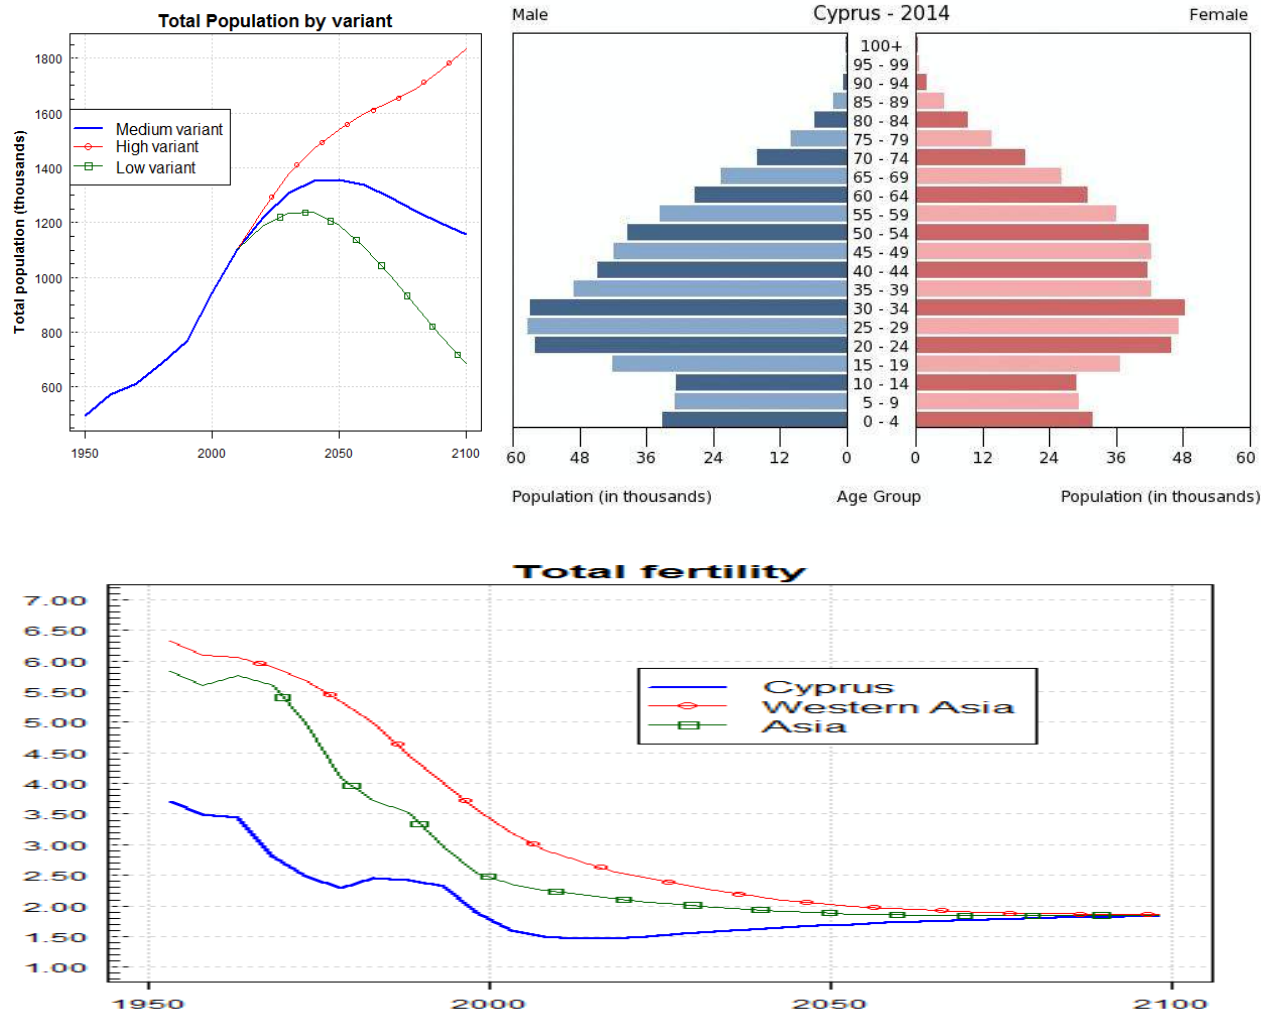

I am now giving you the opportunity to break rank with the genocidal lobby and to join me in my effort to legislate population control worldwide from the global governance level as a Planetary Security Prerogative that no nation and no individual on earth can henceforth eschew. Absent such a law the world will descend into war long before it collapses due to environmental and economic problems.

You can get the facts from my freely available work here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

I stand by to meet with you to discuss how best to set your country on the right path and bring it back within the rule of law so that Cyprus' children have a future.

What is extremely interesting about Cyprus is that the man responsible for instituting covert depopulation measures on this island nation was none other than the archbishop and primate of the Church of Cyprus, Makarios III, who also served as the first President of Cyprus from 1960 to 1977.

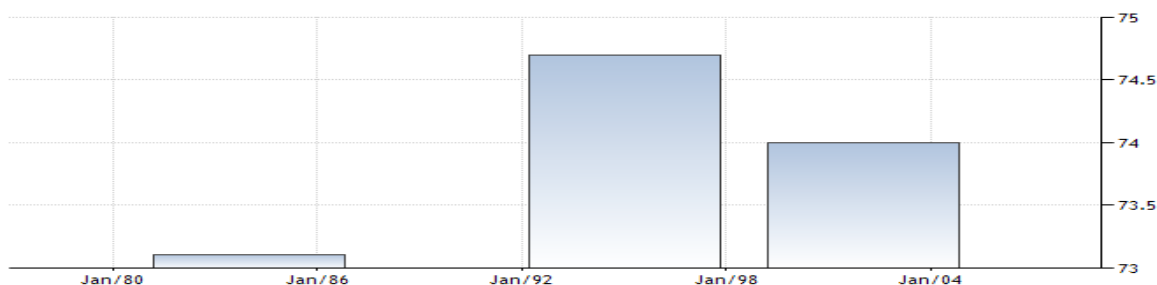

Archbishop Makarios III had no moral objections to poisoning his people with endocrine disruptors; or if he had any he sacrificed them for political expediency and economic convenience, like most other world leaders irrespective of political colors. No wonder he was the target of four assassination attempts and a coup!

His successors to the presidency - Spyros Kyprianou (1977-1988) and George Vasilou (1988-1993) – who were not men of the cloth but merely politicians, had far more scruples than Archbishop Makarios and did not have the heart to poison their people, which is why the total fertility rate levelled off during their terms in office.

President Glafcos Clerides (1993-2003) picked up where Archbishop Makarios III left off and Cyprus' total fertility rate decreased from 2.5 to 1.5 children per woman during his term in office.

To this day, Cyprus' total fertility rate remains stuck at the sub-replacement level of 1.5 children per woman. This means that presidents Tassos Papadopoulos (2003-2008), Demetris Christofias (2008-2013), and the incumbent Nicos Anastasiades (in office since February 2013) have continued to poison the Cypriot people to comply with the demands of the UN-delegated Global Depopulation Policy.

At 0.1%, Cyprus' abortion rate is statistically irrelevant and has therefore no bearing on the nation's low fertility. The contraceptive prevalence rate of c. 75% since the early 1980s serves only to hide covert methods of sterilization.

Cyprus has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a rising GDP. No sooner did Cyprus approach replacement level fertility in the early 1970s then its per capita GDP began to grow rapidly. What the graph below also indicates is that Cyprus, whose population has started decreasing in 2012, has cashed in on all benefits that could be had from low fertility and is now facing a shrinking economy due to a shrinking population.

Cyprus is in the fourth stage of the demographic transition.

President Eroğlu and Prime Minister Yorgancıoğlu,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1960, when Cyprus, which was still undivided, had just gained its independence from Britain and also became a UN member state. Following the 1974 attempt to annex the island to Greece and the ensuing partition, all population control efforts were abandoned until 1990 when they were resumed by Southern (Greek) Cyprus but not by Northern (Turkish) Cyprus.

Since declaring its independence in 1983, Northern Cyprus has been waging a war of numbers to tilt the island's ethnic balance in its favor. When the Republic of Cyprus was formed in 1960, fixed population ratios determined power-sharing arrangements between Greek Cypriots and Turkish Cypriots to prevent intercommunal conflict.

When Northern Cyprus was rejected by the UN in 1975, the Turkish administration ceased all covert depopulation measures and allowed the people's fertility to revert to normal while also encouraging immigration from Turkey thus altering the population ratios that have been historically important for power-sharing arrangements on the island. To what extent the ethnic ratio has been changed is unknown since the government of Northern Cyprus reveals neither its total fertility rate nor the number of immigrants. What is certain is that the ethnic ratio has changed in favor of Turkish Cypriots since the total fertility rate of Greek Cypriots has been below replacement level since 1993.

This kind of demographic war is dangerous as it threatens regional stability and widens the fault line between Muslims and Christians at a time in history when we most need to close it so we can live with one another in brotherly love. To close this fault line in Cyprus and elsewhere we need bold reform of the international system and a frontal offensive against religious and ethnic fundamentalism. The latter is ongoing but the former is yet to take place. How it must occur and why I explain in my just published and freely available book The Future of Global Governance.

The world will not be safe for our children and the planet will not be safe from mankind unless we live in the image of God, which means that we establish harmony among men and equilibrium between mankind and nature. And this too is a matter of education and evolution from widespread ignorance to universal wisdom. Such evolution will not take place unless governments free the truth. We must never be afraid to confront ignorance regardless of its strength in numbers. For one wise man can humble a billion fools.

You will find the truth and hopefully some wisdom in my work, which you can access freely and disseminate as you like:

President Zeman and Prime Minister Sobotka,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The Czech Republic, which was part of Czechoslovakia at that time, joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1948 and reached below replacement level fertility in 1967. Your population began declining in 1994. With a fertility rate of 1.4 children per woman native Czechs will continue to decline and the total population can only be kept stable though immigration.

The Czech Republic has deep democratic roots, a solid industrial base, developed country status and an overwhelmingly agnostic population, which makes it ideal for instituting a population control law and retiring all covert methods of depopulation that have been imposed on you first by the Soviets and since 1989 by the West.

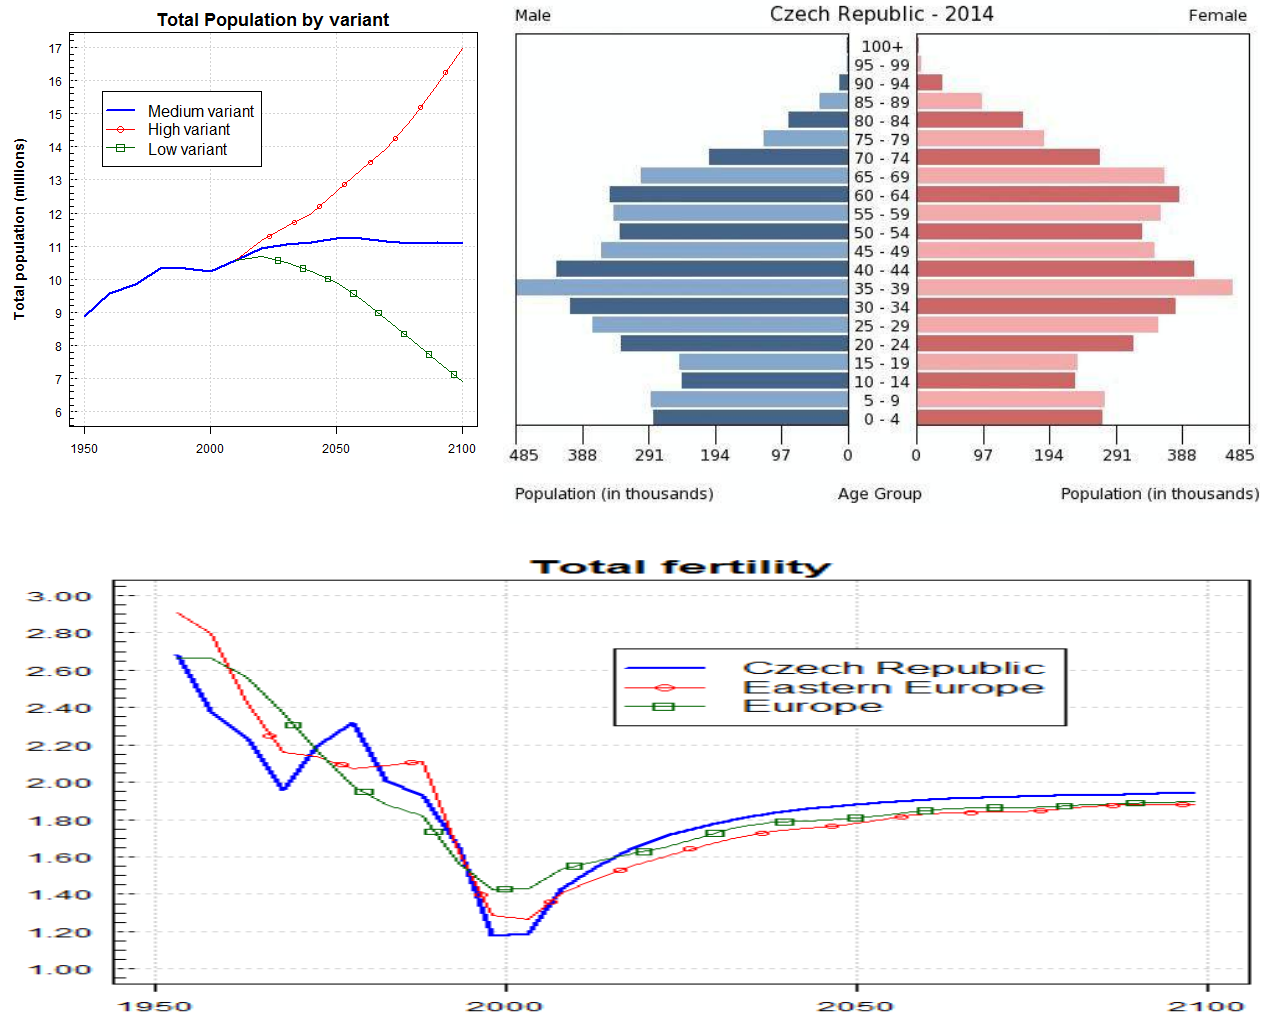

Your people have shown self-determination in 1968, during the Prague Spring revolt against communism under the leadership of Alexander Dubček, and then again during the Velvet Revolution of 1989 under the leadership of Václav Havel. This time around, not only Europe but the entire world needs your leadership if we are to evolve from an international system based on genocide to one rooted in enlightened humanism. Until such time as you are ready to lead, your people will continue to be poisoned into oblivion with endocrine disruptors and neurotoxins delivered through food, beverages and, most recently, air and the human fabric of your country and of the world will be reduced to that of animals.

I am giving you the opportunity to rise to the status of global heroes; and more importantly, to preserve your humanity. If you do not take it you will fall to the level of mass murderers and that is how history will remember you.

Since I am already in Europe I could be in your office within hours to discuss your liberation from an international system of genocide.

Sincerely,

The men responsible for instituting covert depopulation measures in the Czech Republic (then part of Czechoslovakia) were the President Klement Gottwald, who held the office from 1948 to 1953, and Prime Minister Antonín Zápotocký, who was also in office from 1948 to 1953. Gottwald had previously served as Prime Minister from 1946 to 1948 and Zápotocký served as President from 1953 to 1957.

Ludvík Svoboda, the 8th President of Czechoslovakia shut down the program during his term in office from 1968 to 1975 and the total fertility rate rebounded. President Svoboda, however, was the only Czech leader who refused to poison his people. All other presidents and prime ministers before and after him went along with the demands imposed on them by the UN and the international community.

Even Václav Havel, a man I used to respect for his political dissent during the communist era, did not have the courage or the character strength to oppose the UN and the depopulation lobby.

As President of the Czech Republic from 1993 to 2003, he could have changed the world, but chose instead to walk in line with all others and stay behind history.

Like all countries bordering the now defunct Iron Curtain, which were the first in Europe to be subjected to covert depopulation measures, the Czech Republic is a dying nation where children are a rarity and the people a mere shadow of their former selves.

From 1960 until the dissolution of the Eastern Bloc in 1991 abortions have ended 30% to 45% of all pregnancies in the Czech Republic and have therefore played an important role in the nation's war on population growth. Since 1991, the abortion rate has decreased (from 48% in 1991, to 38% in 1994, to 28% in 2000, and to less than 18% since 2008) but fertility has not, which means that the Western methods of covert chemical sterilization adopted in the early 1990s have gradually kicked in and displaced abortion and contraceptives as the primary reasons for sub-replacement level fertility.

The contraceptive prevalence rate, like the abortion rate, has been declining since its 78% peak in 1990. Fertility, however, instead of rising has sunk even lower, reaching a lowest low of 1.13 children per woman in 1999 and staying below 1.5 to this day.

The population has been decreasing since 1994 and the number of deaths surpasses the number of births, which means that the Czech Republic is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

Queen Margrethe and Prime Minister Thorning-Schmidt,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Something is rotten in the state of Denmark. While Denmark is no longer “a land full of drunken swine”, as in the days of Shakespeare, it is now a land full of hapless victims and still festering with moral and political corruption. The merriment of the Danish people at the end of the 16th century was attributed to excessive consumption of “draughts of Rhenish down” and was as such at least real, in the fleeting way of alcohol poisoning. Denmark’s designation as the world’s happiest nation by the 2013 World Happiness Report issued by Columbia University’s Earth Institute, however, is wholly fabricated, since this happiness is induced by the blissful ignorance and apathy that befall a people who have been poisoned with endocrine disruptors for seven decades and who, as such, are neither in control of their minds nor of their bodies. The current “merriment”, therefore, is not only unnatural but also irreversible in nature.

Responsible for this pitiful state of affairs are Denmark’s monarchy, politicians, doctors and dentists who have betrayed the people’s trust by going along with the United Nations and covertly poisoning their citizens since 1950 in order to suppress their fertility and accomplish the demographic objectives demanded by the international prerogative of population control that has served as a substitute for war since the end of the Second World War.

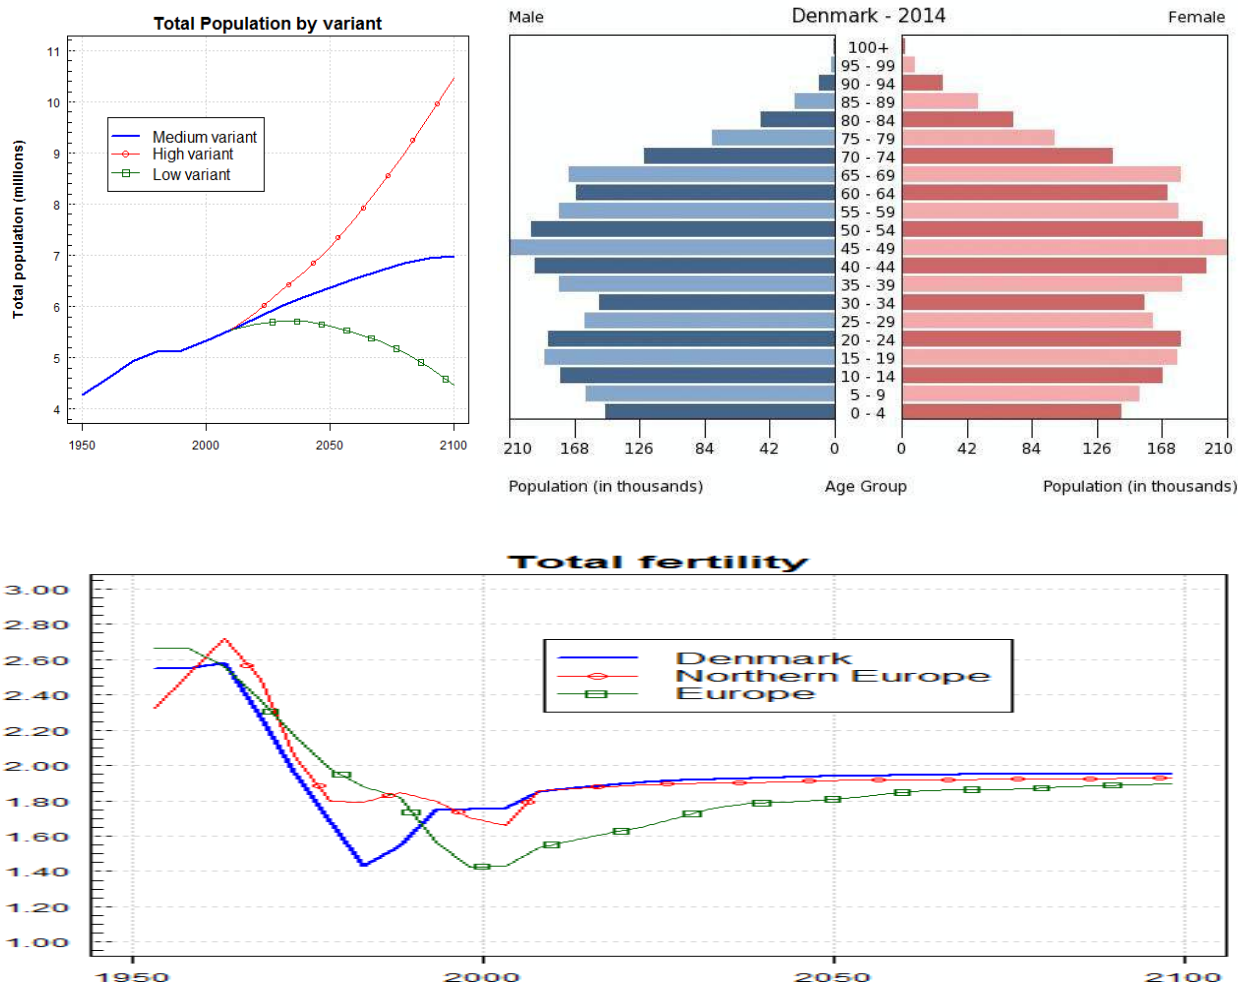

The time has come to put an end to this charade. The party is over and now is time to clean up and pay the piper. I can show you how to clean up peacefully and honorably. And I can also show you how to legislate population control and thus fulfill your nation’s obligations towards the international community without committing genocide and crimes against humanity and without condemning your people to eternal imbecility.

What I cannot do is undo the damage done to the generations of Danes whose health and minds have been subverted from the moment of their conception. But I can save the children who are yet to be born and the future generations of Danes who deserve to know what true happiness means.

Sincerely,

Like most other western European nations, Denmark began covertly sterilizing its people in 1962. The men responsible for instituting this insidious program of mass poisoning for population control purposes are Frederick IX of Denmark, who reigned from 1947 to 1972, and Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag who was in office from 1962 to 1964 and again from 1971 to 1972.

The program of depopulation continued unabated until Poul Schlüter became Prime Minister in 1982. Throughout his eleven years in office the sterilizing poisons were relaxed and the total fertility rate bounced up a little.

Neither the current monarch, Queen Margrethe II, nor any of the elected politicians before or after Poul Schlüter, have been concerned with the people's rights and liberties or worried about their health and wellbeing. Their one and only concern has been to keep the total fertility rate at sub-replacement level, a state Denmark reached in 1970 and has maintained with mathematical precision ever since.

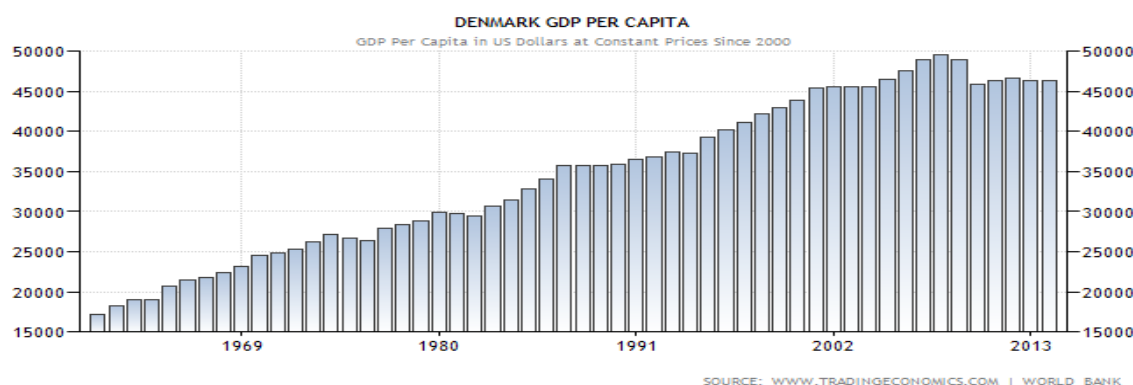

That Denmark could not have possibly reached such low fertility through voluntary and therefore legitimate means is amply demonstrated by the contraceptive prevalence rate, which was never sufficiently high to keep the total fertility rate under replacement level.

Nor have abortions played a significant role in the war on population growth in Denmark since the abortion rate peaked at 25% during the 1970s and the historical record shows that it has been decreasing ever since: 31.5% in 1977, 28% in 1987, and has been at c. 20% since 1997.

Like all European countries, Denmark has accomplished this demographic miracle by adulterating the basic elements of life – food, water, and beverages – with endocrine disruptors and through direct oral applications of fluoride by dentists.

As elsewhere, as soon as Denmark's fertility rate began declining in 1963 the GDP per capita began increasing.

Denmark is on the last leg of the fourth stage of the demographic transition and is about to cross into the fifth and last stage over the next five years. Without heavy immigration, Denmark would have already been in the fifth stage for a decade or two.

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Djibouti joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1977, the same year it gained its independence from France and also became a UN member state. As a result, the total fertility rate decreased from 7 children per woman prior to 1977 to 2.5 today. As elsewhere in Africa this has been accomplished with sterilizing vaccines administered by western NGOs affiliated with the UN system.

You can continue to assist the international community to commit genocide or you can join my effort to reform the UN system and enshrine replacement level fertility in international law as a Planetary Security Prerogative so it can be pursued openly, legally, justly and safely. How to accomplish this I outline in my just published book The Future of Global Governance. The man responsible for bringing Djibouti into the fold of the Global Depopulation Policy was the first President of Djibouti, Hassan Gouled Aptidon, who held the office from 1977 to 1999. His handpicked successor and current President of Djibouti, Ismail Omar Guelleh (since May 1999), has stayed the course.

Djibouti's total fertility rate has decreased from nearly 7 to just 2.5 children per woman with hardly any contraceptives, as the history of its contraceptive prevalence rate clearly shows.

Since abortion is a non-factor in Djibouti and the contraceptive prevalence rate has yet to reach even a paltry 25%, Djibouti has accomplished this miraculous drop in fertility entirely with sterilizing vaccines administered by the UN and western NGOs under various pretexts.

Djibouti is in stage three of the demographic transition.

President Savarin and Prime Minister Skerrit,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Dominica was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1961, seventeen years before it became an independent nation and a UN member state. As a result, the number of births per 1000 people per year decreased from 47 in 1961 to just 13 in 2012. This early interference with people's fertility and the high emigration rate have ensured that the island's population has remained relatively stable, adding only 12,000 people in 54 years, a modest 20% increase.

Since 2002, the total fertility rate has been kept at replacement level with mathematical precision, which indicates that the fertility of the Dominican people is being controlled through involuntary surgical sterilizations. Abortion, to this day, remains illegal.

No official family planning services existed in Dominica until 1976 when the Dominica Planned Parenthood Association (DPPA) was founded, but by which time the fertility rate had already halved, from 47 to 24 births per 1000 people; a decrease that can only be explained by covert sterilization. Furthermore, until 1989 the DPPA provided only information and education on family planning but no clinical services or contraceptives.

In its 1985 study, the Centro Latinoamericano de Demografia (CELADE) confirms that "up to as late as 1973 there was no organized family planning programme on the island" in this "very Catholic country" and that the first such programme "got underway in 1973" and was “government sponsored and initially received support from PAHO/WHO and UNFPA” as well as from “IPPF, OXFAM and the British Ministry for Overseas Development”.

The International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF), the World Health Organization (WHO), the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), and the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), have either destroyed the record of their population control activities on the island or are keeping them secret because all my searches of their databases have borne no fruit whatsoever. Clearly some serious, illegal and immoral experiments have been carried out in Dominica, which is why the world is not allowed to know the facts.

What is also clear is that very careful records were kept starting in 1950, which suggests that Dominica served as a controlled experiment for early depopulation efforts. CELADE's 1985 study, for instance, is able to quote data that 62% to 79% of all births in Dominica between 1950 and 1980 were illegitimate.

What is also missing from the record are contraceptive prevalence surveys conducted in 1981 and 1982 by Westinghouse (a nuclear power plant operating corporation) in St. Lucia, Antigua, Dominica, and St. Vincent. What remains are indirect references to these surveys by the Barbados Family Planning Association, which interestingly reveals that 70% of all women in Dominica had been exposed to contraceptives, a rate higher than anywhere else in the world at that time and to this day paralleled only by China and a handful of European countries. More than this, women 40 to 44 years old are “potential contraceptors” to the tune of 89%, which is a rate unheard of anywhere else on the planet even today, let alone in the 1980s, and that in a country that is the poorest in the Caribbean and among the poorest in the world. The study also reveals that 18.2 % of all women in Dominica were surgically sterilized by 1982, seven years before any official family planning programs began offering such services on the island.

That endocrine disruptors such as fluoride have been used and continue to be used in Dominica to subvert fertility is suggested by the fact that the island has the highest obesity prevalence of both sexes in the Eastern Caribbean, with 38% of all males and 64% of all females being obese. This places Dominica on rank 11 of the 20 most obese countries in the world, according to data held by the World Health Organization. These statistics show that endocrine disruptors have been used over multiple generations in Dominica. And this can only mean that the people are being covertly poisoned with fluoride since 1961; fluoride being the only endocrine disruptor used to subvert human fertility at that time.

Since Dominica has not declared either the use of fluoridated salt or water, and has no free dental program to apply fluoride veneers periodically into people's mouths, one can only conclude that your government poisons the people into sterility with fluoride entirely in secret and by a method that is yet to be confessed.

A further indicator that proves brutal interference with the people's fertility is provided by the pre-Columbian native Caribs living on the island. Unlike the rest of the population in Dominica they have been left alone to reproduce at natural rates, which is why their numbers have nearly doubled since 1991 while the rest of the population has not increased at all over the same period.

Clearly, something is seriously wrong in Dominica. Crimes are being committed there and have been committed for the past five decades for demographic objectives. Yes, population control is necessary and replacement level fertility needs to be accomplished by every country on earth if we are to survive as a species. But no one has the right to sterilize people without their knowledge or consent and without clear laws that give the government such authority.

I am now giving you the opportunity to stop committing genocide against your own people and to start the process of bringing your nation's demographic objectives to light and legislating replacement level fertility so the people are in charge of their reproductive rights and not genocidal national and international authorities. If you ignore my call you will end up in front of a firing squad. If you however speak the truth and inform your people of what is going on and legislate, then all will be well and history will remember you as saviors of the nation.

You will find all the information you need to persuade your people of the need to assume control in my work, which you can access free of cost in these two locations:

While Dominica has been subjected to covert methods of depopulation by its British overlords since 1961, the program did not properly kick in until 1974. The UN hides Dominica's demographic and statistical data because it is too revealing. Nevertheless, the picture is clear even from incomplete secondary sources. Dominica has had sub-replacement level fertility since 2002.

Between 1961 and 1979 the crude birth rate was halved. The man responsible for instituting involuntary population control measures in Dominica was Edward Oliver LeBlanc who was Chief Minister of Dominica from 1961 to 1967 and Premier from 1967 to 1974.

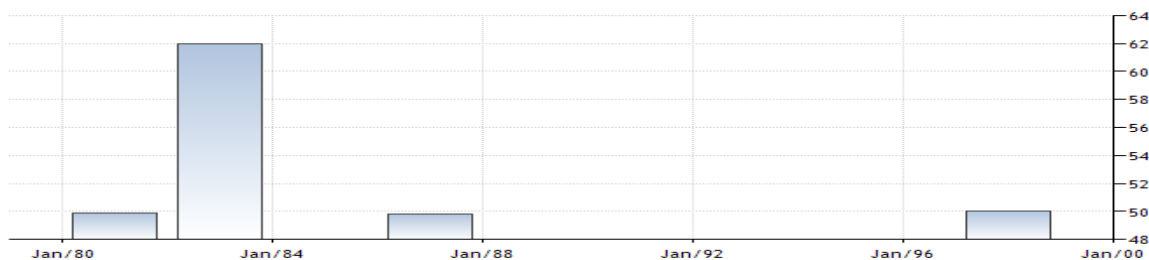

The only respite from aggressive depopulation measures occurred during the administrations of President Aurelius Marie (1980-1983) and President Clarence Signoret (1983-1993) and their counterpart Prime Minister Eugenia Charles, who was in office from 1980 to 1995.

All other presidents (Louis Cools-Lartigue, Fred Degazon, Crispin Sorhaindo, Vernon Shaw, Nicholas Liverpool, Eliud Williams, and incumbent Charles Savarin) and prime ministers

(Patrick John, Oliver Seraphin, Edison James, Rosie Douglas, Pierre Charles, Osborne Riviere, and incumbent Roosevelt Skerrit) have been covertly sterilizing their people without mercy.

Given Dominica's small size and reliance on British expertise it is safe to assume that once Chief Minister and Premier Edward Oliver LeBlanc set the covert depopulation program in place in 1961 with British help it has been running on its own ever since under the auspices of the Ministry of Health and that his successors in high office have had little or no clue of what is being done to them and to their people in the name of health. Nevertheless, as political leaders of the country it is their responsibility to know and therefore are complicit in crimes against humanity by negligence if not necessarily by design.

At no point in time has Dominica's drop in fertility been the result of contraceptives, as the contraceptive prevalence rate below clearly shows. And since abortion is only permitted in Dominica to save a woman's life the drop in fertility cannot be attributed to abortions either.

The fact that Dominica, which is a relatively poor country with a per capita income of $7,022, reached replacement level fertility in 2008 shows that low fertility is not the result of affluence, as we have been led to believe by the depopulation lobby and their misinformation machine. The opposite is the case; affluence follows low fertility. That is to say, a nation will only become affluent if it first succeeds in lowering fertility. This is clearly shown by Dominica's record of its GDP growth, which took off as soon as replacement level fertility was accomplished in 2008.

Dominica is in the fourth stage of the demographic transition and will enter the fifth and last stage in a few years. Due to emigration it appears that Dominica is already in the fifth stage, but since deaths have yet to exceed births Dominica is technically still in the fourth stage.

President Medina,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Although a founding member of the United Nations Organization, the Dominican Republic did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1960 and subsequently the nation's total fertility rate decreased from 7.5 to 2.5 children per woman today.

Population control is unquestionably the single most important factor in the preservation of international peace since 1945, but it no longer needs to proceed by covertly poisoning the innocent masses with chemical and biological toxins. The time has come to bring the depopulation effort out in the open by legislating replacement level fertility as a Global Security Prerogative that no person and no nation can henceforth evade, but also, and most importantly, can be pursued openly, fairly, legally and safely.

This can only occur if the entire global governance structure is radically reformed and if the world agrees on pursuing a common and sustainable future. Why this is necessary and how this can be accomplished I have outlined in my just published document "The Future of Global Governance".

I hope you will encourage Ambassador Cortorreal to add your country's voice at the upcoming international negotiations on sustainability in Addis Ababa, New York and Paris to compel the international community to change course and pursue a future without genocide and peace without poison.

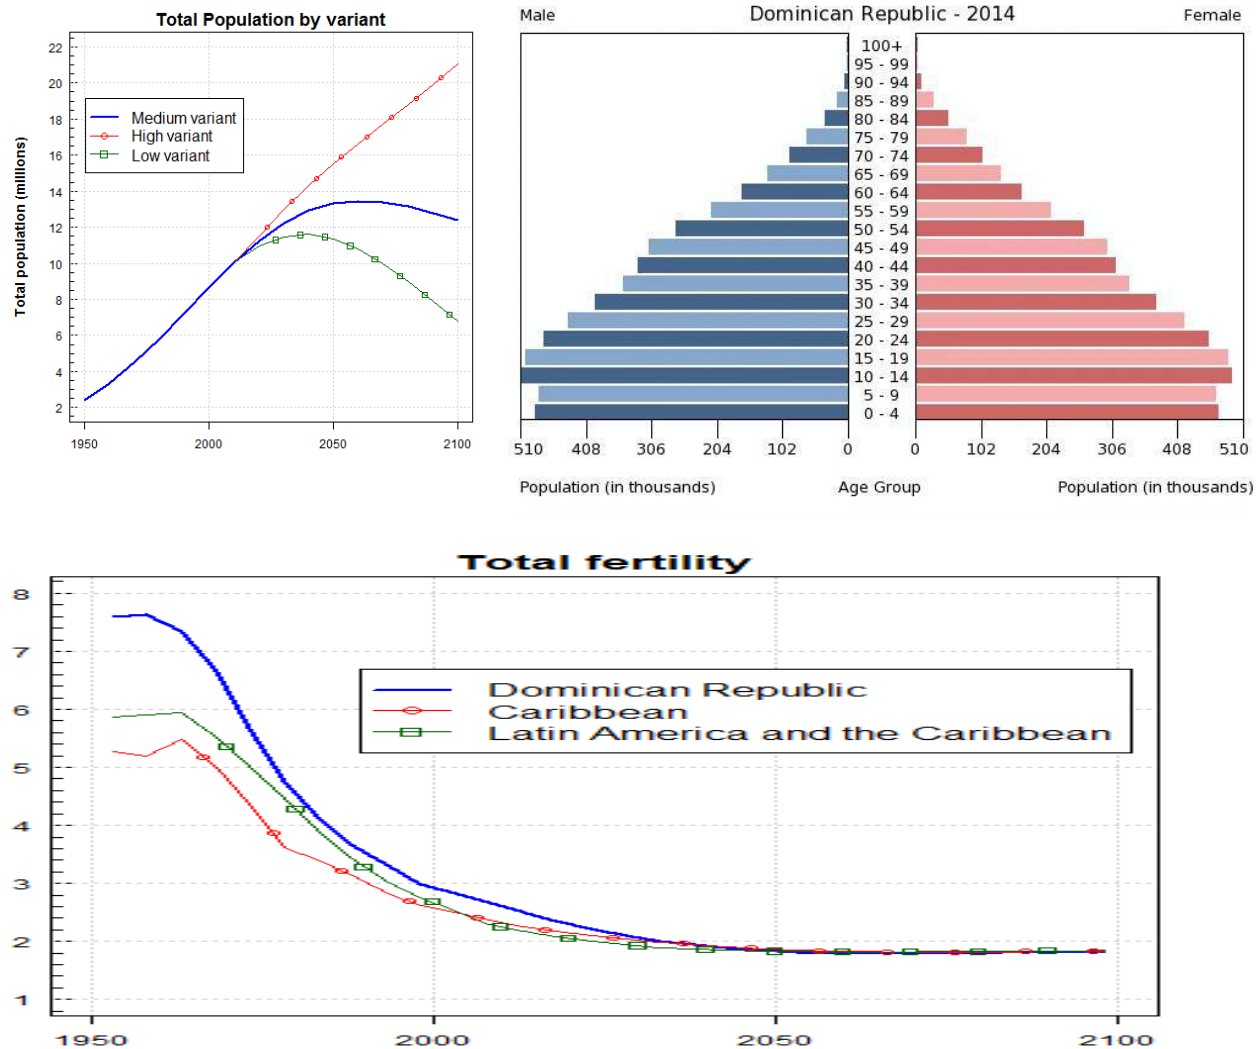

This requires that you understand the issues at hand and you will only be able to get the facts from my seminal work, which I make available to the world free of cost here:

The total fertility rate of the Dominican Republic began to decline in 1960 when Joaquín Balaguer became president. He served three non-consecutive terms in office: 1960 to 1962, 1966 to 1978, and 1986 to 1996. By 1996, when he lost the presidency, the total fertility rate had declined from 7.4 children per woman to just 3.

Belaguer's successors, Leonel Fernández (1996-2000), Hipólito Mejía (2000-2004), have continued covert depopulation measures but less aggressively. President Leonel Fernández (2004-2012) and the incumbent Danilo Medina have accelerated the program in the hope of reaching replacement level fertility.

The population of the Dominican Republic has grown from 2.4 million in 1950 to 10 million to date; a fivefold increase in less than seven decades. It has also reached a population density of 200 people per square kilometer. Had the leaders of the Dominican Republic not implemented covert methods of depopulation in 1960, the island's resources would have been stripped clean by now, as has happened on the Haitian side of the island where population control measures were started 30 years later.

From 1960 to 1980, when fertility declined from 7.6 to 4.2 children per woman, contraceptives were non-existent on the island and the decline was entirely accomplished through covert chemical sterilization. From the 1980s onward the government has tried to conceal its use of covert methods of sterilization by increasing contraceptive use. However, throughout the eighties contraceptives remained under 50% yet fertility declined from 4.2 to 3.4 children per woman. During the nineties contraceptives rose to 60% and fertility declined from 3.4 to 3 children per woman. And since the beginning of the century contraceptives rose to 70% and fertility declined from 3 to 2.4 children per woman.

At no point in time could contraceptives account for the drop in fertility though increasingly they play a role both to hide the true source of decline and in the hope that eventually they will replace covert chemical sterilization.

Abortion is relatively rare in the Dominican Republic, as the historical record shows, and has never exceeded 19% (in 2004).

The Dominican Republic has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing GDP. The record shows that as fertility has declined the GDP per capita has increased.

The Dominican Republic is in the third stage of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF ECUADOR

13 September 2014

Rafael Correa
President of Ecuador

info@asambleanacional.gov.ec

President Correa,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

No other leader in Latin America has taken more concrete steps to detach his country from the current Anglo-American-dictated and UN-delegated international system of covert depopulation and coerced globalization.

You have rightfully refused to pay the illegitimate and odious debt incurred by the previous and corrupt leaders of Ecuador. You have reduced poverty and unemployment. You have granted sanctuary and asylum to Julian Assange who is a global hero. And you have publicly discussed the program of mass poisoning via chemtrails that America and Europe fund and criminal corporations such as DynCorp carry out in violation of international law, with diabolical disdain for human life and dignity, and with the full protection of western governments and the international institutions they control and manipulate in order to commit global genocide.

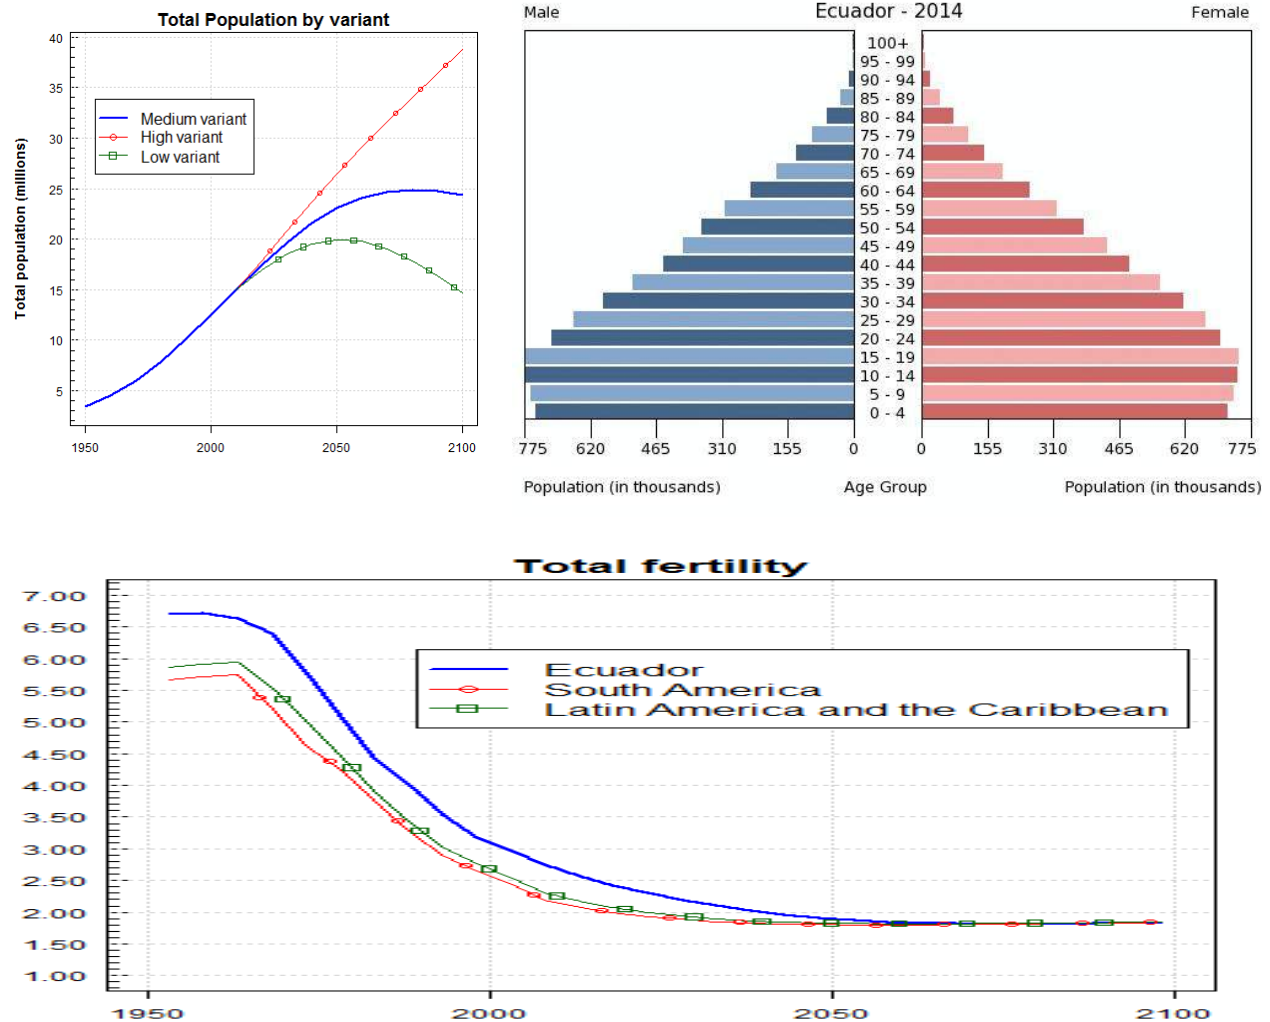

Now is the time to instruct your country's media and civil society to inform the world about the ongoing genocide perpetrated on the world's people covertly in order to achieve demographic objectives by undemocratic, unlawful and immoral means. Now is the time to protect your people from infertility, chronic illness and mental retardation caused by fluoridated salt by outlawing this method of population control throughout Ecuador. Now is also the time to meet with me and help me forge global consensus for worldwide legislation for population control and the immediate cessation of covert depopulation via endocrine disruptors.

Inaction and silence means complicity in crimes against humanity and I am certain that you do not want your legacy to be that of a mass murderer, your grave trampled on by generations of incensed Ecuadorians, and your children and grandchildren held to account for your mistakes.

The hope of the world rests on leaders like you. Do not disappoint us. I stand by to fly to Ecuador to discuss how best to rescue your country and the world from a coalition of foreign interests bent on mass murder.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Ecuador's leaders began controlling population growth in 1963 but have proceeded with more care and compassion than all other nations in Latin America save for Bolivia. A military junta overthrew President Carlos Julio Arosemena Monroy (1961-1963) in July 1963 because he refused to start population control measures, as he had been instructed by the American ambassador. By 1966 the military put in place the tools necessary to control population growth.

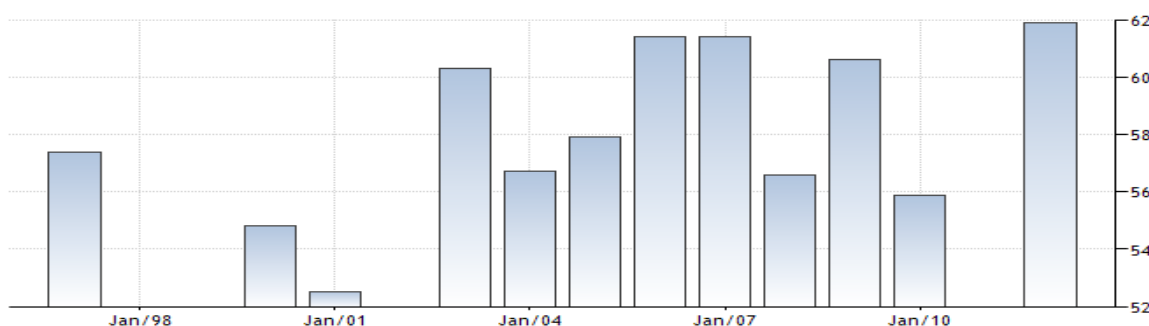

The military then cleared the way for President Otto Arosemena (1966-1968), who, contrary to expectations, refused to subvert his people's reproductive rights. His successor, José María Velasco Ibarra (1968-1972), who had already served four presidential terms, began family planning measures as soon as he was elected for the fifth time.

Until 1996, when Abdalá Bucaram became president and introduced salt fluoridation, Ecuador's population control program had proceeded legally through better provision of contraceptives and family planning services. Since 1996, however, the drop in fertility has been accomplished through fluoride poisoning and therefore illegally.

President Bucaram was chased out of the country in 1997, but the fluoride poisoning program has remained and continues to this day under the auspices of Ecuador's Ministry of Health with funding and technical assistance from the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO) and the World Health Organization (WHO). Sterilization though fluoridated salt is currently also augmented with sterilizing vaccines, especially in hard-to-reach rural areas populated by indigenous people.

With Rafael Correa as president of Ecuador and Evo Morales as President of Bolivia, South America is well-placed to challenge the legality of the UN-delegated program of covert depopulation and initiate reform of the international order.

Ecuador's contraceptive prevalence rate is 62% and therefore cannot account for the decline in fertility to 2.4 children per woman. And since abortion is illegal and performed only in cases of rape and to save the life of a woman, abortions do not play a statistically significant role.

Ecuador too has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing per capita GDP. The GDP began to rise as soon as fertility had been reduced from nearly 7 to just 3 children per woman in 2000. As fertility has continued to decline Ecuador's GDP has continued to increase.

Ecuador has recently entered stage three of the demographic transition.

ARAB REPUBLIC OF EGYPT

18 September 2014

Abdel Fattah el-Sisi

President of Egypt, info@ad.gov.eg

Ibrahim Mahlab

Prime Minister of Egypt, feedback@sis.gov.eg

President el-Sisi and Prime Minister Mahlab,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Egypt's history shows that bad rulers were punished by erasing every trace of their existence. Imagine how much worse your punishment will be unless you fail to protect your people from genocide by outlawing all toxins and poisons with which the UN and its western sponsors deliberately undermine the Egyptian people's fertility, health and longevity for the sake of mandatory population control and under the cover of aid!

The misguided policies of Hosni Mubarak have made your country dependent on American aid that has been wasted on the military and has destroyed every democratic instinct of the Egyptian people and replaced it with a foreign-financed military dictatorship. To this day this remains the case, which is why the democratically elected government of Mohamed Morsi was ousted by the Egyptian military and then sentenced to death or life imprisonment the leaders of the Muslim Brotherhood; a mistake and a crime that will haunt Egypt for decades to come unless immediately rectified.

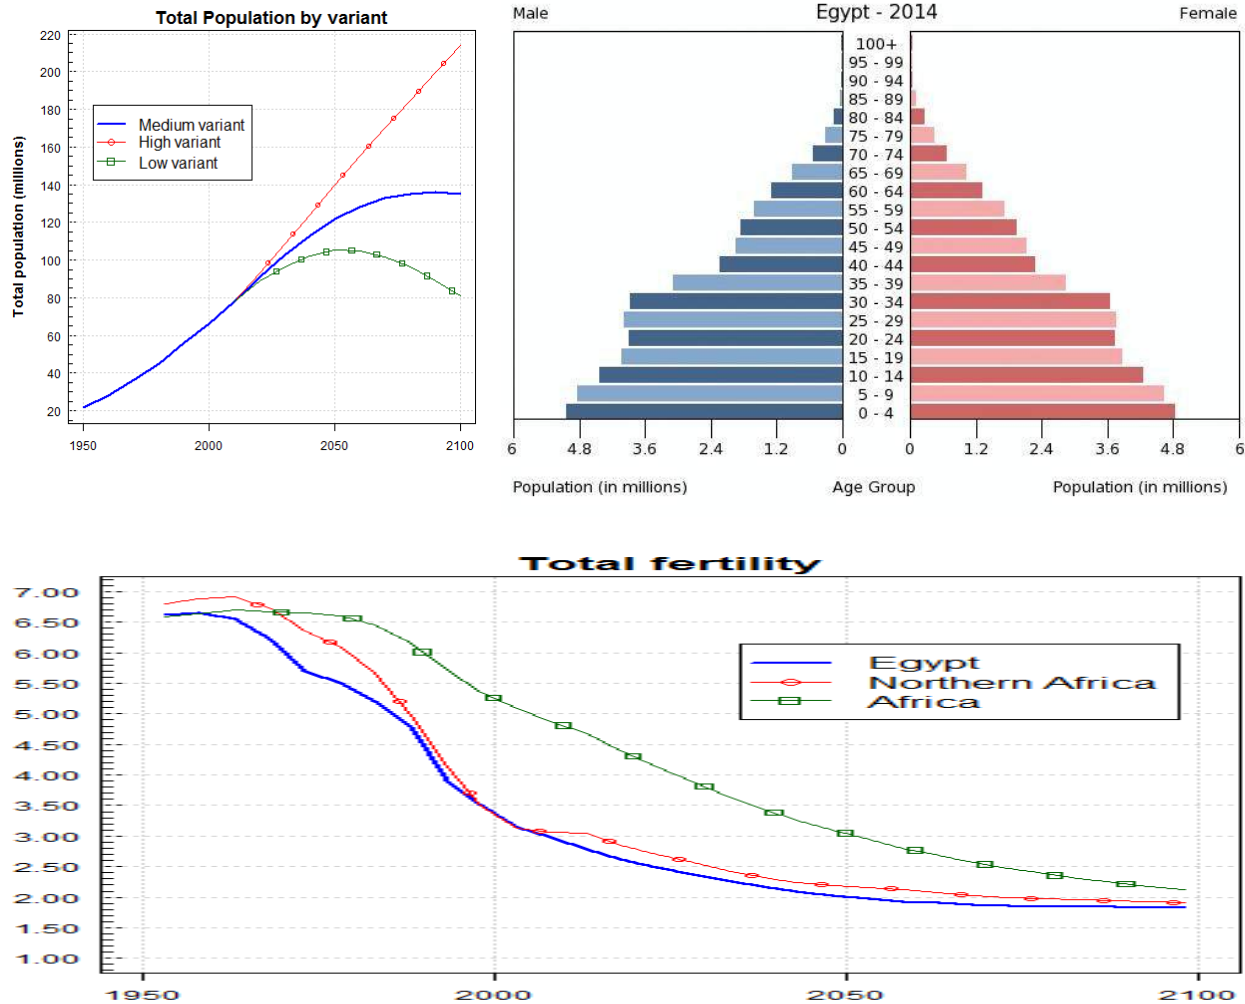

Egypt's problems stem from the fact that the population has grown much faster than the economy possibly could and the country can only be kept afloat by foreign aid. No amount of military force will either solve or suppress Egypt's macroeconomic problems and the consequent malcontent. Therefore, the sooner Egypt adopts open legislation limiting family size to no more than two children the faster it will escape the cycle of poverty and conflict that it is trapped in. Until then, leaders will change like dirty sheets and the woes of the country will grow from bad to worse as the Nile Valley is rapidly denuded.

I hope that you will meet with me to discuss how we can forge global consensus for overt population control and make Egypt once again a cradle of civilization and a bedrock of stability. The world needs Egypt to get its act straight and assume its central and historic role as the intellectual and cultural heart of the Middle East.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

Although a UN founding member, Egypt did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1962 and has proceeded cautiously so as not to offend the religious and cultural sensibilities of its people.

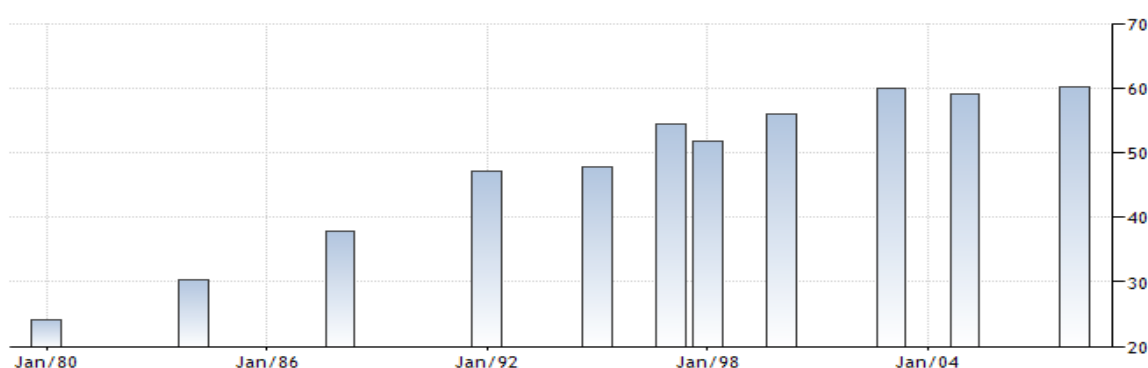

Egypt's population control efforts have come in ten year waves, each wave driven by a different president. In the sixties, President Gamal Abdel Nasser managed to lower the total fertility rate from 7 to 6 children per woman. In the seventies, President Anwar Sadat lowered fertility further from 6 to 5 children per woman. And from 1981 to 2011, President Hosni Mubarak succeeded in shaving off one more child from Egypt's total fertility rate bringing it down to 3.

Over the past four years of political turmoil, the depopulation program has taken a backseat and the total fertility rate has stagnated at 3 children per woman.

With a military man now in office, Field Marshal Abdel Fattah el-Sisi, the Egyptian people are being subjected to covert methods of depopulation via endocrine disruptors; a program that started during the last decade of Hosni Mubarak's reign.

According to the Contraceptive Security Strategic Plan for Egypt 2006–2010 (CSSP), President Mubarak had set a national goal of reaching replacement level fertility by the year 2017. With international pressure mounting, the current administration is undoubtedly staying the course towards replacement level fertility, which at this crucial stage can only be lowered either through legislation or through covert sterilization.

That Egypt has accomplished its drop in fertility from 7 to 3 children per woman not through voluntary methods of birth control and better family planning services as through covert sterilization is amply demonstrated by the low contraceptive prevalence rate, which to this day has not exceeded 60%.

Abortion in Egypt plays no role since it is illegal and therefore extremely rare.

Egypt is in stage three of the demographic transition.

President Cerén,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Despite being a founding member of the United Nations, El Salvador did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1969. As a result, its total fertility rate declined from 6.5 children per woman prior to 1969 to just 2.2 today. As elsewhere in Latin America, the covert method of choice for subverting human fertility is fluoridated salt, which is augmented by involuntary sterilizations through vaccines.

Considering that the population of El Salvador grew from just 2.2 million in 1950 to 6.3 million today, and that the population density is now high at 341 people per square kilometer, El Salvador has no choice but to continue with population control until it reaches replacement level fertility, which is what the international order demands of every country on earth now more than ever due to the sustainability prerogative demanded by climate change.

Committing genocide, however, in the name of necessary demographic, security and environmental goals is neither acceptable nor possible anymore now that I have exposed the depopulation program and its methodology. Now is the time to change course by reforming the UN and the international order. How to do this I have spelled out in my just published book, The Future of Global Governance.

I urge you to read my book without delay and to instruct your nation's ambassador to the UN, Mr. Rubén Ignacio Zamora Rivas, to call for UN reform so the world can embark on a new path of cooperation and realize peace without poison as well as sustainable development.

Such a reorientation of the international order requires also that people are told the truth and given the straight facts so they understand why it is necessary to assume responsibility over reproduction and curtail it accordingly. You will find all the material you need to educate your people in my freely available work:

El Salvador joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1969, but did not force involuntary methods of sterilization onto the people until 1990 when women still had more than 4 children despite better access to contraceptive services and when the government allowed foreign NGOs to start using sterilizing vaccines. This move can be attributed to President Alfredo Cristiani (1989-1994) and is part and parcel of his program of structural reforms. His family's business, the Semillas Cristiani Burkard (SCB), was the representative of the Monsanto Company in Central America and in the meantime the entire world knows that the Monsanto Company exists solely to commit genocide through technology. Monsanto purchased SCB in 2008.

At the turn of the 21st century, President Francisco Flores Pérez (1999-2004) introduced fluoridated salt and the country's population pyramid began tapering at the bottom, which indicates that smaller cohorts of children are being born. All other presidents have stayed the course.

With a contraceptive prevalence rate of 66% and abortion being illegal under any and all circumstances, El Salvador's low fertility is clearly the result of involuntary sterilization through fluoridated salt.

El Salvador is in stage three of the demographic transition.

Vicente E Hate Tomi

Prime Minister of Equatorial Guinea

<http://www.guineaecuatorialpress.com/contacto.php>

President Obiang and Prime Minister Tomi,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Equatorial Guinea has not joined the Global Depopulation Policy and is therefore part of a very select group of countries whose leaders have refused to poison their people into sterility and ill-health.

Since the government of Equatorial Guinea has not interfered with the people's reproductive rights, the total fertility rate has remained unchanged at circa 5.5 children per woman since 1950 when record keeping began. As a result, the population has grown at natural rates and has increased from 220,000 in 1950 to 680,000 in 2014, a threefold increase.

While the population density is relatively low at 24 people per square kilometer, the country's young median age of just 19.4 years and the fact that 60% of the population is under 24 years old spells explosive population growth well into the future and therefore demographic and economic disaster. That is why I encourage you to legislate replacement level fertility and to provide your people with safe and subsidized contraceptives, otherwise the butchery that occurred in the 1970s during President Nguema's reign of terror, when 80,000 out of a total population of 300,000 were killed, will be undoubtedly repeated and you will eventually meet with the same fate as he did. Alternatively, the depopulation lobby will again send mercenaries to try to invade your country and install a puppet regime as they attempted in 2004.

Already the situation on the ground is dire since half the population has no access to safe drinking water, 2 out of 10 children die before the age of five from preventable diseases, human trafficking and exploitation are endemic, the human rights record is among the worst in the world, as is the human development index, and even though the nation's gross domestic product makes Equatorial Guinea the richest country per capita in Africa, due to oil found in the 1990s, none of that wealth makes it to the people.

The good news is that you, President Obiang, have full control of the country, being Africa's longest serving autocrat, and have shown your worth by protecting your people from the engineered and global genocide delegated by the UN and its western sponsors who have shamelessly been poisoning people across the world through covert chemical, biological and bacteriological means and have done irreparable damage to the genetic and intellectual endowment of mankind, to say nothing of people's fundamental rights and liberties, while continuing to maintain a façade of freedom and democracy that is perverse and hypocritical beyond belief.

That means that you have the political power necessary to impose a two-children-policy and ensure that your people escape the poverty trap and attain sustainability and prosperity on their own while remaining physically healthy and mentally strong, unlike the debilitated and downgraded people of the western world who have been poisoned by their own elected governments for nearly seven decades and who are as a result merely shadows of their ancestors.

To legislate family size you will need to educate your people in record time and to this end I am providing you with full and free access to my books and videos.

As a UN member state since 1968 you also have the option of using your country's vote to compel the UN to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law. This alone will save the people of the world from covert methods of depopulation and the genocidal elites who have conceived and implemented them within the framework of an international system based on mutual coercion mutually agreed upon that is diabolical and has delivered humanity into the hands of evil. This alone will ensure that population control and depopulation are accomplished openly, fairly, legally and safely so that everyone sacrifices a little but no one is shut out of procreation.

I therefore urge you to instruct Ambassador Mba to openly ask UN General-Secretary Ban Ki-moon to facilitate a vote in the General Assembly to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and stop the global genocide before we, the people, rise up and execute every member of the depopulation lobby for crimes against humanity irrespective of their high office and whether they are religious or secular leaders.

President Afwerki,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Eritrea joined the Global Depopulation Policy as soon as it became a UN member state in 1993. As a result, its total fertility rate has declined from 6.5 to 4 children per woman. This decline has been accomplished through involuntary sterilizing vaccines, as throughout Africa.

With such a high fertility rate the population of Eritrea has doubled in the past 30 years even though more than a million people have emigrated from the country during the same time. Clearly this is not sustainable and Eritrea will have to lower its total fertility to replacement level, like every country on earth.

I am providing you with the opportunity to protect your people from the genocidal methods of population control encouraged and funded by the UN and its western sponsors. To understand exactly what I mean I urge you to read my freely available and just published book The Future of Global Governance and to advise ambassador Desta to forge consensus at the UN for a change from covert to overt depopulation measures, which can only happen if replacement level fertility is declared a Planetary Security Prerogative and every country agrees to empower its people to limit their families to at most two children.

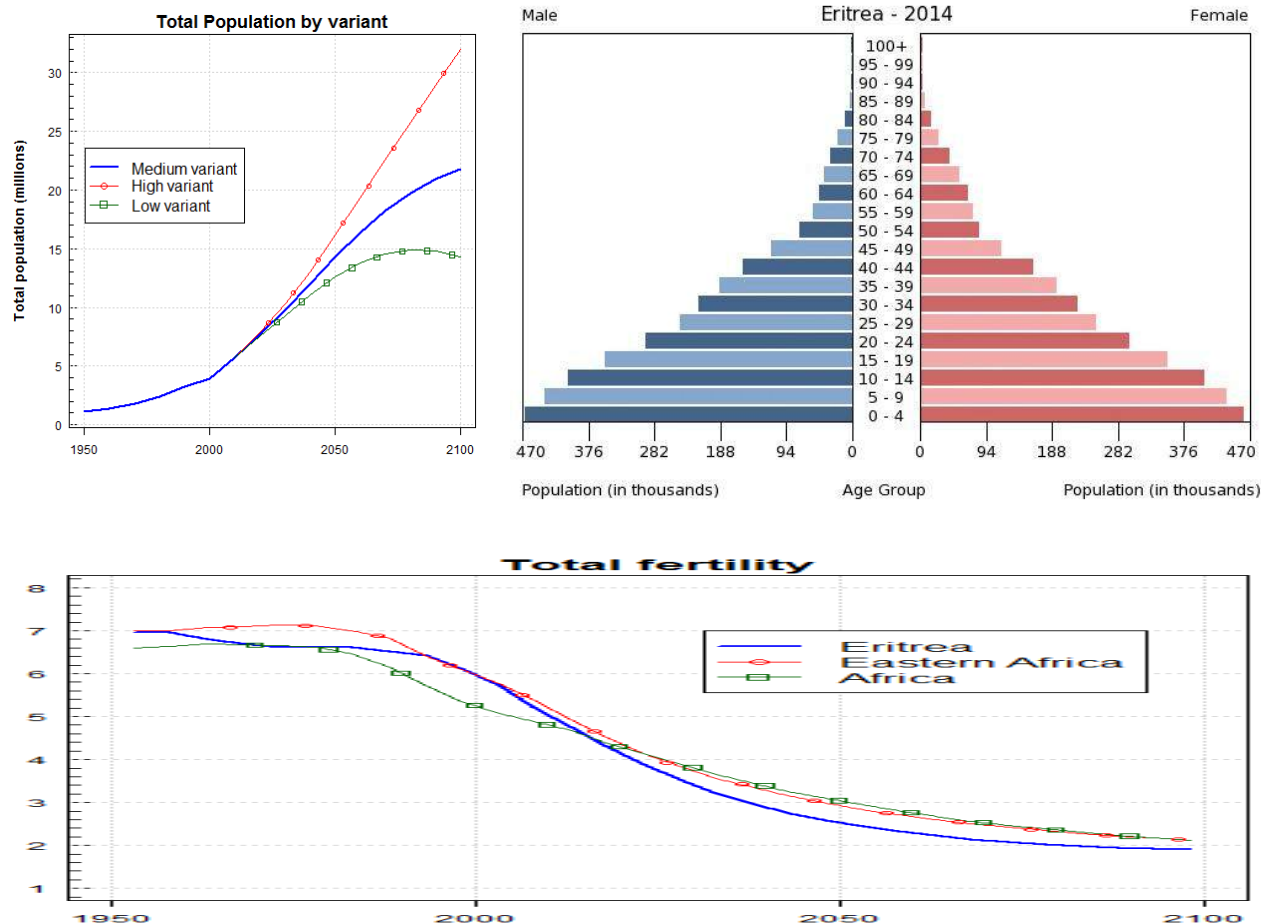

To prepare your people for this revolutionary change, I encourage you to begin educating them through the government owned media. To this end, I am providing you with my work free of cost:

The man responsible for introducing covert depopulation measures to Eritrea is its current president, Isaias Afwerki (in office since 1991). He has been forced to do so by the UN and the international community and by the dire economic, demographic and environmental state of his country.

The total fertility rate has decreased from nearly 7 to 4 children per woman due to covert sterilization with adulterated vaccines since the contraceptive prevalence rate is as good as nonexistent at just 8% and abortion is allowed only to save a woman's life.

Estonia was among the first countries in the world to be subjected to covert depopulation via fluoride, as well as to overt depopulation through the program of Russification unleashed by the Soviets in 1940, which brought about mass deportations and executions of Estonians and mass immigration of Russians in order to carry out the ethnic cleansing of Estonia. That is why today a quarter of the population of Estonia is of Russian descent, the total number of Estonians is the same as in 1880, the total fertility rate is a paltry 1.5 children per woman, and the population has been decreasing since 1991.

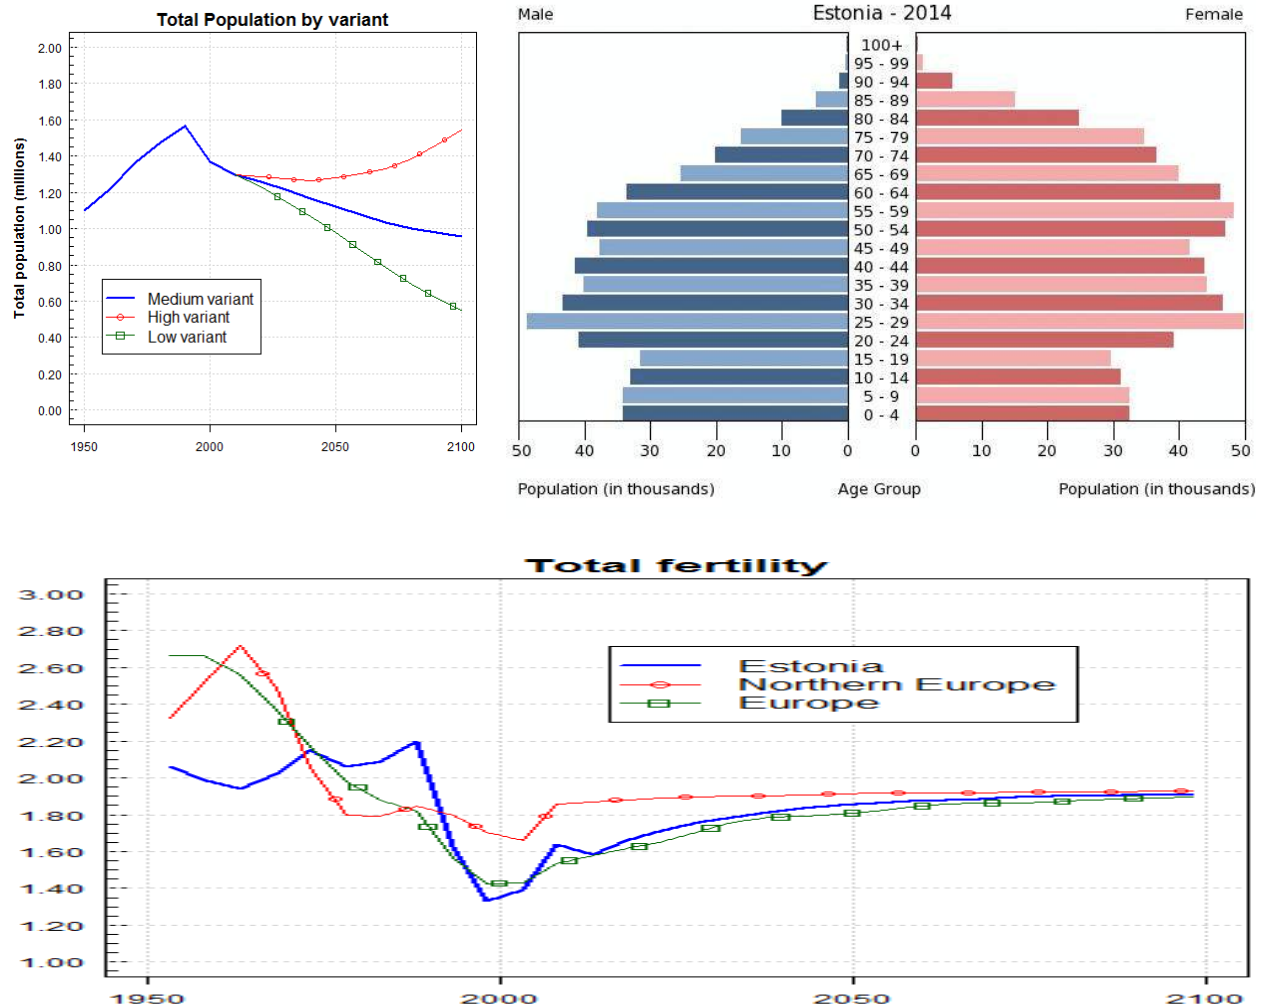

Since there are only about one million Estonians left in the world one could already consider the Estonian people an endangered species that is soon to be extinct unless your government takes immediate measures to stop the covert poisoning of your people through endocrine disruptors and promote childbirth through effective pro-natalist policies.

Statistics Estonia projects the share of persons in retirement age (65 and older) to rise from the current level of 18.0% to 27.6% by 2040; the share of children aged under 15 to fall from 15.5% to 13.6%; and the dependency ratio (i.e. the number of children and retired persons compared to the working-age population) to rise from 50.9% to 70.2%, thus from two working-age persons for each dependent today, to three working-age persons per two dependents by 2040. The policy response to the latter statistic is to poison the people from the sky to ensure they die sooner and before the aged bankrupt the state through high medical and retirement costs.

You can oversee your people's extermination and go down in history as mass murderers of a far greater magnitude than Stalin or Hitler or help me forge global consensus for a worldwide population control law that will restrict family size to two children.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

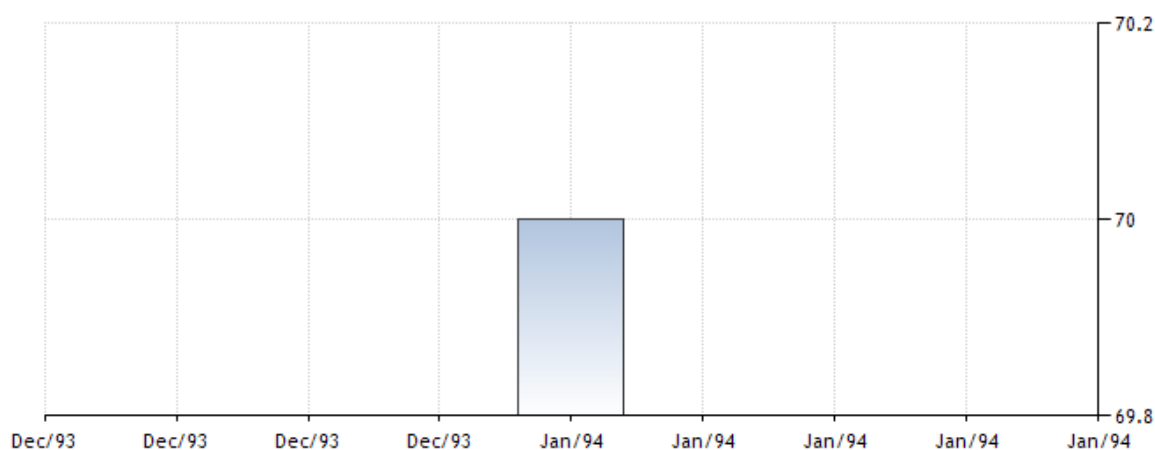

Estonia has been ravaged by the Russians since its annexation to the Soviet Union in 1940. The Estonian population has never recovered in demographic terms from the program of Russification.

Estonia's demographic woes have only grown worse after independence in 1991 because its freely elected leaders have foolishly chosen to adopt the western European program of sterilization via water, beverages and food adulterated with endocrine disruptors.

The men responsible for the sorry demographic state of the country since independence are presidents Lennart Meri (1991-2001), Arnold Rüütel (2001-2006) and the incumbent Toomas Hendrik Ilves (since 2006), as well as prime ministers Mart Laar (1992-1994 and 1999 to 2002), Andres Tarand (1994-1995), Tiit Vähi (1995-1997), Mart Siimann (1997-1999), Siim Kallas (2002-2003), Juhan Parts (2003-2005), Andrus Ansip (2005-2014), and the incumbent Taavi Rõivas.

Estonia's contraceptive prevalence rate has never been higher than 70%, of which only 56% by modern contraceptives, and serves only to mask covert chemical methods.

From 1960 to 1998, Estonia has also relied on abortions to wage war on population growth and the abortion rate has been consistently at or around 60%. The historical record shows that as soon as Estonia adopted the West's covert chemical methods of sterilization at the beginning of the 1990s, women stopped getting pregnant and the abortion rate has consequently slowed: from a peak of 62.8% in 1993, to 49.9% in 2003, to 29.9% in 2013. However, even at its peak of 68.6% in 1966, abortion was only a secondary method of population control.

Estonia is a dying country and it is questionable whether it will survive its current sub-replacement level fertility and rapidly decreasing population, which mark it as a country in an advanced fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

President Teshome and Prime Minister Desalegn,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation methods

Ethiopia joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1995 and its total fertility rate has declined from 7 to 3.8 children per woman. This decline was accomplished with naturally fluoridated water that is pumped into the cities from wells in the Rift Valley, where fluoride in water occurs naturally at endemic levels between 1.5 mg-F/L to 36 mg-F/L, which is why 14 million Ethiopians (12% of the population) suffer from skeletal and dental fluorosis, the same percentage that has below replacement level fertility.

Even though cheap defluoridation technology based on zeolite has been developed in your country, the Ethiopian Water Resource Commission is not using it and ascribes its decision “to make water with inevitably high fluoride available to the thirsty populations” due to lack of alternatives. That this is a dishonest position is shown also by the Ethiopian standard for bottled water which allows a maximum of 1.5 ppm Fluoride, just as the World Health Organization advises in order to subvert fertility and do as little damage to the human endocrine system as possible.

Since 1995, when Ethiopia joined the global depopulation effort every large Ethiopian city has gradually started being fed with water from a nearby deep-well that has concentrations of Fluoride higher than 7 mg/l; concentrations that will devastate the people’s ability to reproduce and degrade the people’s genetic and intellectual endowment to such an extent that three generations from now all Ethiopians will be ill, feeble-minded and weak, as western experience amply demonstrates.

To know the full extent of the tragedy that awaits you if you continue to commit genocide by covert chemical means, I urge you to read my book “Chemical and Biological Depopulation”. To educate yourselves and your people about the history, methods and consequences of the UN-delegated depopulation agenda you must read my book “Killing Us Softly: The Global Depopulation Policy”. And if you are to abandon your participation in crimes against humanity and genocide and pursue population control without violating the rule of law and the most basic moral code, then you must educate yourselves and your people by reading my book “Survival or Extinction”. I make all my books available to you and the public at large free of cost and I urge you to translate them in your official language, Amharic, and disseminate them widely throughout the country, for that is the only way to replace the covert and criminal methods of population control now in effect with overt legislation and freely available contraceptives.

With a population that has nearly tripled since 1980 (from 33 to 88 million) and that is projected to swell to 210 million by 2060; an already high population density of 83 people per km² for the arid landmass you occupy; recurrent famines due to water shortages and overpopulation; a very high population growth rate of 2.6% annually; a very high proportion of children below the age 15 that stands at 42%; a low per capita income of $570; and being landlocked and underdeveloped, you have no choice but to institute an aggressive population control program. But you can do it without committing genocide and excluding the vast majority of your people from the right to reproduce and the right to healthy bodies and minds, which is the criminal path chosen by the West and pushed by the UN.

You are already the most populous landlocked country in the world and the second-most populous nation in Africa living in a dry part of the world and as such face considerable natural disadvantages. But you are also the only Africans to defeat Europe’s colonial powers and retain your sovereignty; the first independent African member of the League of Nations and the UN; a founding member of the Organization of African Unity, which is now the African Union; home to many of the NGOs that operate in Africa; and have an authoritarian regime, which are all political and institutional advantages that will make your transition from covert to overt population control measures relatively easy.

As the birth place of Homo Sapiens you are also the homeland of the human species and can rightfully claim to be the oldest civilization on earth. There is however nothing civilized or ethical about poisoning your fellow human beings into sterility, ill-health and imbecility. Ethiopia is also a bedrock of the world’s Abrahamic religions and as such a spiritual fatherland to the entire world. Do not abandon your morality and betray your faith for demographic objectives that are best achieved by strengthening your faith and renewing your moral standards.

The West is a decadent society that has damaged and degraded its people to the low status of insects. You have nothing to learn from the West and every opportunity to avoid its fatal mistakes.

Not only do you have the political, institutional, ethical and moral preconditions necessary to lead the way to a better future, you are also bound by ecological responsibilities since Ethiopia is one of only seven centers of origin for cultivated plants in the world. I applaud your decision to ban GMO crops and food imports since GMOs, as you may already be aware, are the latest weapon of depopulation in the West's arsenal.

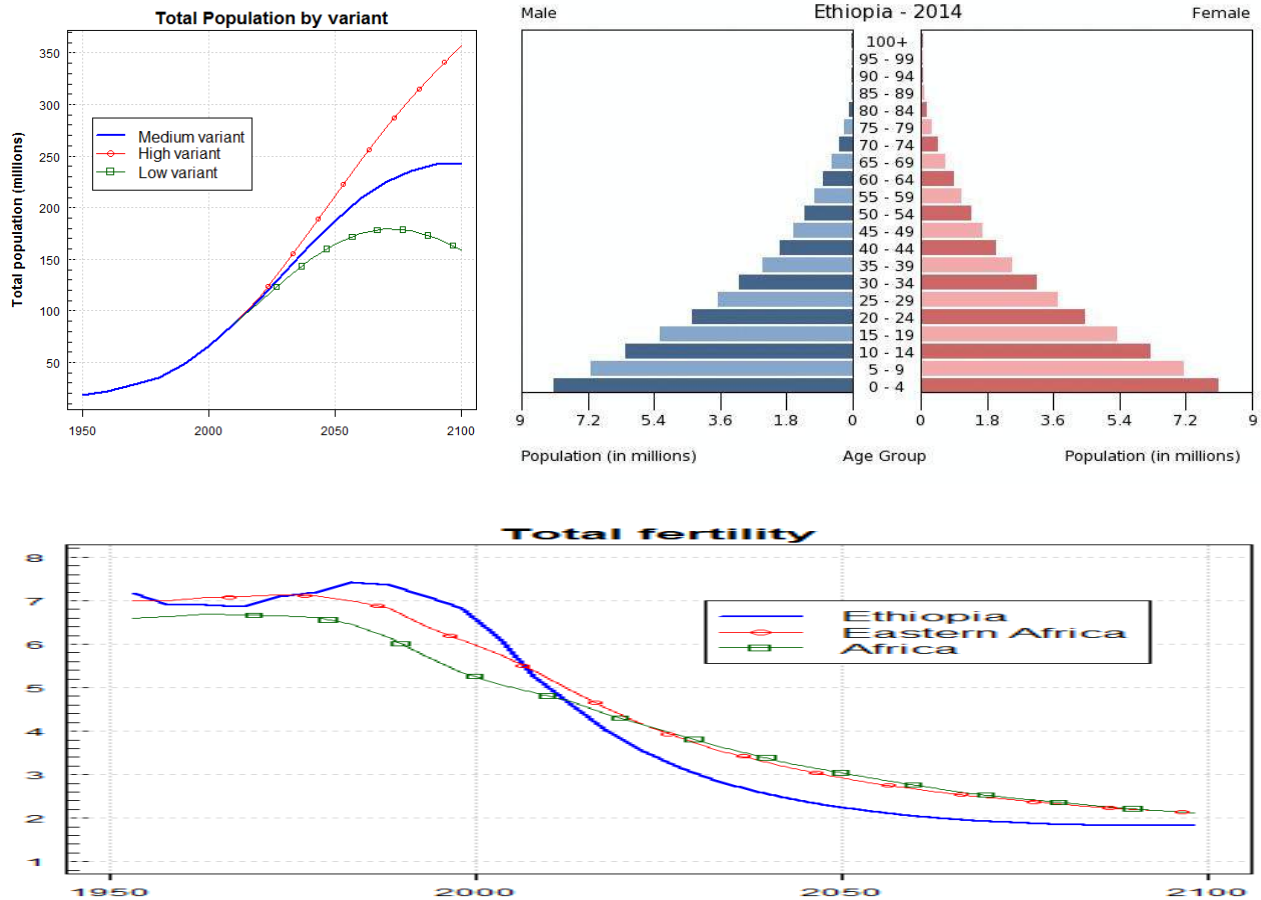

I urge you to imprison any traitor who so much as proposes a bill to allow GMO crops into the country, as that would spell the end of your nation's independence and of every Ethiopian's health. You must instead throw your full support behind the Alliance for Food Sovereignty in Africa (AFSA), which is scheduled to meet next week in Ethiopia to discuss how best to oppose the G8 Alliance for food security and Bill Gate's Alliance for a Green Revolution in Africa (AGRA), which are organizations intended to commit genocide in Africa through GMOs by causing artificial food scarcity, seed dependence, and universal illness.

Most importantly, you must rally all member states of the African Union to expel from the continent every UN and western aid agency that promotes covert methods of depopulation under the pretext of maternal health, reproductive rights, women's rights, food security, and child health, but who instead use endocrine disruptors, adulterated vaccines, and germ warfare to subvert the fertility of Africans and increase morbidity and mortality throughout the continent in order to combat overpopulation. To defuse the overpopulation bomb African nations must come together and agree on introducing a continent-wide population control law that restricts every nation to replacement level fertility. This will allow you to develop not only your physical infrastructure but also, and more importantly, your human capital, while at the same time reject the West's immoral and genocidal methods of population control that have allowed western nations to become wealthy by impoverishing their human capital.

I stand by to assist you in forging consensus for a continent-wide population control law and strengthen Africa's ranks to resist western neo-colonialism and defend itself against chemical, biological and bacteriological attack by NATO and the UN.

Sincerely,

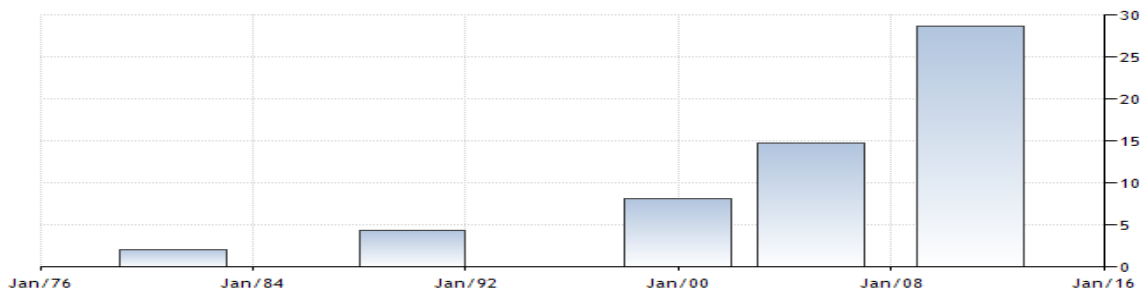

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

The man responsible for bringing Ethiopia into the fold of covert methods of depopulation is President Negasso Gidada (1995-2001). His successors, Girma Wolde-Giorgis (2001-2013) and the incumbent Mulatu Teshome have stayed the course.

Given Ethiopia's dire economic, environmental and demographic state, these men have had no choice but to institute covert methods of depopulation.

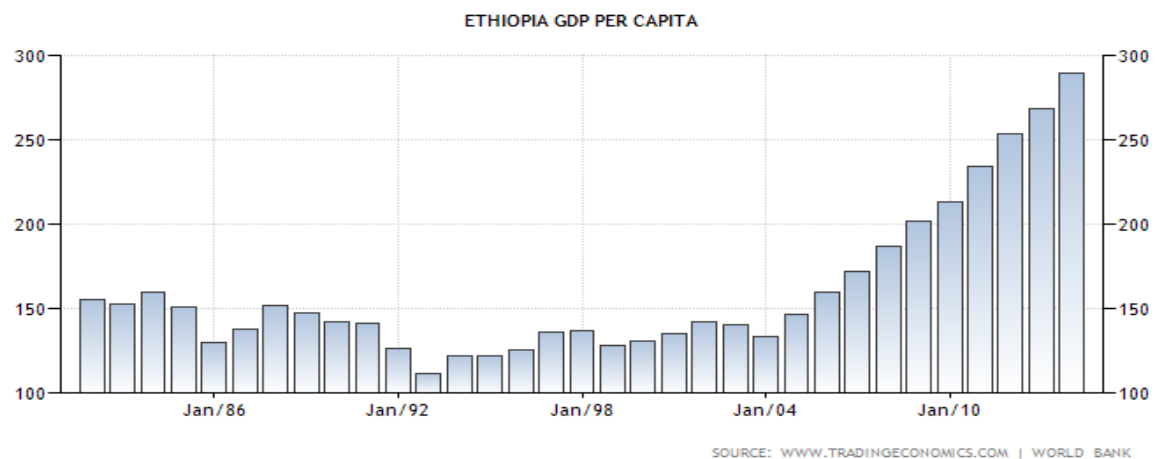

The decrease in fertility from more than 7 to 3.8 children per woman has been accomplished with fluoridated water and sterilizing vaccines and not with contraceptives since Ethiopia's contraceptive prevalence rate has yet to reach 30%.

Equally insignificant is abortion, as it was illegal until 2004 and is currently legal only under the following circumstances:

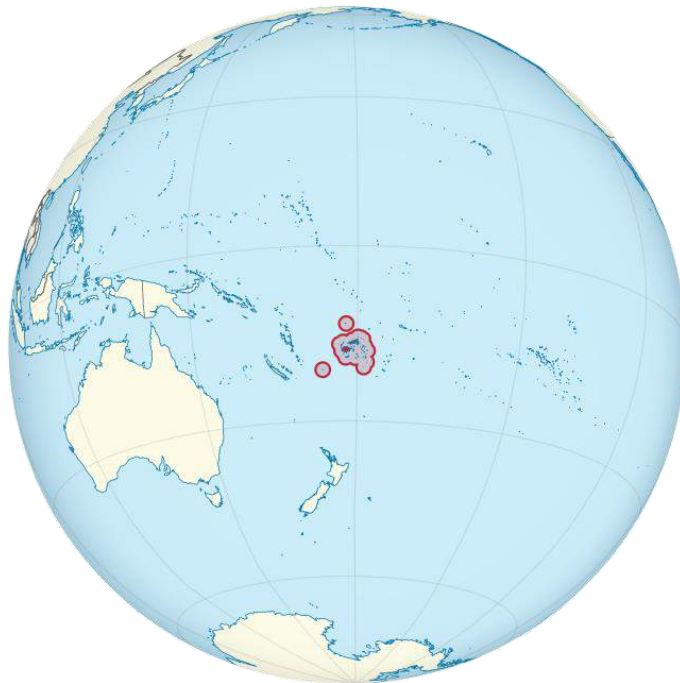

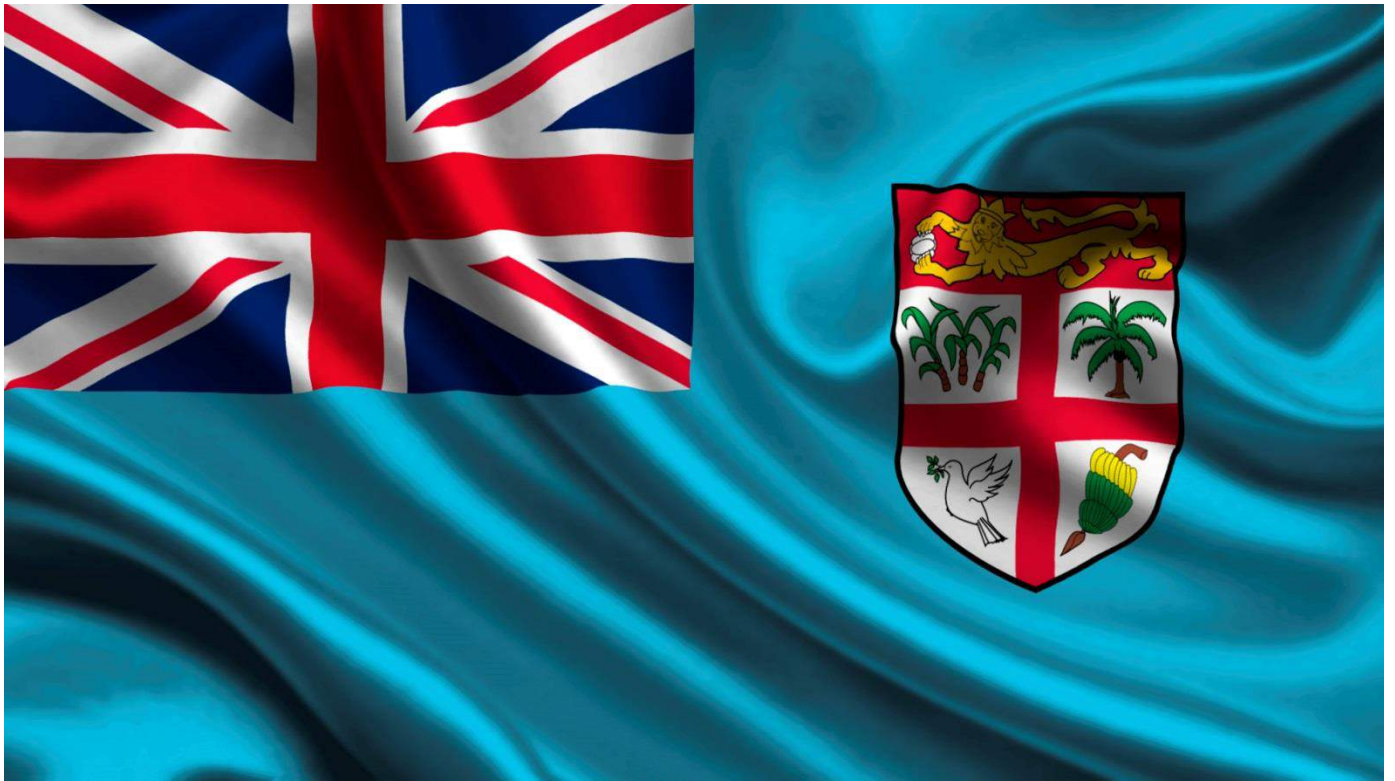

- when the pregnancy results from rape or incest;
- when continuance of the pregnancy endangers the health or life of the woman or the fetus;
- in cases of fetal abnormalities or women with physical or mental disabilities;
- for minors who are physically or psychologically unprepared to raise a child;
- in the case of grave and imminent danger that can be averted only through immediate pregnancy termination

Ethiopia's population control efforts have started to bear fruit as soon as fertility began to decline at the beginning of the 21st century.

Ethiopia is in stage two of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF FIJI

Epeli Nailatikau
President of Fiji

Frank Bainimarama
Prime Minister of Fiji

President Nailatikau and Prime Minister Bainimarama,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

For the past eight years, your country has struggled to restore democracy and for just as many years your people have been deprived of their reproductive rights. The military may have had good reasons to interfere in what was indeed a flawed and racist political process but it has no right whatsoever to covertly poison the Fijian people into infertility and ill-health in order to accomplish demographic objectives that are indeed necessary but that do not justify genocide.

The decision to fluoridate the country's tap water and to force the people under threat of fines and imprisonment to only purchase and use fluoridated toothpaste lends a ridiculous character to your administration's efforts to pretend that it is doing this in the name of healthy teeth. The National Toothbrushing Day charade is unbecoming of serious statesmen and does not fool anyone.

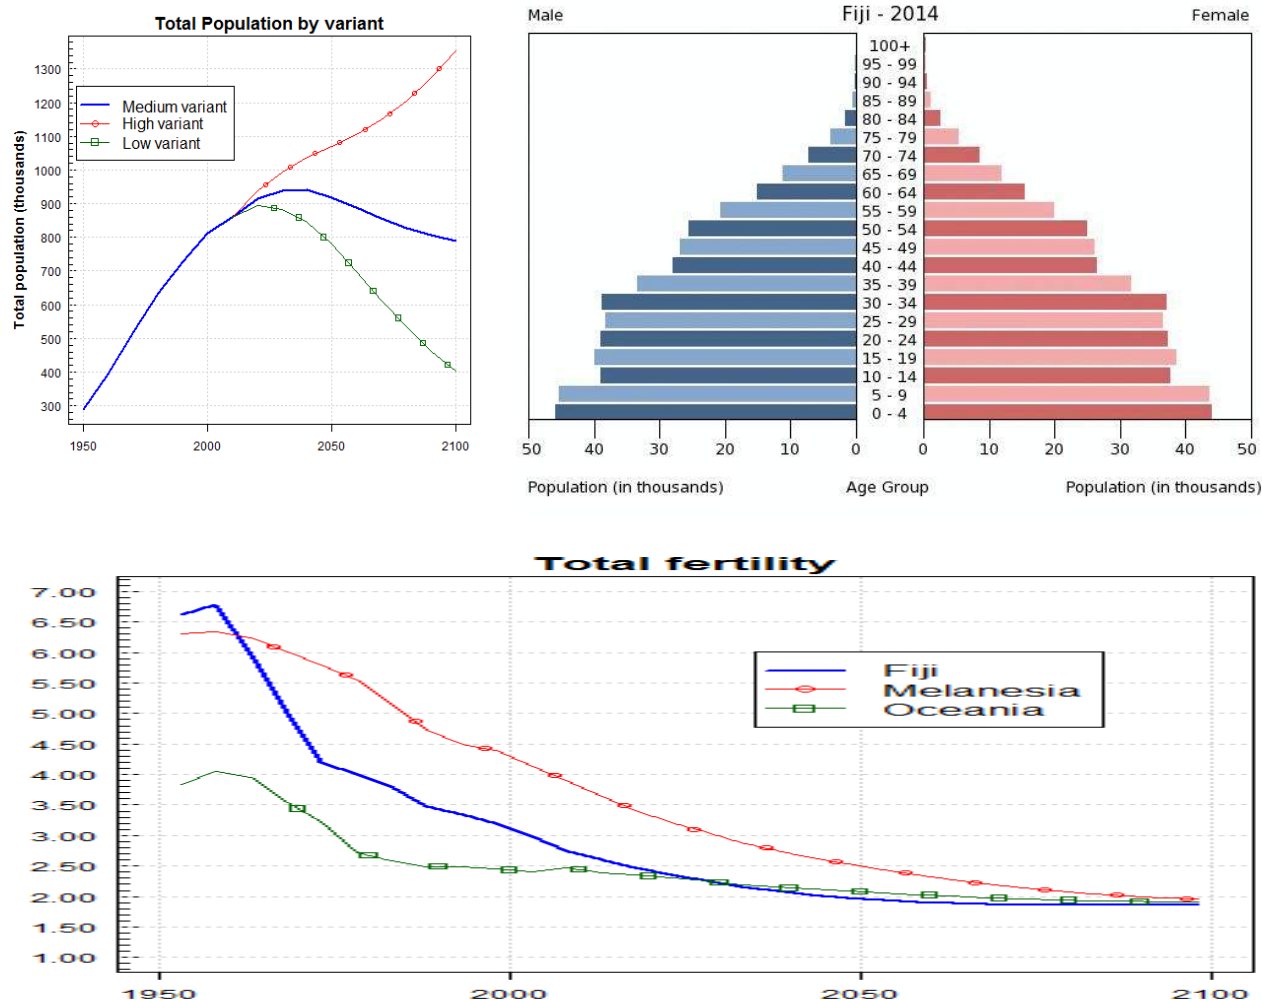

You are an island nation and, as everyone knows who has ever lived on an island, there are no secrets on islands. And since most Fijians know that your military government is intent on rendering them sterile so as to qualify for IMF loans and UN largesse, it is highly unlikely that this exercise in dictatorship can end well. That is why I urge you to change course and pursue legislative means to reduce the total fertility rate of Fiji to replacement level, as the IMF and the UN demand and do so for good reasons.

You assumed total control of the political process in order to set the nation on the right path and secure a better future for your children. Poisoning Fiji's children with endocrine disruptors will condemn them to stunted minds and enfeebled bodies and will sap the vigor of your nation for generations to come. It will certainly not give them a better future.

If you want your legacy to be positive, rather than ending up in front of a firing squad, I ask that you join me in forging global consensus for a worldwide law that restricts family size, for that is the only way we can have international peace, universal prosperity and save the earth from human destruction.

Sincerely,

Fiji was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1957 and by the time it gained its independence in 1970 the total fertility rate had decreased from nearly 7 to 4.5 children per woman.

Kamisese Mara, who served as Chief Minister of the Colony of Fiji from 1967 to 1970, as the first Prime Minister of the Dominion of Fiji from 1970 to 1987, as Prime Minister of the Republic of Fiji from 1987 to 1992, and as President of Fiji from 1994 to 2000, is responsible for continuing the British initiated methods of covert depopulation and for bringing the total fertility rate down to 3 children by the time he left office.

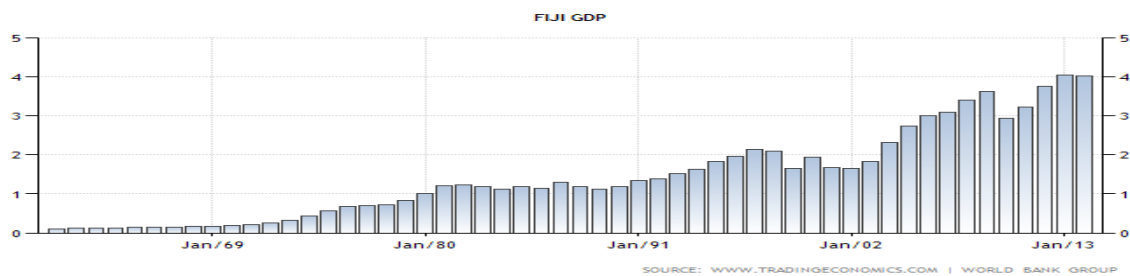

The current leadership of Fiji – made up of Commodore Frank Bainimarama as Prime Minister and of Epeli Nailatikau as President – continues to poison the people with fluoride and other endocrine disruptors for depopulation purposes, but appear to have relaxed the program, which is why fertility has only dropped to 2.6 children per woman to date.

Since 1980, the government has used covert depopulation measures to ensure that native Fijians regain majority in their country over Fijians of Indian descent, who were brought to the islands by the British to work the cane fields. Indigenous Fijians have regained majority by suppressing the fertility rate of the Indo-Fijians, who live mostly in urban centers, with fluoridated water.

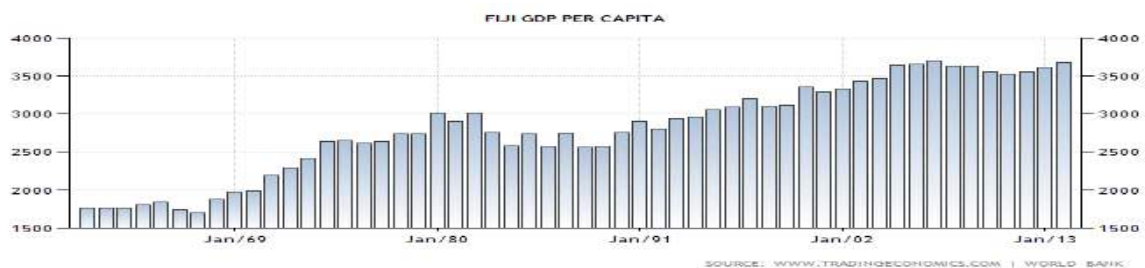

With a contraceptive prevalence rate that has never exceeded 44% and no abortions to speak of, the drop in fertility is entirely due to covert chemical sterilization with fluoride and BPA and the odd sterilizing vaccines.

Fiji's efforts on the population control front have born economic fruit for as soon as fertility began to drop in the sixties the GDP began to rise.

The per capita GDP gain, however, did not begin to materialize until fertility dropped substantially by the 1990s.

Fiji is in stage three of the demographic transition.

alexander.stubb@vnk.fi, kirjaamo@intermin.fi, kirjaamo@stm.fi

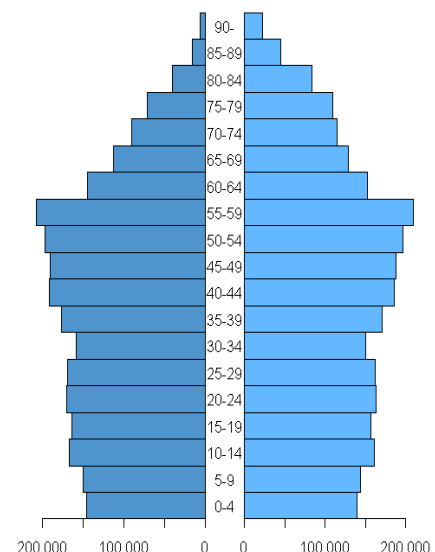

President Niinistö and Prime Minister Stubb,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

As a cobelligerent with Germany in World War II, Finland was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy at war's end and by 1952 its people became guinea pigs of salt-fluoridation experiments conducted by the World Health Organization (WHO). Fluoridated water and fluoride supplements were added to the depopulation arsenal and the average number of births per woman declined from 3.5 in 1947, to below replacement level by 1969, and to just 1.5 by 1998. Currently, the total fertility rate is at 1.3 children per woman and the government has been trying various measures to boost it up to 2 children per woman to ensure that the population does not decline.

Having started to subvert population growth early on, Finland has completed its demographic transition but has yet to figure out a way to repair its people's damaged minds and bodies, which is why all pro-natalist attempts so far have proved futile and the total fertility rate remains well below replacement level. The dire state of the country's dying population is reflected in the nation's housing statistics, which show that the average size of its 2.4 million households is 2.1 persons, of which 40% of households consist of just one person, 32% of two persons, and just 28% of three or more persons. What this means is that more than half of Finland's genetic lines have been terminated as they are incapable of reproduction.

At just 18 people per square kilometer Finland has the third-lowest population density in Europe, behind Norway and Iceland, and if your administration does not immediately eliminate all endocrine disruptors from the people's food and beverages, as well as from dental products and dental care, Finland will soon be empty of Finns.

Your stellar metrics of national performance in education, economic competitiveness, civil liberties, quality of life and human development will amount to nothing if the Finns are dying out.

It has become clear to me that the people exposed to covert depopulation measures by endocrine disruptors for three or more generations lose not only the ability to procreate but also their intellectual abilities, which is why Europe's governments are manned by people utterly incapable of recognizing the true causes of the engineered demographic transition and continue to be driven towards extinction by a very small number of elites who manipulate the institutions of state to advance the Global Depopulation Policy.

If you are indeed ignorant, I suggest you educate yourselves without delay by reading my work which is freely available here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

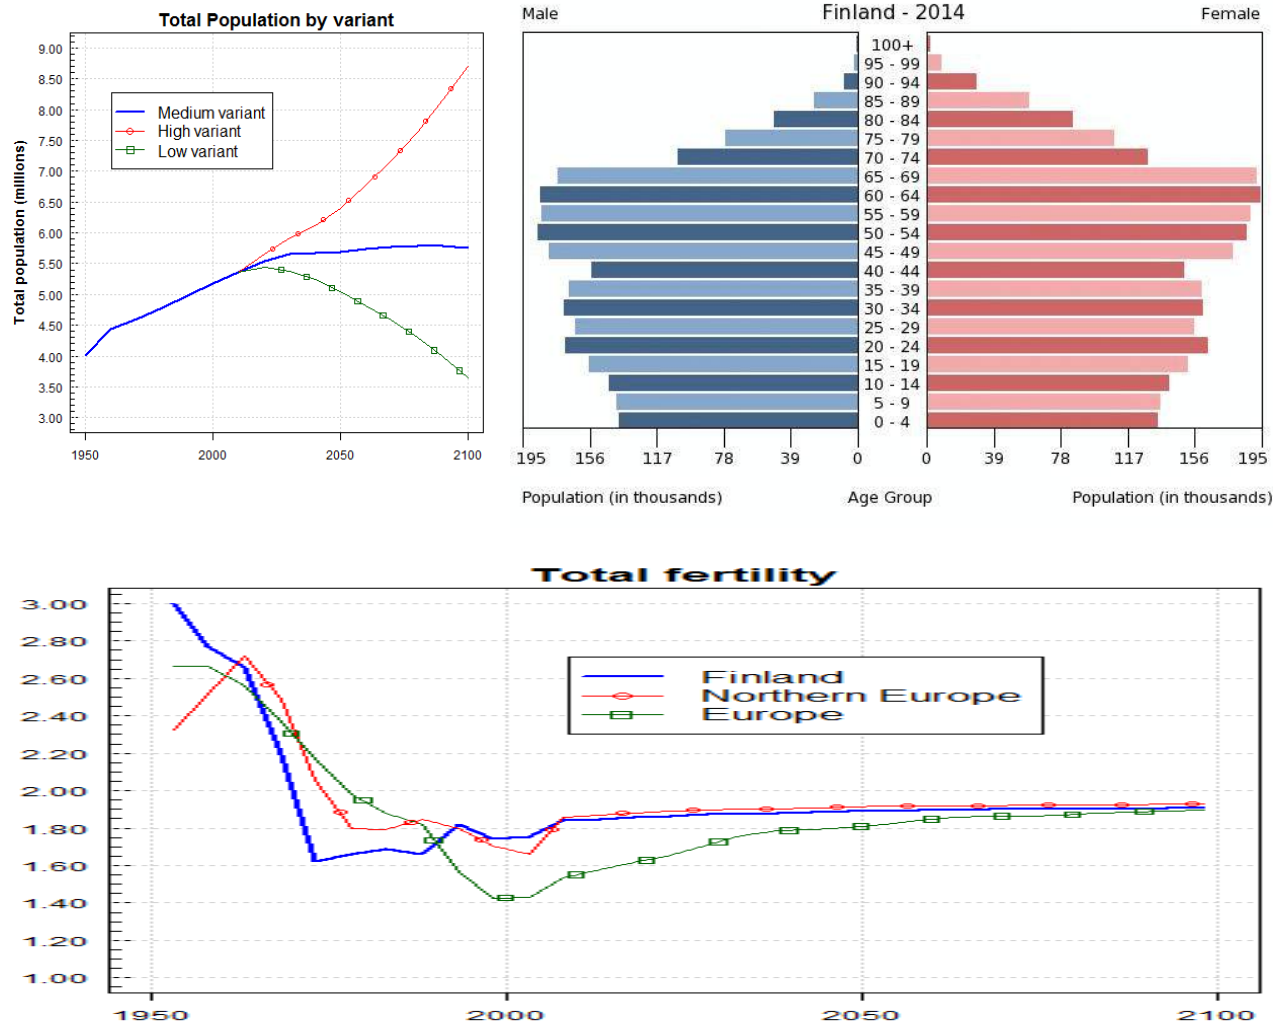

Once you know the facts, I hope that you will muster the courage and wisdom to help me forge global consensus for an effective population control law that applies worldwide and is accomplished through open, legal and equitable means from the global governance level rather than is currently the case.

If you continue on this path, regardless of your ignorance, be it feigned or real, you will face charges for crimes against humanity in the foreseeable future.

Should you need my help and seek it in good faith, I stand by to travel to Finland and assist you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

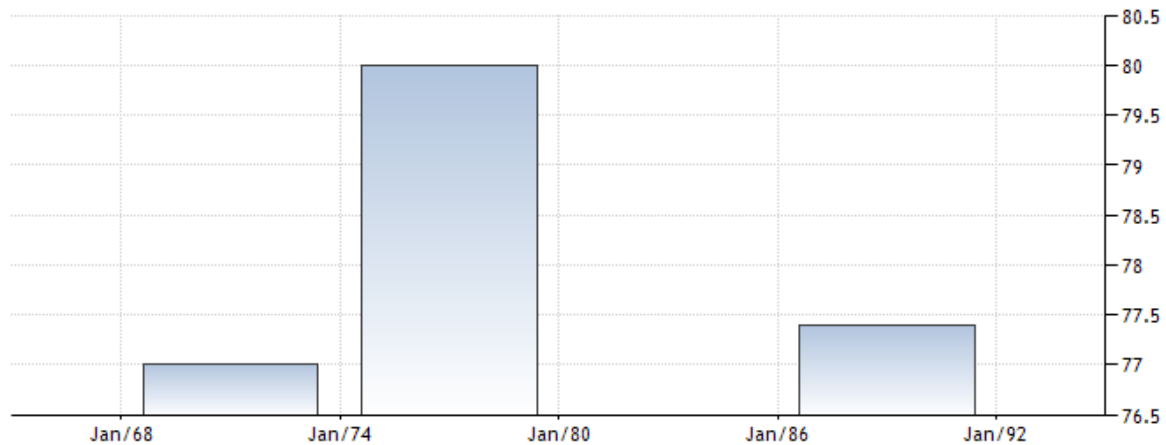

As a country bordering the Iron Curtain, Finland was forced to introduce covert methods of depopulation a couple of years after the end of World War II. As such, Finland experienced no baby boom generation and reached replacement level fertility in 1969, earlier than all other western European nations, and a lowest low of 1.5 children per woman in 1973.

All Finnish leaders post World War II, starting with Prime Minister Mauno Pekkala and President Juho Kusti Paasikivi and up to the present day, have been poisoning their people to low fertility.

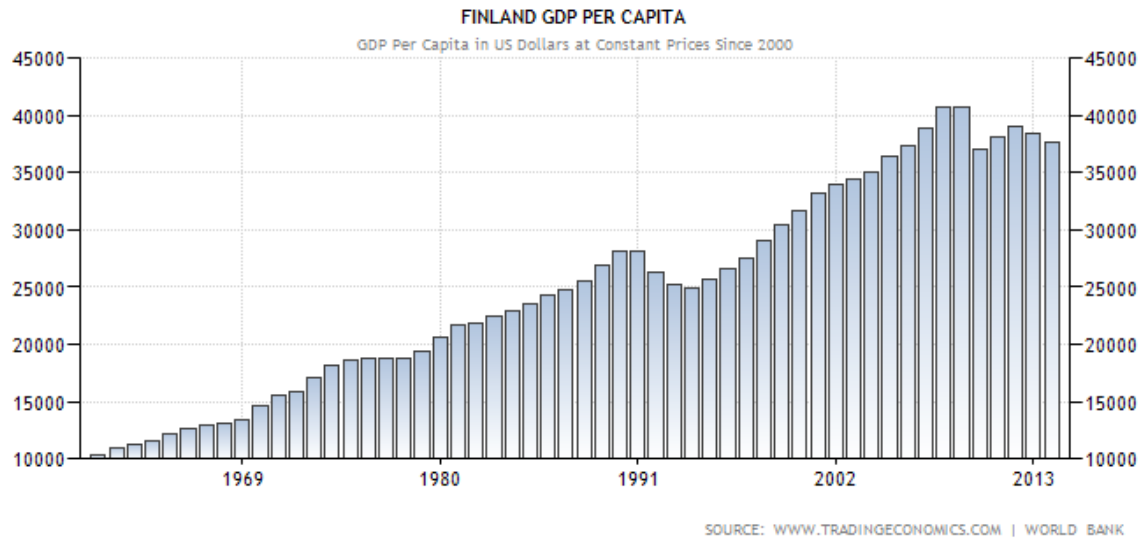

When correlating Finland's drop in fertility with its contraceptive prevalence rate over the decades it becomes painfully obvious that contraceptives are not responsible for the decrease in fertility. During the forties and fifties there were no contraceptives to speak of and fertility dropped due to covert chemical sterilization from 3.5 to 2.7 by the end of the fifties. During the sixties the contraceptive prevalence rate was on average around 65% and fertility dropped by the end of the decade to 1.9 children per woman, thus below replacement level fertility, which would only be possible with a contraceptive prevalence rate of 90% and no mishaps. During the seventies the contraceptive prevalence rate peaked at 80% and fertility sunk below 1.7 children per woman throughout the decade. Since then contraceptive use has fallen but fertility has remained stuck round 1.7 children per woman, which shows that contraceptives are just a placebo.

Nor is abortion anything other than a minor factor since the historical record shows that the abortion rate was below 5% during the 1950s, below 10% during the 1960s, peaked round 25% during the 1970s, and has decreased ever since, to below 18% during the 1980s and below 15% during the 1990s, where it has remained stuck ever since.

Finland has been rewarded for its genocidal fervor with affluence, which began to rise as soon as fertility dropped to replacement level in the 1960s. But now that Finland has entered the tail end of the demographic transition and the population has levelled off so has the GDP per capita, which will start decreasing as soon as the population starts decreasing. Since 2011, Finland's population has been flat and so has its GDP.

This transition from a growing to a shrinking economy due to demographics is painfully obvious in the GDP annual growth rate.

As the population continues to shrink and to age, the economy will contract even further.

Finland is already in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition but this is masked through immigration.

FRENCH REPUBLIC

18 September 2014

François Hollande
President of France

Manuel Valls
Prime Minister of France

President Hollande and Prime Minister Valls,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The Décret n° 2014-479 (nicknamed “décret Alstom”) of 14 May 2014, which extends the power of the state to veto the takeover of strategic interests in energy, water, transport, telecoms and public health, will allow the French people to remain in control of their economic destiny and to protect themselves from the manipulation of French assets for geopolitical objectives. If France is to avoid a Fukushima-like scenario it must retain full control over its civilian nuclear industry.

The best long-term strategy for protecting the French people, however, is not economic isolationism and defensiveness but political action on the depopulation/globalization front, which is the axis around which the international order has revolved since the Second World War.

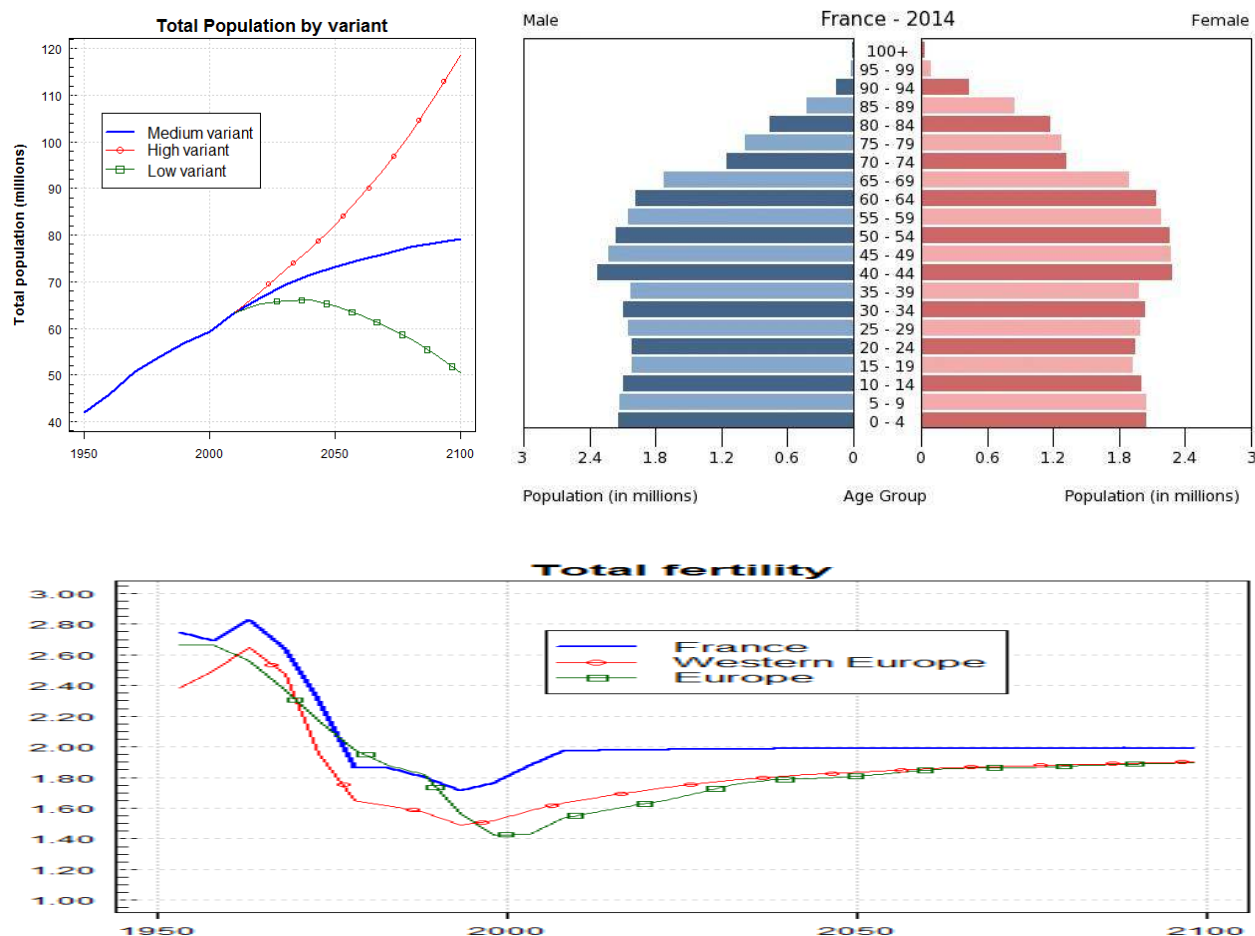

France has given the world democracy and France can now give the world security and protection from an international order based on genocide by shedding light on the covert methods of depopulation that have served as a substitute to war since 1945. In so doing, France can democratize global governance and bring the world back to sanity.

To assume the right to lead the world and improve international peace and security, France must replace the current methods of covert poisoning of the populace with endocrine disruptors with overt legislation for population control. Only then will France become a leading light once again and come out of the intellectual and moral darkness caused by its submission to the UN system.

I hope that you will meet with me at your earliest convenience to discuss how best to forge global consensus for worldwide laws that restrict family size to replacement level fertility.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

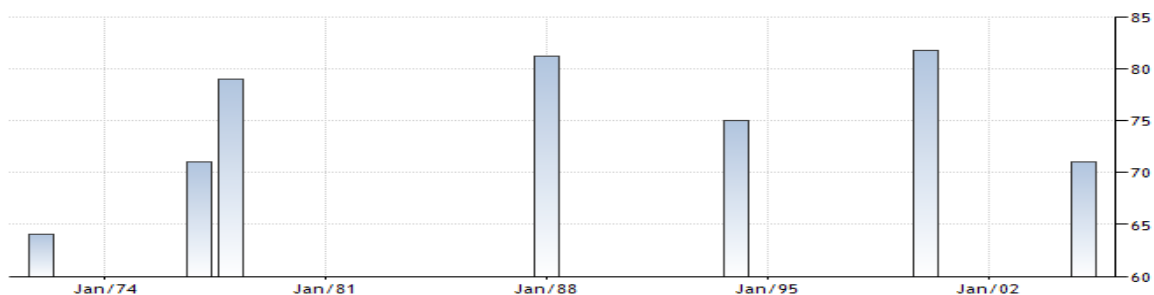

The French government began subverting its people's reproductive rights in 1948 and accelerated its efforts in 1964. Consequently, the total fertility rate declined from nearly 3 children per woman prior to 1948 to replacement level by 1974.

From 1975 to 2009 the total fertility rate was below replacement level, going down to as low as 1.6 children per woman in 1993. The government began relaxing its sterilization program in 1994 so the total fertility rate could bounce back up to replacement level, lest deaths begin to exceed births. France reached replacement level fertility in 2010 and has maintained it with mathematical precision ever since.

The covert depopulation program was started in 1948 by President Vincent Auriol (1947-1954), undoubtedly on the insistence of the United States and as part and parcel of the Marshall Plan. It was continued by all his successors: René Coty (1954-1959); General Charles de Gaulle (1959-1969), who first stopped and then restarted it; Georges Pompidou (1969-1974), who accelerated it; Valéry Giscard d'Estaing (1974-1981), who accelerated it even more; François Mitterrand (1981-1995), who slowed it down; Jacques Chirac (1995-2007), who allowed the total fertility rate to rise back up to replacement level; Nicolas Sarkozy (2007-2012), who fixed it at replacement level; and the incumbent François Hollande, who has kept it at replacement level so far.

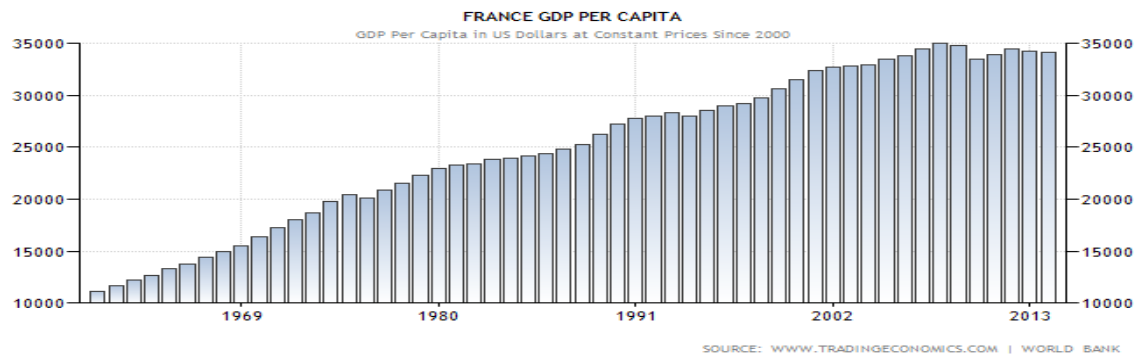

Considering that contraceptives were illegal in France until 1968 and that even today less than a quarter of the population use contraceptives, it is clear that France has relied on covert methods of sterilization delivered through the basic elements of life and not on contraceptives to accomplish its demographic targets.

It should be noted that China has a contraceptive prevalence rate of nearly 90% and it still needs to perform more than 13 million abortions a year for a population of 1.35 billion people, compared to France which performs 160,000 abortions a year for a population of 66 million. The number of abortions performed in China is proportionally four times higher than that of France, despite France's much lower contraceptive prevalence rate and China's painful penalties for unwanted pregnancies.

The historical record shows that only 20% of all pregnancies end in abortion in France since the early 1980s, a rate that has remained stable to this day and that cannot possibly put more than just a dent in the fertility drop.

France has been rewarded with a rising GDP for its sinking fertility. The graph below shows how France's per capita GDP began to rise in the early 1960s as a consequence of dropping fertility rates.

Prime Minister of Gabon

<http://www.gouvernement.ga/ecrire.twg>

President Ondimba and Prime Minister Ondo,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Gabon joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1990 and the total fertility rate has declined from 5.2 to 3.5 children per woman to date. Considering that Gabon's population has increased from 450.000 in 1970 to 1.5 million today, a threefold increase in less than 40 years, and that the mainstay of its economy, oil, will run out by 2030, it is understandable that Gabon has had to adopt population control.

The methods of choice for suppressing fertility in Gabon are tetanus toxoid vaccines adulterated with the hCG hormone, which is why 85% of the women have been vaccinated, and imported foods laced with endocrine disruptors and that affect the urban population primarily since 60% of the food consumed in Gabon is imported from the West.

The provision for food independence currently being explored through the National Geomatic Plan (NGP), as part and parcel of the Gabon Emergent strategic vision, must be implemented without delay if Gabon is to protect its people from chronic poisoning via food and beverages intended to suppress fertility, as has been the case throughout the West since 1950.

To understand just how damaging this perverse method of population control is, I urge you to read my books and articles (<http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>) and to freely distribute them to your people, as this would motivate the Gabonese to grow their own food and be food independent. Your country is rich in resources, has a low population density and plenty of arable land, which gives you ample time to educate your citizens to control their own fertility and thus help the country flourish economically and socially while also fulfilling its international obligations.

To make your task easier, I hope that you will join my effort to forge global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative overseen from the global governance level. Neither Gabon nor the world can afford to waste more time and money on continuing to imperil humanity with covert methods of depopulation that constitute genocide and cause untold suffering.

Responsible and visionary leadership is called for and this means that we must all make personal sacrifices, which is why I hope that you will sell the £85million luxury Parisian mansion that you have recently purchased and invest that money in your people and in your country's future.

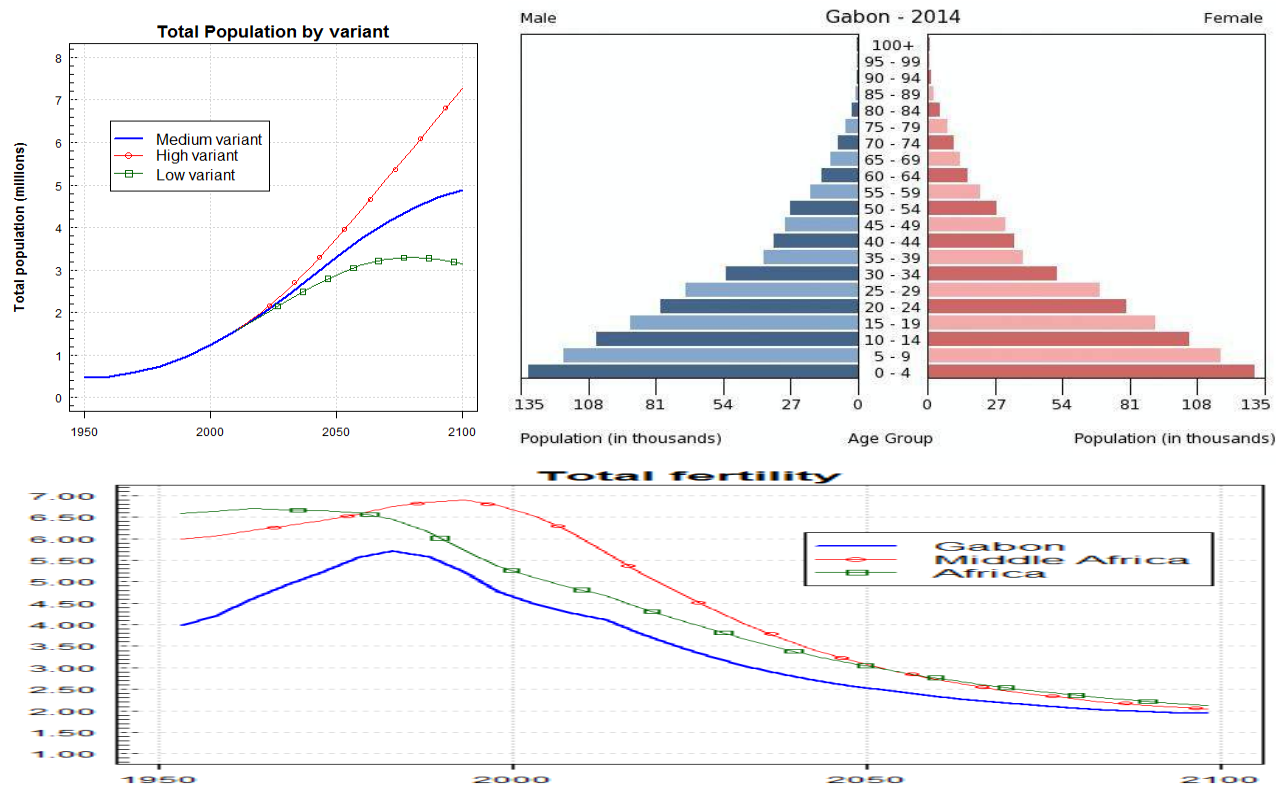

You can begin by encouraging your media to broadcast two brief educational videos I have made during my last hunger strike and that I make available to the world free of cost:

2. Phases of Depopulation

Like most sub-Saharan African nations, Gabon began covertly sterilizing its people through adulterated vaccines just before the turn of the century, when it could no longer ignore its demographic wows.

The man responsible for approving his people's involuntary sterilization with adulterated vaccines was President Omar Bongo, who was in office from 1967 to 2009. His son and current president, Ali Bongo Ondimba, has continued his father's policy of covert population control.

Gabon's fertility has not decreased far or fast enough yet to result in per capita GDP gains, nor will it do so with a contraceptive prevalence rate of just 31%. The fertility decline so far, from 5.5 to 3.5 children per woman is clearly the result of involuntary sterilization via UN vaccines and has nothing to do with contraceptives, which are too low, or abortion, which is illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life.

President Jammeh,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Although a UN member state since 1965, The Gambia did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until the year 2000 and the international community and UN agencies immediately began subverting the people's reproductive systems with adulterated vaccines administered under the pretext of improving child and maternal health. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from 6 children per woman prior to 2000 to 4 today.

While I do not question the need for population control, we must all reject the methods. Committing genocide and in the process sickening our children and downgrading the genetic and intellectual endowment of mankind is not acceptable, especially in the name of international peace. The time has come to change the international system so the depopulation effort can be brought out into the open and replacement level fertility declared a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrined in international law. How we can do this and why, I explain in my just published book, The Future of Global Governance.

I hope you will join my initiative to reform the UN system and stop the genocide and that you will immediately instruct your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Mamadou Tangara, to call for reform. At the same time I hope that you will begin educating your people why it is necessary to limit their fertility to just two children per woman. To accomplish their quick education I am giving you free access to my work and encourage you to use your nation's media to tell the truth and present the facts as they are and not as we wish them to be:

The Gambia is a late and reluctant participant in the Global Depopulation Policy.

The man responsible for succumbing to pressure from the international community to finally begin addressing his country's population growth problems is the current President of the Gambia, Yahya Jammeh, who assumed power through a military coup in 1994.

That Gambia's 30% reduction in its total fertility rate in a period of little more than ten years is not the result of wide contraceptive use but of involuntary sterilizations by western NGOs operating under the direction of the UN system and the guise of improving child and maternal health is amply demonstrated by the country's very low contraceptive prevalence rate, which has yet to reach 20%.

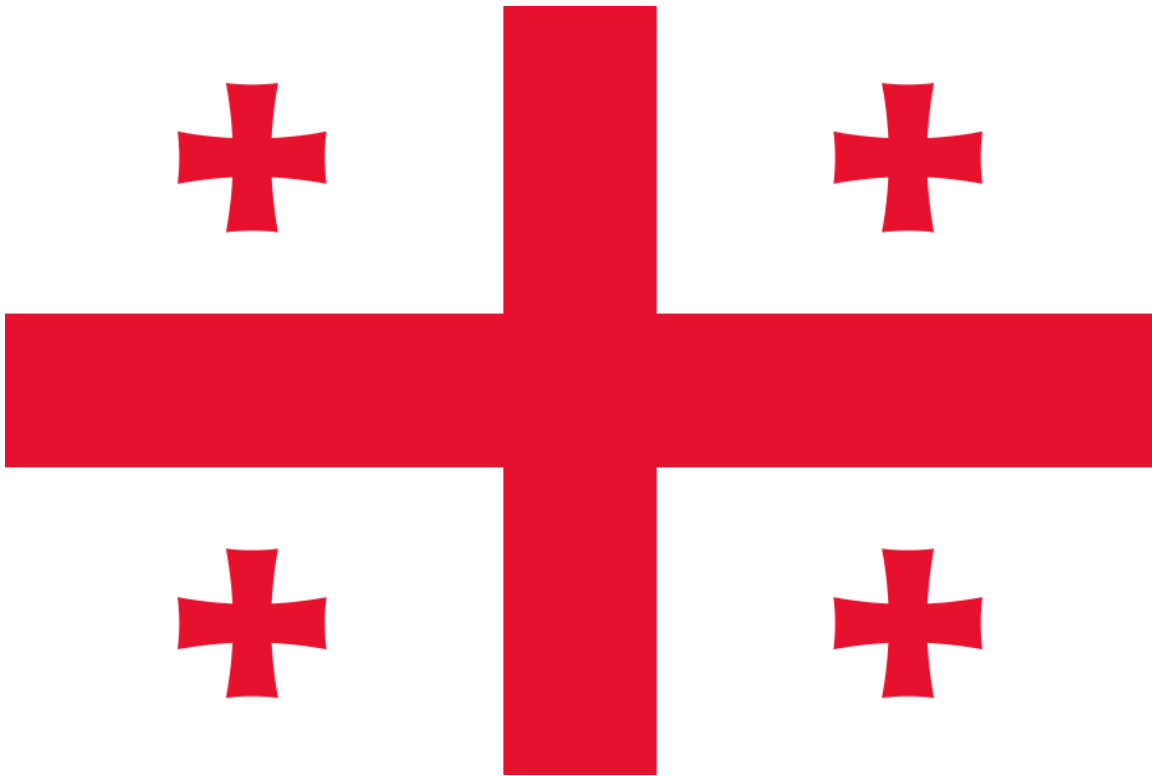

The Gambia is being punished for its reluctance to poison its people into infertility with a stagnant per capita GDP.

http://government.gov.ge/index.php?lang_id=ENG&sec_id=378

President Margvelashvili and Prime Minister Garibashvili,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Georgia joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1992, the same year it became independent of the Soviet Union and also joined the United Nations. Prior to 1992, births exceeded deaths twofold and the population increased annually by circa 40,000 people. After 1992, the birth and the death rate have been nearly identical and the total fertility rate sank below replacement level for the first time in Georgia's history, clear signs of artificial interference with both births and deaths, the trademarks of the UN, its agencies and its western backers, the core members of the genocidal lobby.

Unlike the Soviets, which allowed your population to increase naturally and your people to have control over their reproductive rights, the freely elected governments of Georgia, aided by western money and UN expertise, are subverting the people's reproductive rights without shame and are using covert chemical and biological methods to bring population growth to a halt.

I do not question the necessity or effectiveness of population control, which allowed your country to reduce the proportion of citizens who live below the poverty line from 54% in 2000 to 30% today, a significant accomplishment. But I do question the methods – sterilizing vaccines to decrease fertility and germ-infested food to increase mortality – and the fact that the government of Georgia assumes rights it is not entitled to and in the process violates the Genocide Convention and every ethical norm there is.

What is offensive to your people and to the world, is that the Georgian government collaborates closely with the American military-industrial complex to create, enhance and deploy biological weapons on innocent civilians for the purpose of depopulation and that these biological weapons created or enhanced on Georgian soil at the Richard G. Lugar Center for Public and Animal Research in Tbilisi, the nation's capital, funded and run by Bechtel National, a notorious US defense contractor, are used to cause pandemics so as to aid the genocidal lobby in the goal of preventing the birth of new life and causing premature death throughout the world.

These are extremely reckless and immoral actions on the part of the Georgian government, especially since bioweapons have been used to contaminate fruit exported to Russia in order to force Russia back into the fold of the Anglo-Saxon run Global Depopulation Policy, which President Vladimir Putin had the good sense to detach his country from in 2006. It is such actions, and the ethnic cleansing Georgia has engaged in since independence in order to get rid of the ethnic component of its population, especially its Russian citizens, that have caused the war with Russia in 2008 and the loss of two of your provinces, South Ossetia and Abkhazia.

If you continue to commit genocide at home, foment war with Russia and export deadly viruses and germs in order to serve the geopolitical interests of the Anglo-American alliance, you will not only end up being executed by your own people for crimes against humanity and genocide but also lose the entire country to Russia. Georgia's freely elected governments have since independence reduced Georgia's population from 5.5 to 4.6 million, a 10% reduction achieved through emigration and low fertility. At this rate of population loss, there will be no Georgians fifty years from now.

There are, however, encouraging signs that your administration, unlike the two previous ones, is trying to get rid of the bioweapons labs run by the American and British military-industrial complexes on Georgian soil. I hope that this also signals the end of covert methods of depopulation in Georgia.

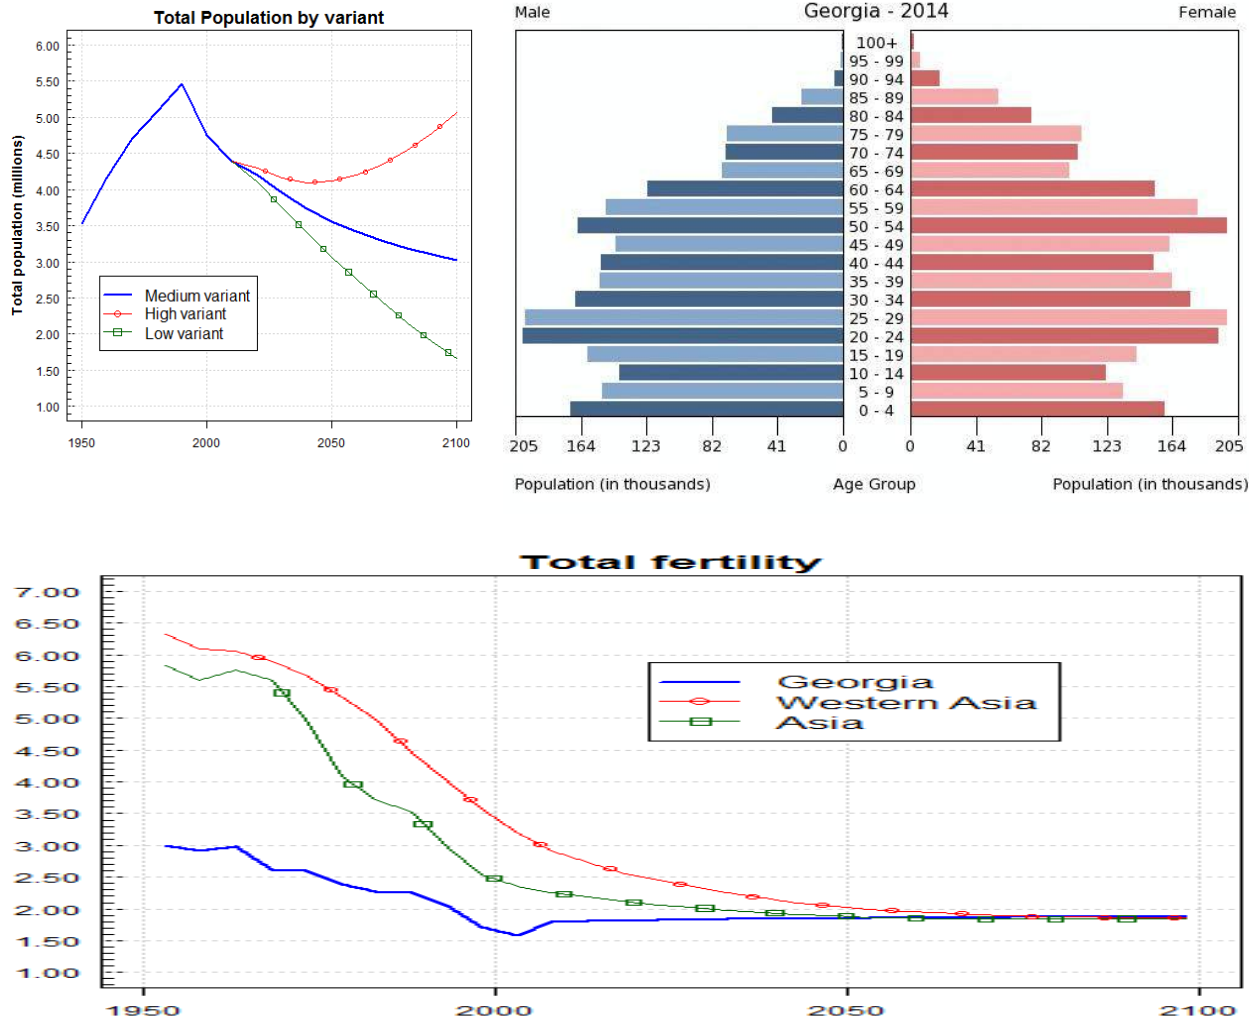

Georgia can accomplish its international obligations with respect to population control and pursue its economic ambitions not by poisoning its people into sterility and premature death but by legislating replacement level fertility and empowering the people to assume responsibility over their reproductive rights and exercise self-control for the sake of national wellbeing, global peace, and environmental sustainability.

I am in the process of forging global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide and I hope that you will join me and help me accomplish this existentially important goal so that no future leader has to ever again poison his own people. You can access my work free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

I look forward to seeing you on Georgian soil to discuss how we can save the world from insanity and our children from genocide by fundamentally reshaping the international system.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

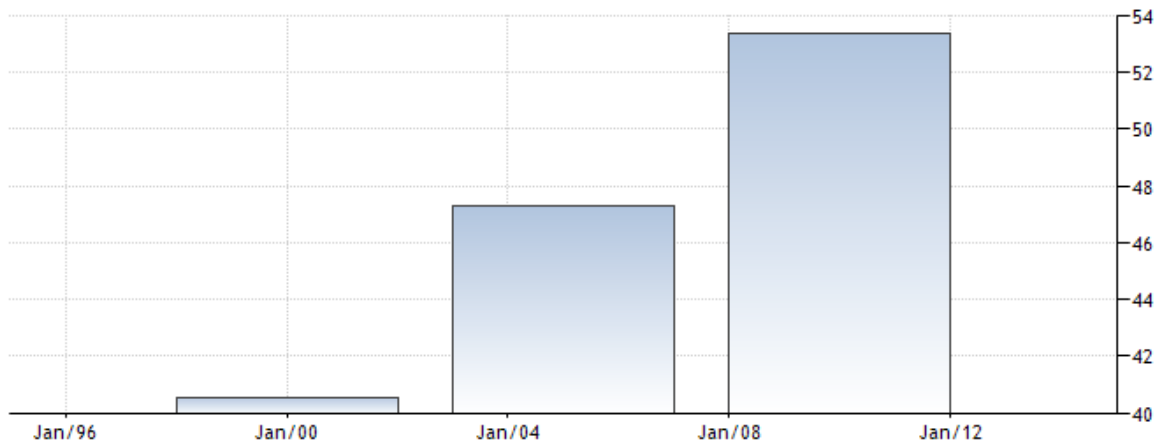

Georgians were never a particularly fertile people and when the Soviets introduced covert population control measures in Georgia in 1965 the total fertility rate was brought down from an already low level of 3 children per woman to 2.5 in less than 5 years.

Georgia joined the Global Depopulation Policy on its own when it won its independence from the Soviet Union in 1991 and adopted the same methods of covert depopulation as the West, namely sterilization by water, beverages and food adulterated with endocrine disruptors. This started with the first democratically elected President of Georgia, Zviad Gamsakhurdia (1991-1992) and continued with Eduard Shevardnadze (1995-2003), Nino Burjanadze (2007-2008), Mikheil Saakashvili (2008-2013), and the incumbent Giorgi Margvelashvili.

The historical record shows that 50% of all pregnancies ended in abortion during the 1970s and 44% during the 1980s when Soviet methods of population control prevailed. As Georgia adopted Western methods of covert chemical sterilization in the 1990s the abortion rate decreased to 30% during the decade, and further still since the beginning of the 21st century, when the abortion rate declined to 25%. Abortion, therefore, has been a significant factor in the country's population control efforts during Soviet times and remains important to this day, but it no longer is the primary method of population control. That designation now goes to covert sterilization via endocrine disruptors, which the government is trying to hide by increasing the contraceptive prevalence rate.

Georgia is in stage four of the demographic transition but due to heavy emigration it looks like it is already in stage five.

Bundeskanzlerin Merkel,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

For the past three months, I have been a guest in your country and have continued my four-year long struggle to expose and shut down all covert methods of depopulation worldwide.

To this end, I would like to meet with you and discuss how Germany can set an example for the rest of the European Union. I remind you that the methods of population control currently employed in Germany are immoral and criminal and in clear violation of the Geneva Genocide Convention. If continued they will end up in disaster.

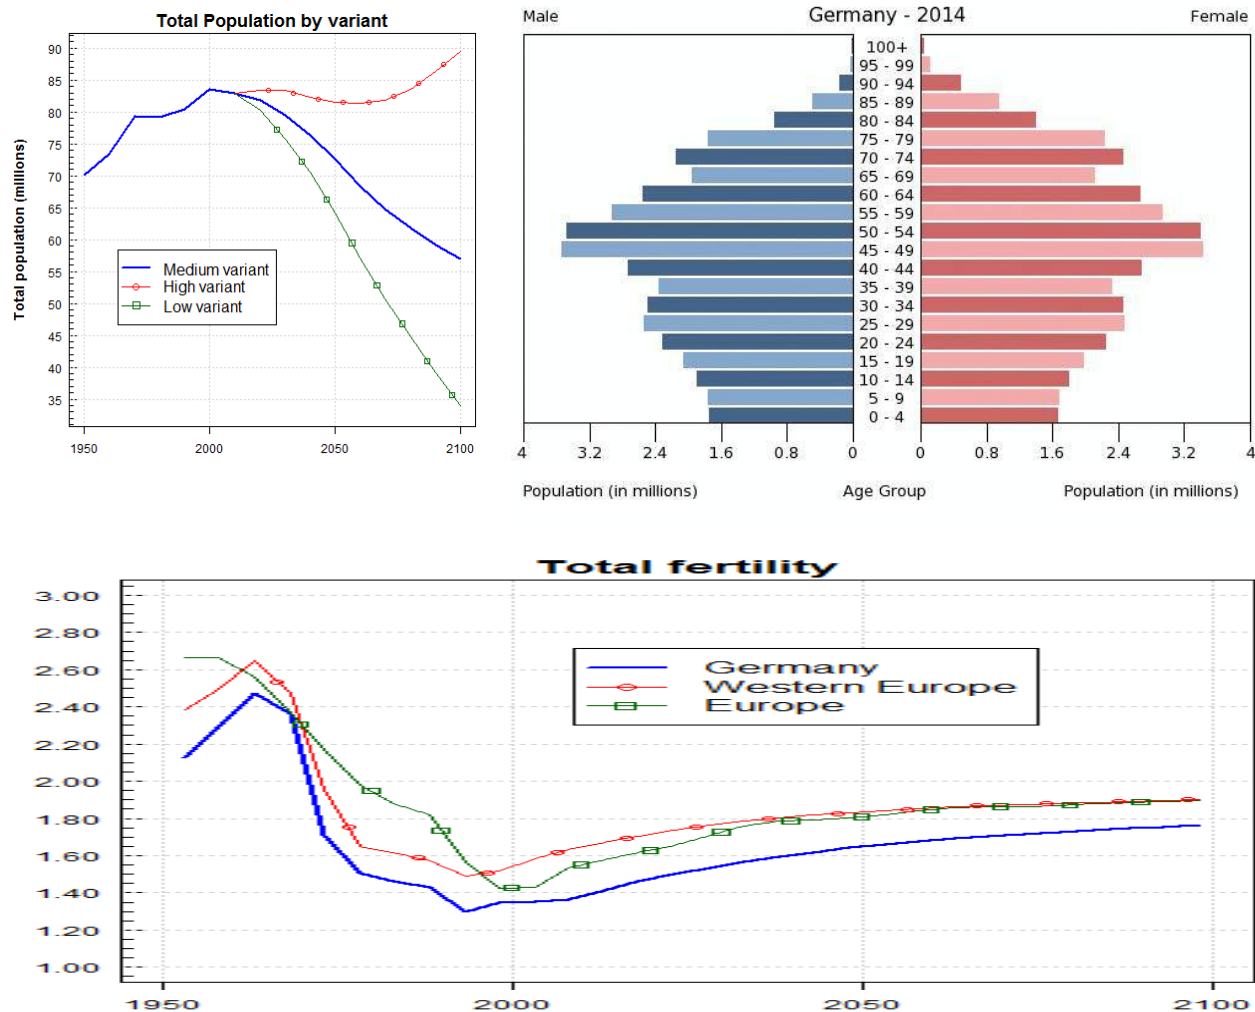

After nearly seven decades of being covertly poisoned to low fertility through endocrine disruptors deliberately inserted in food, water, dental products, and most recently also in the air, the German population suffers serious damage to its intellectual and genetic endowment. The German genius has been destroyed in the process and the German people have been reduced to mere shadows of their former selves.

If you would like to protect your people, in conformity with your duty, bring Germany within the rule of law and legitimize your government, I stand by to discuss with you how best to achieve the necessary demographic objectives dictated by the international security prerogative of population control without harming your population and offending every moral value and ethical norm in the process.

I can be in your office within hours.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

West Germany was subjected to population control measures immediately after the war and East Germany starting in 1949. Throughout the 1940s and 1950s however, the Russians moved large numbers of Germans out of East Germany and brought in people from the Soviet Union to dilute the German race. On the West German side this was mirrored by a heavy influx of Turkish men who were purportedly brought in to rebuild Germany but whose primary role was to marry German women and dilute the German race.

The Allied Powers then allowed the fertility of West Germany's people to recover throughout most of the 1960s and reintroduced covert depopulation measures in 1968. West Germany reached replacement level fertility in 1970 and East Germany in 1971, which was obviously a coordinated and well-timed effort on the part of the occupying forces; the American, British and French on the West German side and the Russians on the East German side.

Both West and East Germany have been at sub-replacement level fertility since 1972, which is also the year when the combined population of the two countries began declining and has been declining every year since without interruption and up to this day. This decline has been masked through heavy immigration, so heavy in fact that 20% of Germany's current population is either foreign born or of immigrant background.

This program of ethnic dilution through covert depopulation and heavy immigration has been conceived to alter the German race and free it of any delusions of racial superiority and of the brutal racism that came forth during the Third Reich. It has worked.

This program was instituted by the Allied Powers before Konrad Adenauer took office in 1949 as Chancellor of West Germany and Walter Ulbricht became General Secretary of East Germany in 1950. Due to Germany's unconditional surrender and the presence of occupying military forces on West and East German soil, the elected leaders of both East and West Germany have had no choice but to go along with the demands imposed on them by the U.S., the U.K. and the U.S.S.R.

Contraceptive use in Germany from 1945 to 1970, by which time the country reached replacement level fertility, was never higher than 30%. The historical record also shows that abortion has never been higher than 15% in Germany.

Therefore, Germany's low fertility cannot possibly be the result of contraceptive use or abortions. Even at its highest, Germany's contraceptive prevalence rate never exceeded 78% and that occurred only briefly from 1983 to 1988. Since 2005, the contraceptive prevalence rate has been at or below 65% and that cannot possibly account for Germany's consistently low fertility, which since 1973 has been below 1.5 children per woman, with or without contraceptives. This obvious disconnect between the contraceptive prevalence rate and the fertility rate is clearly the result of covert methods of depopulation, which are the true cause of low fertility in Germany and elsewhere.

The program of depopulation has been so intense and the damage done so severe that German women now have the highest rate of childlessness in the world at 30%. Paradoxically, the severe program of depopulation imposed on Germany and on Japan as an act of retribution has been the primary factor of their economic success.

As the data shows, Germany's GDP began rising only after fertility had declined to replacement level in 1970. GDP growth follows fertility decline and not vice versa, as it is asserted.

Germany's and Japan's post-war economic miracle, which exceeds that of all other countries, is primarily the result of strict population control, which also exceeded in severity all other countries in the world because Germany and Japan had lost the war and surrendered to the Allied Powers unconditionally.

Japan, like Germany, was subjected to strict population control right after the war and forced to replacement level fertility, which it reached by 1960 and that then triggered rapid economic growth.

Had Germany and Japan not been at the receiving end of the most brutal population control program carried out by the Allied Powers in retribution for the war, they would have not become the economic powers that they are today.

This lesson has undoubtedly contributed to the adoption of population control programs throughout the West and later throughout the world.

What was intended as punishment by the conquerors turned out to be a blessing for the vanquished, at least in economic terms. At that time, however, the damage done to human health and to the genetic and intellectual endowment of mankind could not be foreseen. Today, however, we know the damage to be cumulative and that with each generation exposed to covert chemical poisoning for sterilization purposes the damage is increasingly tragic. The economic benefits, therefore, cannot be sustained into the future because the physical damage reduces the quality of the species despite the greater financial investments in each human being made possible by increasing wealth due to low fertility.

President Mahama,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Ghana joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1982 and the total fertility rate went down from almost 7 children per woman to just under 4 today while the population has grown from 5 million in 1950 to 26 million as of 2014, a fivefold increase. This partial success was accomplished through sterilizing vaccines administered by the UN and western aid agencies.

Your government is currently under great pressure to reach replacement level fertility through GMOs, which is why it is overriding democratic opposition to GMOs and is pushing through parliament the Plant Breeder's Bill. Once this Bill is in place the population will be rendered sterile through Frankenfoods and untold numbers will be starved to death by engineered food scarcity and high prices.

There is however another way to access much needed aid money, accomplish your nation's demographic and economic objectives and live up to your international obligations. Instead of doing the bidding of the genocidal lobby that masquerades as the international community and poison your people into sterility, ill-health and early death, you must legislate replacement level fertility and provide your people with cheap but safe contraceptives.

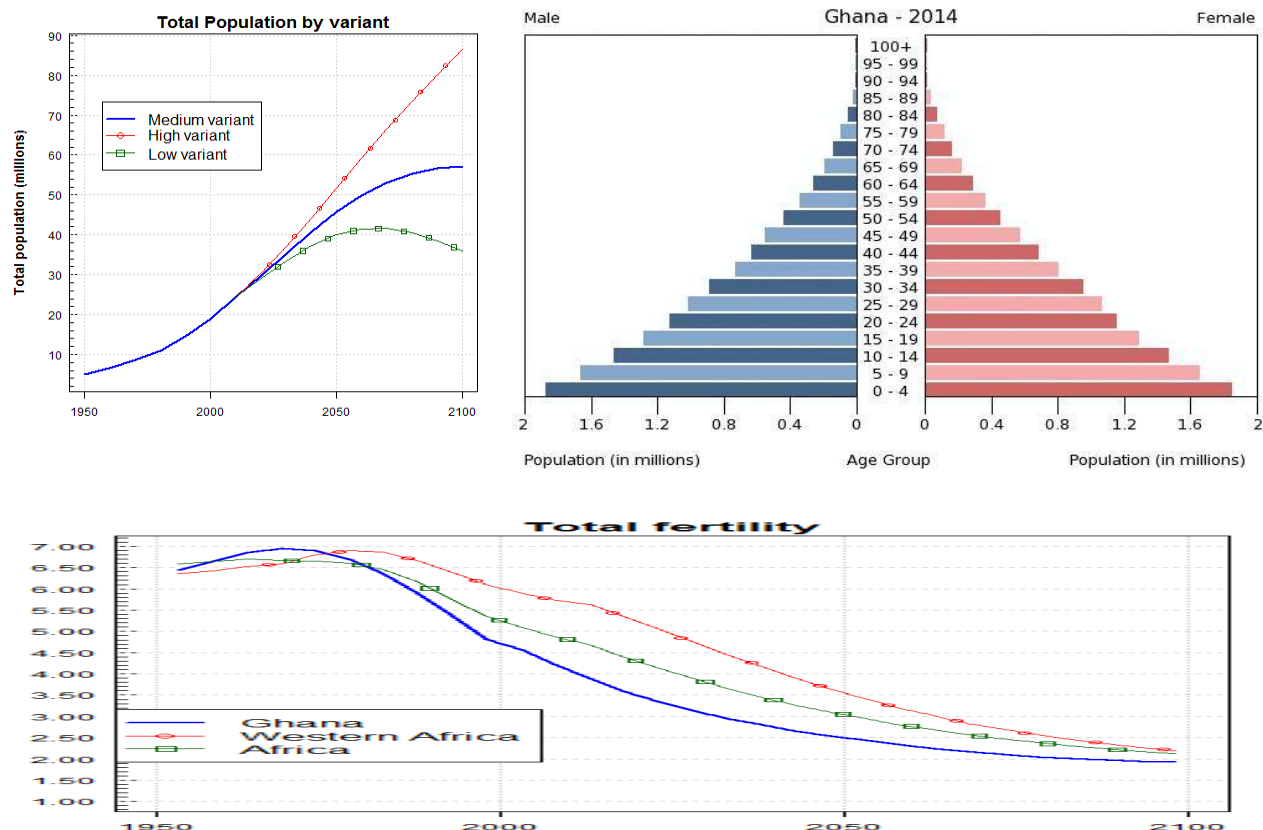

Ghana is a well-governed country with a rapidly growing economy, a free press and a high Human Development Index. I can help you convince your people of the need to limit their reproductive rights if you will help me forge global consensus for a worldwide population control law from the UN Security Council level. Population control is a Planetary Security Prerogative and no people or nation can avoid this painful reality. The sooner the world comes to this understanding the better. But political leadership is needed and I have had to fill this vacuum in the absence of leadership among the political class.

I urge you to use my work to educate yourself and your people until such time as we can meet to discuss how we can help each other. My work is freely available here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

Population control measures were introduced in Ghana in 1974 by Colonel Ignatius Kutu Acheampong (1972-1978) and continued by his successor Lieutenant General Frederick William Kwasi Akuffo (1978-1979). The military government was continued by Ghana's first president, Jerry Rawlings (1981-2001).

The democratically elected governments that followed have continued with population control measures under presidents John Kufuor (2001-2009), John Atta Mills (2009-2012), and the incumbent John Dramani Mahama (since July 2012).

Ghana's leadership has proceeded cautiously and has not given the UN and its affiliated NGOs a freehand to sterilize at will. That is why the depopulation lobby is pushing hard to force Ghana into genetically modified crops and thus sterilize the people through food that they themselves grow.

The contraceptive prevalence rate is only 30% and abortions are very rare since the law allows abortions only under strict conditions. Abortion is in fact so rare in Ghana that only 3% of women and 6% of women seeking an abortion are even aware of the legal status of abortion.

Economic data shows that Ghana's GDP stagnated until the country began tackling fertility in the eighties. As soon as fertility began to drop in the late 1980s the GDP began to rise.

HELLENIC REPUBLIC (GREECE)

2 October 2014

Karolos Papoulias, President of Greece
<http://www1.presidency.gr/en/contact.htm>

Antonis Samaras, Prime Minister of Greece
internationalmediaoffice@primeminister.gr

President Papoulias and Prime Minister Samaras,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

Greece, the cradle of western civilization and the origin of democracy, has been turned into a basket case by an international system that poisons our bodies and minds and perverts every right and liberty fought and died for by our forefathers.

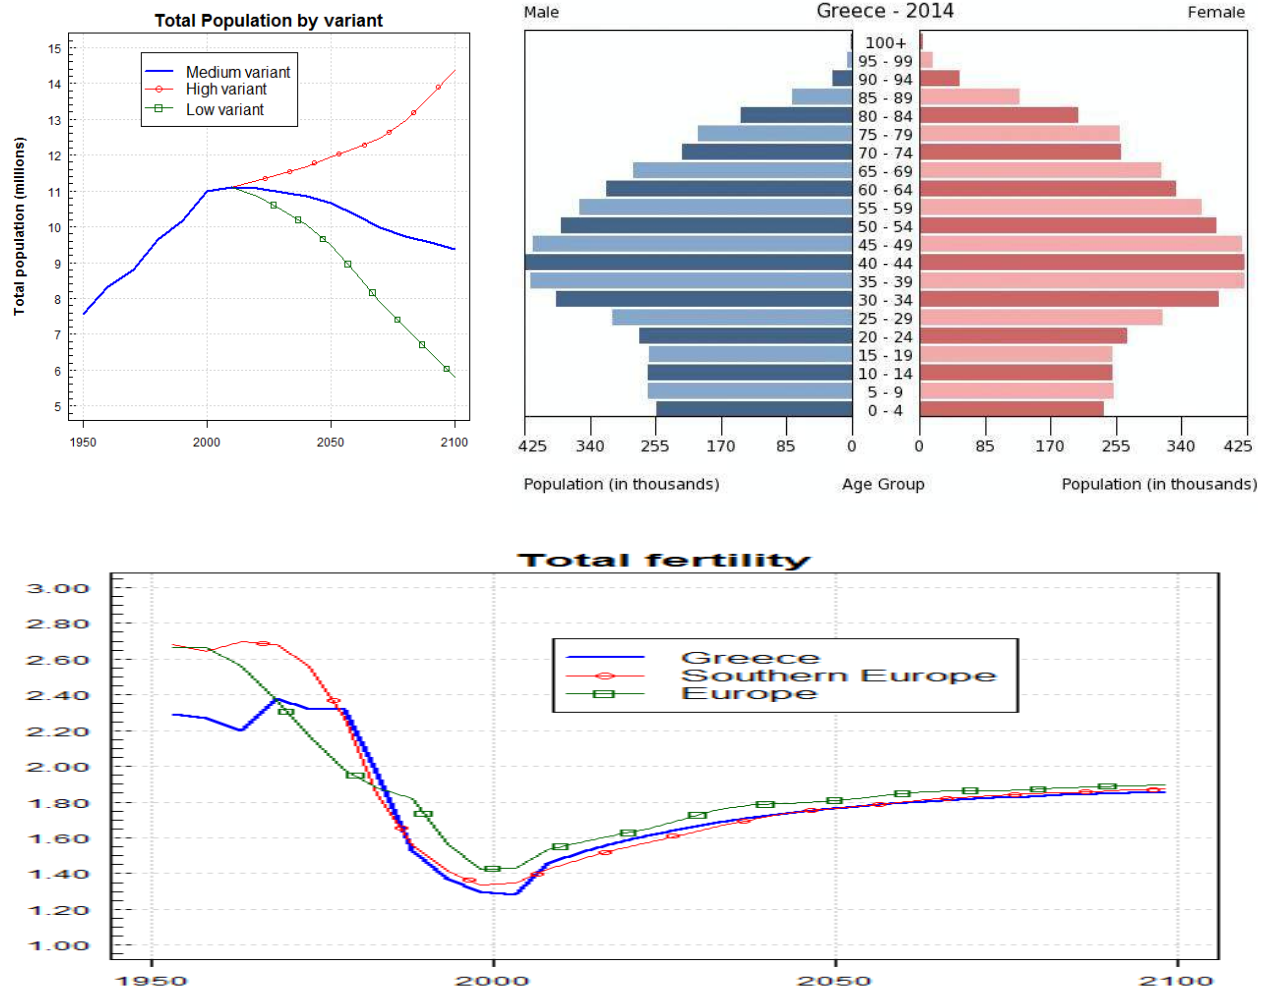

Greece joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1948 and has already reached the fourth stage of the demographic transition, which means that the population is stable at 11.5 million and will begin to decrease in a decade. With a fertility rate of only 1.5 children per woman and only four working age adults for every elder, and with a population dependency load of 33% (of which 14% is youth under 15 years of age and 19% elderly 65 years of age and above), and a projected ratio of only two workers for every elder by 2050, the country will remain in economic dire straits regardless what party is elected and what promises are made.

To keep the country afloat during this engineered demographic and economic conundrum the UN, with the help of NATO and a few corporations and with your government's approval, are fumigating your people from the air with chemtrails to shorten the lifespans of the elderly before they crash the entire social system. The death rate per thousand has as a result started increasing nicely and steadily ever since the fumigation began in 1995; fumigation that is aided by annual flu shots adulterated to enhance the damage done by the chemtrails and speed up the departure of the elderly from this earth.

A scientific genocide is ongoing and you are part of it. If you do not want to end up dangling at the end of a rope, I suggest you meet with me and help me forge global consensus for worldwide population control legislation so the genocide can end and sanity return to your country and to our world. Until such time, Greeks will be treated not as human beings but as cockroaches and that is not what you were elected for and certainly not worth the aid your country is receiving from the EU, the IMF and the World Bank.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Greece joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1948 and the total fertility rate decreased from 3 children per woman prior to 1948 to replacement level fertility by 1981 and a lowest low fertility of 1.25 in 2001. Greece has had sub-replacement level fertility since 1983 and lowest low fertility (i.e. under 1.5 children per woman) since 1987. This has resulted in a declining population since 1996 and in major economic problems. A declining population means a shrinking economy. Moreover, an aged population – which is a consequence of an engineered demographic transition – means shrinking consumption and that accelerates the economic collapse. The median age of Greece is a whopping 42.5 years. No country with such an aged population could possibly have a vibrant economy. What it has is a terrible age dependency burden of 50%.

Greece will be going nowhere but downhill until such time as it has completed its demographic transition, reached its optimal population level and climbed back up to replacement level fertility.

This conundrum is clearly reflected in the economic record, which shows that per capita GDP began increasing as soon as Greece's fertility began decreasing in the early 1960s, that the GDP increased until the population plateaued at 10 million during the 1980s and 1990s when the GDP also stagnated, that the GDP rose again during the first decade of the 21st century due to an influx of EU funds and heavy immigration that grew the population by one million or 10%, and that the GDP began decreasing as soon as the population began decreasing due to low fertility in 2010.

Greece's population control program was most intense during the presidency of Konstantinos Karamanlis (first term 1980-1985, second term 1990-1995) and the presidency of Konstantinos Stephanopoulos (1995-2005).

Greece's contraceptive prevalence rate is low at 46% and clearly not a factor in the country's sub-replacement level fertility. The historical record also shows that abortion is not a factor since Greece's abortion rate has been stable at c. 12% since 1990. Prior to 1990 it was even less of a factor since it never exceeded 5%.

Greece is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

GRENADA

2 November 2014

Keith Mitchell

Prime Minister of Grenada

PrimeMinister@gov.gd, pmsec@gov.gd

foreignaffairs@gov.gd, min-healthgrenada@spiceisle.com

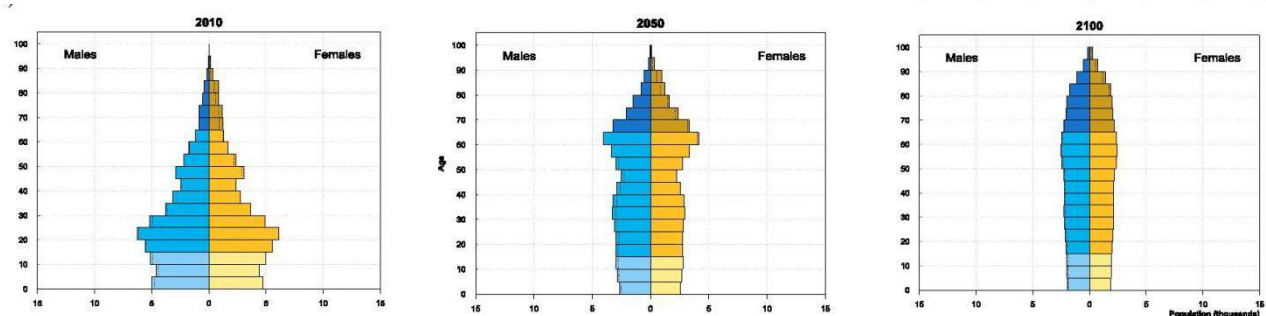

Prime Minister Mitchell,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Grenada was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1958, thus long before gaining its independence in 1974 and joining the UN. As a result, the total fertility rate decline from 6.7 children per woman in the 1950s to 4.5 by the time of its independence and to only 1.9 by 2006, the first year the island nation reached below replacement level fertility.

Heavy emigration along with covert depopulation measures have ensured that the island's population has not increased much since 1958, when there were 85,000 people living in Grenada, until today, when there are 109,000 inhabitants. At 318 people per square kilometer Grenada is however too densely populated for its resources, which is why the Population Division of the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs has ambitious population reduction plans for the island, as its 2012 Revision projections show:

Grenada is to achieve a perfect population pyramid by 2100, which means that every covert method of depopulation will be used on the people of Grenada to accomplish this objective.

To date, Grenadians have been subjected at various times to forced surgical sterilization, involuntary chemical sterilization, subfertility through endocrine disruptors in food, bottled water fluoridation, fluoride veneers, fluoride supplements, salt fluoridation, and most recently sterilizing GMOs and vaccines.

The primary agency for covert depopulation throughout the Americas is the Pan-American Health Organization (PAHO), which works hand in glove with your country's Ministry of Health and the Grenada Dental Association to achieve the UN-dictated demographic targets.

If you continue to cooperate with the UN and its agencies in genocide you will face the consequences of crimes against humanity in the near future because your people's genetic and intellectual endowment is being irreversibly degraded further and further from year to year. I have documented the damage done to human health as well as to society at large, democracy and the rule of law in my seminal work on the Global Depopulation Policy, which you can access free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

It is up to you to change course by stopping all covert depopulation measures and introducing population control legislation instead. To make your task easier I suggest you aid me in forging global consensus for replacement level fertility by dint of international law so that the necessary population reduction goals humanity must accomplish over the course of the 21st century can be pursued openly, honorably, and legally across the world. I am asking all other heads of state and government to do the same and you can read my historic and urgent appeals here: <https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>.

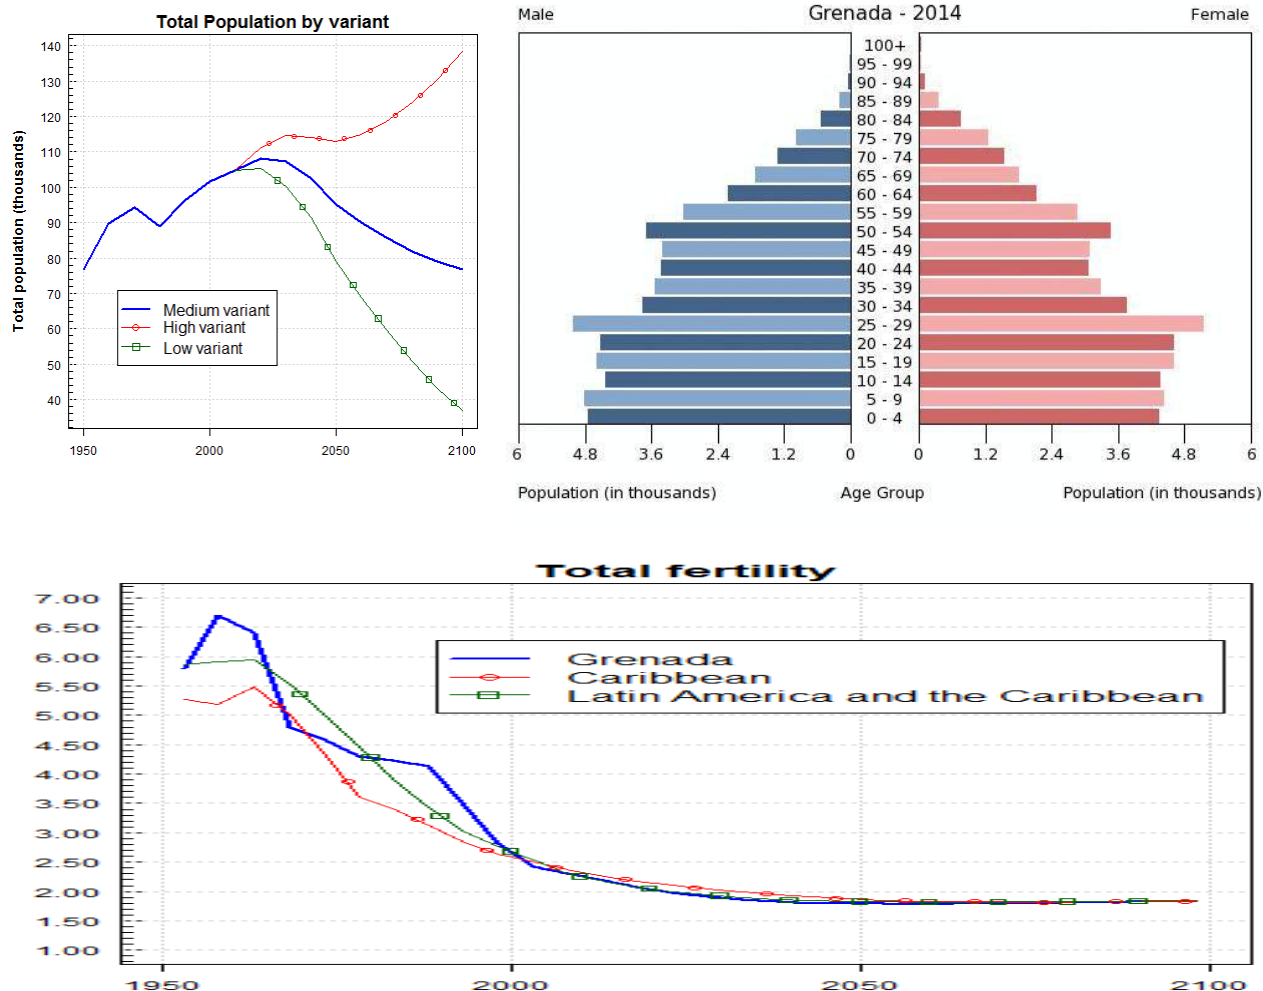

Until such time, I urge you to stop collaborating with the UN and to protect your people from covert depopulation measures under the guise of improved health services, as well as from imported food laced with endocrine disruptors deliberately inserted to subvert human fertility. It is immoral and perverse to harm your own people regardless of necessity. More than anything it is unnecessary because once the people are presented with the bitter facts and the dire realities they will accept restrictions on their fertility and assume responsibility.

For this to happen, however, political leadership is necessary and since none is to be had anywhere on earth I had to fill the vacuum and get the ball rolling before the world collapses. In so doing, I will have saved not only the world's seven billion people from genocide, but also the human genome from irreparable harm, and every head of state from being lynched by the mob.

I hope that you have the intelligence to realize that you and the other 195 heads of state are on the edge of the abyss and that unless you act now you will never get another chance. If you do realize this and need my help, I will not hesitate to travel to Grenada and assist you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

The British imposed covert depopulation measures in 1958 and by the time Grenada won its independence in 1974 the total fertility rate had been brought down from nearly 7 to 4.5 children per woman.

After independence in 1974, the people of Grenada had a respite from depopulation measures until 1990 when Nicholas Brathwaite (1990-1995) became Prime Minister and revived the program. His successor, Keith Mitchell (1995-2008), continued the program just as aggressively and reached replacement level fertility in 2006.

Prime Minister Tillman Thomas (2008-2013) and the incumbent Prime Minister, Keith Mitchell, who started his second term in 2013, have kept the total fertility rate at replacement level.

At 55% Grenada's contraceptive prevalence rate is clearly not a factor in the low fertility nor is abortion since it is generally illegal.

Otto Pérez Molina, President of Guatemala

President Molina,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Although a founding member of the United Nations, Guatemala did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1998 when it began fluoridating its salt in order to subvert fertility and, as a result, the nation's total fertility rate has since decreased from 5 children per woman to 3 as of 2014.

Honest family planning services took place in the 1970s the result of which the total fertility rate decreased from 6.5 to 5 children per woman thanks to better education and better access to contraceptives.

Involuntary sterilizations with Depo-Provera and coerced tubal ligations performed by the Asociacion Probienstar de la Familia (APROFAM), the Guatemalan affiliate of the International Planned Parenthood Federation, augment the government's current population control efforts, which is why despite having the second lowest contraceptive use in Latin America at 38%, Guatemala's total fertility rate continues to decline rapidly.

Considering that Guatemala's population increased from 3 million in 1950 to almost 16 million today, a fivefold increase, and that population pressures (as well as American interference) were the main causes of the civil war that ravaged the country from 1960 to 1996, one can understand why the Guatemalan government is taking population control seriously. Need notwithstanding, neither you nor your government have the right to poison your people into infertility. As president, however, you have a responsibility to obey the law and to protect your peoples' rights and liberties. Clearly you are not doing this, which is why I am giving you this opportunity to change course before it is too late.

To change course, I ask that you begin educating the Guatemalan people about the threats they face and that you immediately cease and desist all covert and involuntary methods of depopulation and legislate replacement level fertility. To make your task easier, I am giving you free and unrestricted access to my books and videos in the hope that you will encourage the nation's media to use them without delay.

Guatemala's leaders have used legal and voluntary methods of population control until 1998 when salt fluoridation was adopted by President Álvaro Arzú (1996-2000).

His successors - Alfonso Portillo (2000-2004), Óscar Berger (2004-2008), Álvaro Colom (2008-2012), and the incumbent Otto Pérez Molina, have continued to suppress fertility but have done so cautiously and due to heavy pressure from the UN and the international community.

The drop in fertility from 5 to 3 children per woman from 1999 to today cannot be explained by Guatemala's contraceptive prevalence rate, which only recently reached 50%, or by the abortion rate, which is very low because it is allowed only to save a woman's life.

President Condé and Prime Minister Fofana,

Re: covert depopulation measures

Because Guinea has refused to join the Global Depopulation Policy and your country's total fertility rate remains virtually unchanged at 5 children per woman, the depopulation lobby within the UN system has hit your country with the Ebola virus. Under the pretext of immunizing your people against the Ebola virus, which will give the UN and its western sponsors access to the bloodstream of every man, woman and child, the next step on their agenda is to sterilize your people with adulterated vaccines.

Population control has served the world since 1945 as a substitute to war in order to prevent a third and this time nuclear world war. This is the basis of the current international order and Guinea will have to bring down its total fertility rate to replacement level one way or another; that is to say either willingly or by force.

The only way to spare your people from the agony of an engineered genocide is to help me reform the UN system and bring the depopulation effort out in the open so it can be pursued openly, legally, justly and safely. How to reform the UN and redesign the international system I describe in my recently published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance.

To bring the depopulation effort out in the open so people can assume responsibility over their reproductive systems and exercise self-restraint the public needs to be educated and you will find all the material you need to educate your people in my freely available work:

If you ignore this and think you can stick your head in the sand and all problems will go away on their own, you will awaken in a nightmare. Already 40% of your nation's children suffer from chronic malnutrition.

I therefore urge you to be proactive and instruct your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Mamadi Touré, to call for UN reform so we can have peace without poison.

Should you need my help, please do not hesitate to ask me and I will assist you in any way I can.

President Vaz and Prime Minister Pereira,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Guinea Bissau joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1995 and its total fertility rate has decreased during this time from 6.5 to 4.3 children per woman.

As elsewhere in Africa vaccines are used to sterilize the people against their will and without their knowledge. More recently, the Malaria drug Artemisinin also doubles as a covert sterilization method and since Malaria kills more people than any other disease in Guinea-Bissau its treatment is a great way to get to the adult population and subvert its fertility.

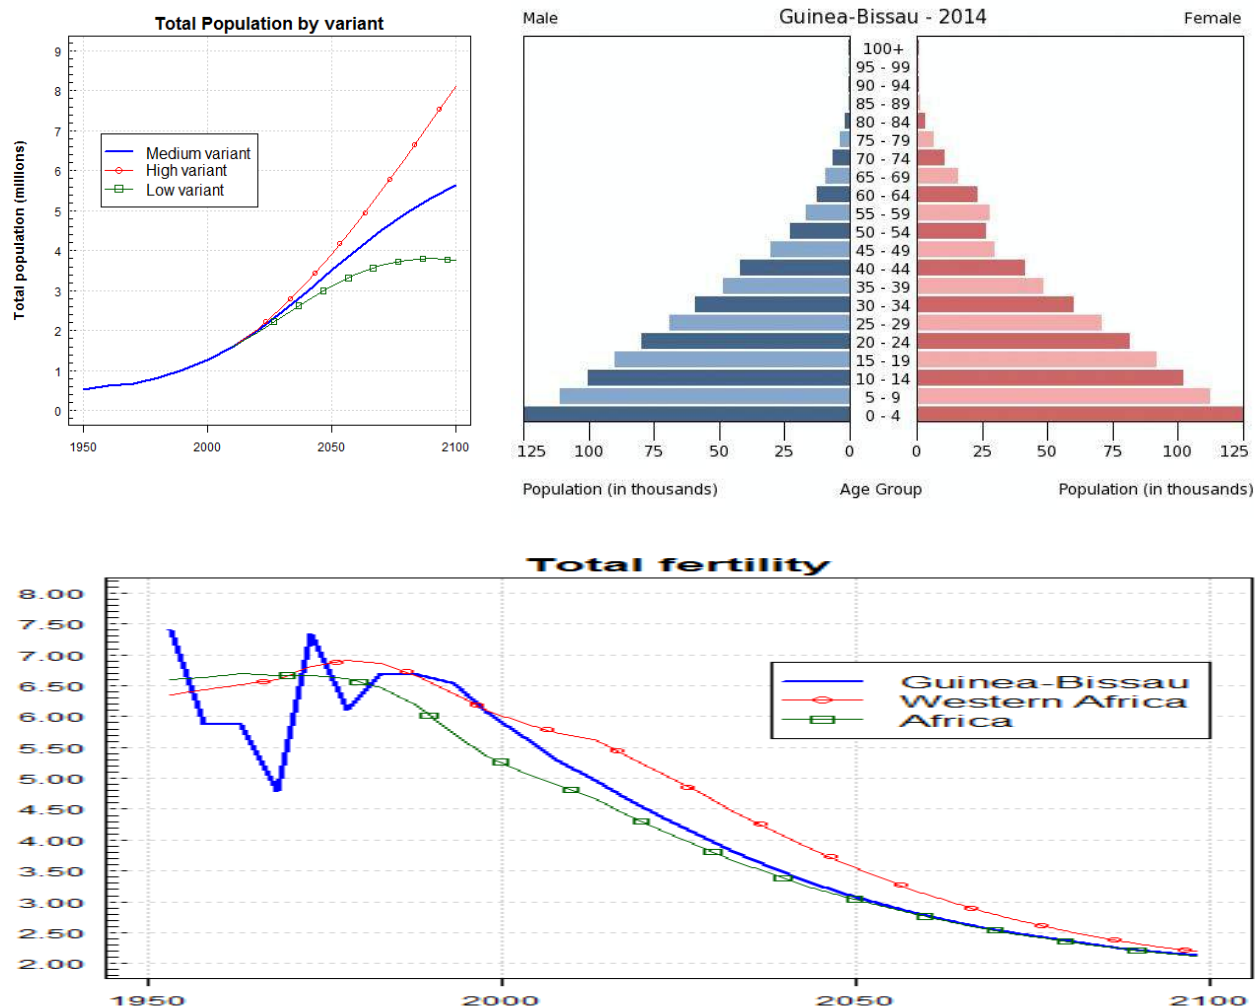

In light of the fact that Guinea-Bissau's population has tripled since 1950 and that more than 40% of your citizens are below 14 years of age and that two-thirds of the population lives below the poverty line, I understand the need for an effective population control program but it need not be a covert and illegal one. I therefore ask that you draft appropriate legislation to bring your country's population control efforts into the open and within the rule of law and that you join my effort to make replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative that no nation and no person on earth can henceforth escape.

Until such time as population growth is under control, Guinea-Bissau will not be able to escape the poverty trap and will not know peace. The country has been on a slippery slope for the past forty years which is why the number of doctors per capita has decreased to an appalling 5 physicians per 100,000 persons and why no president has successfully served a full five year term since 1974. It is also why your country has the world's seventh highest maternal mortality rate in the world and why your country is on the verge of becoming a narco-state.

If you decide to save your people from poverty and from engineered genocide, you will find all the information you need in my work: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>. You will also find that you can count on my help.

From 1951 to 1968, when Guinea-Bissau was still a Portuguese colony and was called Portuguese Guinea, its colonial administrators subjected the people to covert depopulation measures. The governors responsible for this program of covert sterilization are as follows: Raimundo António Rodrigues Serrão (1951-1953), Diogo António José Leite Pereira de Melo e Alvim (1954-1956), Álvaro Rodrigues da Silva Tavares (1957-1958), António Augusto Peixoto Correia (1959-1962), Vasco António Martínez Rodrigues (1962-1965), and Arnaldo Schulz (1965-1968). They succeeded in lowering the total fertility rate of the Guinean people from 7.5 to 4.8 children per woman.

As soon as Governor António de Spínola took office in 1968 and until the end of his term in 1973 he shut down the program of covert depopulation and the fertility went back up to its natural rate of 7.5 children per woman.

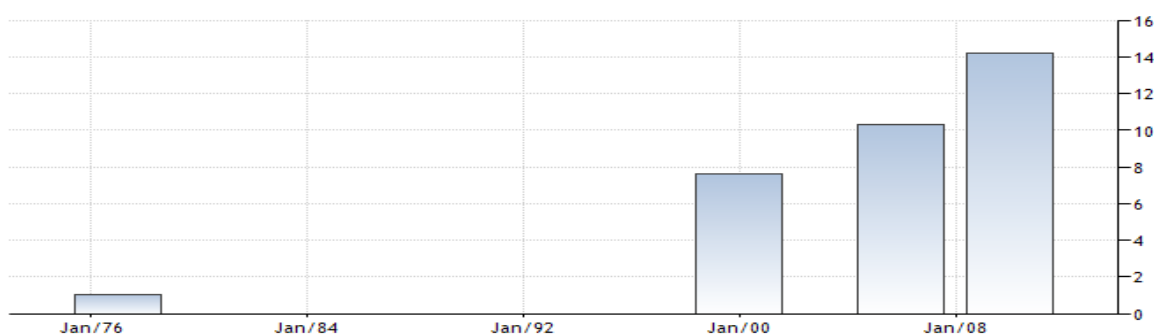

In 1973 the Guinean people declared independence and Luís Cabral became the first President of Guinea-Bissau. He was in office until 1980 and he reinstated the program of population control for the first four years of his rule bringing the total fertility rate from 7.5 down to 6 children per woman. During the last three years of his rule he abandoned the covert depopulation program and the total fertility rate rose from 6 to 6.8 children per woman.

Cabral's successor, President João Bernardo Vieira had no policy of population control during his first (1980-1984) and second term in office (1984-1994) and the total fertility rate stabilized at 6.8 children per woman. During his third term in office, however, from 1994 to 1999, he reintroduced population control on the insistence of the UN, but allowed only the use of legal and voluntary methods of contraception, and by the end of his third term in office the total fertility rate had declined again down to 6 children per woman.

Viera's successors have continued in his vein and have pursued a cautious policy of population control until recently when the UN has been given a green light to use sterilizing vaccines.

With a contraceptive prevalence rate of just 14% and virtually no abortions whatever fertility decline Guinea-Bissau accomplishes it will be due to sterilizing vaccines and the malaria drug artemisinin.

The country's inaction on the fertility front has condemned the people to poverty.

Guinea-Bissau is in stage two of the demographic transition.

CO-OPERATIVE REPUBLIC OF GUYANA

3 November 2014

Donald Ramotar
President of Guyana

Sam Hinds
Prime Minister of Guyana

pr@ppp-civic.org , ppp@guyana.net.gy, homemin@guyana.net.gy
fpag@guyana.net.gy

President Ramotar and Prime Minister Hinds,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Guyana joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1970, the same year it became independent and also gained membership to the UN. As a result, its total fertility rate decreased from 6 children per woman to 2.1 today. Due to heavy emigration in the 1980s Guyana's overall population has remained stable for the past 30 years at around 700,000, which is why the country has stagnated economically and has one of the lowest population densities in the world at 3.5 people per square kilometer.

This decline in fertility was accomplished through the use of fluoridated water for the urban population and with fluoride supplements and fluoridated salt for the rural population. The Family Planning Association of Guyana was not established until 1995, by which time the total fertility rate had already declined to 2.5 children per woman. Therefore, family planning services are clearly not responsible for the decline in fertility then or now and have served merely as a decoy for covert methods, as elsewhere in the world.

Guyana was rewarded by the genocidal lobby for its covert depopulation measures by forgiving a billion dollars of IMF debt during President Bharrat Jagdeo's administration in the first decade of the 21st century and by awarding it generous financial gifts for preserving the environment from human development.

Due to its uneven population distribution, Guyana is for the most part empty of people and that has allowed it to protect 70% of its territory as pristine natural habitat, which is important because its biodiversity is among the richest in the world. Since Guyana is neither overpopulated nor in economic or political crisis, there is no reason why your government could not legislate population control and sustain its current replacement level fertility through open, legal and safe ways rather than continuing to poison its people into sterility, ill-health, imbecility and enfeeblement, which is what happens to people subjected to covert chemical sterilization over multiple generations.

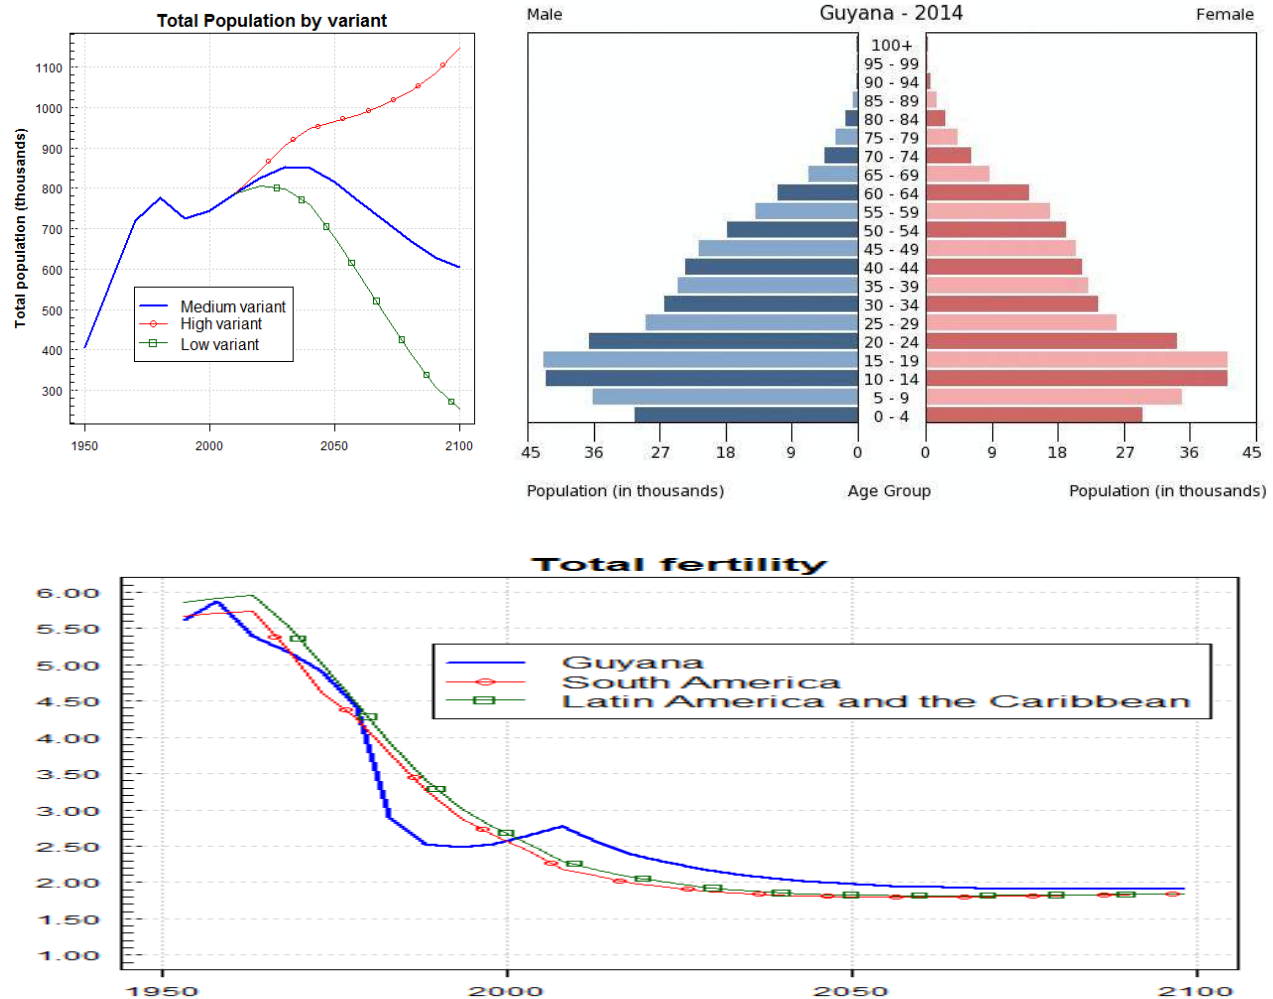

I now give a choice between continuing to commit crimes against humanity and betray your people's trust or supporting my effort to forge global consensus for replacement level fertility by dint of international law and as a Planetary Security Prerogative, which would obligate every person on earth to exercise self-control and limit family size to a maximum of two children, and would obligate every government on earth to provide free or generously subsidized and safe contraceptives for the entire population.

In case you are ignorant of the facts and of the damage that is being done to the human fabric through the covert methods used by the international community, as many heads of state and government seem to be, I urge you to read my seminal work (which is freely available here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>) and to make it available to the public so as to educate yourselves in record time because the very survival of humanity is at stake and because the world is on the brink of collapse and it is your responsibility to act.

I stand by to travel to Guyana and help you during the transition from covert to overt population control methods. In the meantime, free the press to educate and inform your people how to protect themselves and so they will acquire the necessary knowledge to take control over their reproductive rights.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

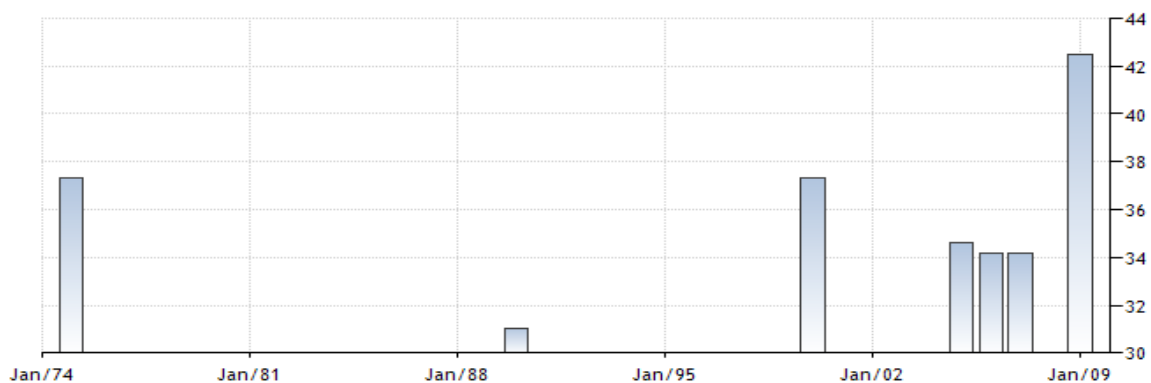

Between 1970 and 1990, Guyana pursued an aggressive policy of population control and has used a variety of covert depopulation measures. That Guyana could not have possibly achieved a drop in fertility from 5.8 to 2.5 children per woman in the two decades from 1970 to 1990 legitimately is amply demonstrated by the low contraceptive prevalence rate, which in the 1970s was below 20% and in the 1980s was below 30%. Furthermore, at around 25% abortion does play a role but cannot explain Guyana's drop in fertility.

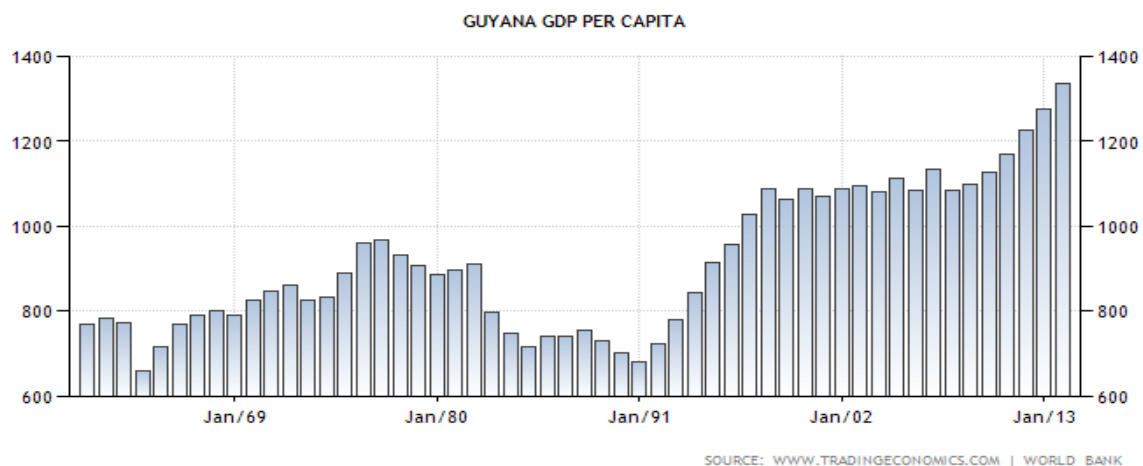

Covert depopulation measures were kick-started by Prime Minister Forbes Burnham (1964-1980) and continued by Ptolemy Reid (1980-1984), Desmond Hoyte (1984-1985), and Hamilton Green (1985-1992). Prime Minister Sam Hinds (1992-1997, 1997-1999, incumbent since 1999) relaxed them for a while and the total fertility rate bounced up to 2.5 until 2005 when he intensified them to reach replacement level fertility, which Guyana did in 2010.

With a contraceptive prevalence rate that never exceeded 43% and that has been below 35% until six years ago, Guyana could not have possibly lowered let alone reached replacement level fertility. And since abortions have been illegal until 1995 and performed by hospitals only since 2008 they have not played a role in the fertility decline at any time in Guyana's history.

Guyana's per capita GDP began a course of steady growth as soon as the country lowered its fertility to near replacement level in the early 1990s.

Laurent Lamothe, Prime Minister of Haiti, http://primature.gouv.ht/?page_id=9

President Martelly and Prime Minister Lamothe,

Haiti is in dire straits, but history shows that your people can rise to the occasion when they want to. As the first independent nation of Latin America and the Caribbean, the first black republic in the world, and the only nation in the world established as a result of a successful slave revolt, Haiti has a lot to be proud of and the potential to set standards once again.

History is now providing Haiti with the opportunity to not only be the first nation in the world to gain its independence from a genocidal world order, but to also, at the same time and all on its own, solve its social and economic problems, restore its devastated environment, get rid of the UN occupation force, free itself from American interference in its political process, and set an example for all other nations to follow, regardless how rich and powerful and advanced they may be.

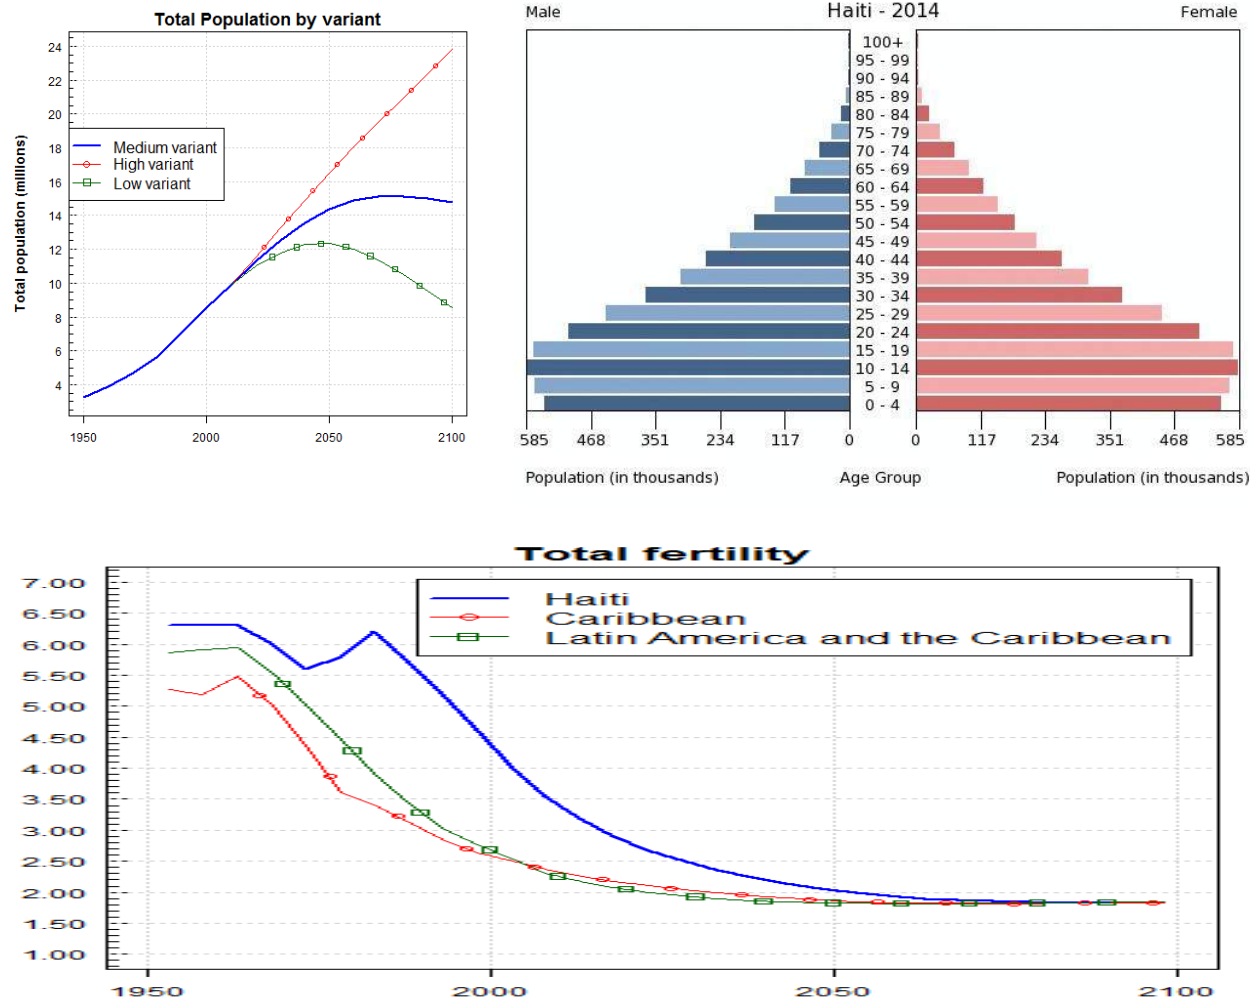

All Haiti needs to do is adopt legislation to restrict fertility to two children per woman. In so doing, Haiti will spare itself the indignity of neo-colonialism, dependence on foreign aid, interference in its domestic affairs, and the terrible damage that is being done to people's minds and bodies by the covert methods of depopulation the international community, through the UN, is currently assaulting the Haitian people with: fluoridated salt, water contaminated with endocrine disrupting plastics, adulterated vaccines, toxic GMO foods, and germ warfare.

The time to choose is now, and the choices are either to accept being treated like vermin by the genocidal lobby, or assume control over your reproductive rights and voluntarily restrict them so as to climb out of poverty, dependence and pollution and stand on your own two feet, proud and free.

If you choose the former you will be exterminated through chemical, biological and bacteriological warfare without your knowledge or consent and under the cover of humanitarian and economic aid while also being deprived of your right to self-determination by orchestrated coup d'états like the one that took place in 2004 when your freely-elected President, Jean-Bertrand Aristide, was abducted by US forces, exiled in South Africa, and wrongfully accused of crimes he did not commit, simply because he refused to covertly poison the Haitian people, as instructed by the UN and its American backers and approved by the Vatican. If you choose the latter, I stand by to help you become a model to the world and to keep the genocidal lobby off your backs and their poisons out of your country and out of your bodies.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

The international community began covertly subverting the reproductive systems of the Haitian people in 1962, during the presidency of Jean-Claude Duvalier (1957-1971).

Those who have tried to oppose the sterilization program, like President Jean-Bertrand Aristide, have been removed from power.

Since the 2010 Haiti earthquake, the United Nations Stabilisation Mission In Haiti (UNSTAMIH), which has been in the country since 2004, has intensified and accelerated its program of covert depopulation under the guise of humanitarian aid.

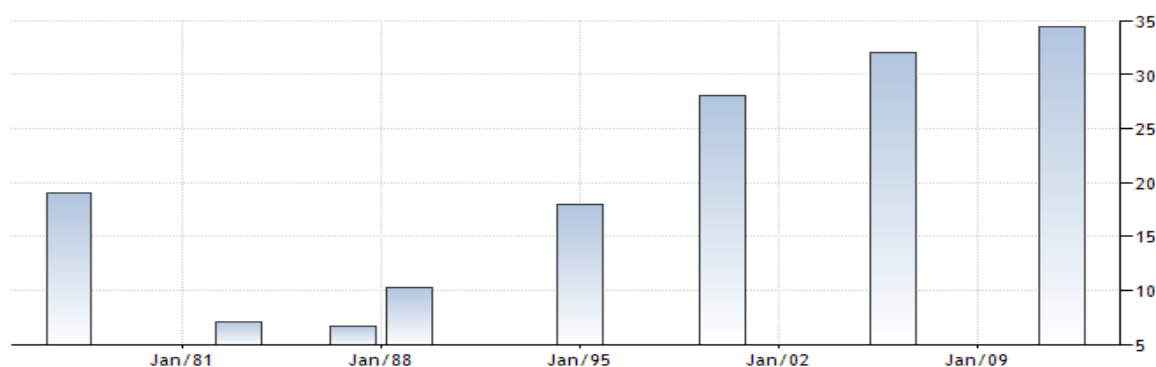

Considering the state of chaos and lawlessness as well as the economic desperation and environmental devastation of Haiti, all of which are the result of overpopulation and mismanagement, the United Nations Security Council Resolution 1542 declared the situation in Haiti to be a threat to international peace and security.

Sterilizing vaccines and imported food adulterated with endocrine disruptors and sterilizing GMOs are now in use throughout the country in a desperate attempt to bring the population under control and stabilize Haiti.

In Haiti's case the situation is so precarious that any and all measures are justified. Haiti's desperate situation is reflected in its declining per capita GDP.

Since the UN in the total fertility rate has dropped from 4 to 2.8 children per woman even though the contraceptive prevalence rate has yet to reach 35%.

Abortion too is irrelevant since it is illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life.

Haiti has recently entered stage three of the demographic transition.

Juan Orlando Hernández

President of Honduras

honduras_un@hotmail.com, honduras@un.int

<http://www.salud.gob.hn/contactenos.html>

President Hernández,

Re: immediate cessation of cover depopulation measures

Although a founding member of the United Nations, Honduras did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1975. However, once it adopted salt fluoridation as the method by which to subvert the people's reproductive freedom, the total fertility rate declined from 7 children per woman in the 1970s to 3 today.

Thanks to my efforts and research, the world is now aware that governments throughout the world are committing genocide to defuse the overpopulation bomb and prevent environmental and economic disaster. With the veil of secrecy lifted, covert depopulation measures cannot continue without triggering civil war, despite their benevolent intentions, and the time has therefore come to abandon covert for overt depopulation measures. How to do this and why, I explain in my just published book, The Future of Global Governance. I urge you to read it and to instruct the Honduran ambassador to the UN, Ms. Elizabeth Flores, to demand a restructuring of the international system along the lines I have suggested in my book, for that is the only way we will be able to prevent the collapse of our civilization.

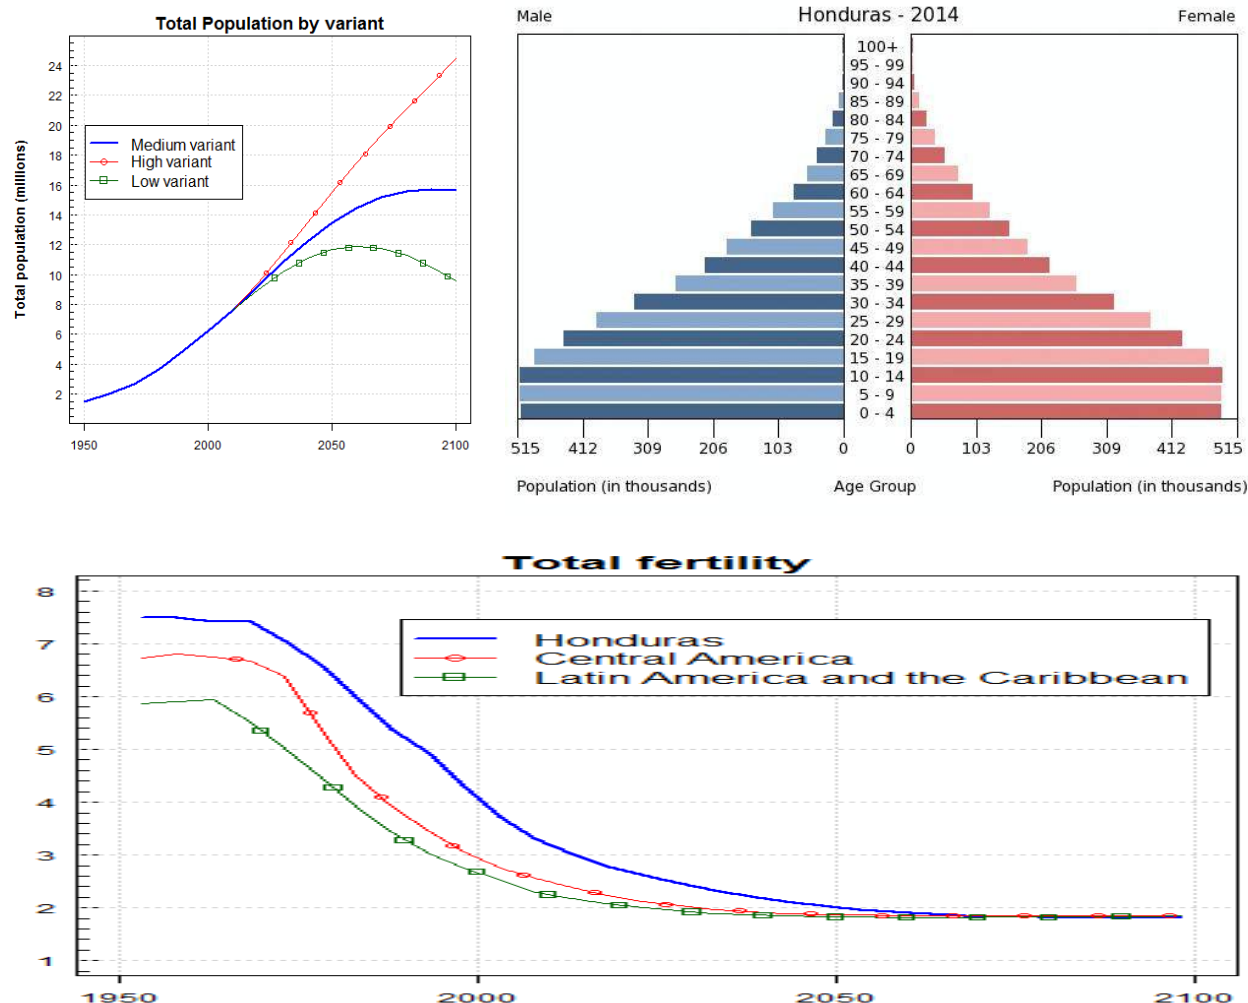

You will find my work freely available online here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>. Feel free to use it anyway you like, but especially to educate your people in preparation for the changes ahead.

I stand by to help you any way I can.

Sincerely,

Honduras' leaders have resisted international pressure to undermine their peoples' reproductive rights until 1975 and its program of population control did not really take off until 1995 when salt fluoridation was introduced. Until 1995, population control proceeded by open and legal means: better provision of contraceptives, reproductive education, and better child and mother medical services.

Covert depopulation measures were approved by President Carlos Roberto Reina (1994-1998) and were undoubtedly part and parcel of his program of 'moral revolution'. They have been continued by his successors: Carlos Roberto Flores (1998-2002), Ricardo Maduro (2002-2006), Manuel Zelaya (2006- 2009), Roberto Micheletti (2009-2010), and Porfirio Lobo Sosa (2010-2014).

It is too early to determine if the current President, Juan Orlando Hernández (in office since January 2014), will continue to poison his people into infertility or will join my effort to change the international system and attain true peace; peace without poison.

Judging by the high contraceptive prevalence rate and its rapid increase it appears that Honduras' leaders are making extraordinary efforts to terminate the program of covert sterilization through fluoridated salt as soon as possible.

Abortion is illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life; as such it is statistically irrelevant.

Honduras has just entered stage three of the demographic transition.

Chief Executive Leung,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Hong Kong was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1962 when water fluoridation was introduced to subvert human fertility. To date, Hong Kong and Singapore are the countries on earth that are fully fluoridated, which is why Hong Kong and Singapore also have the lowest fertility rates in the world at just 1 child per woman. Prior to water fluoridation Hong Kong's women had an average of 5 children.

The only reason Hong Kong can even maintain a total fertility rate of 1 child per woman is because 34% of the married women come from the mainland of China where the population is poison-free and therefore fertile. Statistics show that 80% of Hong Kong's population growth is from migration. For all intents and purposes Hong Kong has become a terminator city, a killing field of genetic lineages where every decade a fifth of the natives die out by being poisoned into extinction.

As a Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China, Hong Kong has continued to subvert its people's reproductive systems with fluoridated water and has established itself as China's graveyard. The damage done to the health of its citizens is so severe that hardly a woman in Hong Kong can give birth naturally and the vast majority of children are born by cesarean section. Moreover, western teachers report that Hong Kong's children have serious learning difficulties. To those who are familiar with the devastating effects of fluoride poisoning on developing fetuses and on children during the first five years of life with respect to intelligence this comes as no surprise.

You can continue to commit genocide, Mr. Leung, and write your name in the history books alongside Hitler, Stalin, Pol Pot and other unsavory characters and mass murderers or you can join my effort to forge global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative enshrined in international law at the global governance level. How to do this and why I describe in my just published book The Future of Global Governance.

I urge you to stop committing genocide before it is too late and to begin educating your people about the need to assume responsibility over reproduction and limit their fertility safely so that the government does not have to do it by covert poisoning. You will find all the material you need to accomplish this task in my work, which is freely available online here:

Responsible for the introduction of covert sterilization in Hong Kong via fluoridated water are the British Crown and its administrators who had full control of the colony until 1997.

Sir Robert Brown Black, the 23rd Governor of Hong Kong (1958-1964), initiated the program of covert sterilization four years after taking office and at the same time as the government of the UK began poisoning its own people back home. All subsequent British governors of Hong Kong kept it in place as have all Chief Executives of Hong Kong after the handover.

The people of Hong Kong take pride in their rights and freedoms and fight hard to preserve them under the “one country, two systems” that Britain and China agreed upon prior to the transfer of power. However, if the people of Hong Kong knew that part and parcel of life in the Special Administrative Region is being covertly sterilized with fluoridated water, they would undoubtedly choose the restricted freedoms of mainland China where population control is accomplished legally and safely through the One-Child-Policy.

During the 1990s, Hong Kong’s administrators have tried to stop the program of covert sterilization by increasing contraceptive use to 86% but gave up soon after realizing that contraceptives without legal enforcement do not work in suppressing fertility below replacement level.

During the 1990s, abortions peaked too at 25%, as the historical record shows, but have since petered down to 12%.

Hong Kong owes its affluence to its genocidal efforts, as the GDP graph below shows. The per capita GDP began rising rapidly in the late seventies when Hong Kong's fertility had declined from more than 5 to just 2.5 children per woman.

Hong Kong is in stage five of the demographic transition but this is hidden by heavy immigration from the mainland of China.

HUNGARY

5 October 2014

János Áder
President of Hungary, sajto@keh.hu

Viktor Orbán
Prime Minister of Hungary, orbanviktor@orbanviktor.hu

President Áder and Prime Minister Orbán,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

As a member of the Axis Powers and cobelligerent in the Second World War, Hungary was severely treated after war's end by the Allied Powers who subjected the Hungarian people to experimental measures of population control via salt and milk fluoridation before unleashing these methods of covert sterilization elsewhere.

As a result, Hungary's population has been decreasing since 1981 and has since lost nearly 8% of its people to engineered decline due to sub-replacement fertility rates, which it suffers since 1961. More alarmingly, the genetic and intellectual endowment of the Hungarian people has been severely degraded. With a total dependency ratio of nearly 48%, average age of nearly 42 years, and a total fertility rate of only 1.4, the country is in demographic freefall and will lose another 12% of its population by the middle of this century.

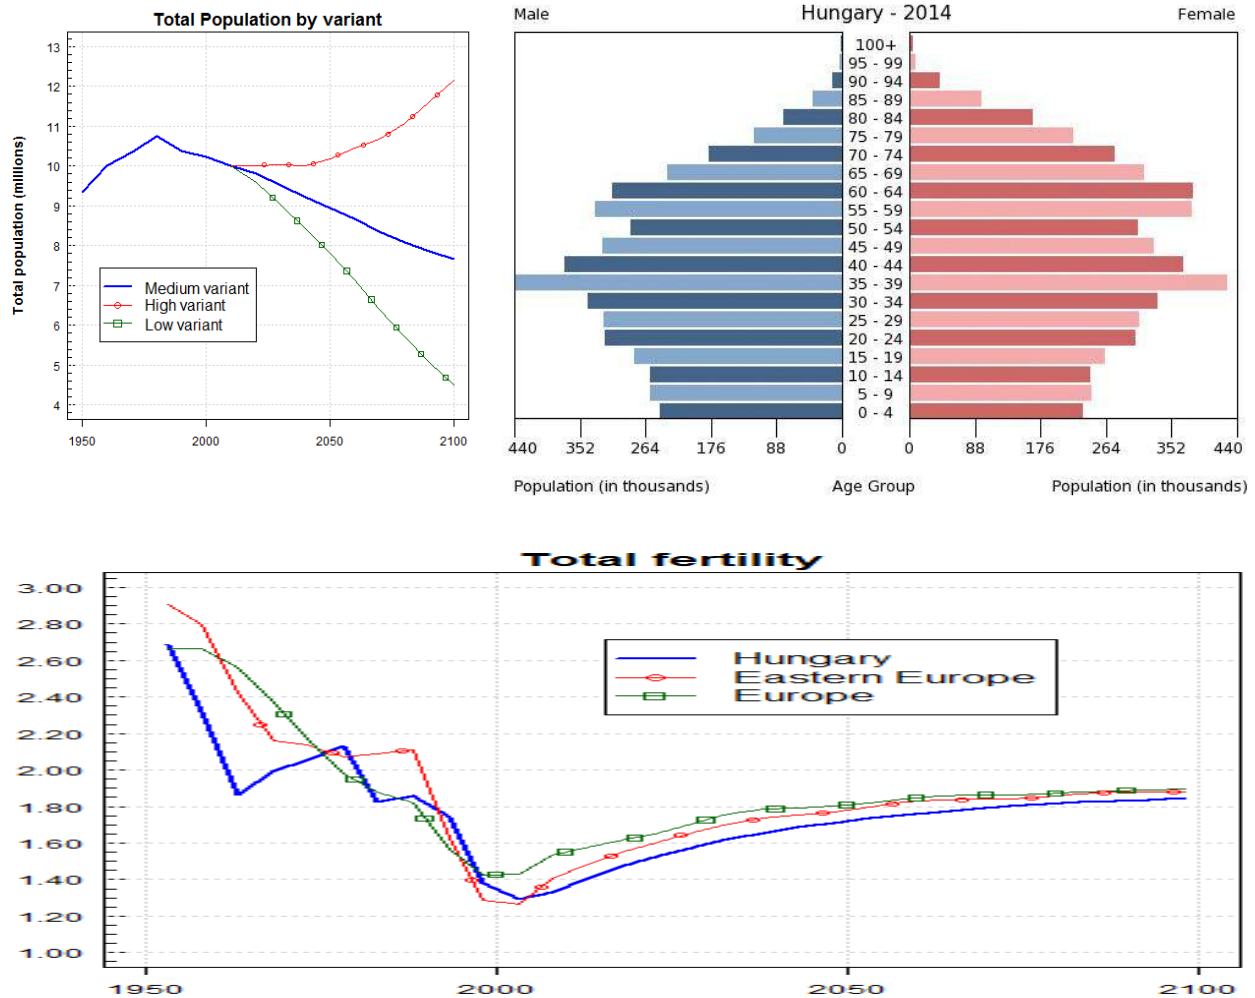

The rate of population decrease began doubling as soon as Hungary signed the agri-food trade agreement with the European Union in 1991 and food adulterated with endocrine disruptors from Western Europe started pouring into Hungary. And since 1999, when Hungary became a NATO member, your people are being poisoned from the sky by chemtrail spewing airplanes whose objective is to lower the lifespan of the elderly before they become too great a burden on the government's coffers.

If you would like to save your people from genocide, I suggest you meet with me and help me forge international consensus for a global population control law that will limit family size to two children. This and only this will stop the UN, EU and their Anglo-Saxon backers from poisoning your people into extinction and controlling every aspect of their lives in the process.

I stand by to travel to Hungary at a moment's notice to show you how to protect your people from genocide and make Hungary a model global citizen at the same time. In the meantime, you can order the press to publish the truth so the people will know what measures to take in order to protect their children's health and lives.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

From 1950 to 1962, the government brought down the total fertility rate of the Hungarian people, which was modest to begin with, from 2.9 to 1.8 children per woman. Prior to this national program of population control, the Hungarian people had been subjected to numerous sterilization experiments conducted by World Health Organization “scientists” and affiliates.

The man responsible for approving the poisoning of the Hungarian people is the General Secretary of the Hungarian Communist Party, Mátyás Rákosi (1945-1956).

The only period of time when the depopulation program was relaxed in Hungary is from 1970 to 1985, which falls during the leadership of János Kádár (1956-1988), but was actually the result of Soviet directives that applied across the Eastern Bloc.

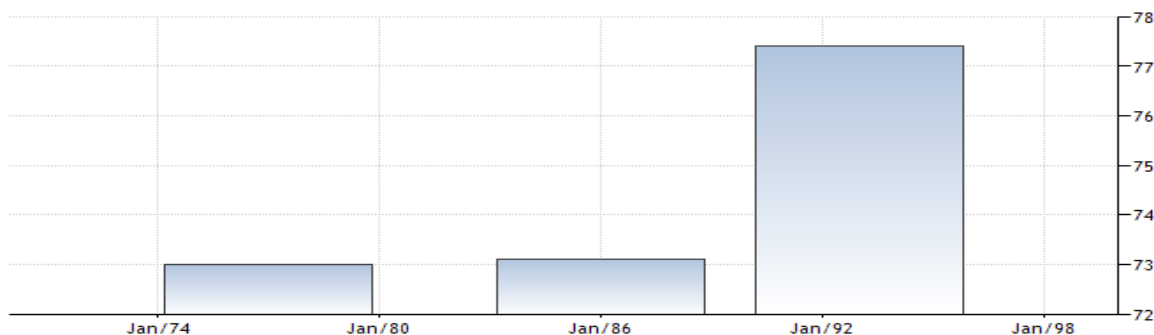

All other Hungarian leaders, be it during communist or post-communist times have poisoned their people with abandon though it is doubtful that the vast majority of them have had the wits to realize that a mass sterilization program takes place under their leadership. Once the program was put in place and placed under the administration of the Ministry of Health, the political leaders that followed those who initiated the program have been largely oblivious due to their political inconsequence.

The program has been more or less forgotten and runs by itself with periodic input from the WHO and other UN agencies that deal directly with Hungary's Ministry of Health.

Hungary has had sub-replacement level fertility since 1970 and the population has been steadily decreasing since 1981. Since 1996, Hungary has been losing circa 40,000 people or 0.4% per year. If it stays the course, all Hungarians will be sterile and chronically ill within two decades and there will be no Hungarians fifty years from now.

The contraceptive prevalence rate serves to hide the covert chemical sterilization program since Hungary reached sub-replacement level fertility long before its people had even seen a contraceptive.

The historical record shows that from the late 1950s until 1973 more than half of all pregnancies ended in abortion. Throughout the 1970s the rate went down to 35%. During the 1980s it rose to 40% and during the 1990s to 45%. It has since declined to 30%.

The high abortion rate suggests that the Hungarian people share in their government's genocidal efforts and that where covert methods of sterilization fail the people resort to abortion to keep their families low, which is why Hungary is a dying country and its population has been decreasing since 1981.

Hungary is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

President Grímsson and Prime Minister Gunnlaugsson,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

If there is one country I trust to break the seventy-year-old ice of the genocidal international system of covert depopulation that threatens the lives of every human being on earth, then that country is Iceland.

You have recently freed yourselves from the parasitical bankers that have brought your country to ruin and now must rid yourselves of covert depopulation measures, which are the obverse and hidden side of the globalization effort.

I am a globalist through and through and live to see the day when all national borders are confined to history and the people of the world belong to one and indivisible mankind and are free to live and work anywhere they wish. But I am not a genocidal maniac who wants to accomplish this goal by poisoning my fellow man into extinction. The end does not justify the means.

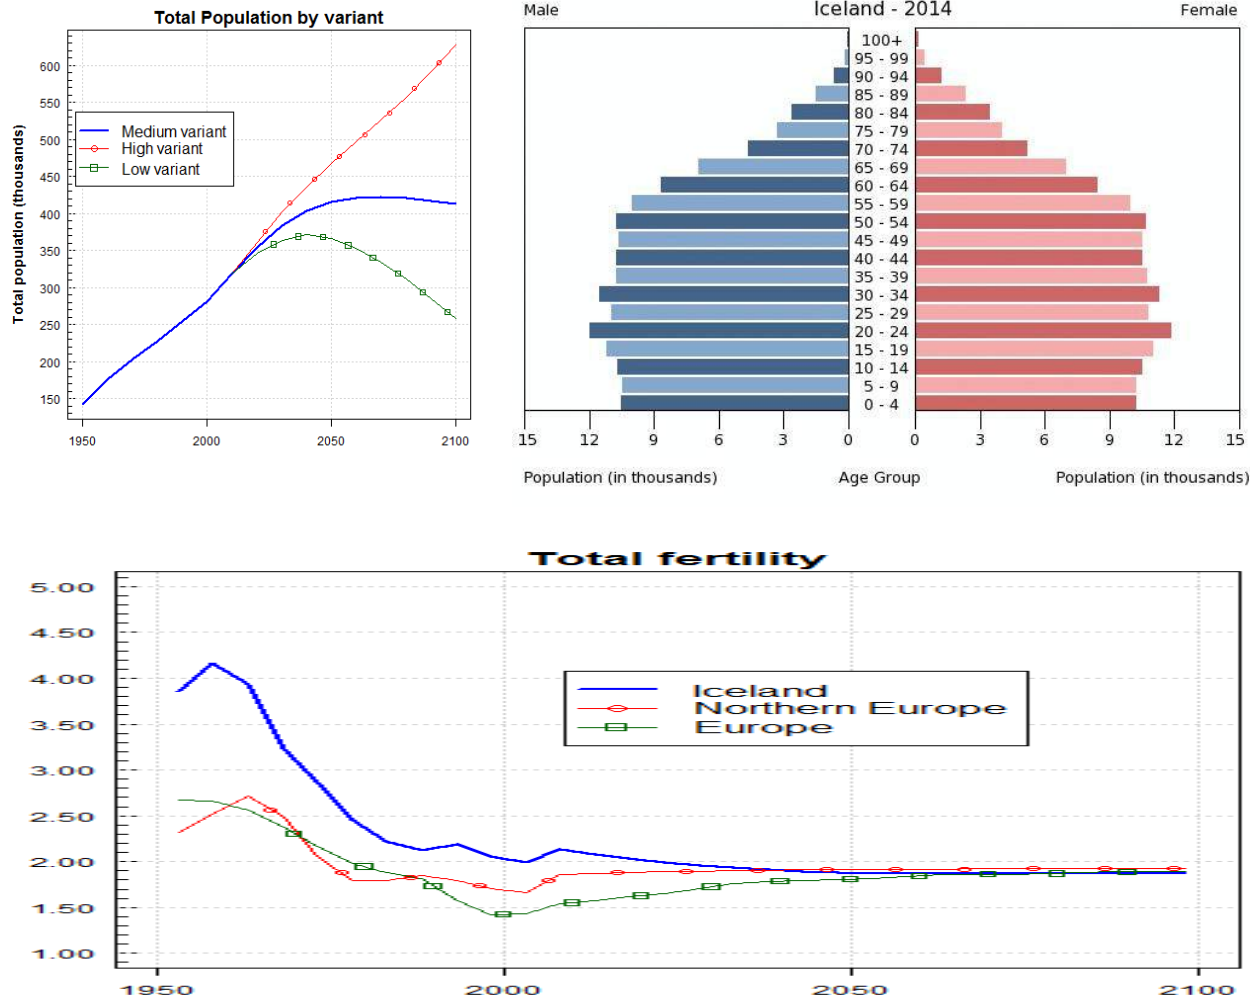

Your people's fertility, health and longevity are being subverted by contaminated food imported from the continent, which is either adulterated with fluoride added on the sly as an "essential mineral" thanks to the World Health Organization and not labelled and/or by packaging made from endocrine disrupting plastics (i.e. bisphenol A and bisphenol S) that leach into the food.

While the demographic targets pursued by the UN are absolutely necessary the methodology is absolutely unnecessary and utterly immoral. I therefore urge you to join me in forging global consensus for worldwide population control legislation. To this end I hope that you will invite me to Iceland to discuss how best to accomplish this vital goal.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

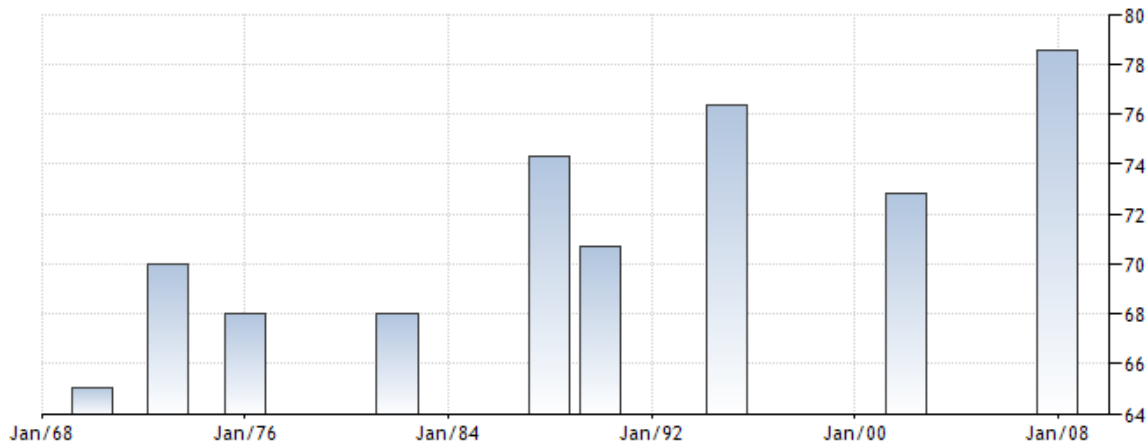

Iceland began its covert sterilization program in 1960 when its total fertility rate was 4.3 children per woman and reached replacement level fertility in 1985, where it has hovered ever since with small fluctuations up and down.

The man responsible for approving the poisoning of his people is President Ásgeir Ásgeirsson (1952-1968). His successors have followed suit: Kristján Eldjárn (1968-1980), Vigdís Finnbogadóttir (1980-1996), and the incumbent Ólafur Ragnar Grímsson (in office since 1996).

In addition to food, water and beverages adulterated with endocrine disruptors, Iceland also uses the dental system to sterilize its people with periodic oral applications of fluoride veneers. Sterilization by dentist is the methods of choice for all Scandinavian countries, which is why the government subsidizes dental care.

As elsewhere in Western Europe, Iceland too has used contraceptives to conceal the government's covert chemical sterilization measures.

Since 1995, the historical record shows, some 17% of all pregnancies are terminated with an abortion, which is too low a rate to explain the country's sub-replacement level fertility.

Neither Iceland's contraceptive prevalence rate nor its abortion rate can explain the country's drop in fertility during the 1960s and 1970s or the sub-replacement level fertility since 1985, which are the result of endocrine disruptors deliberately used by the government for population control purposes.

Iceland, like all Europe, has sacrificed its fertility for its prosperity. As soon as Iceland's fertility began declining in the early 1960s, the GDP per capita began rising.

Iceland is in stage four of the demographic transition.

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

The world needs India now more than ever. As the only democracy and the second largest nation in the world, next to China, to resist pressure from the West and from the United Nations to poison your people into infertility and imbecility, you belong to a very select group of moral nations.

Whether it is the strength of your political leadership, of your culture or of your predominant religion that has allowed you to keep your soul is for future generations to determine. What is certain is that India has earned my respect and the world's gratitude by being the first and only country to date to have given me official support by endorsing and publishing my work in its foremost public policy magazine, "Diplomacy and Foreign Affairs". In so doing, you have allowed me to survive the vicious attack on my credibility and person by the governments of the western world and by the United Nations, whose genocidal actions with respect to the Global Depopulation Policy I have fully exposed. In so doing, you have also taken the first step necessary to protect the people of the world from their own governments, who have either been coerced or corrupted to wage a silent war of attrition on their own citizens purportedly in the name of peace.

I ask that you now take the next necessary step to protect this and future generations and that you invite me to India to discuss how we can forge global consensus to legislate population control worldwide and force the international community to abandon all covert methods of depopulation, which are an affront to God and Nature and constitute crimes against humanity of an order of magnitude hitherto unknown.

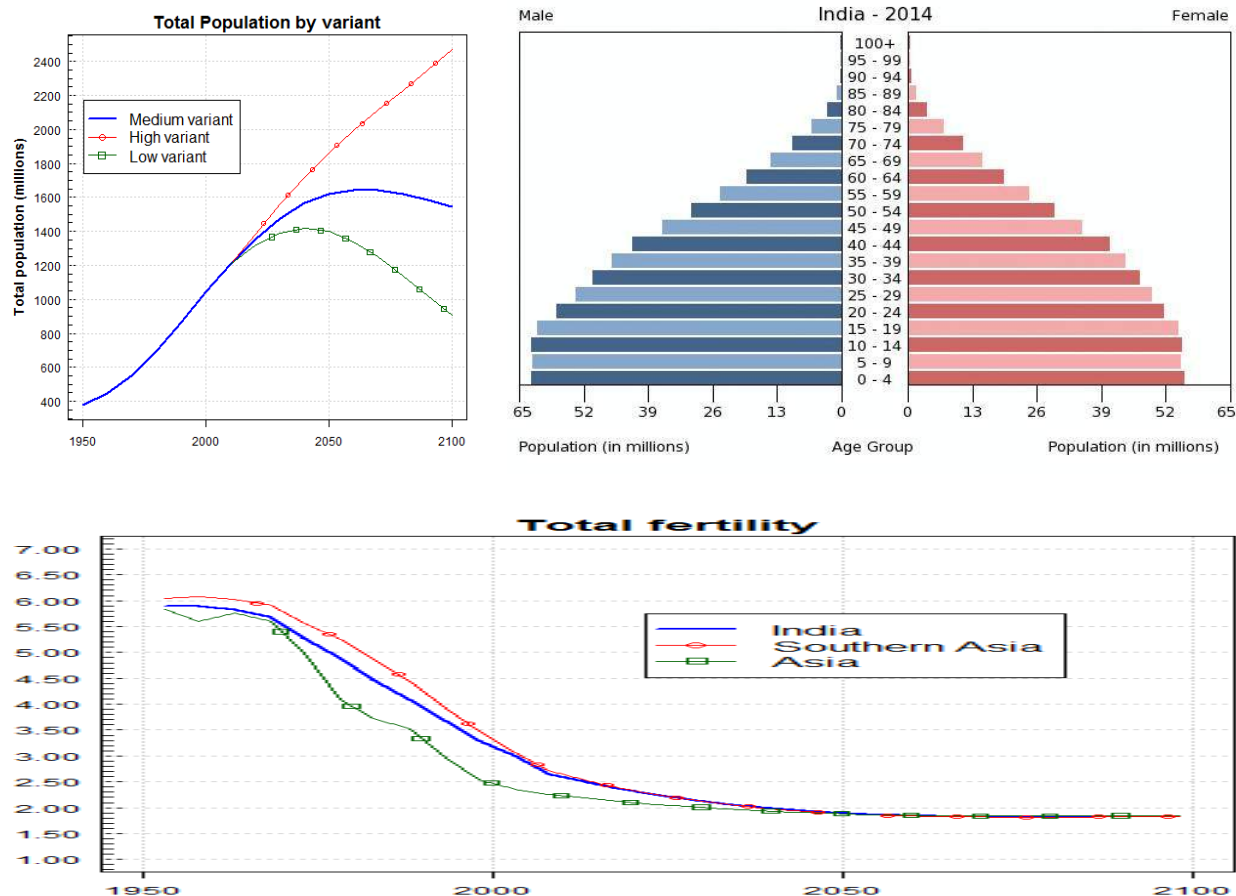

This is the time for India to live up to its national motto, "Truth alone triumphs" (सत्यमेव जयते).

I stand by to fly to India at your convenience.

India has struggled to control its population growth since 1952, but has not had any success until the seventies, partly because it is a massive country with a massive population and partly because its people are too kind to employ the cruelty necessary for a successful population control program.

Due to India's unique culture and deep moral values, the country's leadership has refused to poison its people and has relied instead on surgical sterilization (tubal ligations for women and vasectomies for men), which requires a great deal of effort and can only stop population growth if every woman is sterilized after the second child.

India was the first country in the world to formulate a population control policy in 1952 and the first to declare a state of emergency due to overpopulation in 1976-77. India is also one of only a few countries (such as China and Vietnam) to have an open National Policy for population control since the year 2000, which states clearly that replacement level fertility is its goal.

India and China are the models to which the rest of the world will need to look up when the current covert Global Depopulation Policy is brought out into the open, as it must, and approached through open and legal means.

From nearly 6 children per woman in the 1960s and 70s, India has brought down its total fertility rate to 2.5 children per woman today and has done this without depriving anyone of the right to have children and without poisoning anyone into sterility and ill-health. India has also succeeded despite being a democracy, in fact the largest democracy in the world. It has succeeded through surgical sterilizations. Nearly 80% of India's women of childbearing age who have already had two children have been surgically sterilized.

Whereas childlessness due to infertility (caused by covert depopulation measures) affects a fifth to a quarter of the people who live in countries that have used covert chemical depopulation measures, childlessness in India is almost unheard of and affects only one out of thirty women.

By tackling overpopulation with care and compassion India has been able to achieve a soft and steady decline in fertility that is reflected in the smooth curves of India's population pyramid and total fertility graph. Unfortunately, due to environmental and resource scarcity pressures, India will have to institute a one-child-policy for a couple of generations if it is to reduce its population to a sustainable level.

That India has been able to stand its ground despite massive international pressure and stay true to its values while at the same time accomplishing much needed demographic objectives attests to the uniqueness of its people, the moral strength of its multi-ethnic and multi-religious society, and the deep and wonderful spirituality of its kind and wonderful people.

I believe India is the only country in the world that deserves to host the new and reformed United Nations, a United People's Organization, once depopulation is brought out into the open and the responsibility for replacement level fertility is placed onto the shoulders of every man and woman and is no longer the secret prerogative of deceitful and illegitimate governments and a genocidal international infrastructure. I trust no other nation because no other nation has been able to act like a responsible global citizen and keep its soul.

India has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a rising per capita GDP.

President Yudhoyono and President-elect Widodo,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

As the most populous Muslim country in the world and the third-largest democracy, Indonesia carries weight in international affairs but it is not using it.

As power in your country is finally poised to pass from the hands of the elite into the hands of a people's representative, you could pave the way to real change, President Yudhoyono, by signaling to the Indonesian people, before you leave office, the need to embrace population control legislation. This will allow President-elect Widodo to detach the country from the covert methods of depopulation imposed on your country by the UN and its backers and will save your people from genocide, which has been ongoing since 1967 and proceeds by covert poisoning with endocrine disruptors and forced sterilizations.

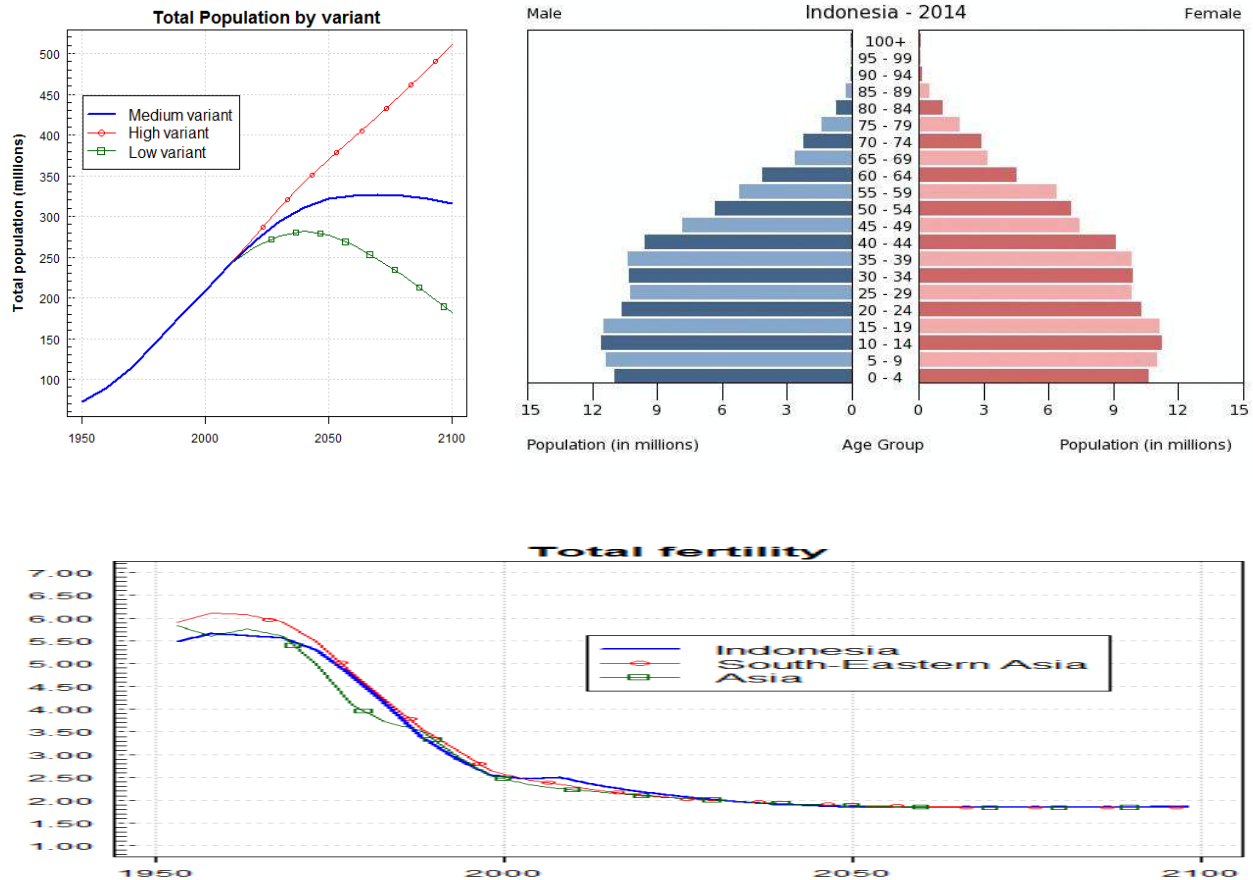

Since your population is set to surpass that of the USA by 2043, at which point your country will be the third most populous on earth, the Indonesian people can expect to be assaulted from every direction with toxins designed to render them sterile and ill, so as to defuse the overpopulation bomb by decreasing fertility and increasing morbidity until births and deaths reach parity, which is what the US/UK/Russia engineered and Scandinavian backed genocide attempts to accomplish everywhere on earth through the UN and its institutions. Since your live births exceed deaths per year almost three-fold, Indonesia is a primary target of the genocidal lobby.

If you wish to protect your people and reach the demographic and economic goals that will enable peace and prosperity into the future, then you must help me forge global consensus for worldwide population control legislation as a planetary security prerogative. If all heads of state on earth speak with one voice about the imperative need for such a law then the people will accept it regardless of their conservative values or religious objections.

I stand by to fly to Indonesia and discuss these matters with you personally. The longer you hesitate and delay the more casualties there will be in your country and the deeper the damage done to your people's genetic and intellectual endowment, which is the true wealth of the nation.

Sincerely,

Indonesia's population control program started in 1970, twenty years after becoming a UN member state, and only a few years after Suharto became president. Suharto's military dictatorship lasted from 1967 to 1998 and during this time he reduced the country's total fertility rate from 5.5 to 2.5 children per woman.

Suharto made population control a high and personal priority and created the National Family Planning Coordinating Board (BKKBN) in 1970 to reduce the total fertility rate. The Chairman of the BKKBN had direct access to the president, participated in cabinet meetings and used presidential authority to pressure state governors to accomplish family planning targets.

The BKKBN defused religious opposition to contraceptive use, build a human resource base across the country, and made population control a bureaucratic priority. It established a national network of village-level family planning groups and used an active strategy of door-to-door outreach by fieldworkers. It also built alliances with national women's organizations to endorse contraceptive use and in 1974 it developed the idea of village family planning groups to supply contraceptives and apply social pressure on married women to use contraceptives. By 1996, there were more than one million of such village family planning groups throughout Indonesia.

I found no evidence to suggest that Suharto's population control program made use of covert or involuntary methods throughout the seventies and eighties, but the drop in fertility from nearly 6 to 2.5 women could not have been accomplished through legitimate means since the contraceptive prevalence rate was at most 50% and the BKKBN also refrained from sterilizations and abortions in order not to offend religious segments of the population.

Considering Indonesia's enormous population, being the fourth most populous country in the world, and that its people are spread across 17,000 islands, Suharto's accomplishment is remarkable and the country has been rewarded with a rising GDP.

In the nineties, Indonesia adopted western methods of covert depopulation, namely bottled water, beverages and food adulterated with endocrine disruptors, which is why despite a weakening of the national family planning program and underfunding the total fertility rate has remained unchanged at 2.5 children per woman.

It is encouraging and praiseworthy that in January 2014, President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono decided to revive the nation's legitimate family planning program and to supply contraceptives free of charge to all Indonesians as part of the country's universal health coverage so as to achieve replacement level fertility by 2025. To this end, President Yudhoyono quadrupled the country's allocation for family planning from $65 to $264 and has boosted health worker training in the 23,500 family planning clinics across the country. If this commitment also includes a shutdown of endocrine disruptors then Indonesia is truly on the right path and can serve as a model for the world to follow.

In October 2014, Joko Widodo became the country's new president and this marks a new style of politics for Indonesia. Let us all hope that it also marks an end to covert depopulation measures.

ISLAMIC REPUBLIC OF IRAN

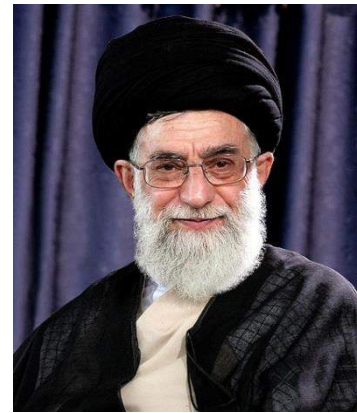

11 September 2014

Ali Hosseini Khamenei

Supreme Leader of the Islamic Republic of Iran

<http://www.leader.ir/langs/en/index.php?p=letter>

Ayatollah Khamenei,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

You have my deepest respect for heeding my call to stop poisoning the Iranian people into infertility with endocrine disruptors. You also have my deepest gratitude for encouraging your country's civil society to acknowledge and endorse my work on LinkedIn and other social media. Without this support the coalition of mass murderers in control of the western world and of the United Nations would have tried again to imprison and discredit me, as they have already done on six different occasions.

They are desperate because they know that soon the entire world will turn against them and their methods will be confined to the dustbins of history and their members sent back into the netherworld whence they crawled out from.

Instead of heeding my calls, as you and several other heads of state have done, the West has intensified and accelerated its program of depopulation. Poison-spraying-airplanes have become ubiquitous in our skies. The mass murderers are intent on completing their handiwork, the engineered demographic transition. To do so, they are lowering the lifespan of the baby boom generation by a decade or two and have rendered a quarter of all adults and half of our children infertile; statistics that will become evident once the young reach their reproductive years and the old will start dropping like flies of various forms of cancer.

This is by far the greatest slaughter in history and unless we, the sane people of the world, bring it to an end, there will be nothing left of the human species other than mentally retarded and physically degraded degenerates. Already a good 10% of the populations exposed to chronic poisoning by various endocrine disrupting toxins for two generations or more fit this description and the genius of the Caucasian race has been annihilated.

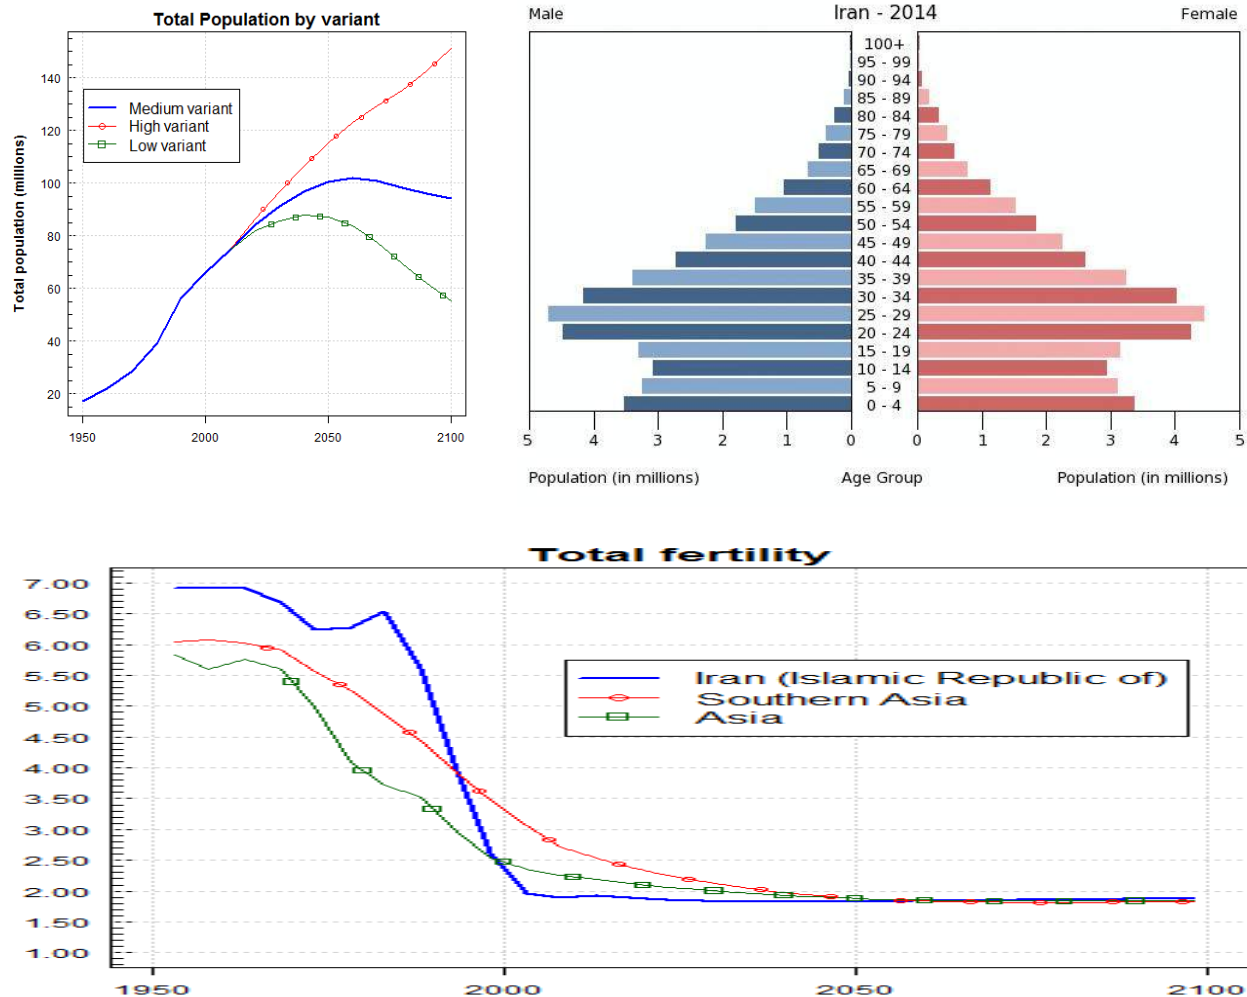

I am the last line of defense left in the western world. The West is incapable of changing course. Its people are too invested in the genocide and, having poisoned each other for nearly seven decades, they lack the intellectual ability to change course since their administrative ranks are made up of cloned idiots.

I ask that you meet with me as soon as possible on Persian soil to discuss how to forge global consensus for worldwide population control through open and legal means. I await your invitation.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Iran began interfering with the people's reproductive rights in 1982, undoubtedly due to heavy pressure from the UN and the international community in light of its nuclear program. A nuclear power poses a far greater threat to world peace than non-nuclear nations and that is why it is especially important that nuclear nations practice population control.

From 1982 until 2014, Iran used fluoridated water to subvert fertility and lowered the total fertility rate from 6.5 children per woman prior to 1982 to replacement level fertility in 2000 and a lowest low fertility of 1.3 children per woman by 2011. The total fertility rate has risen again and is currently at 1.9 children per woman.

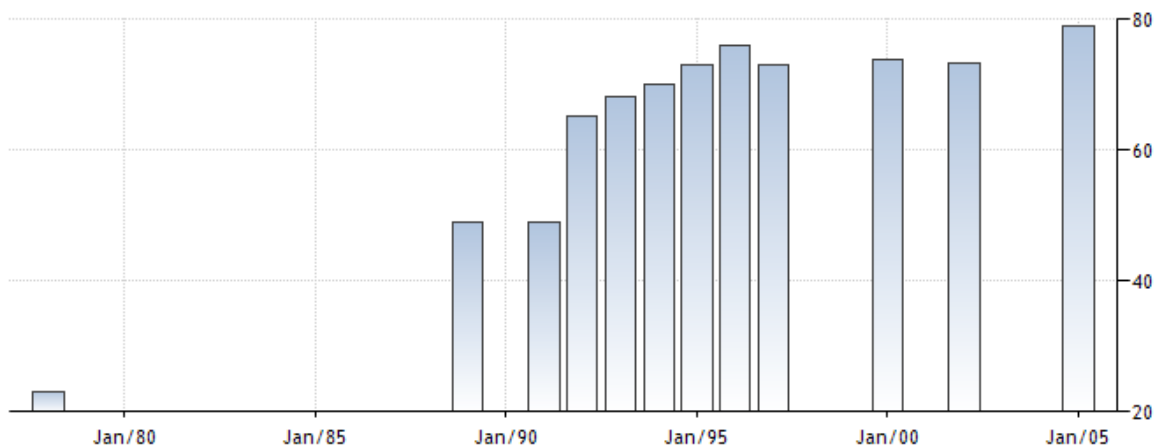

As Supreme Leader of Iran from 1979 to 1989, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini must have approved the use of covert methods of sterilization. As Supreme Leader he was the highest-ranking political and religious authority of Iran. Furthermore, he expanded the notion of velayat-e faqih (the "guardianship of clerical authority") to include theocratic political rule by Islamic jurists and thus could not have allowed Iran's president to make a decision of such enormous ethical implications as covert population control.

Be that as it may, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, who became Iran's Supreme Leader upon Ayatollah Khomeini's death in 1989, and who served as the President of Iran from 1981 to 1989, shut down the nation's program of covert sterilization as soon as I communicated with him and shared with him clear evidence of the terrible damage covert methods of sterilization cause to human health and how they degrade the genetic and intellectual endowment of our species.

To his credit, Ayatollah Khamenei listened and acted without hesitation. I am certain that Ayatollah Khomeini would have acted the same way had he also been privy to my research and advice. Ultimately, the most we can expect from our leaders is that they listen, care and respond.

Iran's contraceptive prevalence rate indicates that the government has made genuine efforts since the mid-1990s to increase contraceptive use so as to eventually replace covert chemical sterilization. This foresight is now proving to be of great value since I have deprived the UN and therefore governments of the cover of secrecy they have relied upon in order to covertly sterilize the populace. Without clear legislation limiting family size, however, contraceptives alone will not succeed in limiting fertility to replacement level, as China's experience amply demonstrates.

Abortion is illegal in Iran and allowed only to save a woman's life. Illegal abortions are estimated to reach a rate as high as 0.26 lifetime abortions per Iranian woman, but that is just conjecture.

Iran is in stage four of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF IRAQ

30 September 2014

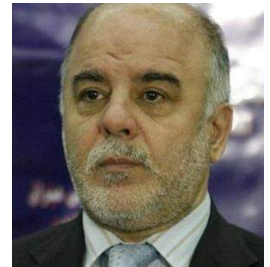

Fuad Masum

President of Iraq

<http://www.egov.gov.iq/egov-iraq/index.jsp?sid=17&fid=%20>

Haider al-Abadi

Prime Minister of Iraq, egov.c.sec@egov.gov.iq

President Masum and Prime Minister Abadi,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Your country and your people are in the eye of the storm and are suffering like no other people on earth today. The only solace I can give the Iraqi people is an explanation for your country's predicament.

Iraq and all countries of the Arabian Peninsula and of North Africa straddle one of the world's most arid regions, but have some of the world's highest fertility rates and therefore rapidly growing populations. The only reason the region survives is its oil wealth. Iraq's total fertility rate stands at five children per woman, which is totally unsustainable for a country with hardly any arable land and 32 million people to feed. Much the same demographic situation prevails elsewhere in the region.

The international community had to intervene in the region and dismantle the existing governments as well as the conservative values of Muslims with respect to family size because the region is running out of oil and the world needs to switch rapidly to renewable energy sources. The world cannot switch to renewable energy sources, however, until such time as the region is integrated in the global market and the economies of the region are diversified away from oil and gas in advance of hydrocarbons being abandoned as the primary source of global energy.

If the world were to switch to renewable energy sources before the region is integrated and diversified, all the countries now dependent solely on oil and gas for their income would collapse and their people would starve to death virtually overnight. Since the survival of mankind and of the planet is at stake, a decision was made to accelerate the history of the region so as to bring its people in tandem with the rest of the world and thus advance together towards a sustainable civilization.

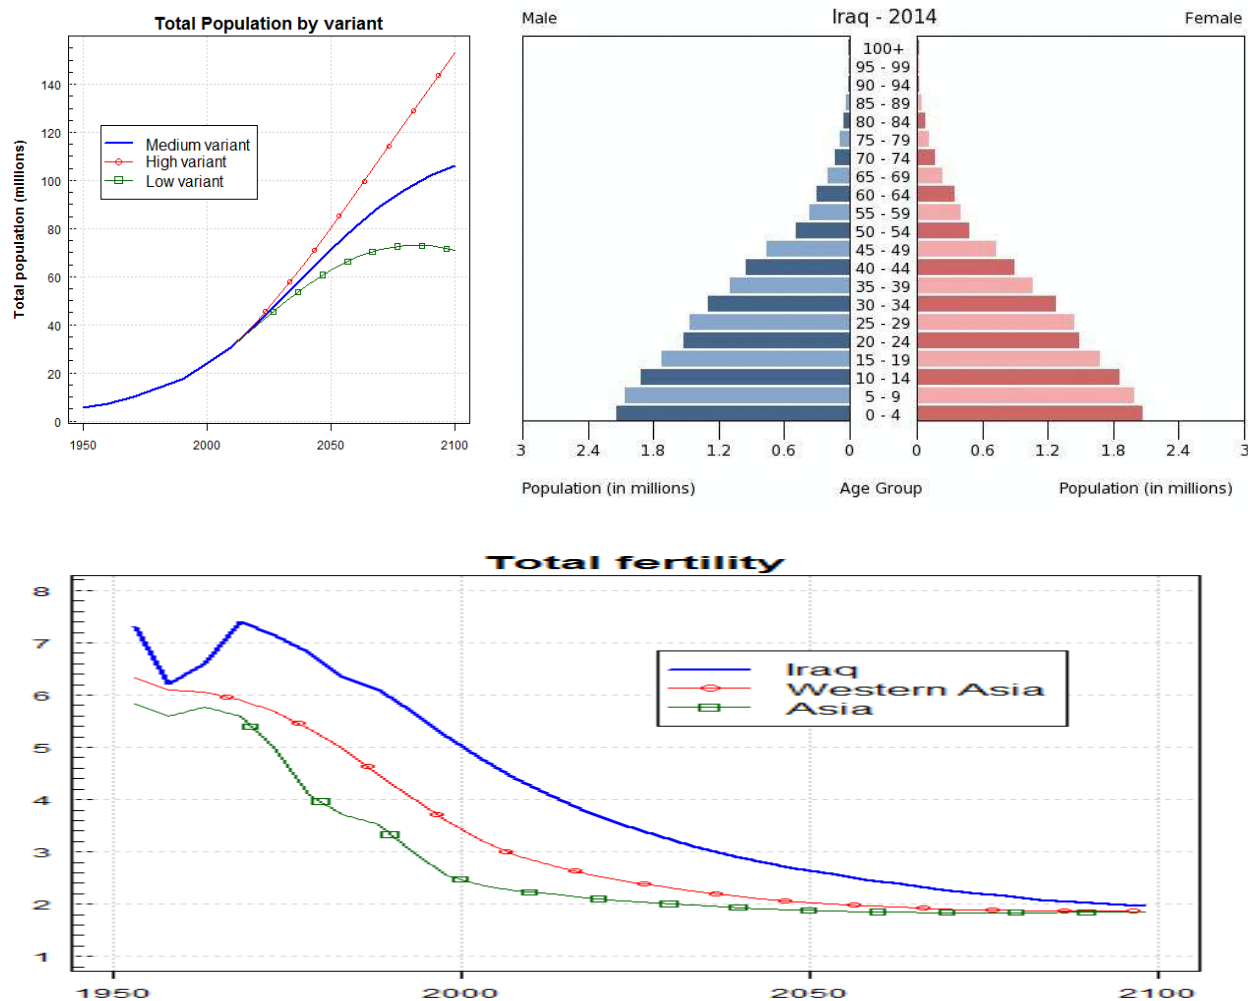

You can spare your people a lot of hardship and decades of death by war, engineered terrorism, incited ethnic strife, and irradiation by depleted uranium shells by adopting legislation that restricts family size to two children. This would get the American and British intelligence services out of your country and stop their covert destabilization activities.

For the sake of the Iraqi people, I hope that you will follow my advice.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Starting in 1968 with President Ahmed Hassan al-Bakr (1968-1979), Iraq carried out a policy of lowering the nation's total fertility rate. This policy continued throughout the presidency of Saddam Hussein (1968-2003).

There is no evidence to suggest that Iraq's leaders used covert or involuntary methods of population control. The decline in fertility from a peak of more than 7 children per woman in 1970 to 5.5 by the end of Saddam Hussein's reign was accomplished legally through the provision of contraceptives and family planning services.

The leaders of Iraq after the Coalition Provisional Authority (2003-2004) appear to have continued their predecessors' legal methods of population control. From 2004 until today, the total fertility rate of Iraq declined from 5.5 to 3.4 children per woman.

Iraq's contraceptive prevalence rate of 74% supports this conclusion.

The American-led invasion of Iraq in 2003 and the present-day turmoil caused by ISIS, which is a creation of the international system, have been primarily motivated and secretly justified by Iraq's unwillingness to address its explosive population growth.

The assertion that Iraq had weapons of mass destruction was the pretext needed to violate its territorial integrity in 2003. The assertion that ISIS is an army of religious fanatics and extremists is the pretext needed to displace millions of people in this region of high fertility, drive them into refugee camps and subject them to sterilizing vaccines in order to force the entire Middle East to replacement level fertility before resource pressures lead to regional and finally global war.

IRELAND

25 September 2014

Michael D. Higgins
President of Ireland info@president.ie

Enda Kenny
Prime Minister of Ireland
taoiseach@taoiseach.gov.ie

President Higgins and Prime Minister Kenny,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Ireland has won its independence from the UK in 1922 only to surrender it to the UN in 1964. While the British have pillaged the country and ravaged the population, the damage they have caused pales by comparison to the damage done by the adoption of covert methods of depopulation dictated by an international system that commits global genocide in the name of peace. And this time around, the Irish can only blame themselves and their own leaders.

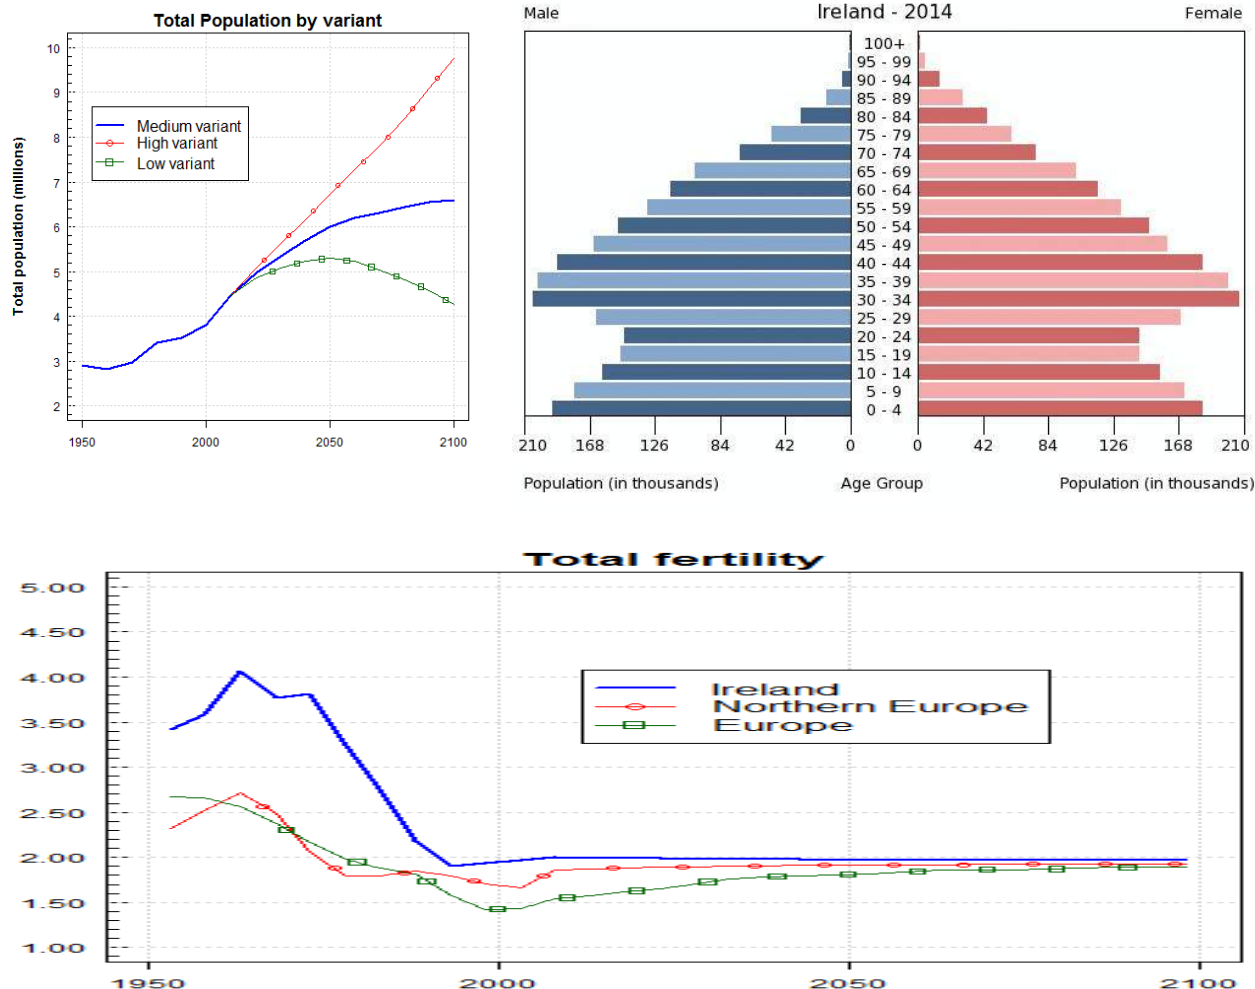

The program of water fluoridation implemented throughout urban Ireland since 1964 is immoral and criminal and constitutes crimes against humanity, as it blatantly violates the Genocide Convention. Even more egregious and diabolical is the misuse and abuse of dentistry to reach Ireland's rural population so as to render them sterile by direct applications of fluoride in the mouth. But the apex of immorality and officially sanctioned criminality is the viciousness with which the Irish authorities poison Ireland's children into imbecility and ill-health every time they are forced to visit a dentist.

Unless your government changes course immediately and stops the genocide, there is no telling what punishments await you in this and the next life. Ireland can fulfill its obligations with respect to population control, which is an international security prerogative for good reasons, by legislating small family size. I am in the process of forging global consensus for a worldwide population control law and hope that you will assist me by being one of the first countries to begin the process.

Should you wish to speak to me, I stand by to fly to Ireland and assist you in any way I can. In the meantime, you can show leadership by encouraging your media to tell the public about the circumstances that forced Ireland to succumb to international pressure to poison its people's reproductive systems with endocrine disruptors. That will pave the way for a change from covert to overt population control.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Ireland joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1973 and as such it is the last country in Europe to do so. This attests to the independence and cultural strength of the Irish people as well as to their staunch Catholic values with respect to free procreation. To accomplish its demographic goals, Ireland instituted water fluoridation in the cities and engaged the nation's dentists to sterilize the rural population through direct oral applications of fluoride veneers. As a result, Ireland's total fertility rate decreased from 4 children per woman prior to 1972 to replacement level fertility (i.e. 2.1 children per woman) by 1989 and to a low of 1.85 by 1994. It has maintained replacement level fertility to this day by continuing to poison the people with fluoridated water.

The men responsible for starting the program of covert depopulation in Ireland are President Erskine Hamilton Childers (1973-1974), who also served as Minister of Health from 1969 to 1973, and Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave (1973-1977). All subsequent presidents and prime ministers of Ireland have kept the mass poisoning program in place: presidents Cearbhall Ó Dálaigh (1974-1976), Patrick Hillery (1976-1990), Mary Robinson (1990-1997), Mary

Ireland's contraceptive prevalence rate shows that the fertility decline was accomplished without the help of contraceptives. It also shows that since the beginning of the 21st century the Irish government under the leadership of Prime Minister Bertie Ahern has made genuine efforts to increase the use of contraceptives to a level high enough to allow the retirement of covert chemical sterilization through fluoridated water. That effort, however, has been unfortunately abandoned by Prime Minister Brian Cowen.

The historical record shows that Ireland's abortion rate has never exceeded 10% and is therefore a non-factor in the fertility decline.

Ireland has been rewarded for its war on fertility with affluence. As the data shows, Ireland's per capita GDP did not start explosive growth until replacement level fertility was reached in 1989.

Ireland has recently crossed into stage four of the demographic transition.

Honorable Supreme Court Justices,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

Your recent decision to abolish the application of fluoride to Israel's water supply vindicates my work and shows that your court has acted without delay upon my warnings. You have succeeded where the political establishment of Israel has failed, namely in protecting your people from the genocidal methods of population control favored by the United Nations and its Anglo-Saxon backers.

No single group, however wealthy and powerful, will henceforth make decisions of life and death for all mankind. I will see to it, for that is not a right mere mortals can assume. The right to life is sacred and subverting it is a crime against God and Nature. Moreover, it is a violation of the UN Genocide Convention and, as such, a crime against humanity.

Nevertheless, the material realities imposed on us by a finite planet dictate that mankind must henceforth and for all time limit family size worldwide to two children, the so-called replacement level fertility. To accomplish this goal openly, lawfully and honorably I urge you to consider legislating family size across Israel and thus serve as an example for the rest of the world to follow.

Should you need my assistance I stand by to aid you in every way I can. In the meantime, my books can help you acquire the necessary knowledge to begin the process. They are free.

The government of Israel began interfering with its people's reproductive rights in 1974 and for years conducted an asymmetrical population control policy aimed at depressing the fertility of its Arab citizens while promoting the fertility of its Jewish citizens in order to bring the total fertility rate of its Arab citizens at par with that of its Jewish citizens and maintain a Jewish majority. Once that goal was reached, Israel then began subverting the total fertility rate of all its citizens in equal measure. As a result, the total fertility rate decreased from nearly 4 children per woman prior to 1974 to less than 3 children per woman since 1993, where the total fertility rate remains to this day.

Attesting to the strength of its democracy and the independence of the judiciary, Israel's Supreme Court reacted immediately to my communique and banned water fluoridation throughout the country, ordering the government to dismantle all water fluoridation installations by the end of 2014. To date, of all the world's democracies, only Israel has succeeded in proving that its judiciary is truly independent and that its civil society is genuine.

I cannot even begin to think how excruciatingly hard it must have been for Israel's political leaders to decide to poison their own people with fluoride for the sake of international peace when the Nazis had poisoned millions of Jews with fluoride to render them submissive so as to better control them prior to internment in concentration camps where many were immediately poisoned to death with hydrogen cyanide.

Yet that is exactly the decision Yitzhak Rabin (1974-1977, 1992-1995) made as soon as he became Prime Minister of Israel in 1974. And that is the decision his successors have made too: Menachem Begin (1977-1983), Yitzhak Shamir (1983-1984, 1986-1992), Shimon Peres (1984-1986, 1995-1996), Benjamin Netanyahu (1986-1999, incumbent since March 2009), Ehud Barak (1999-2001), Ariel Sharon (2001-2006), and Ehud Olmert (2006-2009). Through their combined efforts they have reduced the total fertility rate to 2.6 children per woman.

Israel's contraceptive prevalence rate has never been higher than 74% and has served as a decoy for covert chemical sterilization via fluoridated water. Equally insignificant is Israel's abortion rate, which has been constant for the past 40 years at around 12%.

Israel has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing GDP. The GDP exploded only after Israel reduced its fertility to 3 children per woman in the mid-1980s.

Matteo Renzi

Prime Minister of Italy

segretario@partidodemocratico.it, protezionecivile@pec.governo.it

President Napolitano and Prime Minister Renzi,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Italy is the only country in the world where the state has divested its international responsibility with respect to population control to a criminal organization, the Mafia, which it manipulates at arm's length in order to do the government's dirty work.

This peculiar arrangement, which has enshrined organized crime in Italy's government structure, allows the Italian political establishment and the Vatican to pretend that their hands are clean and not drenched in the blood of covert depopulation measures that have been perpetrated on the unsuspecting people of Italy since shortly after the nation's unconditional surrender at war's end, thus for nearly seventy years.

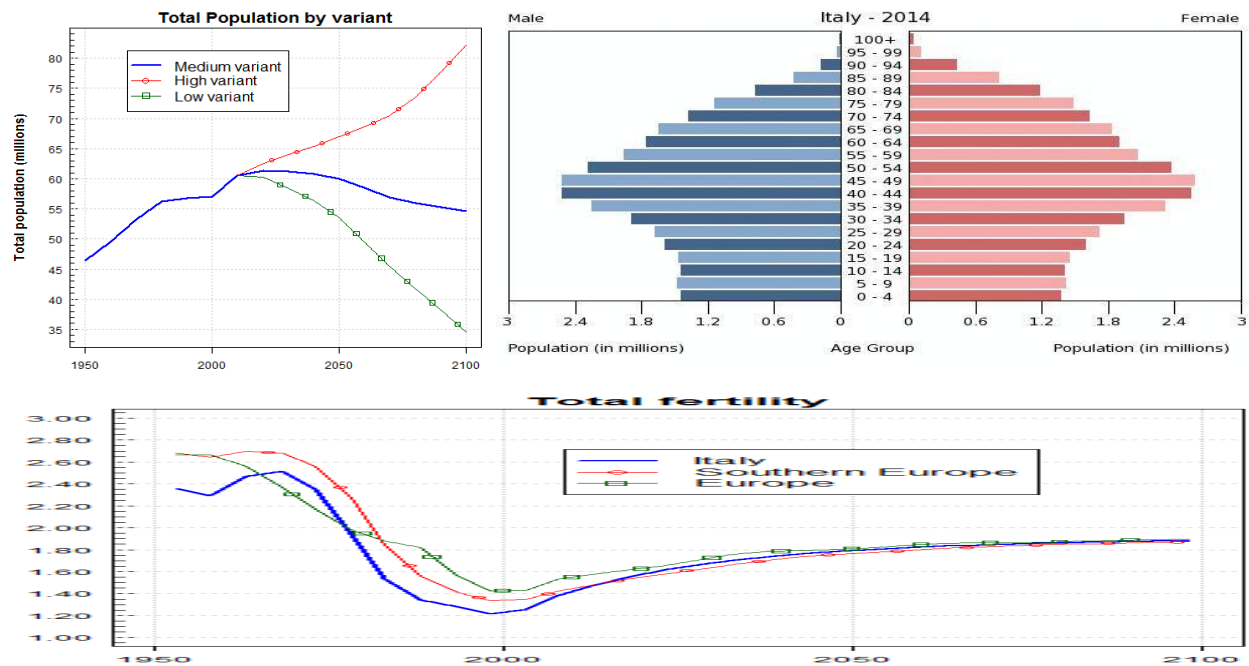

The despicable hypocrisy of this arrangement is inconsistent with Italy's avowed Catholic values, as it is inconsistent with its avowed democratic pretensions. As a result, the political body of your nation is corrupted all the way down to the bone marrow and the creative genius of the Italian people, which for centuries has been second-to-none, has been almost fully extinguished.

If you want to save the soul of your country and the lives of your people I suggest you meet with me without delay to discuss how we can persuade the world to adopt global legislation for population control and thus preserve the world from genocide and give back to the people their lost rights and freedoms both nationally and internationally.

Sincerely,

Center of Global Consciousness

Between 1947 and 1963 the Allied Powers suppressed Italy's total fertility rate at around 2.5 children per woman. Italy joined the Global Depopulation Policy of its own volition in 1964, but did not fully engage depopulation measures until 1968 when Pope Paul VI issued the encyclical letter Humanae Vitae (Of Human Life) and gave secular authorities the Church's tacit approval for the use of covert methods of population control aimed at preventing the moment of conception so the Church would not have to alter its anti-birth control stance and thus nullify the Doctrine of Papal Infallibility.

Starting from an already low fertility of just 2.5 children per woman, Italy attained replacement level fertility in 1976 and a lowest low of 1.2 children per woman in 1995. The total fertility rate has remained below 1.5 children per woman since 1984 and due to this extended sub-replacement level fertility Italy's population has been decreasing since 1993 and is currently losing more than 85,000 people a year because deaths far outstrip births.

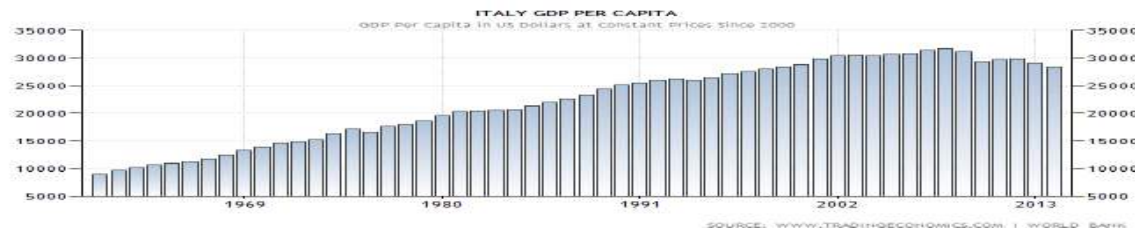

Despite falling use of contraceptives, Italy's fertility has failed to recover and to this day is at a low of 1.4 children per woman. It has failed to recover because fertility is undermined through covert chemical means and contraceptive use has little or nothing to do with low sub-replacement level fertility. If Italy does not stop poisoning its people with endocrine disruptors, there will soon be no children left for Pope Francis and his successors to bless.

Italy's abortion rate has been stable since 1978 at around 20% and can therefore not possibly account for the country's replacement level fertility let alone its sub-replacement level fertility.

The statesmen responsible for poisoning the Italian people since 1968 are: presidents Giuseppe Saragat (1964-1971), Giovanni Leone (1971-1978), Sandro Pertini (1978-1985), Francesco Cossiga (1985-1992), Oscar Luigi Scalfaro (1992-1999), Carlo Azeglio Ciampi (1999-2006), and Giorgio Napolitano (2006-2015), as well as prime ministers Mariano Rumor (1968-1970, 1973-1974), Emilio Colombo (1970-1972), Giulio Andreotti (1972-1973, 1976-1979, 1989-1992), Aldo Moro (1974-1976), Francesco Cossiga (1979-1980, 1985-1992), Arlando Forlani (1980-1981), Giovanni Spadolini (1981-1982), Amintore Fanfani (1983-1983, 1987-1987), Bettino Craxi (1983-1987), Giovanni Gorla (1987-1988), Ciriaco De Mita (1988-1989), Giuliano Amato (1992-1993, 2000-2001), Carlo Azeglio Ciampi (1993-1994), Silvio Berlusconi (1994-1996, 2001-2006, 2008-2011), Romano Prodi (1996-1998, 2006-2008), Mario Monti (2011-2013), Enrico Letta (2013-2014), and the incumbent Matteo Renzi (since 2014).

Italy has been rewarded for its genocidal zeal with a growing per capita GDP, which began to rise as soon as fertility began to sink in the 1960s. The tail end of the graph shows a decreasing GDP due to a decreasing and aged population that consumes far less; a condition typical of countries in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

That Italy has entered a recessionary period due to shrinking population is painfully obvious at a glance of its annual GDP growth rate, which has been in the negative for the better part of the last six years; years marked by substantial population loss.

Italy is the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

President Ouattara and Prime Minister Duncan,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Ivory Coast joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1985 but has wisely refused to use covert methods of depopulation despite pressure from the UN. Even so international NGOs are employing adulterated vaccines to subvert human fertility, which is why the total fertility rate has decreased from 7.5 children per woman prior to 1985 to 5 today.

Given that the population has swelled from 3 million in 1950 to nearly 24 million today, an astounding eightfold increase in less than seven decades, population control could not come soon enough to the Ivory Coast, but it need not be covert and damage human health. Instead it must proceed legally, openly and fairly so that everyone has a chance to reproduce, but no one can have more than two children. Only replacement level fertility can ensure that the population stabilizes and that we accomplish sustainability and save ourselves and the world from destruction.

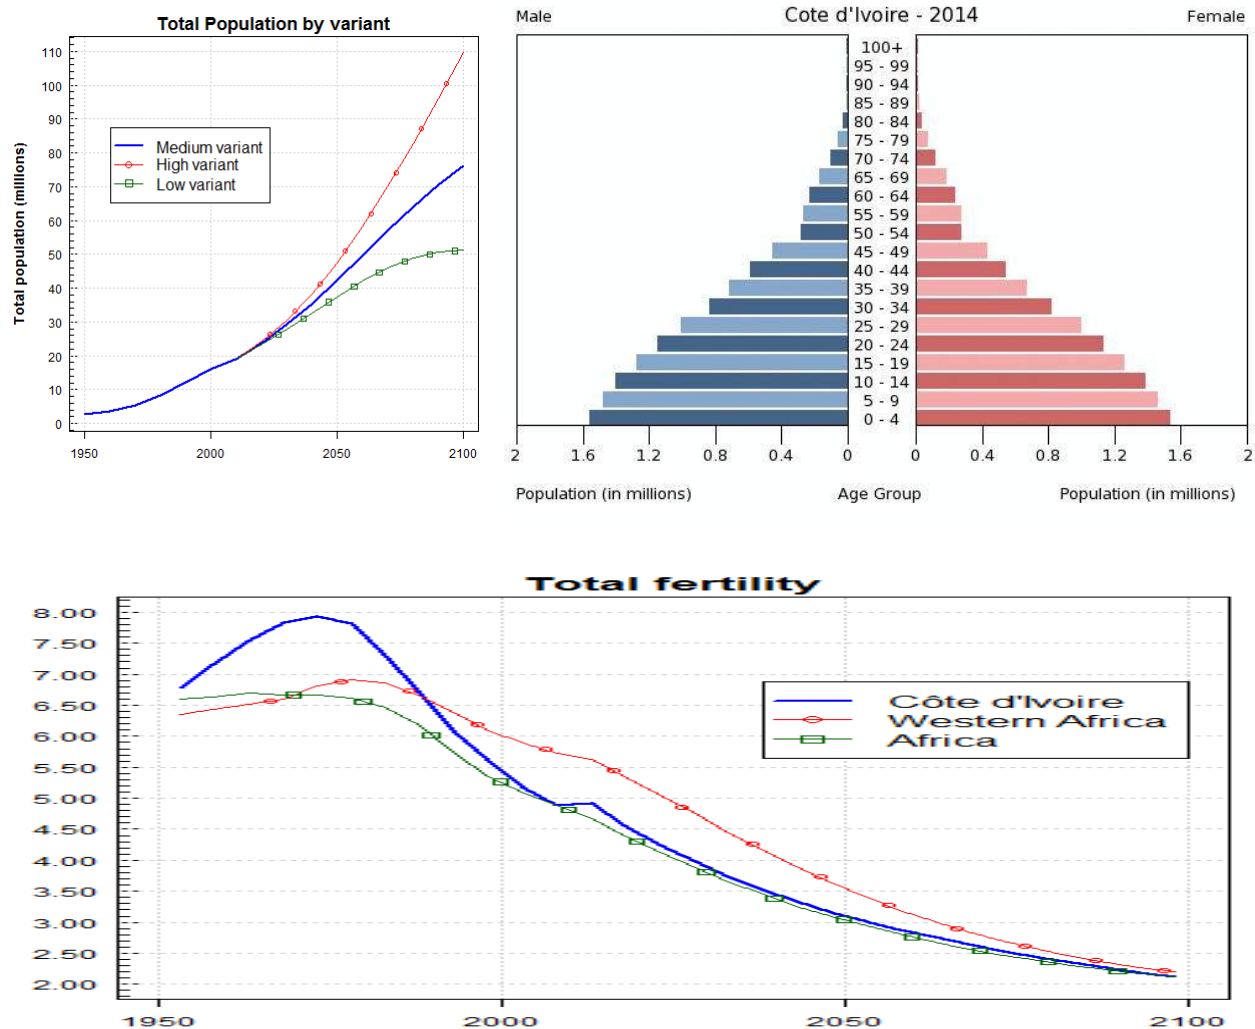

Replacement level fertility will soon be recognized as a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrined in international law. Before this takes place, however, we must first reform the UN and bury its political culture of secrecy and deception. How to reform the UN system and why I explain in my just published book The Future of Global Governance.

I urge you to begin the process of educating your people about the inevitability of placing limits on human fertility. You can best educate them by disseminating my work through the media and the education system. My work is available free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae> and here <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCZf9rWLgwzGW34EITo0x7fA>.

At the same time, you must add your nation's voice to the growing chorus calling for UN reform and instruct your ambassador to the UN, Youssoufou Bamba, to initiate reform. I stand by to help you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

The leaders of the Ivory Coast have tried their best to protect their people from covert sterilization via adulterated vaccines, which the UN and its affiliated NGOs have surreptitiously been using in the country since the late 1970s. More recently, the depopulation lobby has been subverting the reproductive systems of the Ivorian people with the malaria drug Artemisinin.

The program of population control began during the presidency of Félix Houphouët-Boigny (1960-1993) and has continued at a modest pace during the presidencies of Henri Konan Bédié (1993-1999), Robert Guéi (1999-2000) and Laurent Gbagbo (2000-2011) with limited success.

The incumbent President Alassane Ouattara (in office since 2010) seems to have put a stop to it.

The loss in fertility the Ivory Coast has experienced so far – from nearly 8 children per woman prior to 1980 to 4 to date – can certainly not be attributed to the use of contraceptives, which the record shows have not even reached 16%.

Nor can abortion have anything to do with it since abortions are illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life. As such, they are statistically insignificant.

Clearly, the fertility reduction accomplished so far is due to covert methods of depopulation, first and foremost UN and NGO administered sterilizing vaccines.

Due in great part to its inability to tackle population growth by undermining fertility, the Ivory Coast has been relegated to poverty and a sinking per capita GDP.

The Ivory Coast is in stage two of the demographic transition.

Prime Minister Simpson-Miller,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Jamaica joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1967 when covert methods of population control were introduced shortly after Jamaica won its independence. As a result, the total fertility rate dropped from nearly six children per woman to 2.4 today.

First, forced surgical sterilizations (tubal ligations, mini-laparotomies, colpotomies and culdoscopies) were used on the hapless people starting during the administration of the 3rd Prime Minister of Jamaica, Hugh Lawson Shearer, and administered as part of family planning services. Since 1987, fluoridated salt was engaged by the 5th Prime Minister of Jamaica, Edward Seaga, as the method of choice for subverting people's fertility, as throughout Latin America and the Caribbean. Starting around 1990, BPA plastics have been added, without the knowledge or consent of Jamaica's ruling class let alone its people, to the arsenal of involuntary birth control throughout the island nation. And most recently, sterilizing vaccines (immunocontraception) administered under various pretexts are also used to target hard to reach populations in rural areas.

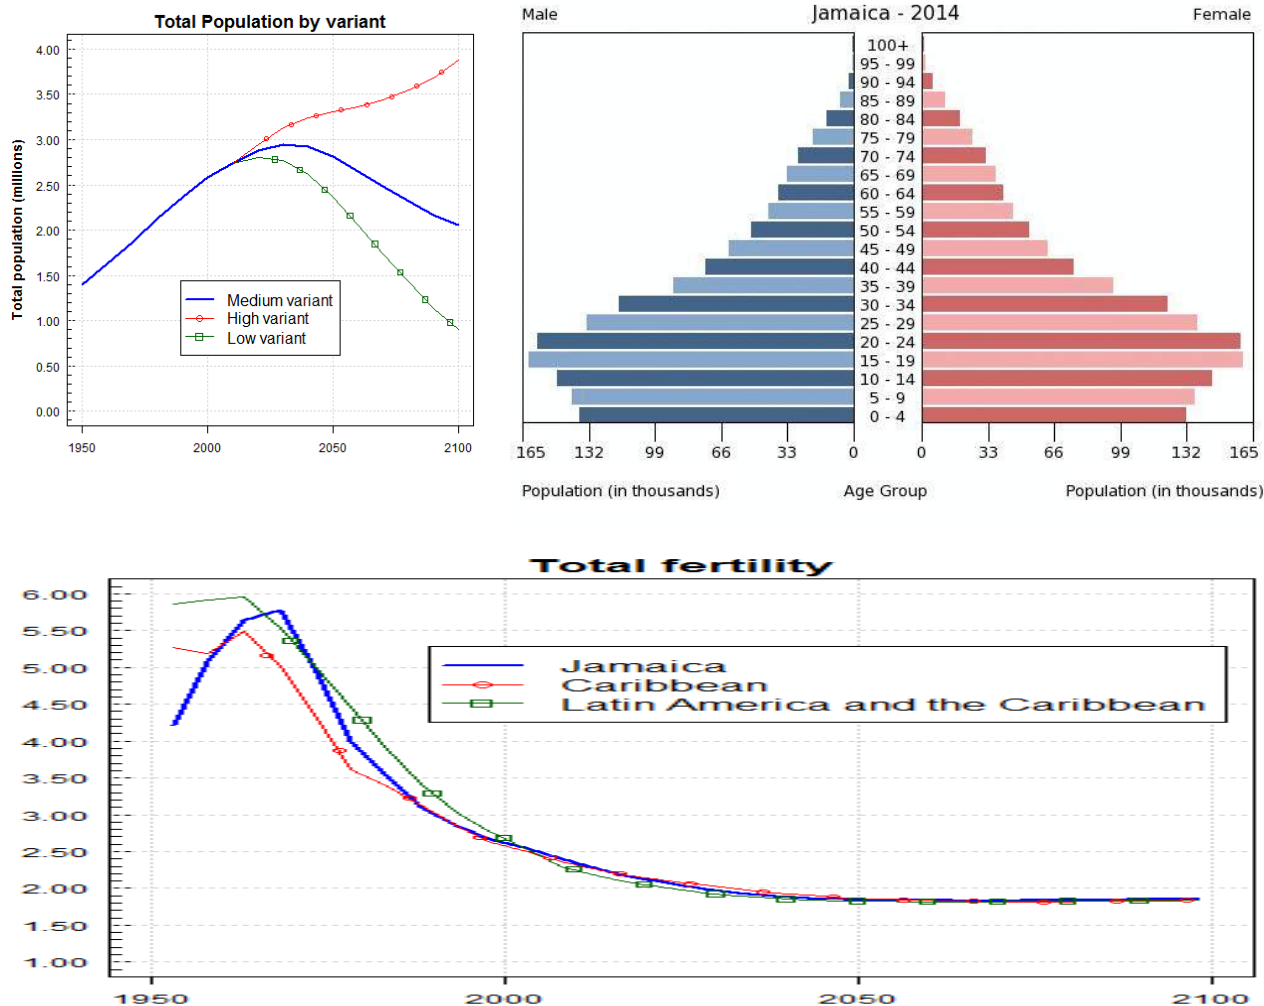

Instead of continuing to poison your people into sterility, ill-health, stupidity, morbidity and early death, and thus commit genocide, I urge you to join me in forging global consensus for a worldwide population control law that would restrict human fertility to replacement level. This is the only way to rescue the planet, combat poverty, prevent war, and safeguard the precious genetic and intellectual endowment of the human species along with the rights and liberties that are now brutally violated for the sake of defusing the overpopulation bomb.

The genocidal lobby is finished and those who continue to cooperate in mass murder will soon face a firing squad. I hope you will make the right choice and invite me to Jamaica without delay to discuss how you can save your people from genocide and fulfill your nation's international obligations.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Jamaica won its full independence in 1962 and became a UN member state the same year. It was not until Hugh Shearer became president in 1967 that covert population control measures were adopted. By the time he left office in 1972 the crude birth rate decreased from 40 to 32 children per 1000 people, a 20% decrease in just five years.

His successor, Michael Manley, continued with the same fervor and by the time he left office in 1980 the crude birth rate declined a further 15%.

Edward Seaga (1980-1989) managed only an 11% decrease before Michael Manley (1989-1992) returned to office and managed to shave off another 4% from the crude birth rate. Percival Noel James Patterson was in office from 1992 to 2006 and he can boast for having achieved a 30% decrease in his people's crude birth rate; more than any other Jamaican leader.

The last three prime ministers of Jamaica - Portia Simpson-Miller (2006-2007, and incumbent since 2012), Bruce Golding (2007-2011), and Andrew Holness (2011-2012) – have slowed down the sterilization program and during their combined time in office the people of Jamaica lost another 18% of their crude birth rate and are currently at a total fertility rate of 2 children per woman.

From 1962 until 1986, Jamaicans lost 41% of their crude birth rate with only 3 out of ten women using contraceptives. And yet the UN and technocrats around the world want us to believe that the decline in fertility is the result of improved access to contraceptives.

And since the abortion is illegal in Jamaica and allowed only to save a woman's life or health, abortions are statistically insignificant for the fertility decline.

One other favorite deception is that low fertility is the result of affluence. But if that is the case then how has Jamaica, which is a poor country with a per capita income of just $5,600 dollars, managed to reduce its total fertility rate from 6 to 2 children per woman in 52 years? Clearly these are ridiculous assertions intended to mask the use of covert methods of depopulation that have absolutely nothing to do with either affluence or contraceptive use.

Furthermore, the economic data shows that the GDP per capita began increasing only after fertility decreased significantly by 1990.

Jamaica is in stage four of the demographic transition.

Prime Minister Abe,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Your country has been at the receiving end of western aggression since its unconditional surrender in 1945 and has since served as the testing ground for covert methods of depopulation and its people as guinea pigs, which is why it is the only Asian nation not to have a baby boom generation and also the first nation in the world to reach the last stage of the demographic transition.

The Fukushima disaster, which has every characteristic of a non-accident, is the latest act in the engineered population reduction of the Japanese people, and is intended to alleviate the fiscal burden Japan's elderly represent, by reducing their lifespan, at a time when the engineered population reduction has created an inverted population pyramid and thus an unsustainable economic situation. The same fate and the same remedy await western nations a few years from now unless we topple the genocidal coalition that is in control of the world and we convince the international community to adopt global legislation for population control. Japan can play a crucial role in this respect and can reclaim its sovereignty, dignity and self-determination after 70 years of foreign control.

On September 12 you have announced "bold measures completely different from previous ones" to stop Japan's depopulation, but unless these measures include the total elimination of endocrine disruptors from your people's food supply they will amount to nothing. Even so, it will be at least three decades before the Japanese people will be capable of normal reproduction since the present generations have damaged reproductive systems after seven decades of deliberate poisoning.

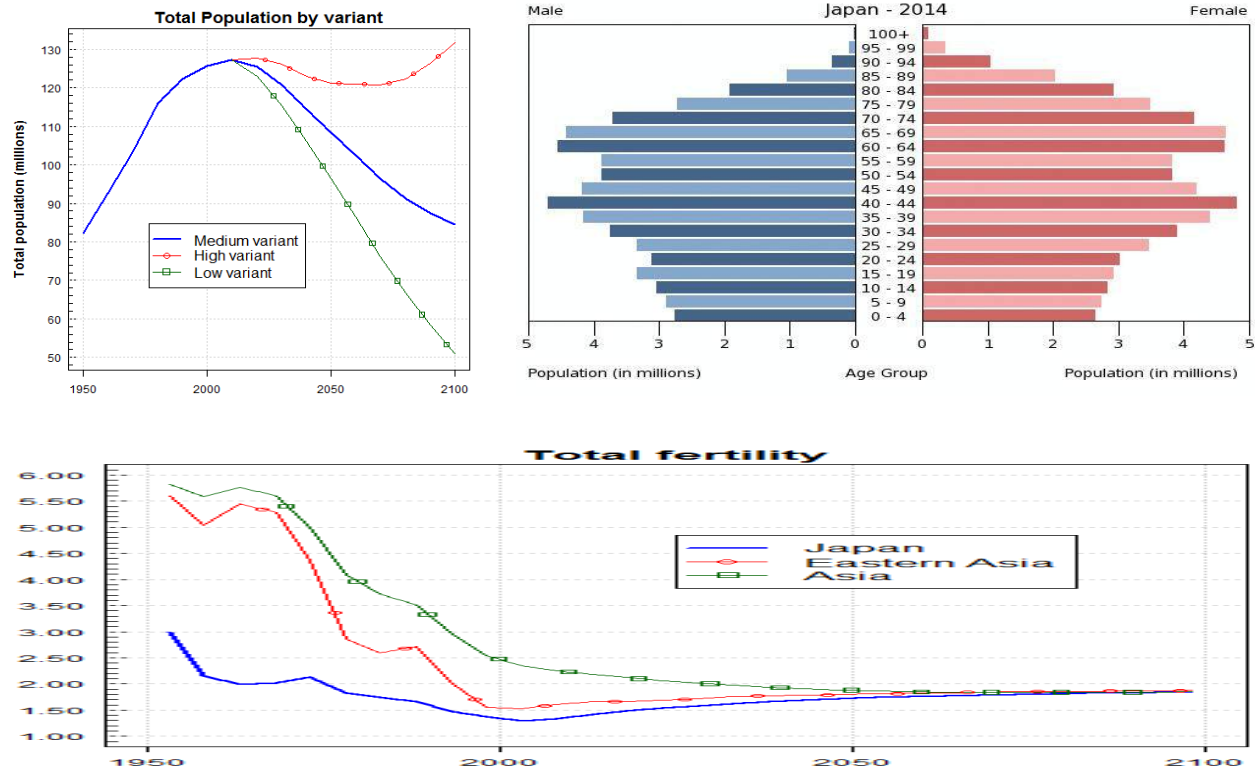

The panel of experts that you have tasked to find solutions to Japan's rapid depopulation better start reading my work if their recommendations are to be effective. In the meantime, I suggest we meet without delay to forge global consensus for a humane and lawful population control policy.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Japan has nearly twice as many elderly above 65 years (25% of the population) as it has children 14 years and younger (13% of the population); which is more than any other country in the world. This signals that Japan is in the most advanced stage of the demographic transition. It is in this situation because Japan was the first country in Asia to be subjected to nation-wide population engineering; a program that began soon after it lost the war and surrendered to the Allied Powers unconditionally in September 1945.

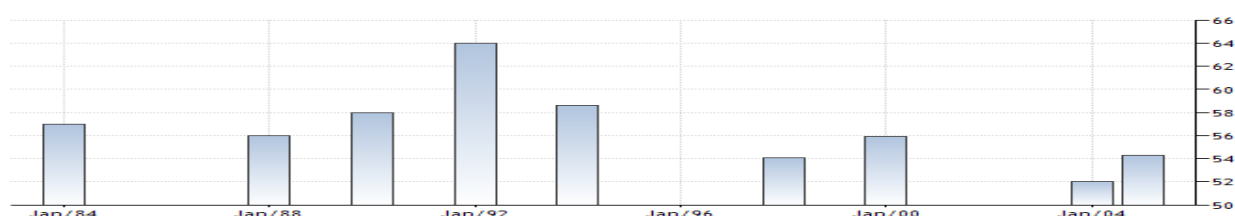

The first method of covert depopulation used in Japan starting in 1947 was fluoride supplements. Then followed fluoridated water and fluoride dental treatments and since the 1980s fertility has been suppressed with BPA plastics and other endocrine disruptors.

At war's end, the total fertility rate of Japan was 4.6 children per woman. By 1957 it was only 2 children per woman, where it remained until 1974. Since 1975 the total fertility rate has sunk lower and lower, reaching a lowest low of 1.26 children per woman in 2005. As of 2007, the population has been decreasing exponentially and in 2014 it lost 268,000 people or 0.2% of the total population in a single year. Japan's population is now in freefall and villages and small towns across the country are emptying out at a frighteningly rapid pace.

Japan being a losing power its leaders have been forced to poison their own people since 1946 as a condition of surrender. The royal family has been allowed to stay in power, rather than being executed for war crimes, only after agreeing to implement covert depopulation measures, and to this day the emperors of Japan – first Hirohito and since 1989 Akihito – are keepers of the secret.

Every prime minister of Japan since Tetsu Katayama (1947-1948) and up to the incumbent Shinzō Abe (since 2012), has been privy to the genocide and therefore complicit in crimes against humanity.

That contraceptive use has little or nothing to do with Japan's low birth rate is amply demonstrated by the nation's contraceptive prevalence rate. By 1957, Japan had attained replacement level fertility but only 41% of couples of reproductive age used contraceptives. Even when one considers that 716 abortions were performed for every 1,000 births at that time, the low fertility rate cannot possibly be accounted for. The same discrepancy is revealed by the data from the late 1980s when 58% of Japanese used contraceptives and the abortion rate had fallen to 389 per 1,000 while the total fertility rate declined well below sub-replacement level.

Today, the use of covert methods of depopulation are even more embarrassingly obvious since no more than 54% of all Japanese use contraceptives but the total fertility rate has been below 1.4 children per woman since 1997. At this rate of negative population growth Japan will shrink to 95 million inhabitants by 2050 from the current 128 million, that is a whopping 25% decrease.

The abortion rate, currently at 15%, can also not account for the low fertility. The historical record does show however that abortion played a significant role in the 1950s, when the rate was 40%, and the 1960s, when the rate was 35%. Since then, however, as endocrine disruptors have become endemic, abortion has steadily decreased: to 25% in the 1970s and 1980s, to 22% in the 1990s, and to less than 17% in the last decade.

While Japan has been rewarded for poisoning its people to low fertility with an exploding GDP as soon the country reached replacement level fertility around 1960, it is being punished with a stagnating GDP and with deflation since its population plateaued in 2000. Having reached the end of its demographic transition Japan is now being punished with a shrinking GDP, a condition that began as soon as its population started decreasing substantially in 2011, when it first began losing more than 200,000 people a year.

Japan is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

Abdullah Ensour

Prime Minister of Jordan

King Abdullah and Prime Minister Ensour,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Jordan is in many respects a model country for the Middle East and the most generous and hospitable to refugees, accommodating and integrating more displaced people than any other nation in the region. Jordan's high intake of refugees is partly responsible for the country's rapidly increasing population.

Your country succumbed to the UN-dictated population control methods in 1980 and, as a result, the total fertility rate has declined from 7.5 to 3.3 children per woman, which is still well-above replacement level. This means that Jordan is under continuing pressure to adopt an ever-widening array of covert depopulation measures. I urge you to refuse to poison your people into infertility, as the West has done for the past six decades, in order to comply with an international population control policy that is genocidal and offends every norm and value that we hold as human beings.

Instead of following suit and irreversibly damaging your people, I urge you to legislate the size of Jordan's families and thus protect your people from chemical, biological and bacteriological attack.

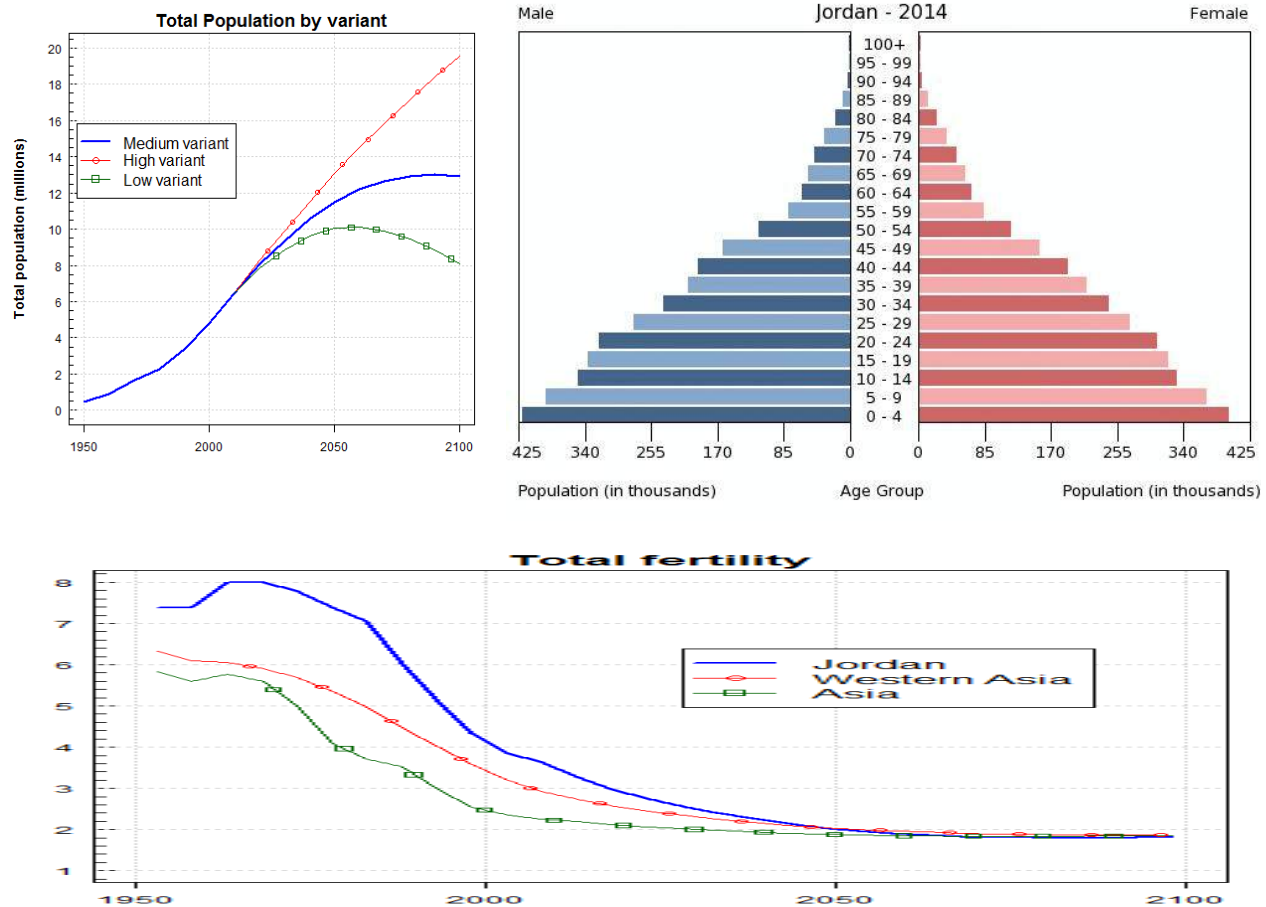

Queen Rania is on the UN Secretary General's High-Level Panel of Eminent Persons for the post-2015 development agenda and as such has influence on shaping global policy to ensure that the international security prerogative of population control is accomplished within the law and without damaging humanity. It is encouraging to see that the Sustainable Development Solutions Network already places "macroeconomics, population dynamics and planetary boundaries" at the top of the list.

I urge you also to meet with me at your convenience to discuss how best to forge global consensus for worldwide legislation for population control. I stand by to fly to Jordan for this purpose.

Sincerely,

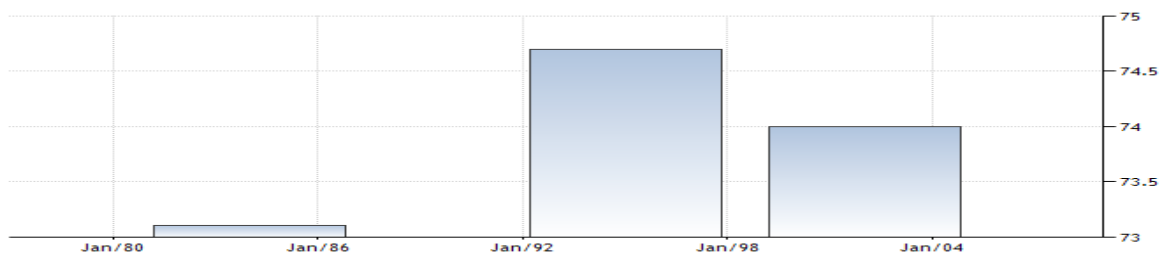

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

Population control measures came into effect in 1980, thus during the reign of King Hussein (1952-1999). By the time the throne was inherited by his son, King Abdullah II, upon his father's death in 1999, Jordan's total fertility rate had declined from 7.5 to 4.2 children per woman. King Abdullah, aided by his wife, Queen Rania, slowed down the program and today the total fertility rate is at 3.2 children per woman.

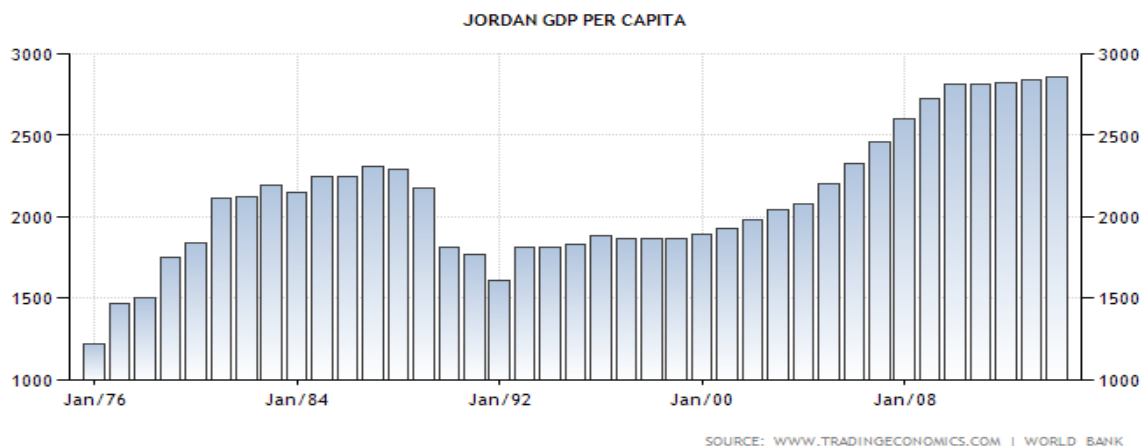

The contraceptive prevalence rate of c. 74% since fertility began dropping in 1980 could account for the decline and for the current total fertility rate, which coincides with the ideal family size of Jordanians.

This is much to the credit of Jordan's royal family and elected political leaders. However, it is also clear that increasingly endocrine disruptors play a role in undermining fertility since Jordan will have to reach replacement level fertility by hook or by crook to satisfy the international order.

And since the drop in fertility from 3 to 2 children per woman is the hardest to accomplish, as it violates ideal family size in most cultures and therefore people will not use contraceptives until they have the three or four children they desire, Jordan is now undoubtedly being forced by the UN system to implement covert chemical sterilization methods.

Jordan's economic data shows that as fertility decreases the GDP rises. It also shows that the rise in GDP has been modest because Jordan is still far away from reaching replacement level fertility, which is when the GDP per capita explodes.

Jordan is in stage three of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF KAZAKHSTAN

President of Kazakhstan

Karim Massimov

Prime Minister of Kazakhstan

Igibaeva@parlam.kz, AubakirovaH@parlam.kz

President Nazarbayev and Prime Minister Massimov,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Kazakhstan joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1992, the same year it joined the United Nations, and used covert methods of depopulation until 2002, the result of which the total fertility rate dropped from 2.8 children per woman to just 1.8 by 1999. In 2002, your government abandoned covert methods of depopulation and the total fertility rate has rebounded and it is back at 2.8 children per woman.

With a population of only 18 million occupying the ninth largest landmass in the world, Kazakhstan's population density is just 6 people per square kilometer, which is why your country is a great exporter of grains and therefore in no need to subvert its people's reproductive rights for demographic objectives. In fact, Kazakhstan needs more people to realize its full economic, social and cultural potential. That is a privileged position to be in at a time in world history when the vast majority of nations are dangerously overpopulated.

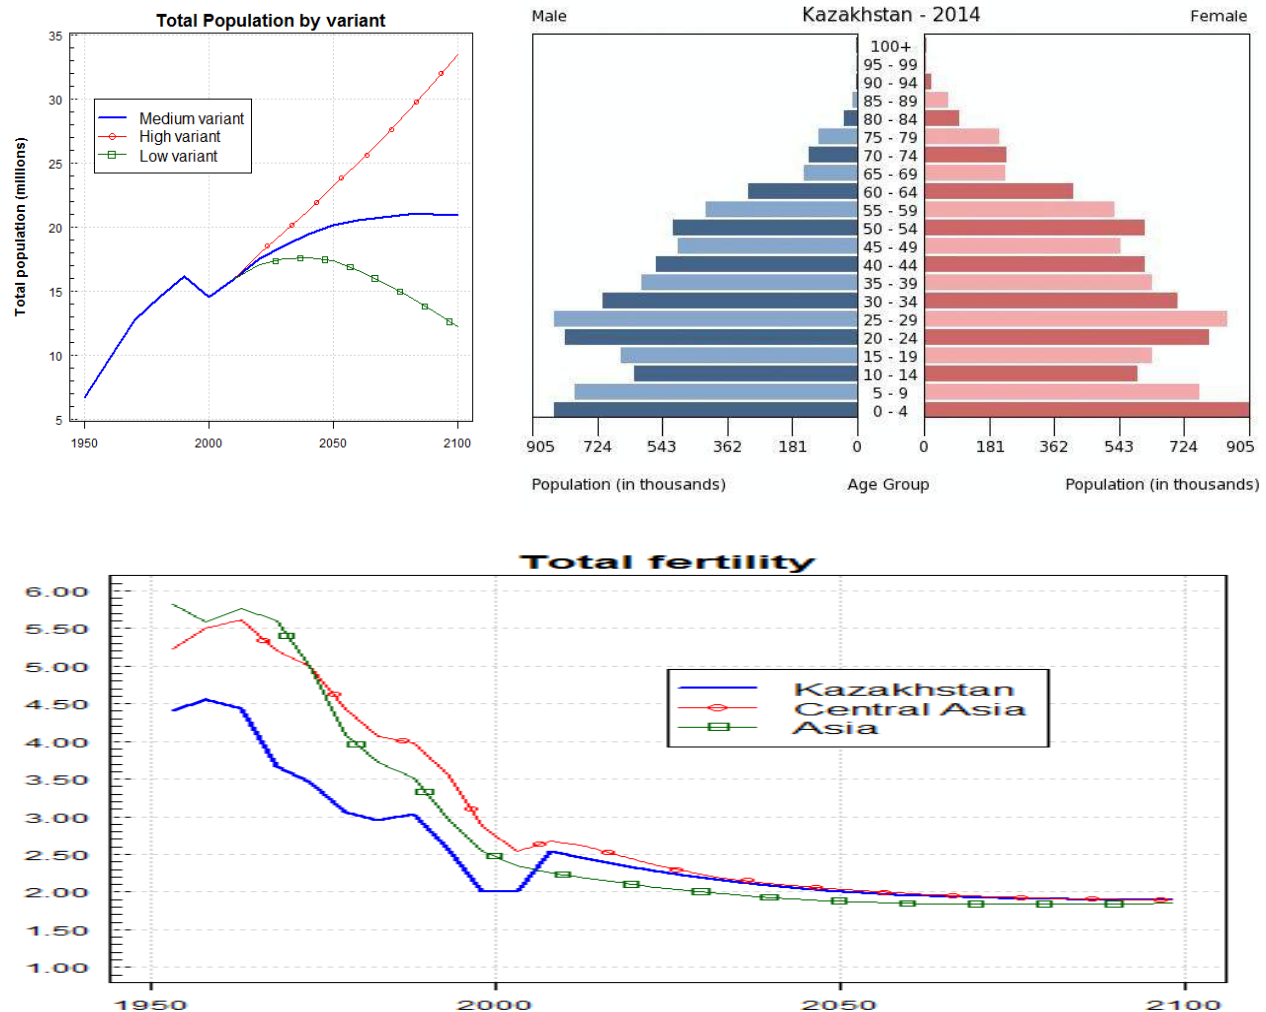

I applaud your decision to break away from the UN-delegated and western sponsored global depopulation program and hope that you will aid me in forging global consensus for open, ethical and legal means of population control, which can only mean legislating family size to replacement level fertility.

As I am in the process of forging global consensus for population control legislation from the global governance level as a Planetary Security Prerogative, I hope that you will use Kazakhstan's UN Permanent Mission to compel the inert UN bureaucracy to stop committing genocide and to start tackling population control within the law, respectful of democratic processes and considerate of people's rights to healthy minds and bodies. You will find all the material you need to change global policy in my freely available work: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

I look forward to meeting with you in person to discuss how we can help each other.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Covert methods of depopulation in Kazakhstan were first introduced by the Soviets in 1960, when the country was then called the Kazakh Soviet Socialist Republic and Dinmukhamed Konayev became the First Secretary of the Communist Party of Kazakhstan, a position he held until 1986.

Konayev was undoubtedly acting upon orders from Nikita Khrushchev, then leader of the Soviet Union, and it is doubtful that he could have opposed any directive coming from the Central Committee of the Soviet Union.

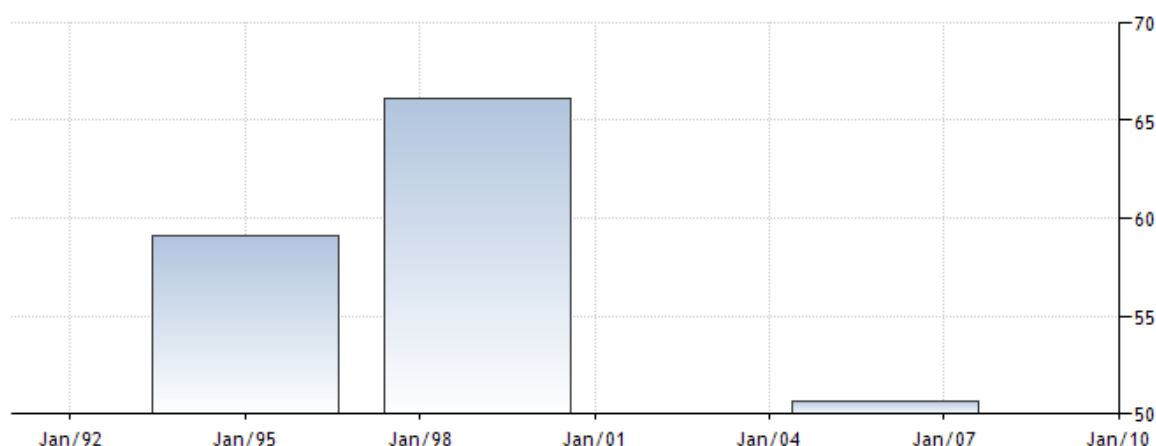

By 1980, the total fertility rate decreased from 4.5 to 3 children per woman where it hovered until independence from the Soviet Union in 1991.

No sooner did Kazakhstan win its independence in 1991 than its first president, Nursultan Nazarbayev, who remains in office to this day, adopted western-style methods of depopulation and his accelerated and intensified program pushed the total fertility rate from 3 to 2 children per woman in just five years and to a lowest low of 1.8 by 1999.

Since 2004, President Nazarbayev has relaxed his country's program of population control and the total fertility rate has bounced up to 2.6 children per woman.

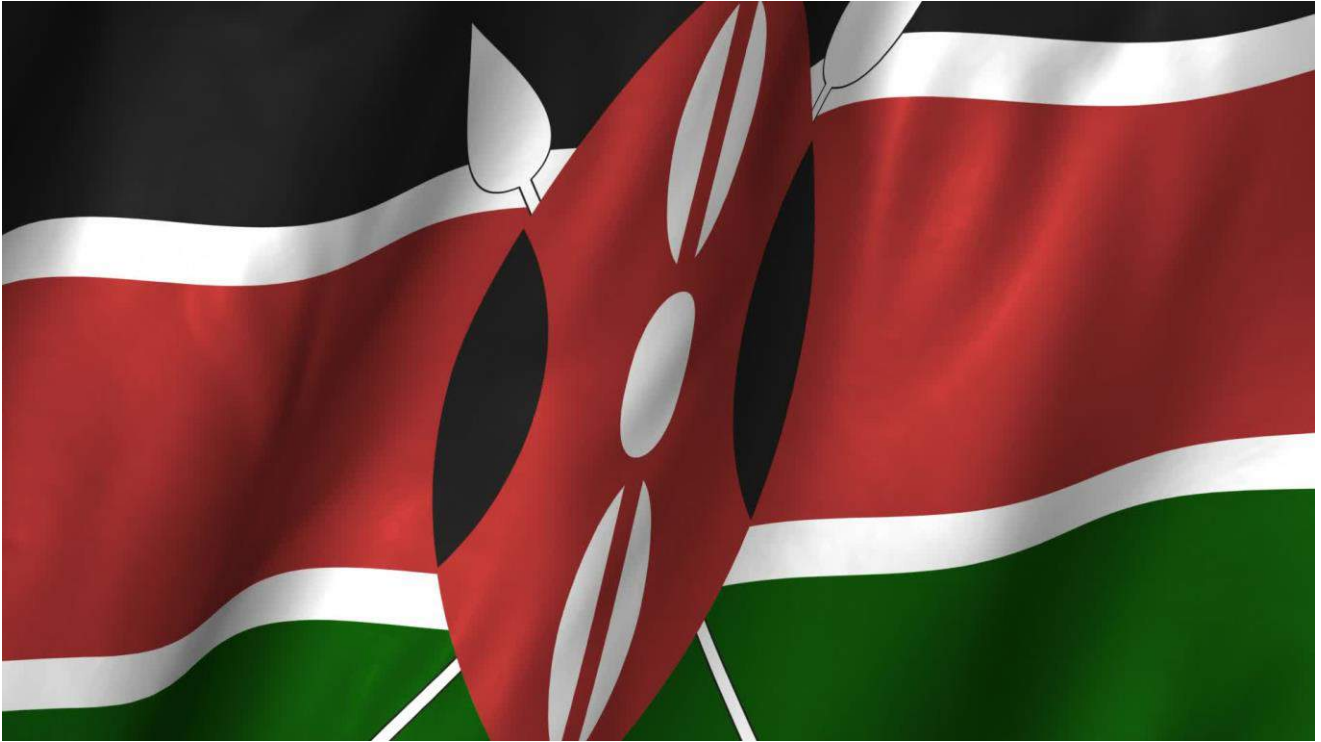

Kazakhstan's drop in fertility cannot be attributed to contraceptives since the contraceptive prevalence rate has never exceeded 66% and has been at c. 50% since the beginning of the 21st century when the total fertility rate dropped to replacement level.

The historical record shows that abortion has played an important role during the 1980s and 1990s, when the rate was around 50%, but has since been less of a factor as the rate decreased to 30% in the first decade of the 21st century and to 20% in this second decade. Thus, as Kazakhstan adopted Western methods of covert chemical sterilization and pregnancies became less common the incidence of abortions also decreased.

Kazakhstan is in stage three of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF KENYA

26 October 2014

Uhuru Kenyatta
President of Kenya

<http://www.president.go.ke/pages/contact/>
<http://www.kenyaun.org/Contact.aspx#.VEzLbGePLIU>

President Kenyatta,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

Kenya joined the United Nations in 1963, the year of its independence, and in 1967 launched the first official nationwide family planning program in sub-Saharan Africa, therefore joining the Global Depopulation Policy. As a result, its total fertility rate declined from 8 children per woman to 4.7 by 1998 when the program stalled due to the HIV epidemic, which diverted funds from the family planning program.

Until 2010, family planning was pursued honestly and honorably in Kenya and I could find no evidence of covert, coerced or forced sterilization practices, other than in large cities where people's reproductive systems are being covertly subverted through bisphenol A packaging, artificial sweeteners, other endocrine disruptors inserted in western food and beverage products, or through western food processing methods that find their way into the Kenyan market, the result of which the total fertility rate in urban Kenya is a low 2.8 children per woman compared to 5.2 children per woman in rural areas. I have no reason to believe, however, that the Kenyan leadership is aware of these covert methods of depopulation, which is why I urge you to access my work free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

As of 2010, however, the Kenyan Government has committed itself during high-level meetings such as the National Leaders Conference for Population and Development, held in November 2010, to covert, coerced and forced methods of depopulation and has altered the nation's constitution to make reproductive health care an intrinsic part of national policy goals so as to be able to fulfill the UN development agenda delineated by the Millennium Development Goals (MDG). This commitment, which has occurred without the people's knowledge or consent, was strengthened in July 2011 at the Effective Community Approaches to Family Planning Meeting. Due to the illegal and immoral nature of the decisions made at these two high-level meetings the public is not allowed access to these policy documents.

What these secret policy documents contain, however, is predictable given the limited methods of covert depopulation available, all of which I have exposed in my work. In the Kenyan context the choice was made to engage sterilizing vaccines through an Expanded Programme of Immunization (EPI) that will use injectable contraceptives under various pretexts and that will gradually reach the entire adult population by rapidly transiting from childhood to family vaccination so as to target people in their prime reproductive years and subvert their fertility.

Until 2010, when Kenya's government decided to commit genocide along with the international community, the UN's depopulation efforts were impaired by cold-chain logistics and lack of political commitment. That this is no longer the case is amply demonstrated by Kenya's participation in a select program of sterilization (see map below) of young girls and women aged 9 to 26 with Gardasil, the human papillomavirus (HPV) vaccine administered under the pretext of providing protection against cervical cancer, and also administered to young men under the pretext that it protects them against genital warts.

<http://www.gardasilaccessprogram.org/section/177>

As the map above amply demonstrates, the countries participating in this Gardasil vaccination drive are characterized by high total fertility rates.

Given that more than 50% of your population is younger than 15 years of age, that 70% live in rural areas on subsistence farming and two out of three farmers do not believe their land is sufficient to feed the new generation, that the population density is already too high and as a result 53% of the population already lives below the poverty line and 32% of Kenya's population is malnourished, that a significant portion of the population regularly starves to death, that the country depends heavily on food aid to make it from year to year and that even if the total fertility rate is reduced to 3.7 children per woman by 2030, as projected by the UN medium variant, the population will still grow to 66 million, I can understand why your government has no choice but to fight population growth by all means necessary.

What I cannot understand and cannot condone is that you are not drafting legislation to tackle population control legally, openly, fairly and equitably so that people know what the expectations are and can live up to them without sacrificing their health and their genetic lines to corrupt politicians and self-serving medical practitioners who turn government, medicine and science into handmaidens of genocide and assume rights and powers they are not entitled to.

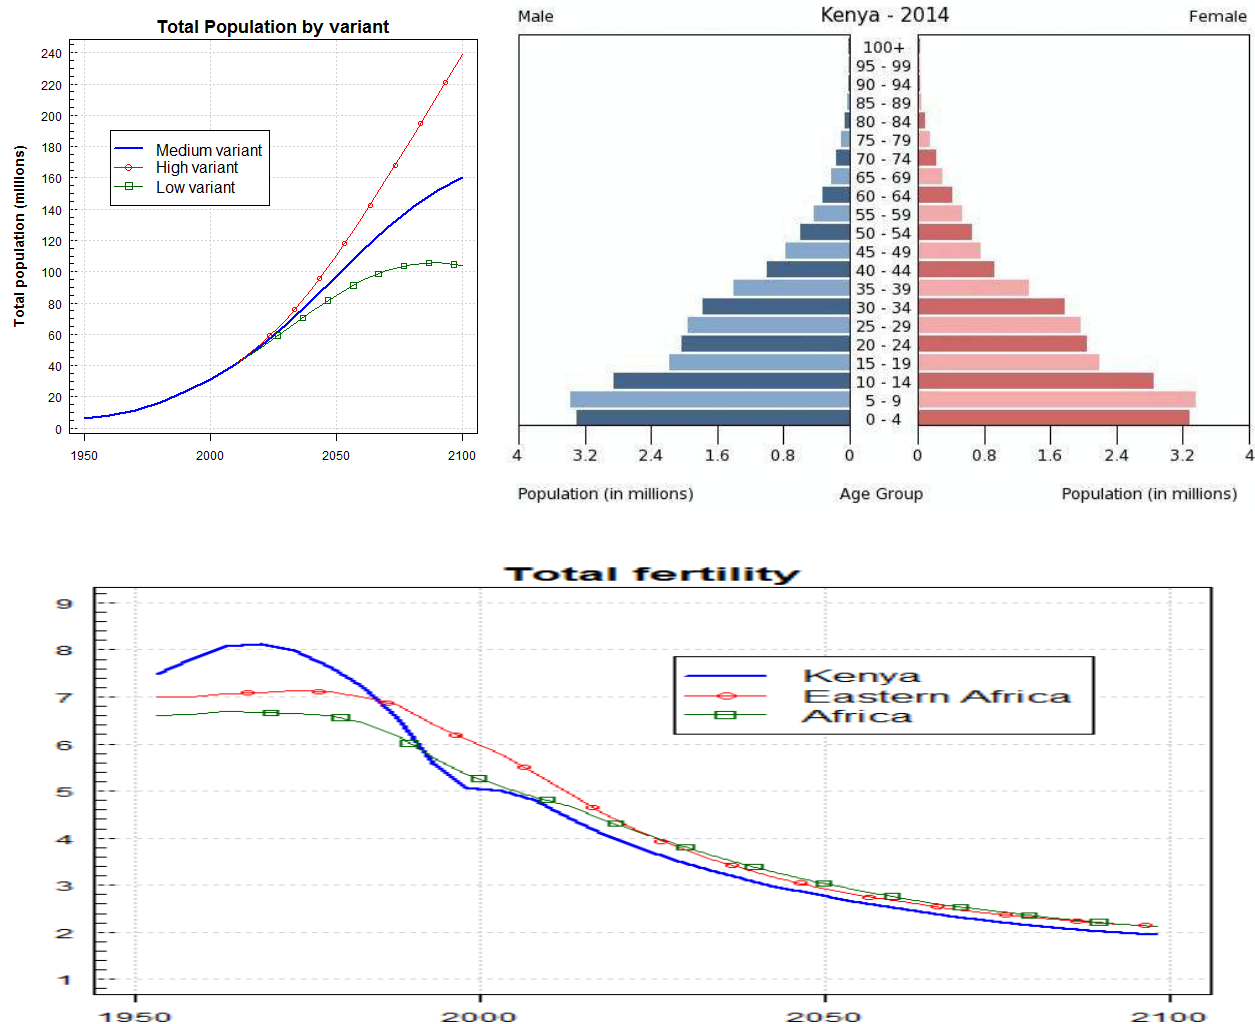

Clearly Kenya's population growth is unsustainable, having ballooned from 6 million in 1950 to 45 million today, a whopping sevenfold increase in just half a century. But just as clearly, it is wrong to cheat people of their reproductive rights when your duty is to lead them to a better life and not to deprive them of the only life they have.

That is why I urge you to join my effort to forge global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide, derives from the global governance level as a Planetary Security Prerogative that no person and no nation can eschew, and is clear, transparent and equitable. In reading my appeals to your counterparts around the world you will surely realize that this is the only way to rescue mankind from self-destruction and to preserve the planet for future generations: <https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>.

I look forward to seeing you in Kenya to discuss how we can help the world evolve to a higher level of being.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Kenya's program of population control did not kick in until 1978 when Daniel arap Moi became President of Kenya upon the death of Jomo Kenyatta, the founding father of the Kenyan nation, who protected his people from genocide.

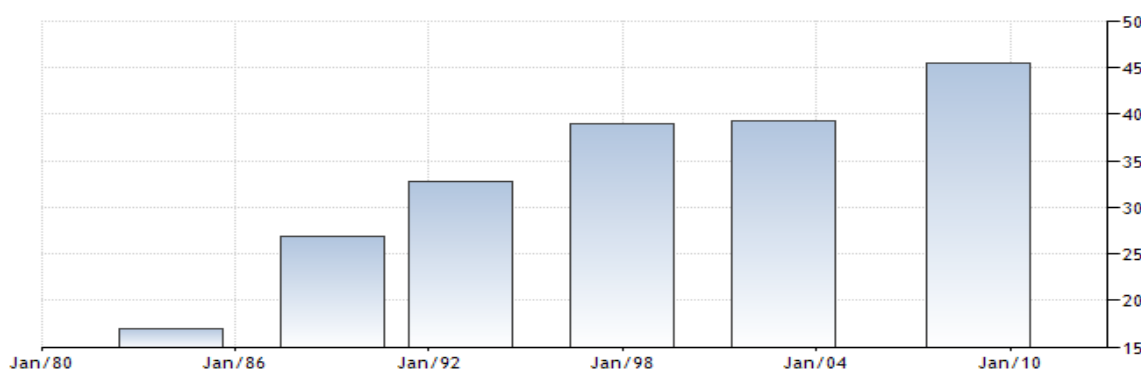

During Moi's presidency from 1978 to 2002, the total fertility rate declined from nearly 8 to 5 children per woman.

From 2002 until 2007, thus throughout his first term in office, President Mwai Kibaki did not pursue a policy of fertility reduction, which is why the total fertility rate remained unchanged at 5 children per woman. During the second term (2007-2013), however, President Kibaki gave in to pressure from the international community and by 2010 he approved the use of covert methods of depopulation.

As of 2013, Kenya has a new president, Uhuru Kenyatta, the son of Kenya's founding father, Jomo Kenyatta. It is too early to tell what direction President Uhuru Kenyatta will take his country into, but I hope that he will honor his father's legacy and help me forge global consensus for open, safe and legal population control so that Kenya can attain replacement level fertility without damaging human health and trampling the people's fundamental rights.

Given Kenya's low contraceptive prevalence rate, which has yet to reach 50%, the drop in fertility from 8 to 3.6 children cannot possibly be explained by the judicious use of contraceptives.

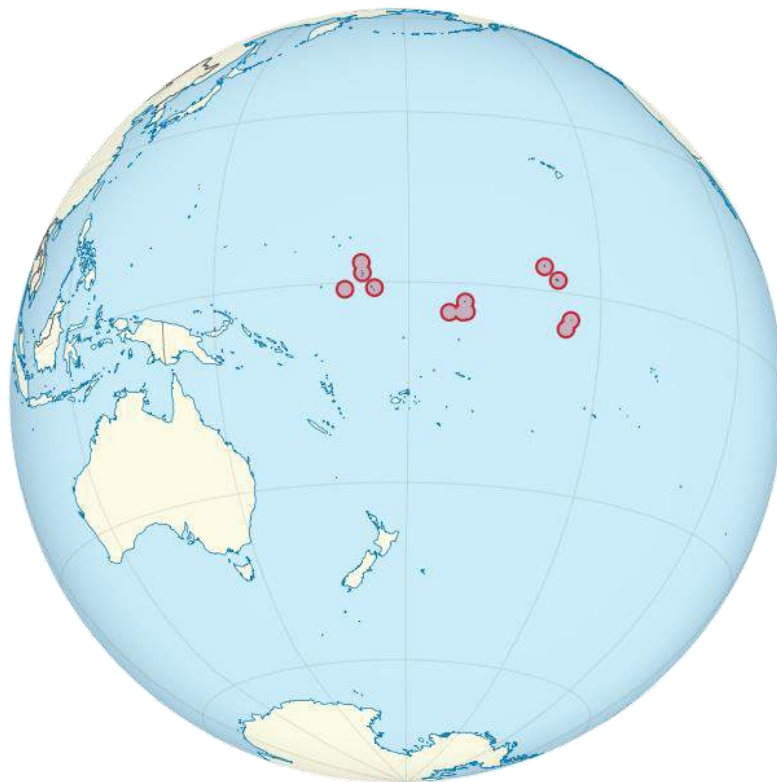

Since Kenya is far away from reaching replacement level fertility, prosperity has been denied its people. As the economic data shows, Kenya's GDP per capita has stagnated at around $500 for the past 40 years.

Kenya has just entered stage three of the demographic transition.

INDEPENDENT AND SOVEREIGN REPUBLIC OF KIRIBATI

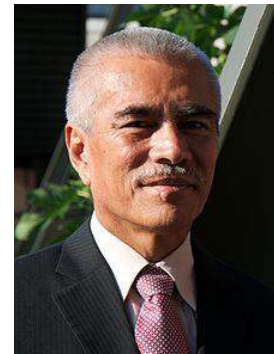

16 January 2015

Anote Tong

President of Kiribati

info@ob.gov.ki, communications@ob.gov.ki

<https://www.facebook.com/TongNPP>

President Tong and Prime Minister Onorio,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Kiribati was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1968. As soon as the country won its independence from Britain in 1979, the government abandoned the program of poisoning, but by then the total fertility rate had declined from 7 children per woman to 5. Pressed by the international community and by rising sea levels, the government of Kiribati resumed covert depopulation measures in 1984 and the total fertility rate has consequently declined from 5 children per woman in the 1980s to 2.6 today. This effort has been assisted by Cuban doctors since 2006.

The population of Kiribati is small at just 100,000 people and it will not be too difficult to move the entire nation to the island of Vanua Levi, Fiji, on the 2,200 hectare Natoavutu Estate that the government of Kiribati purchased from the government of Fiji in 2012 for the purpose of evacuating the Kiribati people when the sea rise caused by climate change will swallow up your entire island nation. As the first country predicted to be lost to climate change, and having already lost two islands, Kiribati has a different and painful perspective on the problems humanity faces; a perspective that is yet to be shared by the dormant and apathetic masses that are not yet directly impacted by the environmental destruction caused by the developed world and, more recently, by developing nations.

Indeed, since 2013, President Tong, you have been encouraging your people to migrate elsewhere rather than wait for the inevitable. But wherever your people go they will not be able to escape the depopulation prerogative, which has been the principle pillar of international cohabitation since 1945 and the main reason why peace has been preserved and a third world war avoided. Despite the extraordinary accomplishments of the Global Depopulation Policy, it cannot continue by covert methods because poisoning innocents with chemical and biological toxins over multiple generations degrades the genetic and intellectual endowments of mankind and leads to the extinction of the species. Already a quarter of the genetic lineages of Japan and the western world, where covert depopulation has been in effect the longest, have been rendered incapable of reproduction and therefore once and for all shut down.

Surely you do not want your people to meet with the same fate and for you to go down in history as a mass murderer of your own people. That is why I am giving you the opportunity to support my effort to reform the international system and the UN infrastructure in the manner described in my just published book, The Future of Global Governance, so the world can abandon genocide as an acceptable governing strategy and our children can live healthy lives and not be poisoned by freely elected governments.

Having participated in the UNFCCC conferences of the parties, and despite the best efforts of the Alliance of Small Island States (AOSIS), you know better than anyone else that these international diplomatic efforts lead nowhere and are a complete waste of time so long as the world lacks the organizational infrastructure with the legitimacy to make decisions on behalf of the world.

To understand just what we are up against, I urge you to access my work and to educate your people so they can be ready to take responsibility and restrict their own reproduction by a method of their own choosing once the world declares replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative, which is the only way we can have peace without poison and attain sustainability. Center of Global Governance

Between 1968 and 1972, the British subjected the people of Kiribati to sterilizing vaccines and the total fertility rate dropped from 7 to 5 children per woman. This backfired and the people lost trust in the NGO community and government health workers and the program of covert depopulation was put on hold.

Four years after Kiribati won its independence, thus in 1983, the program of covert depopulation was reactivated, undoubtedly as a condition of aid from the international community. President Jeremia Tabai assumed office in 1983 and that means he is the man responsible for reintroducing covert methods of depopulation in Kiribati. His successors - Teatao Teannaki (1991-1994), Teburoro Tito (1994-2003), and the incumbent president, Anote Tong, have stayed the course.

Since independence, the total fertility rate has dropped from 5 to 2.6 children per woman, which cannot possibly be explained by Kiribati's low contraceptive prevalence rate of 22% or by its near-zero abortion rate.

Kiribati is in stage three of the demographic transition.

DEMOCRATIC PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF KOREA

23 January 2015

Kim Jong-un, Supreme Leader of North Korea

dpr.korea@verizon.net, dl.korea-pdr@unesco-delegations.org

Pak Pong-ju, Premier of North Korea

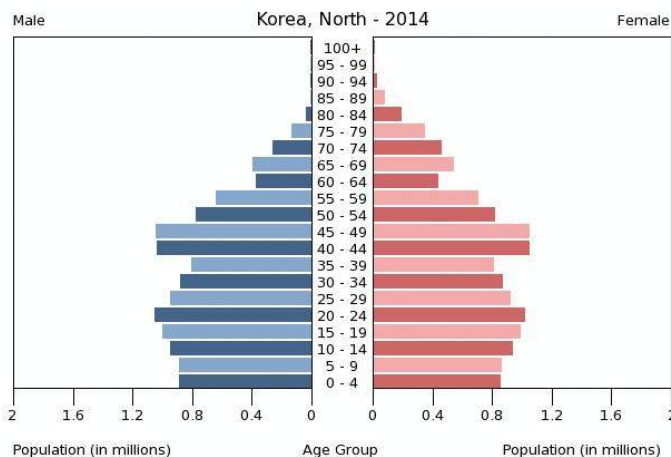

ri.dprk@chello.at, chol.jin.kim@undp.org, ijh2012@gmail.com

Supreme Leader Kim and Premier Pak,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

North Korea became a UN member state in 1991, but it had already joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1956. As a result, the total fertility rate decreased from nearly 3 children per woman prior to 1996 to less than 2 today.

As a nuclear power, North Korea most certainly fluoridates either the water or the salt, which is why the government no longer needs to encourage families to have only one or two children, as it did during the 1970s. Your country's population pyramid clearly shows that the cohorts of the most recent generations are declining as a result of covert methods of population control following the great famine of 1995-8.

Population control is undoubtedly part and parcel of North Korea's policy of self-reliance and given the chronic problems you have to feed your people one can see why it is necessary. I urge you however to abandon all covert methods of depopulation encouraged by the UN and its western sponsors and to adopt open and legislative means as China has done since 1978. This will help the rest of the world achieve peace without poison and a framework of international cooperation that does not involve genocide.

I urge you also to empower your UN ambassador, Mr. Ja Song Nam, to initiate reform of the UN system, as I have described in my recently published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance. And since change of the international system from covert to overt methods of population control is not possible without first freeing the truth, I encourage you to allow the state-owned media to tell the world how people are being poisoned by their freely elected governments into infertility and subfertility, as well as chronic illness and degraded genetic and intellectual endowments, in the name of peace. You will find all the material you need in my freely available work:

It is clear that the world cannot sustain a population of 7 billion people at any standard of living let alone a western one, which is the most unsustainable. That is why the only way to keep the peace, share the available resources and preserve the environment for future generations is to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law.

I hope you will help me change the world and free the people from genocide and from the lies and deception that have made the truth dangerous to those who control the world by diabolical means.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

The Democratic People's Republic of Korea has practiced population control since 1956 when Kim Il-sung (1948-1994) was the Supreme Leader of the country. From 1956 until his death in 1994 the total fertility rate declined from 5 to 2.4 children per woman. His son and successor, Kim Jong-il (1994-2011), brought the total fertility rate down to replacement level fertility by 1998, where it remains to this day, since the policy of mass poisoning is being continued by the current leader, Kim Jong-un, the son of Kim Jong-il.

North Korea's contraceptive prevalence rate of 58% cannot possibly explain the country's sub-replacement level fertility. No official statistics of North Korea's abortion rate exist, but a recent UN report indicates that forced abortions are rampant on women repatriated from China, lest they give birth to a racially impure child, and that infanticide of handicapped children is also common. These eugenic practices, however, tragic as they are for the individuals concerned, are statistically insignificant and this means that North Korea's low fertility is solely the result of covert chemical sterilization via fluoride.

North Korea is in stage four of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF KOREA

26 September 2014

Park Geun-hye

President of South Korea

http://english1.president.go.kr/util/contact_us.php

Jung Hong-won

Prime Minister of South Korea

webmaster@pmo.go.kr

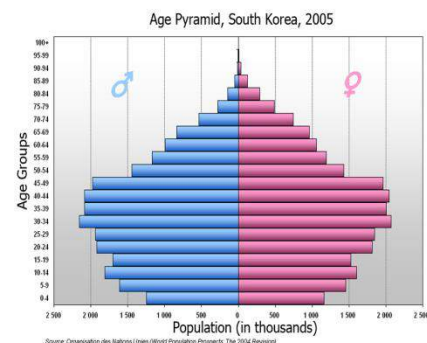

President Geun-hye and Prime Minister Hong-won,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Instituting population reduction measures in 1960, during General Park Chung-hee's military dictatorship, has greatly contributed to South Korea's rapid economic progress and vastly improved standard of living. These gains, however, will be short-lived and end up in disaster unless you immediately stop covertly poisoning your people into sterility, ill-health and mental retardation.

Your total fertility rate has already reached the alarmingly low level of 1.2 children per woman, which is far below replacement level, and your population pyramid will be fully inverted within ten years, at which point you will have to start deliberately sickening your retired population to send them earlier to their graves, just as all western countries are currently doing through annual flu vaccines that are adulterated and the chemspraying program carried out by NATO and aided by a select few private corporations.

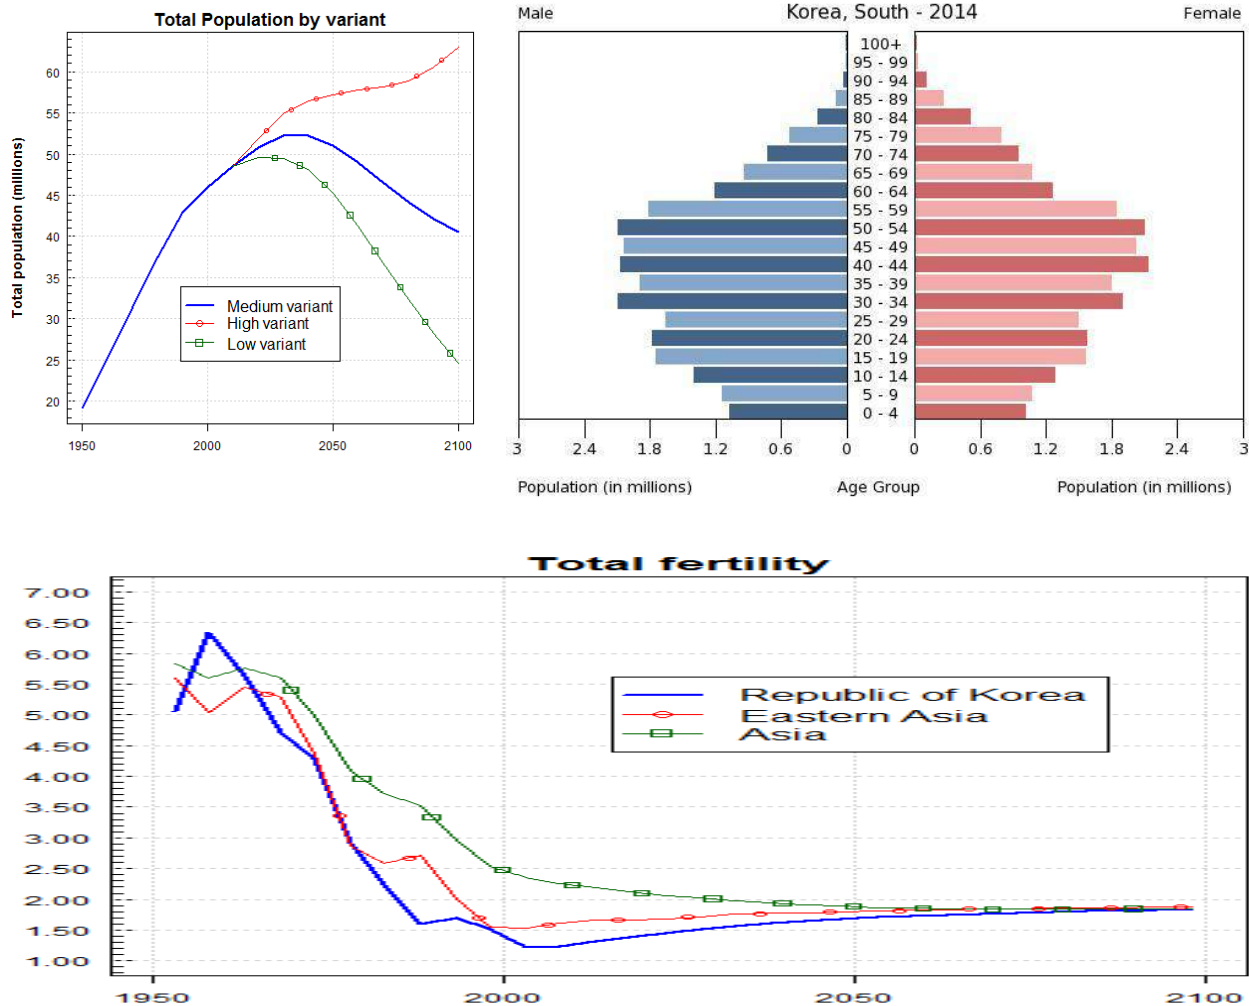

If you continue on the path of genocide you will soon be prosecuted for crimes against humanity and will be reviled for all times as mass murderers. If, however, you join me in forging global consensus for legislative means to control population growth you will be hailed by this and future generations as saviors of the nation.

The choice is your to make and you must make it now. If you choose the latter, I will advise you on how to ensure a smooth and peaceful transition from a covert and immoral to an overt and ethical population control program.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

South Korea started covert methods of population control at the same time as North Korea, in 1956, undoubtedly coordinated by the international community to relieve tensions on the Korean Peninsula and avert war.

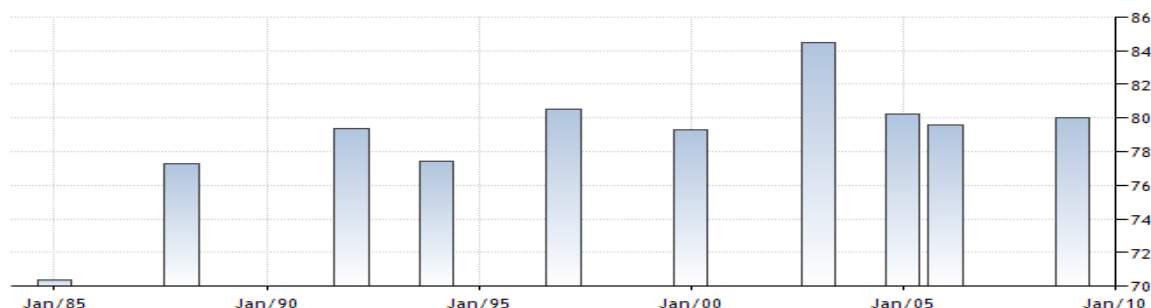

Even though it started from a much higher total fertility rate of 6.3 children per woman (as opposed to North Korea's 5 children per woman) it reached replacement level fertility in 1983, sixteen years earlier than North Korea. Unlike North Korea, which pursued the medium variant of population control, thus a more moderate policy, South Korea pursued the low variant, thus a far more aggressive program, which is why South Korea's total fertility rate did not stay at replacement level, as North Korea's did, but continued to sink and reached a lowest low of 1.2 children per woman in 2002 and continues to be at sub-replacement level fertility to this day.

The man responsible for approving covert methods of depopulation in South Korea, undoubtedly under duress by the UN and the greater international community, is Syngman Rhee (1948-1960), the first President of the Republic of Korea. His successors have followed suit: Yun Posun

(1960-1962), Park Chung-hee (1962-1979), Choi Kyu-hah (1979-1980), Chun Doo-hwan (1980-1988), Roh Tae-woo (1988-1993), Kim Young-sam (1993-1998), Kim Dae-jung (1998-2003), Roh Moo-hyun (2003-2008), Lee Myung-bak (2008-2013), and incumbent Park Geun-hye.

The historical record shows that during the 1970s and 1980s some 40% of all pregnancies ended in abortion. Since then, the rate of abortion decreased to 30%, which is statistically significant but cannot account for South Korea's sub-replacement level fertility.

South Korea's history of contraceptive use shows that replacement level fertility, which was accomplished by 1983, predates contraceptives. To mask covert chemical sterilization via endocrine disruptors, and perhaps also in the hope of being able to eventually replace them, the South Korean government has increased the contraceptive prevalence rate to 80% (of which 70% are modern methods) since the 1990s.

Since South Korea's total fertility rate has been at 1.2 children per woman since 2001, a level that grossly violates the preferred family size of the vast majority of Koreans, it is clear that contraceptive use has absolutely nothing to do with the extremely low fertility. In fact, the official rate is most certainly a blatant exaggeration if not an outright lie, something that is rather typical to the modus operandi of Asian governments.

South Korea has been rewarded for its genocidal fervor with affluence. The graph below clearly shows that the GDP per capita began explosive growth as soon as replacement level fertility was reached in 1983.

President Jahjaga and Prime Minister Mustafa,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

As an autonomous province within the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, Kosovo did not join the Global Depopulation Policy as early as the other socialist republics within the federation. Kosovo adopted covert depopulation measures only in 1985 when its total fertility rate (TFR) was 4.8 while that of its Serbian neighbors had already been reduced down to 2.2 children per woman, a TFR that Kosovo did not reach until 2012.

The Kosovars outbred the Serbians who became a minority on the land and this led to ethnic strife and ultimately to the Kosovo War of 1998-9. Five years before the war broke out the TFR of the Kosovars was still twice higher than that of the Serbians, namely 3.9 and 1.9 respectively.

Kosovo has now almost reached replacement level fertility, which is undoubtedly, and for good reasons, a condition for acceptance into the EU. While the government of Kosovo has been poisoning its own people in order to comply with the depopulation prerogative of the international framework for peace enforced by the UN and its agencies, I have been fighting a one-man war against this behemoth and have exposed its methods and means by dragging it out of the shadows and into the glaring light of truth where it is now disintegrating like a vampire.

But since now the depopulation prerogative is more important than ever to the survival of mankind and of our planet, as we have to reach sustainability, the time has come to shift from covert to overt depopulation measures. This is only possible if replacement level fertility is declared a Global Security Prerogative and enshrined in international law at the global governance level, as I describe in my just published book, The Future of Global Governance, so that every person on the planet becomes responsible for limiting his or her own reproduction and governments do not have to covertly poison their citizens by adulterating the basic elements of life. But that in turn is not possible unless we first reform the UN system, which I also describe in my book.

Since you already understand the impeccable logic of population control as a substitute to war and preserver of peace – a subject that I am certain the UN Interim Administration in Kosovo (UNMIK) reminds you of every day in the context of regional stability – now is the time to begin educating your people through the media and the nation's education system. To this end, I am giving you free access to my work so that you may use it at will:

The men responsible for introducing covert population control measures in Kosovo are Branislav Skembarević, President of the Socialist Autonomous Province of Kosovo from 1985 to 1986, and Ljubomir Nedo Borković, Prime Minister of the Socialist Autonomous Province of Kosovo from 1984 to 1986. From 1985 to 2008, when Kosovo became independent, the crude birth rate was halved from 32 to 16.

Since independence in 2008, the responsibility for covertly sterilizing the people falls on President Fatmir Sejdiu (2006-2010), President Behgjet Pacolli (2011-2011), and on incumbent President Atifete Jahjaga (since April 2011).

With only 15% of women using modern contraceptives and 41% using no contraceptives whatsoever, according to the latest UN report, it is clear that contraceptives are not responsible for the country's low fertility of just 2 children per woman. And since only 5% of all pregnancies are aborted, Kosovo's low fertility cannot be attributed to abortion either, which leaves only covert methods of sterilization.

Emir Sabah Al-Sabah, Crown Prince Nawaf Al-Sabah and Prime Minister Jaber Al-Sabah,

Kuwait joined the United Nations in 1963 and the Global Depopulation Policy in 1970, the result of which its total fertility rate has since dropped from 7.4 to 2.6 children per woman. The people's fertility has been subverted with bottled water and beverages as well as imported foods adulterated with bisphenol A and/or fluoride, both of which are endocrine disruptors deliberately inserted in food, water and beverages to achieve demographic objectives dictated by the UN.

Considering that Kuwait's native population has grown an astounding tenfold since 1950 (from 150,000 to 1.5 million) and that to date Kuwait is also home to an additional 2.4 million expatriates, bringing its population density to 200 people per square kilometer in a country with no agriculture; that Kuwait's water demand exceeds its fresh water resources 60 times over, which is why 90% of Kuwait's water is derived from expensive seawater desalination plants; and that Kuwait has only 24 billion barrels of proven oil reserves left in the ground and its economy is entirely dependent on oil revenues, it is no wonder that the Kuwaiti government has had to adopt population control measures.

I urge you however to stop using covert methods of chemical depopulation and to legislate population control instead so that the people of Kuwait can retain their health, their rights, and their dignity. By allowing your people to regain control over their reproductive systems and empowering them to use safe contraceptives and limit their families to just two children you will rescue your people from suffering and genocide because the methods you now use cause cumulative and irreversible damage to the human organism, which in three generations results in permanent sterility, substantial mental retardation, enfeeblement and chronic illness. For a complete description of the damage caused by the methods you employ I urge you to read my book Chemical and Biological Depopulation, which you can obtain free of cost, along with the rest of my work, here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

If you continue on the current path, there will be no healthy Kuwaitis two decades from now and no Kuwaitis whatsoever fifty years from now. Your country and media are the freest in the Arab world, which suggests that you have the tools necessary to educate and empower your people to understand the need for population control and to assume responsibility for the nation's demographic objectives.

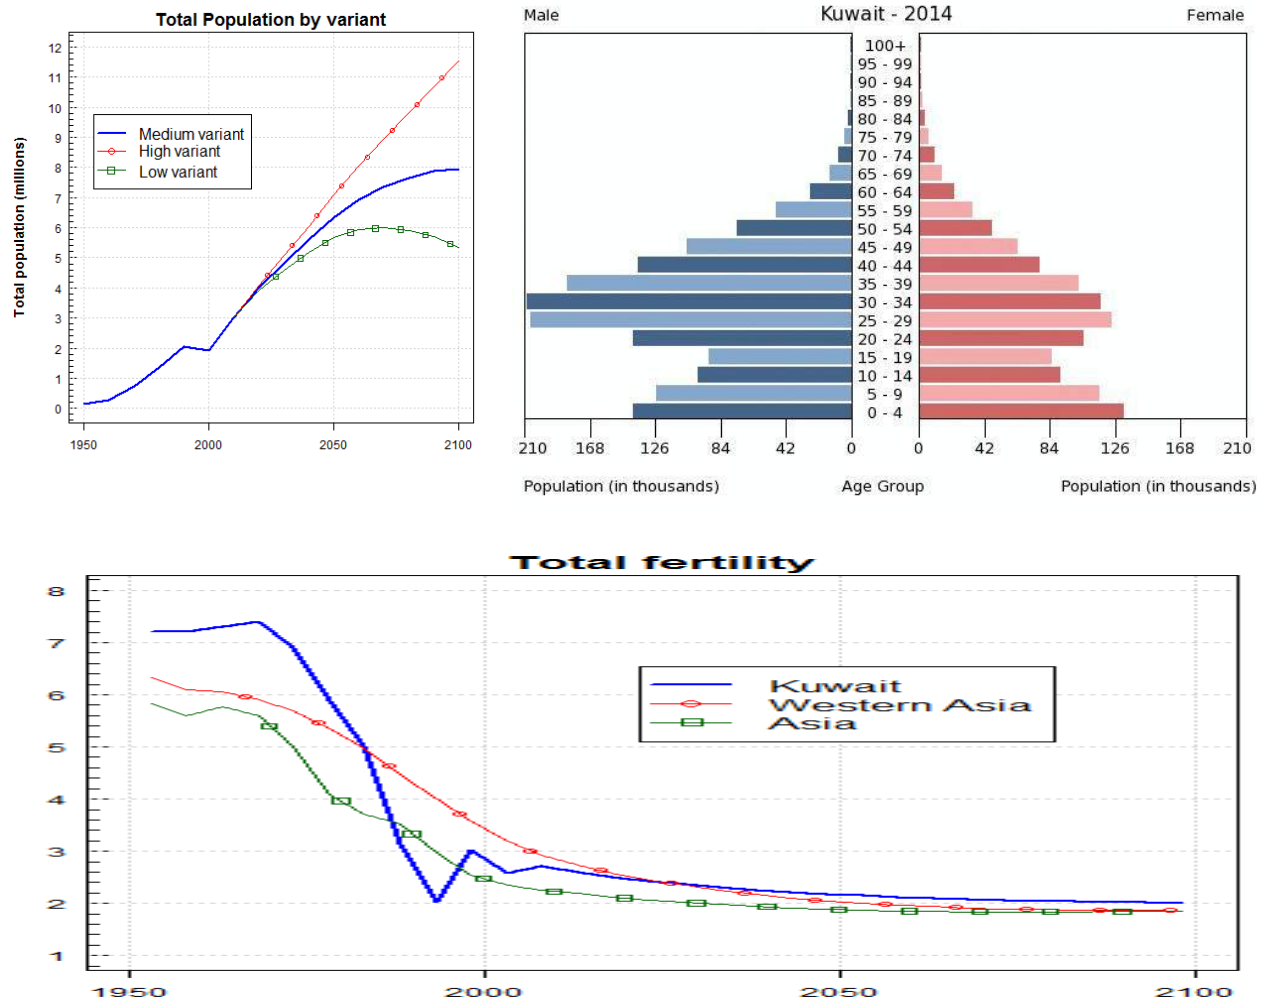

I am in the process of forging global consensus for population control legislation that applies worldwide and that no nation or person can henceforth eschew because our planet can simply not carry the existing 7 billion let alone the projected 10 to 12 billion by 2050. You can read my letters to other heads of state here: <https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>.

It is my hope that you will join me and that you will use your considerable resources to help me force the UN and its western sponsors to abandon their ongoing elite-sponsored global genocide and to empower the world's citizens to embrace population control as a Planetary Security Prerogative. The world belongs to all of us and we cannot allow a select group to eradicate our brothers and sisters across the world under the pretext of geopolitical and geostrategic objectives. It is inhumane, immoral, illegal and un-Islamic. It is also unnecessary because every rational human being will understand the necessity of population control once presented with the hard cold facts.

I look forward to meeting you in Kuwait to discuss how we can restore sanity and decency to the world. Given the urgency of the situation and the increasing frustration, anger and mistrust the people everywhere now feel towards their leaders irrespective of country and culture, I hope that you will make this a high priority and that you will see me without delay. If you ignore my warning you do so at your own peril.

Sincerely,

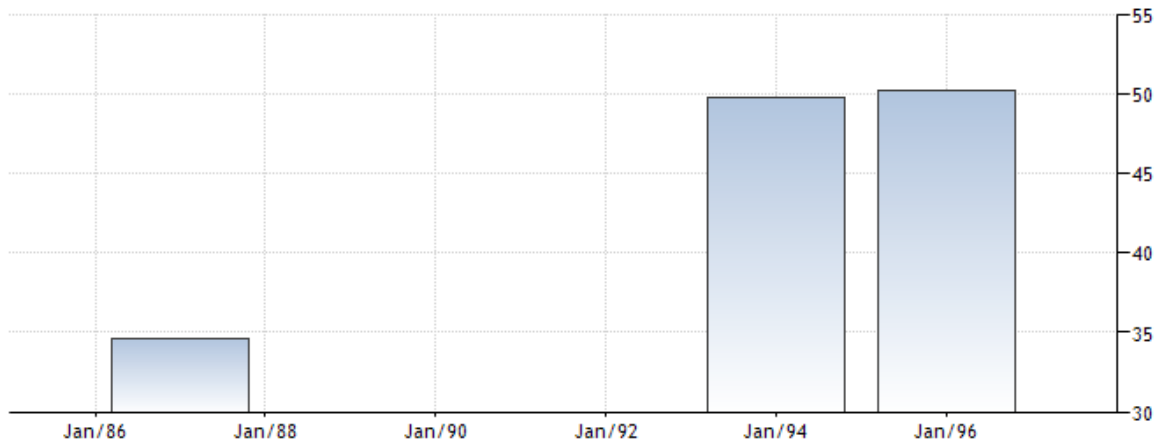

Kevin Galalae

Kuwait started its program of covert depopulation in 1970 and proceeded fast and furious bringing its total fertility rate from over 7 down to just 2 children per woman by 1993.

The man responsible for approving the covert sterilization of his people was Emir Sabah Al-Salim Al-Sabah who reigned from 1965 to 1977. The program was continued by his successor, Emir Jaber Al-Ahmad Al-Sabah (1977-2006), who relaxed the policy after 1993, when Kuwait reached replacement level fertility, and allowed the total fertility rate to rise to 3 children per woman. The current Emir, Sabah Al-Ahmad Al-Jaber Al-Sabah, who took the reign of the country in 2006, has leveled the total fertility rate at about 2.6 children per woman.

Kuwait accomplished this demographic miracle without abortions, since they are illegal, or contraceptives, since the contraceptive prevalence rate has never exceeded 52% (of which only 39% by modern methods) and was below 35% when Kuwait reached replacement level fertility in 1993.

Kuwait has been however handsomely rewarded for its sterilizing zeal with a booming per capita GDP, which began rising rapidly in 1993, the year Kuwait reached replacement level fertility.

President Atambayev and Prime Minister Otorbaev,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Kyrgyzstan joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1992, the same year it became a UN member state and its total fertility rate decreased from 4 to 2.6 children per woman today. This drop in fertility has been accomplished through sterilizing vaccines administered under the pretext of improving health care under the auspices of the ZdravReform program initiated by the U.S. Agency for International Development (US Aid) in 1993 and executed by Abt Associates Inc., an American private contractor that transfers defense-related technology and systems to civilian applications.

More recently, the covert sterilization program has morphed into the Manas Taalimi program that takes place under the Sector-Wide Approach (SWAp) led by your Ministry of Health, financed by the World Bank, the Kreditanstalt für Wiederaufbau (KfW), the Department for International Development (DfID), the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation (SDC), and the Swedish International Cooperation Agency (SIDA), with technical assistance from the World Health Organization (WHO), GAVI, UNICEF, and US Aid.

Considering that Kyrgyzstan's population grew from 2.1 million in 1959 to 5.8 million in 2013; that your country is the second poorest in Central Asia and 38% of your people live below the poverty line; that it is land-locked, and that due to its predominantly mountainous terrain less than 8% of the land is cultivated, the decision to control population growth is understandable.

I can also understand that the volatile ethnic situation, the high level of corruption and the primarily rural population makes an open population control program difficult. Nevertheless, I urge you to reconsider your approach to population control and to change from covert to overt methods.

To this end, I hope that you will join my effort to forge global consensus for a worldwide population control law that is open, transparent and ethical, derives from the global governance level and serves as a Planetary Security Prerogative.

This will enable us to save the world from genocide by replacing the existing covert, illegal and immoral methods of depopulation and the devastating structural violence they engender with individual responsibility for population control. The current methods cause terrible and irreversible damage to the genetic and intellectual endowment of humanity and force governments to violate the rule of law and pervert democracy by turning the 1% against the 99%. An overt program of population control will empower individuals to assume responsibility for replacement level fertility and use safe contraceptives of their own choosing.

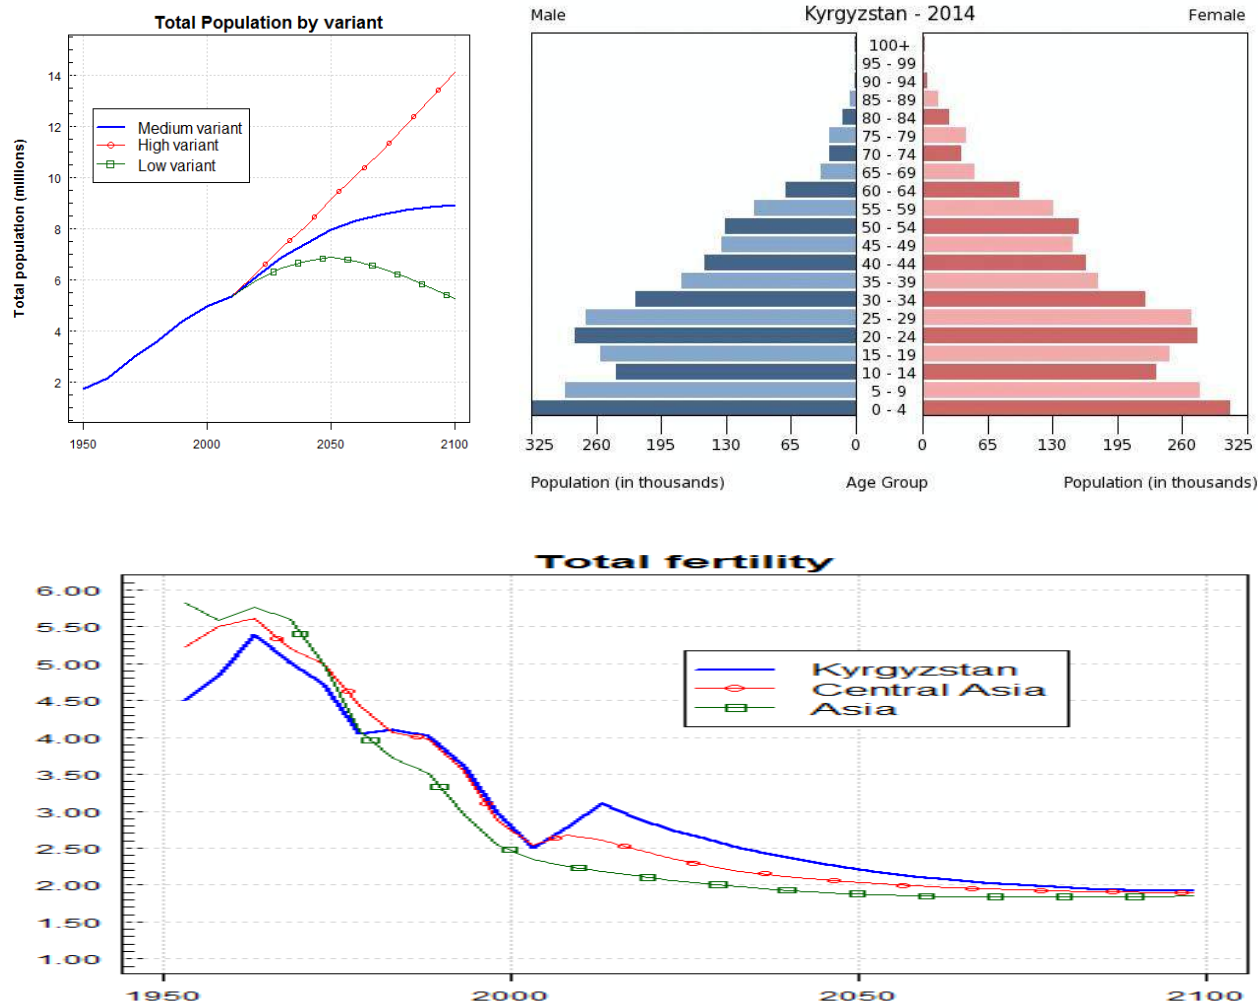

If this change does not occur soon, violence will erupt and the 1% who are responsible for this macabre plan will be annihilated by the 99% in a global purge the likes of which the world has never seen. The 1% who now drive humankind into extinction by chemical, biological, bacteriological, psychosocial and economic methods that are diabolical, perverse and obscene will be shown no mercy by the 99% unless the global genocide stops immediately, the truth is told, and the responsibility as well as the benefits of population control are shared.

You will not get another opportunity to change course, which is why I hope, for your own sake, that you will give this issue your immediate and undivided attention. To ascertain the legitimacy of my effort and warning I urge you to consult my work and to freely share it with your policy makers and public servants: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

I look forward to seeing you and I hope that you will not hesitate to reach out to me for help.

Kyrgyzstan was first subjected to population control by the Soviets from 1962 to 1977, when the country was called the Kirghiz Soviet Socialist Republic, and the total fertility rate was reduced from 5.4 to 4 children per woman. This was approved by Turabay Kulatov, Chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet from 1945 to 1978, and by Turdakun Usubaliyev, the First secretary of the Communist Party of Kirghizia from 1961 to 1985.

From 1977 to 1991 the program was put on hold by Turdakun Usubaliyev and his successor Absamat Masaliyev (1985-1991) only to be resumed immediately after independence by the first President of the Kyrgyz Republic, Askar Akayev (1991-2003), who brought the total fertility rate down from 4 to 2.5 children per woman before being ousted from office. The second President of the Kyrgyz Republic, Kurmanbek Bakiyev (2005-2010), shut down the program and fertility went up to 3 children per woman. The current President, Almazbek Atambayev, has kept fertility at 3 children per woman.

Kyrgyzstan's abortion rate was around 35% in the 1980s, 25% in the 1990s, and 15% since the beginning of the 21st century. As such, it could not account for the low fertility on its own (even in the 1980s when women aborted the most) or even in conjunction with contraceptives, whose use was highest in the late 1990s, at 60%, but has since sunk to 36% because people are being sterilized with covert chemical means since the turn of the 21st century and contraceptives are no longer needed to prevent conception.

President Sayasone and Prime Minister Thammavong,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Laos joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1991 and its total fertility rate has decreased from 6.3 to 3 children for every woman today. This rapid decline was accomplished through forced or coerced surgical sterilizations.

Despite war and genocide the population of Laos has increased from 2 million in 1950 to 6.5 million today. Since Laos' median age of 19 years is the youngest in Asia, the total fertility rate is still above replacement level, and the birth rate exceeds the death rate threefold, the population will continue to increase rapidly for decades to come.

Given that a third of Laos' people live below the international poverty line, that the country ranks as the 25th hungriest nation in the world, has a low Human Development Index, and is rapidly deforesting the land to meet its energy demands, I can understand why it needs an effective population control program.

I urge you however not to engage in covert, coerced or forced sterilizations and to instead legislate population control and empower your people to assume responsibility over their reproductive rights by providing them with cheap and safe contraceptives. The IPPF, the UNFPA, WHO, UNICEF, the World Bank and GAVI, all of whom are involved in subverting your people's reproductive rights under the pretext of improving child and maternal health, will drive you towards increasingly genocidal methods and will create an unbridgeable rift between the governing class and the people to the point where all state institutions will be turned against the people and will exist solely to wage a war of attrition on the innocent and helpless civilian population, as has happened throughout the western world and as it is gradually happening throughout the world.

Instead of allowing yourselves to be drawn into genocide, you must be honest with the Laotian people and educate them on the need for a population control law, as China has done, so that people can be empowered to take control over their own reproductive rights and you must provide them with the necessary contraceptives to be able to do so.

Since only barrier contraceptives are safe, Laos can fulfill its demographic objectives only if the people know that replacement level fertility is required of every citizen. Cheating the people of their reproductive rights and in the process also of their health is neither legal nor morally acceptable. More than anything it is not necessary since legislative means are possible and far more effective.

If you follow the road taken by the West you will undermine your people's genetic and intellectual endowment to such an extent that fifty years from now the vast majority of them will be chronically ill and enfeebled, half the population will be sterile, and a quarter mentally retarded and completely dysfunctional, as is the case throughout the western world.

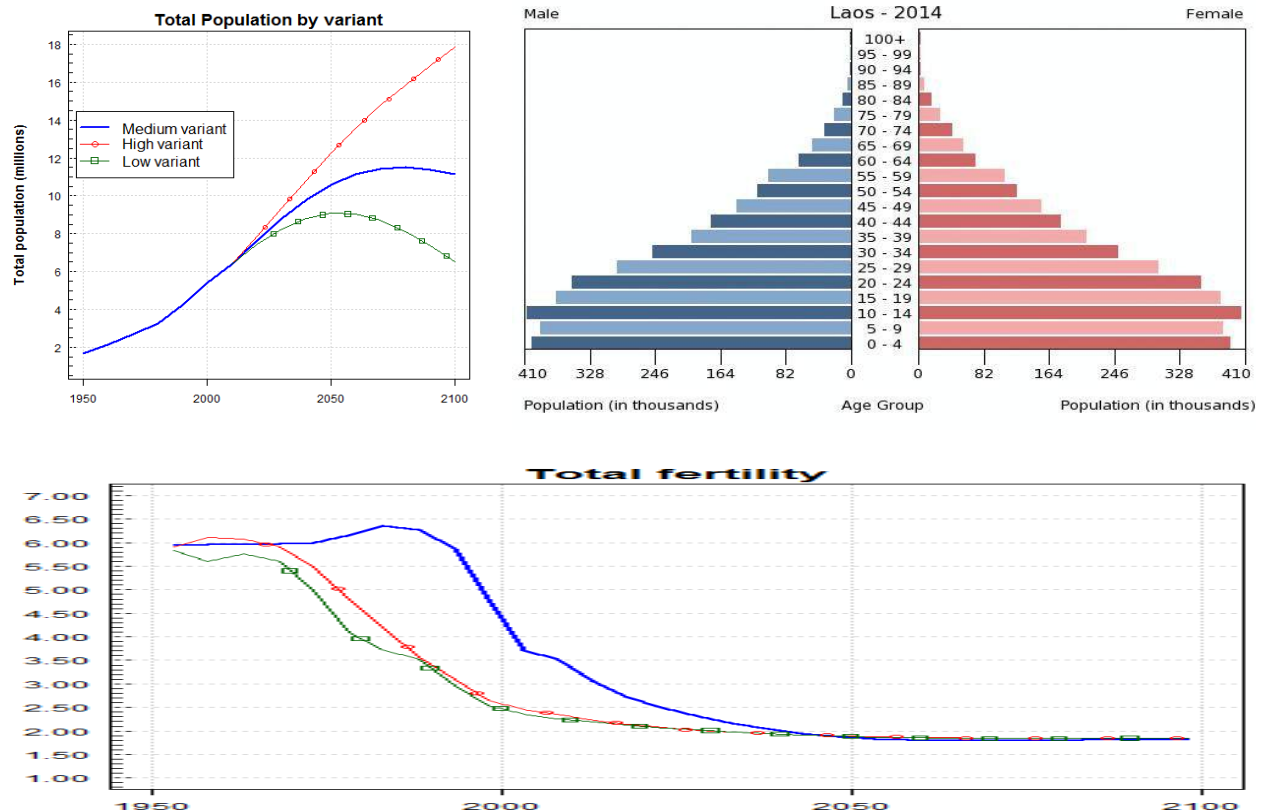

You should know that I have exposed the secret methods of depopulation employed by the UN and its western backers and without the secrecy these methods can no longer continue because they constitute genocide and violate every national and international covenant as well as the values and norms of every culture on earth.

But since population control is an absolute necessity for social and economic development as well as for the environmental health of the planet and for international peace and security, the world must henceforth pursue it through legal, open, transparent and equitable means, which is why I am in the process of forging global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide as a Global Security Prerogative. To aid me in my effort I urge you to study my work here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

Once you have done so I hope that you will exercise pressure on the UN and its bodies to abandon all covert methods of depopulation and embark upon population control by lawful means. Should you need my assistance and guidance I will travel to Laos to help you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Laos started covert depopulation measures in 1991 and therefore later than most countries in the world and has used surgical sterilization, which is a far safer method than covert chemical sterilization.

The program began with Kaysone Phomvihane (1955-1992) and has been continued by all his successors: Nouhak Phoumsavanh (1992-1998), Khamtai Siphandon (1992-2006), and the incumbent Choummaly Sayasone.

No sooner did Laos' fertility start declining in the early 1990s then its per capita GDP began rising.

Laos has just entered stage three of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF LATVIA

Andris Bērziņš
President of Latvia

Laimdota Straujuma
Prime Minister of Latvia

<http://www.mk.gov.lv/en/e-vestule>

President Bērziņš and Prime Minister Straujuma,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Latvia has been at the receiving end of Russian aggression since the 1940s when the country was occupied and ethnically diluted. By 1959 the ethnic Latvian population had fallen to 62% and the urban population was subjected to covert methods of depopulation via fluoride. The already low total fertility rate, which has been at replacement level since the 1930s, has sunk rapidly to below replacement level as soon as Latvia declared its independence from the Soviet Union in 1991 and food imports from the West started pouring into the country, at which point the population also started to decrease.

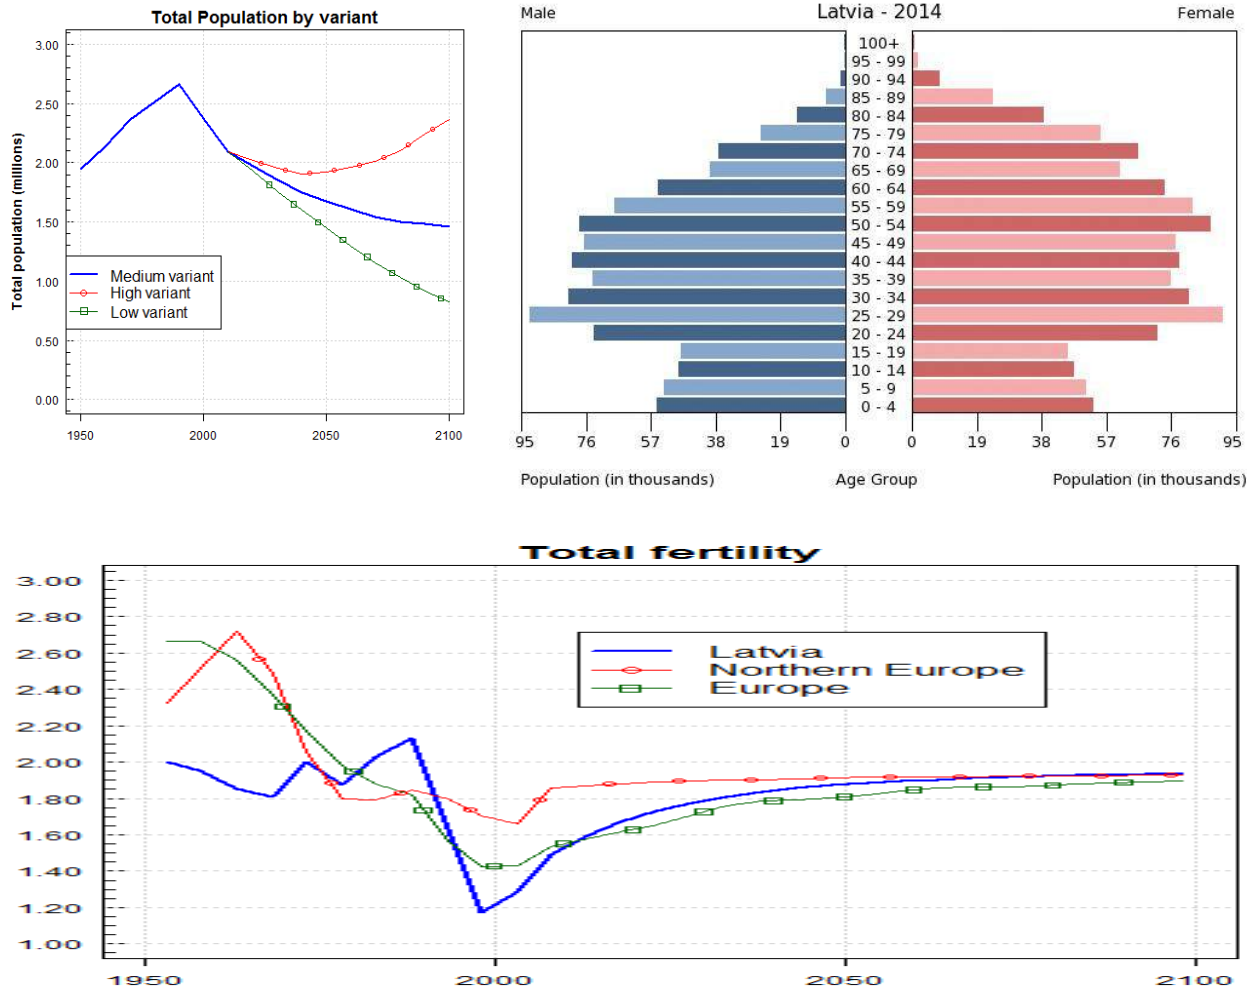

Demographically speaking Latvia is a dying country and it will continue to die unless your government protects its people from the toxic food and beverages imported from the West, which are laced with endocrine disruptors that decimate human fertility and cause morbidity and premature death.

Latvia's population density is 166th lowest in the world at 34.3/km² and the country has the 5th highest proportion of land covered by forest in the European Union and ranks second in the world on the Environmental Performance Index. There is no reason, therefore, why the Latvian population should decrease any further unless your government intends to exterminate the Latvian people with the help of the genocidal lobby that operates from the UN and is pushed towards ever greater atrocities by the US, UK and Russia, while the other two Security Council members, China and France, do their part to cover up the global genocide, which now focuses throughout the developed world on the old rather than the young.

You can continue on this path and end up in front of a firing squad, or you can save your people by helping me forge global consensus for a worldwide population control law so the poisoning of humanity can stop and sanity return. If you choose the latter I stand by to travel to Latvia and help you reestablish the rule of law and democracy.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Latvia was subjected to overt (deportations, executions, imprisonment) and covert depopulation measures as soon as the Soviets re-occupied the country in 1944 and forcibly incorporated it into the Soviet Union. Latvia had a pitiful fertility rate to begin with, no more than 2.5 children per woman, and all the Soviets needed to do is keep the Latvian people oppressed to bring the total fertility rate below replacement level, which was accomplished by 1952.

After regaining its independence in 1991, the first freely elected Prime Minister of independent Latvia, Ivars Godmanis (1991-1993, 2007-2009) began poisoning his people into sterility by the same methods as Western Europe. His successors have all followed suit and by 1998 the country reached a lowest low fertility of 1.1 children per woman and has remained far below replacement level ever since and the population has been decreasing since 1991 due to negative growth rates and not emigration.

Both Latvia's prime ministers (from Ivars Godmanis to Laimdota Straujuma) and presidents (from Guntis Ulmanis to Andris Bērziņš) are complicit in crimes against humanity. To what extent they are aware of the seriousness of the crimes they are committing is debatable but that does not make them any less culpable.

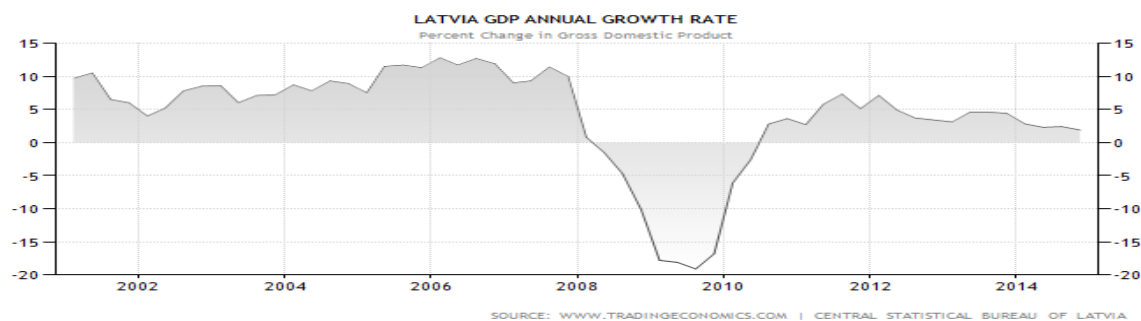

The last time Latvia reported its contraceptive prevalence rate was in 1995 and at that time it had peaked at 68% (of which 56% by modern methods). But Latvians do not need any contraceptives since the vast majority of them are subfertile or sterile. On the rare occasions when they do manage to conceive, abortion comes to the rescue. During the 1980s and 1990s, the historical record shows that more than 50% of all pregnancies ended with an abortion. During the first decade of the 21st century the abortion rate decreased to 40% and in the second decade to 25%. Thus, as conception has decreased due to covert chemical poisoning so have the abortion and contraceptive rates. The latter has decreased so much that it is too low to report.

That Latvia's total fertility rate has been below 1.4 children per woman since 1994 and its population has been decreasing since 1991, therefore, has nothing to do with contraceptive and only marginally to do with abortion. Latvia's low sub-replacement level fertility is primarily the result of covert chemical sterilization with endocrine disruptors.

Whatever economic potential Latvia could reach it has already reached.

So long as its population decreases and ages the country will get poorer from year to year, as the statistics plainly demonstrate.

Latvia is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

Prime Minister Salam,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Lebanon joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1962, but population control did not take off until 1969 when the Lebanese Family Planning Association (LFPA) was established. Since the 1960s, Lebanon's total fertility rate decreased from 5.7 children per woman to 1.8.

In 1983, to enable the use of contraceptives, Lebanon changed its anti-contraception law of 1920, and also allocated funds for family planning services, including sterilization. However, by then women already had two children fewer than in 1965. Therefore, the steep decline in fertility cannot be explained by the use of contraceptives, since the contraceptive prevalence rate is rather low in Lebanon even today (37% in 1996, 58% in 2002) and it was no more than 10% in the 1980s. And in 1984, the government created the National Population Council to oversee the engineered depopulation effort.

Since neither water nor salt fluoridation have ever been in use in Lebanon one can only conclude that the fertility decline from 1965 to 1985 was achieved through involuntary sterilizations both surgical and chemical. From 1985 until today, the fertility decline is the result of a combination of covert methods of depopulation: fluoride supplements (Zymafluor), adulterated vaccines (most likely the meningococcal vaccines MCV and MCV2, which is why nearly 80% of the population is vaccinated), BPA ingestion from water and other beverages bottled in plastic bottles as well as from BPA-lined water pipes, fluoride veneers administered free of cost by mobile dental clinics as well as stationary dentists, and involuntary or coerced surgical sterilizations.

In 1997, the Lebanese government initiated the National Reproductive Health Program in conjunction with the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) to bring the total fertility rate below replacement level and achieved this goal in 2005.

Having reached below replacement level fertility, the government of Lebanon wants to introduce mandatory salt fluoridation at the end of 2014 by dint of law (Law 178 dated 2011) to subvert its people's reproductive rights without their knowledge and consent in perpetuity while also passing the cost of sterilization onto the people.

Prime Minister Salam, you are poisoning your people and are committing genocide. Yes, Lebanon must maintain replacement level fertility, since that is a global responsibility and a precondition for maintaining international peace and eventually reaching sustainability, but not by illegal, immoral and genocidal means. Since I have exposed the genocidal methods of depopulation devised by the Allied Powers and universalized by the United Nations, the era of covert depopulation has come to an end and the sooner you realize this the more likely you are to survive the rage of the mob.

I therefore urge you to take this opportunity that I am providing you with and change course before it is too late. You will find all the information you need to educate your people in my freely and publicly available work:

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCZf9rWLgwzGW34EITo0x7fA>

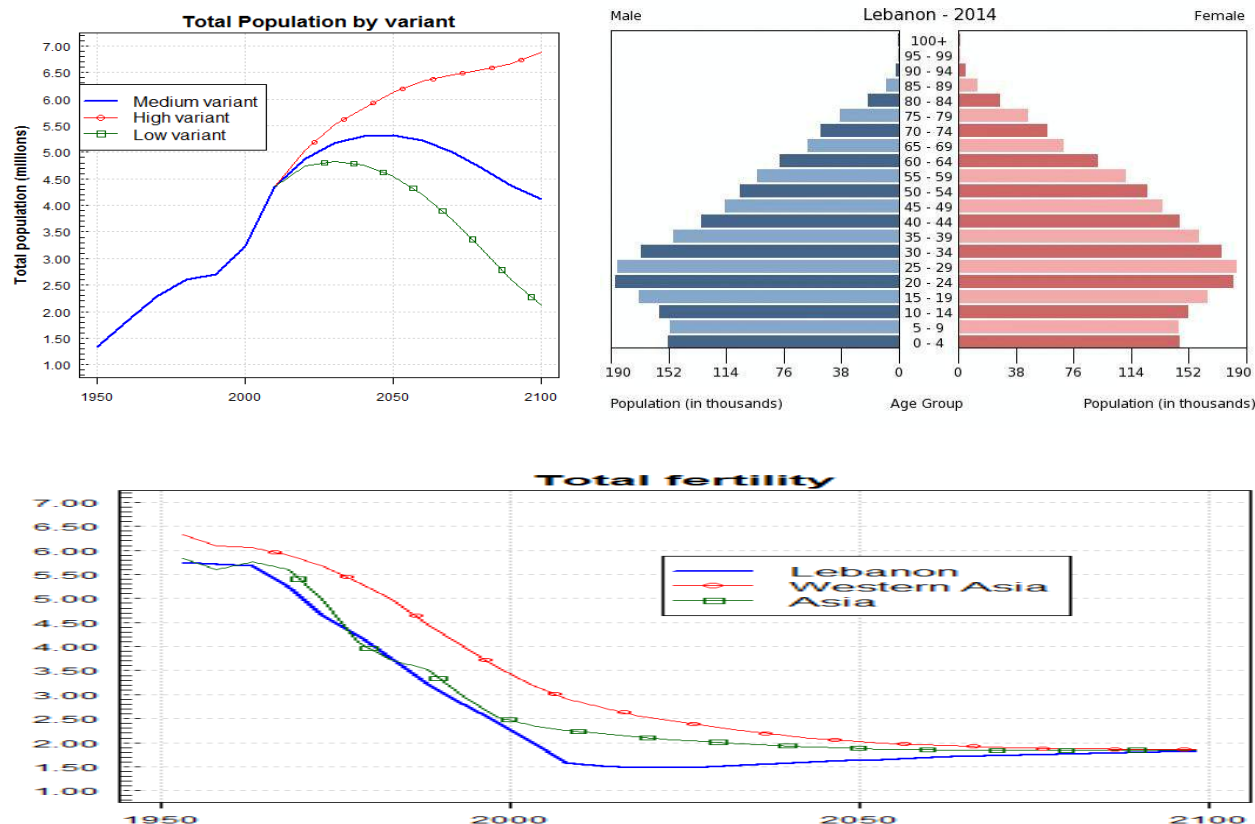

If you change course now, and legislate population control at home while also assisting me through Lebanon's permanent mission at the UN to make replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative that is pursued globally and openly and fairly, you will find a friend in me.

If you however ignore this letter and pin your hopes on the strength of the existing genocidal system and the support of your partners in crime around the world, then no one, not even I, will be able to save you from lifelong imprisonment...if you are lucky.

Do the right thing and I will travel to Lebanon to assist you and the Lebanese people in any way I can.

Sincerely,

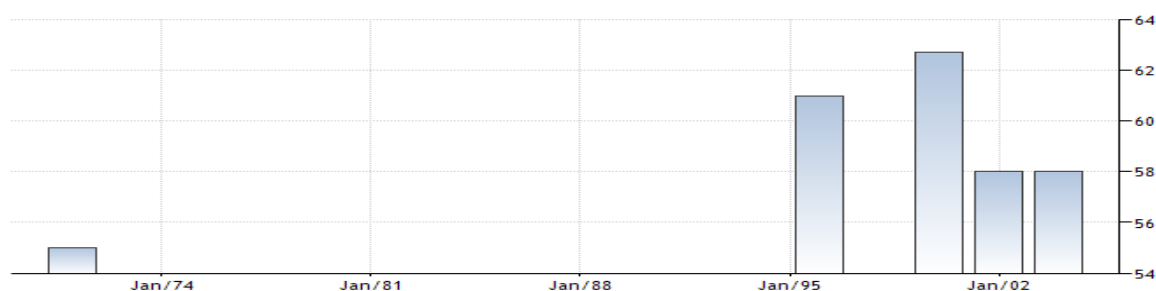

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

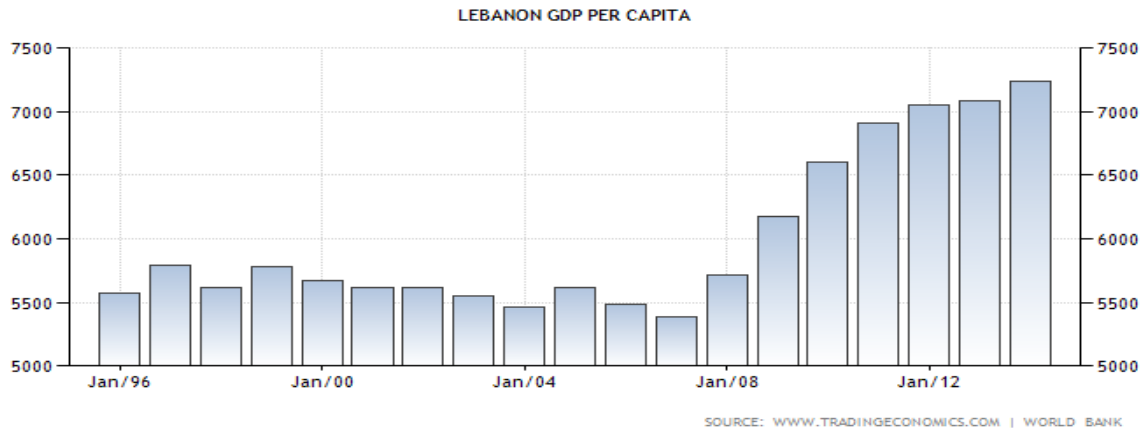

Lebanon has pursued a steady policy of covert population control since 1962 and by 2003 succeeded in bringing the total fertility rate down from nearly 6 to just 2 children per woman. Since 2007, the total fertility rate has been languishing at 1.5 children per woman.

Every president of the Lebanese Republic, from Fuad Chehab to the incumbent Tammam Salam, and every prime minister from Rashid Karami to Najib Mikati, has been poisoning the Lebanese people with abandon.

The data shows unequivocally that the drop in fertility cannot be attributed either to contraceptives or abortions. The contraceptive prevalence rate has never exceeded 63% and has been at 58% (of which only 34% by modern methods) since 2000, while abortion is illegal and allowed only on the rare occasions when it is necessary to save the life of the woman.

Lebanon has been rewarded for its sterilizing zeal with a booming GDP, which started rising soon after replacement level fertility was reached in 2003.

King Letsie III and Prime Minister Thabane,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Lesotho became a UN member state as soon as it won its independence from Britain in 1966 and joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1975. As a result, the total fertility rate has declined from 6 children per woman prior to 1975 to 3.3 today. This decline has been accomplished primarily through sterilizing vaccines.

Considering that 40% of Lesotho's people live below the international poverty line and that the population has grown from 800,000 in 1950 to 2.2 million today, a nearly threefold increase, Lesotho had to adopt population control measures sooner or later. The time has also come to bring the depopulation program out in the open worldwide and shift from covert, illegal and unhealthy methods of depopulation to overt, legal and safe methods. Why this is necessary and how it can be accomplished I describe in my just published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance.

The current international system is killing us and sickening our children. It is also forcing freely elected governments to commit genocide. This is not a sound foundation for lasting peace. A sound foundation for lasting peace is replacement level fertility enshrined in international law as a Planetary Security Prerogative so that every man and woman on earth knows what is expected of them and why and can exercise control of their own reproductive system by a method of their own choosing.

I urge you to instruct Lesotho's ambassador to the UN, Mr. Percy M. Mangoaela, to call for immediate reform of the international system and the abandonment of genocide. I urge you to also begin educating your people so they understand the facts and can face the reality armed with knowledge. You will find all the information you need to educate your people in my freely available work, which I encourage you to disseminate at will through Lesotho's media and the education system:

The man responsible for initiating covert depopulation measures in Lesotho was the second Prime Minister of Lesotho, Leabua Jonathan (1965-1986). From 1975 until the end of his term in 1986, Lesotho's total fertility rate dropped from 5.8 to 5.4 children per woman, a drop that was undoubtedly achieved through better education and provision of family planning services, though not necessarily through greater use of contraceptives since Lesotho's contraceptive prevalence rate during the seventies and eighties was a paltry 7%.

Jonathan's leadership was terminated by a military coup led by Major General Justin Metsing Lekhanya who then ruled the country until 1986 as Chairman of the Military Council and Council of Ministers of Lesotho. He was replaced by Major-General Elias Phisoana Ramaema who remained in office until 1993. Between 1986 and 1993, the total fertility rate dropped from 5.4 to 4.7 children per woman, as the contraceptive prevalence rate rose to 22%.

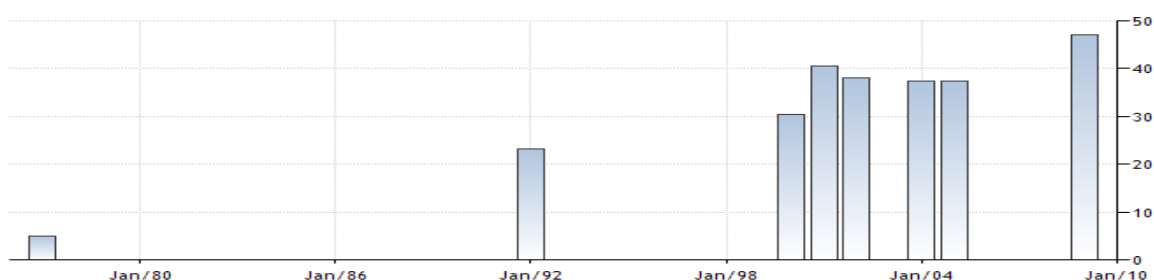

Between 1993 and 1998 the leadership of the country passed into the hands of Ntsu Mokhehle and the total fertility rate declined modestly to 4.5 children per woman.

In 1998, Pakalitha Mosisili became Prime Minister of Lesotho and remained in office until 2012, time during which the country's total fertility rate declined from 4.5 to 3.1 children per woman even though the contraceptive prevalence rate was below 40% and this drop in fertility can only be explained by the use of involuntary methods of birth control.

The use of involuntary method of birth control, namely sterilizing vaccines, came in effect after the 1994 United Nations-sponsored International Conference on Population and Development. By 2004, Lesotho under Prime Minister Mosisili had also formulated a population policy whose aim was to achieve replacement-level fertility by 2011; a goal it has missed.

The current Prime Minister, Tom Thabane (in office since June 2012) appears to have put the program on hold. To date the following practices are employed: vasectomy and female sterilization, combined and progestin-only pills, injectables, IUDs, spermicides, diaphragms, cervical caps, condoms, female condoms and implants. Injectables, condoms, and either combined or progestin-only pills are the most common contraceptives used.

Lesotho's contraceptive prevalence rate, which has never exceeded 48%, has never been a factor in the country's drop in fertility from nearly 6 to 2.8 children per woman to date. Nor has the abortion rate been a factor since abortions are illegal and performed very rarely and only to save a woman's life.

Lesotho has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing GDP, which began to rise as soon as fertility had dropped substantially by the early 1990s.

Lesotho is in stage three of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF LIBERIA

20 September 2014

Ellen Johnson Sirleaf
President of Liberia, info@emansion.gov.lr

President Sirleaf,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

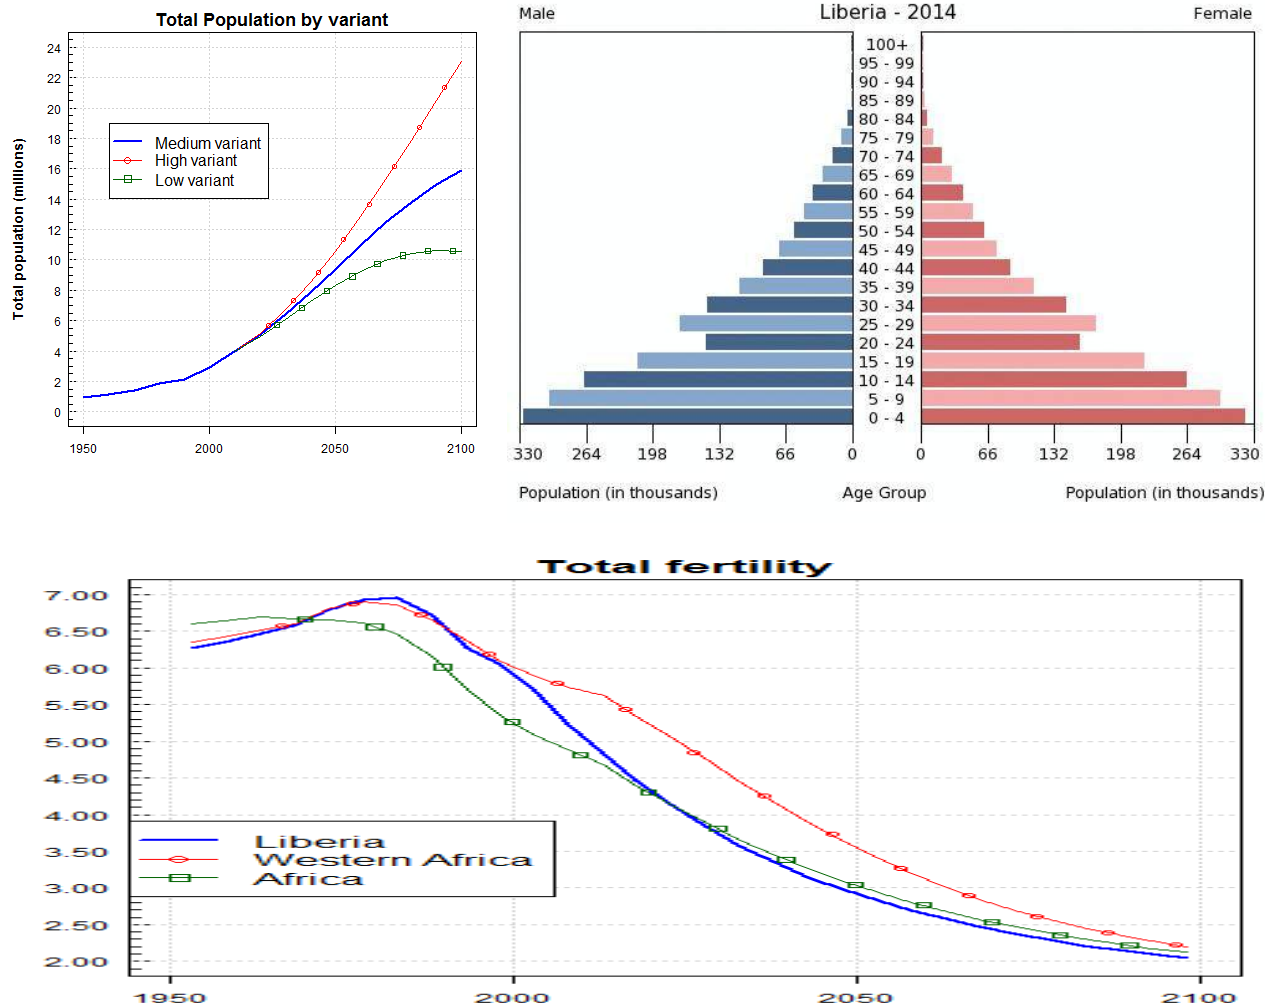

It is no coincidence that the Ebola outbreak started in Guinea and Liberia, Guinea having among the highest malnutrition rates in the world at 40% and Liberia the highest population growth rate in the world at 4.5% a year. It is no coincidence that this is the first Ebola outbreak in West Africa. It is no coincidence that the U.S. Department of Defense has funded companies that are developing drug therapies for Ebola and an Ebola vaccine. And it is no coincidence that your government aided the spread of the virus. All of the above have been intentional and planned and you are part of this plan. Your part has been to allow the international community to infect your people with this strain of Ebola.

You agreed because Liberia is one of the world's poorest countries and Sub-Saharan Africa is largely ungovernable and thus instead of allowing the problem to grow even larger the time had come to stop the misery with misery. You agreed because you know from personal experience what abject poverty feels like and that without stopping Africa's rapid population growth the continent will only sink into deeper poverty and more brutal conflicts. You agreed because bitter medicine is what Africa needs and because the pressure from abroad has been great and the international community, which has groomed you since the late 1960s and has made you who you are, had come to collect its loans and cash in on its investments. You agreed because that was the price you had to pay for the forgiveness of your country's five billion dollar debt. You agreed because your career and success and mentality are owed to the Kennedy School of Government, where you studied; to the World Bank, where you were molded; to the Citibank, where you were rewarded; and to the United Nations Development Programme, where you were inducted into the inner circle of the depopulation lobby. You agreed because the dozen honorary degrees you were given by western universities, the accolades you were showered with by the western media, and the Nobel Peace Prize you were awarded were advance payments for services yet to be rendered. You agreed because Liberia is utterly dependent on foreign aid to survive the next day. You agreed because the Liberian military is bought and paid for by the United States, where most of the covert depopulation methods employed across the world since 1945 are pioneered and pushed from.

You can continue on this criminal path and fall along with the genocidal lobby or you can help me forge global consensus for worldwide legislation for population control so that no future leader will be in a situation so desperate that he or she will have no choice but to approve of genocide, this being the lesser of two evils.

Sincerely,

The international community has been chipping away at Liberia's total fertility rate since 1990, when Charles Taylor (1997-2003), with help from the CIA, overthrew President Samuel Doe (1980-1990) and until 1997 threw the country in a state of disarray. But Taylor proved to be uncontrollable and after years of grooming, the international community placed Ellen Johnson Sirleaf in the presidential office in 2006.

Due to lack of medical infrastructure after years of civil war, which prevented an effective depopulation program, the international community spread the Ebola virus in 2014 to sow fear of a pandemic and loosen billions in aid from wealthy nations as well as create a state of quarantine in Liberia that would allow the depopulation lobby to sterilize all Liberians of reproductive age with adulterated vaccines administered under the pretext of stopping the Ebola pandemic.

From 1990 until 2014, Liberia's total fertility rate decreased from 6.7 to 4.7 children per woman, despite virtually no contraceptive use.

Five years from now, Liberia's total fertility rate will be close to replacement level due to the intensive program of sterilization that is currently taking place.

Liberia is in stage two of the demographic transition.

Abdullah al-Thani

President Issa and Prime Minister al-Thani,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Libya joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1980 and its total fertility rate declined from almost 8 to an estimated 2.1 children per woman as of 2014.

Since the contraceptive prevalence rate is currently 45%, but was only 26% in 2004, the government offers no official support for reproductive health and family planning, and abortion is illegal and allowed only to save the life of the mother, Libya's decline in fertility cannot be attributed either to state-sponsored family planning services or to personal contraceptive use. And since Libya fluoridates neither its water nor its salt, and has no national dental health program that could regularly poison the people into infertility through periodic fluoride veneer applications, one can only conclude that the nation's mysterious decline in fertility is the result of imported food and beverages laced with endocrine disruptors since Libya imports 90% of its cereal consumption requirements and much of its food in general. Since bread is Libya's staple food and is so heavily subsidized by the government that it costs only 2 cents per loaf, it is almost certain that the people of Libya are being sterilized through bread baked with wheat that is either laced with fluoride or another sterilizing toxin or is made with sterilizing GMOs.

Considering that Libya's population increased from 1.5 million in 1964 to 5.6 million in 2012, an almost fourfold increase in just fifty years, and that more than 90% of the country's landmass is desert and therefore useless for food production, which is why Libya imports most of its food, one can understand why the Libyan government tacitly agreed to allow the international community to poison its people to replacement level fertility.

Since the 2011 ousting of President Gaddafi by American military forces Libya has been in disarray and has yet to build a functional government. But once Libya has a functional government it must stop cooperating with the UN and its western sponsors in global genocide and legislate replacement level fertility. Until such time, I encourage you to direct Ambassador Dabbashi to commit Libya to a vote in favor of replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative enshrined in international law and to initiate such a vote in the General Assembly.

You should be aware that I am asking all other heads of state and government to initiate the same change from covert to overt population control before law and order break down throughout the world because the people cannot possibly tolerate governments that poison us and our children into sterility, chronic illness, imbecility and ultimately extinction. You will find my appeals to your counterparts around the world here:

<https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>

I also take this opportunity to encourage you to begin educating yourselves and your people of what is at stake and how we all need to act if we are to escape this international system that justifies genocide and threatens the very survival of the species. To this end, I am giving you free access and unrestricted use of my work:

The man responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation to Libya in 1980 is none other than Muammar Gaddafi (1969-2011). By the time he was deposed and killed by rebel forces in October 2011, he had succeeded in lowering Libya's total fertility rate from almost 8 to 2.5 children per woman.

The program of covert depopulation has stalled after Gaddafi's death, as the country is yet to find political stability and keep its elected officials in office long enough to pursue any policies. The 2014 statistics, however, indicate Libya's total fertility rate at 2.1, which means that the program has been reactivated and intensified.

Since Libya's contraceptive prevalence rate was never higher than 45%, and abortion is illegal and allowed only to save the life of the woman, its extraordinary drop in fertility could only have been accomplished through covert and involuntary methods of population control.

Libya is in the third stage of the demographic transition.

Prince Hans-Adam II and Prime Minister Hasler,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Liechtenstein joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1960 at the same time as Switzerland and Austria, as a result of being landlocked by them and therefore sharing the same food system as well as the same dental care methods; food and dentistry being the delivery vehicles of endocrine disruptors into the bloodstreams of their citizens in order to subvert their fertility. As a result, Liechtenstein has followed a nearly identical demographic transition pathway as Switzerland and Austria, as their population pyramids clearly show.

I do not question the need for population control or it being the most elegant and civilized way to maintain international peace, avoid resource scarcity and prevent environmental destruction and social collapse. What I do question are the methods, as I am sure your government does too.

The methods are questionable because they destroy human health and downgrade the genetic and intellectual endowment of the human species when used over multiple generations. The time has come to stop these covert methods and replace them with overt methods that are safe and fair. How to do this and why I describe in my recently published book, The Future of Global Governance.

Failing to do so will terminate the vast majority of your people's genetic lines. With an average of just 1.5 children per woman, Liechtenstein's native people are disappearing. Already one-third of the population is foreign-born to offset the decreasing native population.

Your country has attained unparalleled wealth but there is no one in the family to inherit it because Liechtenstein's families are like the withered branches of a dying tree. If you continue in this fashion you will witness the collapse of this dying tree. If you change course you will witness its rebirth.

If you want to be responsible for life, then I urge you to use my work and educate your people about the need for population control so they can assume responsibility. My work is freely available online and I expect no rewards for it:

Liechtenstein's monarch, Franz Joseph II, Prince of Liechtenstein from 1938 to 1989, was responsible for approving the use of covert methods of population control in his tiny principality in 1960. During his reign, the people's crude birth rate decreased from 23 children per 1000 people in 1960 to 13 in 1989, a 43% decrease.

His son, Hans-Adam II, Prince of Liechtenstein since 1989, has continued where his father left off and during his reign so far the crude birth rate has declined from 13 to 10, a 23% decrease. Liechtenstein's total fertility rate is now a paltry 1.5 children per woman. This means that Liechtenstein's leadership has chosen the low variant demographic transition, thus the most aggressive pathway to depopulation.

The country's contraceptive prevalence rate is being kept secret in order to mask the use of covert methods of depopulation. And abortion is illegal except in cases of serious danger to the woman's life or health.

Liechtenstein has been rewarded with growing affluence since the time it reached replacement level fertility in the early 1980s.

Liechtenstein is in stage four of the demographic transition and will enter stage five within the next five years.

President Grybauskaitė and Prime Minister Butkevičius,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Lithuania was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy in 1949 by the Soviets after having lost a third of its people during the Second World War and the succeeding decade when massive deportations to Siberia took place. Your country reached below replacement level fertility in 1989 and the population began decreasing in 1994.

Western food imports adulterated with endocrine disruptors and NATO chemtrails laden with neurotoxins have sped up the country's depopulation from both ends of life, by preventing births and promoting death, as soon as Lithuania applied for EU and NATO membership in 1994. That the depopulation methods imposed by the West are far more drastic than those imposed by Russia is made evident by the more rapid population decrease throughout the Baltic region compared to Russia since the Baltic nations and Russia parted ways in 1992.

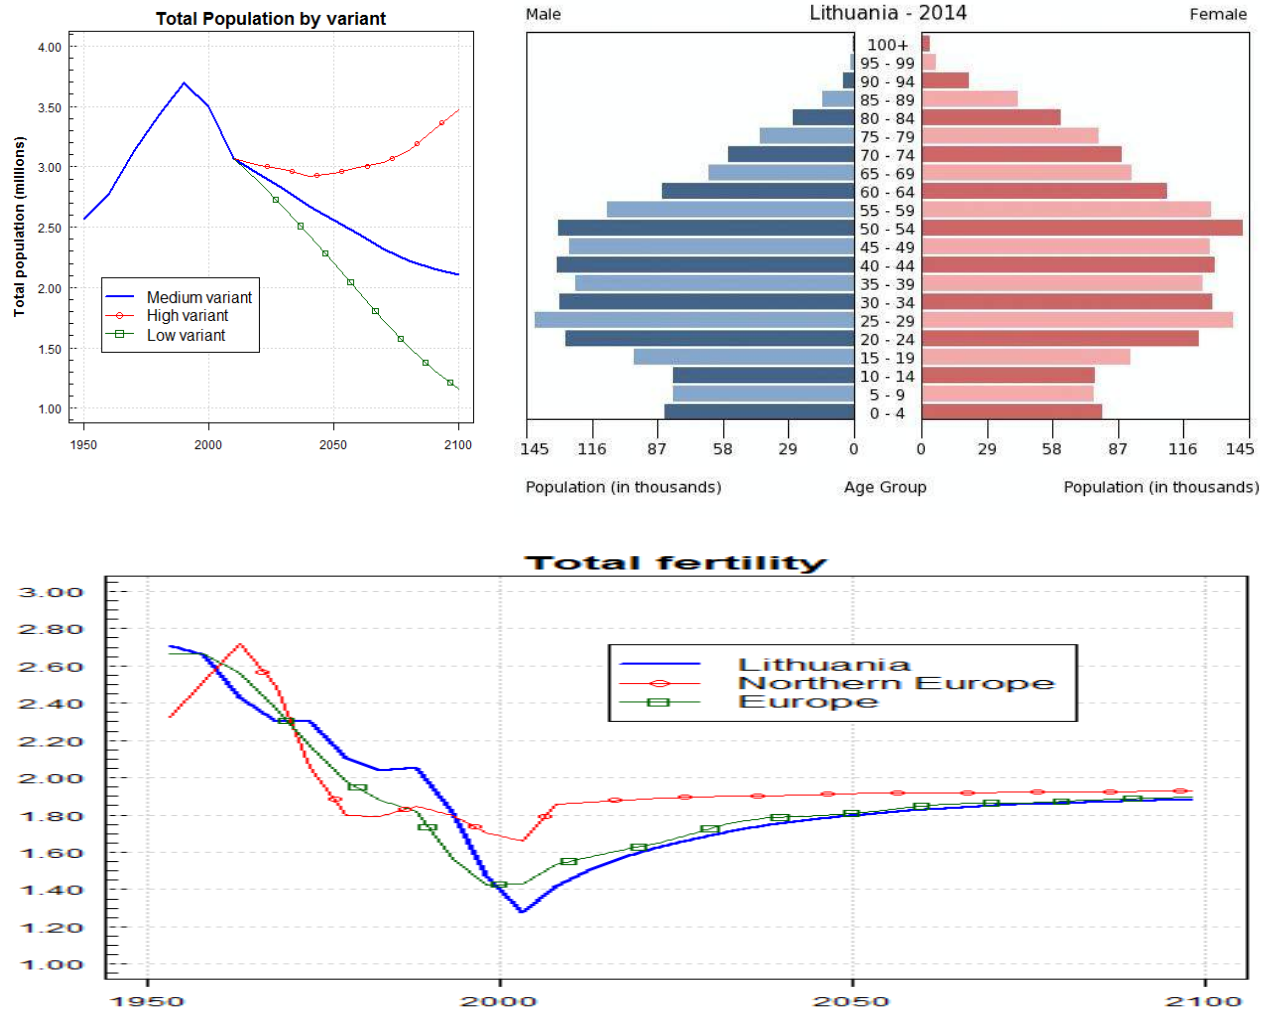

You can continue on this path and drive your people to extinction, or you can join me in forging global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide and restricts family size to two children. If you stay the course you will end up in front of a firing squad. If you join me you will be hailed as global heroes. The choice is yours to make, but labor not under the delusion that you will not be called upon to atone for your crimes if you do not change course. As a member of the UN Security Council since 2013 you are now directly responsible for the crimes committed worldwide and not just in Lithuania by this international order based on genocide.

I stand by to fly to Lithuania and set you on the right course.

Sincerely,

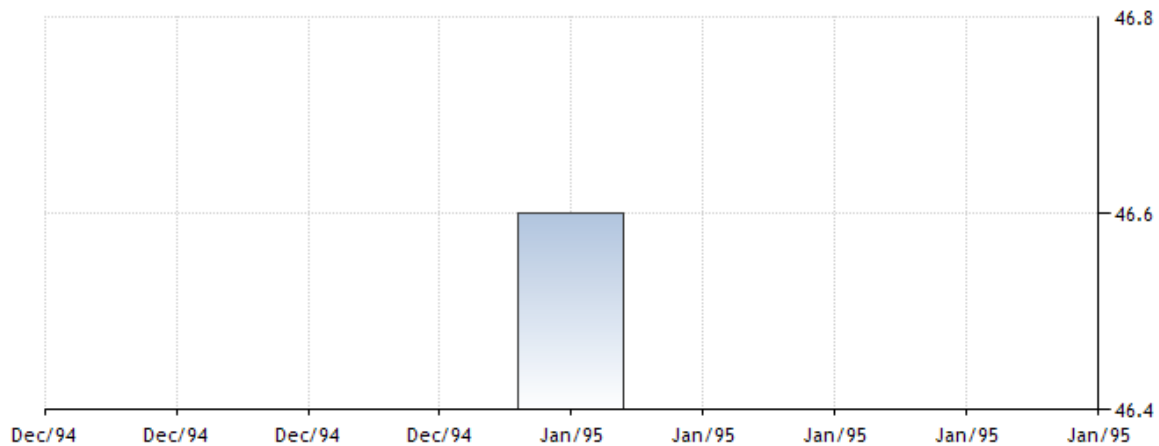

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

The Soviet occupiers are responsible for introducing both overt and covert methods of depopulation to Lithuania in 1949. By the time Lithuania gained its independence in 1990, its total fertility rate had been depressed from 3 to 2 children per woman. It had reached replacement level fertility in 1978 and the population was engineered to hover there with mathematical precision.

The blame for covert population control after 1990 shifts from the Soviet to the Lithuanian leaders, who managed to depress fertility to a lowest low of 1.2 children per woman by 2002 and who have been poisoning their own people with such abandon as to keep the total fertility rate under 1.5 children per woman until 2011. It is currently at 1.6 children per woman.

That Lithuania's disastrously low total fertility rate has nothing to do with the use of contraceptives is amply demonstrated by the country's contraceptive prevalence rate, which was never higher than 46%.

The historical record shows that abortion did play an important role during the 1960s and 1970s when 45% of all pregnancies ended in abortion as well as during the 1980s and 1990s when 40% of all pregnancies ended in abortion. Since the beginning of the 21st century, as endocrine disruptors began to wreak havoc on fertility, abortion has sunk to 15%.

The people responsible for the poisoning of the Lithuanian people since 1990 are: Chairman of the Supreme Council of Lithuania Vytautas Landsbergis (1990-1992), President Algirdas Brazauskas (1993-1998, and Prime Minister from 2001-2006), President Valdas Adamkus (1998-2003, 2004-2009), and incumbent President Dalia Grybauskaitė (since 2009).

Duke Henry and Prime Minister Bettel,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Statistics indicate that Luxembourg has been practicing population control since 1908, which makes it the first country in Europe to interfere with human fertility. As a result, the crude birth rate per 1000 people decreased from 30 in 1908 to a paltry 11 to date, which means that the current total fertility rate is 1.5 and therefore far below replacement level. Luxembourg has had a negative growth rate since 1969.

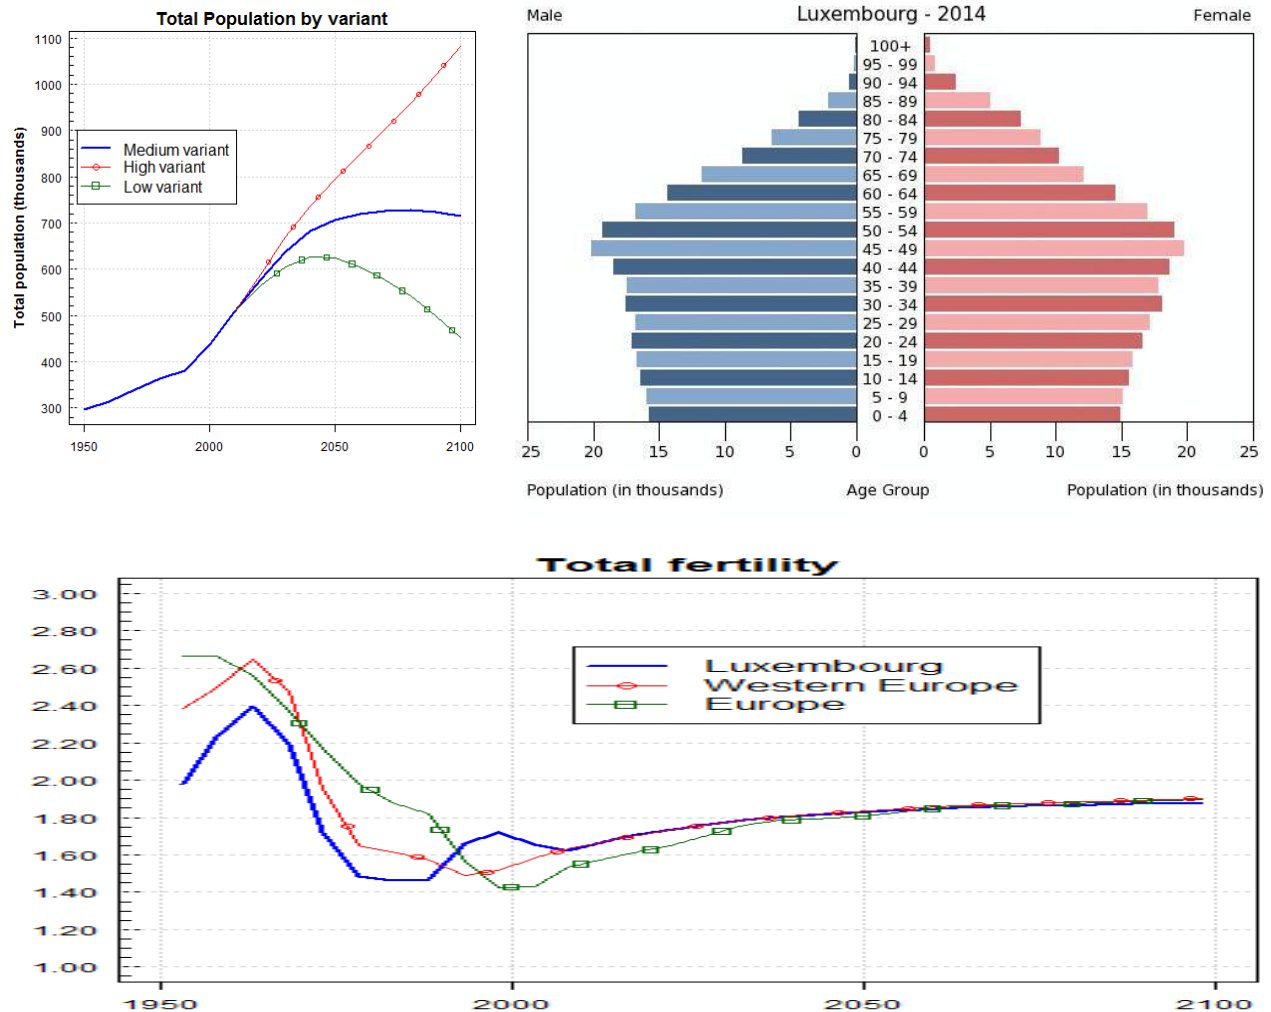

The reproductive discipline imposed on Luxembourgers since 1908 is undoubtedly the secret of your country's wealth, which currently ranks first in the world by per capita income. But it is also the reason why Luxembourg has produced no people of note in the past century.

You can continue to commit genocide until no one in your country will be able to spell his or her name or you can help me forge global consensus for legislating replacement level fertility worldwide as a Planetary Security Prerogative. My just published book, The Future of Global Governance, will help you understand what we need to do if we are to survive into the future.

The depopulation and globalization prerogatives have served as the basis of international peace since 1945 and the rationale is sound, but the methods are not and will lead to social and economic collapse if continued. That is why I urge you to instruct your ambassador to the UN, Ms. Sylvie Lucas, to add your country's voice to those who demand reform of the international system so we can abandon genocide, achieve sustainability and survive without compromising our humanity.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Population control after World War II began in Luxembourg in 1962 and marks the beginning of Luxembourg's second engineered demographic transition. By 1969, the total fertility rate decreased from an already dismal total fertility rate of 2.4 to 2 children per woman, reached a lowest low of 1.4 in 1985 and has hovered at around 1.6 from 1990 until today.

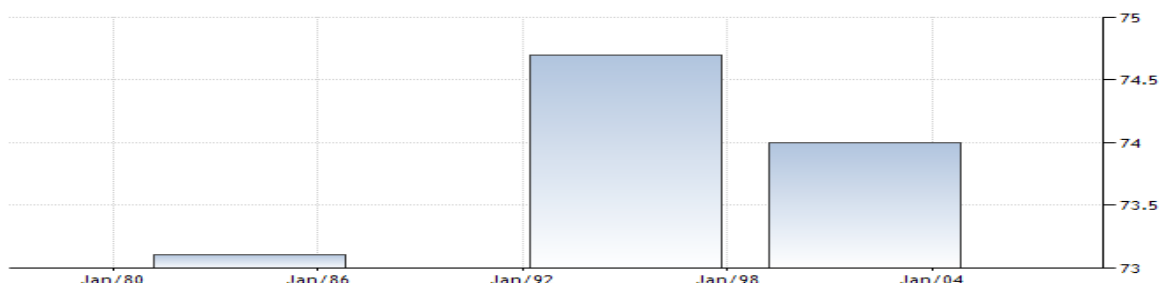

Because Luxembourg has been poisoning its people since the beginning of the 20th century, half the native genetic lineages have been extinguished and replaced with foreign stock, which is why 45% of all Luxembourgers are foreign nationals.

Responsible for re-introducing covert depopulation measures to Luxembourg in 1962 is Charlotte, Grand Duchess of Luxembourg from 1919 to 1964, who, incidentally, had six children while the general population could barely muster three. She was succeeded by Jean, Grand Duke of Luxembourg from 1962 to 2000, who, incidentally, had five children while the general population could barely muster two. He was succeeded by Henri, Grand Duke of Luxembourg since 2000, who, incidentally, has five children while the general native population cannot even muster one.

Luxembourg's nobility has been aided in the genocide by the following prime ministers: Pierre Werner (1959-1974, 1979-1984, he also attended the Bretton Woods conference that set up the International Monetary Fund), Gaston Thorn (1979-1984, also President of the United Nations General Assembly in 1975, and President of the European Commission 1981-1985), Jacques Santer (1995-1999, also President of the European Commission from 1995-1999), Jean-Claude Juncker (1995-2013, also the current President of the European Commission since March 2014).

That Luxembourg's sub-replacement level fertility has little or nothing to do with the way people use contraceptives is amply demonstrated by Luxembourg's contraceptive prevalence rate which was never higher than 74%, as the graph below shows.

Nor has it anything to do with the country's abortion rate, which has never been higher than 0.85% (in 1971), as Luxembourg's historical abortions statistics clearly show.

Luxembourg has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing per capita GDP, which began to rise as soon as replacement level fertility was reached in 1969.

Luxembourg has reached the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition in the 1980s but masks this fact through heavy immigration.

As a successor state of the former Yugoslavia, which was a UN founding state, Macedonia has been part of the Global Depopulation Policy since 1950. As a result, its total fertility rate declined from 5 children per woman prior to 1950 to just 1.4 today. As with the rest of Eastern Europe, the total fertility rate did not drop below replacement level until the Iron Curtain fell and adulterated western food and beverages began poisoning the people into infertility.

If you continue to commit genocide your country will disintegrate into civil war and you will spend the rest of your remaining days behind bars. While the poisoning of the Macedonian people to low fertility from 1950 to 1980, thus prior to Macedonia's independence in 1991, can be blamed on Marshal Tito, since at that time Macedonia was a constituent republic in the Yugoslav Federation, their poisoning since 1991 can only be blamed on Macedonia's freely elected leaders.

Marshal Tito managed to lower Macedonia's total fertility rate from 4.5 to 2.5 children per woman, where it remained until independence in 1991. Since then, Macedonia's leaders have brought it down to replacement level by 1996 and to a lowest low of 1.4 by 2005, where it remains to this day.

The people responsible for the sterilization of the Macedonian people since 1991 are: presidents Kiro Gligorov (1991-1999), Boris Trajkovski (1999-2004), Branko Crvenkovski (2004-2009), and the incumbent Gjorge Ivanov (since 2009), as well as the following prime ministers; Nikola Kljusev (1991-1992), Branko Crvenkovski (1992-1998, 2002-2004), Ljubčo Georgievski (1998-2002), Vlado Bučkovski (2004-2006), and the incumbent Nikola Gruevski (since 2006).

The fact that Macedonia's low fertility has absolutely nothing to do with the way Macedonians use contraceptives is amply demonstrated by the country's contraceptive prevalence rate, which has never exceeded a measly 13%.

The historical record also shows that abortion has been a secondary factor in suppressing fertility during the 1980s, when 43% of all pregnancies ended in abortion, and during the 1990s, when 35% of all pregnancies ended in abortion. As soon as endocrine disruptors from the West became endemic, however, abortions have dropped to 22% in the first decade of the 21st century and to less than 20% in the past five years, which cannot possibly account for Macedonia's sub-replacement level fertility.

Macedonia is in stage four of the demographic transition and is about to enter stage five within the next few years.

President Rajaonarimampianina and Prime Minister Ravelonarivo,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Madagascar became a UN member state in 1960, as soon as it gained its independence from France, but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1973. As a result, the total fertility rate has declined from more than 7 children per woman prior to 1973 to 4.4 today. This decline has been accomplished as elsewhere in Africa through adulterated vaccines administered by western NGOs and various UN organizations, and more recently through the malaria drug Artemisinin which is also a sterilizer.

Considering that Madagascar's population swelled from 4 million in 1950 to 22 million today, a fivefold increase, and that 90% of your people live on less than two dollars a day, it is imperative that population control continues until replacement level fertility is reached. But it must continue the right way and not the wrong way, as is currently the case. Population control must be brought out into the open and replacement level fertility must be enshrined in international law as a Planetary Security Prerogative from the global governance level so that people across the world can limit their own fertility through safe methods of their own choosing.

This change from covert to overt depopulation implies reform of the UN system along the lines I have proposed in my just published book, The Future of Global Governance. I urge you to read my book without delay and to instruct your nation's ambassador to the UN, Zina Andrianarivelo-Razafy, to call for reform so we can stop the global genocide.

At the same time you must initiate a national effort to educate your people so they understand why replacement level fertility is necessary and indeed unavoidable. To accomplish this difficult task I encourage you to use my freely available work:

The system of covert depopulation imposed by mutual coercion mutually agreed upon is coming to an end and with it the culture of deception, lies, censorship, and monetary coercion. The road ahead of us is not easy but it leads to light. What we leave behind no one will miss. The man responsible for kick starting Madagascar's population control program was Gabriel Ramanantsoa, who served as President and Prime Minister from 1972 to 1975. However, there is no evidence to suggest that covert, illegal and involuntary methods of birth control were used during his leadership.

It was only after the military took over the country, once it assassinated President Richard Ratsimandrava in February 1975, that covert and involuntary methods of population control were adopted. After a few months of turmoil, the military placed in power one of their own, Vice Admiral Didier Ratsiraka, who began implementing reforms recommended by the International Monetary Fund and brought the total fertility rate from 7.3 down to 6.1 children per woman during his first term in office (1975-1993) and then again from 6.1 to 5.3 children per woman during his second term (1997-2002).

Albert Zafy, who was President of Madagascar from 1993 to 1996, after Ratsiraka was deposed due to public unrest, placed the sterilization program on pause.

Marc Ravalomanana, who was President from 2002 to 2009, and Andry Rajoelina, who was President from 2009 to 2014, continued the population control program where Ratsikara left off, but by relying primarily on better provision of contraceptives (which grew from 20% in 1997 to 40% in 2008) and on abortions (which end 25% of all pregnancies) rather than involuntary sterilization, and managed to lower the total fertility rate from 5.3 to 4.3 children per woman.

It is too early to say what the incumbent President, Hery Rajaonarimampianina, will do with respect to population control.

Since Madagascar has yet to bring fertility and population growth under control, the country is sinking further into poverty, as its decreasing per capita GDP clearly shows.

Madagascar is in stage two of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF MALAWI

6 November 2014

Peter Mutharika

President of Malawi

psegov@opc.gov.mw, foreign.affairs@foreignaffairs.gov.mw doccenre@malawi.net, defence@defence.gov.mw

President Mutharika,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Malawi joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1990 but did not begin to sterilize its rural population with injectable contraceptives and to induce abortion with Misoprostol until 2008 when the Ministry of Health approved their administration by community workers with no medical training and free of charge, as part and parcel of the National Reproductive Health Strategy 2006-2010. Until 2008, the people in the countryside, where most Malawians live, had continued to procreate and multiply at natural rates, which is why the total fertility rate in rural areas declined only modestly from 7 children per woman to 6 today. In the cities, where the population control program began officially in 1999 (but unofficially in 1991), as soon as the National Reproductive Health Strategy 1999-2004 was drafted, the total fertility rate has declined from 7 to 4 children per woman.

Unhappy with the “weak community participation” in emergency obstetric care, the euphemism the government of Malawi uses for its population control program whose official justification is to reduce maternal and neonatal mortality, the government of Malawi has revised its Action Plan in 2007 in order to “strengthen family planning service” and increase the contraceptive prevalence rate from 40% to 60% so as to reach replacement level fertility as soon as possible.

To accomplish this mammoth population control goal all institutions of state, civil society and the private sector have been engaged, but the bulk of the work necessary to sterilize the population is done by three agencies: the Ministry of Health (MOH) does 60%, the Christian Health Association of Malawi (CHAM) does 37%, and the Ministry of Local Government does 1%, while the remaining 2% are done by the private sector, the Army and the Police.

Given that Malawi’s population has grown from 2.8 million in 1950 to 16 million today, a 500% increase; that the population is projected to increase an additional 300% by 2050, when it will reach 50 million; that Malawi is already one of the poorest countries in the world with a GDP of $857 per capita; that 65% of the population is defined as poor and unable to meet their daily needs; and that half of all Malawians are food insecure, one can understand why the government has had to begin interfering with the reproductive freedom of its people.

What I cannot understand and find inexcusable is that your government has decided to deprive people of their reproductive freedom without their knowledge or consent, or even without a legal framework that empowers the government to override the people's rights and liberties for emergency reasons. Instead, your government has allowed itself to be perverted by the genocidal coalition of elite entities and interests that is centered at the UN and delegated by Anglo-American partners in crime with support from Western Europe.

You are in violation of the rule of law and of democratic processes and no amount of subterfuge and deception can finesse this truth. I therefore now give you the opportunity to break rank with the genocidal coalition that masquerades as the international community and to legislate population control so people know what is expected of them and why. Until such time, you are committing genocide and the time will come when you will pay with your freedom for setting yourself above the law and above the sacred love that binds parents and children. To understand the severity of your crimes and their long-term consequences I urge you to read my books, which you can access free of cost here:

To realize that the days of secrecy and deception are over and that you and your counterparts around the world will be held responsible for crimes against humanity unless you change course, I urge you to carefully study my appeals to other heads of state and government:

<https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>.

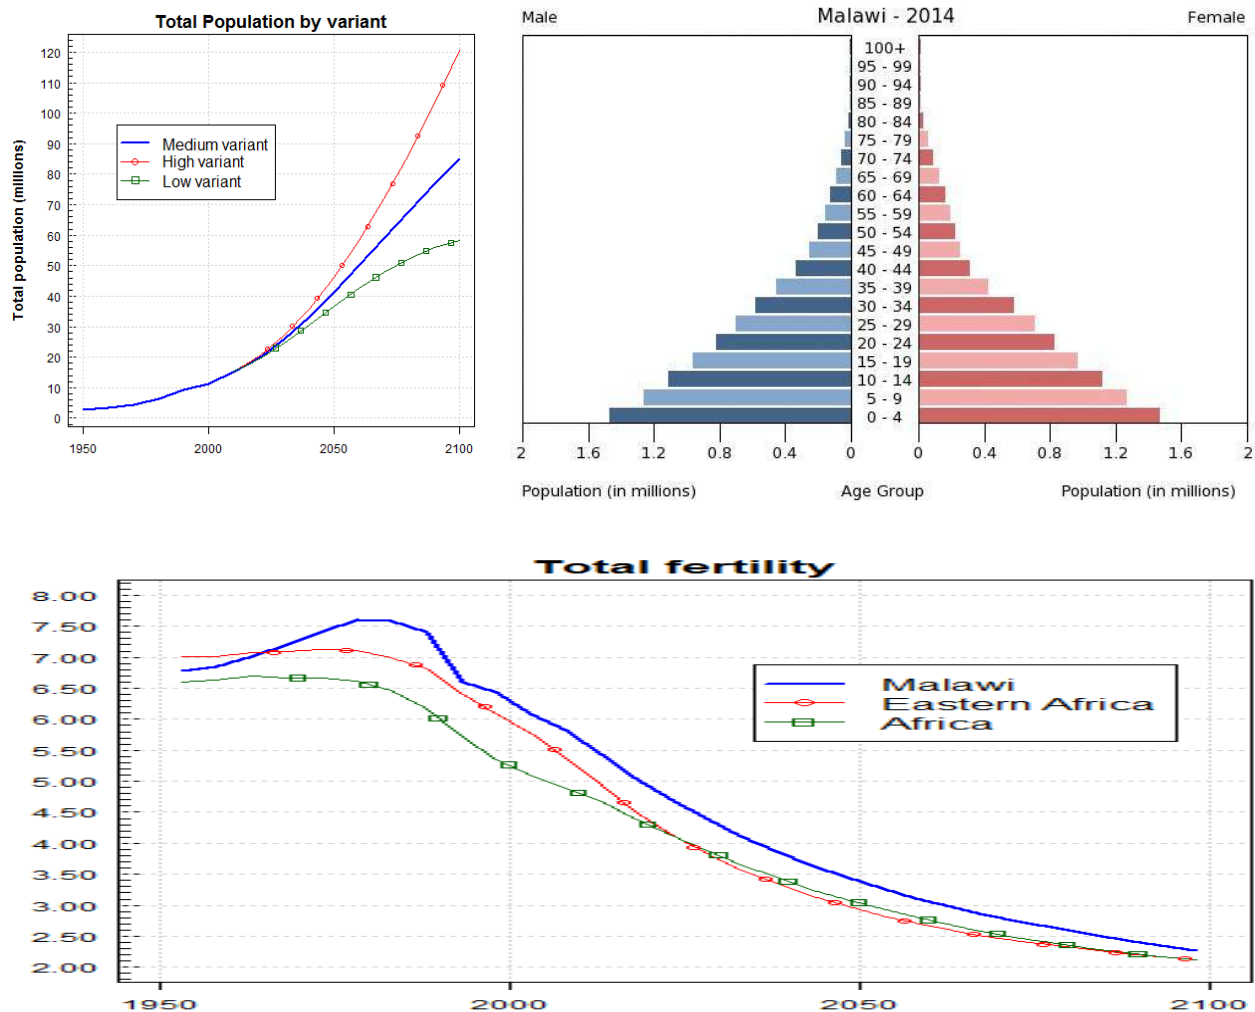

And to educate your people, I give you free access to my videos and the right to use them nationally and free of cost:

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCZf9rWLgwzGW34EITo0x7fA>.

Once you have decided to break rank with the genocidal lobby, I will assist you in any way I can to change from covert to overt depopulation and will travel to Malawi when and if you need me.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

The man responsible for approving the use of covert methods of sterilization in Malawi in 1990 is the first President of Malawi, Hastings Banda (1966-1994). During the last four years of his presidency he managed to reduce the total fertility rate from 7.5 to 6.5 children per woman, which can only be done through involuntary sterilizing vaccines.

His aggressive program backfired and President Bakili Muluzi (1994-2004), Banda's successor, restricted it to voluntary birth control through the provision of family planning services and better access to contraceptives, which is why during his ten years in office the total fertility rate declined only from 6.5 to 6 children per woman.

President Bingu wa Mutharika (2004-2012) continued in the same legal fashion as his predecessor and total fertility rate declined from 6 to 5.5 children per woman during his seven years in office, which is why the international community cut all foreign aid to Malawi in 2012. Upon his sudden death in office he was replaced with his Vice-President, Joyce Banda (2012-2014), and she wasted no time in allowing the international community to sterilize the Malawian people with adulterated vaccines, as had been approved in the National Reproductive Health Strategy 2006-2010.

The international community had positioned Joyce Banda for Malawi's highest office in 2010 when she was elevated in stature by being made a member of the Global Leaders Council for Reproductive Health, an organization dedicated to achieving universal access to reproductive health by 2015, but also secretly dedicated to the covert sterilization of the African people. The organization is funded by Ted Turner and its sixteen council members are dedicated depopulationists with a record of covert sterilization in their countries.

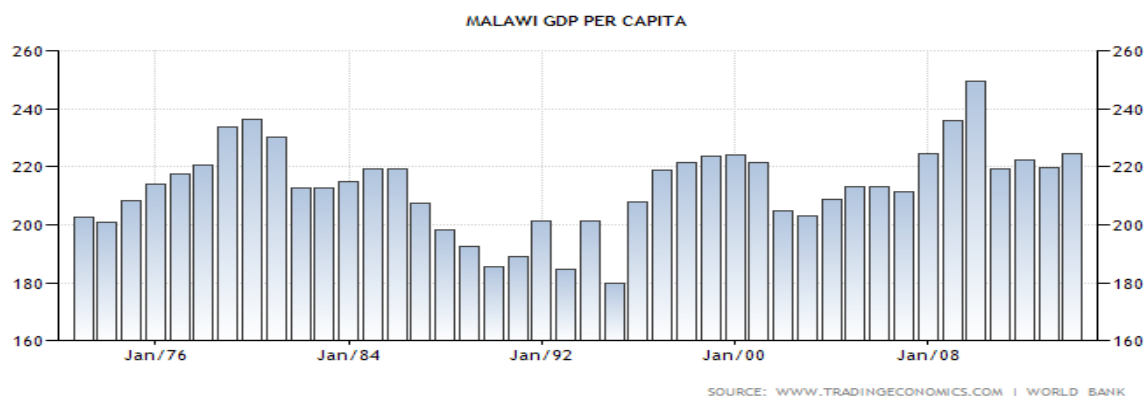

During the two years that Joyce Banda was President of Malawi the total fertility rate declined from 5.5 to 5.1 children per woman and international aid has been duly restored.

In 2014, Peter Mutharika, the younger brother of former President Bingu Wa Mutharika, became Malawi's president. It remains to be seen what policy he will adopt with respect to population control, but it appears that he has shut down covert depopulation measures since fertility has bounced up to 5.7 children per woman according to the latest statistics.

Malawi's contraceptive prevalence rate has risen to 41% but it remains to be seen if it will have an effect on fertility.

Since Malawi has failed to lower fertility and stop population growth the country is trapped in poverty, as its stagnant per capita GDP clearly shows.

Malawi is in stage two of the demographic transition.

Abdul Halim of Kedah, King of Malaysia ppm@pmo.gov.my

Mohammad Najib Abdul Razak, Prime Minister of Malaysia

<http://www3.pmo.gov.my/emaklum/PMFeedback.nsf/efeedback?openform>

King Halim and Prime Minister Razak,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Malaysia began implementing covert depopulation measures in 1962 and has discriminated against the Indian and Chinese minorities living in the country, which is why Malays have a total fertility rate of 2.8 children per woman while Indians only 2 and Chinese only 1.8 children per woman.

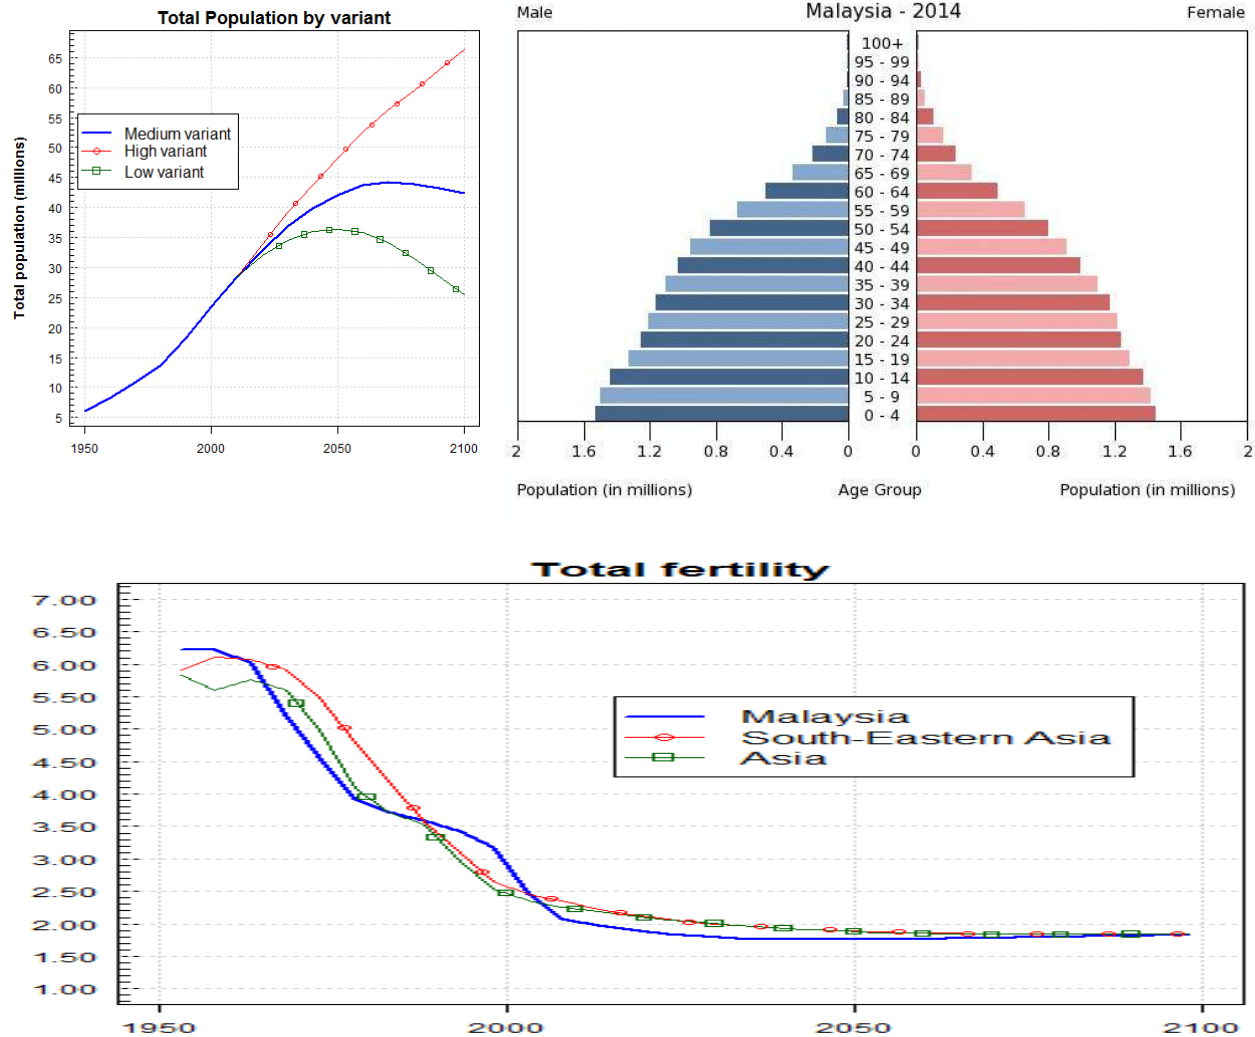

Your country's total fertility rate has gone down from 6.3 to 2.7 children per woman and it is still growing rapidly by 2.4% per annum, which is unacceptably high and why in only 50 years the country's population has almost quadrupled. This means that your administration is under heavy pressure to accept even more draconian measures of population control from the UN and its western sponsors, who are right in saying that every country needs to reach replacement level fertility (i.e. 2 children per woman), but who are dead wrong in the methods they employ; methods that are covert, immoral, criminal, genocidal and diabolical and that in a few decades will have rendered the entire Malaysian population sterile, ill, feeble and mentally retarded.

Now is the time to send the genocidal lobby home and to implement population control legislation that restricts family size to two children. This will allow your country to grow wealthy as well as protect your human assets, who are the true source of wealth. Help me forge global consensus for population control legislation across the world to spare humanity from genocide and to reclaim our rights and liberties and democratize global governance. Otherwise the world will continue to be ruled by psychopaths who are destroying everything we hold dear and who are the embodiment of evil. Fail to act now and you will be the sustaining force of this evil and its true enablers.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalale

Malaysia has been sterilizing its people with injectables from 1962 to 1972 and with fluoridated water since 1972.

Covert methods of depopulation were first approved by Syed Harun Putra, Malaysia's Head of State from 1960 to 1965, and by Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman who was in office from 1957 to 1970.

Sterilization by fluoride poisoning was first approved by Abdul Halim, who was Malaysia's Head of State from 1970 to 1975 (and who is also the current Head of State since 2011), and by Prime Minister Abdul Razak Hussein, in office from 1970 to 1976.

By 1998, 66% of all Malaysians were reached with fluoridated water, but currently 76% are being sterilized through fluoridated water and the remainder with fluoride supplements and sterilizing vaccines.

All of Malaysia's prime ministers and heads of state have been poisoning their people into sterility, which is why the total fertility rate sunk below replacement level as of 2012 despite the fact that the country's contraceptive prevalence rate has never exceeded 56%.

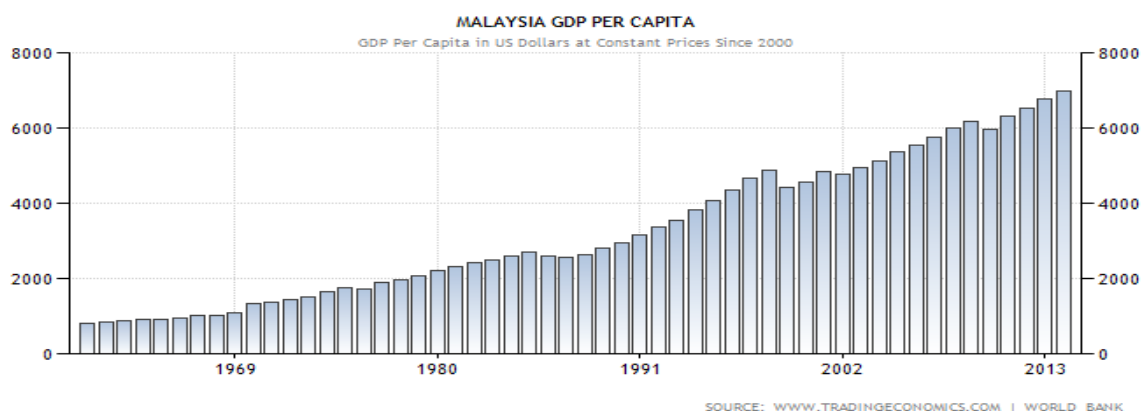

Abortions in Malaysia are statistically insignificant since it is illegal unless to save a woman's life or health.

The prime ministers who have continued Malaysia's genocide are: Hussein Onn (1976-1981), Mahathir Mohamad (1981-2003), Abdullah Ahmad Badawi (2003-2009), and the incumbent Rajib Nazak (since 2009).

The heads of state who have continued the genocide are: Ismail Nasiruddin of Terengganu (1965-1970), Yahya Petra of Kelantan (1975-1979), Ahmad Shah of Pahang (1979-1984), Iskandar of Johor (1984-1989), Azlan Shah of Perak (1989-1994), Jaafar of Negeri Sembilan (1994-1999), Salahuddin of Selangor (1999-2001), Sirajuddin of Perlis (2001-2006), Mizan Zainal Abidin of Terengganu (2006-2011), and the incumbent Abdul Halim of Kedah (since 2011).

Malaysia has been rewarded for its genocidal zeal with a growing GDP, which began to rise in the early 1970s, thus soon after fertility began to drop rapidly in the 1960s.

Malaysia is in stage three of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF THE MALDIVES

17 October 2014

Abdulla Yameen, President of the Maldives

<http://www.presidencymaldives.gov.mv/Index.aspx?lid=6>

President Yameen,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Maldives joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1990 and the total fertility rate has declined from 7 to 1.9 children per woman today. The population peaked in 2009 at almost 400,000 and has been declining ever since. Such a steep transition in fertility rates could have only been accomplished through forced sterilization.

Given your nation's extraordinarily high population density of 1,102 people per km², one of the highest population densities in the world; the lack of land and natural resources; forecasts predicting future inundations and the need to evacuate the islands before the end of the century due to rising sea levels; as well as your pledge to become a carbon-neutral country by 2019, the Maldivians had no choice but to give up their reproductive freedom.

Nowhere in the world is the precariousness of life and the fine balance between man and nature more clearly evident than in the shallow atolls of the Maldives, the planet's lowest lying country with an average ground level elevation of just 1.5 meters above sea level. The 2004 tsunami, which devastated your island nation, brought home this message loud and clear.

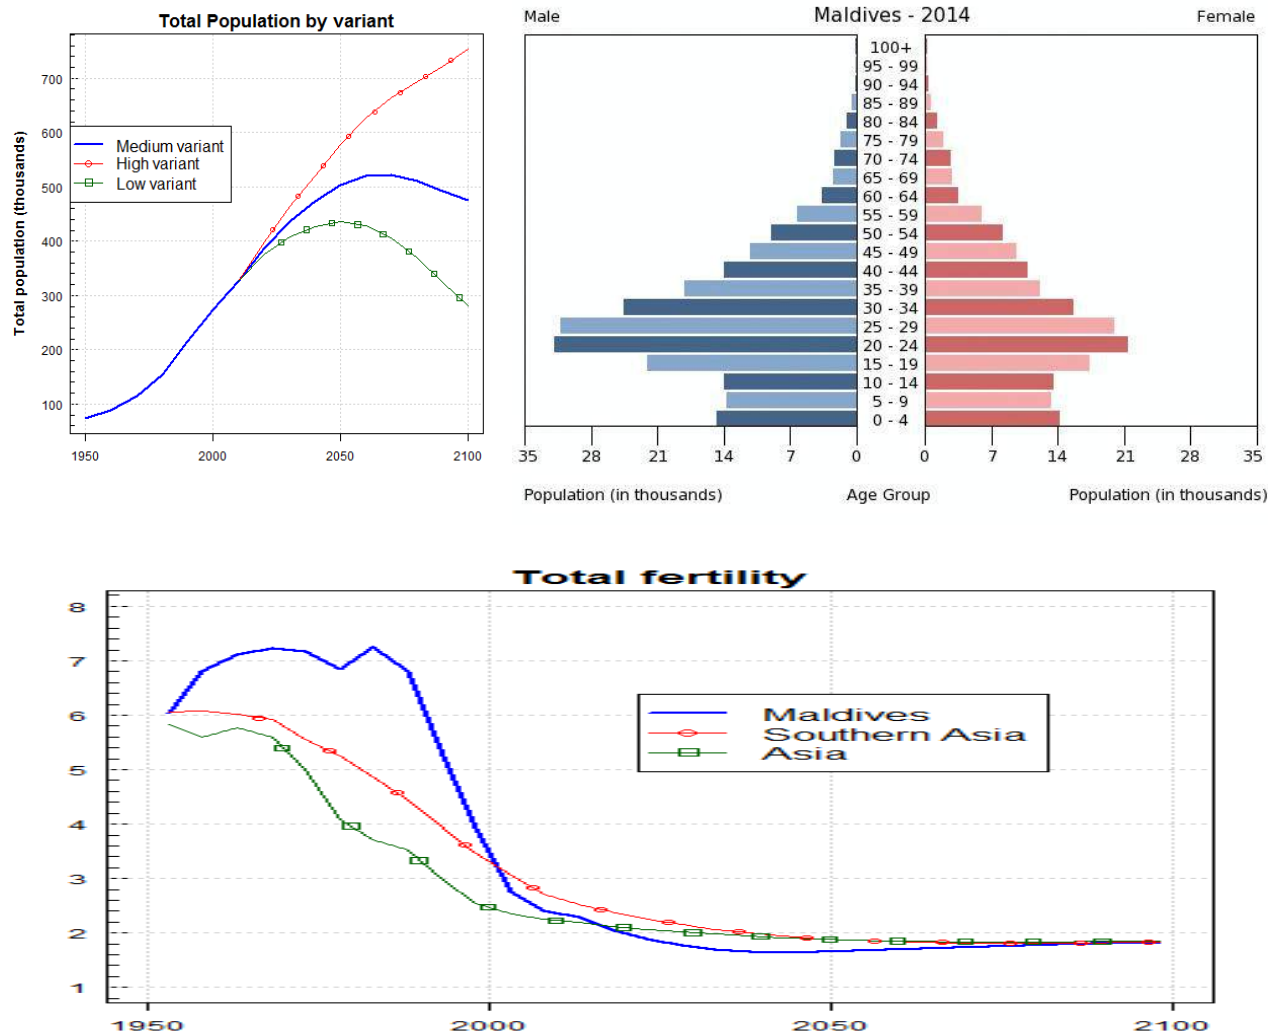

As the third most endangered nation in the world due to flooding from climate change, the Maldivian government had to act and had to act fast. But if you are to maintain political and social stability until such time as you lose your islands to the rising ocean, you must stop forced sterilizations and adopt legislation that limits family size to two children per woman. You cannot hang on to the illusion of democracy and the pretense of Islamic law while you violate both political rights and religious norms with impunity by forcibly sterilizing your women.

The people have a right to know what the bitter reality is and what expectations this bitter reality imposes on all of us. Once they know they will accept restrictions on their fertility. To ease the transition from covert to overt methods of population control I urge you to inform your people of the methods and means by which the UN and nations around the world have subverted their people's reproductive rights since 1945. You will find all the information you need about this dark secret of the world in my work, which I make freely available to everyone here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

Join me in forging global consensus for worldwide population control legislation as a Planetary Security Prerogative and you will not only save your people from genocide but also the world from disintegrating into unprecedented violence.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Governance

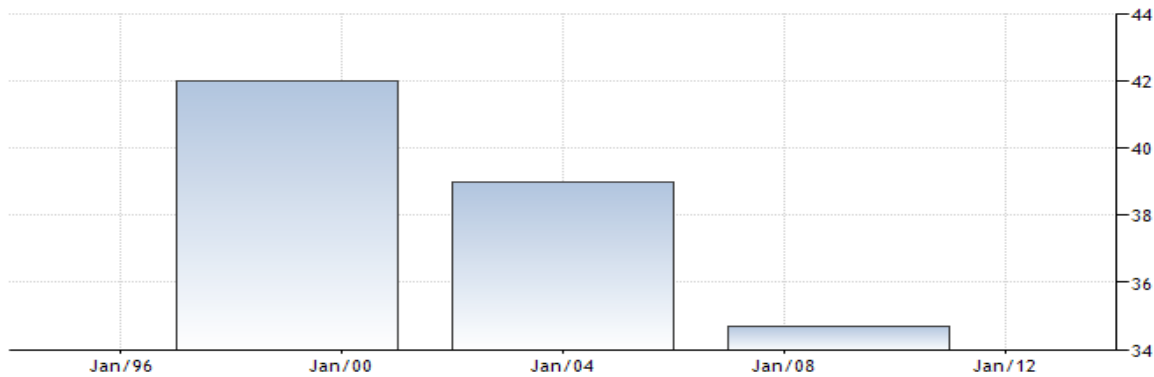

Covert depopulation measures were introduced in the Maldives in 1990 by President Maumoon Abdul Gayoom who was in office from 1978 to 2008. During his presidency, the total fertility rate declined rapidly from 7 to 2.4 children per woman. He was groomed for the task of covert depopulation by the United Nations where he was tenured from 1976 to 1977.

Gayoom's successors, President Mohamed Nasheed (2008-2012) refused to continue the illegal and immoral sterilization program and he was forced to resign his office at gunpoint and his Vice-President, Mohammed Waheed Hassan, who had worked for the UN for more than ten years (both for UNICEF and for the UN Development Operations Coordination Office, two premier depopulation organizations), was installed as President of the Maldives without elections, and the total fertility rate dropped below replacement level during his two-year stint as president.

The genocide continues under Abdulla Yameen, the incumbent President of Maldives since November 2013.

That Maldives' sub-replacement level fertility has absolutely nothing to do with contraceptive use and everything to do with covert sterilization is embarrassingly obvious due to the country's extremely low contraceptive prevalence rate, which is below 35%.

Abortion is illegal in the Maldives and allowed only to save the life of the woman or if the child has congenital defects. As such, it is statistically insignificant.

Maldives's leaders have been rewarded for their genocidal acts with a growing per capita GDP. As soon as fertility started dropping in the 1980s the GDP began rising.

Maldives is in stage four of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF MALI

Moussa Mara

Prime Minister of Mali

http://www.primature.gov.ml/index.php?option=com_ckforms&view=ckforms&id=1&Itemid=100006

President Keïta and Prime Minister Mara,

Mali's total fertility rate over the past sixty years has remained unchanged at 6 to 7 children per woman, which indicates that your country has not yet been assaulted by the Global Depopulation Policy. This changed however in September 2010 when your children and youth from 1 to 29 years of age were immunized with a novel meningococcal conjugate vaccine, called MenAfriVac, specially formulated by the WHO, PATH and the Melinda Gates Foundation to subvert human fertility. As such, you can expect a drop in TFR over the next few years.

The UN and its western sponsors are attempting to bring Mali's fertility rate down to replacement level, as they have done everywhere else on earth save for sub-Saharan Africa and a handful of other countries in Asia and in Latin America. Given that Mali's population has grown fourfold since its independence in 1960 until today, that poverty and hunger are endemic, that more than half of your people are children under 15 years of age, and that the median age is only 16 years, you are facing a demographic and humanitarian catastrophe and those with the foresight to prevent it are trying to do so by resorting to the tried and tested methods of coercion, compulsion, and deception that have worked so well for them since they first began applying them in 1945.

While I agree with their intentions I cannot agree with their methods, which is why I am stopping them worldwide by exposing their secrets and by writing to every head of state to warn them how the UN and its agencies, as well as western aid agencies are working hand in glove to commit global genocide because the political class and religious authorities put their interests before those of their people and refuse to lead.

Mali being one of the poorest countries in the world, with one of the fastest growing populations living in one of the most arid and infertile regions in the world, needs all the help it can get to break out of the cycle of poverty and war that it is trapped in. As such, I appreciate the efforts of the international community to help you, however misguided they may be.

To save your people from famine and war without having to subject them to toxic vaccines and a lifetime of sterility, I urge you to adopt a law that restricts family size to just two children and to use aid money to make safe contraceptives universally available.

Your country has considerable natural resources but they will remain in the ground so long as the country is in economic, political and humanitarian turmoil caused by the pressures of overpopulation. Like it or not you will have to stop your population growth and the sooner you do it the less your children will suffer and the more will survive. Your religious objections will not save your children from famine and will not protect your country from war. You must therefore set them aside and muster the courage, wisdom and foresight to pass a population control law before it is too late.

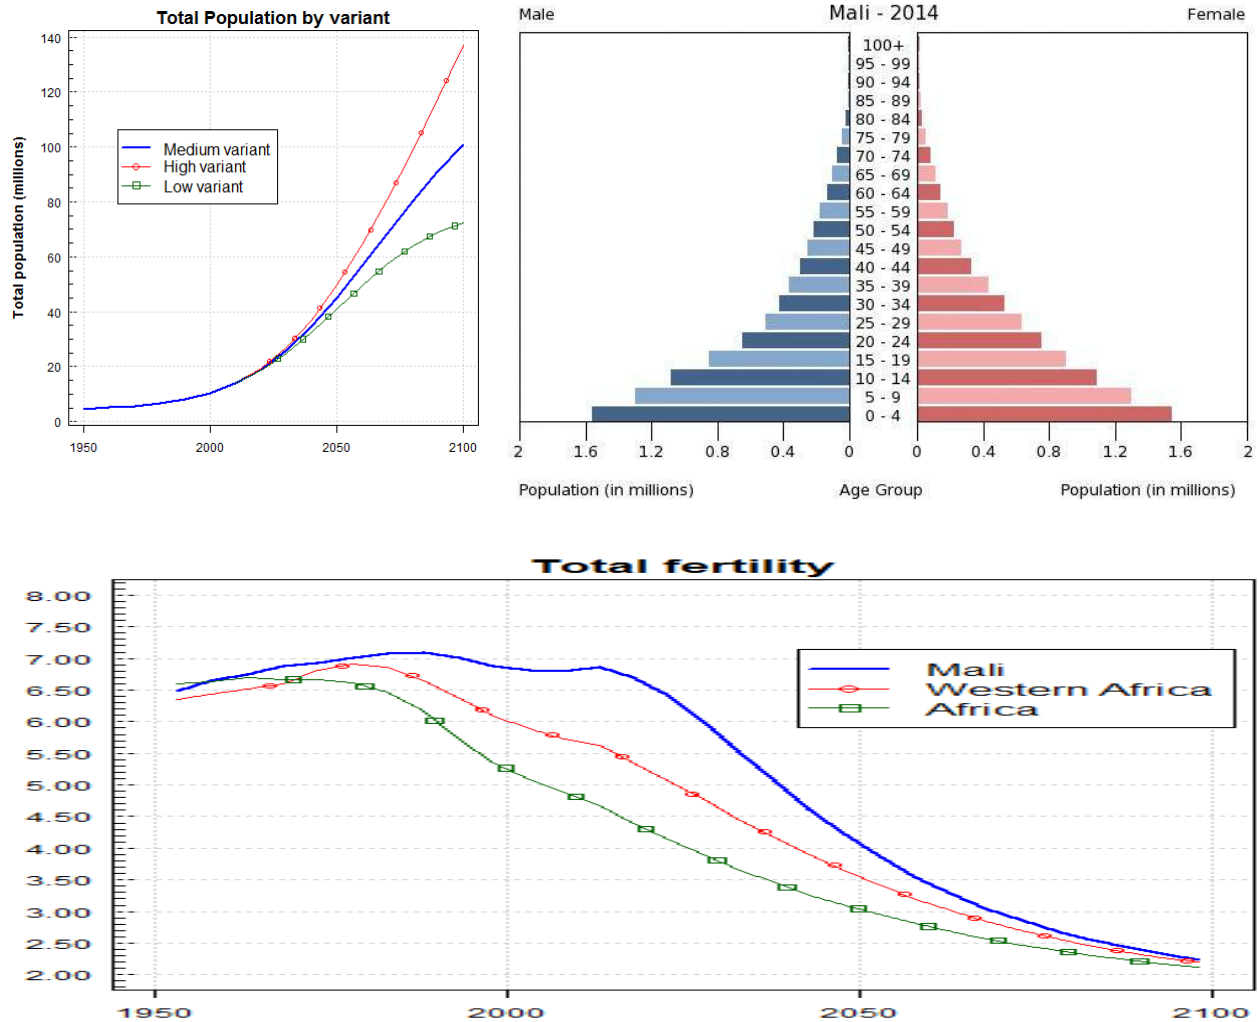

I am in the process of forging global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative since humanity cannot survive a doubling of the current 7 billion people, which will occur in only three decades unless every country on earth does its part and does so without delay and vacuous objections. Such a universal population control law adopted from the global governance level openly and fairly will free national political leaders from populist concerns and place the responsibility for the future in the hands and on the shoulders of every human being on earth, freeing governments and the international community from having to poison humanity on the sly while pretending to uphold the rule of law and democratic processes.

Until this global law becomes reality I urge you to read and freely disseminate my books across Mali so that your people will know how to protect themselves from the genocidal lobby. They are freely available here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

At the same time, you must show leadership and openly advocate through Mali's UN mission for a legislative solution to the overpopulation problem. I stand by to help you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Mali has not interfered with natural population growth and is as a result stuck in poverty.

Mali is technically in stage two of the demographic transition but because it has not started to decrease its total fertility rate I will designate it as a stage one country.

<https://opm.gov.mt/en/Pages/primeministercontact.aspx>

President Preca and Prime Minister Muscat,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Malta has a long and proud history. Its history of independence has withstood the test of time but it did not survive membership to the UN.

Since 1964, when Malta gained its independence from the UK and was admitted to the United Nations, the island's freely elected leaders have assumed responsibility for crimes against humanity committed in the name of the Global Depopulation Policy.

If you continue in this vein you will condemn the vast majority of your people's genetic lines to annihilation for short-term economic and social gains. Yes, population control must continue but not by covert poisoning of the human reproductive system as by open legislation that restricts couples to two children only.

I am in the process of forging global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative and I hope that you will join me so we can forge an international order without genocide, without deception, and without lies.

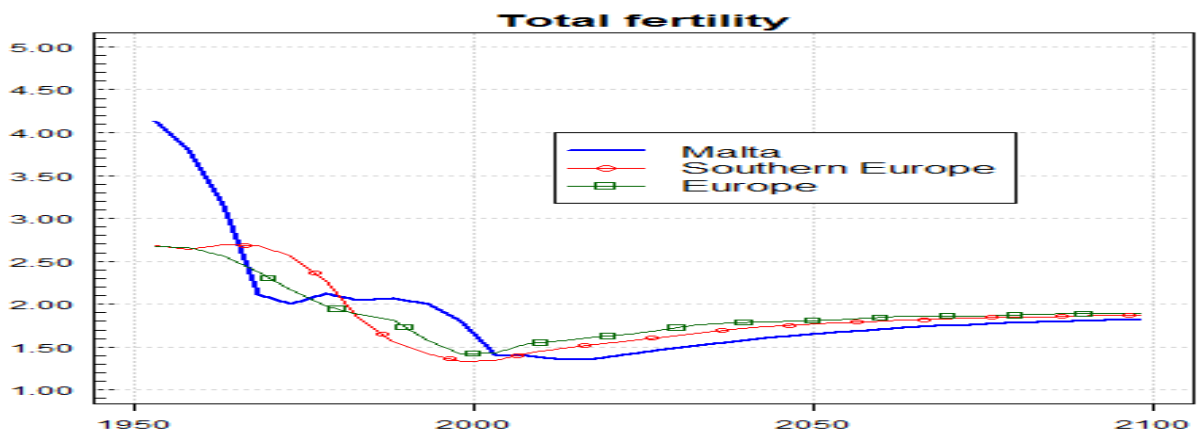

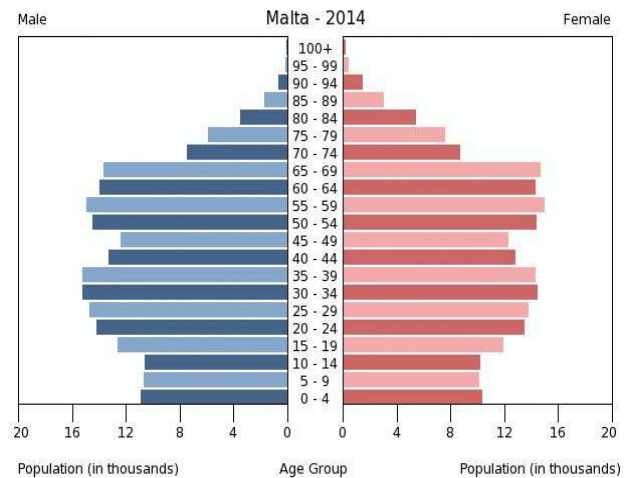

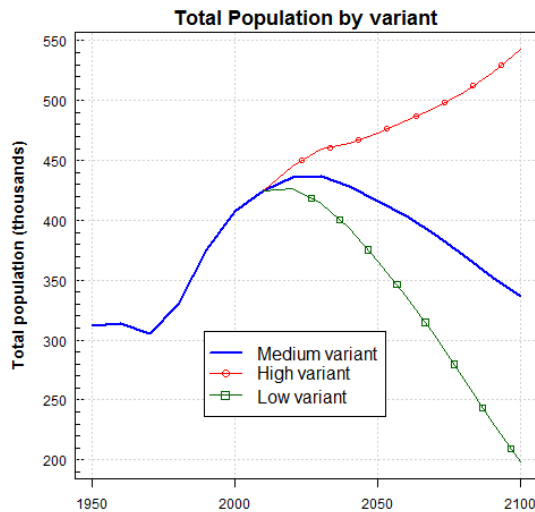

If you deem my mission important, I expect you will instruct your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Christopher Grima, to initiate reform of the UN system along the lines I have suggested in my recently published book "The Future of Global Governance".

I stand by to assist you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

Malta was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1948 when the total fertility rate was at 4.5 children per woman. By the time Malta gained its independence from the UK in 1964 the total fertility rate had been lowered to 2.9 children per woman.

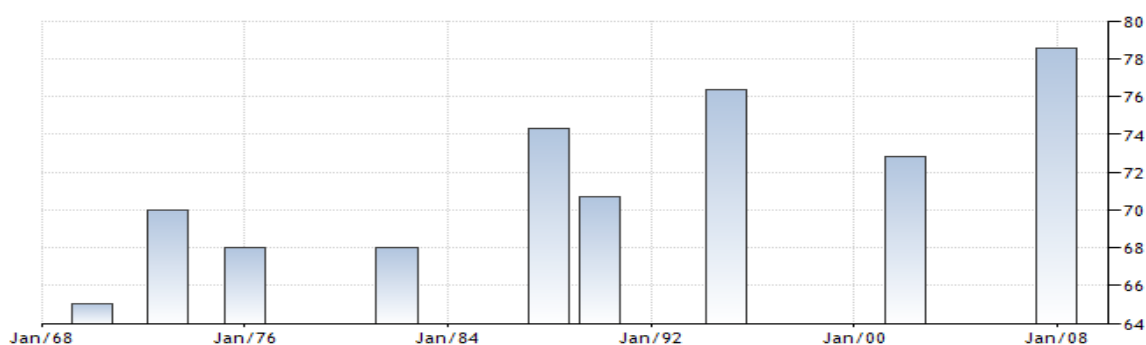

The man responsible for introducing covert depopulation measures to Malta on behalf of Her Majesty's Government is Governor Francis Douglas (1946-1949). His successors have followed suit: Gerald Creasy (1949-1954), Robert Laycock (1954-1959), Guy Grantham (1959-1962), and Maurice Henry Dorman (1962-1964).

Since independence the responsibility for sterilizing the populace rests with the presidents and prime ministers of Malta. The prime ministers responsible are: Giorgio Borg Olivier (1950-1955, 1962-1971), Dom Mintoff (1971-1984), Karmenu Mifsud Bonnici (1984-1987), Eddie Fenech Adami (1987-1996, 1998-2004), Alfred Sant (1996-1998), Lawrence Gonzi (2004-2013), and incumbent Joseph Muscat (since March 2013).

Equally responsible are the following presidents: Anthony Mamo (1974-1976), Anton Buttigieg (1976-1981), Albert Hyzler (1981-1982), Agatha Barbara (1982-1987), Paul Xuereb (1987-1989), Ċensu Tabone (1989-1994), Ugo Mifsud Bonnici (1994-1999), Guido de Marco (1999-2004), Eddie Fenech Adami (2004-2009), George Abela (2009-2014), and incumbent Marie Louise Coleiro Preca (since April 2014).

Replacement level fertility was reached in 1968 and a lowest low of 1.4 children per woman in 2002, where it remains to this day.

That Malta's steep decline to replacement level fertility has nothing to do with contraceptives and everything to do with covert poisoning is amply demonstrated by the non-existent use of contraceptives during the 1950s and the relatively low contraceptive prevalence rate during the 1960s, the two decades during which Malta experienced the steepest decline in fertility and reached replacement level fertility.

The historical record shows that abortion is a non-factor in Malta, as the rate is extremely low at less than 2%.

No sooner did Malta reach replacement level fertility in 1968 than its GDP per capita began exploding. Once again, Malta's experience confirms that affluence is a consequence of low fertility and not vice versa.

Malta is in stage four of the demographic transition and will enter stage five within the next five years if it continues to keep its fertility at sub-replacement level.

REPUBLIC OF THE MARSHALL ISLANDS

marshallislands@un.int, info@rmiembassyus.org rmiembtp@ns41.hinet.net, rmisuva@sopacsun.org.fj
jibak@rmiembassyjp.org

President Loeak,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Marshall Islands became self-governing in 1979 and a UN member state in 1991 when it also joined the Global Depopulation Policy. The total fertility rate has consequently decreased from 6 children per woman prior to 1991 to 3.2 today.

Considering that the population of the Marshall Islands grew nearly 400% since 1960 and that it has run out of land and suffers a density of 340 people per square kilometer on 24 overwhelmed and low-lying coral atolls that are slowly being swallowed up by the rising sea level due to global warming, population control is too little too late. Ranked as the most endangered due to flooding from climate change, the 70,000 people of the Marshall Islands are in deep trouble and will soon have to relocate elsewhere; probably to the U.S. due to the Compact of Free Association your nations signed in 1986.

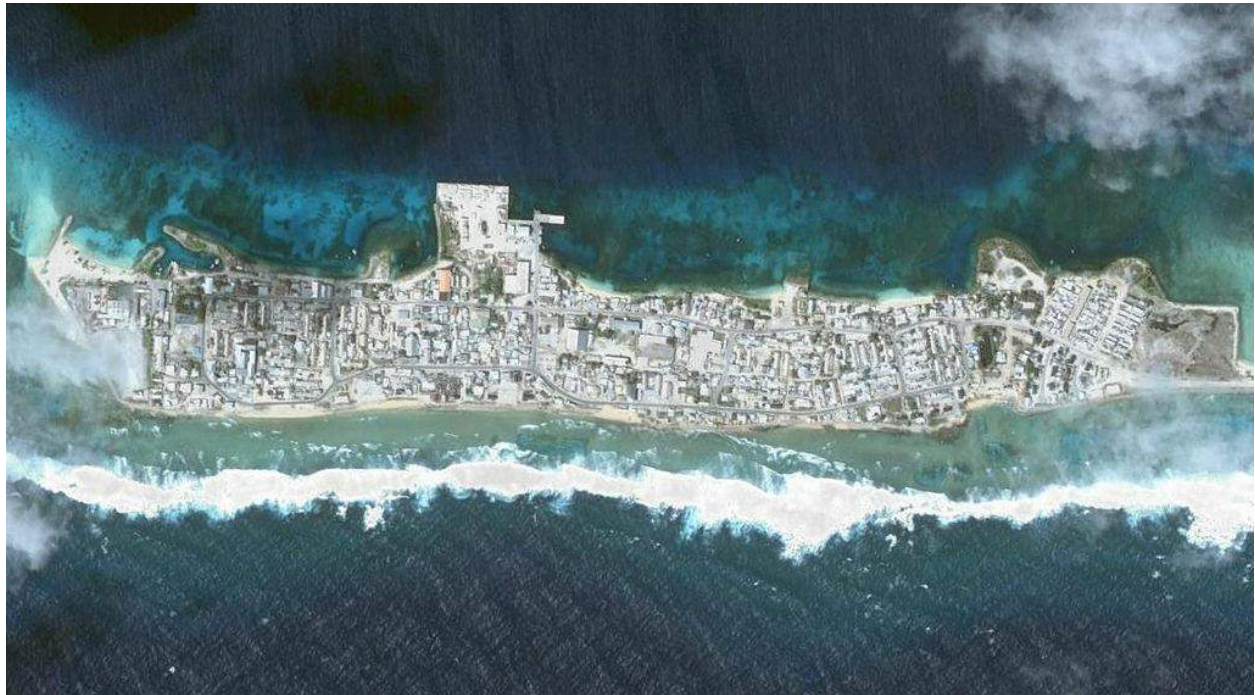

Not only do the Marshallese suffer from the effects of radioactive fallout caused by 67 nuclear tests conducted by the U.S. from 1946 to 1958 – tests that have rendered your island paradise the most contaminated place in the world – you are now also paying the ultimate price, the loss of your islands to rising sea levels, for the lifestyles of people in the developed world, lifestyles that are unsustainable and are damaging the planet's life-support systems.

An aerial look at Ebeye Island, where almost a quarter of all Marshallese live and which is a center of Marshallese culture, shows just how precarious your situation is.

What is now happening to your people will soon happen elsewhere in the world unless we change course. How to change course and why I describe in my recently published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance, which I hope that you will read without delay.

To change course we need to reform the UN system so that replacement level fertility can be declared a Planetary Security Prerogative enshrined in international law so that people across the globe can take control of the depopulation effort and limit their own reproductive rights safely and by a method of their own choosing rather than being poisoned on the sly by their own elected governments.

If we fail to accomplish this in 2015, which is the year the world will embark upon sustainability, we will fail across the board and a century from now the entire world will look like Ebeye Island, if we do not kill each other by then. To make sure that we do not fail I urge you to tell your people the truth and to educate them. My work can help you do this and I am providing it to each and all free of cost:

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCZf9rWLgwzGW34EITo0x7fA>

I hope you join my effort to save our children from genocide, the planet from environmental destruction, and future generations from misery of Biblical proportions and that you will instruct your ambassador to the UN, Ms. Amatlain Elizabeth Kabua, to call for reform of the international system.

I stand by to help you in any way I can.

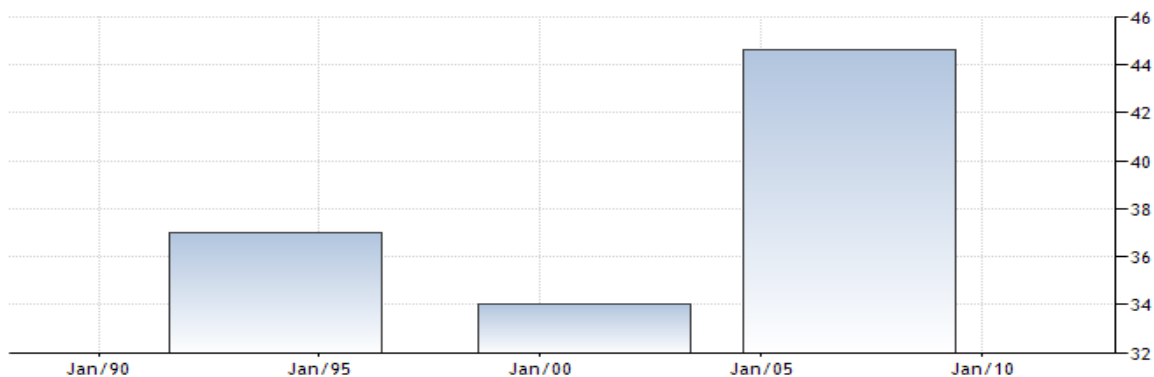

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

The Marshall Islands interfered with population growth from 1991 to 1996, thus during the tail end of Amata Kabua's presidency (1979-1996), abandoned covert depopulation measures until circa 2009, thus during Imata Kabua's (1996-2000), Kesai Note's (2000-2008), and Litokwa Tomeing (2008-2009) presidencies, and has since reengaged them under presidents Jurelang Zedkaia's (2009-2012) and Christopher Loeak, who is the current president since January 2012.

Since the contraceptive prevalence rate has never exceeded 45% and abortion is illegal and performed only to save the life of a woman, neither contraceptives nor abortions can account for the drop in fertility from 6 to 3.2 children per woman.

The Marshall Islands is in stage two of the demographic transition.

ISLAMIC REPUBLIC OF MAURITANIA

Mohamed Ould Abdel Aziz, President of Mauritania mission.mauritania@ties.itu.int, mauritania@un.int

Yahya Ould Hademine, Prime Minister of Mauritania
ami@ami.mr, <http://www.sante.gov.mr/MSAS/contact.aspx>

President Aziz and Prime Minister Hademine,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Mauritania became a UN member state in 1962, but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1980. As a latecomer and reluctant partner, the country's total fertility rate has declined only modestly from 6.6 to 4 children per woman during this time.

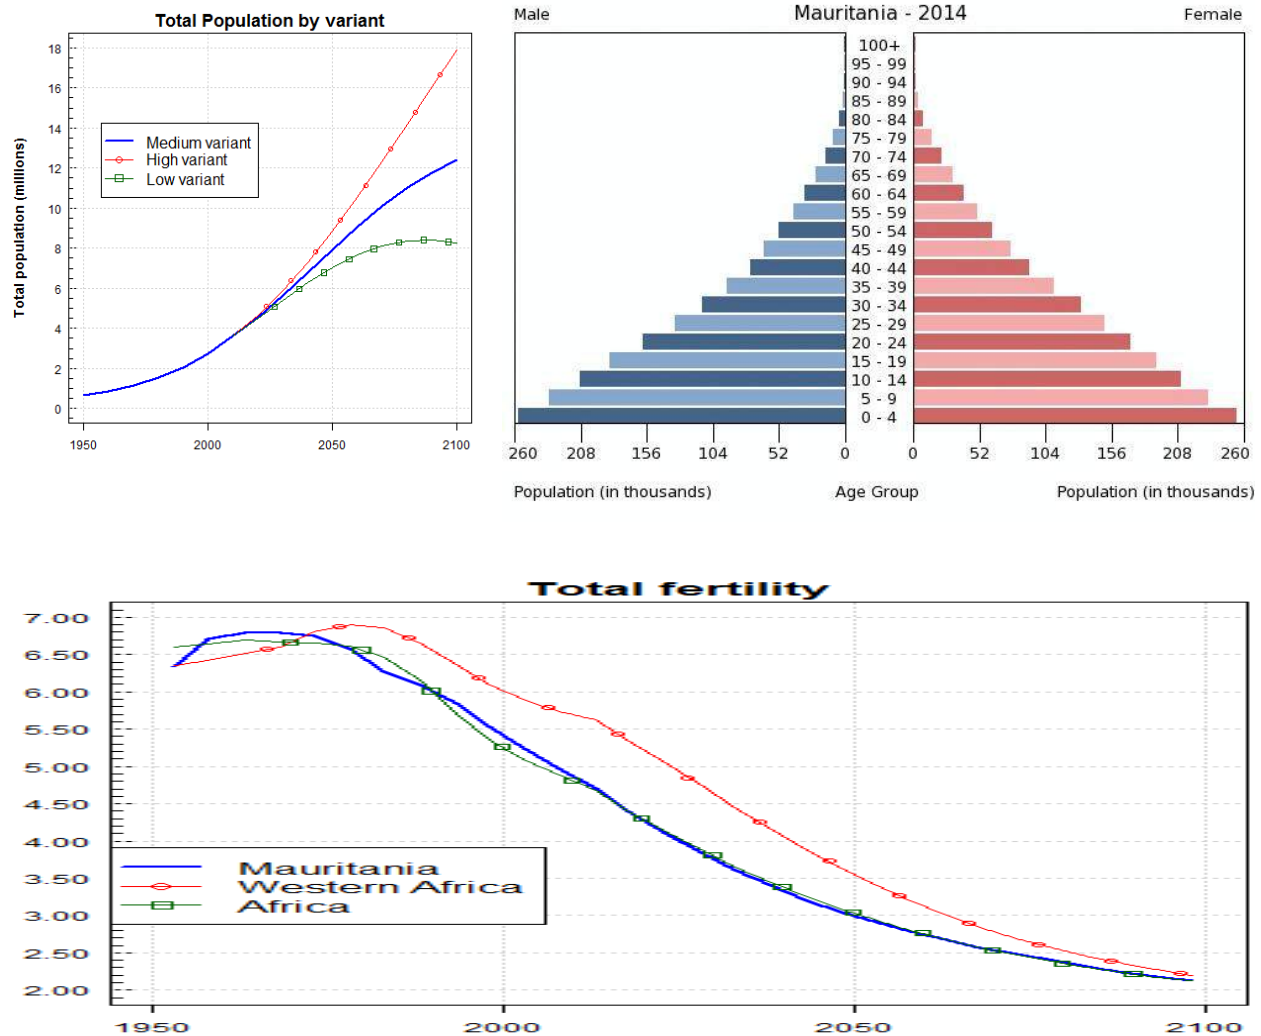

Considering Mauritania's precipitous population growth, which has seen its population swell from 1 million in 1960 to 3.5 million today, and equally precipitous growth in poverty, no one can argue that your country does not need to depopulate. The question is how? I am providing you with an alternative to the covert methods of depopulation via involuntary sterilizing vaccines promoted by the UN and its western sponsors.

This alternative is overt population control by legislating replacement level fertility at the global governance level as a Planetary Security Prerogative. This is necessary not only to break free of poverty, but also to achieve sustainability. My newly published and freely available book The Future of Global Governance explains how this can be accomplished and why it must be accomplished. More vital material is available here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

If you want to save your people from misery and death you will have to commit Mauritania to reforming the UN system. To this end, I hope that you will instruct ambassador Teguedi to demand the reform of the UN and the adoption of a new set of international rules so we can confine genocide to the past and protect our children's health and their future.

Sincerely,

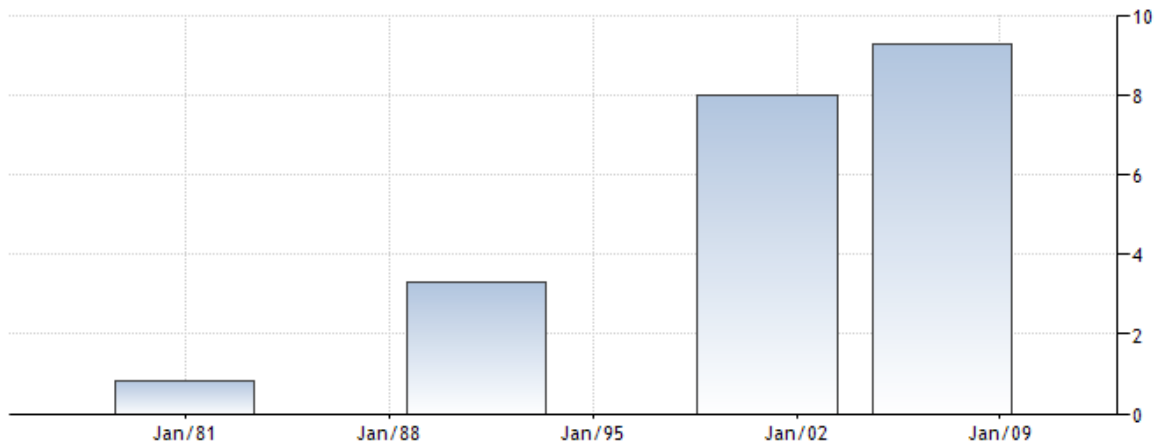

Kevin Galalae

Covert depopulation measures were first introduced in Mauritania during the military leadership of Mohamed Khouna Ould Haidalla (1980-984) and were continued by all his successors: Maaouya Ould Sid'Ahmed Taya (1984-2005), Ely Ould Mohamed Vall (2005-2007), Sidi Ould Cheikh Abdallahi (2007-2008), and incumbent President Mohamed Ould Abdel Aziz (since 2008).

The covert method of depopulation used in Mauritania is adulterated vaccines.

That Mauritania's drop in fertility from 7 to 4 children per woman has absolutely nothing to do with the use of contraceptives is amply demonstrated by the abysmally low contraceptive prevalence rate, which has never exceeded 10%. And since abortion is illegal in Mauritania and performed only rarely to save the life of the woman abortion has no bearing on the drop in fertility.

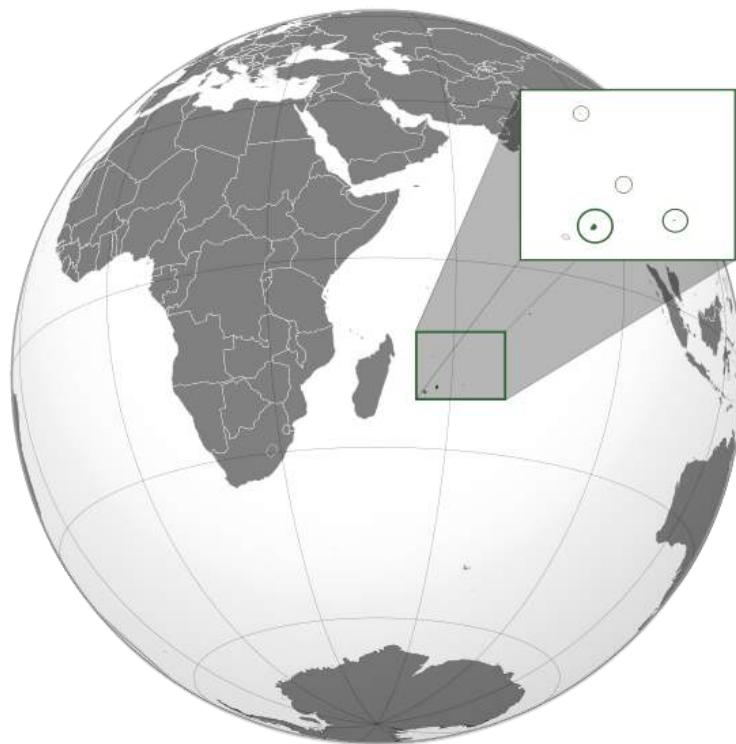

Since Mauritania has failed to address its population growth by subverting fertility, the country is stuck in poverty, as its stagnant per capita GDP plainly demonstrates.

Mauritania is in stage two of the demographic transition.

President Purryag and Prime Minister Ramgoolam,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Mauritius was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1963, five years prior to gaining its independence, as the country's population pyramid and crude birth rate (which dropped from 36 to 11 births per 1000 people) clearly show. This engineered decline in fertility is expressed also in the total fertility rate which went from 6 children per woman in the 1960s down to 1.8 by 2010 and remains safely below replacement level to this day.

The United Nations and the government of Mauritius have ambitious demographic objectives that are clearly illustrated in the projections published for the International Conference on Population and Development Beyond 2014.

That something is fishy in Mauritius is clearly demonstrated by the fact that UN documents declare the government of Mauritius is very concerned about adolescent fertility and has policies in place to reduce it, as well as providing direct support for family planning, but releases no data whatsoever on the unmet need for family planning which would have to show the rate of contraceptive use. Of course the reason this data is concealed is because family planning plays only a marginal and statistically insignificant role in the nation's drastic fertility decline, which was accomplished entirely through fluoride poisoning. Fluoride tablets and more recently fluoridated salt and perhaps even sugar have been used to undermine the reproductive rights of all Mauritians and in the process damage their health and degrade their genetic and intellectual endowment, as shown for instance by the 30% obesity rate among children 6 to 19 years of age, and by the 158 annual deaths from asthma (the 42nd highest rate in the world) despite the fact that Mauritius is ranked second in the air quality index released by the WHO in 2011.

With 1.3 million people and a very high population density of 618 people per square kilometer, Mauritius is dangerously overpopulated and I do not for a second question the need for strict population control. But there is no need for the use of covert and genocidal methods when replacement level fertility can be legislated and the people empowered with education and safe and cheap contraceptives to control the size of their own families as a duty towards the planet and for the sake of future generations.

If you continue to commit genocide in the false hope that nobody knows and that the system is so controlled that nobody will ever know you will find yourselves dead in the gutter in the not too distant future or, if you are lucky, serving life sentences for crimes against humanity.

I am now giving you the unique opportunity to restore the rule of law, decency and democratic processes to your country and people before it is too late. You will find all the tools you need to tell the truth and educate your people in my freely available work:

Avail yourselves of this opportunity and all will be well. Miss it and all hell will break loose.

For the time being people are dazed and confused by the news that their own elected governments have been poisoning them into sterility and chronic illness for decades. Most people are so shocked that they refuse to believe it and seek shelter in denial. But denial is a fickle friend and when it leaves anger comes in its stead and then there will be no place to hide on this green earth for the politicians, scientists, doctors, bureaucrats and soldiers who are partners in crimes against humanity of an order of magnitude that makes Hitler look like a babysitter.

I stand by to help you if and when you decide to be on the right side of history.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Governor Thomas Douglas Vickers (1961-1966), acting on behalf of His Majesty's government when Mauritius was still a British colony, imposed covert depopulation measures on the people of Mauritius starting in 1963. As a result, Mauritius' crude birth rate decreased from 40 to 32 births per 1000 people, a 20% decrease in just five years and without any contraceptives whatsoever.

The depopulation program was continued by every Governor General starting with Sir Arthur Leonard Williams in 1968 until Mauritius stopped being a Commonwealth state in 1992, thus until the governorship of Sir Veerasamy Ringadoo (1986-1992). During these 24 years of British control the crude birth rate decreased from 32 to 21 births per 1000 people, a 34% decrease fully accomplished by 1983, by which time Mauritius's contraceptive prevalence rate had climbed to 60%.

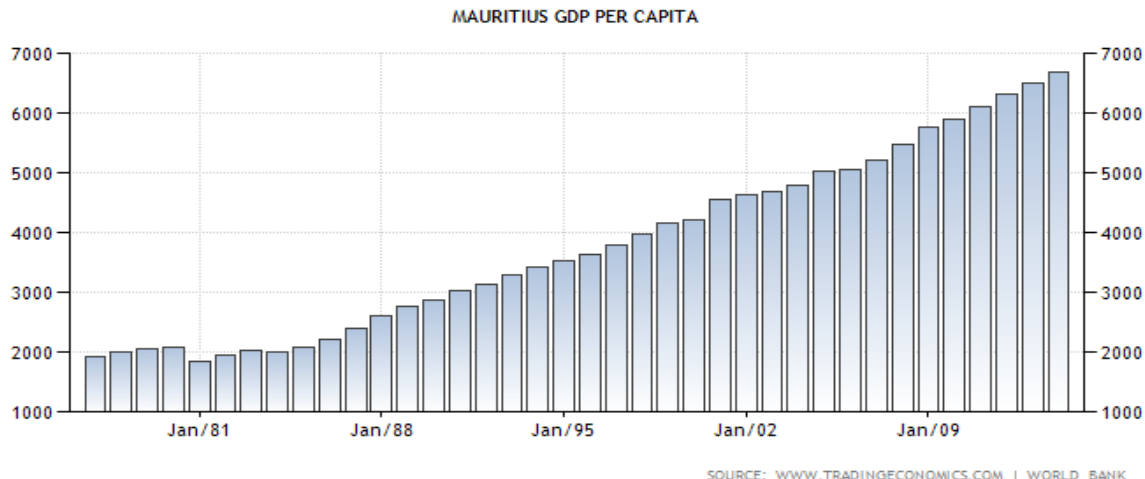

This means that Mauritius's British overlords accomplished a fertility reduction from 6 to 2.3 children per woman in twenty years (from 1963 to 1983) with virtually no contraceptives, thus by fully relying on involuntary surgical and chemical sterilizations.

From the time Mauritius became a republic in 1992, and thus fully independent of Britain, until today, the freely elected presidents and prime ministers of Mauritius have succeeded in lowering the total fertility rate from 2.3 to 1.8 children per woman, thus to sub-replacement level fertility by adulterating the basic elements of life with endocrine disruptors.

Abortion is illegal in Mauritius and is not permitted even if the lives of the mother and the child are threatened. As such, abortions are statistically insignificant even though illegal abortions are performed on the island.

The presidents responsible for this are: Cassam Uteem (1992-2002), Raouf Bundhun (2002-2007), Anerood Jugnauth (2003-2012, also Prime Minister from 1982-1995, and again from 2003-2007, and incumbent since 2014), and incumbent Kailash Purryag. They have been assisted in committing genocide by Prime Minister Navin Ramgoolam (1995-2000, 2005-2014) and Prime Minister Paul Bérenger (2003-2005).

Mauritius has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing per capita GDP, which began rising as soon as replacement level fertility was reached in the 1980s.

Mauritius is in stage four of the demographic transition.

UNITED MEXICAN STATES

23 September 2014

Enrique Peña Nieto

President of Mexico

<http://en.presidencia.gob.mx/contacto/>

President Nieto,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The viciousness with which the Mexican government is poisoning its people through multiple and simultaneous delivery agents into infertility, ill-health and early death will have a tragic end for Mexico's leadership if it continues. It will also render your population mentally unstable and exacerbate the already substantial crime problems your country has due to poverty and drugs.

You have inherited this system of population control and as such are not responsible for it, but you are responsible for protecting and serving your people and you can only do this if you shut down all covert methods of depopulation and join me in forging global consensus for worldwide legislation that restricts family size to replacement level fertility; that is, two children per couple.

Continuing to poison your people with endocrine disruptors delivered through water, salt and packaging, as well as through aerial spraying and adulterated vaccines, is an invitation to civil war, as it constitutes genocide against innocent and helpless civilians and turns the government against the people.

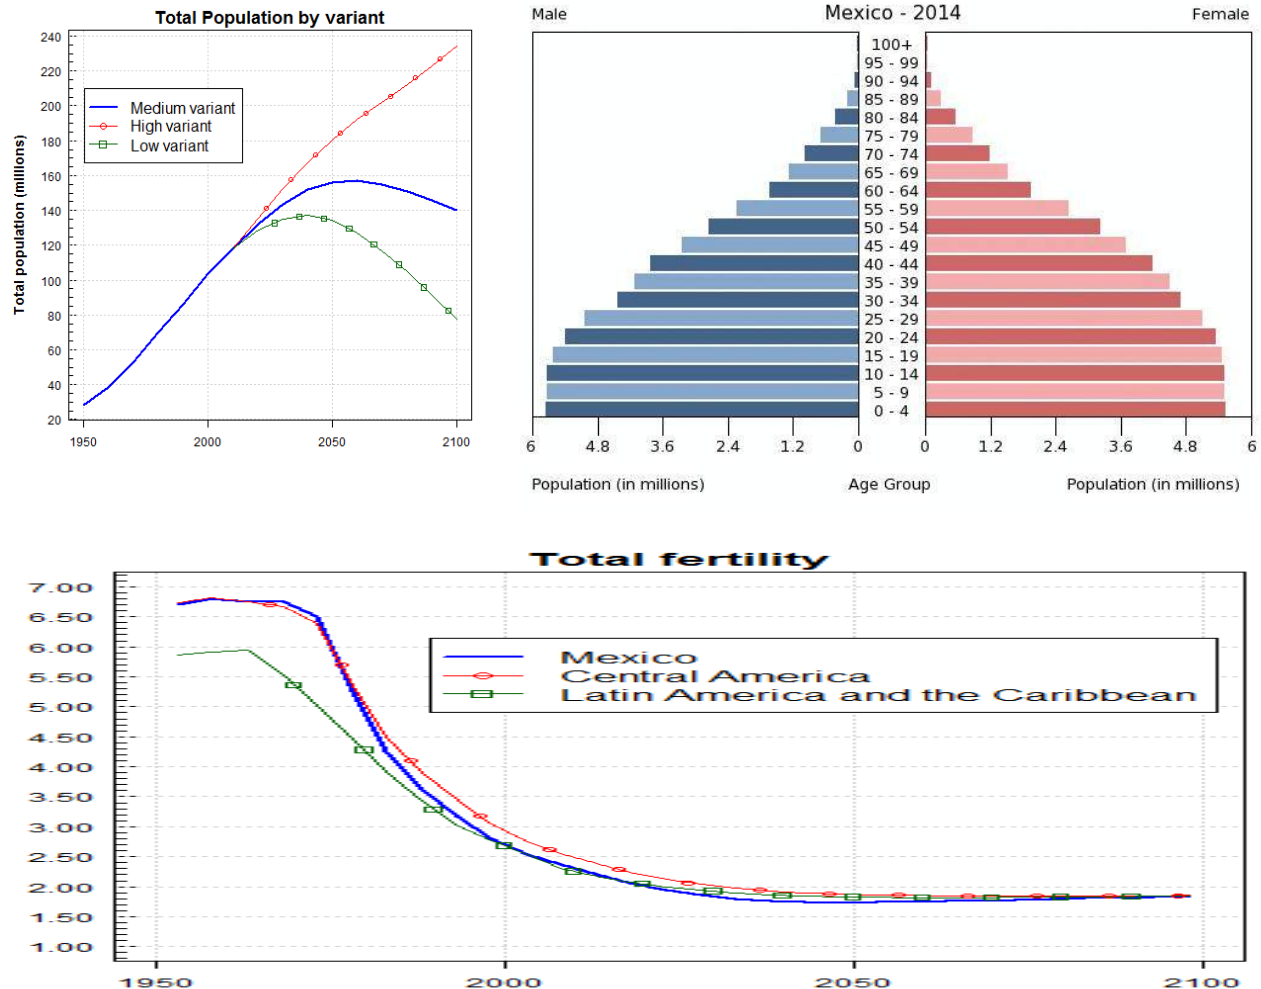

Mexico's previous administrations have gotten away with it because the secret of population control via covert poisoning was still a secret. That is no longer the case. I have exposed the Global Depopulation Policy and its methods and any government that continues to stick its head in the sand and fails to stop the genocide will end up in front of a firing squad.

I stand by to assist you in legitimizing your government by returning it to the rule of law and to respect for its people. I can also help you get the UN and the Anglo-American coalition of genocidal entities that masquerades as the international community off your back. All you need to do is ask me to come to Mexico and speak with you. For your own sake, I hope this happens sooner rather than later.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

Mexico joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1973 when its total fertility rate was 6.5 children per woman. Within ten years, it declined to 4.3 children per woman, thus by a third, even though the contraceptive prevalence rate was at around 30% and thus could not account for the drop in fertility. Mexico achieved this demographic miracle through fluoridated water, like everyone else in North America.

By 1993, Mexico's total fertility rate declined by almost another third, from 4.3 to 3 children per woman, even though the contraceptive prevalence rate had barely reached 50% and thus could not account for the drop. This drop was accomplished by a combination of water and salt fluoridation so that both urban and rural Mexicans could be sterilized.

From 1993 until today, Mexico's government slowed down its program of population control and reached replacement level fertility in 2013. As elsewhere in North America, Mexico now uses a battery of endocrine disruptors to suppress human fertility.

The man responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation to Mexico is its 50th President, Luis Echeverría (1970-1976). His successors have continued the program without interruption: José López Portillo (1976-1982), Miguel de la Madrid (1982-1988), Carlos Salinas de Gortari (1988-1994), Ernesto Zedillo (1994-2000), Vicente Fox (2000-2006), Felipe Calderón (2006-2012), and incumbent Enrique Peña Nieto (since December 2012).

Mexico's rapid drop in fertility during the 1970s and 1980s (from nearly 7 to 3.5 children per woman) happened without the help of contraceptives, as the prevalence rate was less than 40% during the 1970s and less than 50% during the 1980s. By the 1990s the rate increased to 70%, where it remains to this day, to better conceal the use of covert chemical sterilization methods.

At less than 1%, abortion is a non-factor for Mexico's drop in fertility.

Mexico has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing GDP. The data shows that Mexico's GDP did not begin to rise rapidly until the early 1990s by which time fertility had halved.

Mexico is in stage three of the demographic transition.

President Mori,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The Federated States of Micronesia was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy in 1950, just three years after becoming a United Nations Trust Territory under US administration, but population control measures were soon abandoned and not restarted until 1972. Covert methods of depopulation were employed on the people of Micronesia from 1972 until the end of American administration in 1987, by which time the total fertility rate declined from 7 to 5 children per woman.

As soon as the country became a UN member state in 1991, it took control over the depopulation program and in the meantime the total fertility rate has declined to 3.4 children per woman. Both the country's population pyramid and population graph show this rollercoaster history of engineered population control.

While I do not dispute the necessity of population control I strongly object to the methods encouraged by the UN, its western sponsors and cooperating governments. These methods constitute genocide by any definition and lead to infertility in a quarter of the population after only three generations. It also degrades the genetic and intellectual endowment of the people further with each generation thus abused.

Last but not least, these methods are no longer possible because I exposed them and have deprived governments of the cover of secrecy. If these methods are continued without the cover of secrecy they will trigger civil war and that would defy the purpose of covert depopulation, which is to preserve the world from war

I am therefore giving you the opportunity to stop committing genocide and to legislate population control. This means that you will have to tell your people the truth. It also means that we will have to change the international system along the lines I have suggested in my just published book The Future of Global Governance.

To accomplish this mammoth task national leaders will have to push for UN reform and 2015 is the opportune moment to do so since this is the year the world will embark on a sustainable course. There can be no sustainability without controlled depopulation and there can be no controlled depopulation without enlisting the people's help and their voluntary or legally mandated cooperation.

To get the people's cooperation national leaders have to educate themselves first and then educate their people. To this end, I am providing you, free of cost, with the material you will need to educate yourself and your members of parliament. You will find it here:

Use it at your discretion, but use it without delay. And when you are convinced that the only way out of genocide is the way I have outlined in my books, then you must instruct your ambassador to the UN, Ms. Chigiyal, to use your country's vote to initiate UN reform.

I stand by to assist you in any way I can.

As High Commissioner of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands from 1969 to 1976, Edward E. Johnston began covertly undermining human fertility in Micronesia on behalf of President Nixon, America's premier depopulationist. This was continued by all subsequent high commissioners until 1987, by which time Micronesians took control over their own country: Peter Tali Coleman (1976-1977), Adrian P. Winkel (1977-1981), and Janet J. McCoy (1981-1987). As the total fertility graph above clearly shows, it is during this period of American administration that the fertility declined the most and most rapidly, going from 7 to 5 children per woman.

Since independence, Micronesia's leaders have slowed down the pace of population control. The total fertility rate has declined to 3.4 children per woman and the contraceptive prevalence rate has climbed to 55%. This decline in fertility is aided by endocrine disruptors in the food chain.

President Timofti and Prime Minister Leancă,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Moldova was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by the Soviets in 1959 and the total fertility rate decreased from 3.7 to 2.3 children per woman by 1991, when Moldova regained its independence. But instead of protecting the people from covert depopulation measures, the newly elected Moldovan government joined NATO's Partnership for Peace program in 1994 and the Council of Europe in 1995 and accelerated and intensified the people's poisoning with endocrine disruptors, as a result of which the total fertility rate has sunk far below replacement level and is currently at 1.2 children per woman.

If you continue in this fashion there will be no Moldovans a century from now. And they will all have been killed by their own government's idiotic policies; or worse, by the ignorance of its elected politicians.

I am now giving you the opportunity to change course and detach Moldova from the genocidal policies of an international system gone haywire. This is also your chance to save your lives and your legacies from people's wrath and retribution, which will undoubtedly come once knowledge of the engineered demographic transition reaches critical mass.

I am also giving you the opportunity to change the international system by supporting a drastic reform of the United Nations along the lines envisioned by my just published book "The Future

of Global Governance". This will enable the community of nations to reach sustainability without committing genocide.

The upcoming negotiations in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, on the financing of sustainable development in July of this year, followed by the meeting in New York in September to agree on the newly formulated Sustainable Development Goals, and the December meeting in Paris to adopt a global agreement on human-induced climate change, will determine whether the world will fall into global conflict or go into the future united. The latter and much preferred outcome very much depends on the abandonment of covert depopulation measures.

To educate yourselves and your people in advance of these events I encourage you to freely access and widely disseminate my work. You will find it here:

Until 1991, the ravages visited on the Moldavian people can be ascribed to the Soviet leadership. Since then, however, Moldavians can thank their own elected leaders for poisoning them to infertility and ill-health. The following presidents are responsible: Mircea Snegur (1990-1997), Petru Lucinschi (1997-2001), Vladimir Voronin (2001-2009), Mihai Ghimpu (2009-2010), Marian Lupu (2010-2012), and the incumbent Nicolae Tomofti (since March 2012).

They have been assisted in genocide by the following prime ministers: Mircea Druc (1990-1991), Valeriu Muravschi (1991-1992), Andrei Sangheli (1992-1997), Ion Ciubuc (1997-1999), Dumitru Braghiș (1999-2001), Vasile Tarlev (2001-2008), Zinaida Greceanîi (2008-2009), Vlad Filat (2009-2013), and incumbent Iurie Leancă (since April 2013).

To hide the use of covert chemical sterilization methods, Moldova's leaders have increased the contraceptive prevalence rate from nearly nothing to around 70%.

The historical record shows that abortion did play a significant role in controlling population growth from 1960 to 2000, time during which half of all pregnancies ended in abortion. Since then, however, endocrine disruptors have made conception rare and to date the abortion rate has declined to 28%.

The incidence of abortion has declined by half and the contraceptive prevalence rate has declined from its peak of 74% to 68%. Fertility, however, did not go up as it should have if abortion and contraceptives had been the principal reasons for its suppression. Instead, the total fertility rate has continued to decline rapidly and has sunk below 1.2 children per woman since 1996 and remains there to this day. This disconnect between fertility and contraceptives/abortion can only be explained by covert depopulation measures.

Moldova is in stage five of the demographic transition as the population has been decreasing since 1999 due to negative growth and not just emigration.

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Monaco did not become a UN member state until 1993, but it joined the UN-delegated Global Depopulation Policy in 1946, thus from its very inception. As a microstate located on the French Riviera and bordered by France on three sides, Monaco has synchronized its depopulation program with that of France, being dependent on France for its food and water; both of which are delivery methods for endocrine disruptors in order to impair fertility. That is why Monaco's population pyramid is very similar to that of France and both countries are at the same stage in their demographic transition.

With a landmass of only 2.02 km² (0.78 sq. mi) and a population of 36,371, which results in a population density of 18,005/km², by far the highest in the world, no one can condemn the government of Monaco for instituting tough population control measures. The time has come, however, to put an end to covert methods of depopulation, because they downgrade the genetic and intellectual endowment of man and constitute genocide, and embrace overt methods and for this task few countries in the world are better positioned than Monaco. I say this because nearly half of Monaco's people are over 55 years of age and only 12% under 14, the total fertility rate is an abysmal 1.5 children per woman, and because Monegasques are affluent and well educated and therefore capable of understanding the need for replacement level fertility and of taking control over their own reproductive rights so the government does not have to poison them to infertility anymore.

To shift from covert to overt population control methods, however, we must first reform the UN and the international system whose foundation is covert depopulation. How to reform the system of global governance and why I describe in my just published and freely available book The Future of Global Governance. One way or another replacement level fertility will have to be declared a Global Security Prerogative and enshrined in international law. Only that will stop the genocide and environmental devastation as well as provide a starting point for decarbonization and ultimately make sustainability possible.

To begin the process I urge you to instruct Monaco's ambassador to the UN, Ms. Isabelle F. Picco, to call for UN reform. And to prepare the Monegasques for the changes ahead I urge you to disseminate my freely available work through Monaco's media and education system:

The days of secrecy, deception, backroom deals and lies are over. The days of special rights and privileges for elites are also over. The sooner you realize this the better it will be for Monaco and for the world.

I stand by to assist you in any way I can.

As in France, covert population control methods were started in 1948 by Louis II, Prince of Monaco (1922 -1949), and continued by his successors, Rainier III (1949-2005), and incumbent Albert II (since 2009).

Monaco hides its fertility rate statistics, but there is no reason to believe that they are any different from those of France since Monaco has synchronized its population control program and methodology with France until fifteen years ago. It is therefore safe to assume that the total fertility rate of Monaco prior to 1950 was about 3 children per woman, just as in France. Since then Monaco's total fertility rate has decreased to just 1.5 children per woman.

Monaco hides also its contraceptive prevalence rate as well as its abortion rate in order to conceal the use of covert chemical sterilization methods. Since Monaco has one of the strictest abortion laws in Europe, allowing the procedure only to save the mother's life, whatever small number of abortions are performed will be statistically insignificant and will have no bearing on Monaco's very low total fertility rate of 1.5 children per woman.

Judging by Monaco's economic statistics, and knowing that GDP growth follows low fertility, it is safe to conclude that Monaco reached replacement level fertility in the mid-1980s, which is why the GDP began exploding at that time.

Monaco is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

Mongolia became a UN member state in 1961 and joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1973, which is why your country's total fertility rate went from 7.5 to 2.5 children per woman in less than twenty years.

While I do not question the soundness and the necessity of population control for Mongolia's prosperity and its environmental sustainability, I do urge you to reconsider the use of covert methods of depopulation, which amount to nothing more than mass poisoning and chemical and biological warfare on innocent and defenseless civilians. Western "experts" have undoubtedly deceived you with regards to the devastating effect these genocidal methods have on the bodies and minds of your people. They have deceived you because misery likes company and the only protection they have against future criminal charges is the complicity of every nation on earth, which they have obtained by hook or by crook.

Mongolia is a large country with a very small population and the lowest population density in the world. As such, you not only have ample time to educate your people on how to have smaller families voluntarily but in fact need more people to be able to develop your vast country.

I stand by to fly to Mongolia and advise you on how to fulfill the objectives of the MDG as well as your international obligations with respect to population control demanded by your membership in the UN without violating your people's rights and liberties and turning them into walking zombies. Covert depopulation measures were started in 1973 by Yumjaagiin Tsedenbal, the leader of the Mongolian People's Republic from 1958 to 1984, and continued by his successor, Jambyn Batmönkh, in office from 1984 until the end of communist Mongolia in 1990. The communist leaders of Mongolia managed to reduce the total fertility from 7.5 to 4 children per woman.

After Mongolia democratized in 1990, covert depopulation measures were continued by the first freely elected President of Mongolia, Punsalmaagiin Ochirbat (1990-1997) and all his successors without exception: Natsagiin Bagabandi (1990-2001), Nambaryn Enkhbayar (1997-2005), and the incumbent Tsakhiagiin Elbegdorj (since June 2009). The democratically elected leaders of Mongolia have managed to lower the total fertility rate from 4.5 to 2.1 children per woman by 2010.

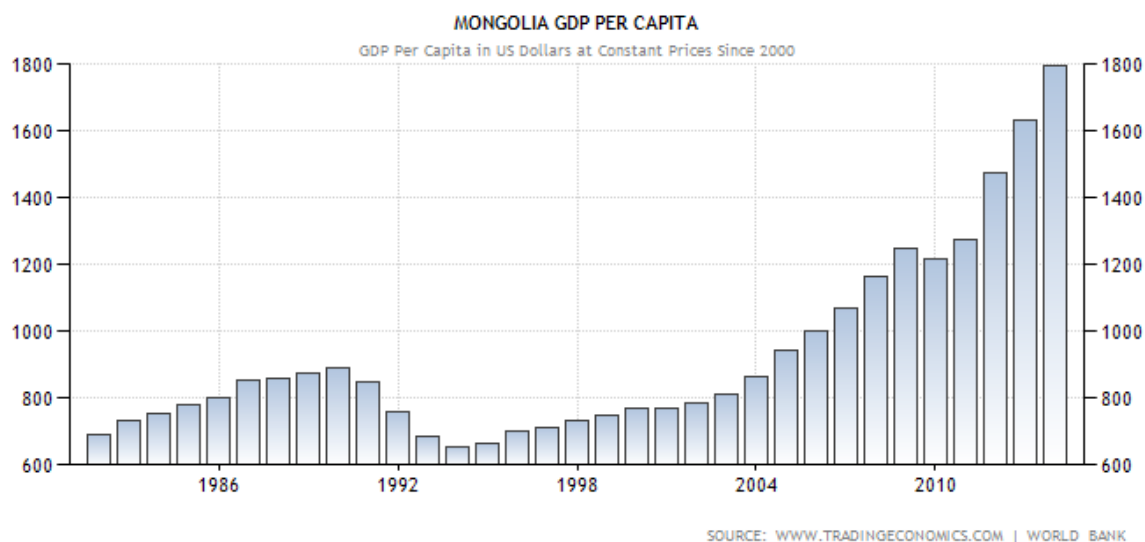

During the 1970s and 1980s Mongolia's contraceptive prevalence rate was insignificant and the abortion rate rather low at around 10% yet fertility declined from 7.5 to 4 children per woman.

During the 1990s the contraceptive prevalence rate rose to 60% and the abortion rate to 25% while fertility dropped from 4 to 2.2 children per woman, which is impossible without the use of covert depopulation measures. Since the turn of the century, contraceptive use dropped to 55% and abortions have dropped to 16%, but instead of seeing a substantial fertility increase the total fertility rate has remained unchanged.

At no point in time have contraceptives and abortions played anything other than a secondary role in Mongolia's fertility decline.

Mongolia has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing GDP, which began to rise rapidly at the turn of the 21st century when the country reached replacement level fertility.

Mongolia is in stage three of the demographic transition.

President Vujanović and Prime Minister Đukanović,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Montenegro joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1954 while still part of the former Yugoslavia, which was a UN founding member, and continued its membership after gaining independence in 2006. As a result, the total fertility rate decreased from 4.6 children per woman prior to 1954 to replacement level fertility by 1984 and sub-replacement level fertility since 1988. As elsewhere in Europe, this decline was accomplished through the adulteration of the basic elements of life – water, food, beverages – with endocrine disruptors to subvert human fertility and prevent the moment of conception.

Your constitution describes Montenegro as a “civic, democratic, ecological state of social justice, based on the reign of law”. While you indeed have the highest biodiversity in Europe and are a civic society you cannot claim to have the rule of law or democracy so long as the government commits genocide in order to comply with its international obligation with respect to population control. And since the entire western world is in the same boat and has yet to know democracy and the rule of law, the time has come to drop the charade and reform the international system so that democracy and the rule of law are no longer subverted from the global governance level and our children sickened and enfeebled by state-sponsored mass poisoning perpetrated in the name of peace.

To have peace without poison, real democracy and the rule of law, we have to designate replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law so as to empower people to take control of their own reproduction. How to restructure and reform the UN system and why, I describe in my recently published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance.

I urge you to instruct your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Milorad Šćepanović, to initiate reform in advance of the crucially important meetings on sustainability later this year in Addis Ababa, New York and Paris. There can be no sustainable development and no international peace without open, just and safe depopulation and that, in turn, hinges on having the right international architecture and a clear plan with clear rules.

Equally, there can be no shift from covert to overt depopulation unless the truth is freed and people are told the facts so they understand what is expected of them and why. To educate your people I am giving you free access to my work:

If you think you can stick your head in the sand and pretend that the people can be kept in the dark by treacherous government institutions and a controlled and useless media, your heads will be buried in the sand by the rampaging mobs of angry parents and citizens protecting their children from illegitimate and criminal governments. You were elected to lead not to poison. So lead!

I stand by to show you how to lead if you are willing to learn. Otherwise you can continue to parrot and mimic a degenerated West and find out the hard way where that leads to.

Marshal Tito and his successors at the helm of the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia are responsible for subverting the reproductive rights of Montenegrins from 1954 until the breakup of Yugoslavia in 1992, by which time the total fertility rate had been reduced from 4.6 to 2 children per woman.

During the short-lived Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (1992-2003), and the even more short-lived State Union of Serbia and Montenegro (2003-2006), Montenegro's own leaders are to blame for sterilizing their people and further reducing the total fertility rate from 2 to 1.6 children per woman.

Since 2006, the responsibility for committing genocide falls on President Filip Vujanović (since 2003, also Prime Minister of Montenegro from 1998 to 2002) and Prime Minister Milo Đukanović (since 2012, also President of Montenegro from 1998-2002).

Montenegro's sub-replacement level fertility can certainly not be explained by the country's contraceptive prevalence rate, which was never higher than 52% and is currently at 39%.

The historical record shows that abortions have played an important but not primary role in Montenegro's fertility reduction during the 1970s and 1980s when c. 40% of all pregnancies ended in abortion. During the 1990s the abortion rate fell to 35% and since the turn of the 21st century the rate has declined even more rapidly, to 20% by 2005 and to less than 10% to date. This demonstrates that abortions cannot possibly explain Montenegro's sub-replacement level fertility since 1997 and cannot even explain the rapid drop in fertility from 1954 to 1984 when the fertility rate declined from nearly 5 to just 2 children per woman.

The only possible explanation for Montenegro's demographic transition is covert methods of depopulation used illegally by the government.

Montenegro is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

King Mohammed VI and Prime Minister Benkirane,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Morocco joined the United Nations in 1956 and the Global Depopulation Policy in 1962. Consequently, the total fertility rate of the Moroccan people dropped from 7 to 2.2 children per woman to date and the population is forecast to peak in 2050 at 43 million.

This engineered demographic transition is being accomplished as elsewhere in the world by covertly subverting the people's fertility with chemical and biological toxins inserted in water, beverages and food or delivered directly into the bloodstream through vaccines.

Not only is this method of population control in violation of the Genocide Convention it is also no longer necessary because the world now has all the tools it needs to pursue population control legally, safely, openly and justly. What is missing is the confession that governments throughout the world, assisted by the UN and its agencies, practice covert depopulation. How to remedy this problem and steer a new course, as well as why this is necessary, I describe in my newly published document "The Future of Global Governance".

I suggest you read this document carefully, in advance of the forthcoming international meetings on sustainability in Addis Ababa, New York and Paris, and direct Ambassador Loulichki to lobby for UN reform accordingly. And to prepare your people for the transition from covert to overt methods of population control and for the decarbonization of the economy, I urge you to freely access and widely disseminate my work, which is available online here:

Morocco's genocide was initiated in 1962 by King Hassan II (1961-1999), who eviscerated all rights and liberties from the 1960s to the 1980s, in what came to be known the "years of lead", in order to be able to poison his people into sterility and ill-health. By the end of his reign he had reduced the total fertility rate from 7 to 2.8 children per woman.

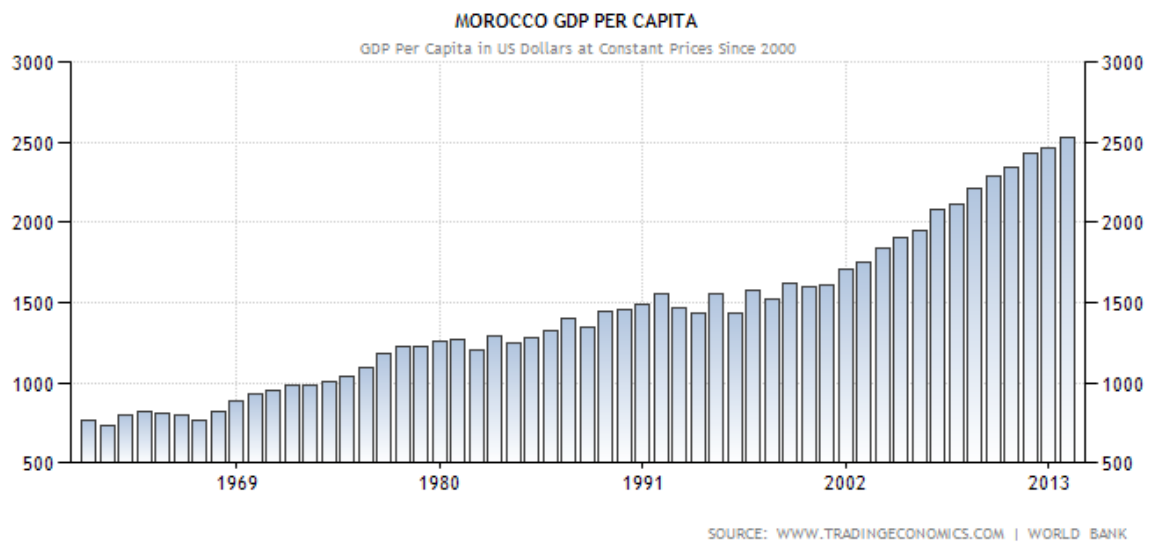

The genocide has been continued by his son, Mohammed VI, the current King of Morocco since his father's death in 1999, who has succeeded in bringing the total fertility down from 2.8 to 2.2 children per woman.

Until the 1990s, Morocco's contraceptive prevalence rate was below 30% and can therefore not possibly account for a reduction in fertility from 7 to 2.8 children per woman. Since then the contraceptive prevalence rate has risen to 65% and it is still too low to account for the current total fertility rate and, as elsewhere in the world, serves only to mask the use of covert methods of depopulation.

Abortion is illegal in Morocco and therefore a non-factor in the fertility decline.

Morocco's GDP per capita began rising in the late 1960s, thus soon after fertility had started declining in the early 1960s.

Morocco is in stage three of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF MOZAMBIQUE

Armando Guebuza
President of Mozambique
<http://www.presidencia.gov.mz/index.php/contactosrodape>

Alberto Vaquina
Prime Minister of Mozambique
mozambique@un.int
<http://www.misau.gov.mz/index.php/contacte-nos>

President Guebuza and Prime Minister Vaquina,

Re: covert depopulation measures

Mozambique joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1990 and its total fertility rate has decreased from 6.4 to 5.1 children per woman. While there is little evidence of coerced or involuntary sterilization, your government must be extremely vigilant to ensure that the UN and its agencies as well as western NGOs and food aid are not fronts for subverting your people's reproductive rights. One such concealed method of depopulation is biotechnology.

Mozambique is inviting disaster by opening the door to GMOs, which is what the 2011 National Biosafety Framework has done. GMOs are an abomination conceived by the genocidal lobby which intends to starve billions to lower the global population and to blackmail governments by holding control over food through proprietary seeds. Anyone who so much as suggests that Mozambique should plant GMO crops when 90% of the country's arable land is uncultivated should be immediately stripped of his or her office.

Mozambique is a rich country with a low population density of just 28 people per square kilometer and plenty of uncultivated arable land. As such you have the luxury of time and the advantage of being able to benefit from western experience so as not to copy the mistakes and the crimes committed by the developed world in the name of necessary demographic objectives. At the same time Mozambique is a demographic time bomb with 66% of its people under 24 years of age and a fertility rate that unless lowered immediately will double the country's population every 20 years.

Because your population has quadrupled since 1950, Mozambique has become trapped in poverty and has become a primary target of the depopulation lobby which has inflicted heavy losses on your country through the man-made HIV/AIDS pandemic that affects 16% of your people. Other such attacks will follow unless you take control of your demographic destiny.

Despite 8% annual GDP growth for the past ten years, Mozambique is just threading economic waters, which is why the people's condition has not improved a bit and 80% continue to eke out a living through subsistence farming.

All your efforts and resources will fail to improve your lot unless and until you reduce the total fertility rate to replacement level fertility and do it not by poisoning or vaccinating your people into sterility, as you are being coached by the UN and its western sponsors, but through tough and honest legislation that restricts human fertility and empowers people to limit their own family size through access to safe and cheap contraceptives.

To know the methods by which the depopulation lobby undermines human fertility and longevity around the world I urge you to read and disseminate my freely available books and videos:

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCZf9rWLgwzGW34EITo0x7fA>

To understand that the days of covert depopulation measures have come to an end and that any head of state who thinks he can get away with mass murder will end up in an international criminal court and will spend the rest of his days behind bars and in infamy, you must read my appeals to your counterparts around the world:

<https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>.

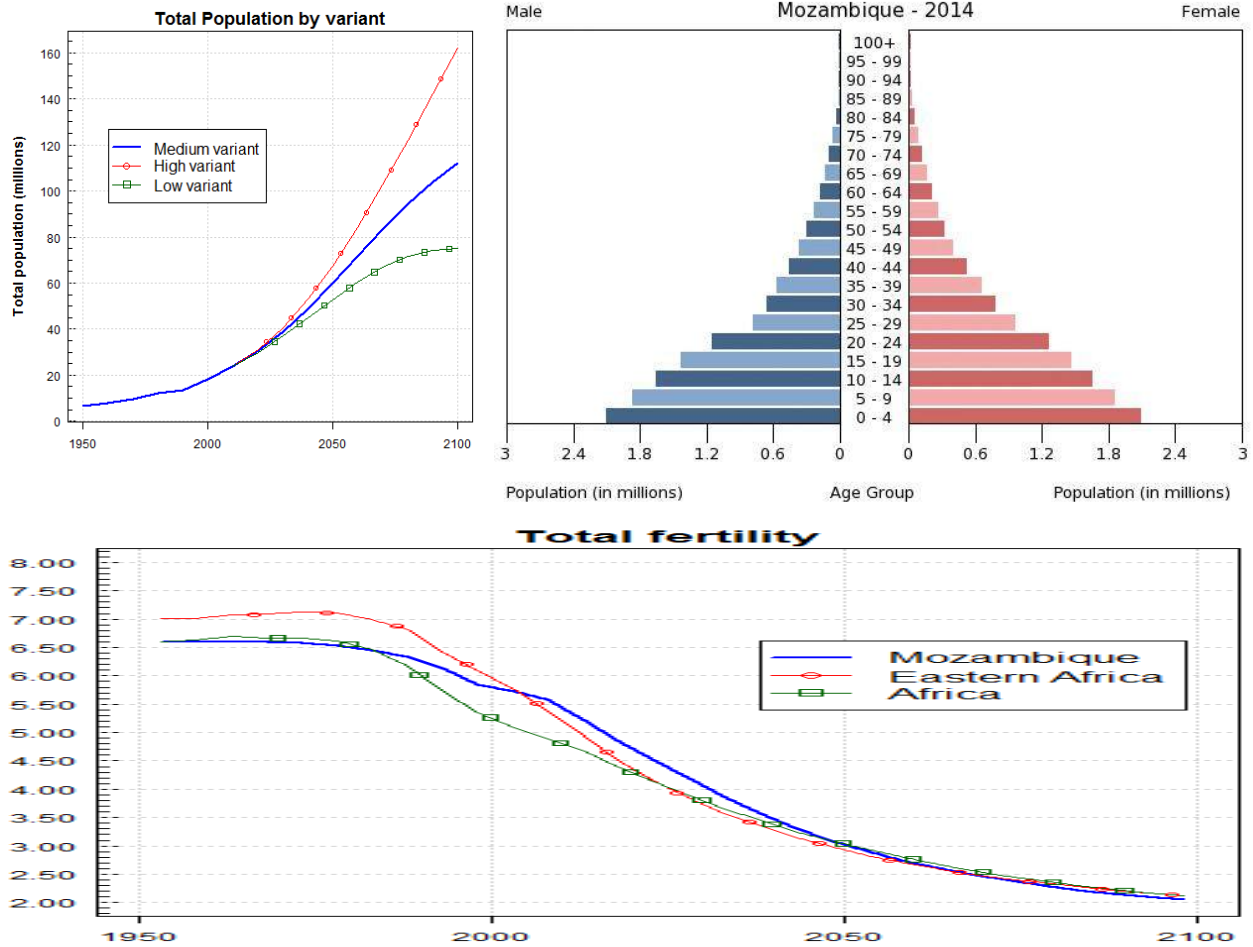

And to play a constructive role in moving the world forward and safeguarding the health of this planet for future generations, I ask that you join me in forging global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative derived from the global governance level.

The wisdom and discipline to implement such a law comes not from the existing political and institutional infrastructure but from common people like me who can no longer tolerate the hypocrisy of the current system and the oblivion of a world cheated of the truth for seven decades. If the people we elect are incapable of leading, we will cast you aside and take over the reins of the world. It is that simple and it is that urgent.

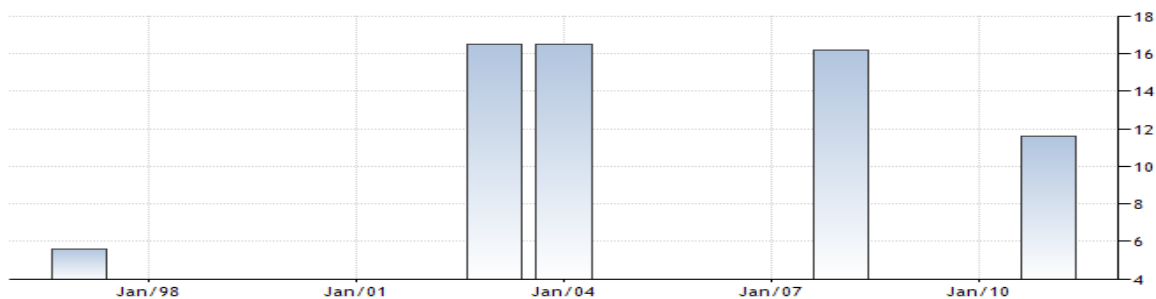

Should you heed my warnings and join me you will find an ally and a friend in me who will spare no effort to help you educate your people so we can save the world. I hope that you will invite me to Mozambique to discuss the way forward.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Mozambique’s fertility decline from 6.5 to 5.3 children per woman can be attributed to family planning services if not necessarily to better access to contraceptives since the contraceptive prevalence rate has yet to reach 18%.

Abortion is a non-factor in Mozambique’s fertility decline so far since it was just decriminalized in 2014.

Thein Sein

President of Myanmar

myanmarmission@verizon.net, director.admin.cbm@mptmail.net.mm

<https://www.facebook.com/MMPresidentUTheinSein>

President Sein,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Myanmar has been a UN member state since 1948, but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1970. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from 6 children per woman prior to 1970 to 2.2 today.

Since your government has only recently discussed restricting family size by law, the fertility decline accomplished since 1970 can only be attributed to covert methods of depopulation via chemical and biological means. This is of course the modus operandi of the international community and the UN system, which has made population control central to maintaining international peace since 1945. But this is also genocide.

Since replacement level fertility is absolutely necessary not only for international peace but also for sustainability, and since covert methods can no longer continue since I exposed them and showed that they downgrade the genetic and intellectual endowment of mankind, the time has come to bring the depopulation effort out in the open and enshrine replacement level fertility in international law as a Planetary Security Prerogative. This will allow governments to stop poisoning their people into infertility and ill-health and will empower people to take control over their reproductive systems and restrict family size accordingly. That way we can have peace without poison, thus true peace and not just the illusion of peace.

To accomplish this transition from covert to overt depopulation as well as sustainability we must first reform the UN system, a process I outline in my just published book, The Future of Global Governance. National leaders must also tell the people the truth and educate them so they can assume responsibility. To educate your people I urge you to use my freely available work:

The longer the truth is withheld the harder it will be to bring the depopulation effort into the open and the greater the danger that society will collapse into civil war, as that would be the only remaining alternative for people to protect their children from genocidal governments.

I hope you will be proactive and will instruct Myanmar's ambassador to the UN, Mr. Kyaw Tin, to call for reform of the international system and stop the genocide.

I stand by to assist you any way I can.

Covert depopulation measures were imposed in 1970 by General Ne Win, who needed to overthrow the civilian government of U Nu, the first Prime Minister of Burma, and install a military dictatorship under the name of Union Revolutionary Council. Ne Win was Burma's head of state from 1962 to 1981, time during which the total fertility rate dropped from 6 to 4.7 children per woman without the use of contraceptives since the country's contraceptive prevalence rate was at most 5% at that time.

Ne Win's military dictatorship, which lasted until 1988, was replaced by another military dictatorship led by general Saw Maung (1988-1992), which stayed in control of Burma until 2011 under the name of State Peace and Development Council. This generation of military dictators employed even harsher depopulation measures than the previous generation and it did not cede ground until it brought the country's total fertility rate down to replacement level.

To ensure that Myanmar's government continues to commit genocide for population control purposes, the military junta in control of the State Peace and Development Council dissolved itself in 2011, but installed in the presidential office one of their own, General Thein Sein, who was Myanmar's Prime Minister from 2007 to 2011 and therefore well familiar with the covert methods of depopulation employed by the military junta.

Myanmar's contraceptive prevalence rate continues to be low at 40% and therefore incapable of even masking let alone being the true reasons of the country's low fertility rate. Military dictatorships, however, do not need to cover up the tracks of their crimes, as the UN and its western sponsors need to in order to maintain the illusion of democracy and the fiction of the rule of law.

Abortion is a non-factor in Myanmar's fertility decline as it is illegal and allowed only when necessary to save a woman's life.

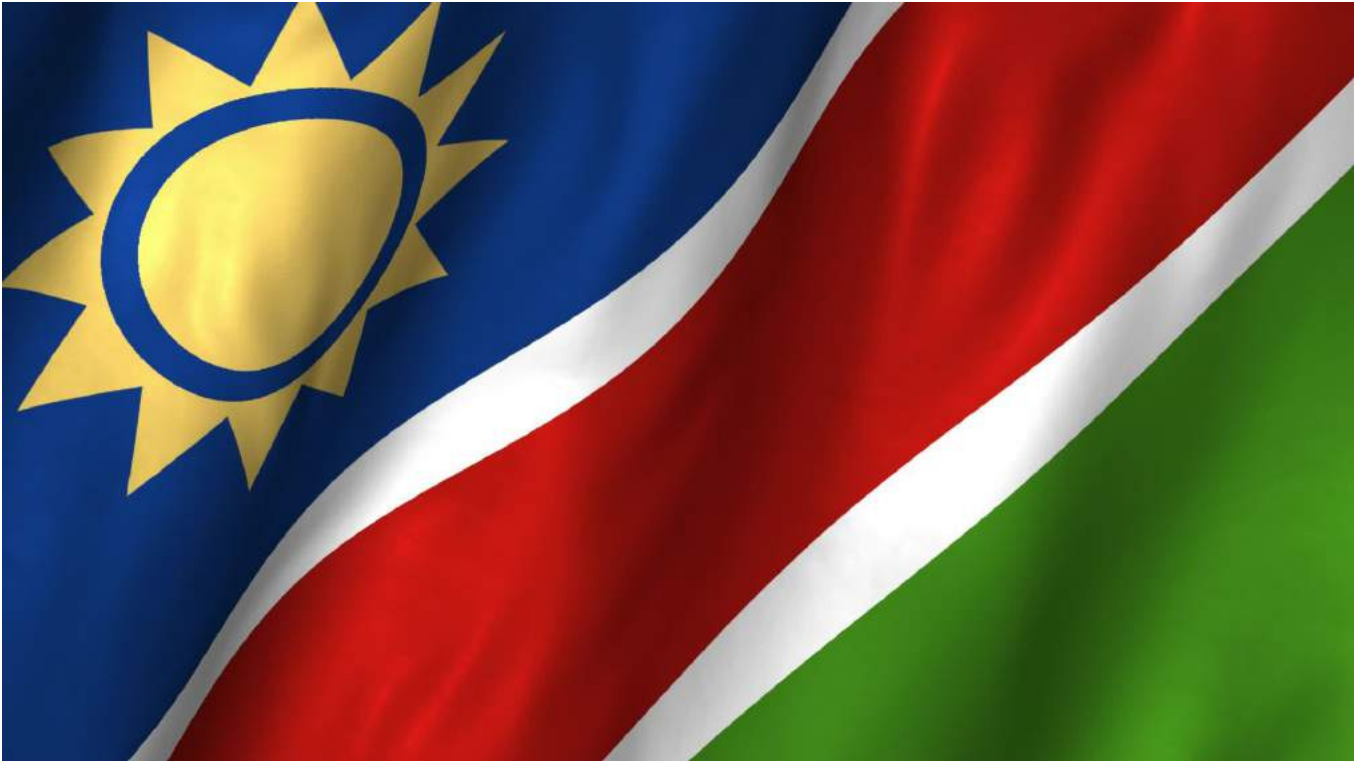

Myanmar's economic data confirms what we have seen throughout the world again and again, namely that affluence follows low fertility. As soon as Myanmar's total fertility rate reached replacement level in 2005, the GDP per capita began to rise rapidly and constantly.

President Pohamba and Prime Minister Geingob,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Namibia joined the Global Depopulation Policy informally in 1985 and formally in 1990, through activities initiated by the Südwestafrikanische Volksorganisation (SWAVO), the political party responsible for the liberation of Namibia and in power since the liberation of Namibia in 1990. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from 6.2 children per woman prior to 1985 to 2.3 as of 2014. The most rapid decline in fertility occurred in 2004 when the total fertility rate dropped from 4.6 to 3.1 children per woman, a 32% decline in a single year.

At no point in time could Namibia's war against fertility be ascribed to better education and improved access to contraceptives. Since 2004, however, the rapid decline in fertility is blatantly the result of sterilizing vaccines and drugs administered under the pretext of improving child and maternal health. The culprits are the tetanus toxoid vaccine and the Malaria drug Coartem, an artemisinin-based combination therapy.

While Namibia is one of the least densely populated countries in the world it is also devoid of water, being the driest country in sub-Saharan Africa and entirely dependent on groundwater. Furthermore, only 1% of its landmass is good for agriculture and half the population already depends on subsistence farming. This means that Namibia has to stabilize its population. Namibia, however, does not need to use covert methods of depopulation and subject its people to involuntary sterilizations under the pretext of better health.

I therefore urge you to legislate replacement level fertility and empower your people to restrict family size with safe and free or heavily subsidized contraceptives.

To free yourselves of the yoke imposed on your country by the UN system and its western sponsors, which is based on genocide, I encourage you to join my effort to compel the international community to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law.

To this end, I hope that you will instruct your nation's ambassador at the UN, Mr. Wilfred Emvula, to lobby for a vote by the General Assembly with respect to replacement level fertility. And until such a vote takes place, I suggest you begin educating your people on the threats they face if they do not assume control over their reproductive systems. I am providing you with free access to my books and videos so you can begin the process of transition from covert to overt population control methods.

The man responsible for forcing covert depopulation measures onto Namibia in 1979 is Marais Viljoen, the State President of South Africa from 1979 to 1984. From 1979 until 1988, when South Africa ended the occupation of Namibia, the total fertility rate dropped from 6.6 to 5.5 children per woman.

Undoubtedly as a condition for Namibia's recognition as an independent state, the UN and the international community demanded that the new leadership of Namibia continues to employ covert methods of depopulation.

Sam Nujomo, Namibia's first President (1990-2005) and leader of the South-West Africa People's Organization (SWAPO), which won Namibia's independence from South Africa in 1990, did as he was told and the total fertility rate dropped from 5.5 to 3.5 children per woman during his presidency.

Since Namibia's contraceptive prevalence rate until the end of 1980 was near zero and during the 1990s was below 30%, one can only conclude that the drastic reduction in fertility from 1979 to 2005 has absolutely nothing to do with the use of contraceptives and everything to do with the use of involuntary methods of sterilization, most likely adulterated vaccines.

Abortion is a non-factor in Namibia's fertility decline as it is illegal and allowed only in those rare circumstances when it is necessary to save a woman's life or when the pregnancy is the result of rape or incest.

Namibia too has been rewarded for its genocidal acts with a growing per capita GDP, which began to rise rapidly when fertility had already declined substantially at the beginning of the 21st century (from 6.5 to 3.5 children per woman).

President Waqa,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Nauru gained its independence in 1968 and was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by the international community in 1980, a full 19 years before becoming a UN member state and just as the island's phosphate reserves had been exhausted and the country was left without an income after a fifteen year mining bonanza that also ruined the island's natural environmental and devastated 80% of its land area.

With 10,000 people crowded on a 21 square kilometer island to the tune of 450 people per square kilometer, the 23rd highest population density in the world, Nauru is the smallest state in the South Pacific with the highest obesity ranking in the world; 97% of men and 93% of women are obese. This health disaster is the result of imported Western food laced with endocrine disruptors in order to subvert the reproductive systems of the Nauruan and stop the population from growing before all natural resources are exhausted. Already Nauru depends on desalination plants and rooftop storage tanks to meet its water needs since the island's limited fresh water resources have long been overwhelmed by demand from a population that has grown threefold since 1950.

You can continue to be poisoned into sterility and ill-health until you are extinct or you can join my effort to forge global consensus for replacement level fertility being declared a Planetary

Security Prerogative and enshrined in international law from the global governance level so that people across the world can assume control over their reproductive rights and the genocide can stop. How this can be accomplished and why this is necessary I explain in my recently published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance, which also outlines the manner in which the UN system must be reformed.

Since 2015 is the do or die year in terms of embarking or failing to embark on a sustainable pathway, this is the time for Nauru to use its UN ambassador, Ms. Marlene Moses, to initiate deep reform of the international system. Failing to do so will lead to your people's engineered extinction and your island's submersion by rising sea levels caused by the unsustainable social and economic models of the developed world.

You must also begin the process of educating your people about the need to assume responsibility and what this means. You will find all the information you need for this in my freely available work:

The statistical data publicly available for Nauru is insufficient to paint a clear picture of how the population control program has proceeded. What is certain is that prior to the adoption of population control methods in 1980, Nauru's total fertility rate was consistently above 5 children per woman, but once the UN began interfering with the people's reproductive freedom it has been erratic and has even reached replacement level in 2007 only to bounce back up to 4 by 2011 and then drop down again to 2.9 children per woman in 2014.

What is also certain is that the presidents of Nauru who allowed the international community to covertly sterilize their people with adulterated vaccines are Bernard Dowiyogo and Ludwig Scotty.

Equally certain is that Nauru's fertility reduction was at no time the result of contraceptives or abortions since the contraceptive prevalence rate was never higher than 36% and abortions are to this day illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life or health.

FEDERAL DEMOCRATIC REPUBLIC OF NEPAL

12 October 2014

Ram Baran Yadav

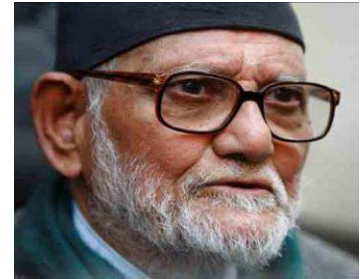

President of Nepal

mail@presidentofnepal.gov.np

Sushil Koirala

Prime Minister of Nepal

info@nita.gov.np, info@opmcm.gov.np

President Yadav and Prime Minister Koirala,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Nepal joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1975 and has since seen its total fertility rate reduced from 6 to 2.6 children per woman. Nepal's population grew from 9 million people in 1950 to 26.5 million in 2011 and is still rapidly growing as the birth rate exceeds the death rate fourfold.

Since 70% of the population depends on agriculture and half the country's landmass is high mountains and therefore unsuitable for growing crops or even habitation, malnutrition is endemic and nearly half of all children are stunted, 35% underweight, and 15% wasted. The need for food has pushed agriculture into marginal land and led to the rapid deforestation of Nepal causing floods and soil erosion, which further reduces the country's food growing potential when it most needs it.

With a median age of 21, a population density of 180 people per km² and the world's highest mountains occupying at least half of your landmass, crowding Nepal's 26 million people into the bottom half of the country, you have a serious land shortage and demographic problem that requires drastic measures.

You have made political progress by finally abolishing the monarchy and establishing a federal multiparty representative democratic republic in 2008, but half of your working-age population is either unemployed or underemployed, which accounts for the high emigration. This means that your administration is under great and justified pressure from the international community to defuse your overpopulation bomb before it leads to widespread famine, breakdown of the social order and environmental disaster.

I urge you however not to continue with the seemingly easy covert depopulation solutions pushed by the UN, the World Bank and foreign aid agencies and to instead legislate population control the way China has done since 1978. If you continue to subvert your people's reproductive rights and abilities with adulterated vaccines and chemical sterilizations funded by the UN and its western backers you will be forced to commit ever greater crimes against humanity and your democracy and rule of law will be perverted before they have a chance to even take root.

Instead of copying the West's mistakes and destroying the very things that make you human and decent, learn from them and avoid making them. If you do not, your people will be rendered sterile, stupid and ill and your country's wealth and your children's future will be stolen by the same criminal coalition that has raped and pillaged the world since colonial times. China is a far better example to follow in terms of population control and is far closer to home. And given your dire demographic situation it is clear that adopting a one-child policy, as China has done, and keeping it in place for the next three generations is the only plausible solution for Nepal.

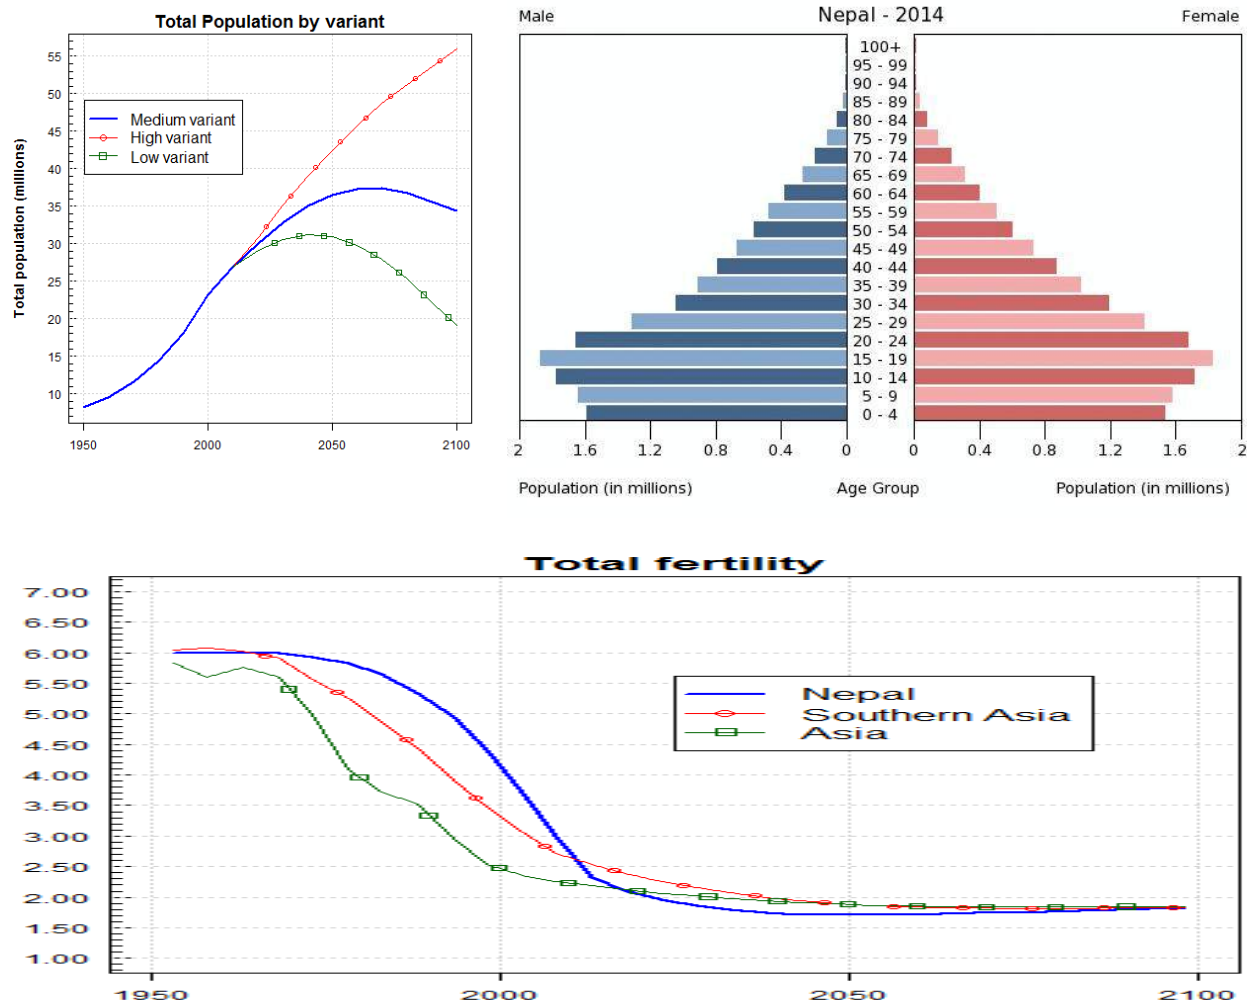

If you do not do it of your own accord through legislative means, the genocidal lobby that makes up the international community today will do it for you through chemical, biological or bacteriological war and no man, woman or child will be spared the horrors of these diabolical weapons.

To strengthen your hand and negotiating position, I suggest you help me forge global consensus for a worldwide population control law. This will keep the mass murderers out of your country and destiny and will rescue the global population from the engineered genocide that is now in full swing.

I stand by to help you and will fly to Nepal to advise your government on how best to fulfill its international obligations, protect your people's rights and liberties, and climb out of poverty and desperation.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

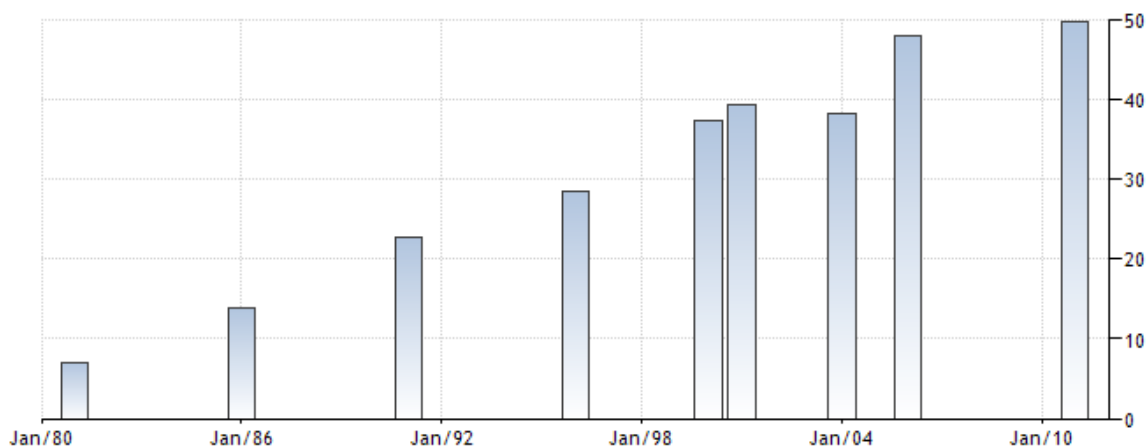

The man responsible for introducing population control measures in Nepal is Birendra Bir Bikram Shah, King of Nepal from 1972 until 2001. During his reign the total fertility rate dropped from 6 to 4 children per woman even though the contraceptive prevalence rate was below 20% until 1990 and below 30% until 2000.

Upon murdering his own father, Dipendra Bir Bikram Shah Dev became King of Nepal and reigned until he was deposed in 2008. He continued to involuntarily sterilize his people into sterility and during his reign the total fertility rate dropped from 4 to 3 children per woman.

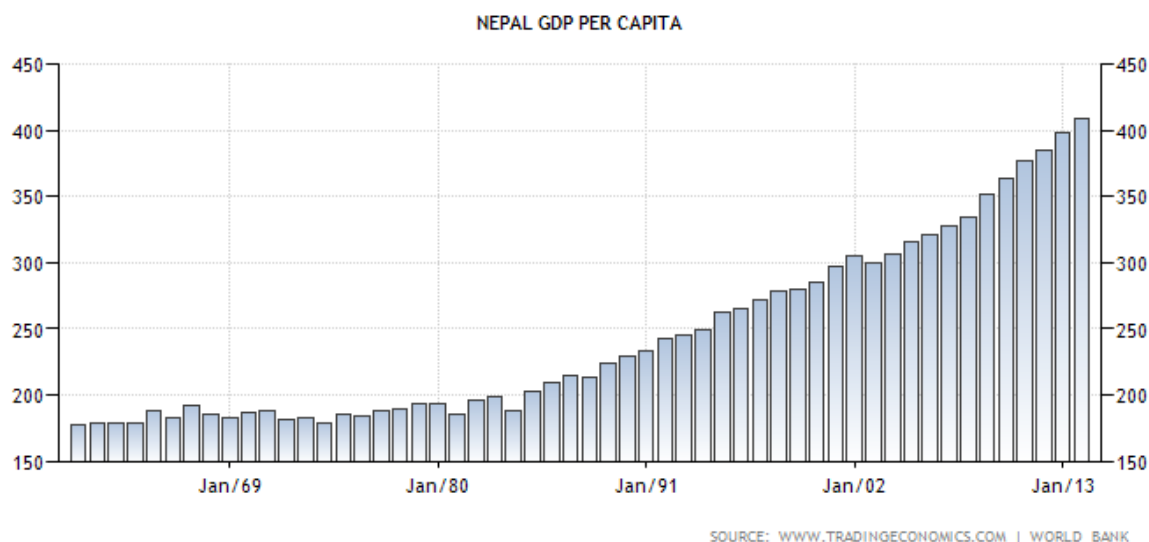

Once Nepal became a democracy in 2008 the poisoning program was taken over by President Ram Baran Yadav. Since then the total fertility rate has decreased from 3 to 2.3 children per woman.

At no point in time has Nepal's contraceptive prevalence rate been responsible for the impressive drop in fertility since even today only half the people use contraceptives and even if their use were fail-free it could not possible account for the country low fertility rate.

Abortion was illegal until 2002 and remains very rare to this day, which is why abortion is a non-factor in Nepal's fertility decline.

Nepal has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing per capita GDP, which began to rise in the mid-1980s when fertility had already been declining for a decade

Nepal is in stage three of the demographic transition.

KINGDOM OF THE NETHERLANDS

King Willem-Alexander

Mark Rutte

Prime Minister

<https://www.government.nl/contact/contact-form>

King Willem-Alexander and Prime Minister Rutte,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

Let me begin by thanking Princess Beatrix, then Queen of the Netherlands, for encouraging the European Journalism Centre (EJC) in 2012 to grant me access to their professional website so I can bypass the Anglo-Saxon net of media censorship. To date, the EJC remains the only mainstream media organization in the western world to give me a voice.

No other country in the world has dealt with its land shortage and population pressure problems more intelligently than the Netherlands. You are an example to the world with regards to doing more with less and, as if by a miracle, you also succeed in being the second-largest food exporter in the world.

Dutch expertise stands as a beacon to the world and as proof that we can sustain a large population until such time as we succeed in bringing down the fertility rate of every nation on earth so we can gradually, humanely and lawfully decrease the global population to a sustainable level over the next century. The Dutch political system is among the most progressive in the world and can be a guiding light to the world by legislating population control and thus take the wind out of the sails of the genocidal lobby, who insists on covertly poisoning humanity into sterility and shorter lifespans.

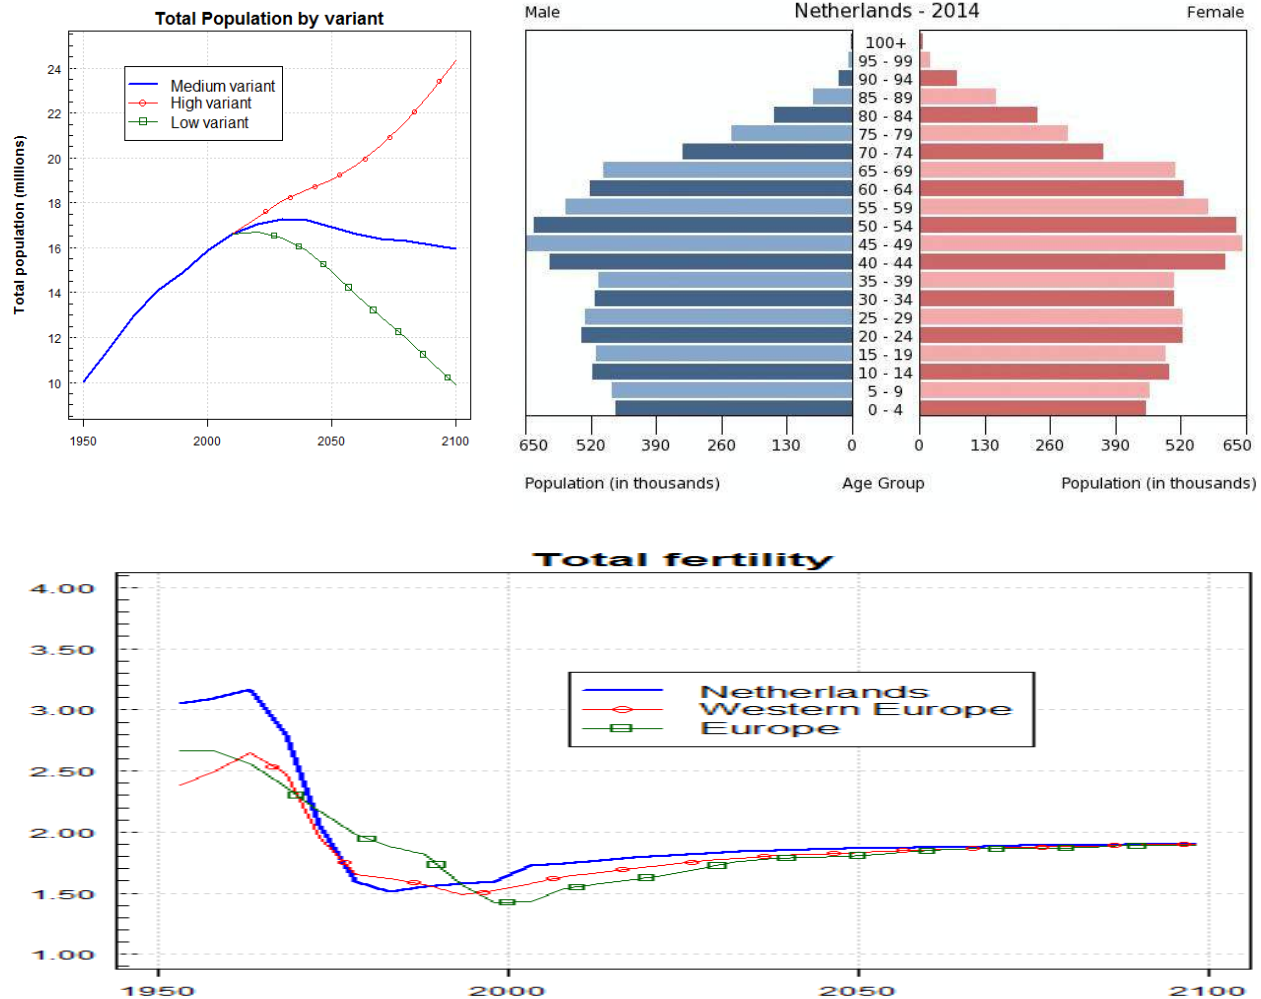

We can accomplish the demographic transition and keep our humanity. I can show you how. But you must show courage and break free of the coalition of the unwilling cobbled together by mutual coercion mutually agreed upon and delegated by the meek bureaucrats and technocrats of the United Nations. Population control is not a problem that can be solved on the sly by meek technocrats and eugenic doctors. It is a problem that can only be solved by true leaders who are willing to stand in front of the world and spell out the dire realities so that the people can make the right choices.

I hope that you will invite me to Holland without delay so we can discuss how to forge global consensus for population control legislation. Since I am already on European soil I could be in your country within hours. Take the opportunity I am offering you or face history's brutal judgment.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

The Netherlands began to suppress human fertility in 1946, when the total fertility rate was 4 children per woman and by 1972 it reached replacement level fertility and then continued to sink even further reaching a lowest low of 1.4 children per woman in 1983 and remaining at sub-replacement level fertility to this day.

Prime Minister Louis Beel (1946-1959) and Juliana Louise Emma Marie Wilhelmina, Queen of the Netherlands (1948-1980), are responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation in Holland. The job of reducing fertility below replacement level was accomplished well within Queen Juliana's reign and subsequent monarchs (Beatrix of the Netherlands, 1980-2013; and Willem-Alexander of the Netherlands, 2013 to present) and elected politicians have only needed to keep the program in place.

(1973-1977), Dries van Agt (1977-1982), Ruud Lubbers (1982-1994), Wim Kok (1994-2002), Jan Peter Balkenende (2002-2010), and the incumbent Mark Rutte (since October 2010).

That Holland accomplished low fertility without the use of family planning, contraceptives and abortions is amply demonstrated by the fact that “in the Netherlands, family planning was traditionally discouraged because it was regarded as being contrary to the objectives of marriage and as promoting promiscuity. As a result, the practice did not receive the backing and support of the Government or a majority of the population, including health professionals. Contraceptives were not readily available and could not be advertised in the Netherlands until 1969”, by which time the total fertility rate had already sunk from 4 to 2.3 children per woman. Furthermore, “during the 1970s, several attempts were made to liberalize the abortion law, but they were not successful owing to strong opposition from various sources” and it was not until 1981 that “a far-reaching abortion law was adopted in the Netherlands which repealed the restrictive abortion provisions.” (Source: United Nations Population Division, Netherlands Family Planning)

By 1981, of course, the demographic transition was already fully accomplished and Holland’s total fertility rate was already below replacement level without the help of contraceptive, abortion or family planning. The historical record shows that Holland’s abortion rate has been relatively constant at 10% for the past forty years and as such a non-factor in the fertility decline.

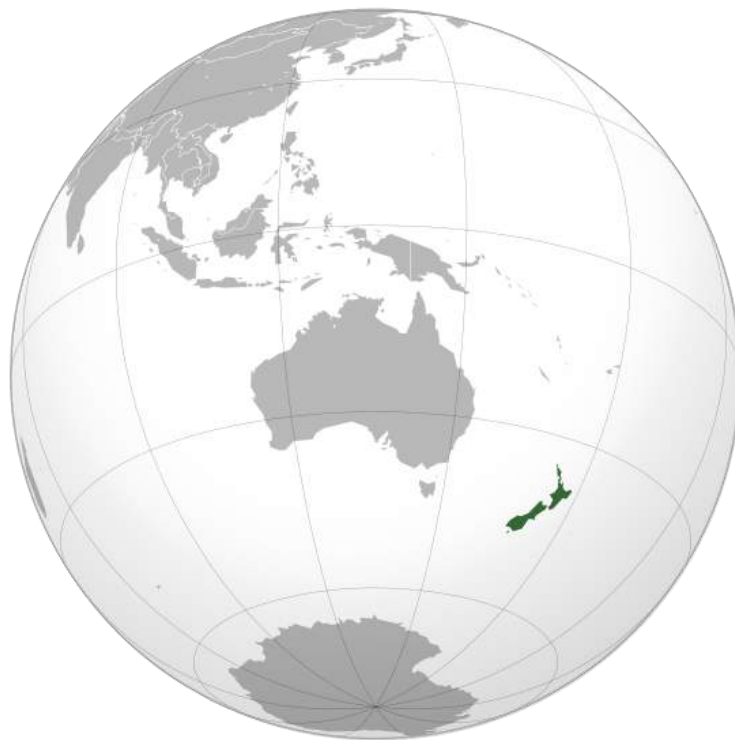

Nor can Holland’s miraculous drop in fertility be ascribed to affluence since the GDP per capita from 1950 to 1972, by which time the fertility rate had dropped from 4 to 2.2 children per woman was relatively flat, as the graph below clearly shows.

What the data shows is that low fertility predates affluence and is therefore a precondition for affluence and not vice versa, as it is dishonestly asserted by economists in order to hide the Global Depopulation Policy. And his, by the way, is the case for every country in the world and not just the Netherlands.

Holland is in stage four of the demographic transition but it would have already been in stage five had it not been for its policy of high immigration.

NEW ZEALAND

17 September 2014

John Key,
Prime Minister of New Zealand
<http://www.beehive.govt.nz/feedback>

Prime Minister Key,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Civil society is rightfully outraged about your lies with respect to New Zealand's participation in the Five Eyes Alliance – alongside the U.S., U.K., Canada and Australia – the illegal program of mass surveillance that violates the right to privacy and the fundamental rights of every human being on the planet. Through your participation in this supra-national program of surveillance, censorship and oppression you have set yourself above the law and have betrayed the very people you are supposed to govern.

Imagine how outraged the people of New Zealand and the world will be when they find out that your government and the entire international structure of global governance are poisoning humanity into extinction to accomplish the engineered demographic transition that was embarked upon in 1945 as a substitute to war!

People have yet to realize that the program of mass surveillance conducted by your government and its other four allies – and that in the meantime has coerced a total of 69 nations – is not intended to protect us from Islamic terrorism, which is an Anglo-Saxon invention, but to enable the suppression of the truth and of our rights and liberties until such time as the vast majority of the world's genetic lines are terminated. You are playing with fire and you will get burned, because I, as a father and a citizen will not allow you or anyone else to poison my children and my fellow man into sterility, chronic illness and early death, regardless how lofty the geopolitical reasons behind such measures may be.

No one is interested in a New World Order that deprives us all of our rights and liberties. No one is interested in a NWO that poisons us into extinction and in the process renders us chronically ill and mentally retarded. No one is interested in a NWO that can only be propped up by filthy lies and despicable deception.

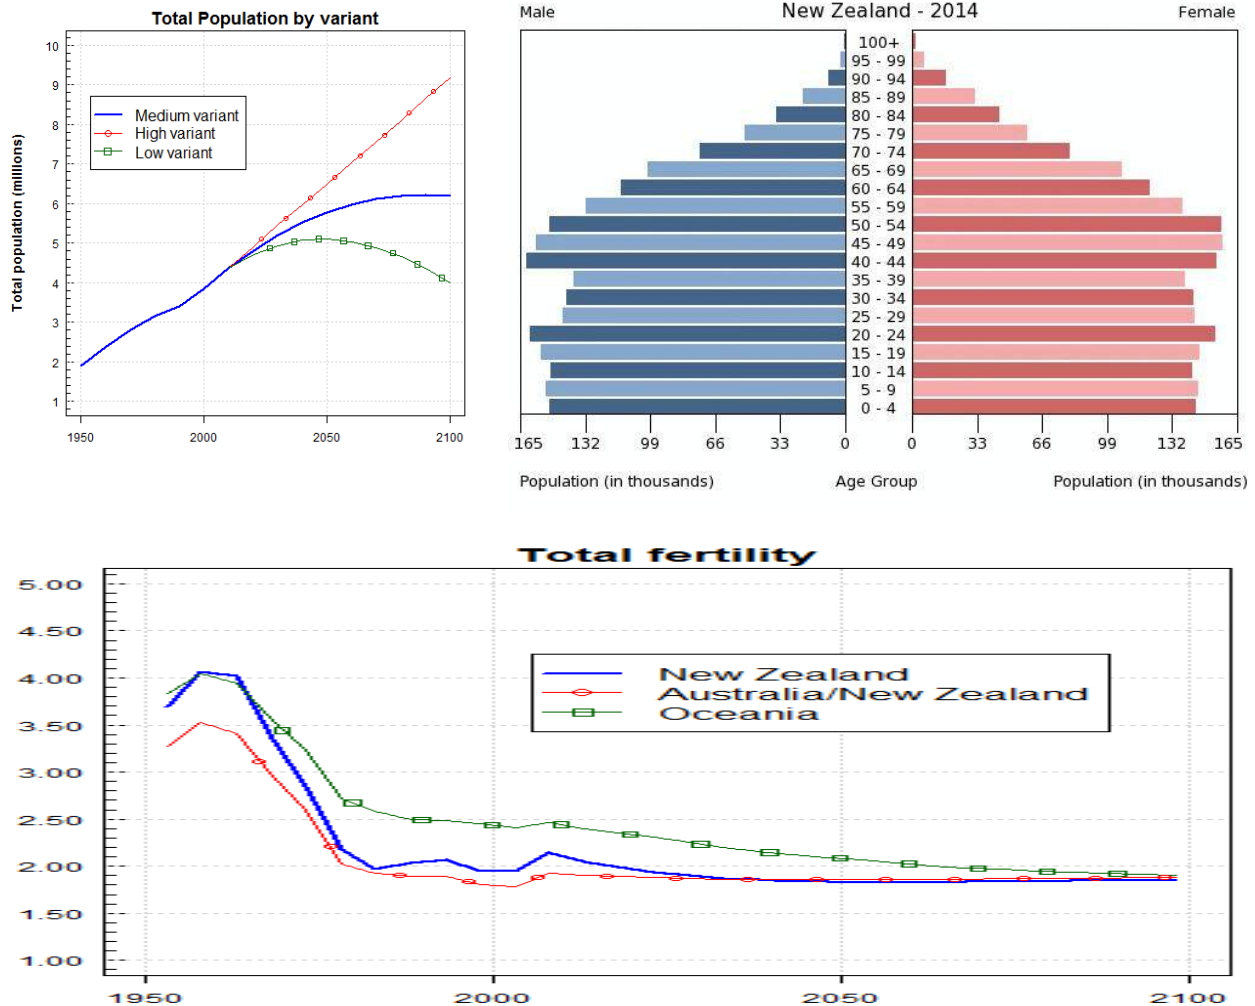

Eliminate all endocrine disruptors from food, water, beverages, vaccines, and air and outlaw their use now and forever or you will soon face a firing squad for your complicity in crimes against humanity. Cease all psychosocial and economic measure to subvert the family and social wellbeing or this and future generations will be spitting on your grave.

The world must and will legislate population control, for that is the only way to legally, ethically and honorably defuse the overpopulation bomb and thus secure international peace, preserve natural resources for future generations and save the planet from environmental devastation and future generations from famine and misery.

If you need my help to change course I stand by to fly to New Zealand to speak with you privately and assist you in every way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

New Zealand adopted covert methods of depopulation in 1962 and the total fertility rate dropped from 4.3 children in 1961 to 2.1, thus to replacement level fertility, by 1978, and to a lowest low of 1.88 by 2002. From 1978 until today, the government of New Zealand has succeeded in poisoning its people into infertility with such precision as to be able to keep the total fertility rate between the range of 1.9 and 2.1 children per woman.

New Zealand has accomplished this demographic miracle with fluoridated water, which was first tested in the city of Hastings in 1954 and after a Commission of Inquiry held in 1957 its use was rapidly expanded throughout the sixties. Since 1980, it has also added bisphenol A (BPA) plastics and epoxy resins to its sterilization arsenal.

The man responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation to New Zealand nationwide in 1962 is Prime Minister Keith Holyoake (1960-1972). All subsequent prime ministers have continued the genocide. They are: Norman Kirk (1972-1974), Bill Rowling (1974-1975), Robert Muldoon (1975-1984), David Lange (1984-1989), Geoffrey Palmer (1989-1990), Jim Bolger

(1990-1997), Jenny Shipley (1997-1999), Helen Clark (1999-2008, she was rewarded in 2009 for committing crimes against humanity with the position of Administrator of the United Nations Development Programme, which is one of the chief coordinating agencies of the global genocide), and incumbent John Key (since 2008).

New Zealand hides its contraceptive prevalence use history in order to prevent the public from realizing that their low fertility has absolutely nothing to do with their use of contraceptives and everything to do with the government's secret use of endocrine disruptors in the basic elements of life – water, food, and beverages, as well dental products – in order to subvert fertility.

To mask the anticipated drop in fertility as soon as fluoridated water was expanded nationwide from 1962 onward the government approved the sale of the oral contraceptive pill in 1961 and the use of Depo-Provera injection in 1969. It has since perpetuated the myth that contraceptive use, which even today is no higher than 74%, and during the 60s and 70s was never higher than 30% and 40% respectively, is responsible for the country's low fertility. Nor can surgical sterilization be used to hide the use of covert methods of depopulation since surgical sterilization was not available until 1977, when the Contraception, Sterilization and Abortion Act was passed, but by which time the country had already reached replacement level fertility.

Abortion has also never been a factor in New Zealand's fertility decline. As the historical record shows the abortion rate was below 1% during the 1960s and below 6% during the 1970s, by which time replacement level fertility was fully accomplished. Throughout the 1980s the abortion rate was around 12% and during the 1990s at 16% while fertility remained unchanged at 2 children per woman. Since the turn of the century the abortion rate has been at around 22% and fertility has remained unchanged.

Another myth perpetuated by the depopulation lobby is that affluence brought about fewer children, which is clearly not the case. By correlating fertility data from 1960 until today with New Zealand's GDP growth one can clearly see that during the sixteen years (from 1962 to 1978) it took New Zealand to subvert fertility from 4.3 to 2.1 children per woman the country's GDP was flat and that affluence came after the demographic transition was completed, as elsewhere in the world.

New Zealand's statistics and demographic data tell a completely different picture than the government's dishonest pronouncements. Numbers do not lie and the truth cannot be hidden.

To continue the genocide and preserve the illusion of democracy and the rule of law, the Office of the Prime Minister's Chief Science Adviser, led by Sir Peter Gluckman, published a report to assuage the public's fears and criticism of water fluoridation. In typical fashion for the genocidal lobby, the report concludes that fluoridation has no adverse effects on human health other than causing fluorosis. Well, Sir Gluckman, like his counterparts around the western world, has earned himself lifelong imprisonment for turning science into the handmaiden of genocide and thus aiding and abating crimes against humanity that are without precedent in history.

New Zealand is in stage four of the demographic transition.

President Ortega,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Although a UN founding member, Nicaragua did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1975 and the total fertility rate consequently dropped from 7 children per woman prior to 1975 to 2 today. As elsewhere in Latin America this rapid decrease has been accomplished by involuntarily sterilizing the populace with fluoridated salt.

Considering that the population of Nicaragua grew from 1.5 million in 1950 to 6 million today, a threefold increase in just half a century, population control was inevitable. What is not inevitable is how this is accomplished. In the past, structural obstacles stood in the way of open population control which were insurmountable and that is why the UN and national governments proceeded in secret. These obstacles are no longer insurmountable and since the current covert methods cause irreparable damage to the human genome the time has come to abandon them for open, legal and safe methods.

To accomplish an international order free of genocide and to have peace without poison we must reform the UN system. How and why I describe in my recently published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance. What it boils down to is that replacement level fertility must be declared a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrined in international law from the global governance level so that people across the world know what is expected of them and why and can assume control over their own reproductive systems. This is necessitated not only to maintain international peace but also to accomplish sustainability.

Either there is a rule of law or there isn't. For if there isn't then we will have to protect our children from state-sponsored lawlessness with lawlessness in self-defense. And since that would invalidate the premise of population control as a peacekeeping measure, as it would lead to war, it makes no sense to stay the course. Equally nonsensical is the notion that we could ever reach sustainability without depopulation. This foolishness is spectacularly encapsulated in Nicaragua's strict anti-abortion law, which gives the impression that the Nicaraguan government gives a damn about the unborn while in fact the government poisons every fetus in every Nicaraguan woman's womb on the sly into imbecility, ill-health and sterility, for such are the consequences of long-term chemical poisoning with fluoride and other endocrine disruptors.

This being the case, President Ortega, let's drop the pretense and grab the bull by the horns and change the system because you were not elected to poison your people into extinction but to lead them to a better future. To change the system you must empower Nicaragua's ambassador to the UN, Mrs. María Rubiales de Chamorro, to call for UN reform so we can have peace without poison.

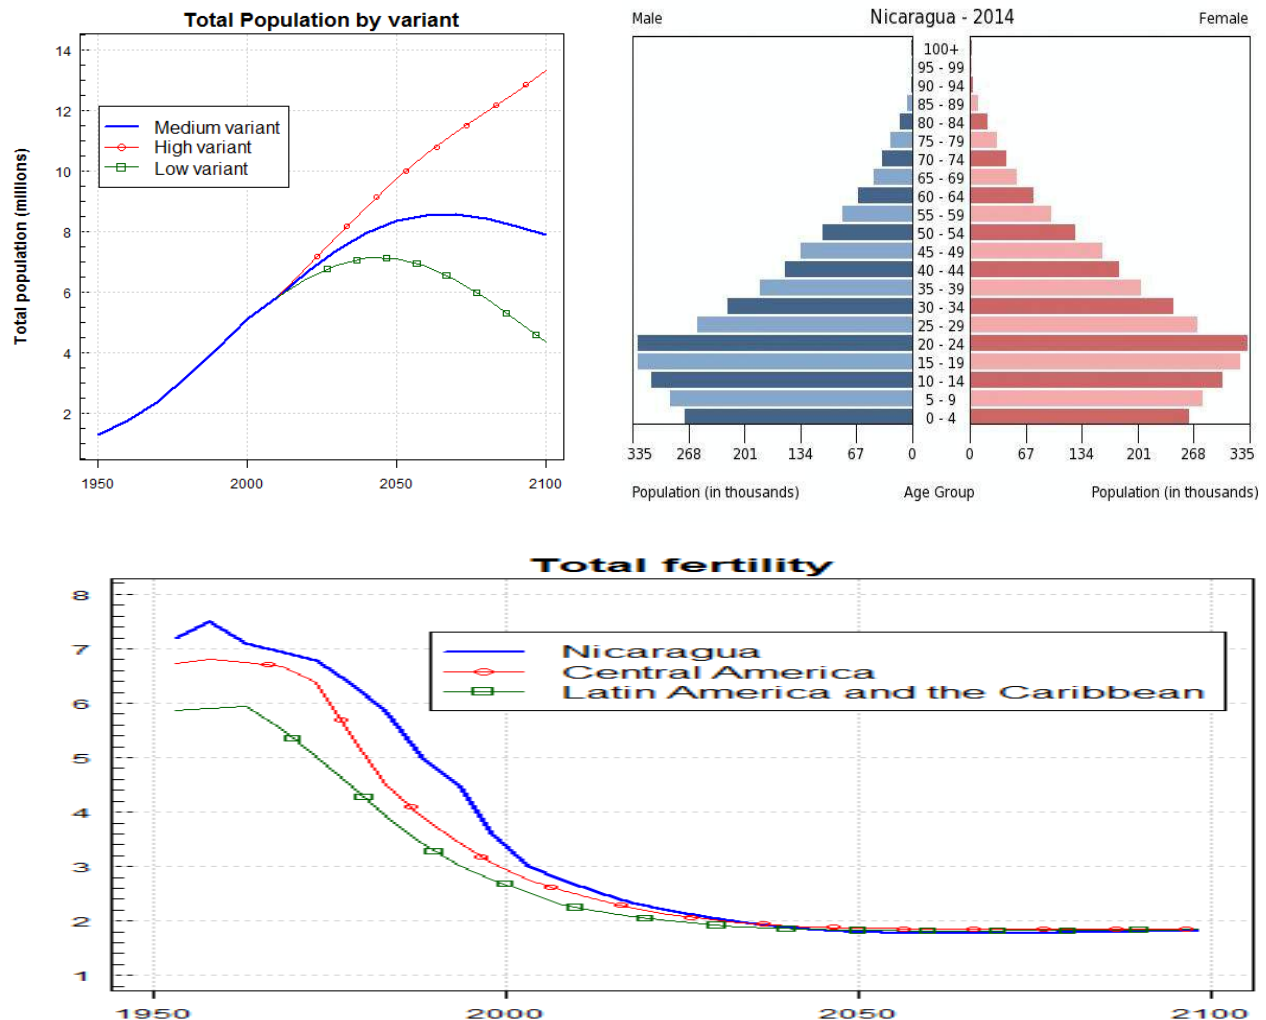

You must also free the truth and educate your people as to why it is necessary to restrict human fertility at no more than two children per woman from this point onward until the end of time. To accomplish your people's enlightenment I encourage you to access and use my work, which is freely available online:

The man responsible for introducing involuntary methods of population control to Nicaragua around 1975 is President Anastasio Somoza Debayle (1967-1979). His successors have all followed suit: the Junta of National Reconstruction (1979-1985), Daniel Ortega (1985-1990, and incumbent since 2007), Violetta Chamorro (1990-1997), Arnoldo Alemán (1997-2002), and Enrique Bolaños (2002-2007).

Throughout the 1970s the contraceptive prevalence rate was below 10%, throughout the '80s it was below 30%, and throughout the '90s it was below 50% and therefore cannot possibly account for the drop in fertility from 7 to 2 children per woman. Even today, with a purported contraceptive prevalence rate of c. 70% Nicaragua cannot possibly ascribe its low birth rate to the use of contraceptives. As for abortion, it is completely illegal.

Nicaragua accomplished replacement level fertility in 2011 and is in stage three of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF NIGER

14 October 2014

Mahamadou Issoufou

President of Niger

<http://www.justice.gouv.ne/?q=contact>

Brigi Rafini

Prime Minister of Niger

an@assemblee.ne, <http://www.assemblee.ne/index.php/nous-ecire>

President Issoufou and Prime Minister Rafini,

Re: covert depopulation measures

Niger has resisted any and all attempts made by the UN and international donors to control its population growth. And since your country is of no strategic importance for the West, as it does not possess vital natural resources such as hydrocarbons and minerals, it has been left on its own and death by hunger has become the norm rather than the exception.

At 7 children per woman, Niger has the highest total fertility rate in the world yet it occupies one of the driest and most infertile territories on earth, since 80% of Niger is covered by the Sahara Desert. As a result, Niger's population has exploded from just 3.5 million in 1967 to 17 million today, which is almost a quadrupling of the population in just 45 years; one out of five children die before the age of five due to malnutrition; and life expectancy has dropped to below 50 years, which is among the lowest in the world, due to widespread famine.

In 2010, when the last famine struck Niger due to crop failures caused by drought, 7 million Nigeriens faced starvation. Since half of your people are children below 15 years of age, Niger's population will continue to grow exponentially and die exponentially by starvation unless your administration takes immediate and drastic measures. The little fertile land that you have left in the far south and west of the country, where the majority of your people are clustered, is threatened by desertification due to overexploitation

Your regimes and constitutions have changed with desperate frequency by military coups since independence in 1960, but none of the country's leaders have tackled the overpopulation and resource scarcity problems that underpin all your nation's woes and have now reached catastrophic proportions, which is why political and social unrest spiral out of control as soon as famine strikes and the bodies of starved children start piling up.

In 2010, the military helped restore democracy and you, Mr. Issoufou, were elected president of the Seventh Republic. The international community is now contributing half of your government's budget and aid organizations are helping your nation achieve food security. Furthermore, in 2005 the IMF granted Niger 100% multilateral debt relief and forgave $86 million US in debts.

Since the international community and western nations never give anything for free, one can safely assume that the money Niger receives comes with strict conditions and that the most important condition is to allow the UN and its agencies to subvert your people's fertility until it reaches replacement level fertility. While this goal is absolutely necessary, I urge you to refuse all covert methods of depopulation – be they vaccines, coerced medical sterilizations, covert chemical sterilization through endocrine disruptors inserted in food and water, GMOs, or man-made pandemics – and to instead legislate population control, as China has done since 1978.

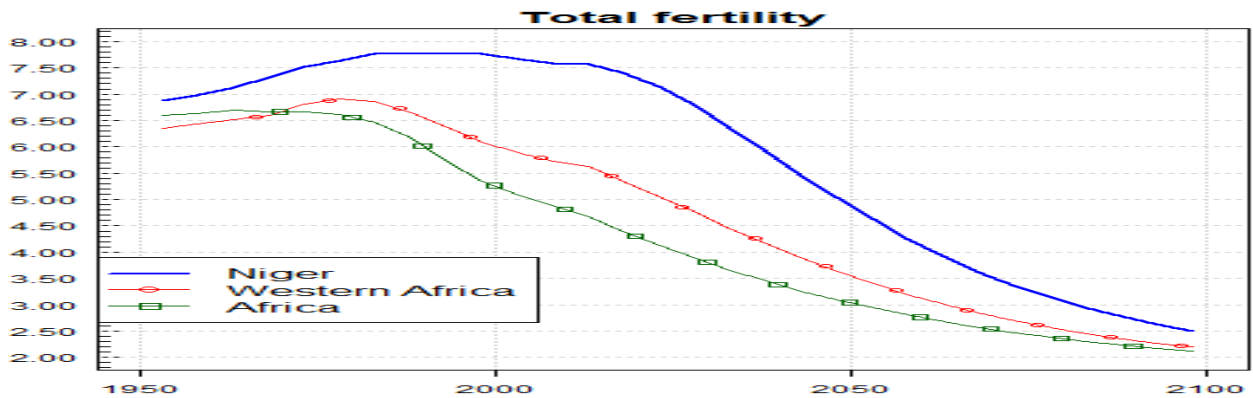

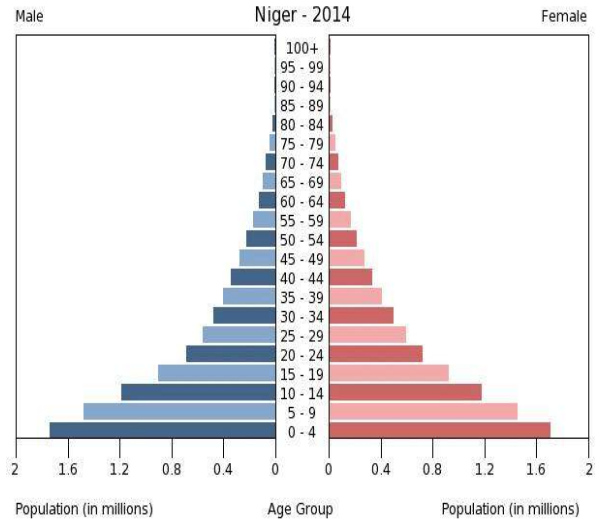

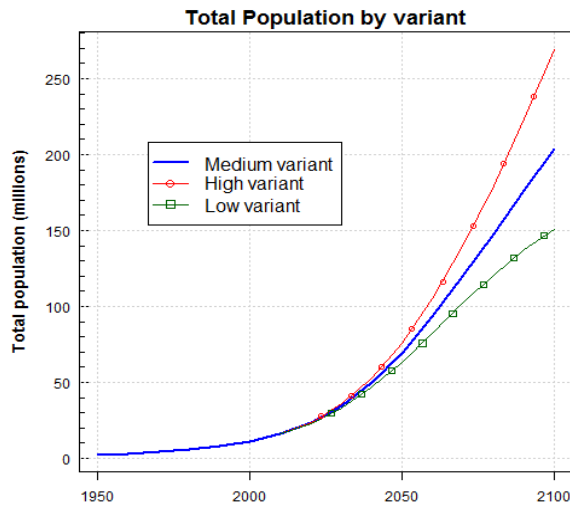

Since 82% of your people depend on agriculture and animal husbandry, only 15% of Niger's land is arable, degraded soils already cover 50% of your land and require expensive bio reclamation, and Niger relies on grain purchases and food aid to meet its food requirements, you are forced to either subject your people to the international community's engineered scientific genocide or institute a one-child policy. The first option will render your people living zombies, as western populations whose genetic and intellectual endowments have been devastated amply demonstrate, and destroy your nation's incipient democracy and the rule of law, perverting everything your hold dear, while the latter will allow your country and people to flourish and will only require discipline and self-control for the next three generations.

How to achieve the latter and avoid the former you can find out by reading my work, which is available free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>. Given the sensitivity of this subject, you will make your task far easier if you help me forge global consensus for a population control law that restricts human fertility to two children per woman worldwide and in perpetuity. It is inevitable given the dire state of the planet and the sooner we institute such a law as a planetary security prerogative the better it will be for our children, for mankind and for all life on earth.

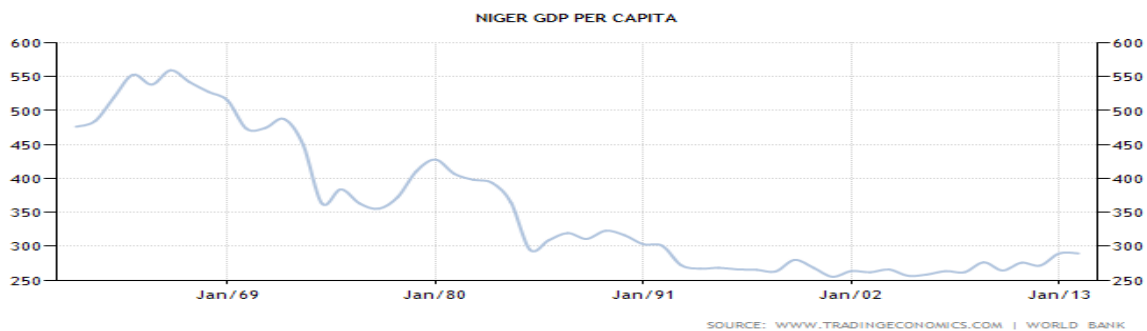

If you need my advice to safeguard you from the trickery and treachery of the genocidal lobby that masquerades as the international community, I will give it free of cost and without expectations.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Niger has valiantly resisted any and all international efforts to subvert the fertility of its people and has as a result been condemned to poverty, as its declining GDP clearly shows.

Niger's contraceptive prevalence rate is at 15% and abortion is illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life.

Niger has technically entered the second stage of the demographic transition but because its total fertility rate has not started to decrease I will designate it a stage one country.

FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF NIGERIA

15 September 2014

Goodluck Ebele Azikiwe Jonathan

President of Nigeria

<http://goodluckjonathanleadershipcentre.com/contact.php>

President Jonathan,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

As the most populous nation in Africa and the seventh most populous in the world, Nigeria is high on the UN depopulation agenda and a primary target of the Anglo-American military apparatus.

It is no coincidence that a Nigerian technocrat, Dr. Babatunde Osotimehin, a physician specialized in reproductive health, is currently the head of the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), the premier organization within the UN structure responsible for the worldwide implementation of covert methods of depopulation. Neither is it a coincidence that Nigeria, where one-sixth of the African population lives and whose population has quadrupled in the past fifty years due to high fertility rates, is one of the countries affected by the engineered Ebola outbreak that was started in December 2013. Nor is it a coincidence that the international response to this outbreak has been inadequate. It will remain inadequate because this outbreak represents the latest attack on your country for the purpose of demographic objectives deemed necessary for global security.

Your country will not know security until such time as its total fertility rate is brought down to replacement level (i.e. two children per woman). Until such time, your people's health will be subverted chemically, biologically and bacteriologically and their families will be under attack by psychosocial and economic means.

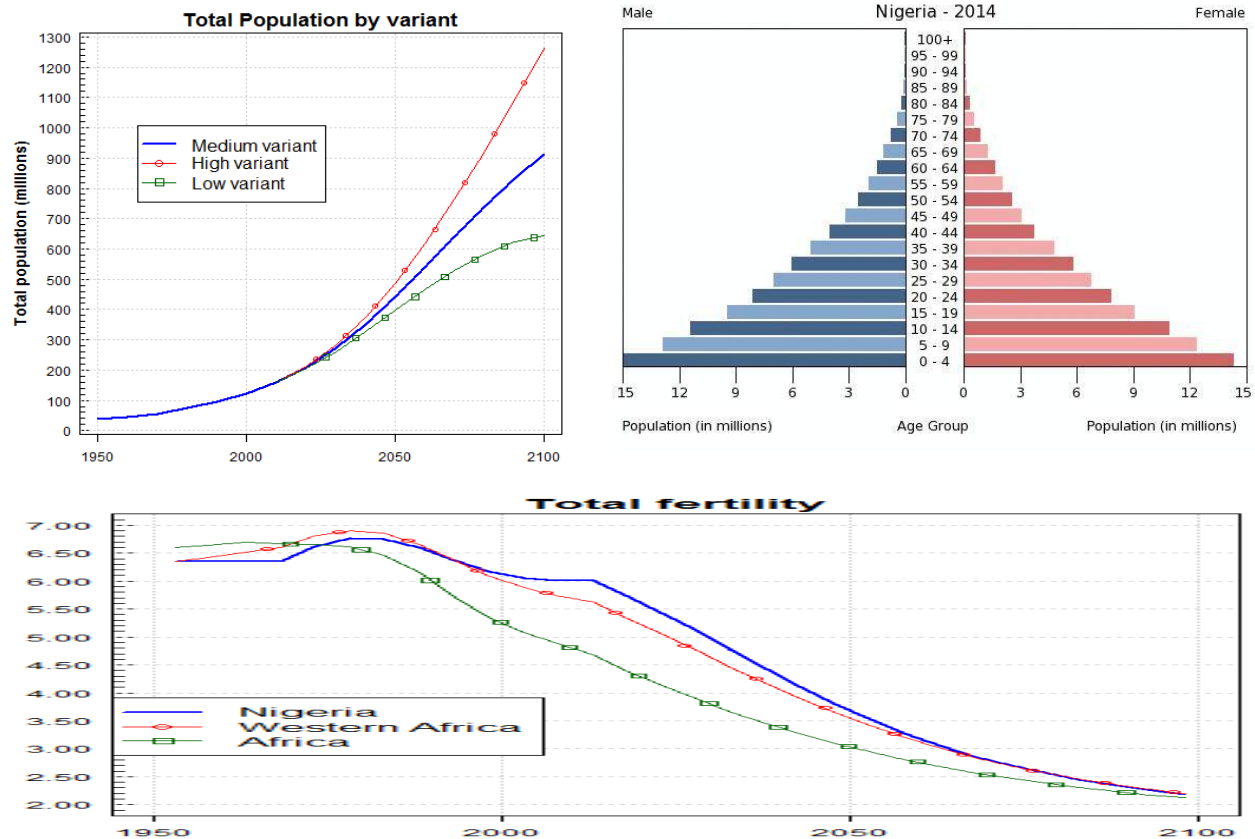

You are an intelligent man and hold a PhD in zoology so you understand the science behind the methods of depopulation encouraged by the UN and pioneered by the US military-industrial complex. You are also a head of state and therefore briefed by your ministries as to your country's obligations with respect to the international security prerogative of population control. But you will understand that having exposed the immoral and genocidal methods of population control forced onto every nation on earth since 1945, their continuation has become impossible since the elites of nation-states will fear for their lives due to retaliatory actions by the very people they govern and at the same time poison into extinction.

If you want to get on the right side of history and avoid having your name and legacy reviled by this and future generations of Nigerians, I suggest you see me without delay so we can discuss how to forge global consensus for legislating population control worldwide and save the world from genocide.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

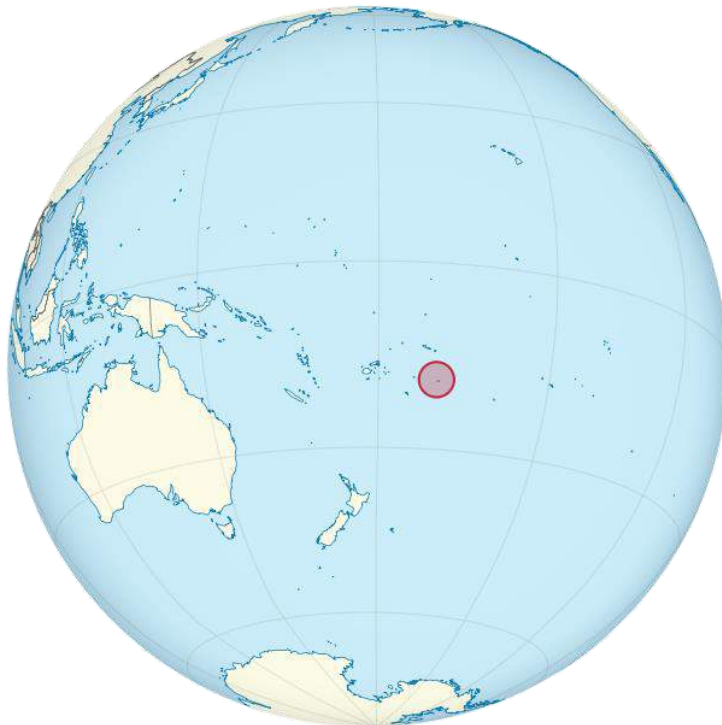

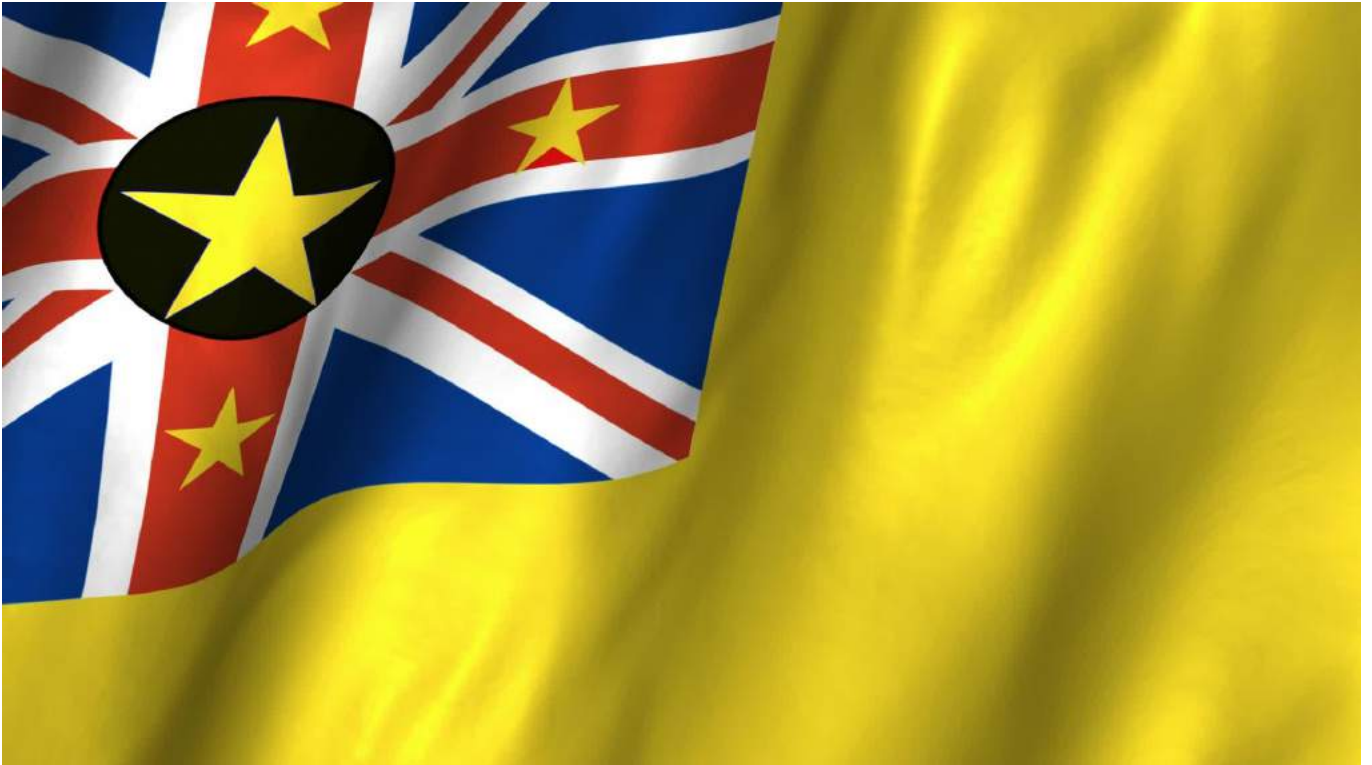

The use of covert depopulation measures have never been approved by the Nigerian leadership, but the international community has been subverting Nigerians' fertility with adulterated vaccines since 1983. Since 2013 the depopulation lobby is also using the malaria drug Artemisinin to sterilize the populace. This is happening with the knowledge and consent of President Goodluck Jonathan (since May 2010).

With a contraceptive prevalence rate of just 18% and abortion illegal and permitted only to save a woman's life, Nigeria will remain stuck in poverty until such time as it either covertly sterilizes its people or legislates replacement level fertility. Its per capita GDP shows the country's economic woes.

Nigeria is in stage two of the demographic transition.

President Talagi,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Niue was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy without its knowledge or consent in 1985, ten years after voting for self-government, and its total fertility rate decreased from more than 5 children per woman prior to 1985 to 2.5 in 2006 and probably to below replacement level today. Given the small size of Niue's population and landmass, it is safe to assume that this decline was first accomplished through contraceptives and most recently through sterilizing vaccines administered under false pretenses.

Ms. Va'aiga Tukuitonga was perfectly right in saying recently at the Pacific Islands Forum that family planning is depopulating the island and threatening the extinction of the Niuean people. What she does not know is that this decline is not accomplished through voluntary contraceptives but through the involuntary sterilization of the Niuean women by western NGOs with funding from the UN and its agencies.

If you want your people to survive into the future, President Talagi, I urge you to read my just published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance, as well as access my work of exposing the methods and means of covert depopulation and disseminating this work among your 1,600 people so they know how to protect themselves. NO DATA

KINGDOM OF NORWAY

17 September 2014

Erna Solberg
Prime Minister of Norway
postmottak@smk.dep.no

Prime Minister Solberg,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

I am grateful to Norway's civil society, particularly The Oslo Times, for being the first to issue an appeal on my behalf and to publish the ordeal I have suffered at the hands of the Canadian and British governments in retaliation for exposing in 2010 the existence of a covert and illegal program of surveillance and censorship in British universities.

It is regrettable, however, that Norway's civil society fell silent as soon as I identified the said surveillance program as an offshoot of the Global Depopulation Policy, of which Norway is an integral part and one of its primary financial supporters. Given the genocidal nature of the depopulation agenda and Norway's complicity in crimes against humanity and genocide against its own people and against the world, I understand why Norway's civil society went completely silent overnight.

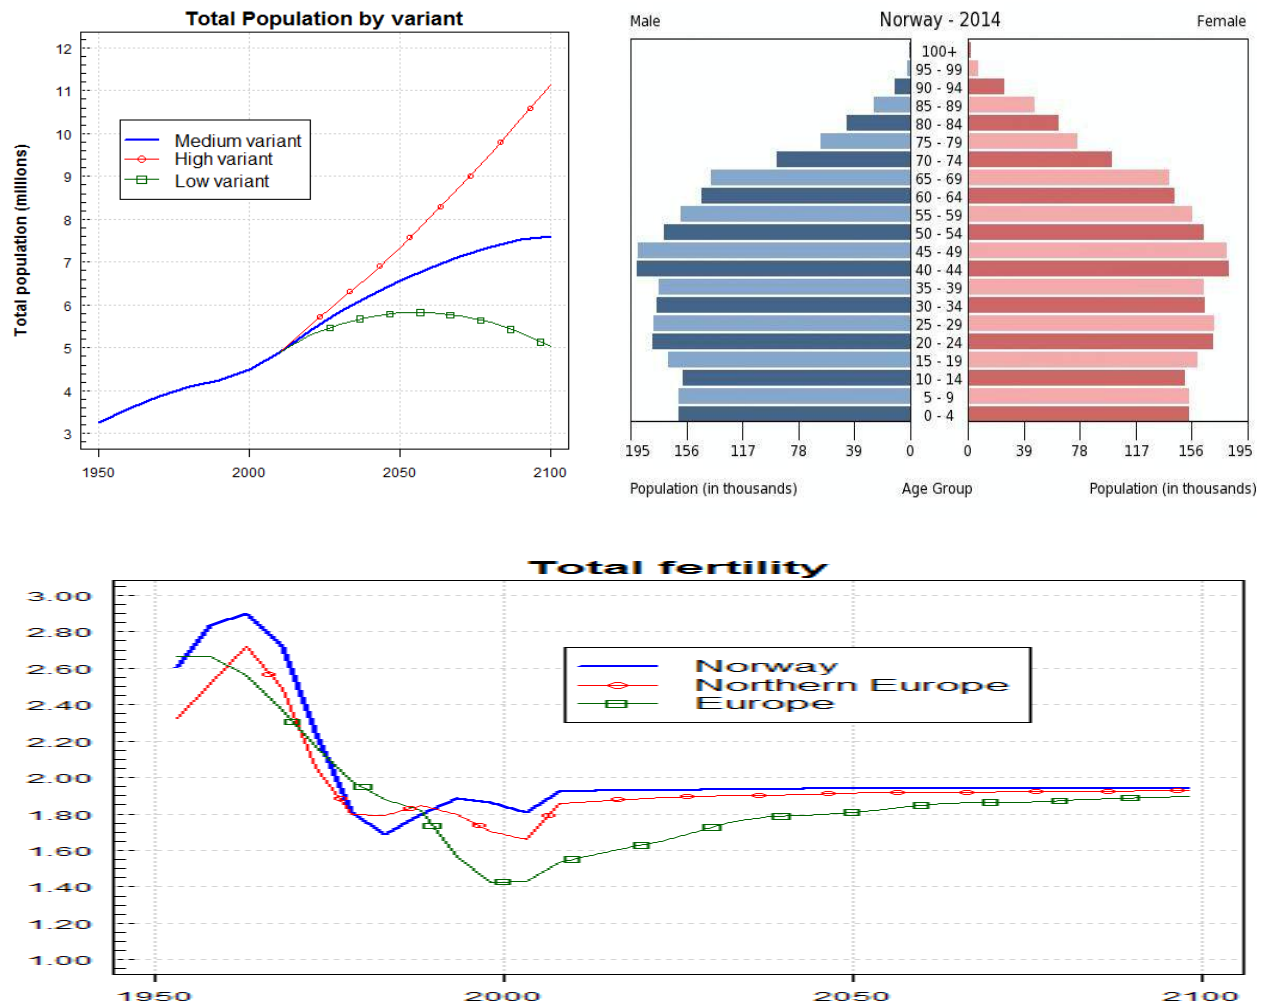

As you have suffered from dyslexia since age sixteen, a learning disorder caused by chronic poisoning with endocrine disruptors in the womb or during the first five years of life, you will have first-hand experience of the price the people of Norway and of the world are being forced to pay in the name of an international system based on covert depopulation. If Norway continues to poison its people and its children in the name of peace, the entire Norwegian population will soon be genetically and intellectually degraded to such an extent as to not only shut down the vast majority of Norway's genetic lines but also render the remainder of the population completely dysfunctional.

I urge you to take immediate measures to outlaw any and all endocrine disruptors, GMOs, adulterated vaccines, and the program of aerial spraying by which the fertility, health and longevity of the Norwegian people are being deliberately undermined in the name of demographic objectives dictated by the UN, its agencies, and their Anglo-American sponsors.

Norway can and must legislate population control and fulfill its international obligations with respect to global security within the law and through proper democratic processes. I hope that you will meet with me without delay to discuss how the Norwegian government can regain its legitimacy and play a leading role in saving the world from genocide. You have inherited this genocidal program and are one of its victims, but must not bequeath it to your successor. If you do you will be complicit in crimes against humanity and will be held accountable and reviled by this and future generations.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Norway's second engineered demographic transition began in 1946, as soon as the total fertility rate of the Norwegian people had recovered to nearly 3 children per woman after the Second World War. Between 1946 and 1965 the government's efforts were focused on keeping the total fertility rate below three children per woman. After 1965, however, the government began using fluoride supplements and fluoride veneers to subvert human fertility by chemically poisoning the human reproductive system to replacement level fertility.

The goal was attained in 1975 and by 1984 the total fertility rate reached a lowest low of 1.66 children per woman. Since then, the government has pursued a policy of keeping the total fertility rate just below replacement level and has succeeded with mathematical precision.

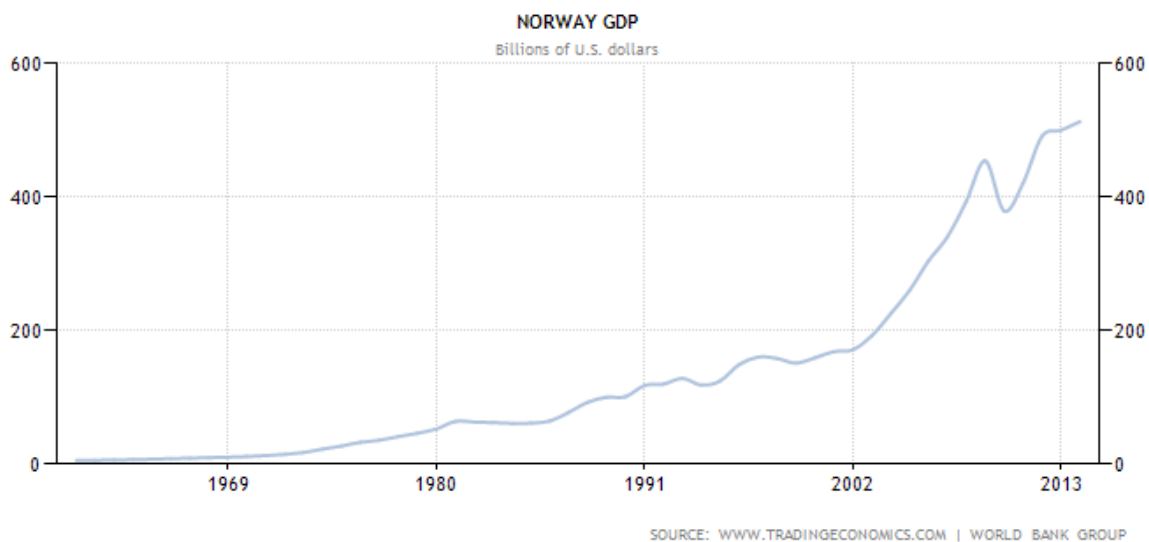

The people responsible for approving and implementing covert chemical sterilization are Norway's monarchy – starting with King Olav V (1957-1991) and continuing with the current monarch, King Harald V (since 1998) – and the following elected politicians: Einar Gerhardsen (1945-1951, 1955-1963, 1963-1965), Oscar Torp (1951-1955), Per Borten (1965-1971), Trygve

Bratteli (1971-1972), Odvar Nordli (1976-1981), Gro Harlem Brundtland (1981-1981, 1986-1989, 1990-1996, rewarded for committing genocide and crimes against humanity with the position of Director-General of the World Health Organization from 1998-2003), Kåre Willoch (1981-1986), Jan P. Syse (1989-1990), Thorbjørn Jagland (1996-1997, rewarded for committing genocide and crimes against humanity with the position of Secretary General of the Council of Europe since 2009, as well as with the position of Chairman of the Norwegian Nobel Committee also since 2009), Kjell Magne Bondevik (2001-2005), Jens Stoltenberg (2005-2013, rewarded for committing genocide and crimes against humanity with the position of UN Special Envoy on Climate Change in 2013, and since October 2014 elevated to the office of Secretary General of NATO), and incumbent Erna Solberg (since October 2013).

Once again, as with any and all other countries in the world, Norway's sub-replacement level fertility has absolutely nothing to do with the way Norwegians use contraceptives since the country reached low fertility when its contraceptive prevalence rate was at circa 50%.

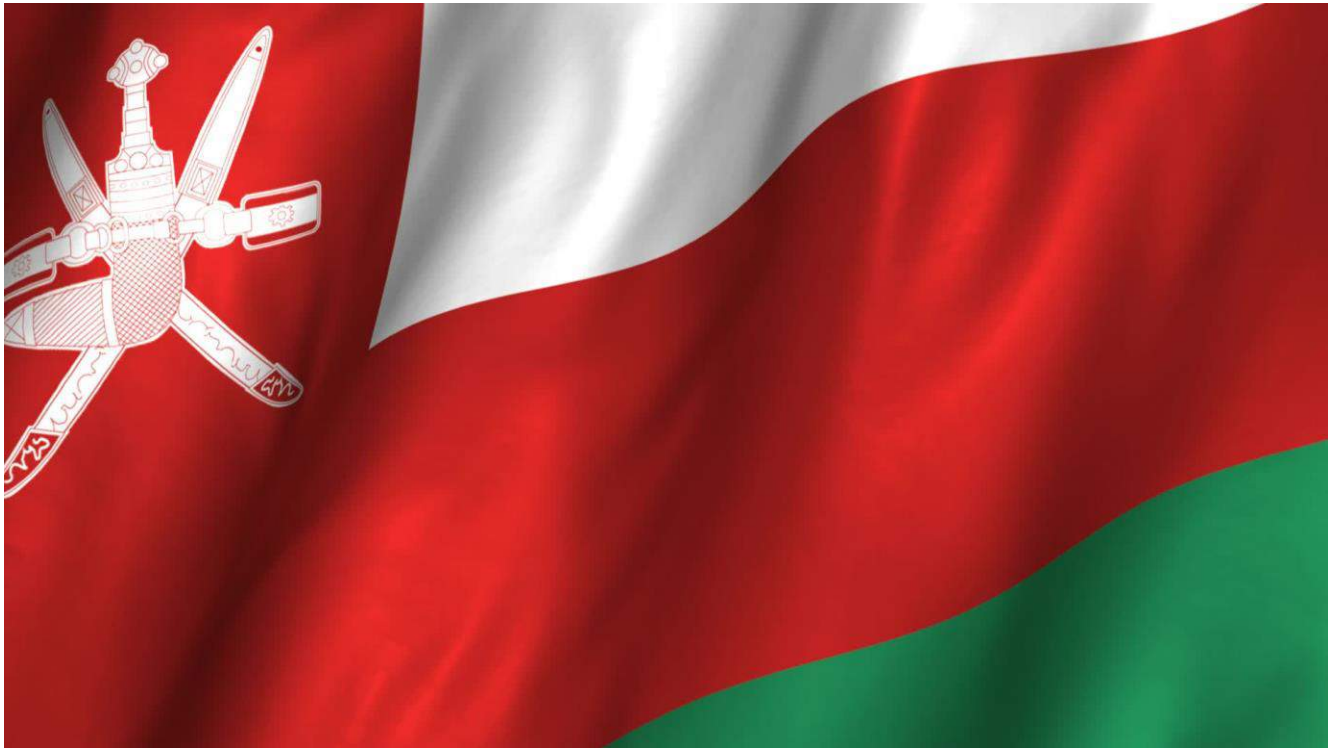

Nor has abortion anything to do with Norway's low fertility since abortion, the historical record shows, has been remarkably constant at c. 20% since the 1970s.

The low fertility can also not be explained as the result of affluence since Norway had already reached replacement level fertility by 1975 when the GDP just began to rise. Clearly, it is affluence that follows low fertility and not vice versa, as it is being asserted to deceive the public and protect the genocide.

Norway is in stage four of the demographic transition.

Sultan Qaboos and Deputy Prime Minister Fahd,

Re: Immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Oman became a UN member state in 1971 and joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1985 when its total fertility rate was an astounding 8 children per woman. Covert methods of depopulation have in the meantime reduced the total fertility rate down to 2.5 children per woman.

Nearly a quarter of the population is made up of foreign workers but the remaining 3 million people are natives and this means that Oman's population has increased sixfold since 1960. Population control therefore could not come too soon to Oman. With one of the hottest climates in the world, most of its landmass covered by gravel desert and little rainfall, Oman cannot accommodate high population densities. Even with the current density of just 13 people per square kilometers Oman has great difficulties providing enough water for agriculture and domestic use.

Clearly, population control must continue but not by covert chemical and biological methods that sicken the people and constitute genocide. The time has come to bring the population control program into the open and enshrine replacement level fertility in international law as a Global Security Prerogative. To accomplish this I have just published a document, The Future of Global Governance, which explains why this is necessary and provides a plan. To accomplish this we must also educate the public and to this end I provide my work free of cost to each and all:

I encourage you to use this material at will and without delay because understanding the geopolitical, economic and environmental problems we face requires a steep learning curve. And unless every adult on earth understands these problems and cooperates in solving them we are facing disaster.

And since these problems will not solve themselves and require true leadership and not the pretense of leadership, I urge you to be proactive and empower your UN ambassador, Mrs. Lyutha S. Al-Mughairy, to initiate reform of the international system so we can meet these challenges full on.

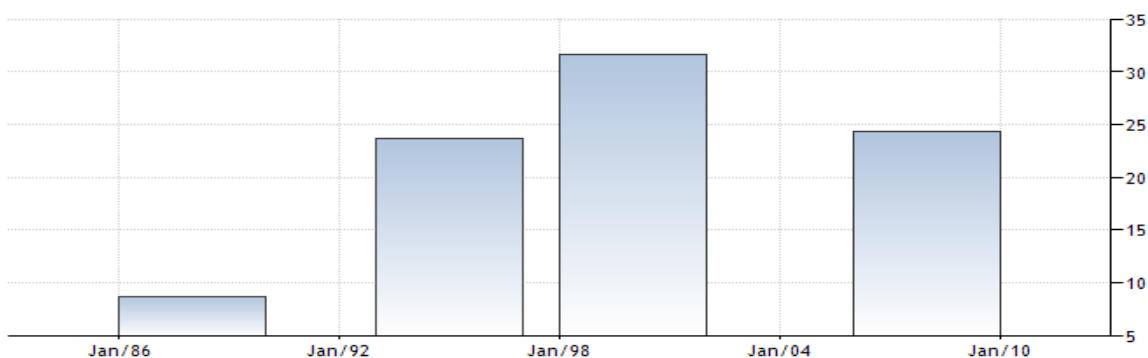

Should you need my help, please do not hesitate to reach out to me.

The man responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation to Oman in 1985 is Sultan Qaboos bin Said al Said who has ruled the country since 1970. He has performed the miracle of lowering Oman's total fertility rate from 8 to 2.5 children per woman in just 30 years with a contraceptive prevalence rate that has never exceeded 30%. Not even Jesus could do that!

Abortion is illegal in Oman and therefore a non-factor in the fertility decline since it is allowed only in rare circumstances to save a woman's life.

Sultan Qaboos has been rewarded for his sterilizing super powers with a rising GDP, which began exploding as soon as the number of children had declined substantially and the nation's oil wealth was no longer diluted by 8 children per woman.

ISLAMIC REPUBLIC OF PAKISTAN

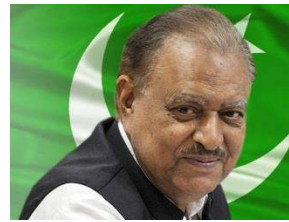

19 September 2014

Mamnoon Hussain, President of Pakistan

<http://www.presidentofpakistan.gov.pk/index.php?lang=en&opc=8>

Mian Nawaz Shariff, Prime Minister of Pakistan

betterpakistan@gmail.com, info@pmln.org

President Hussain and Prime Minister Shariff,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

I would like to thank your able intelligence services for the emotional support they have given me since my last release from unjustified detention, your judiciary for the open and brave endorsement of my work, and your government for sending an envoy to Canada to see me and to offer moral support. To date, only Pakistan and Russia have sent representatives to speak to me.

It will not go unnoticed that I am perhaps the only political entity in the world that enjoys the full support and meets the common interests of both India and Pakistan. It is my hope that the discreet assistance I have received from Pakistan so far will sooner rather than later bloom into direct and open discussions on how we can help the world escape genocide and shape an international system that addresses the global problems humankind faces while also staying true to our humanity and respect for each other's fundamental rights not only between but also within nations.

Pakistan is undoubtedly in an extremely difficult situation concerning its international obligation to fulfill the UN's population stabilization targets. Its conundrum is caused by the need to reconcile the conservative values of its populace with the high expectations for international cooperation asked of any and all nuclear powers. The only way Pakistan can satisfy these diametrically opposed national and international demands, is if the UN and the world's leaders form a united front and speak with one voice about the need to implement worldwide legislation for population control. It is only then that the Pakistani people will accept the inevitable and will sacrifice the right to procreate at will, and the religious dictates that go with it, for the need to survive the next three decades of precarious existence, the responsibility to preserve the planet, and the self-serving sacrifice demanded from all of us if we are to secure a future for our children.

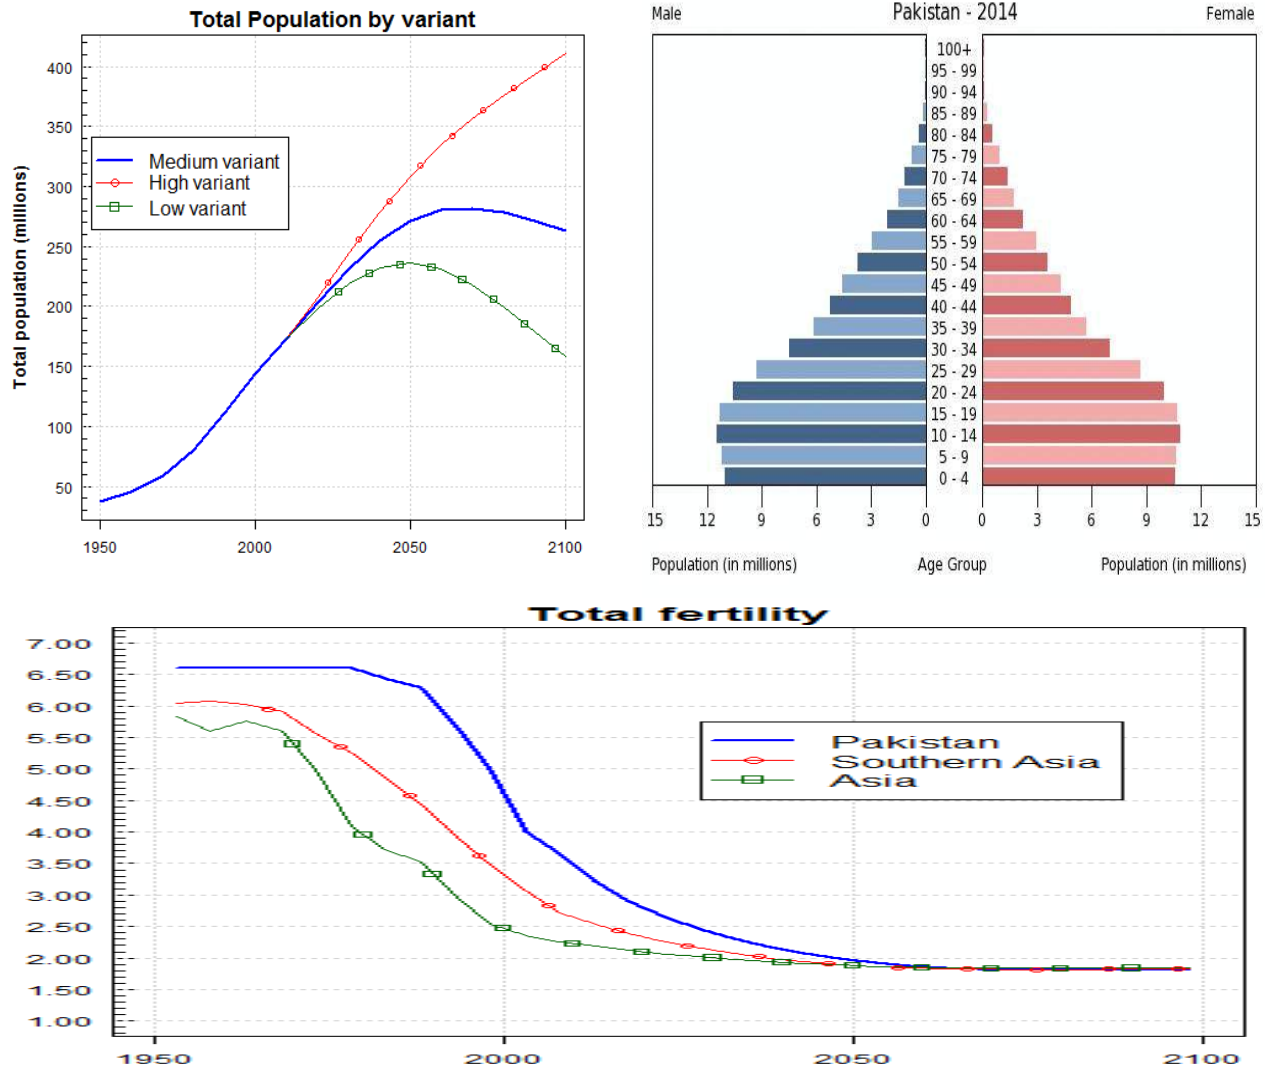

If Pakistan is to never again be forced to participate in false-flag events, as it reluctantly was in the 9/11 attack, or be coerced to poison the groundwater with fluoride to placate the UN Security Council and thus covertly sterilize its people, or be bullied to give water rights to multinational corporations versed in undermining people's fertility by adulterating water through bottling with bisphenol A plastics and then forcing the Pakistani people to pay not only for their own water but also for the poison it contains, then I suggest you see me without delay to discuss how best to forge global consensus for legal, transparent and global population control.

I will put myself in the line of fire for Pakistan, as I do for all other countries and people on earth, to make sure that our children live in peace, in happiness, in justice, in prosperity, in good health, and in freedom, because we are all brothers on this earth and equally deserving of God's bounty.

Sincerely,

General Muhammad Zia-ul-Haq deposed Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto in 1977 and executed him in 1979 in order to be able to start waging war on human fertility, as had been demanded from Pakistan's military by the US and the UN if they wanted to hang on to their nuclear program, which was started in 1972.

The Pakistani military has been poisoning its people with fluoridated water since the military assumed power in 1977 and continued to do so for the next eleven years, the time it stayed in power in order to fully implement the depopulation program. By the time the military installed a civilian in power, Prime Minister Muhammad Khan Junejo (1985-1988), the machinery of mass poisoning was in place.

All subsequent prime ministers (Benazir Bhutto, Nawaz Sharif, Zafarullah Khan Jamali, Shaukat Aziz, Muhammad Mian Soomro, Yousaf Raza Gillani, Raja Pervaiz Ashraf, and Mir Hazar Khan Khoso) and all presidents of Pakistan (Ghulam Ishaq Khan, Wasim Sajjad, Farooq Leghari, Wasim Sajjad, Muhammad Rafiq Tarar, Pervez Musharraf, Muhammad Mian Soomro, Asif Ali Zardari, and incumbent Mamnoon Hussain) have done their duty and have poisoned their people as required by the international framework for peace.

What Pakistan's leaders have to show for their cooperation in genocide is a nuclear arsenal and a rising gross domestic product. Everything else is in shambles: its values and norms, the legitimacy of its government, the health of its people, the rule of law. If the government of Pakistan keeps poisoning its citizens, fifty years from now all that will be left is a few million sterile imbeciles waiting to die (much like in the West) and then India can move in and do it right.

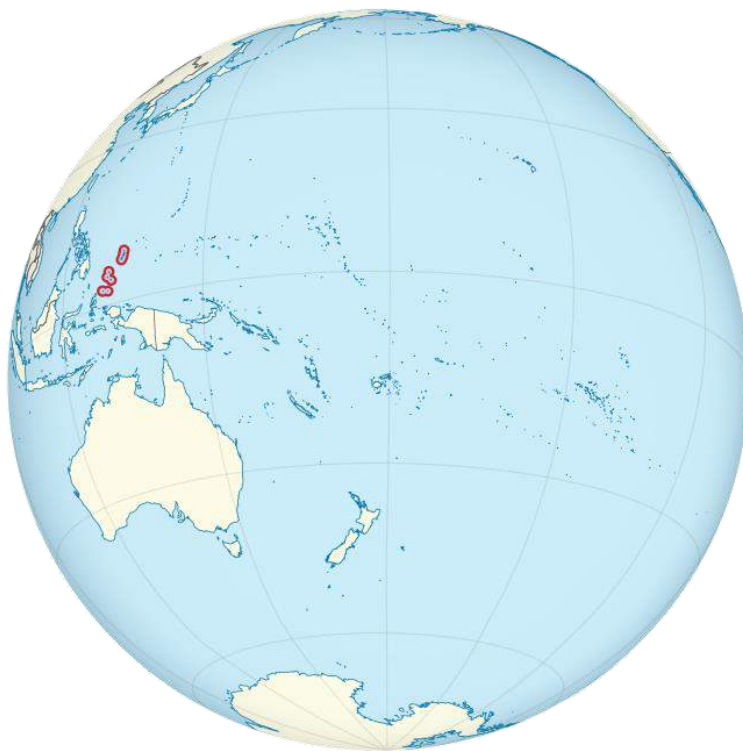

That Pakistan's rapidly declining fertility (from 6.6 to 2.9 children per woman) has absolutely nothing to do with contraceptive use is embarrassingly obvious when one looks at the country's contraceptive prevalence rate, which to this day is below 30%.

Abortion is also a non-factor since it is illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life. Even when illegal abortions are factored in, no more than one out of every six pregnancies is terminated by an abortion.

Pakistan is in stage three of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF PALAU

17 October 2014

Tommy Remengesau

President of Palau

info@palaugov.org, <https://www.facebook.com/tommyforpalau>

President Remengesau,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The United States, which has administered the Palau Islands as a UN Trust Territory from 1951 to 1994, began subverting the reproductive rights of the Palauan people in 1960 and the total fertility rate declined from 9 to just 3 children per woman by 1980.

In June 1996, just two years after gaining its independence, Palau formally joined the UN coordinated Global Depopulation Policy when “the President of the Republic, by an executive order, created the Palau National Committee on Population and Children”, which developed “the National Population Policy (Population and Development: Toward a Palau National Policy for Sustainable Human Development)” that “covers a wide range of population issues, including many of the main concerns of the International Conference On Population and Development (ICPD).” However, the Palau National Congress refused to adopt the Policy, which is why the fertility of the Palauan people levelled off and stalled during the 1990s.

In 1999, at the Hague Forum, Palau issued “The Country Statement on the ICPD POA” and called again upon the Palau National Congress to adopt the National Policy for Sustainable Development and begin implementing the population control measures chosen by the National Population Policy. I could find no publicly available information that the Palau National Congress ever adopted the Policy, but the total fertility rate began decreasing again at the beginning of the 21st century, reached 2.47 children per woman by 2005 and sank below replacement level shortly thereafter. As of 2014, Palau’s TFR stands at 1.7 children per woman, the lowest in the region.

Since Palau’s contraceptive rate is only 21%, the country’s below replacement level fertility rate could not be the result of contraceptive use, as the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) acknowledges.

The answer for the unexplained decrease in Palau’s total fertility rate can be found in the nation’s food insecurity and in its near total dependence on food imported from the US, which, according to the 2006 Household Income and Expenditure Survey, amounts to 97% of all food consumed in Palau. This data appears in the “Mauritius + 5 Status Report: Republic of Palau” from 2010, which also states that the population of Palau in pre-contact times “was in the range of 50,000 to 100,000 people” and that “all of these people were fed, clothed, and housed using local resources”. Today’s population stands at a puny 21.000 and the Palauan people will cease to exist a century from now unless their fertility rate bounces back up.

One can only conclude that the fertility of the Palauan people has been destroyed through excitotoxin-laden and chemically altered American food that is laced with endocrine disruptors either deliberately added to the food, as in the case of fluoride and artificial sweeteners, or that leech into the food through contact with packaging made from BPA plastics, all of which are intended to cause sterility or sub-fertility.

Several indicators prove the validity of this assumption. Palau is the only nation in the region that has nearly completed the demographic transition despite having no constitutionally approved family planning program, which is why its median age of 35 years makes it the oldest population in the Pacific region. Palau’s teenage fertility rate is the lowest in the region (other than Tonga and Niue), which means that the reproductive systems of the Palauan people have been damaged over multiple generations. Palau is the only nation in the region with a declining population, due to natural causes, as of 2014, which can only occur if the human reproductive system has been interfered with over multiple generations. Palau has a prevalence rate for obesity of more than 49% (as of 2008), which can only be caused by damaged endocrine systems, as well as a national health profile marred by high incidence of illnesses of affluence but without the affluence.

In addition, Palau’s population pyramid shows bizarre anomalies for a period of some 20 years when the female population was completely out of synch with that of the male population. Judging by the high incidence of ovarian cancer among Palau’s women, which is the sixth highest in the world, one can only conclude that the women, but not the men, have been subjected to experimental infertility drugs that have far increased their death rate.

Having gained its full sovereignty in 1994, but being under a Compact of Free Association with the United States since then, which obligates the American government to provide funding and access to social services to the Palauan people, the US has every interest to lower the population of Palau. In addition, the US has always wanted to use the islands as a naval base for its nuclear vessels. Last but not least, the US is responsible for disaster response and reconstruction in the Palau should a hurricane or some other cataclysm strike the islands. And since the Palau islands are low-lying coral deposits on top of sinking volcanic ridges, the rising level of the ocean due to global warming will ensure a growing frequency of expensive natural disaster to hit the archipelago.

Everyone can understand that Palau, as an island nation with very limited resources, a 60% budget dependence on foreign aid, and 95% food dependence on foreign sources, has no choice but to stabilize its population, but there is no need why it cannot do so legally, honorably and openly.

I therefore give you the opportunity to stop committing genocide and to start a national dialogue to legislate replacement level fertility. You are a small nation and it should not be difficult to reach consensus on the need to restrict fertility by dint of law.

To make your task easier I also urge you to help me forge global consensus at the UN level for a worldwide population control law that would restrict human fertility to two children per woman until such time as the world reaches sustainability.

For your sake and for your people's sake, I hope that you will act on my warnings without delay. You will find the information you need to explain to your people the modus operandi of the international community with respect to covert methods of depopulation in my work, which I make available to the public free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

You will also find a couple of instructive videos about the methods and phases of depopulation on my YouTube channel: <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCZf9rWLgwzGW34EITo0x7fA>.

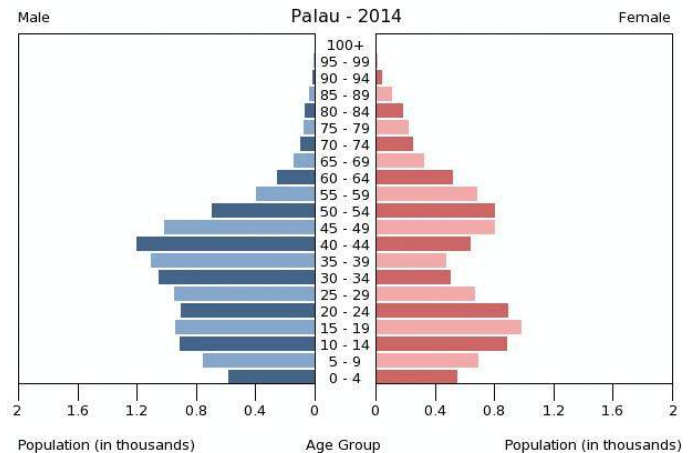

I urge you to disseminate my work among your people without delay so that they will know how to protect their precious children and their own minds and bodies before it is too late.

Should you need my help, I will not hesitate to fly to Palau and assist you in any way I can. As it so happens, my odyssey began in the Palau islands with an epiphany in 2003 – an incident I describe in my book “Killing Us Softly: The Global Depopulation Policy” – and it would be fitting if my efforts and sacrifices will first be vindicated in the Palau islands as well.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

NO DATA

Since 1994, when Palau became independent and decided to continue with covert depopulation measures the following presidents have committed genocide: Kuniwo Nakamura (1993-2001), Tommy Remengesau (2001-2009, and incumbent since 2013), and Johnson Toribiong (2009-2013).

With a fertility rate of just 1.7 children per woman, a contraceptive prevalence rate below 30%, an abortion rate below 1%, Palau is clearly accomplishing its demographic goals through food, water and beverages adulterated with endocrine disruptors at source in the USA, where they are being shipped from, and thus without the people's knowledge or consent.

STATE OF PALESTINE

19 September 2014

Mahmoud Abbas

President of Palestine, info@pgmc.ps

Rami Hamdallah, president@najah.edu

Prime Minister of Palestine

Ismail Haniyeh

Prime Minister of Palestine, ihaniyyeh@hotmail.com

President Abbas, Prime Minister Hamdallah and Prime Minister Haniyeh,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

As a Canadian, and in light of the undemocratic and unethical behavior of Prime Minister Stephen Harper, I must begin this letter by apologizing to the Palestinian people on behalf of all Canadians for the unconditional support Mr. Harper has given Israel; support that has neither the consent nor the permission of the Canadian people who are in the vast majority offended and embarrassed by our prime minister and enraged by the crimes committed by the state of Israel against the Palestinian people.

Every Palestinian child murdered in cold blood by the Israeli war machine, every acre of land stolen by Israel through its illegal settlements encroaching on Palestinian territory, every bomb dropped on innocent and defenseless civilians by the Israeli air force, every act of violence and humiliation committed against the Palestinian people on a daily basis and on their own land by Israelis constitutes a dark and indelible mark on the conscience of humanity. By supporting and encouraging these crimes, Mr. Harper not only misrepresents the will of my people, he also makes all Canadians complicit in the vile crimes committed by Israel against the Palestinian people. More than this, Mr. Harper and the disgraceful and subservient Canadian media put words in the mouths of my countrymen that no self-respecting Canadian would ever utter and that are the very opposite of what we think, feel and want.

Regardless how high the concrete walls are that Israel builds around the territory it has stolen or taken by force from the Palestinian people, they cannot protect them from the shame that Israel has brought upon itself or from the disdain and contempt the people of the world feel towards the ethnic cleansing and the territorial theft that Israel engages in at the expense of Palestine. That this shame has come home to roost is clearly shown by the refusal of Israeli Special Forces from Unit 8200 to continue to serve the state and divide and subvert the Palestinian people. It is in these officers that the true nature of the Israeli people resides and the true nature of all people and it is this nature that we must all nurture – our true nature.

Equally ineffective are the carefully controlled and utterly distorted reports forthcoming from the Jewish-owned global media, which serves as a cover not only for the Palestinian genocide, which unfolds before the eyes of the world, but also for the global genocide, which has been taking place since 1945 in the strictest secrecy and that violates the fundamental rights and freedoms of every human being on the planet and threatens the very survival of the human species.

While the Palestinian genocide is the handiwork of Zionists who commit crimes in the name of nationalism, the global genocide is the handiwork of fascists who commit crimes in the name of international peace. The unbearably difficult reality is that we are all victims, even the victimizers, and that the only way to stop being victims is to outsmart history by showing a better way forward and escaping its traps. And this is the reason I am writing to my Palestinian brothers.

The better way forward, and the only way forward if we want peace and justice for ourselves and a future for our children, is to do away with borders and nationalism and divisions and coexist as citizens of the world, with the same rights and responsibilities, sharing this blue planet and green earth that we are privileged to inhabit. The struggle for a Jewish state and a Palestinian state will then become moot points as there will be only one state left, a borderless world inhabited by human beings and not by citizens of nation states. That will stop the Palestinian genocide.

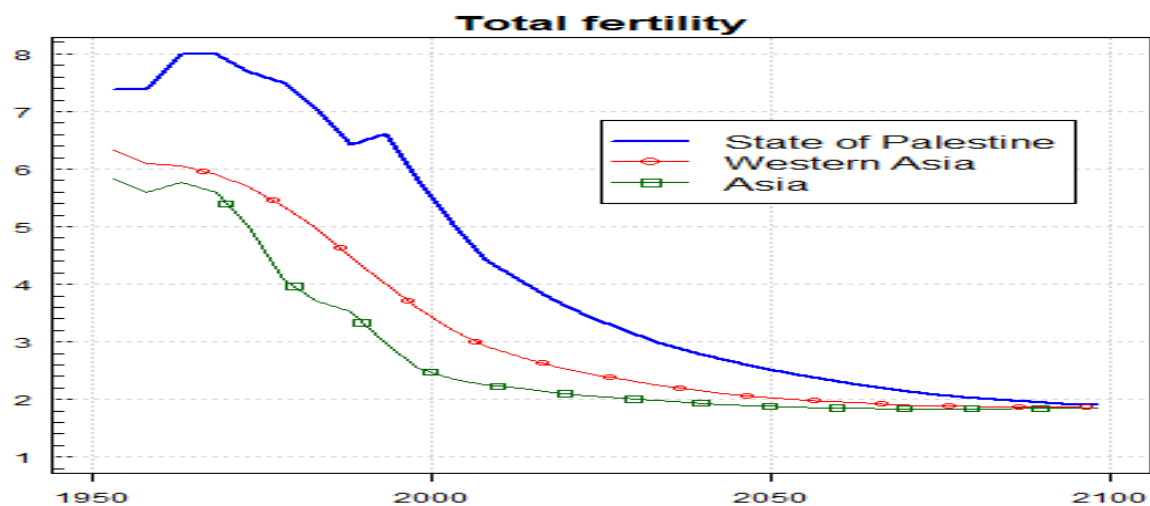

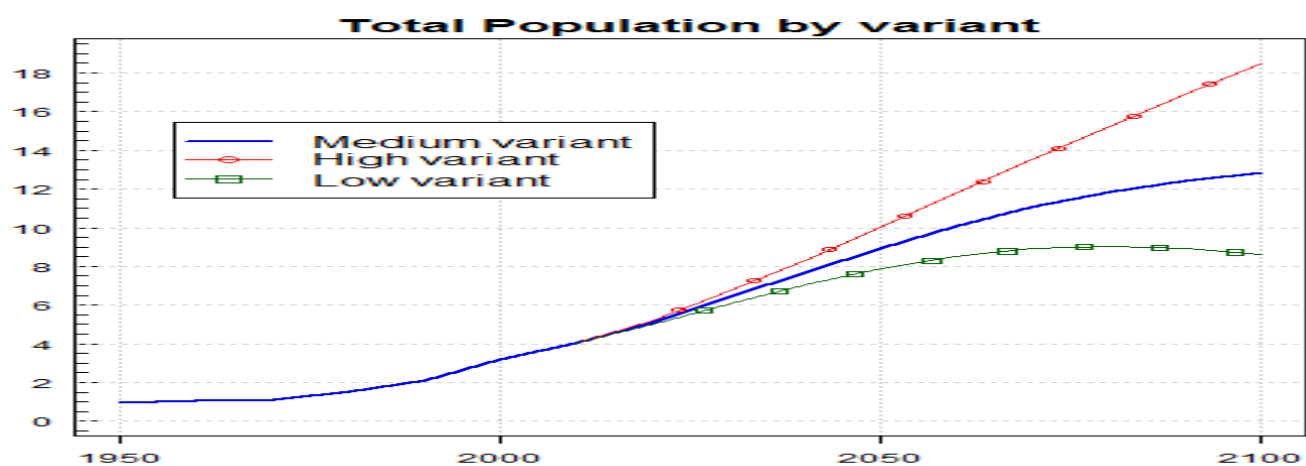

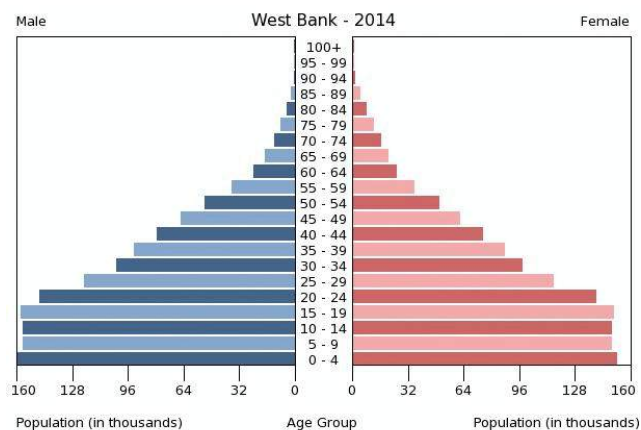

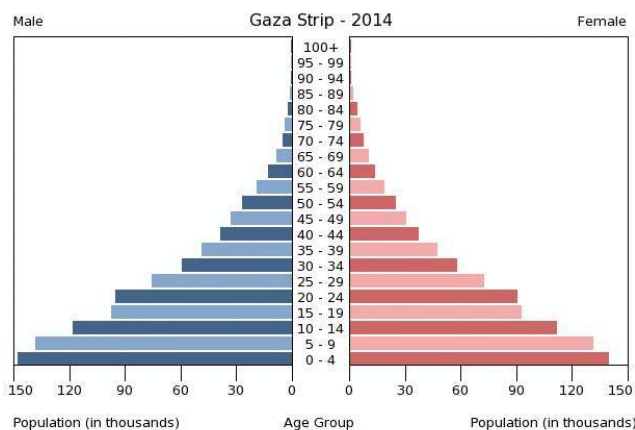

As for the global genocide, all we need and must do without delay is recognize that we live on a finite planet whose limits we have exceeded and whose fabric, the fabric of life, we are harming beyond repair. This recognition inevitably leads to the realization that the only way to save the planet and make life on earth pleasant and possible for all of us is to adopt family size restrictions. Some people and countries will be able to do it voluntarily while others will need a legal framework. But one way or another no couple on earth will henceforth be able to have more than two children.

If Palestine wants to become the envy of the world and be the bearer of global peace you need to be the first to implement a two children policy. This will light up the world and dispel the darkness and Palestine will become the epicenter of a world reborn, a world where people finally live in the image of God. What better place for this world to be born than the Holy Land! What better people to give birth to this new world than the Palestinian people! Shatter the New World Order by being the first to embrace and embody a New Axial Age.

I stand by to help you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Population control measures began in 1968 when the total fertility rate was 8 children per woman. Until 1988 the program of population control proceeded by legitimate means only and the total fertility rate was reduced to 6.4 children per woman. Since 1995, however, covert and illegal methods of depopulation have come into effect.

As the two population pyramids at the top of this page show, the West Bank has been practicing covert methods of population control since 1995 while the Gaza Strip only since 2010, which is why West Bank's total fertility rate is at 3.8 while Gaza's is at 5 children per woman and why the leaders of the West Bank are liked by the international community while Gaza's leaders are not, and why the West Bank has become a lot more quiet in the past ten years while the Gaza Strip is still in turmoil.

Furthermore, the West Bank practices covert depopulation because its leaders have approved it and are in control of the program while covert population control has been imposed on the Gaza Strip by the Israelis who control all water sources and are dumping fluoride in the water.

There will be no peace between Palestinians and Israelis until both have reached replacement level fertility and land and resource pressures ease off. Therefore, the sooner the international community declares replacement level fertility a Global Security Prerogative the sooner we will see no more bloodshed in the Middle East.

The contraceptive prevalence rate in Gaza and the West Bank combined is still too low, at 50%, to make much of a difference in the total fertility rate. Abortion is illegal and at less than 1% it is statistically irrelevant.

The West Bank is in stage three of the demographic transition while the Gaza Strip is in stage two.

President Varela and Prime Minister Malo,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Panama is a UN founding member but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1962. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from nearly 6 children per woman prior to 1962 to 2.4 today. Since 1999, when you took control over the Panama Canal and assumed the cost of family planning services from the US, the drop in fertility has been accomplished through the use of fluoridated salt as well as though food and beverages adulterated with endocrine disruptors.

Considering that the population has grown threefold since 1960 and that such growth is unsustainable anywhere on earth and particularly undesirable for a country with your rich biodiversity, population control was inevitable and must continue. What is no longer inevitable is the use of covert and involuntary methods that constitute genocide and devastate human health and degrade our species.

Not only are such methods illegal, immoral and unhealthy, they are also no longer possible for the simple reason that I exposed them and broke down the walls of secrecy and deception erected by the UN and its western sponsors to keep the con going. If you continue to use them you will face charges for crimes against humanity and Panama will descend into violence and retribution sooner or later. And that is not an outcome anyone in their right mind would want.

This being the case, I am throwing you a lifeline to pull you out of the sinking ship of covert depopulation and into the floating ship of overt depopulation. This will save our children from genocide and genetic degradation, save your government from illegitimacy, and save the world from human-caused environmental demise. How and why I describe in my just published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance, but to make a long story short we need to enshrine replacement level fertility in international law as a Global Planetary Prerogative that no man or women on this planet can eschew.

It is now up to you to grab on to this lifeline and climb onboard and to do this I suggest you put your ambassador to the UN, Ms. Laura Elena Flores Herrera, to work to reform the UN and the current international system before they kill us all. At the same time, you need to free the truth and educate your people so they assume control over their own reproduction and limit it accordingly. My work, which you can access free of cost and use at will, will help you do this:

Population control in Panama has proceeded at a careful pace, which is why it took thirty years, from 1962 to 1992, to lower the total fertility rate from 6 to 3 children per woman. This is probably due to the fact that only part of the country was subjected to covert chemical sterilization until 1999 while the rest of the country were outside the program's reach. Panama's Canal Zone and parts of Panama City have had fluoridated water from 1975 to 2000. Panama as a whole has relied on fluoridated salt since 1999.

The man responsible for setting the tone of Panama's population control program is Omar Torrijos, Commander of the National Guard and in control of Panama from 1968 to 1981. Manuel Noriega continued in the same vein as Torrijos from 1983 to 1989 when he was removed by the US military. All subsequent presidents of Panama have stayed the course and have lowered fertility to 2.4 children per woman.

Contraceptives have no significant role in Panama's fertility decline. As the record shows Panama's contraceptive prevalence rate has never exceeded 62% and has actually gone down to 53%. And abortion, the historical record shows, is even less of a factor since the abortion rate has always been below 0.05% in Panama as a whole and has only experienced a peak of 16% in the Canal Zone during the 1970s.

Panama's per capita GDP began to take off in the early 1990s by which time fertility had been halved from 6 to 3 children per woman.

Panama is in stage three of the demographic transition.

INDEPENDENT STATE OF PAPUA NEW GUINEA

9 December 2014

Peter O'Neill, President of Papua New Guinea

<http://www.pm.gov.pg/index.php/contact-us>
pngmission@pngun.org, webmaster@health.gov.pg

Prime Minister O'Neill,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Papua New Guinea joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1975, the same year it gained its independence and became a UN member state, and the total fertility rate has decreased from 6.3 children per woman to 3.8 as of 2014.

With more than 800 indigenous languages and just as many cultural groups, the country is a nightmare to govern and since 82% of the people live in rural and remote areas and are self-sufficient the country is all the more difficult to control in terms of population growth, which is why the UN and its western sponsors have resorted to germ warfare. As in Africa, the UN has used immunizations to infect Papuans with the human immunodeficiency virus, which has spread like wildfire due to the widespread practice of rape and gang rape in Papuan society and now nearly 2% of the population is infected.

In recent times, however, the UN and the international community prefer to subvert the reproductive rights of Papuans with the tetanus toxoid vaccine and with antimalarial drugs based on artemisinin, a known sterilizer. Malaria being endemic in Papua New Guinea and the leading cause of death it provides the perfect cover for the UN's program of sterilization.

Papua New Guinea is an ecological treasure and the world needs to preserve it, which is why Papuans, despite their natural lifestyles and isolation, are being aggressively targeted by the depopulation lobby. Yet despite the effort to control population growth nearly one-quarter of Papua New Guinea's rainforests have already been destroyed and if the same practices continue half the forests could be gone by 2021. But this is no excuse for involuntary sterilizations and genocide, especially since the devastation of the forests is caused by heavy demand for lumber from outside Papua New Guinea.

That is why I urge you to legislate population control and to empower your people to assume control over their reproductive rights and natural resources before it is too late. You will find all the information you need here:

Phases of Depopulation

Since population control is already an international security prerogative and the basis of peace since 1945, it cannot be brought into the open unless all nations demand transparency from the UN so the covert, immoral and criminal methods now used to subvert fertility across the world – methods that cause irreparable harm to human health across the world and degrade the genetic and intellectual endowment of mankind – can be replaced with overt, moral and legal methods that are just and safe.

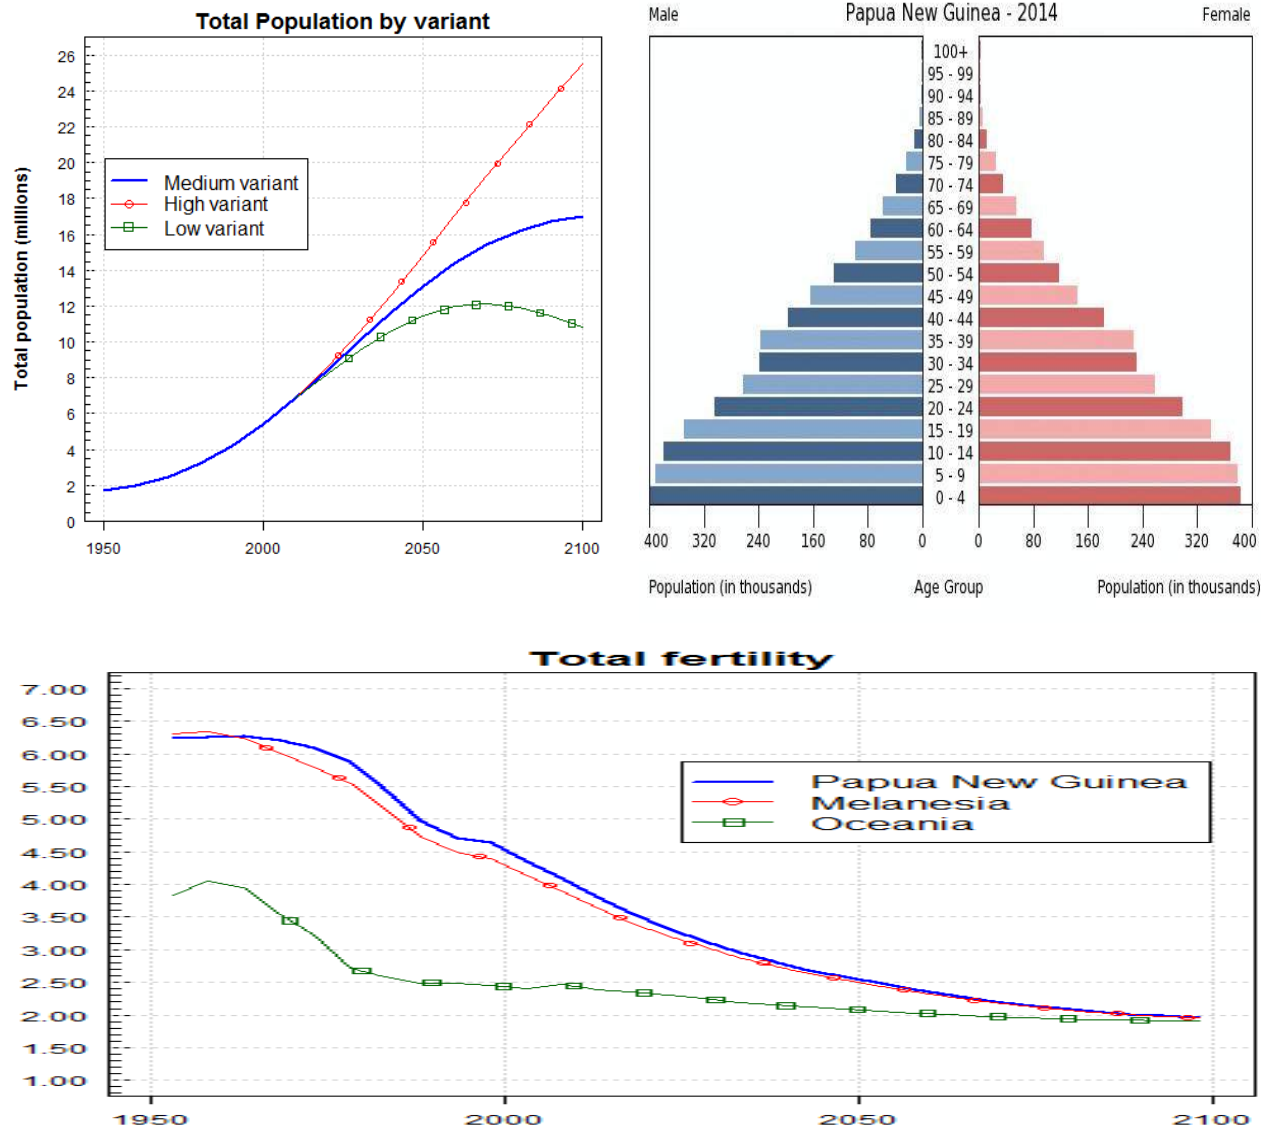

That I, a common citizen, should be the one to initiate such a long overdue change in global policy and not a statesman or a UN agency shows just how desperately inept and self-serving the leadership of nation states and of the international system is and always has been. Should leaders refuse to change course now that we have caught them red-handed committing genocide, we the people have the right and the responsibility to begin a great purge and put our leaders on trial for genocide and crimes against humanity. If you want to avoid this fate, then I suggest you take the opportunity I am providing you with seriously and act without delay by empowering Ambassador Aisi to demand a vote in the UN General Assembly that would declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative enshrined in international law.

Should you need my help I stand by to travel to Papua New Guinea to assist you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Progress in Papua New Guinea on the depopulation front is slow and cumbersome due to the country's geography and its remote, isolated and self-sufficient human settlements.

The man responsible for allowing the international community to start subverting the people's reproductive rights since 1975 is Prime Minister Michael Somare (1975-1980, 1982-1985, 2002-2011). His successors have followed suit: Julius Chan (1980-1982, 1994-1997), Paias Wingti (1985-1988), Rabbie Namaliu (1988-1992), Bill Skate (1997-1999), Mekere Morauta (1999-2002), Sam Abal (2010-2011), and the incumbent Peter O'Neill (since 2011).

Contraceptives, at 30%, are certainly not much of a factor in Papua New Guinea's fertility reduction and abortion even less so since it is only permitted to save a woman's life.

Papua New Guinea is in stage two of the demographic transition.

President Cartes,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Paraguay is a UN founding member, but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1962. As a result, the total fertility rate has since decreased from 6.5 children per woman to just 2 today. This has been accomplished at first through involuntary surgical and chemical sterilizations and since 1999 through fluoridated salt.

Luckily your country's population density is low at just 14 people per square kilometer, but unfortunately the poverty and illiteracy rates are high. Nevertheless your government must begin to educate the people about the need to assume control of their reproductive systems so the genocide can stop without jeopardizing regional stability, global peace and the sustainability imperative. To educate your people about the importance of maintaining replacement level fertility, I urge you to use my work at will and free of cost. You will find it here:

<http://www.linkedin.com/in/kevingalalae>

But this is only half the task. The other half involves reforming the UN system and changing the premise of international peace from covert to over population control. How to do this and why I explain in my just published book, The Future of Global Governance. I urge you to read it and to empower your ambassador to the UN, José Antonio Dos Santos, to initiate UN reform.

I stand by to help you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

As elsewhere in Latin America, for the genocide to begin the military overthrew the elected government. General Alfredo Stroessner Matiauda ousted President Federico Chávez in an army coup in 1954 and installed himself as president. He ruled the country from 1954 to 1989 and suspended the rule of law as soon as he took office by declaring martial law. During his 35-year dictatorship the total fertility rate declined from 6.5 to 4.7 children per woman.

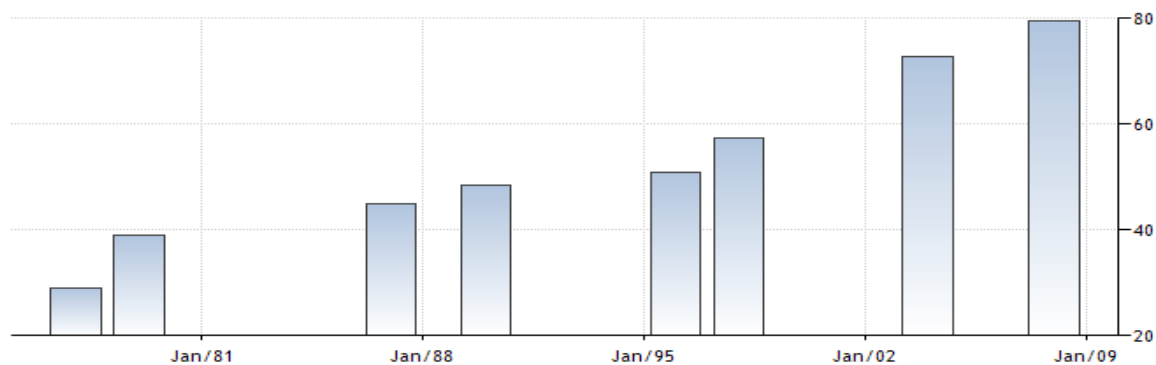

From 1962 to 1982, General Matiauda used family planning services and not chemical poisoning to lower fertility. From 1982 onward, however, the people have been chemically sterilized with fluoridated salt and ten years later BPA was added to the food chain to work its miracles as a sterilizer.

All subsequent presidents until Fernando Lugo took office in 2008 have stayed the course set by General Matiauda. They are: Andrés Rodríguez (1989-1993), Juan Carlos Wasmosy (1993-1998), Raúl Cubas Grau (1998-1999), Luis Ángel González Macchi (1999-2003), and Nicanor Duarte (2003-2008). These men have continued the program of covert depopulation under the oversight and threat of the military forces who removed every president from office through coup or impeachment as soon as they refused to poison the people. They lowered fertility from 4.7 to 3 children per woman.

As a Roman Catholic priest and former Bishop of the Diocese of San Pedro from 1994 to 2005, Fernando Lugo, was not a welcomed site by the Paraguayan military when he ascended to the presidency of the country in 2008, a position he occupied until 2012 when he was removed from office through an impeachment characterized as a coup by outside observers.

As the total fertility graph above shows, as soon as Lugo became president in 2008 the total fertility rate stopped its steep decline and settled into a gentler curve. His successor, Federico Franco (2012-2013) continued in the same vein as President Lugo, which is why he only survived in office one year. During Lugo's and Franco's presidencies the total fertility rate remained more or less flat at 3 children per woman.

That Paraguay's declining fertility until President Lugo took office in 2008 could not be explained by the people's use of contraceptives is amply demonstrated by the country's contraceptive prevalence graph, which shows that fewer than 40% of Paraguayans used contraceptives in the 1980s and fewer than 50% in the 1990s. It was only after President Lugo took office that the contraceptive prevalence rate climbed sharply to 80%. He obviously tried to protect the people from being poisoned into infertility and ill-health by retiring fluoride and BPA and accomplishing low fertility through the use of safe contraceptives.

Abortion is even less of a factor since it is illegal except in cases of threat to the woman's life.

Incumbent President Horacio Cartes (since August 2013), who owns the Grupo Cartes conglomerate, has returned the country to covert chemical sterilization, which is why the total fertility rate declined from 3 to 2 children per woman since he took office.

Paraguay is in stage three of the demographic transition.

President Humala and Prime Minister Jara,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

Peru joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1963, when it began subverting the reproductive systems of its citizens in the capital city with fluoridated water. Peru's depopulation program, however, did not reach momentum until 1969. Through the adoption of salt fluoridation in 1992 the program became nationwide. Milk fluoridation augments the depopulation program in the city of Trujillo. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from nearly 7 children per woman prior to 1963 to 2.2 children per woman today. Even so the population, which is currently 31 million, is expected to grow to 42 million by 2050.

Since the government could not reach indigenous women in remote Andean villages with either water, salt or milk fluoridation, the Fujimori government forcibly sterilized 300,000 peasant women and 22,000 men surgically between 1995 and 2000. As expected, Prosecutor Guzman, found no evidence of coerced sterilization in his 2014 verdict, as that would have indicted the current government and the country's judiciary as much as the Fujimori government, since the forced surgical sterilizations committed under the Fujimori government are but the tip of the iceberg of a national and four-decades old program of depopulation of which your government is just as guilty of committing crimes against humanity as the Fujimori government was.

Since Peru's population needs to be stabilized or else the nation will never find its way out of poverty, from which 30% of your people already suffer, I understand your predicament but cannot sympathize with you, or with the rest of the current national leaders throughout the world, for failing to lead your nation to legal, open and fair population control, which can only be accomplished through legislation.

You and the remainder of the world's national leaders are already with a foot in the grave but are too ignorant to know it and too arrogant to believe that the masses can turn on you at any second and butcher you in the street. Yet that is exactly what will happen unless you immediately change course.

You, President Humala, risked your life to get rid of your corrupt predecessor, President Fujimori, only to continue exactly where he left off. Rest assured that unless you stop poisoning your people into ill-health, sterility, premature death and genetic oblivion, you will be dealt with in the same way as Fujimori, or worse, since the people of the world now know about the Global Depopulation Policy thanks to my work and sacrifices.

Peru poses as a representative democracy but is anything but a democracy since the Peruvian people never gave you or your Ministry of Health permission to covertly sterilize and sicken them under various pretexts.

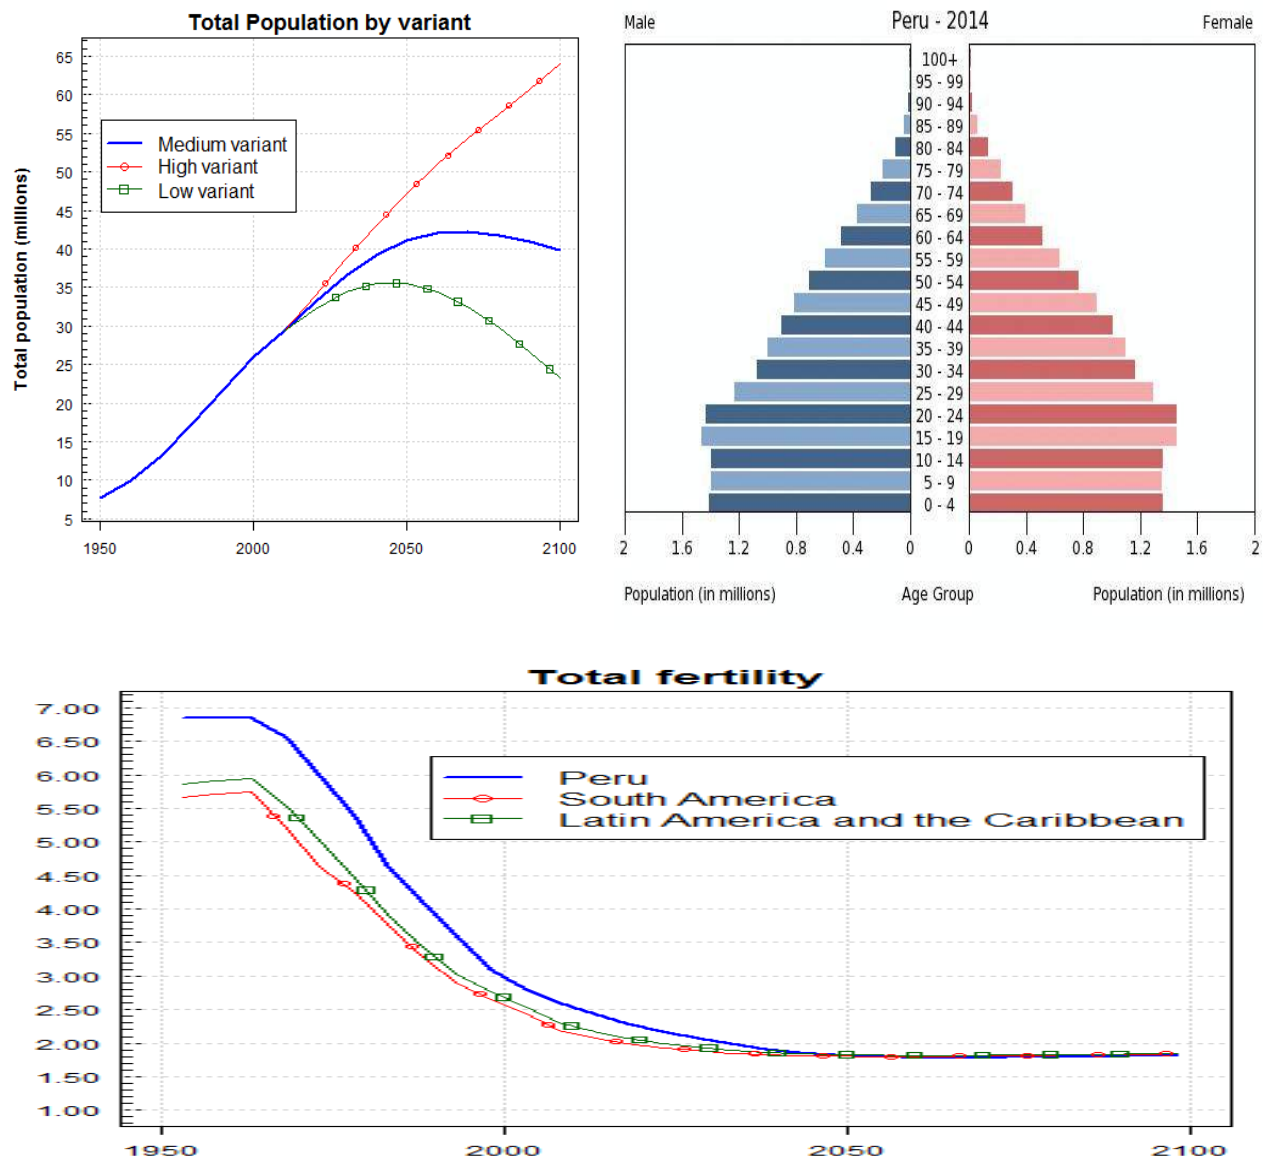

The influential newspaper La República has called you “valiant and decisive” and I hope that you will prove to be just that by joining me in forging global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide and is imposed on all peoples and nations from the global governance level, for that is the only way we can save the world from genocide and insanity, restore human rights and civil liberties, rescue the environment, and ensure the continuation of human civilization into the distant future.

Until such time, I urge you to free Peru's media to report the truth, which you will find in my work freely available to the global public here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

I look forward to speaking with you on Peruvian soil once you have mustered the courage to act like a man.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

A military junta led by General Ricardo Pérez Godoy ousted President Manuel Prado Ugarteche (1956-1962) in a coup d'état in July 1962 and within months began covert methods of depopulation. By July 1963, the military felt the depopulation program to be safely in place and allowed a civilian to assume the presidency. President Fernando Belaúnde Terry (1963-1968) was ousted from office in 1968 by General Juan Francisco Velasco Alvarado, undoubtedly because he refused to sterilize his people, and a military dictatorship took over the country for the next 11 years, time during which the total fertility rate was reduced from 6.5 to 4.7 children per woman.

Fernando Belaúnde Terry returned from exile in the US, where he was re-educated to accept the depopulation prerogative, and allowed to assume the presidency so long as he continued the population control program. Throughout his second term in office from 1980 to 1985 he complied with the depopulation prerogative and he finished his term in office without a coup or an impeachment. The total fertility rate declined from 4.7 to 4.3 children per woman.

All subsequent Peruvian presidents have stayed the course: Alan García (1985-1990, 2006-2011), Alberto Fujimori (1990-2000), Alejandro Toledo (2001-2006), and incumbent President Ollanta Humala (since July 2011). Of the three, Fujimori was by far the worse, as he forcibly surgically sterilized hundreds of thousands of indigenous people who lived in remote areas and could not be reached by the government's sterilizing poisons. The total fertility rate has declined from 4.3 to 2.18 as of 2015.

Peru's fertility decline predates the use of contraceptives. During the 1960s and 1970s, when Peruvians had not even seen contraceptives, the total fertility rate declined from nearly 7 to 5 children per woman. During the 1980s, when the contraceptive prevalence rate rose to 45% (of which less than 30% by modern methods) fertility declined from 5 to 4 children per woman. And from the 1990s until today, when the contraceptive prevalence rate has been around 70% (of which only 50% by modern methods), fertility has declined from 4 to 2.2 children per woman. Contraceptives, therefore, have never been more than just a decoy for covert chemical sterilization.

Abortion is a non-factor in the fertility decline since it is illegal except in case of threat to the life or health of the woman.

Peru has been rewarded for its depopulation efforts with a rising GDP. As the graph below shows, the country's GDP began to rise in the early 1990s, only after the country's total fertility rate had decreased from 7 to 3 children per woman.

Peru is in stage three of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF THE PHILIPPINES

16 September 2014

Benigno Aquino III
President of the Philippines, op@president.gov.ph

President Aquino,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The people of the Philippines are under attack. The United Nations and its agencies, aided by foreign aid organizations such as USAID, are using family planning and health services to covertly sterilize the Filipino population through adulterated vaccines and oral contraceptives. They are also using food, water and beverages to cause not only sterility but also morbidity and premature mortality through the use of toxic endocrine disruptors and GMOs.

I applaud the passage of the Responsible Parenthood and Reproductive Health Act of 2012 (Republic Act No. 10354), which gives Filipinos access to free contraceptives, but warn you that the Act will be abused unless strictly monitored to ensure that it will indeed “promote, without bias, all effective natural and modern methods of family planning that are medically safe and legal” and is not merely used and abused as a front for the covert use of endocrine disruptors that not only render the populace infertile without their knowledge and consent but also increase morbidity and mortality intentionally in order to tackle the population problem from both ends, birth and death.

Over the past three years, I have exposed the covert methods employed by the UN and its western sponsors to control population worldwide through covert chemical, biological and bacteriological methods that are immoral and criminal. I have also exposed the psychosocial and economic methods used to subvert the family structure and the ability of nations to provide social services and adequate infrastructure. In retaliation I have been arrested and imprisoned six times, my family has been destroyed, my children taken away from me and to this day held hostage, my career shattered and all my income streams subverted so I will acquiesce to genocide. But I never will. Instead I will guide the world towards the only alternative, worldwide legislation for population control.

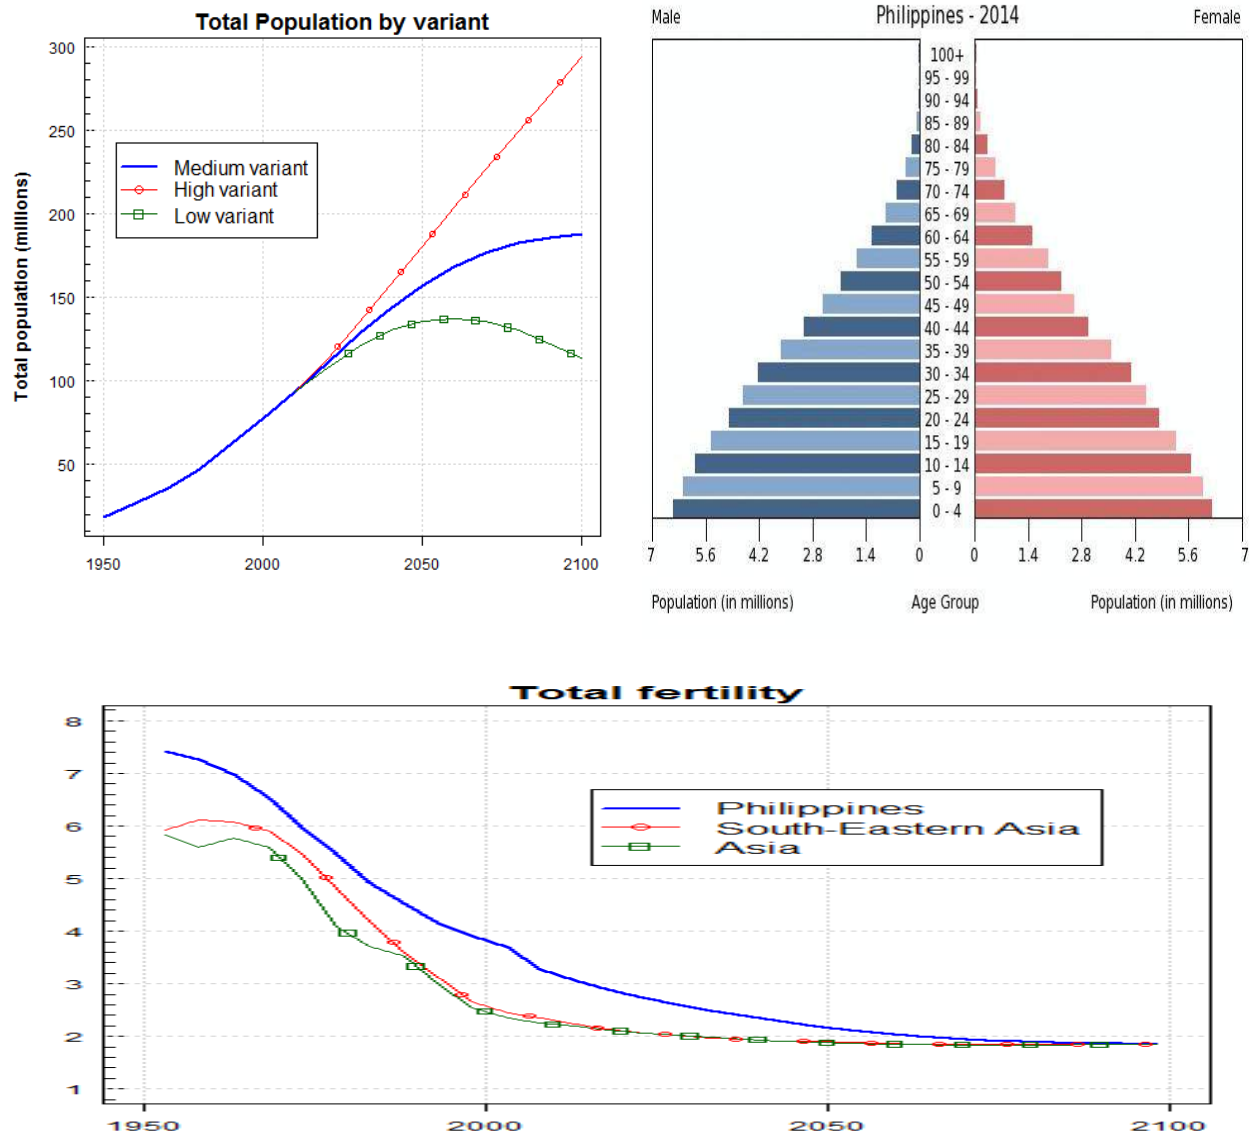

I urge you to expel all foreign aid organizations from your country as well as all UN agencies and to take control of your nation’s population problem. In your inaugural speech you promised to “serve and not to lord over” the people. I remind you also of your father’s advice “to live with honor and follow your conscience” and to serve the Filipino people “with all your heart, with all your might and with all your strength”. I also warn you that neither the Church nor the UN or western governments are to be trusted on this matter. They work hand in glove.

You are a man of principles and extraordinary integrity and I trust that you will fulfill your country’s international obligations without resorting to genocide. You can do so by legislating family size and by helping me forge global consensus for worldwide laws limiting people to replacement level fertility. For this is the only way to protect the people from genocide, to ensure their wellbeing and prosperity, and to safeguard future generations from war, famine and environmental degradation.

I stand by to fly to the Philippines for face-to-face discussions.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

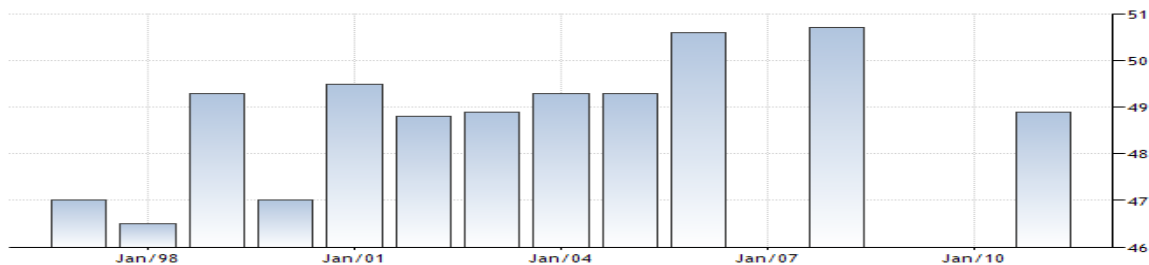

The Philippines' early population control efforts, which began in 1960, have been genuine, meaning that the government has used for the most part only voluntary, ethical and legal methods through the provision of family planning services, better education and better access to contraceptives. This is reflected in the smoothly curving sides of the population pyramid and the slow downward slope of the total fertility graph. It is also supported by public policy documents.

Starting in 1978, however, the government has involuntarily sterilized its people with adulterated vaccines, as recently admitted by the former Executive Director of the Commission on Population, the body coordinating population policy.

The Philippines also has a secret water fluoridation program that in 2004 covered circa 7% of the population and is to this day a closely guarded secret. Judging by the decreasing use of contraceptives but increasing drop in fertility since 2010, one can only conclude that the government of the Philippines has expanded the use of fluoridated water. Clearly, the current contraceptive prevalence rate of 49% (of which only 36% by modern methods) cannot possibly account for the relatively low fertility rate of 3 children per woman.

Abortion is illegal and therefore a non-factor in the fertility decline.

Western NGOs affiliated with the UN system have been subverting the people's reproductive rights with or without the government's knowledge or consent with sterilizing vaccines administered under various pretexts for the past twenty years.

Efforts to control population growth began in the early 1960s during the Presidency of Diosdado Macapagal (1960-1965) and have continued unabated under all subsequent presidents: Ferdinand Marcos (1965-1986), Corazon Aquino (1986-1992), Fidel Ramos (1992-1998), Joseph Estrada (1998-2001), Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo (2001-2010), and the incumbent Benigno Aquino III (since June 2010).

The Philippines has been rewarded for its population control efforts with a rising GDP. As the data shows, the country's GDP did not start growing until 1980, by which time fertility had declined from 7.5 to 5 children and did not start its explosive growth until 2000, by which time fertility had declined to 4 children. As elsewhere increased affluence follows decreased fertility and not vice versa.

The Philippines has just entered stage three of the demographic transition.

President Komorowski and Prime Minister Tusk,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

No other European country has suffered as much as Poland due to foreign aggression. In modern history alone your country has been torn apart and your intellectuals murdered by the Germans (the Intelligenzaktion of 1939), the Russians (the Katyn massacre of 1940), and most recently by the genocidal coalition that masquerades as the international community and whose pillars are the US, the UK and Russia.

The last genocide started in 1945, is ongoing, and targets not only the Polish people but all people on earth, being part and parcel of the Global Depopulation Policy agreed upon by the Allied Powers at the End of World War II and implemented ever since in the strictest secrecy as a substitute to war.

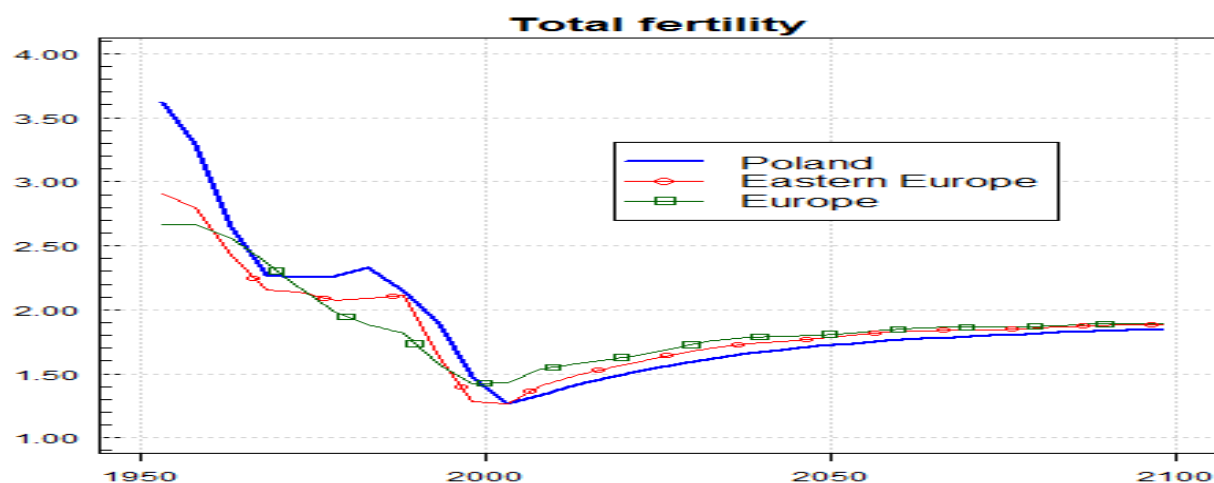

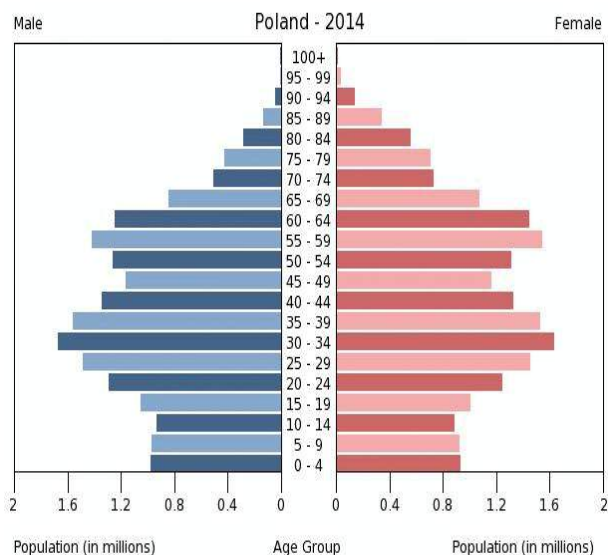

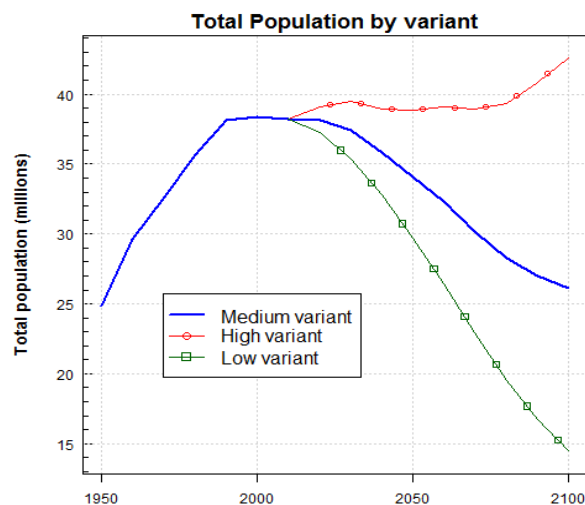

The Catholic Church has protected the Polish people until 1970 when it too succumbed to the genocidal lobby. President Lech Kaczyński tried to protect the Polish people and paid with his life.

If this government continues to covertly poison its citizens with fertility-depressing toxins in order to comply with an international order that demands crimes against humanity and is centrally delegated from the UN, your country will not only disintegrate politically but also morally and Poland will never again raise a Fryderyk Chopin, a Nicolaus Copernicus, a Marie Skłodowska-Curie, or a Joseph Conrad. What it will raise instead is only infertile idiots, for that is what happens to people subjected to chronic poisoning by endocrine disruptors over multiple generations.

If you want to save your people from genocide and save yourselves from lynching you must see me without delay so that together we can forge global consensus for worldwide population control laws and return the world to sanity.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Covert depopulation measures were imposed on Poland in 1952 by the Soviets and its co-architects of the Global Depopulation Policy, the Americans and the British, as soon as Aleksander Zawadzki (1952-1964) was appointed Chairman of the Polish Council of State, and continued until 1968 when Marshal Marian Spychalski became Chairman of the Polish Council of State.

From 1968 until 1982, when the country was still firmly under Soviet control, the program of depopulation was stalled at 2.3 children per woman and then rebooted in 1983 by Henryk Jabłoński, head of the People's Republic of Poland from 1972 to 1985. This continued throughout President Wojciech Jaruzelski's time in office from 1985 to 1990; who was the last Soviet puppet at the helm of Poland. By the time Poland won its independence in 1990 the total fertility rate had decreased from 3.8 children per woman prior to 1951 to just 2 children per woman.

The program of covert depopulation has continued unabated under the freely elected presidents of Poland from day one of independence: Lech Wałęsa (1990-1995), Aleksander Kwaśniewski (1995-2005), Lech Kaczyński (2005-2010), and incumbent Bronisław Komorowski (since August 2010). Through the combined efforts of Poland's freely elected presidents the country's total fertility rate was further reduced from 2 to 1.3 children per woman. Poland's total fertility rate has been at sub-replacement level since 1992 and reached a lowest low of 1.2 children per woman in 2003.

Clear and indisputable evidence that this low fertility has absolutely nothing to do with contraceptives and everything to do with covert chemical poisoning via endocrine disruptors, is provided by Poland's contraceptive prevalence rate, which is currently below 50% (of which only 28% by modern methods) and was at a high of 75% only for a brief period from 1975 to 1979 when covert chemical methods had been shut down to see if the fertility would stay stable by contraceptives alone. It did not. As the total fertility rate graph above shows, Poland's fertility actually increased from 1975 to 1980. Annual statistics show that Poland's total fertility rate was 2.27 children per woman in 1975, 2.31 in 1976, 2.33 in 1977, 2.30 in 1978, 2.39 in 1979, and 2.42 in 1980 when covert chemical methods were reintroduced and the total fertility rate began dropping again. This shows that a 75% contraceptive prevalence rate cannot even keep the fertility stable let alone at or below replacement level.

During communist times abortion did play a role in Poland's fertility decline, but by no means a primary role. As the historical record shows, 30% of all pregnancies ended in abortion during the 1960s, 25% during the 1970s, and 16% during the 1980s. As soon as communism fell in 1990 and the population returned to its catholic values, abortion virtually disappeared overnight and the rate has remained far below 1% from 1993 until today.

Poland is in stage four of the demographic transition and will enter stage five in a couple of years, as soon as deaths surpass births. Deaths and births are currently at near parity (376,000 births versus 372,000 deaths).

President Silva and Prime Minister Coelho,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Portugal became a UN member state in 1955 and joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1962. As a result, its total fertility rate decreased from 3 children per woman prior to 1962 to just 1.2 today. Portugal's total fertility rate has been below replacement level since 1983 and the population has been shrinking since 2007 despite immigration. This decline has been accomplished as elsewhere in Europe through covert chemical sterilization via endocrine disruptors inserted in food, water and beverages.

Engineering a demographic transition in compliance with the UN has had other dire effects as well, namely the dissolution of the family structure, despite Portugal's Catholicism, which is why to date 48% of all births are to unmarried women.

If you continue in this fashion two decades from now all Portuguese women will be sterile and all Portuguese men will have useless sperm. Whatever offspring will come into the world will be severely degraded both genetically and intellectually. And instead of completing the demographic transition and settling into a steady population state at optimal levels your population will collapse and no one, not even God, will be able to bring it back from oblivion.

What a terrible way that would be for a country with such a long, proud and illustrious history to end! Portugal has controlled the fate of nations and people across the world for 600 years only to terminate itself through slow mass poisoning. Hollywood could not write a more bizarre story. And you are not alone because all of Europe is in self-destruct mode and the rest of the world is following in its steps.

Well, I put an end to the insanity by freeing the truth and am pulling mankind back from the brink and putting our human civilization, which has become inhuman, back on its axis from where it has been unhinged in 1945 by the noblest intentions, namely to preserve future generations from the scourge of war by embarking on a new geopolitical paradigm. Despite the soundness of the new paradigm, which seeks to stabilize the global population so that nations never again run out of resources and have to resort to wars of necessity, the outcome is not the one that was originally intended because no one could foresee that structural obstacles stood in the way of open population control. No one wanted peace by poison, yet that is what we have inherited from our fathers and grandfathers since they could not convince the world to have peace through responsible personal behavior.

Having outgrown our planet by our insatiable needs and intemperate numbers nature now gives us no other alternative than to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law from now until the end of time.

Portugal has been a model global citizen and has shown leadership countless times in the past. This is the time to show leadership once again and use your voice at the UN to initiate the deep structural reforms of the international system that our circumstances dictate in a manner and towards goals that I have outlined in my just published document, The Future of Global Governance. Please instruct your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Álvaro Mendonça e Moura, to start the process before the world meets in Addis Ababa, New York and Paris later this year to embark on the hard road towards sustainability.

To succeed, we must also educate the people in record time and to this end I am providing you with the material necessary to do so. You will find it here:

As in most of Europe so in Portugal the depopulation program began in 1962, when Rear Admiral Américo Tomás was President of Portugal (1958-1974) and António de Oliveira Salazar (1932-1968). The program has continued ever since without interruption or hesitation under every subsequent president except Francisco da Costa Gomes (1974-1976), who appears not to have gone along with the program and who was promptly replaced after only two years in office.

The following presidents are responsible for crimes against humanity: António Ramalho Eanes (1976-1986), Mário Soares (1986-1996), Jorge Sampaio (1996-2006), and the incumbent Aníbal Cavaco Silva (since March 2006).

Portugal's prime ministers, from Marcelo Caetano (1968-1974) to incumbent Pedro Passos Coelho (since June 2011), are also responsible.

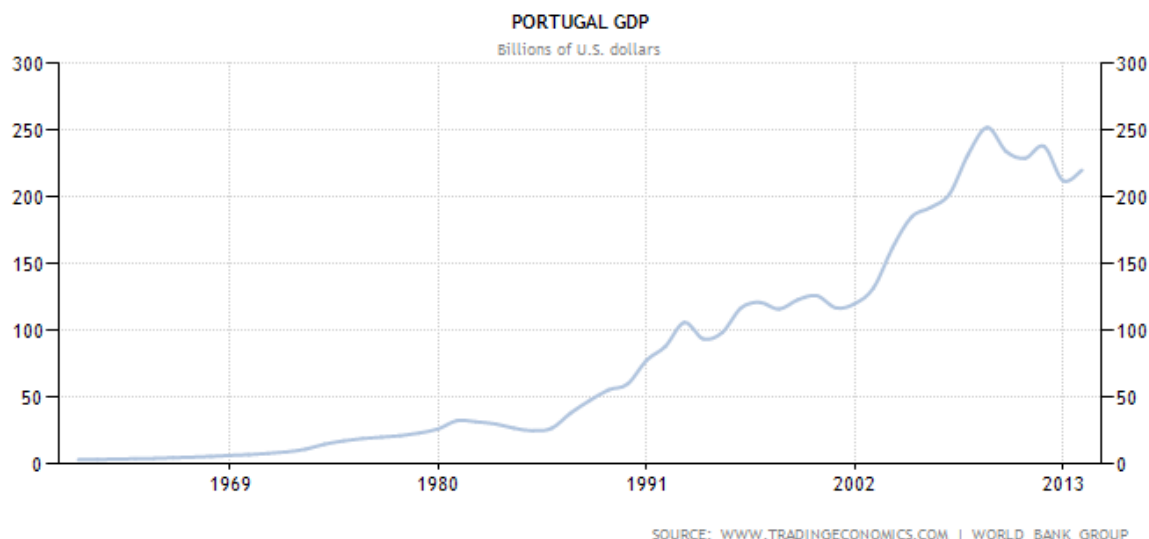

Even from the limited data that does exist, it is clear that Portugal's fertility rate has never been a consequence of contraceptive use, as the country's contraceptive prevalence rate shows. For when Portugal reached replacement level fertility in 1979, the contraceptive prevalence rate was still below 60%.

Today it is apparently at 87% (of which 83 by modern methods) and still cannot possibly account for Portugal's extremely low fertility rate of 1.2 children per woman. Contraceptives, it will be remembered, even if used without fail, cannot suppress family size below the people's preferred family size.

The historical record shows that abortion is not a factor in Portugal's low fertility. Until the turn of the 21st century the abortion rate was far below 1%. Since then it has risen to 17%.

Portugal has been rewarded for its genocide with a growing GDP, which began increasing no sooner the country reached replacement level fertility in 1979.

Portugal entered the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition in 2005, when its population began decreasing due to negative growth rates. In 2013, deaths exceeded births by 23,756 souls.

STATE OF QATAR

Sheikh Tamim bin Hamad bin Khalifa Al Thani
Emir of Qatar, info@moj.gov.qa

Emir Al Thani,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Nepalese ambassador to Qatar, Maya Kumari Sharma, rightfully described your country as an “open jail”. The abuse foreign laborers suffer on Qatari soil is beyond contempt. What is also beyond contempt is that your family profits from the labor of westerners, through Qatar’s investments in the West, and in return aids our governments to spy on us and to subvert our fundamental rights. I have exposed this extra-judicial and immoral act of espionage on the world’s citizenry in my 2010 article “The Great Secret: Surveillance and Censorship in Britain and the EU” (<http://cryptome.org/0003/great-secret.pdf>), long before Edward Snowden and other whistleblowers provided direct evidence.

What you receive in return from our governments is poisoned food, water and beverages, as well as adulterated vaccines and dental products to subvert your citizens’ reproductive systems and health so as to comply with the UN depopulation agenda and thus fulfill Qatar’s obligations towards an international system based on covert depopulation and coerced globalization.

Qatar’s latest contribution to the current genocidal world order is support for ISIS, so as to squeeze the people of the Middle East between engineered Islamic extremist violence and puppet, western-controlled and thoroughly corrupt national governments so as to disillusion and demoralize the populace from seeking both self-determination and unity under a caliphate and thus force the people of the Middle East to ultimately accept submitting to the current world order.

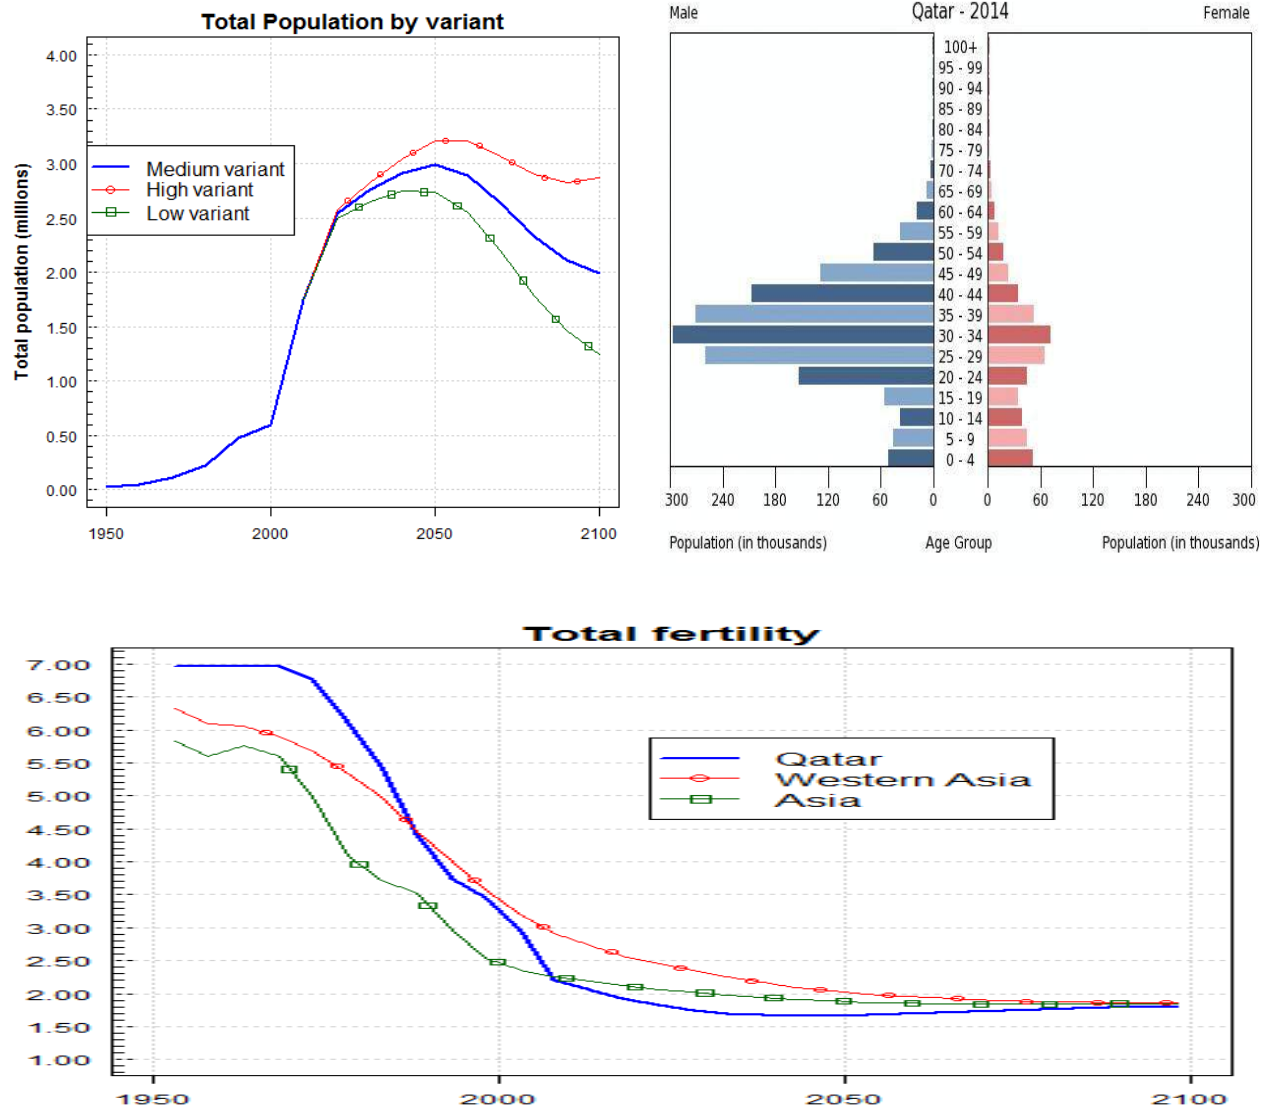

I understand that Qatar is a small state and it must play a delicate game to avoid being swallowed up by powerful nations. I also understand that you have just inherited the reins of power from your father and are not personally responsible for the actions of your predecessors. That is why I am giving you the opportunity to break rank with the genocidal coalition held together by the US and the UK. Your first act must be a clear and open declaration, just as Ayatollah Khamenei has issued, that Qatar will immediately cease and desist poisoning its people into sterility and morbidity through the use of toxic endocrine disruptors for the sake of population control and will instead seek legislation to control family size and comply with the necessary international security prerogative of population control.

You own Al Jazeera; use it to tell the world the truth. In so doing, you will earn your place in history as a global hero and the world’s gratitude for all times.

I stand by to assist you if you decide to be on the right side of history.

Sincerely,

Covert depopulation measures were adopted by Khalifa bin Hamad Al Thani as soon as he became Emir of Qatar in 1972 upon seizing power from his cousin. During his reign, which lasted until 1995, Qatar's total fertility rate dropped from 7 to 3.6 children per woman.

What goes around comes around and Hamad bin Khalifa Al Thani took the throne in June 1995 while his father was on vacation in Switzerland. By the time he abdicated power in 2013, Qatar's total fertility rate decreased from 3.6 to 2 children per woman.

The current Emir of Qatar, Tamim bin Hamad Al Thani (since June 2013), the fourth son of the previous emir, continues to suppress fertility with endocrine disruptors, like his predecessors, and the total fertility rate has sunk to 1.9, thus below replacement level fertility.

That Qatar's low fertility has absolutely nothing to do with contraceptive use is clearly demonstrated by Qatar's low contraceptive prevalence rate, which was never higher than 43% (of which only 32% by modern methods). Abortion even less so since it is illegal and allowed only to save the life of a woman or her health. The historical record shows that the abortion rate in Qatar has always been below 1%.

Qatar has just entered stage four of the demographic transition.

President Băsescu and Prime Minister Ponta,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Romania, the country of my birth, is a small country, but need not be a petty one. For our children's wellbeing and our nation's future, I urge you to stop taking orders from abroad and to start following your consciences if you are to restore my country its lost sovereignty and shattered dignity and return to my people their right to self-determination and control over their minds and bodies.

Ceausescu, for all his flaws, at least protected the populace from the genocidal coalition in control of the international system, whereas every Romanian leader since has succumbed to pressure to subsume Romania to the depopulation/globalization axis of the New World Order. This is the time to reverse the damage done to my country and position Romania as a leading light on the international arena. I am providing you with a unique opportunity.

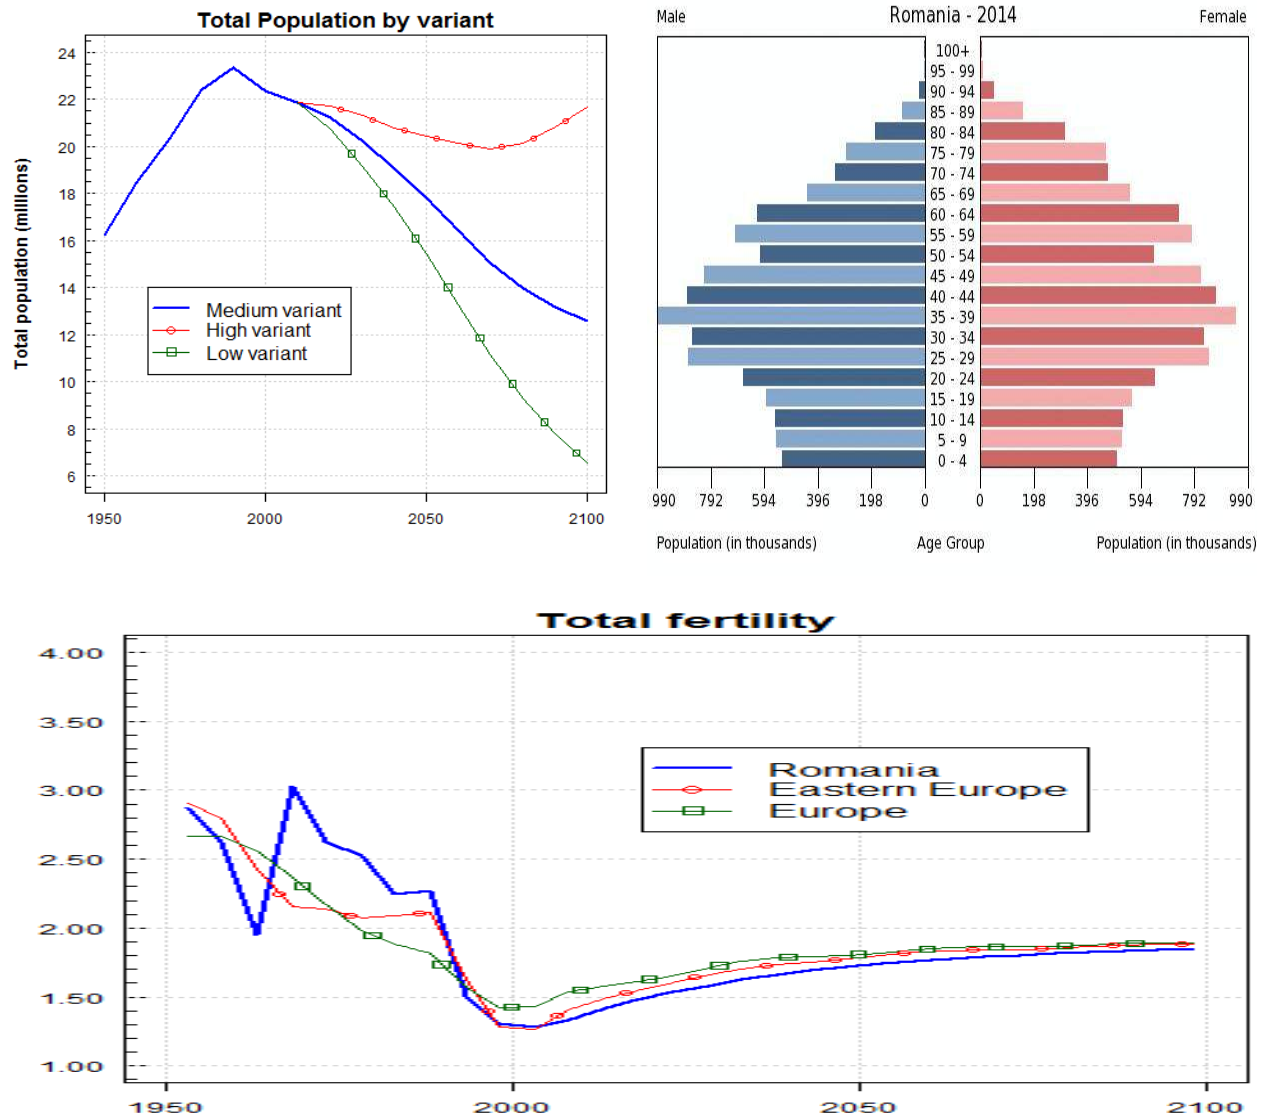

The moment Ceausescu was executed at the end of 1989 and the new Romanian leadership adopted the methods of population control dictated by the UN and its Anglo-Saxon backers, the population started declining (from 23 to 20 million in just 14 years), became sicker, a quarter of our adults were rendered infertile and the remainder sub-fertile, and our children reached the same levels of allergies and developmental disorders as the rest of the poisoned world.

Stop poisoning my people with endocrine disruptors or history will judge you harshly. Grant me the full trappings of diplomatic status and the support of Romania's institutions of state and I will forge global consensus for worldwide legislation for population control.

Fail to do so, and you will soon face charges for crimes against humanity. Worse, you will be reviled by the Romanian people now and for all times. I hope that you will meet with me without delay so we can discuss the way forward.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Romania began interfering with human fertility in 1950 when the total fertility rate stood at 3.2 children per woman and continued to do so until 1962 when fertility had declined to just 2.1 children per woman, so-called replacement level fertility.

This means that population control measures were first approved and implemented in Romania by Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, General Secretary of the Romanian Communist party from 1947 until his death in 1965, who undoubtedly followed Soviet directives. By the time Gheorghiu-Dej died in 1965, the total fertility rate had dropped to 1.9 children per woman.

Since contraceptives at that time were unheard of in Romania, the drop in fertility cannot be ascribed to them. The historical record shows that from 1959 to 1966 anywhere from 60% to 80% of all pregnancies ended in abortion, which would fully explain the drop in fertility but which is a blatant lie since Romania lacked the medical facilities and the trained personnel to perform abortions on such a massive scale and since sub-replacement level fertility could possibly correspond to the people's preferred family size then or now.

As soon as Nicolae Ceaușescu became General Secretary of the Romanian Communist Party in 1965, he shut down covert depopulation measures and made abortion illegal and within one year the total fertility rate surged from 1.9 children per woman in 1966 to 3.7 children per woman in 1967 and 1968 and by 1970 fertility stabilized at circa 2.6 children per woman where it stayed until 1975.

The sudden surge in children clearly shows that until 1966 the people's fertility had been covertly undermined by chemical means.

In 1974, the third World Population Conference took place in Bucharest, Romania, and President Ceaușescu came under heavy financial and political pressure from the UN and the greater international community to reactivate covert chemical sterilization measures. He immediately restarted the depopulation program and by 1982 Romania reached replacement level fertility again.

During the 1970s the abortion rate was at around 45%, which confirms reports, and the contraceptive prevalence rate was supposedly at 58%, which contradicts reports since contraceptives were nearly impossible to get at that time.

Unhappy with population control imposed from abroad, Ceaușescu decided in 1982 to pay off Romania's $9 billion foreign debt and began exporting the majority of the country's agricultural and industrial products. As soon as he was no longer dependent on World Bank money and subject to IMF impositions, he abandoned the covert sterilization program and fertility went from 2 children per woman in 1983 to 2.4 in 1986 despite universal hardship and hunger caused by the export of Romania's natural resources and manufactured goods to pay off the foreign debt.

Romania's foreign debt was fully paid by the summer 1989. Shortly after, on the 25 December 1989, the Romanian military and security apparatus, undoubtedly acting on orders from the CIA and the KGB, executed the president and his wife after a mock trial that lasted one hour and, paradoxically, found him guilty of genocide and sabotage of the Romanian economy. Ceaușescu was executed by Romania's military leaders in order to hide their own complicity in genocide and so as to be able to restart the depopulation program, which they had already done a year before the execution.

By 1990, Romania reached its lowest total fertility rate yet, 1.8 children per woman, and in 2002 it reached the lowest low of 1.25 children per woman. This happened during the presidency of Ion Iliescu, a man with known KGB connections, and a communist party member since 1953 as well as a member of the Central Committee since 1965.

Romania never had a revolution. Romania's so-called revolution was instigated by the secret service, the Securitate, who took advantage of public unrest due to food shortages so as to give the military a pretext to overthrow and assassinate Nicolae Ceaușescu and continue with covert depopulation measures.

The same people who had been in control of Romania during communist times remained in control of the country until recently and have transferred all state assets into their own hands. Ion Iliescu stayed in office from 1989 to 1996 and then again from 2000 to 2004. Romania's total fertility rate has been below 1.3 children per woman throughout his time in office and has only climbed up to 1.5 since 2012.

Considering that only 38% of the population uses contraceptives, Romania's sub-replacement level fertility since 1990 cannot possibly be explained by the use of contraceptives, especially when considering that fertility has been below 1.3 children per woman since 1995 and has only recently climbed to a measly 1.5 children per woman. Nor can this extremely low fertility rate be explained by abortions, since abortions, according to the official record, have continuously gone down: from 76% in 1990, to 52% in 2000, to 32% in 2010, while fertility has remained extremely low.

The only explanation for Romania's consistently and unnaturally low fertility of fewer than 1.5 children per woman since 1992 is the government's unlawful and immoral use of sterilizing endocrine disruptors in food, water and beverages.

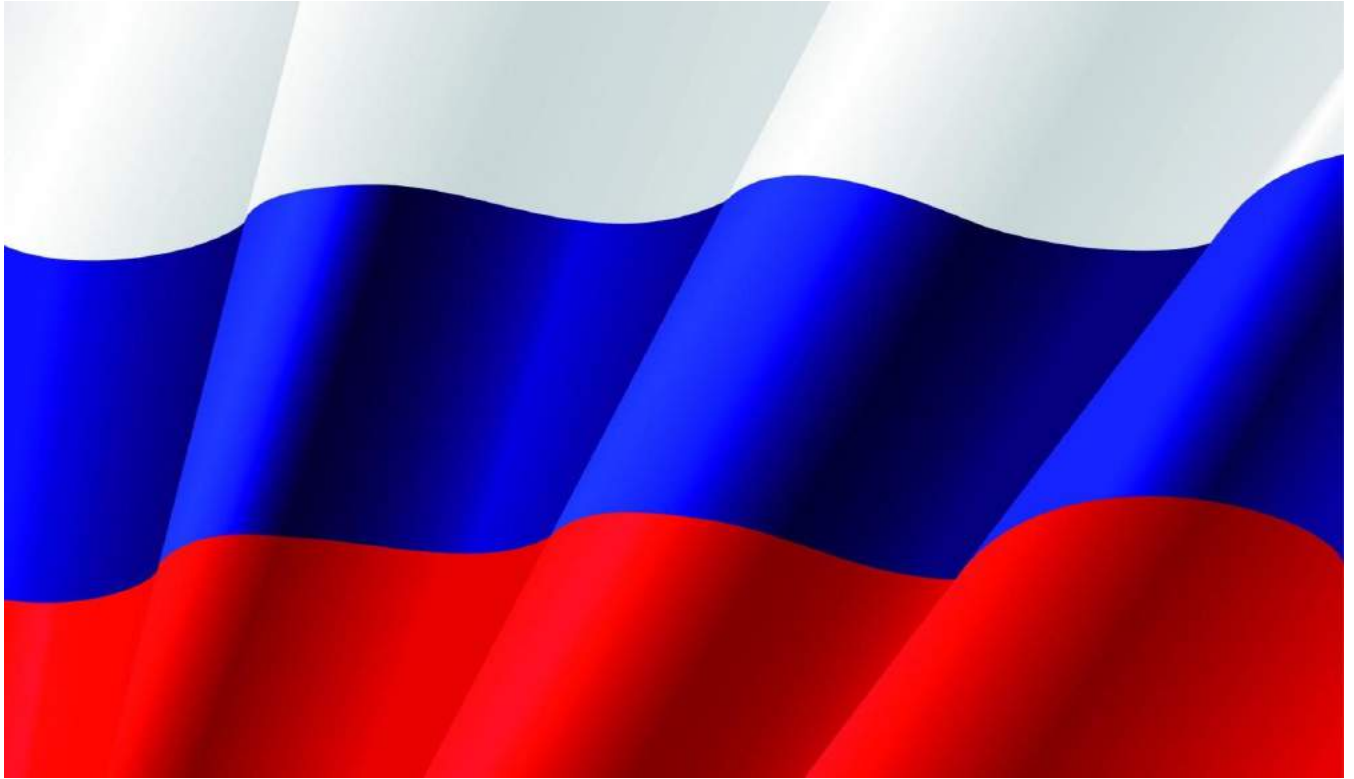

The country's population has been decreasing since 1992 and is currently losing more than 56,000 people a year due to low birth rates. Romania, in other words, is a dying country.

The people responsible for poisoning the Romania people into infertility since independence in 1990 are: Ion Iliescu (1989-1996, 2000-2004), Emil Constantinescu (1996-2000), and Traian Băsescu (2007-2009, 2009-2012, 2012-2014). It is too early to determine what the incumbent president, Klaus Iohannis, who assumed the office in December 2014, will do.

Romania is in stage five of the demographic transition.

RUSSIAN FEDERATION

10 September 2014

Vladimir Putin
President of the Russian Federation
<http://eng.letters.kremlin.ru/send>

President Putin,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

It is with great hope that the beleaguered citizens of the West and the impoverished citizens of the world at large look upon the crucial steps you have taken to break free of the yoke imposed on the world by a coalition of interests and forces intent on committing global genocide.

The BRIC initiated development bank and reserve fund, announced in July of this year, are necessary preconditions for escaping the monetary coercion exercised on the world through the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund since the inception of the Bretton Woods system in 1945.

Together with Russia's abandonment of GMOs, the newest depopulation weapon in the arsenal of the genocidal lobby, and your country's policies to boost the fertility rate of the Russian people, you have taken the lead in breaking free of the depopulation agenda and in so doing have earned the world's respect.

The globalization/depopulation axis adopted at the end of World War II as a substitute to war constituted a great step forward compared to the European aggression it replaced. But the structural violence committed by governments against their own people in order to defuse the population bomb and preserve international peace has become more brutal and damaging than war itself, causing irreparable damage to the genetic and intellectual endowment of mankind, which is why the Russian fertility rate is not improving despite Russia's best efforts and recent pro-natalist measures.

The only way Russia will save itself from the engineered extinction envisioned by the depopulation lobby is by eliminating all endocrine disruptors from food, water and drinks and that can only happen if Russia stops all western food imports and becomes fully independent and wholly organic in its food and beverage production. Even then, only the new generations who grow up healthy and poison-free will be capable of normal reproduction.

While Russia is on the right track, the rest of the world is wholly at the mercy of the Anglo-Saxon genocidal lobby and the moneyed interests that fuel it. We, the people of the world, ask for Russia's help to get this diabolical coalition off our backs.

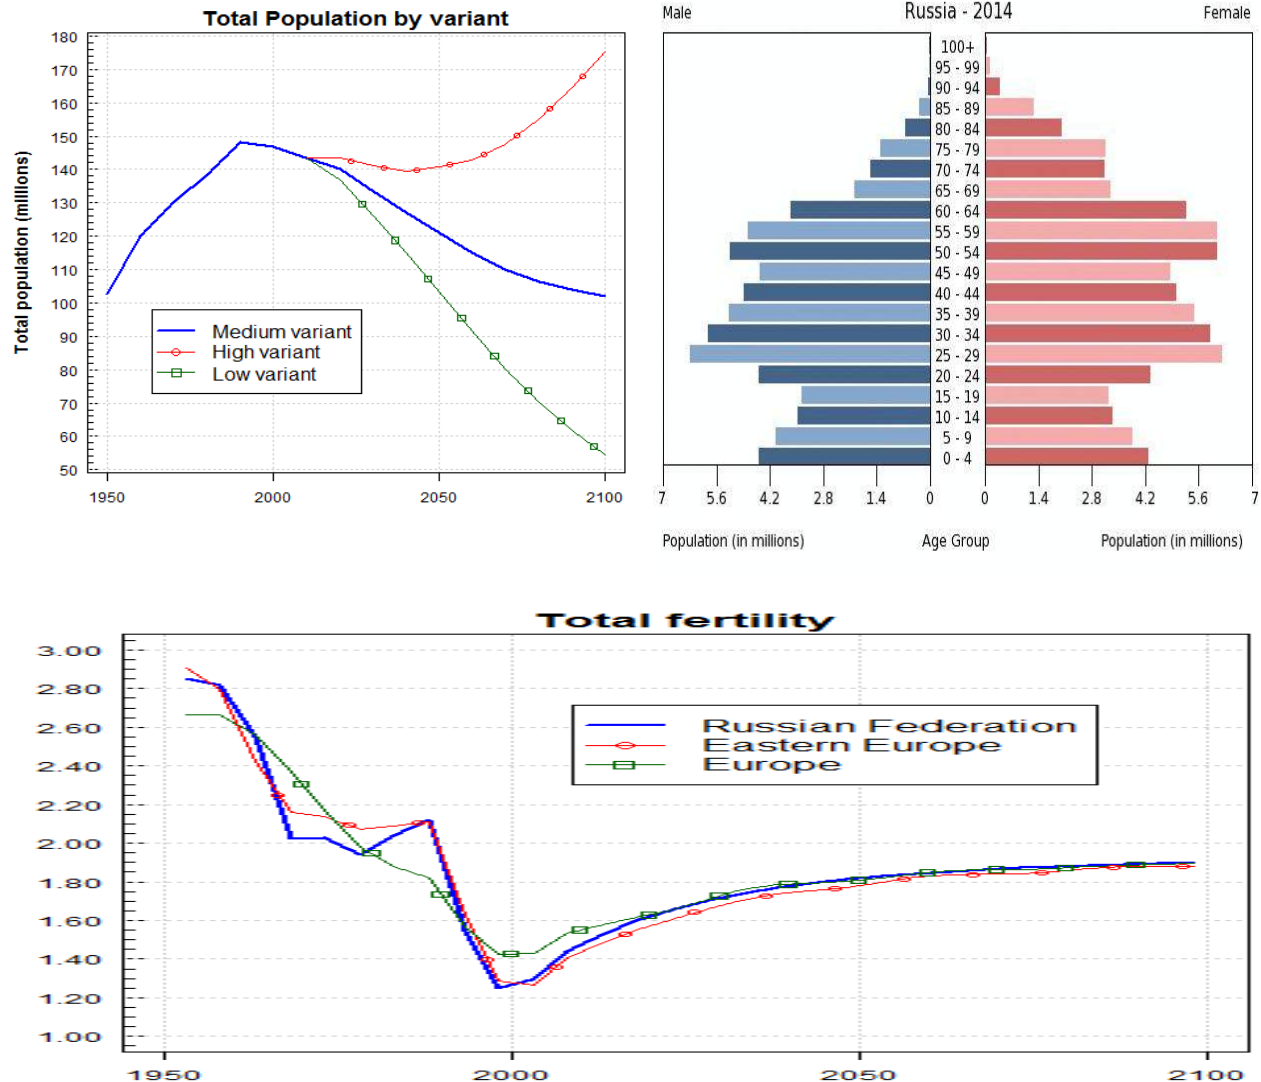

I am the only point of resistance left and the last hope of the western world, which is in self-destruct mode. We have been sold out by the Church and betrayed by the medical profession. The people of the western world have been zombified by seven decades of poisoning of their minds and bodies. They are simply physiologically incapable of helping themselves and need help from abroad. This means that I cannot possibly succeed without the active assistance of Russia and the other BRIC nations. I am a proud person and do not like to ask for anyone's help, but it is not my life I am begging for, but the lives of the world's children who are in the crossroads of a coalition of mass murderers who are now poisoning us into extinction from the air.

Please see me without delay so we can discuss how we can rescue mankind from destruction by the forces of evil. I will make my way to Russia at your convenience. In the meantime, please instruct RT to broadcast the truth to the world. Yes, Russia was part of the genocidal coalition but is no more.

If you do not act now, you will not get another chance. Every day costs millions of lives and countless genetic lines are extinguished. Every day the forces of evil are drawing nearer to your borders looking for war. You have heeded my calls and have made discreet changes in your country. Now is the time to heed my call and make a concrete and unmistakable contribution to the wellbeing of the world. We can bring this coalition of mass murderers to their knees if you allow the Russian press to tell the world the truth and if you empower the institutions of state to release the classified information that enable this silent war of attrition.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

The Soviet Union began using covert depopulation measures on its own citizens in 1955 and continued its sustained program until 1967, which falls almost entirely within the leadership of Nikita Khrushchev (1955-1964). His successor, Leonid Brezhnev (1964-1982), continued aggressively until Russia reached replacement level fertility in 1966 and then kept it there until the end of his term. The Soviet Union succeeded in reducing its total fertility rate from 3 to 2 children per woman in twelve years.

Yuri Andropov (1982-1984), Konstantin Chernenko (1984-1985), and Mikhail Gorbachev (1985-1991) held the fertility rate at replacement level.

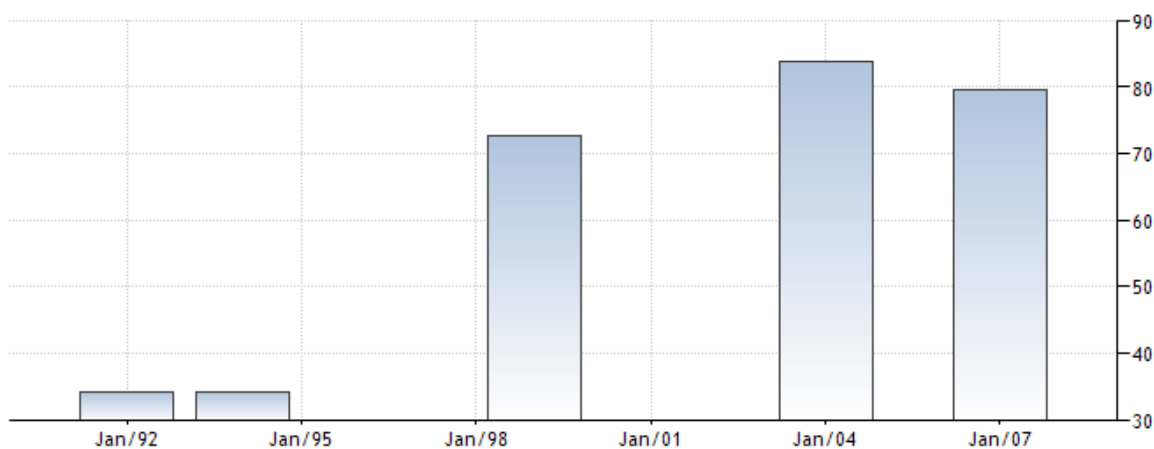

As soon as the Soviet Union disintegrated and the Russian Federation came into being in 1991, the total fertility rate began to drop rapidly. By the end of Boris Yeltsin's presidency in 1999, Russia's total fertility rate had declined to its historic low of 1.17 children per woman.

From 1999 to 2008, thus during President Vladimir Putin's first and second terms, the total fertility rate remained well below replacement level but climbed slightly and reached 1.5 children per woman in 2008.

Dmitry Medvedev (2008-2012) pursued the same policy of population control as Vladimir Putin and also allowed fertility to climb, reaching 1.7 in 2012.

Since Vladimir Putin resumed his place at the helm of Russia in May 2012 and until today, the total fertility rate has risen modestly to 1.8 children per woman. The new Russia, like the old Soviet Union, keeps the poisons in place in order to subvert fertility and keep it below replacement level.

The only difference is that the new Russia is trying to replace sterilization via endocrine disruptors with contraceptive use, which is why the contraceptive prevalence rate has risen in the new Russia from less than 35% during the early 1990s to more than 80% (of which 65% by modern methods) today.

Abortion appears to have played a significant role in Russia's declining fertility and continues to do so. If the historical record is accurate, which I very much doubt given the tendency of all centrally planned economies to fabricate data, then 60% to 70% of all pregnancies ended in abortion from 1957 until the year 2000. Since then it has steadily declined to just 31% to date.

Had abortion been the primary reason for Russia's low fertility we should have seen a doubling of its fertility rate, but that is not the case and Russia's fertility remains stuck at sub-replacement level.

Between 1992 and 2012 Russia has lost six million people due to its negative growth rate and the total population decreased from 149 to 143 million. Since 2012 it has added 3 million people due to immigration and not births.

Whether Russia has abandoned covert depopulation methods or not, and the reproductive systems of the Russian people are recovering from decades of chronic poisoning, remains to be seen.

Russia is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition and is one of only a handful of countries in the world whose low, medium and high variants all point down rather than up, which does not bode well either for its economy or for its international influence.

REPUBLIC OF RWANDA

Paul Kagame

President of Rwanda

http://www.presidency.gov.rw/index.php?option=com_contact&view=contact&id=1&Itemid=71

Anastase Murekezi

Prime Minister of Rwanda

<http://www.gov.rw/?page=contact>

President Kagame and Prime Minister Murekezi,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Rwanda has been through hell and back. Its nightmarish journey was planned by the nation's political elite and watched by the international community, which chose to allow longstanding ethnic strife between Hutus and Tutsis to develop into genocide so as to aid the implementation of depopulation objectives that could not be reached by other means.

Within one hundred days in 1994, almost 2 out of 10 Rwandans (and 70% of all Tutsi) were exterminated. As a result, the population declined from 7.1 to 5.3 million in a single year, but has since more than doubled due to very high fertility rates of 6 children per woman and today Rwanda has more than 11.6 million souls and the highest population density in continental Africa at 420 people per km².

Competition for land triggered the genocide in 1994, when the population density was half of what it is today. Unless Rwanda immediately passes a law restricting family size to two children and makes contraceptives freely available it is only a matter of time until another conflict erupts due to resource scarcity.

Your administration is undoubtedly and rightfully under great pressure by the UN and its agencies to adopt covert population control measures, but I advise you to refuse to allow the international community to forcibly sterilize your people through vaccines or to poison them to infertility through GMOs. Instead you must legislate population control and avoid repeating the mistakes made by the developed world, mistakes that have rendered the people feeble, feeble-minded and chronically ill and have reduced and degraded their genetic and intellectual endowment.

Rwanda has made some progress towards fulfilling the Millennium Development Goals due to foreign aid, but with a total fertility rate of 4.6 children per woman and 48% of the population under the age of 15 your country stands on the edge of demographic and environmental catastrophe and the help that you receive now is most certainly contingent upon your willingness to accept covert depopulation under the cover of reproductive health.

You know as well as I do that unless you accept sterilizing vaccines and GMOs, the genocidal lobby that makes up the international community will cause a pandemic with a weaponized version of the Ebola or Marburg viruses, as they have in Western Africa. You can however avoid such catastrophe if you show political leadership and use the power of the law to accomplish the demographic objectives that your tiny and crowded country needs to if it is to avoid disaster.

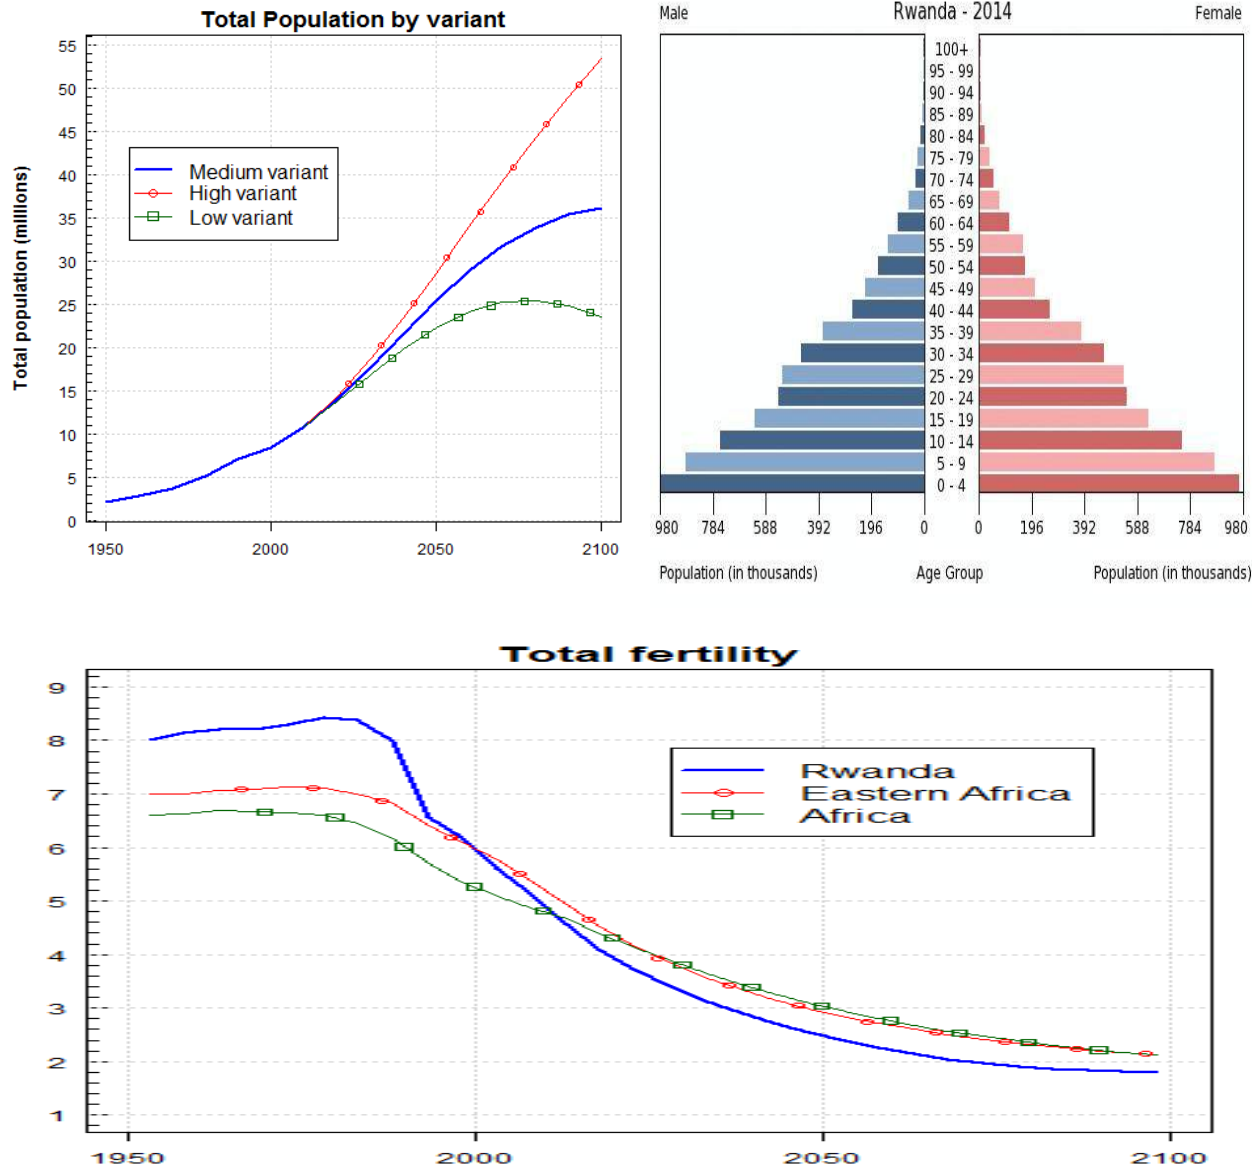

Since your annual birth rate is three times higher than your death rate, and your life expectancy is already among the lowest in the world at 58 years, your options for quickly defusing the overpopulation bomb are few: either you allow the international community to engineer a scientific genocide or you educate your people of the facts and pass a population control law.

I hope you make the right decision and that your people find the discipline and wisdom to assume responsibility for their country's future by limiting their reproductive rights for their children's sake.

Westerners, who pride themselves on their education and scientific knowledge, found neither the discipline nor the wisdom to assume responsibility and have instead allowed their governments to poison them into sterility for the past seven decades and in the process render them fat, stupid, weak and helpless. If you choose to follow the West you will face the same fate; unprecedented wealth with no one to inherit it.

Sincerely,

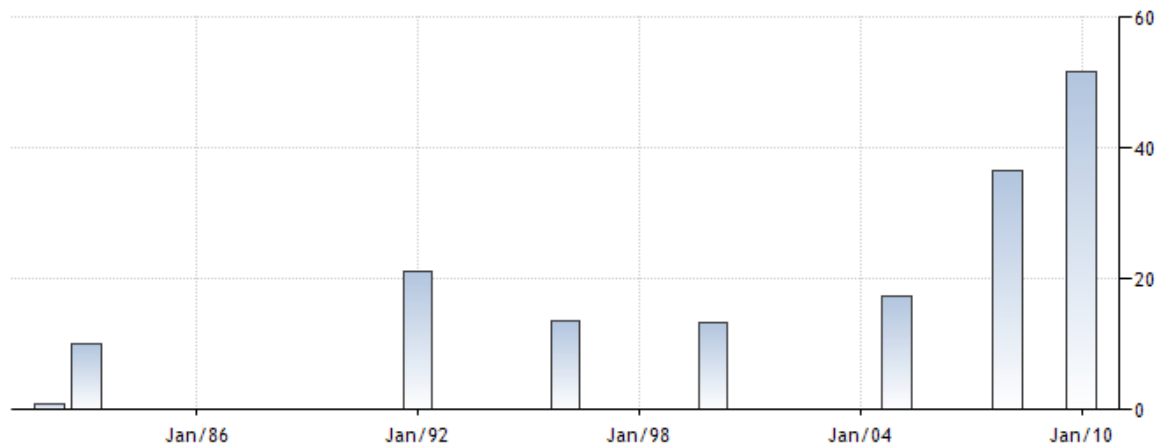

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

The drop in Rwanda's total fertility rate from 8 to 6.5 children per woman between 1990 and 1994 could be attributed to the Rwandan Civil War, which started in 1990, and to the ensuing Rwandan genocide, which took place in 1994. The drop in fertility since then, however, can only be attributed to intentional and deliberate methods of population control.

Since the Rwandan genocide in 1994, the country has succeeded in bringing down its total fertility rate from 6.5 to 4.5 children per woman. Some of this progress is due to better family services and access to contraceptives but most of it is due to sterilizing vaccines. Rwanda, however, is in too great a danger demographically and economically not to resort to any and all means possible.

The low incidence of contraceptive use shows that Rwanda's drop in fertility from 8 to 4.5 children per woman in fourteen years cannot possibly be attributed to contraceptives since they were used by no more than 10% of women in the 1980s, 20% in the 1990s, and an average of 30% in the first decade of the 21st century.

Key to Rwanda's depopulation effort is its current President, Paul Kagame, who assumed the office in 2000, but who was Rwanda's de facto leader from 1994 to 2000 when he served as Vice President and Minister of Defence. His key role, however, started even earlier, in 1990, when Rwanda's total fertility rate began to decline, and when Kagame was in control of the Rwandan Patriotic Front (RPF) forces that invaded Rwanda and triggered the civil war that culminated in the 1994 genocide.

Rwanda is beginning to see modest per capita GDP growth due to its effort to reduce fertility.

Rwanda is in the second stage of the demographic transition.

Prime Minister Douglas,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Saint Kitts and Nevis was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy in 1960 by its British overlords, but continued of its own free will after winning its independence from the UK in 1983 and joining the UN. As a result, the crude birth rate decreased from 35 children per 1000 people in 1960 to 25 in 1983 and to just 12 today. Three times fewer children are born today than prior to 1960 when the depopulation program began.

The island's overall population has been decreasing for the past forty years partly due to emigration and most recently due to sub-replacement level fertility, which Saint Kitts and Nevis reached in 2010. Despite these successes – and the fact that the current total fertility rate is only 1.8 children per woman – your government still considers the rates of population growth and fertility to be too high and has a policy of intervention aimed at reducing these rates even further.

Since the contraceptive prevalence rate in Saint Kitts and Nevis in 1984 was only 37%, the drop in fertility from 35 to 25 births per 1000 could only have been accomplished through involuntary sterilization through vaccines administered under various pretexts. Equally, the drop in fertility from 25 to 12 births from 1984 to today can only be attributed to the covert sterilization of the populace through food imported from North America and adulterated with endocrine disruptors (fluoride, BPA, and artificial sweeteners) to subvert people's fertility. This explains why since 1985 your country, despite being fertile and ideal for growing crops, has been a net food importer and between 1991 and 1995 your agricultural trade deficit doubled.

President Douglas, I do not for a second doubt that your island nation, which has the smallest landmass in the Americas, needs to control population growth and reach an optimal population.

What I doubt, however, is that your people would give you their consent to poison them and their children into sterility and ill-health in the name of the UN. Clearly you must realize that in so doing you lost the legitimacy to govern and are liable for life imprisonment for committing genocide. Of course, you are not alone. In fact, the vast majority of governments are equally criminal and illegitimate.

Since I exposed the criminality of this system of population control the time has come to put an end to all covert and thus illegal methods of depopulation and replace them with overt and legal methods. To do this we need to reform the UN system and declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law so that people know what is expected of them and why and can control their own fertility by safe methods of their own choosing, which governments can subsidize. I describe how this can be accomplished and why in my just published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance.

I urge you to read it and to instruct your ambassador to the UN, Delano Frank Bart, to initiate reform of the international system before the UN kills us all in the name of international peace, or we, the people, are forced to hang all our leaders for crimes against humanity because this is not peace. This is war by hidden means; an undeclared and perverse war by the elites against helpless civilians and innocent children. This is evil incarnate.

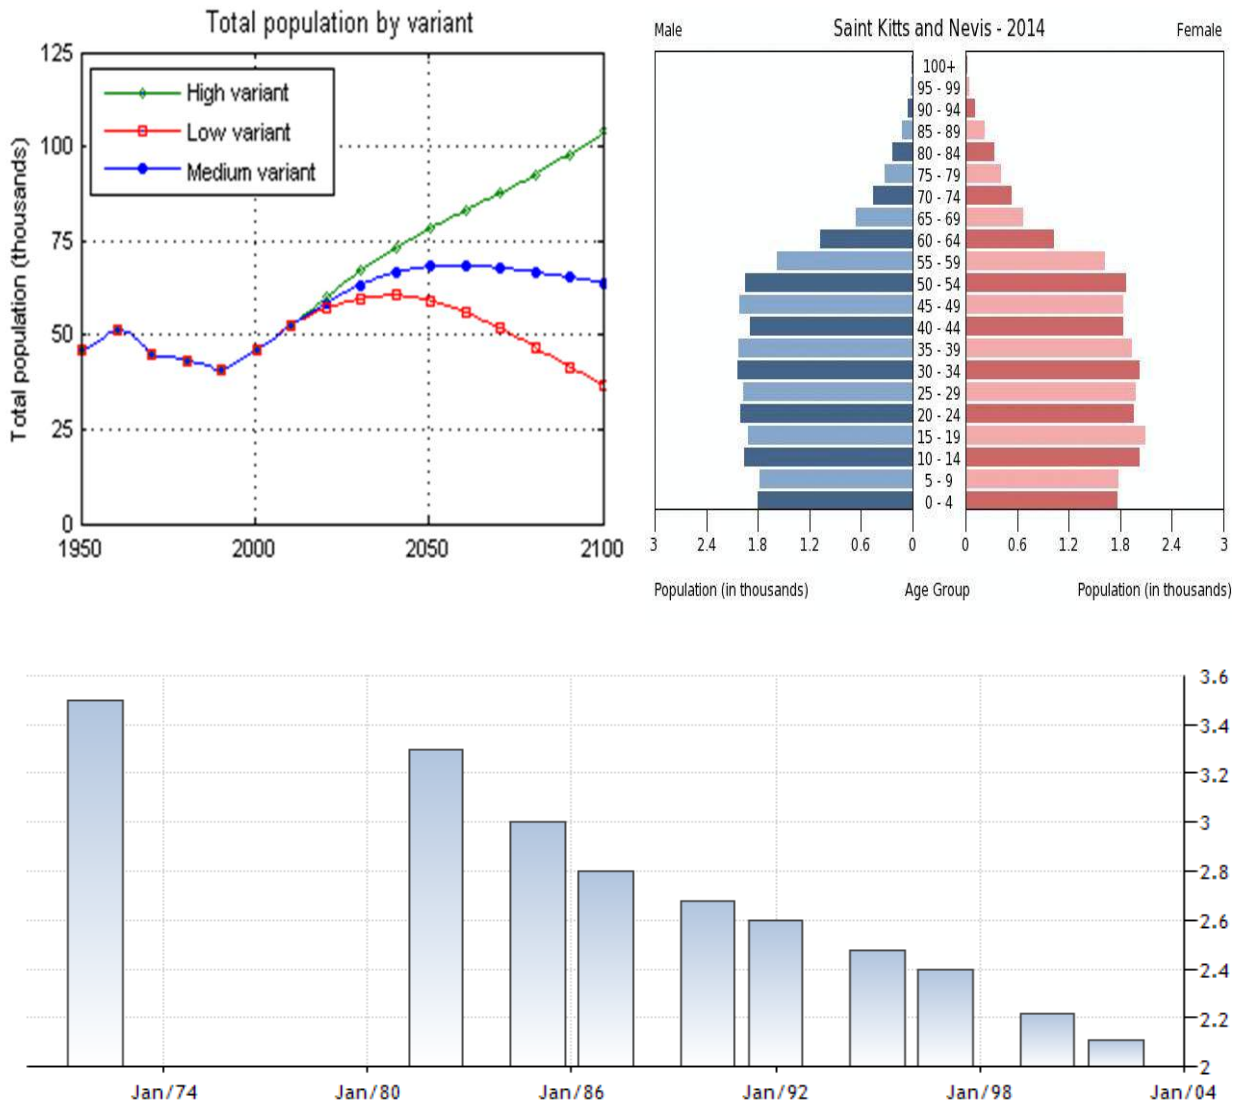

While ambassador Bart earns his keep for the first time in his life by working for the people rather than against them, you must begin to earn your keep for the first time in your political life by freeing the truth, stopping the poisons and educating your people so they have the knowledge necessary to assume responsibility for replacement level fertility. You will find all the material you need in my freely available work:

The man responsible for introducing covert depopulation measures in St. Kitts and Nevis in 1960 was Chief Minister Paul Southwell (1960-1966) who later also served as Premier from 1978 to 1979. His successor to the office of Chief Minister, Robert Llewellyn Bradshaw (1966-1967, who also served as Premier from 1967-1978), and the subsequent premiers (Lee Moore, 1979 to 1980, and Kennedy Simmonds, 1980 to 1983) have all followed suit. Together, they succeeded in lowering their people's fertility from 6 to 3 children per woman.

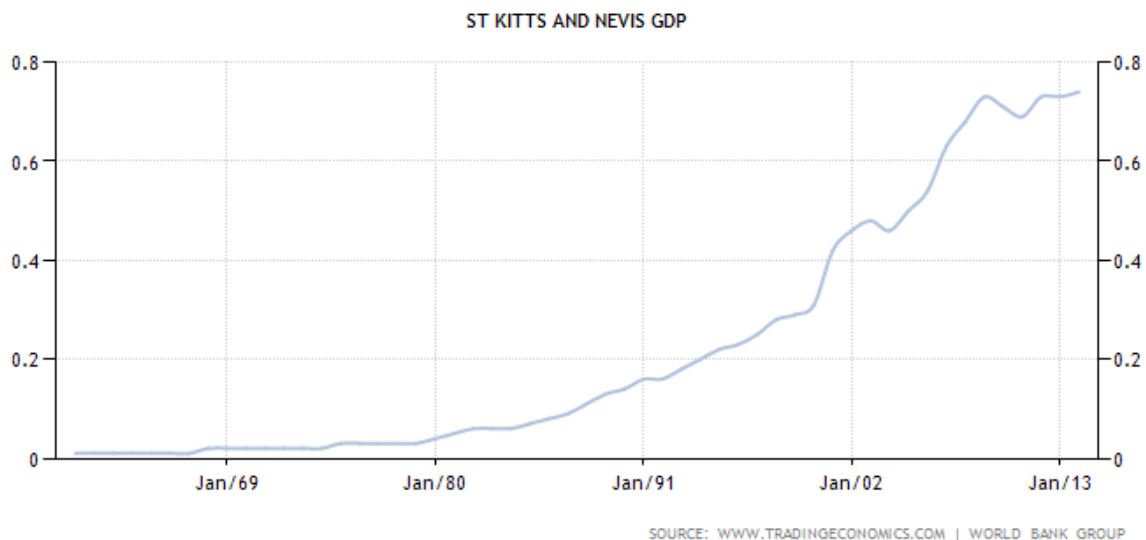

Equally guilty of genocide are the freely elected prime ministers since independence: Kennedy Simmonds (1983-1995) who we already know since he also served as the islands' last Premier, and the incumbent Denzel Douglas (in office since July 1995). They managed to lower fertility from 3 to 1.8 children to date.

Contraceptives have never been the reason for Saint Kitts and Nevis' drop in fertility. As the record shows, the contraceptive prevalence rate never exceeded 54% (of which only 38% by modern means).

Even less of a factor is abortion since it is illegal and allowed only to save the life and health of the woman.

Saint Kitts and Nevis have been rewarded for their genocidal fervor with an increasing GDP. As the data shows, the GDP began to rise in 1980, by which time the total fertility rate had been halved from 6 to 3.2 children per woman.

Saint Kitts and Nevis is in stage four of the demographic transition.

Prime Minister Anthony,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Saint Lucia was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy in 1960, seven years before the British granted the island internal self-government and nineteen years before it gained its independence. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from almost 7 children per woman to 1.5 today.

Forced abortions and sterilizations were used from 1960 until the early 1980s by western NGOs operating on the island. Throughout the 80s and the 90s fertility was suppressed through the heavy use of pesticides and chemicals in local agriculture, which was not as effective in controlling population growth but nevertheless continued the downward slope in the total fertility rate. From the 90s onward, population control has continued through the use of fluoridated salt, fluoride rinse programs in schools, and fluoride supplements distributed at maternal and child health clinics. In addition, the people's fertility has been increasingly subverted through imported foods and beverages that are laced with endocrine disruptors since the island has stopped being able to feed itself in the early 1990s, having favored its service over its agricultural sector, and as of 2010 a quarter of the population is food insecure and more than half of its food imported.

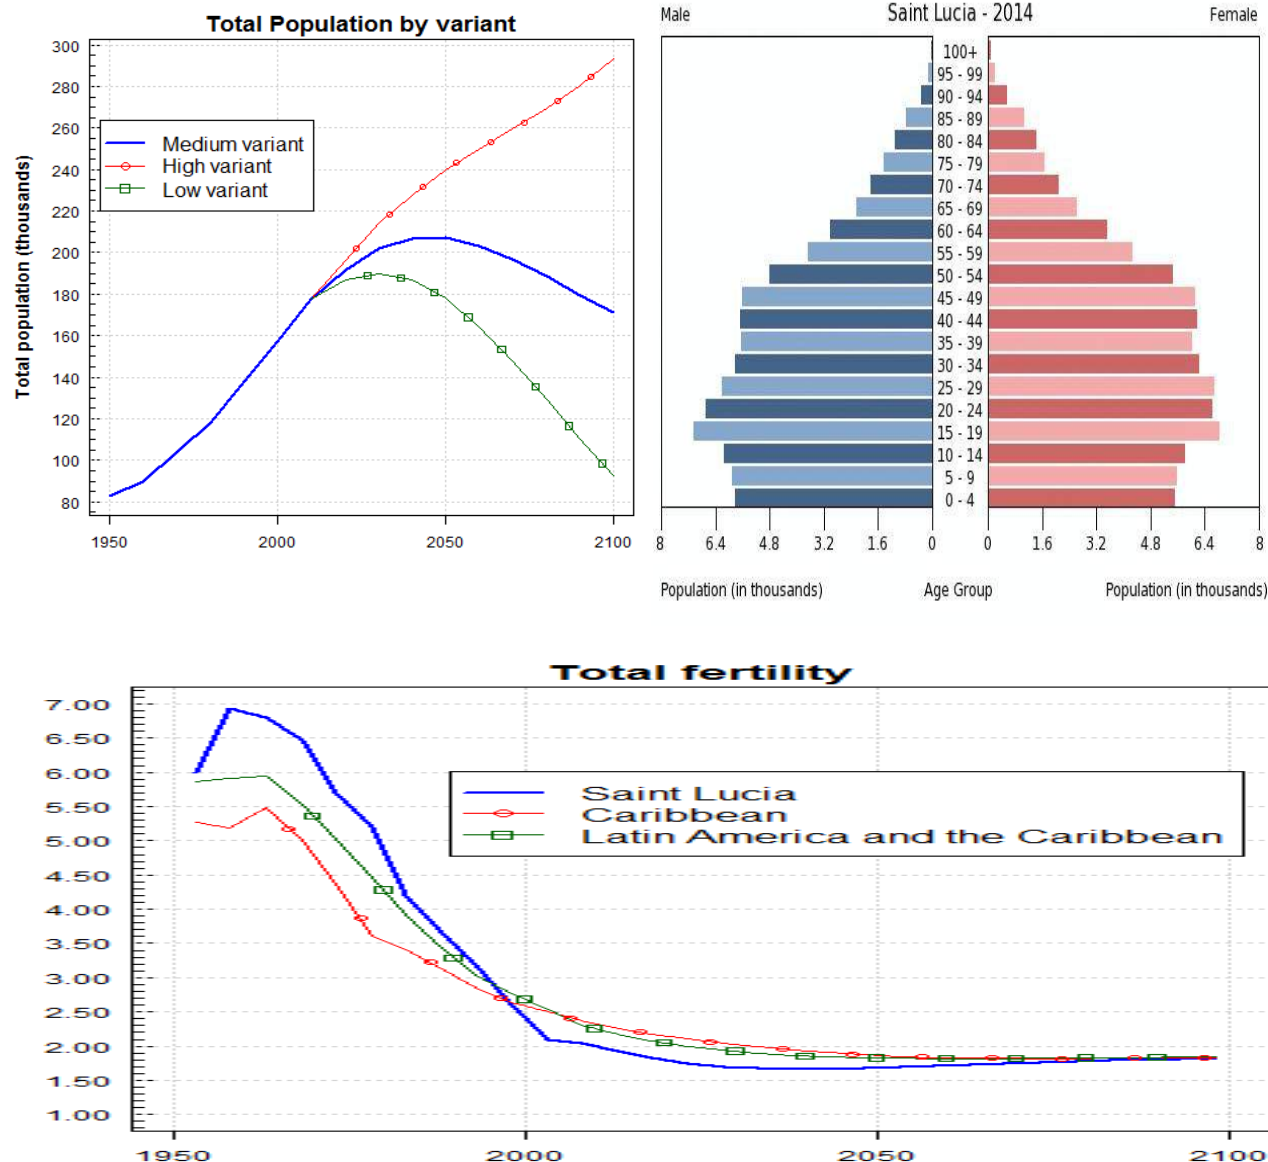

Because food is now the main weapon used against fertility, the people's endocrine systems are shattered and nearly 60% are obese despite suffering food insecurity, a paradox noted by a recent Food Security Assessment and Vulnerability Profiling (FSA) report.

If your government continues in this fashion, no one on the island will be healthy a couple of decades from now, none of your people will be able to have children and none of the officials responsible for committing crimes against humanity will go unpunished. That is why I urge you to stop committing genocide and to begin legislating replacement level fertility. I am in the process of forging global consensus for open and legally mandated population control at the global governance level as a Planetary Security Prerogative and I hope that you will assist me by speaking up at the UN in favor of a worldwide population control law. I will assist you in any way I can and will travel to Saint Lucia to this end.

Sincerely,

The man responsible for starting the program of covert depopulation in Saint Lucia was Chief Minister George Charles (1960-1964). His successor, John Compton (Chief Minister from 1964 to 1967, Premier from 1967 to 1979, and Prime Minister from 1979 to 1979, from 1982 to 1986, and from 2006 to 2007) has followed suit. The two managed to lower their people's fertility on behalf of Her Majesty's Government from 7 to 4.5 children per woman.

Saint Lucia's freely elected Prime Ministers have completed their people's sterilization: John Compton (1979-1979, 1982-1986, and 2006-2007), Allan Louisy (1979-1981), Winston Cenac (1981-1982), Vaughan Lewis (1996-1997), Kenny Anthony (1997-2006, and incumbent since 2011), and Stephenson King (2007-2011). Through their combined efforts, these individuals have reduced Saint Lucia's total fertility rate from 4.5 to 1.5 children per woman.

As elsewhere in the world save for China, the country's contraceptive prevalence rate, which was never higher than 47% reveals the con, for there is no way in hell to have a total fertility rate of 1.5 children per woman when not even half the people of reproductive age use birth control.

Prime Minister Gonsalves,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Saint Vincent and the Grenadines was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1957, twelve years before Britain granted you control over your internal affairs and a full twenty-two years prior to winning your independence in 1979. As a result, your total fertility rate declined from 7 children per woman prior to 1957 to 4.4 by 1980 when you became a UN member state and assumed control over the program of covert depopulation and began injecting women with Noristerat and Medroxy Progesterone and a few years later introduced fluoride rinse programmes in schools and fluoridated salt in grocery stores and so brought down the total fertility rate to just 1.9 children per woman.

You can continue to sicken your people and degrade your children by poisoning the entire population slowly into extinction, as the UN advises, or you can join my effort to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law so the responsibility for curtailing family size passes into the hands of the people and depopulation targets can be achieved safely, ethically and justly. To accomplish this we need to reform the UN system as I have described in my just published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance.

If you stay the course you will soon face charges for crimes against humanity and history will judge you harshly. If you join my effort to reform the UN system you will save St. Vincent's children from genocide and from a life of ill-health and will also help the world attain sustainability.

If the latter sounds like the more attractive option then I suggest you waste no time and empower your ambassador to the UN, Ms. Inga Rhonda King, to initiate reform. And while she works the diplomatic channels, which are already on high alert due to my activism, you must free the truth and give your people the knowledge they must have in order to understand what they need to do and why. My freely available work will help you accomplish that:

Whether we like it or not, President Gonsalves, ours is the generation that must change the international system before it kills us all. We must do it to save ourselves from insanity and mass murder and also to set our civilization on a sustainable pathway before we shatter our planet's life support systems. If you hesitate to act and make instead self-serving political calculations your children and my children and everybody else's children will pay the price.

I hope you will choose our children's future over your political interests.

Should you chose right, I will help you in any way I can.

The man responsible for introducing covert depopulation methods in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines in 1957 is Chief Minister Ebenezer Joshua (1956-1967). The program of covert sterilization was continued by his successor, Milton Cato (1967-1969, also Premier from 1969 to 1972 and from 1974 to 1979, as well as Prime Minister from 1979 to 1984). These two chief Ministers have succeeded in bringing down the total fertility rate on behalf of Her Majesty's Government from 7 to 4.4 children per woman.

All subsequent leaders have followed suit. They are: Premier James Fitz-Allen Mitchell (1972-1974, also Prime Minister from 1984 to 2000), Prime Minister Arnhim Eustace (2000-2001), and incumbent Prime Minister Ralph Gonzales (since March 2001). Through their combined efforts they have reduced their people's fertility from 4.4 to 1.9 children per woman.

As elsewhere in the world, contraceptive use has absolutely nothing to do with the low fertility since Saint Vincent's contraceptive prevalence rate was never higher than 58% and is currently below 48%. Abortion is legal but data is missing.

Saint Vincent and the Grenadines has been rewarded with an ascending GDP for its descending fertility. No sooner was the total fertility rate halved by 1980 than the GDP began to rise.

Chieftain Tufuga Efi and Prime Minister Malielegaoi,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Samoa joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1963, a year after gaining its independence from New Zealand. Its total fertility rate has since decreased from 7 children per woman to 3. This decrease in fertility is not the result of family planning, of which there is an unmet need of 48%, or the result of contraceptive use, since the contraceptive prevalence rate is just 28%, but rather the result of imported food and beverages deliberately adulterated with endocrine disruptors, which the people of Samoa have become dependent on and consume in ever greater quantities.

With a population of 195,000 and a population density of 63.2/km², land pressures and increasing food dependence population control is a necessity not a choice. But it need not be accomplished with unlawful and immoral methods by turning the basic elements of life into weapons of mass sterility and in the process doing irreparable harm to human health, as the incredibly high obesity and diabetes rates among the Samoan people clearly demonstrate.

If the Samoan government continues to cooperate with the UN and the international community in covertly subverting the people's reproductive rights there will not be a healthy human being on the islands fifty years from now and the Polynesian people as a whole will disappear from the face of the earth.

This is not the way to accomplish necessary demographic targets. Only by legislating replacement level fertility can the people's rights and health be reconciled with the planet's limited resources. That is why I ask you to join me in calling for replacement level fertility worldwide as a Planetary Security Prerogative derived from the global governance level and implemented throughout the world openly, justly and safely. I am in the process of forging global consensus for such a law and I hope that you will see the inevitability of this measure and will use Samoa's permanent mission at the UN to make this a reality before it is too late and the planet collapses under the weight of overpopulation and overconsumption.

To this end, I am offering you free use of my key books, articles and videos so that you can educate your people in record time.

Samoa gained its independence from New Zealand in 1962 and a year later began interfering with fertility. The Head of State or O le Ao o le Malo (Chieftain of the Government) responsible for adopting covert methods of depopulation is Malietoa Tanumafili II (1962-2007). During his reign, the total fertility rate decreased from 7 to 4.4 children per woman.

The incumbent Tufuga Efi (since May 2007) has shaved off another child from Samoa's total fertility rate, which now stands at 2.94 children per woman.

Attesting to the fact that contraceptive never played a role in Samoa's fertility decline is the country's contraceptive prevalence rate, which until the mid-1990s was below 20%, currently is below 30% and only exceeded 40% for a brief period in 1996.

Regent Terenzi and Regent Zanotti,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

San Marino joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1964, at the same time as Italy, for the obvious reason that as a microstate surrounded by Italy it depends entirely on food produced in Italy. And since food and bottled water adulterated with endocrine disruptors have been Italy's methods of choice for subverting human fertility to comply with the UN, the population pyramids of the two countries are similar and their total fertility rates have been below replacement level since 1978.

With only 33,000 citizens, of which 5,000 are foreigners, San Marino is playing a very dangerous game and risks erasing itself off the world map in a few decades if it continues to employ covert methods of depopulation. That would be a sad way for the world's oldest republic and oldest nation state with the world's oldest constitution to end.

I am certain that this is not the way the Most Serene Republic of San Marino wants to end its proud and illustrious history. And since we are in agreement on this point we will also be in agreement that the only way to escape the global genocide is to reform the UN system and to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrine it in international law until the end of time, as I have described in my recently published book, The Future of Global Governance.

As rational human being we will also agree that such radical change is not possible without also educating the people about the imperative importance of replacement level fertility so they can take control of their own reproductive rights. To begin the process of educating your people I am providing you with my work free of cost and without conditions:

The men responsible for approving and adopting the program of covert depopulation in 1968 are the following Captain Regents: Marino Benedetto Belluzzi, Pietro Gianceschi, Dante Rossi, and Aldo Zavoli. There is not sufficient data publicly available to determine if all captain regents have complied with the international order and have kept the sterilizing poisons in place. What is certain is that San Marino's total fertility rate dropped to replacement level in 1976, thus at the same time as Italy, and has been at sub-replacement level since 1978, at 1.3 throughout the first decade of the 21st century, and has only recently climbed to 1.5 children per woman.

President Da Costa and Prime Minister Trovoadá,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

São Tomé and Príncipe gained its independence from Portugal and became a UN member state in 1975, but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1980 when the total fertility rate stood at 6.5 children per woman. There is no evidence to suggest that covert or involuntary methods of population control have been used by the government, which is why the reduction in fertility is modest and the current total fertility rate stands at 4.7 children per woman.

This means that you have protected your people from the genocidal methods of the UN and its western sponsors and for this, President Da Costa, you have my deepest respect. However, given the country's low contraceptive prevalence rate, which has never exceeded 38%, it is clear that international NGOs have performed involuntary sterilizations in your country from time to time.

As the second smallest African country with a population that has tripled since 1960 and with 65% of your people under 24 years of age, São Tomé and Príncipe faces a population explosion and in one way or another it will have to bring down the total fertility rate to just two children per woman, the so-called replacement level fertility.

The UN system will push you and eventually force you in insidious ways to begin poisoning your people with chemical and biological toxins in order to subvert their fertility, as it has done throughout the world since 1945 under the direction of the Allied Powers. Luckily for your people, I put an end to the genocidal methods encouraged by the UN by simply freeing the truth and breaking down the walls of secrecy, lies, deception and repression. Now I am in the process of forcing reform of the international order and the UN system so we can free the world of genocide and protect our children from being chronically poisoned in their mothers' wombs and for the rest of their lives.

Since we cannot abandon population control without triggering famine, war and misery worldwide, the only option we have is to retire all covert methods and embrace overt methods so that people restrict their own fertility in safe ways of their own choosing. How we can accomplish this I explain in my just published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance. I urge you to read it and to instruct your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Carlos Filomeno Agostinho das Neves, to initiate reform before the UN either kills or sickens us all.

At the same time as the diplomatic channels are marshalled towards a system of peace without poison, you must begin educating your people so they know what is expected of them and why and they have the knowledge necessary to restrict their own fertility as their responsibility towards peaceful coexistence, environmental health and the wellbeing of future generations. You will find all the material you need in my freely available work:

The time is now or never. This year, the international community will embark upon sustainability once world leaders agree on the terms in Addis Ababa, New York and Paris. There can be no sustainability without depopulation and decarbonization, and there can be no success without abandoning genocide as the method of depopulation. Either we are all included in the future of the planet or none of us will make it. When it comes to life there can be no special privileges.

I am certain you understand this and that you will add your voice to mine.

Should you need my help I stand by to assist you in any way I can and will travel to São Tomé and Príncipe if you wish to speak to me face-to-face.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Judging by the trajectory of Sao Tome and Principe's total fertility rate the government adopted population control measures in 1980 and has pursued modest targets of fertility reduction fairly and safely, which is why the total fertility rate has only decreased from 6.5 to 4.7 children per woman.

The dominant political figure in the modern history of Sao Tome and Principe is Manuel Pinto da Costa, who has served from 1975 from 1991 and again from 2011 to the present day. As such, he deserves most of the credit for protecting his people.

King Abdullah,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Saudi Arabia and the United States are tied at the hip like Siamese twins. Your country's oil wealth props up the dollar and the US props up your state's security. This arrangement sustains a giant military-industrial complex in the US and an authoritarian regime in Saudi Arabia. More importantly, this marriage of convenience has begotten a deformed and demented child bent on committing mass murder worldwide in the name of military solutions to geopolitical problems; solutions that are more brutal and destructive than the problems themselves.

You can strangle the life out of this monster progeny and free the world from the global terror it causes by selling your oil not for dollars but for an international reserve currency, as has been proposed by many countries and by the IMF. And you can wash your hands clean of the blood it spills around the globe in the name of peace by abandoning the covert methods of depopulation it has imposed on the world through its control of the UN and its agencies; methods that your country adopted in 1982 and that are doing terrible and irreparable damage to your people's bodies and minds.

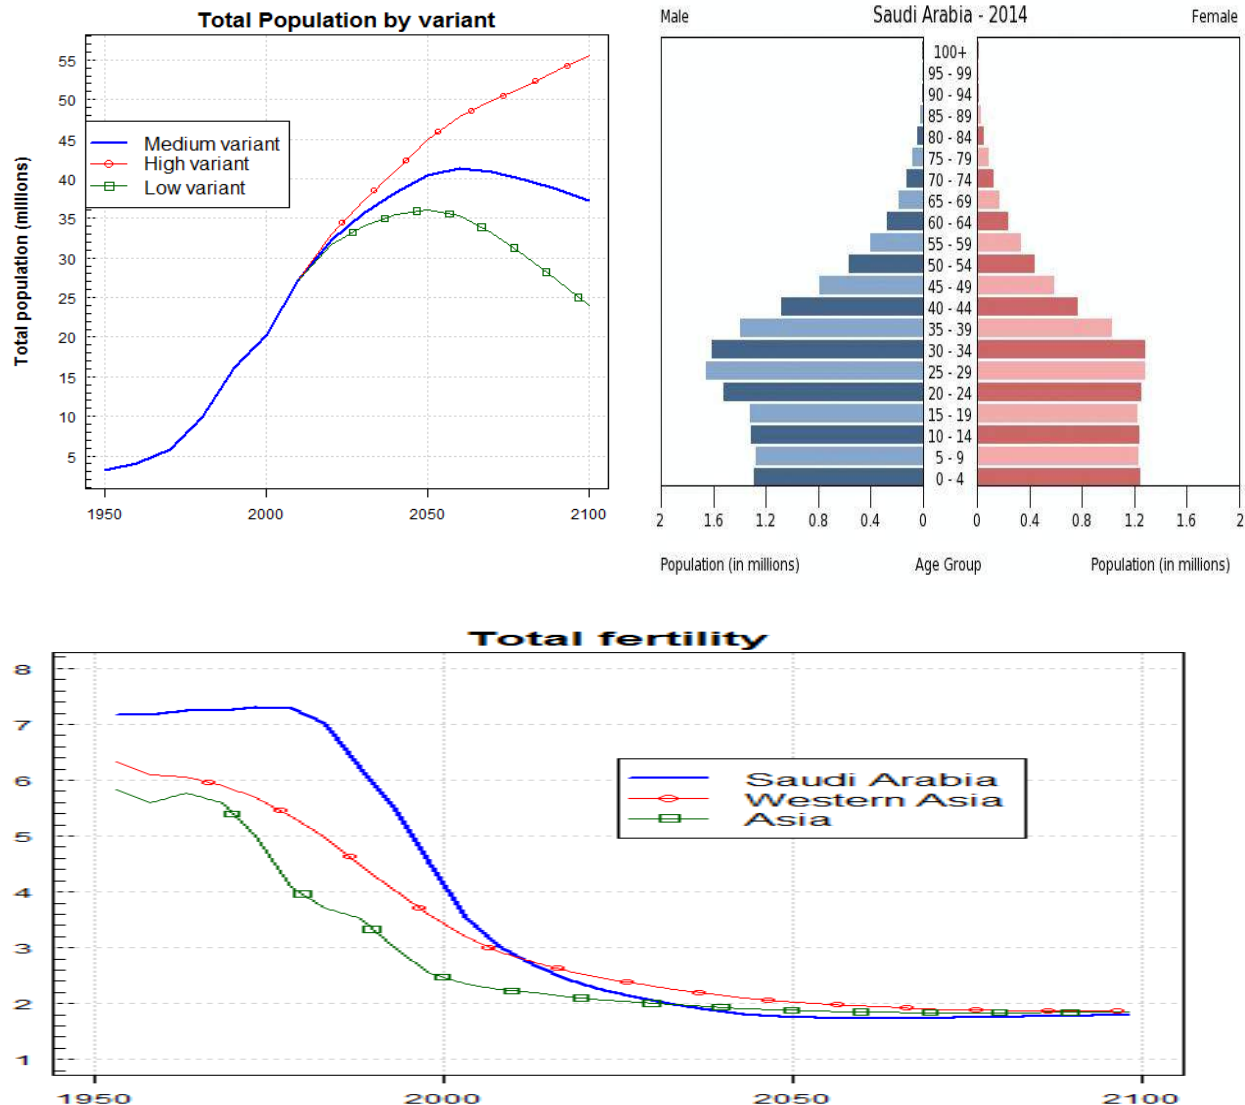

America has made a valuable contribution to the world after the Second World War when it imposed an international system based on population control and global and free trade to replace the European system of military aggression and colonialism. Unlike then, America now stands in the way of progress towards an international system that relies not on monetary coercion and brute force but on voluntary cooperation and constructive dialogue, and that employs not military prescriptions but diplomatic solutions.

Be a good friend to the American people and a model global citizen by forcing the U.S. government to stop being a bully and start being a gentleman, otherwise you will be dragged, once again, into more atrocities like 9/11, the Fukushima sabotage, and the Ebola pandemic, that you for all intents and purposes are funding.

I will make myself available to fly to Saudi Arabia to discuss how you can contribute to global peace and security by legislating population control in your country and thus protect your people from genocide.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

The man responsible for adopting and implementing covert methods of depopulation in 1982 across Saudi Arabia is King Fahd bin Abdulaziz Al Saud (1982-2005). During his reign Saudi Arabia reduced its total fertility rate from more than 7 to 3.5 children per woman and did so without contraceptives, which throughout his reign were never used by more than 32% of Saudi women.

His successor, King Abdullah of Saudi Arabia, his half-brother, who ascended to the throne in 2005 and reigned until January 2015, continued using covert methods of depopulation and reduced the total fertility rate from 3 to 2.1 children per woman. He reached replacement level fertility with even fewer contraceptives than his half-brother, since throughout his reign the contraceptive prevalence rate never exceeded 24%.

It is far too early to determine what policy the current King of Saudi Arabia, Salman bin Abdulaziz Al Saud, will pursue, as he has only been at the helm of the country a month, but if history is any indication we can be almost certain that he will continue to use endocrine disruptors and sterilizing vaccines to suppress the natural fertility of the Saudis so it stays at or below replacement level.

Judging by the low contraceptive prevalence rate and absent any open declarations of ambitious population control measures and targets through legal and open means, the Saudis will continue to be poisoned into sterility, imbecility and ill-health along with the rest of the world, save for a few still sane countries.

Abortion is a non-factor in the fertility decline since it is illegal and allowed only to save the life or health of the woman.

President Sall and Prime Minister Dionne,

Re: covert depopulation measures

Senegal's population has increased fivefold since 1950 and numbers almost 13 million today. The fertility rate has dropped from a high of 7.5 children per woman in 1980 to 5 children today, which means that Senegal's leaders have resisted pressure from the UN to subvert their people's reproductive systems.

Since your country cannot survive a further tripling of its population over the next 40 years, the time has come to formulate and implement a population control policy before you experience a breakdown of law and order. I therefore urge you to join me in calling on the UN Security Council and on the General Assembly to declare replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative and to adopt global legislation that restricts family size worldwide to two children per woman.

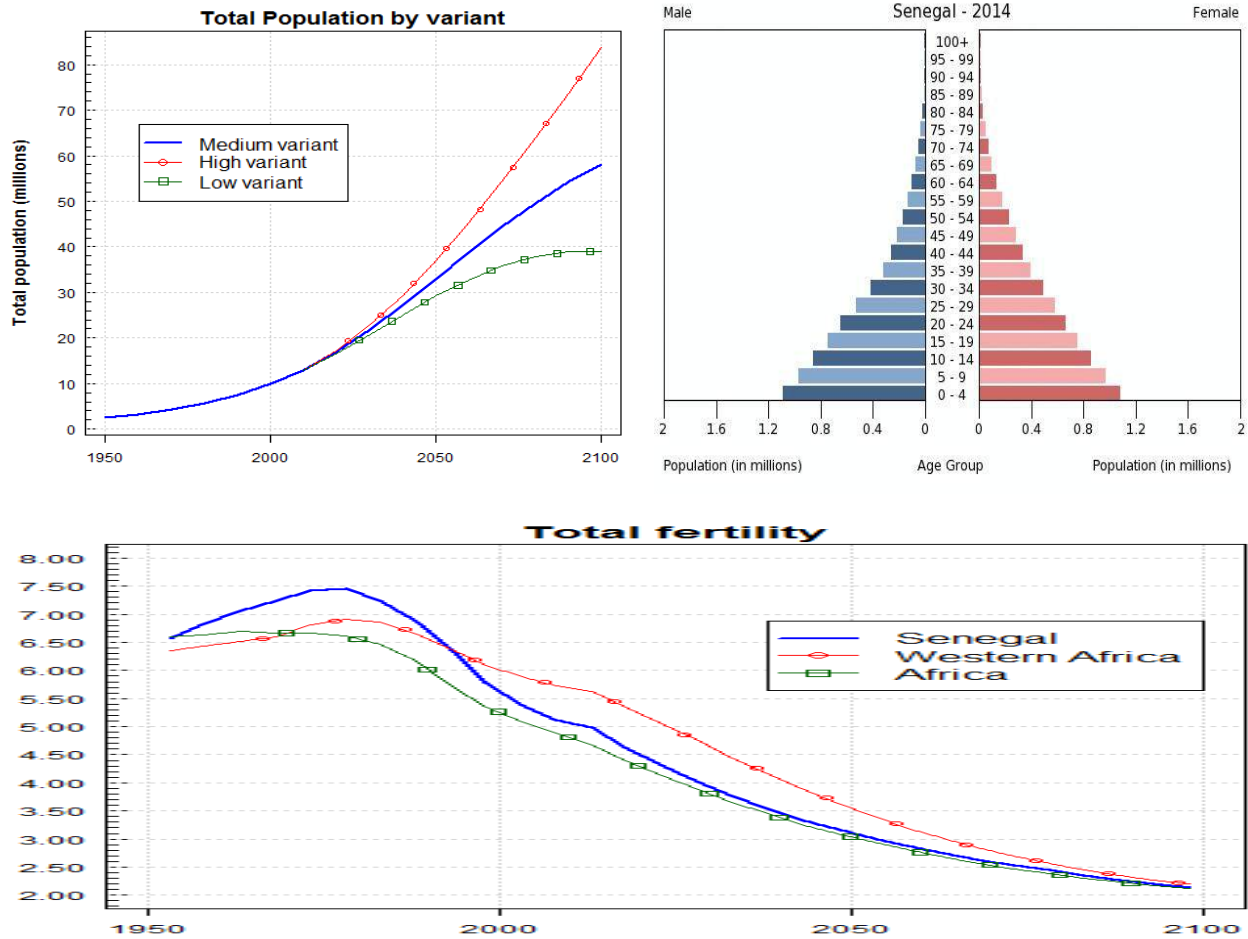

Senegal has a stable democracy and could be the first country in Africa to legislate population control. Failing to do so will make your people victims of covert depopulation measures employed by the UN and western aid agencies around the world with devastating effects since 1945; methods that will sicken and sterilize your people and that will degrade the genetic and intellectual endowment of the Senegalese.

You can prevent this outcome by proactively legislating population control and by helping me forge global consensus for overt population control, which would force the international community to abandon the current covert methods; methods I have exposed in my work: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

I hope that you will meet with me to discuss how we can accomplish this existential goal.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

Judging by the relatively modest drop in fertility, from 7.5 to children per woman prior to 1980 to 5 today, we can surmise that Senegal's leaders have pursued population control through voluntary and legal means, namely through family planning services and better provision of contraceptives.

With a current contraceptive prevalence rate of just 13% the country has a long way to go to accomplish its demographic objectives safely and fairly.

Until such time as Senegal addresses the issue of fertility its people will remain poor. Its GDP per capita has been stuck at c. $800 for the past fifty years.

REPUBLIC OF SERBIA

4 October 2014

Tomislav Nikolić
President of Serbia

predstavkegradjana@predsednik.rs mediji@predsednik.rs press@predsednik.rs

Aleksandar Vučić
Prime Minister of Serbia

<http://www.srbija.gov.rs/vlada/kontakt.php>

President Nikolić and Prime Minister Vučić,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Serbia is dying. It has lost 5% of its population in the past ten years and continues to decline by 0.5% every year. With a fertility rate stuck at 1.4 children per woman, zero immigration and net emigration due to stagnating economic conditions even optimistic projections show that the country will lose 1.7 million or 23% of its people over the next 30 years. Even more alarmingly, Serbia has an old population with an average age of 42 years, the death rate continuously exceeds the birth rate, people aged 65+ will increase by 14% and the old age dependency ratio by 62% over the next three decades, a fifth of all households already consist of just one person, the economically active population is decreasing rapidly and as of 2010 it is down to 39.7%, and the labor market dependency ratio is already the highest in Europe at 135 dependents for every 100 working people.

Why is Serbia dying? Because its people have been subjected to covert depopulation measures since the end of World War II, when Prime Minister Tito appeased the international community and bought neutrality by implementing the only covert method of population control known at that time, namely water fluoridation, just as the UN insisted all countries with the necessary infrastructure must do. As a result the total fertility rate went from 4 children per woman in 1945 to 2.1 by 1980 when Tito died.

The dying of Serbia accelerated in the 1990s due to the war and the country's disintegration and subsequently due to the influx of adulterated food from the West, which is laced with endocrine disruptors at source and from specially manufactured plastic packaging while en route to market.

And since Serbia signed the Partnership for Peace with NATO in 2006, planes have rained poisonous chemtrails from the sky upon the helpless people to shorten the lifespan of the baby boom generation before they bankrupt the state and GMO imports have been allowed into the country to completely eviscerate whatever little is left of the people's reproductive abilities, which have been devastated to such an extent that the crude birth rate per 1000 went from 30 in 1950 to 9 in 2013, a three-fold decrease.

The primary objective of your government, which seeks accession to the EU, and of the international community is to solve the ageing of the population, which was identified in 2010 by the European Commission as the greatest problem across Europe, by illegal means. The “solution” the political class settled upon is to shorten the lifespans of the baby boom generation by poisoning them from the sky with neurotoxins and by lowering the immune system of the elderly with annual flu vaccines specially formulated for this purpose and for their age cohort.

Nikola Aleksić, representative of the Ecologic Movement, Novi Sad, Serbia, has called for the cessation of aerial spraying and GMOs and has demanded that the Serbian army “constitutionally defend the people” and “destroy unmarked planes and the criminals who are carrying out genocide”.

Unless you, President Nikolić, and you, Prime Minister Vučić, immediately stop collaborating in genocide against your people with the UN, EU and NATO leadership you will end up in front of a firing squad. You must immediately appear before your people and announce that you are pulling Serbia out of the Global Depopulation Policy and order your armed forces to shoot down any and all planes that continue to spray poisons on your people from the sky. If you fail to do so I will add my voice to that of Mr. Aleksić and call upon the Serbian armed forces to use surface-to-air missiles to shoot down any plane that sprays chemtrails on the populace.

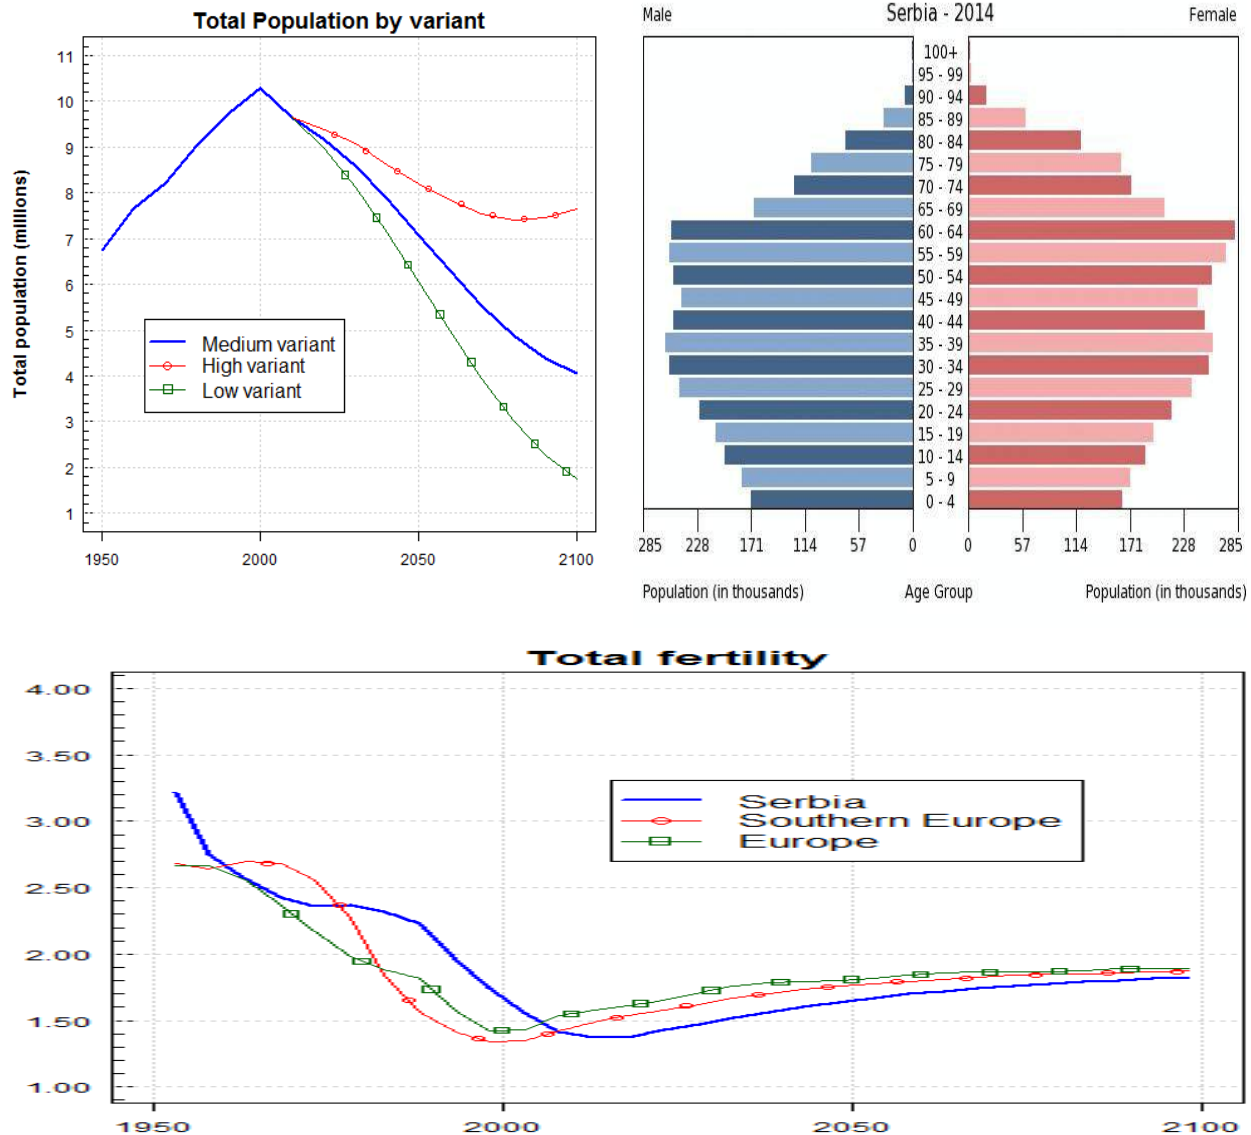

I remind you that the criminal law of all European states makes it the legal duty of every citizen to protect those under attack by compelling us to act as “agents of necessity” and granting us “exculpatory state of emergency” if in coming to the rescue of another we cause damage to a third party intentionally. This means that every citizen who is aware that you are poisoning your citizens and our children and are therefore committing genocide and refusing to stop when you have been warned is fully empowered by law to execute you point blank in order to protect the people, since the causation of your death would by law be deemed necessary to provide lifesaving aid.

Your days are numbered unless you stop the genocide and help me forge international consensus for a global population control law. Serbia can fulfill its international obligations with respect to population control, which is an international security prerogative for good reasons, without committing genocide and violating the rule of law as well as moral law.

I can be in your office within hours if you need my help or my advice to legitimize your government and protect your people.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

No sooner did Marshall Tito (1943-1980) consolidate his power at the helm of the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia in 1943 then he began using covert methods of depopulation around 1948. By 1957, he reached the target he was aiming at, namely 2.5 children per woman, down from 4 children per woman prior to 1948 when he began the program. By the time he died in 1980, the total fertility rate had declined to 2.3 children per woman.

Slobodan Milošević, the 14th President of the Socialist Republic of Serbia from 1989 to 1991, the first President of Serbia from 1991 to 1997, and the third and last President of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia from 1997 to 2000, managed to lower the total fertility rate from 2.1 to 1.5 children per woman.

All subsequent Serbia leaders have stayed the course: Milan Milutinović (1997-2002), Nataša Mičić (2002-2004), Boris Tadić (2004-2012), and the incumbent Tomislav Nikolić (since May 2012). They have kept Serbia's total fertility rate at or below 1.5 children per woman, which is why Serbia's population has been decreasing since 1992.

Since Serbia's contraceptive prevalence rate has never been higher than 58% and since it has been below 45% (of which only 22% by modern methods) during the past decade when Serbia has had the lowest total fertility rate in its history, it is as clear as daylight that contraceptives have absolutely nothing to do with the country's low fertility.

The historical record shows that abortion did play a role during the 1970s and 1980s when the abortion rate was at around 65%, but during the 1990s the rate fell to 40% and since the turn of the century to just 20%. As endocrine disruptors are now endemic Serbians are becoming sterile and conception happens increasingly rare.

Serbia is in the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition.

President Michel,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Seychelles was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy by its British overlords in 1967, a full eleven years before becoming independent and joining the UN, time during which the total fertility rate declined by 25%. After independence the population control program continued without interruption under the auspices of the UN, but with the full knowledge and support of the freely elected governments that have come and gone. As a result of this policy of covert population control, the total fertility rate dropped from 5 children per woman prior to 1966 to 2.1 by 2010.

There is no doubt that population control has been good for the Seychelles economically and socially, but not physiologically and politically as it has done irreparable harm to the human genome and has perverted the rule of law and the social contract, rendering democracy a sham and government illegitimate.

If you continue in this fashion you will make room for nature by annihilating all genetic lineages of the Seychellois, as varied and wonderful as they are. I am providing you with a far better option, that of equilibrium between man and nature without sacrificing humanity. But this option requires leadership to forge a new course and reform the international system as I have outlined in my just published document, The Future of Global Governance. I urge you to empower your UN ambassador, Ms. Marie-Louise Potter, to start the process.

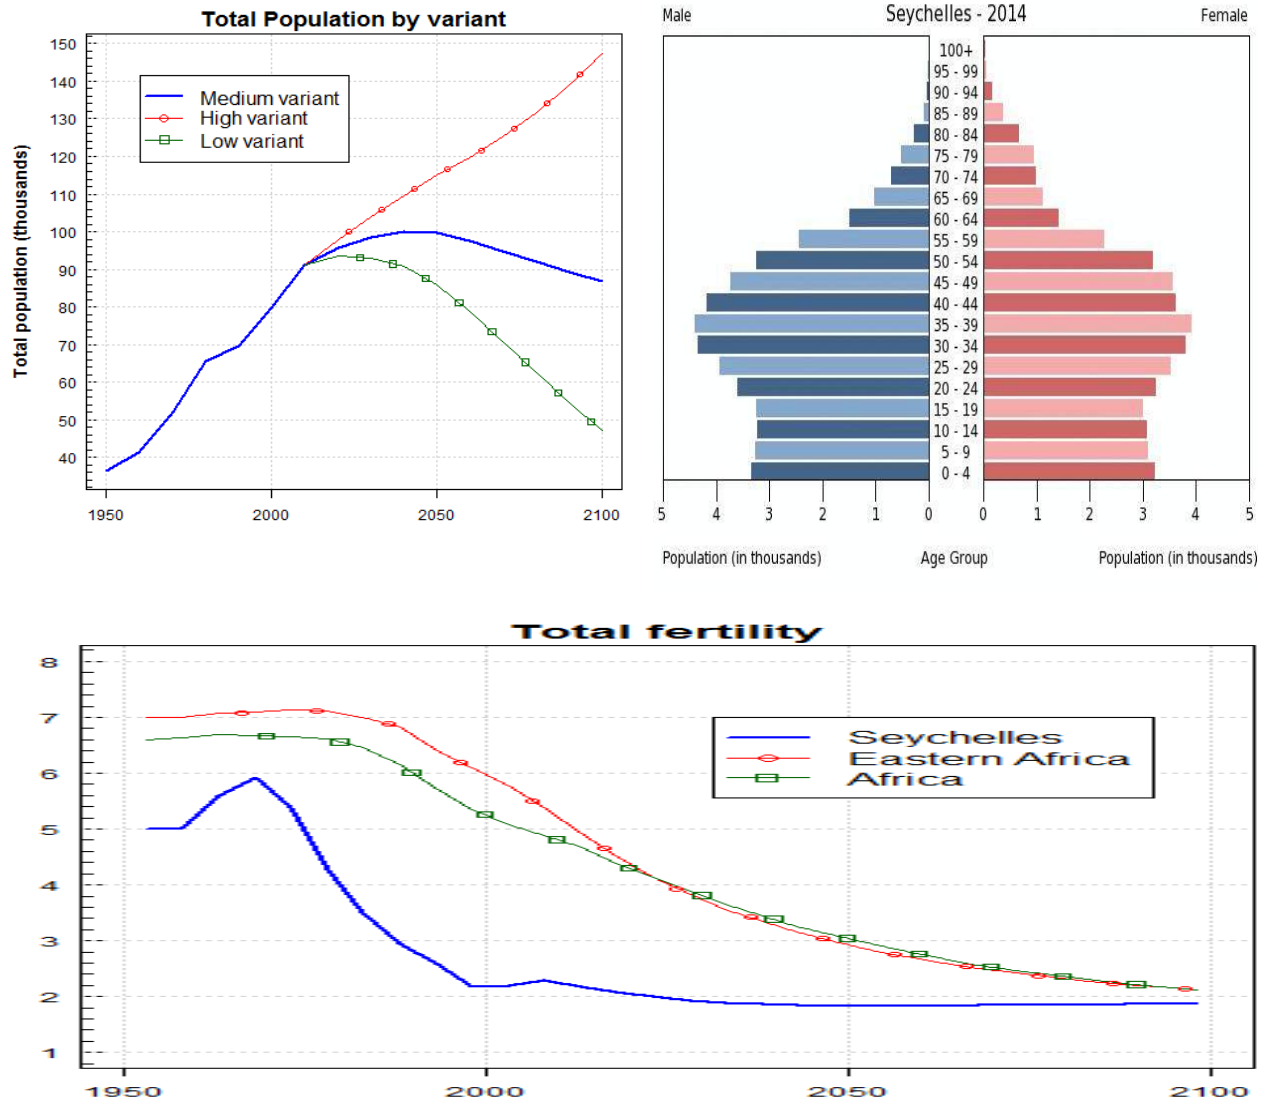

It also requires that people are told the truth and educated in record time so they can take control over their reproductive systems and curtail them to replacement level fertility, which must be enshrined in international law as a Planetary Security Prerogative from now until the end of time. You will find all the material you need to accomplish this feat of education in my freely available work:

The man responsible for introducing covert and involuntary methods of population control to Seychelles in 1967, when the island was still a British Crown colony, is Governor Hugh Norman-Walker (1967-1969). His successors to the governorship have followed suit: Bruce Greatbatch (1969-1970, 1970-1973), Colin Allan (1973-1975, High Commissioner from 1975 to 1976).

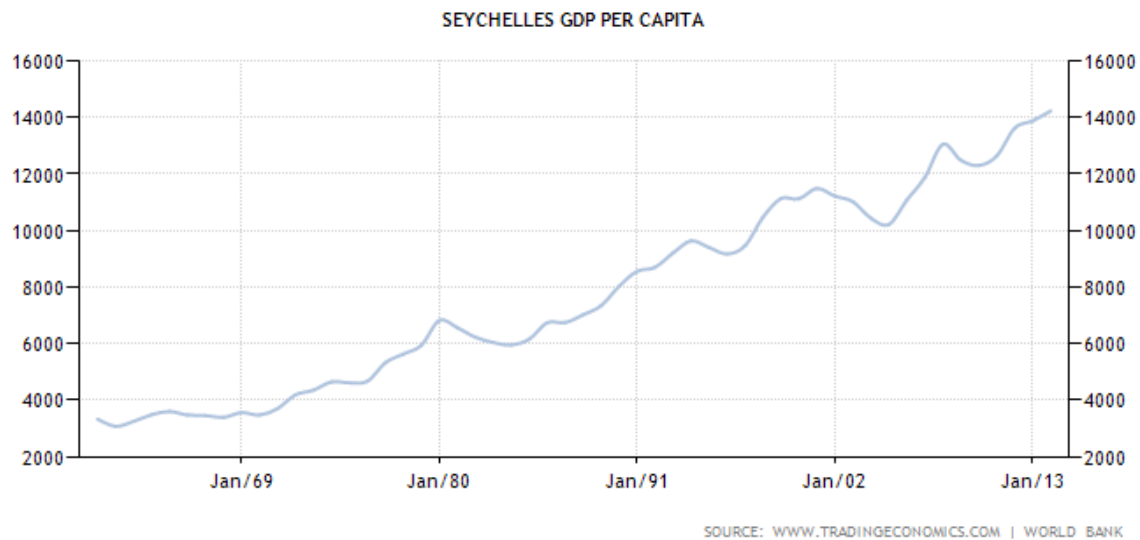

Between 1967 and 1976, the British administrators reduced the number of children born in the Seychelles by 32% (from 38 to 26 births per 1000 people) and the total fertility rate from 6 to 4.2 children per woman (a 30% decrease). And they did this without any contraceptives whatsoever. If there is one thing the British are good at is sterilizing unsuspecting people.

Upon independence in 1976, the responsibility for sterilizing the populace passed onto the shoulders of the first President of independent Seychelles, James Mancham (1976-1977). He was followed by France-Albert René (1977-2004) and the incumbent James Michel (since April 2004). Through their combined efforts, these sons of Seychelles managed to reduce their people's fertility from 4.2 to 1.9 children per woman. And like their colonial predecessors they performed this demographic miracle without any contraceptives.

Seychelles is concealing its contraceptive prevalence rate because it is insignificant. Abortion is a factor at 24% (as of 2006) but cannot possibly account for the low fertility now or for the decline in fertility in the past. The historical record shows that abortion has been constant at 24% since 1998.

Seychelles has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a growing per capita GDP. The data shows that the GDP began to rise in the early 1970s, thus soon after fertility began declining in the late 1960s.

Seychelles is stage four of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF SIERRA LEONE

Ernest Bai Koroma

President of Sierra Leone

ernest@ernestkoroma.org

President Koroma,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Your country is in a state of emergency caused by the Ebola outbreak. This is no accident but the latest intentional attack by the international community on the African population for the sake of stopping the population explosion.

With a total fertility rate of five children per woman and a population that has doubled in the last thirty years, your country will continue to be the target of germ warfare until the international community is satisfied that the population is stable. Since Sub-Saharan Africa's infrastructure is too poor to implement covert chemical sterilization through endocrine disruptors, as is being done in the West, the only way you can save your people from this and future engineered pandemics is by adopting legislative means for population control.

I am in the process of forging global consensus for the implementation of worldwide population control laws since that is the only way we can save our children from covert poisoning and extermination, our planet from environmental ruin, and the world from war and nuclear annihilation.

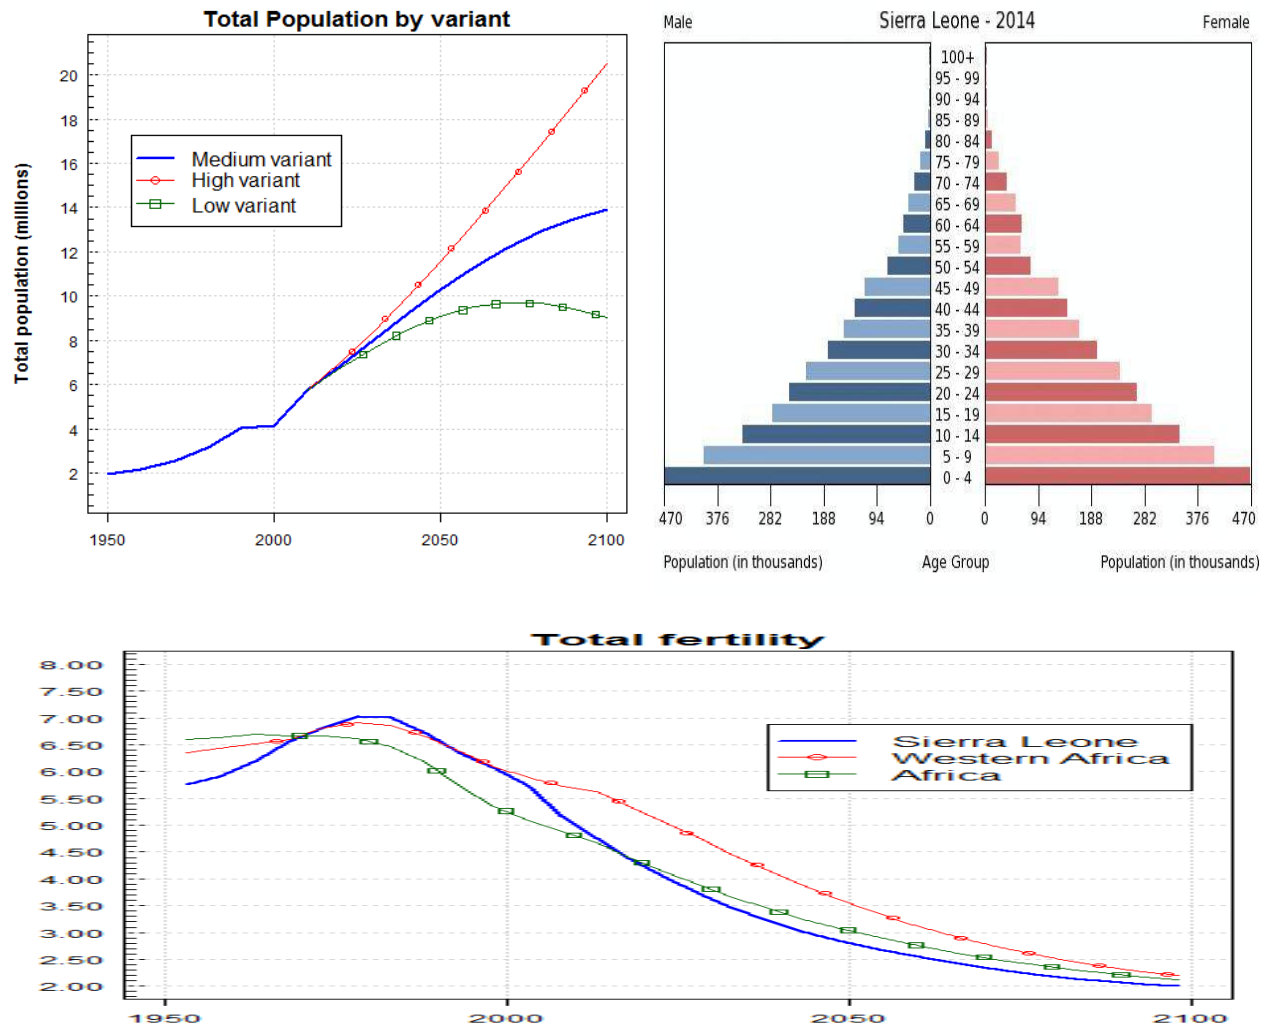

Given your country's precarious economic situation and the vulnerability of your people to foreign attack, I hope that you will invite me to Sierra Leone to discuss how best to save your country and the world from an international system based on genocide.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

The man responsible for introducing population control measures in 1982 in Sierra Leone is Siaka Stevens, who was the third prime minister of Sierra Leone from 1967 to 1971 and its first president from 1971 to 1985. He made this move towards the end of his presidency and immediately after serving as Chairman of the Organization of African Union from 1981 to 1982, where he was undoubtedly inspired by other African leaders and came into daily contact with the international community and learned to think in geopolitical terms and consider the future.

There is no evidence to suggest that President Stevens used involuntary methods of population control, as there is no evidence to suggest that his successor, Joseph Saidu Momoh (1985-1992), used such methods either. From 1982 to 1992 the total fertility rate declined only modestly from 7 to 6.5 children per woman.

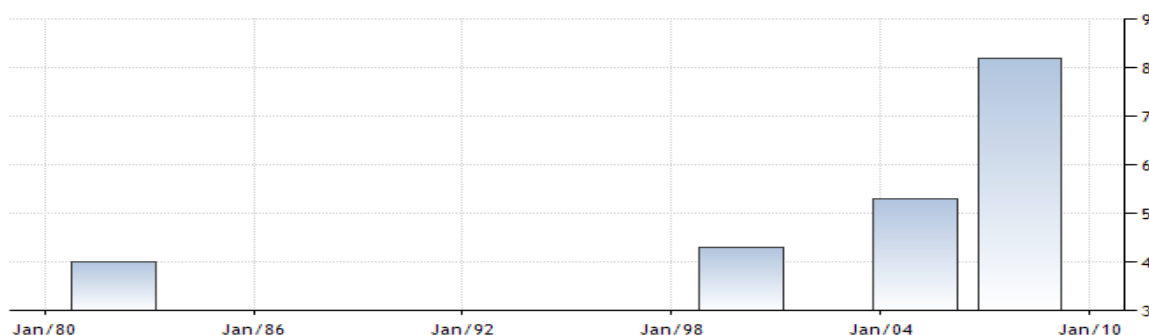

Following a coup d'état in 1992, Sierra Leone had military rule until 1996 when civilian government was restored. During these 4 years, the total fertility rate declined modestly from 6.5 to 6.3 children per woman, which was most certainly accomplished through better provision of family planning services.

The third President of Sierra Leone, Ahmad Tejan Kabbah (1996-1997 and 1998-2007), continued in the same vein as his predecessors until 2004, when it appears that he accelerated the program. As a result, during the last 3 years of his presidency, from 2004 to 2009, he managed to reduce the total fertility rate from 5.7 to 5.2 children per woman. There is no reason to believe that he used involuntary methods but international NGOs have certainly tried to work around the government.

The current President, Ernest Bai Koroma (in office since September 2007), has slowed down the pace of fertility reduction, undoubtedly because he is not allowing the international community to use involuntary methods. The total fertility rate is currently at 4.8 children per woman.

Considering the slow pace of progress, but progress nonetheless, and the low contraceptive prevalence rate (which has never reached 9%), one can only conclude that Sierra Leone's leaders have played fairly and that international NGOs have managed only a few scores here and there without the government's knowledge or consent.

Sierra Leone is paying for its inability to tackle fertility with poverty and a stagnant per capita GDP.

Sierra Leone is in stage two of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF SINGAPORE

2 October 2014

Tony Tan Keng Yam
President of Singapore
parl@parl.gov.sg, gan_kim_yong@moh.gov.sg

Lee Hsien Loong
Prime Minister of Singapore
pmo_hq@pmo.gov.sg, lee_hsien_loong@pmo.gov.sg

President Yam and Prime Minister Loong,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Singapore has been subjected to covert population control measures since 1956 when the British rulers began poisoning your people in secret by adulterating the water supply with fluoride, the world's most potent fertility depressant and a toxic endocrine disruptor that has rendered the Singaporean people mentally and physically inferior compared to their forefathers.

Singapore and Hong Kong are the only countries in the world to be fully fluoridated which is why they are also the countries with the lowest fertility rates in the world. Yes, this method of population control has allowed your people to grow richer from generation to generation but what they have gained in wealth they have lost in the quality of their genetic and intellectual endowments.

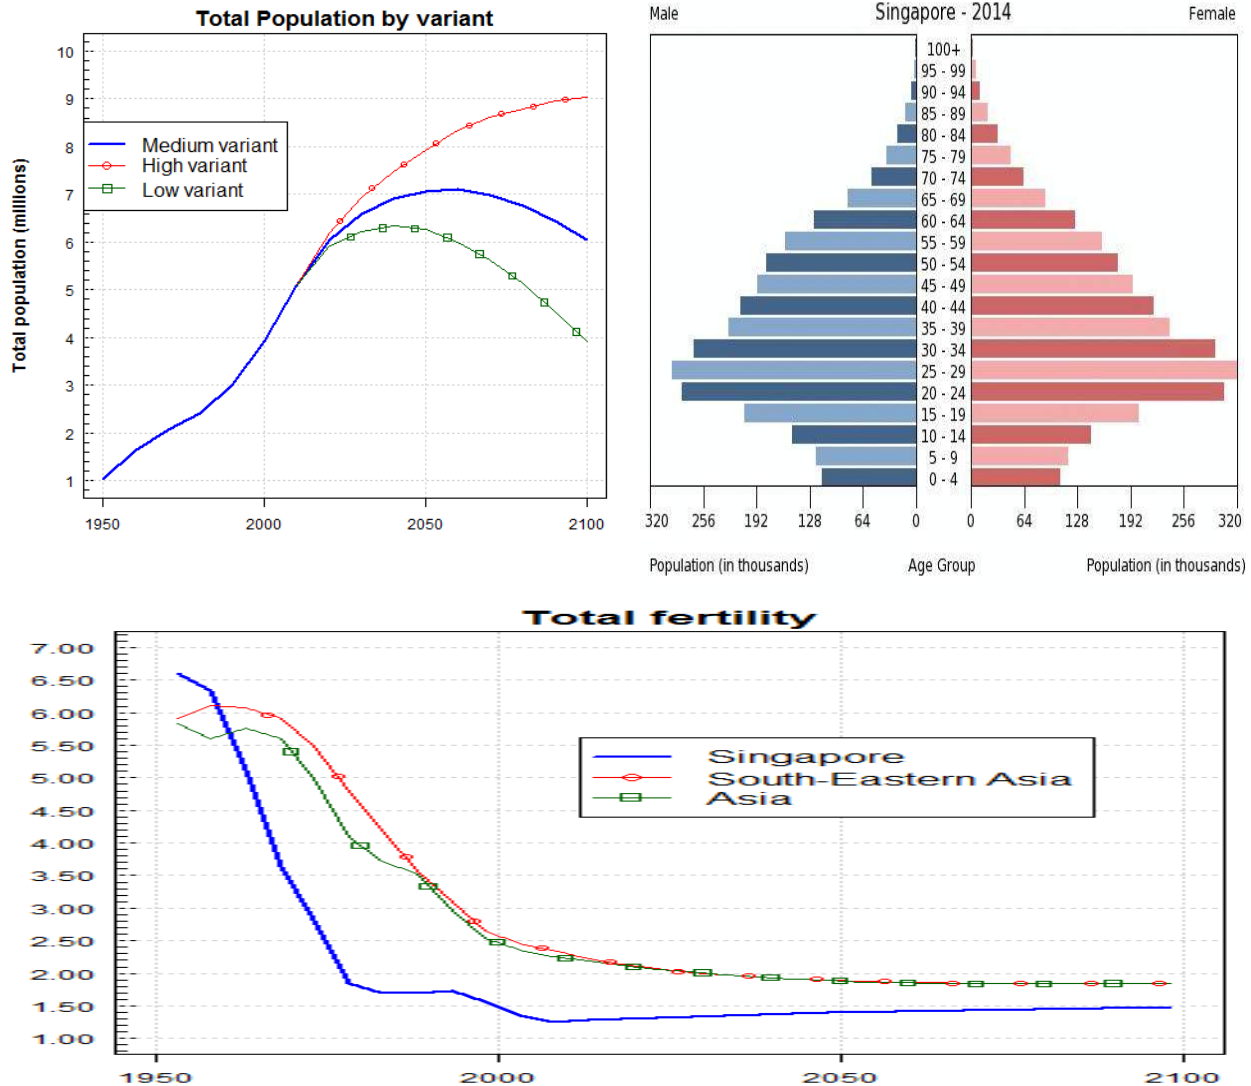

If Singapore does not stop poisoning its people, in a few decades from now the country will be inhabited by mentally retarded, physically obese, and chronically ill people and your country will disappear off the face of the earth. You will have accomplished the demographic transition but lost everything else.

So long as you poison your people with endocrine disruptors you are committing genocide and sooner rather than later you will be charged with crimes against humanity. I therefore suggest you stop all covert depopulation programs and help me forge international consensus for a global law that restricts family size to two children worldwide.

Should you decide to serve rather than poison your people, I stand by to fly to Singapore and help you legitimize your government. As a fully urban society, Singapore should have no difficulties legislating population control. I can help you do this and propel Singapore to the forefront of global leadership rather than continue to be a hapless follower on the international arena.

Sincerely,

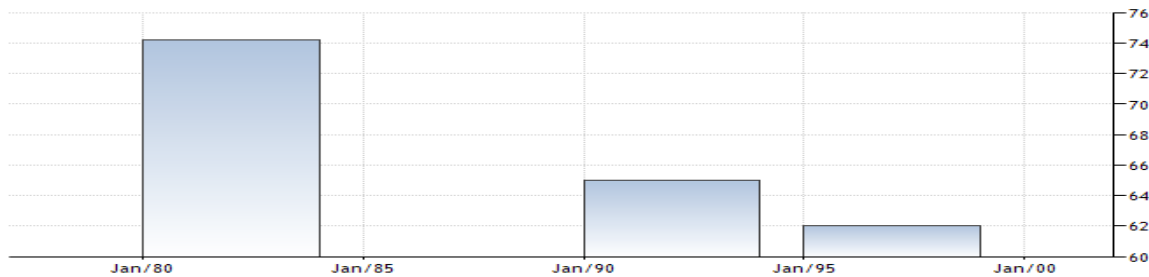

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

The man responsible for starting to poison Singaporeans to low fertility in 1956 on behalf of His Majesty's Government is Governor Robert Brown Black (1955-1957) who is an old friend of ours since we have already seen that he did the same thing to the people of Hong Kong where he was sent to serve as Governor in 1958, as soon as he finished installing the water fluoridation program in Singapore. Since committing genocide and crimes against humanity on the sly is a very delicate job and Sir Robert Brown Black had already done a splendid job in Singapore he was sent to Hong Kong to accomplish the same feat there and he did.

His successor, William Allmond Codrington Goode (1957-1959), the last Governor of Singapore, kept up the good work poisoning the Singaporean people and prepared the transition of power to a local politician willing to commit genocide and crimes against humanity for a handsome wage. That local politician became the first Prime Minister of Singapore, Lee Kuan Yew, and was kept in power for three decades lest a decent fellow with a conscience comes to power and shuts down the depopulation program.

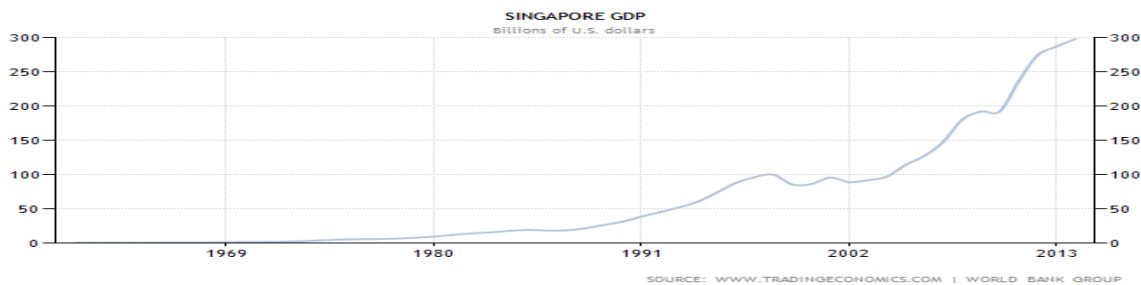

Prime Minister Lee stayed in power until 1990, by which time the total fertility rate declined from 6.6 children per woman prior to 1956 to just 1.8 children per woman. By 1990 the people of Singapore began to realize that they are as sterile as lab rats and have stopped buying contraceptives, which is a complete waste of money so long as you drink fluoridated water. That is why the contraceptive prevalence rate has steadily declined and is currently at 11% while the total fertility rate of the Singaporean people is lower than ever at 0.8 children per woman. And the majority of these children are born to immigrant mothers because most women born and raised in Singapore are sterile.

Abortion, the historical record shows, has never exceeded 35% and has been below 20% since 2005. As such, it can account neither for the past decline in fertility from more than 6 children per woman to replacement level nor for the current sub-replacement level fertility.

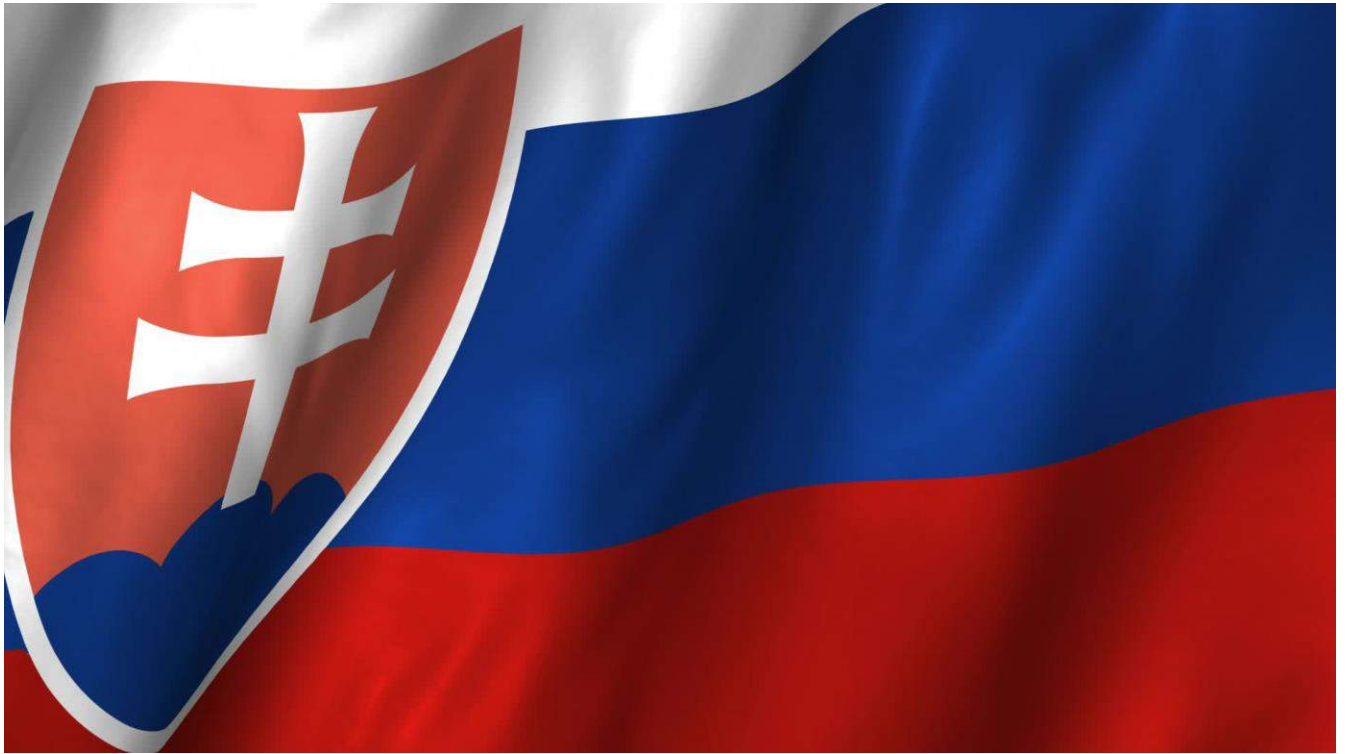

Lee's successors have stayed the course: Goh Chok Tong (1990-2004) and incumbent Lee Hsien Loong (since August 2004). Singapore's presidents have kept the code of silence: Yusof bin Ishak (1965-1970), Benjamin Sheares (1971-1981), Devan Nair (1981-1985), Wee Kim Wee (1985-1993), Ong Teng Cheong (1993-1999), S. R. Nathan (1999-2011), and incumbent Tony Tan (since September 2011). These individuals are very fond of flogging people when they in fact are the only people who truly deserve to be flogged senseless.

Singapore has been handsomely rewarded for its genocidal zeal with an exploding GDP. As soon as the country reached replacement level fertility in 1980 the GDP began to reach for the sky. Once again, it is low fertility that brings affluence and not vice versa, as the pundits and the deceivers would want us to believe.

Singapore has long reached the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition but hides this fact with a very high immigration rate.

SLOVAK REPUBLIC

2 October 2014

Andrej Kiska
President of Slovakia
informacie@prezident.sk

Robert Fico
Prime Minister of Slovakia
info@vlada.gov.sk

President Kiska and Prime Minister Fico,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Covert population control via fluoridated water and fluoride tablets started in 1958 in Slovakia, then part of Czechoslovakia, along with an open family planning program that encouraged contraceptives and legalized abortions but was intended merely to hide the far more effective methods of covert chemical sterilization.

As a result, the total fertility rate declined from 3.6 children per woman in 1950 to 2.1 children per woman in 1989, when communism ended, but remained above replacement level. As soon as Slovakia separated from the Czech Republic in 1992, however, and allowed food imports from Western Europe, the total fertility rate of the Slovak people began a rapid decline to well below replacement level, reaching a low of 1.2 in 2001. This devastating decline is the result of food imports from Western Europe; food adulterated with endocrine disruptors to cause sterility by design. Western European food products sent to countries from the former Eastern Bloc are adulterated far more than those sold to western Europeans, which is why the total fertility rate of all formerly Eastern European countries is now far lower than that of Western European countries. This was not the case prior to the East's opening to western food, thus when Eastern European countries were in control of their own population control programs.

The plan is to reduce the Slovak population from the current 5.5 million to 4 million by the end of the 21st century and to do it by suppressing births and accelerating deaths. Your people, in other words, are subject to a scientifically planned genocide whose results are already built into Europe's statistical projections, which also forecast that "population ageing is the most significant consequence of the current demographic development". To ensure that population ageing does not shatter the budgets of Europe's nations, the EU and NATO have begun a heavy aerial spraying program which fumigates the population from the air with chemtrails that contain neurotoxins and endocrine disruptors in a mixture that is ideally formulated to shorten the lifespans of the baby boom generation by a decade or two so that Europe can complete the engineered demographic transition it embarked upon in 1945 with the least possible economic losses. Human beings in Slovakia and elsewhere, in other words, are treated no better than insects by their own governments and the international institutions that plan and push these genocidal solutions.

You, Prime Minister Fico, came to power by promising a “clean hands” policy. But your government’s hands are anything but clean so long as you continue to cooperate in the mass poisoning of your own people, which renders the entire population ill, sterile, feeble and feeble-minded. And you, President Kiska, are just as guilty of genocide so long as you remain quiet and protect your four children while condemning the rest of Slovakia’s children to a slow and painful extermination.

If you continue on this path, you will not only end up facing charges for crimes against humanity in common law courts, but will also be reviled by generations to come as mass murderers. If however you join me in forging international consensus for a population control law that applies across the globe, you will save your people from genocide and the world from war and environmental devastation and will be sung as global heroes for all times.

The choice is yours, as are the consequences. Should you choose the latter, I could be in your office within hours to guide you back to the rule of law and to sanity.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalale

The man responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation in Czechoslovakia in 1952 is President Klement Gottwald (1948-1953). His successors stayed the course: Antonín Novotný (1957-1968), Ludvík Svoboda (1968-1975), Gustáv Husák (1975-1989) and Václav Havel (1989-1992). During their leadership the people's fertility dropped from 3.6 to 2.1 children per woman.

Since Slovakia's independence in 1993, the following presidents have assumed responsibility for the genocide: Michal Kováč (1993-1998), Rudolf Schuster (1999-2004), Ivan Gašparovič (2004-2014), and incumbent Andrej Kiska (since June 2014). They have been assisted by the following prime ministers: Vladimír Mečiar (1992-1994, 1994-1998), Mikuláš Dzurinda (1998-2006), Robert Fico (2006-2010, and incumbent since April 2012), and Iveta Radičová (2010-2012). Through their combined efforts, these individuals have lowered their people's total fertility rate from 2.1 to 1.3 children per woman.

Slovakia's fertility declined fastest in the 1950s and 1960s when contraceptives were not available yet fertility declined nonetheless from nearly 4 to 2.5 children per woman. During the 1970s contraceptives were used by 40% of Slovak's and fertility stagnated at 2.5 children per woman because the Soviet Union decreed so and the government adjusted its covert chemical sterilization program accordingly. Since the 1980s and until today the contraceptive prevalence rate has been relatively constant at around 75% yet fertility has declined continuously reaching replacement level in 1989, 1.5 in 1995, a lowest low of 1.2 in 2002, and has remained below 1.4 since then. In other words, contraceptive use has no bearing on the fertility rate whatsoever since fertility is adjusted by remote control through government poisons. Nor can abortion account for the fertility decline since the historical record shows that fertility has been relatively constant at 15% to 30% since 1958, peaking over that rate slightly during the late 1980s and early 1990s.

Slovakia has entered the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition in 2001.

President Pahor and Prime Minister Cerar,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

As part of the former Yugoslavia, Slovenia joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1951 and consequently the total fertility rate declined from 3 children per woman prior to 1951 to 2 by 1980 and just 1.2 by 2003. The government has since eased up on endocrine disruptors and the fertility has improved somewhat and is currently at 1.5 children per woman.

As one of the world's most peaceful and rational countries, Slovenia could be a beacon for sustainability if the government lifts the veil of secrecy and gives its citizens the knowledge they need to live responsible lives by restricting their own fertility. Why this is necessary I explain in my book The Future of Global Governance. You can educate your people to come to the wisdom to limit themselves to replacement level fertility through my freely available work:

As a founding member of the Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia, Slovenia was subjected to covert depopulation since 1951 on Marshall Tito's orders. Equally responsible is the President of Slovenia at that time, Josip Vidmar (1943-1953). The communist leaders of Slovenia/Yugoslavia brought down their people's total fertility rate from 3 to 1.5 children per woman.

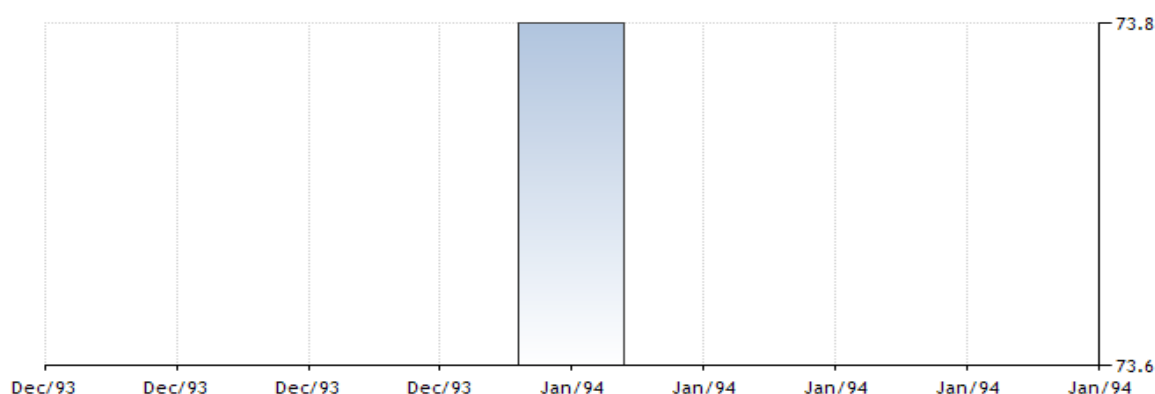

Since independence in 1991 and the establishment of the Republic of Slovenia, the following presidents have assumed responsibility for the genocide: Milan Kučan (1991-2002), Janez Drnovšek (2002-2007, also Prime Minister from 1992 to 2000), Danilo Türk (2007-2012), and the incumbent Borut Pahor (since December 2012, also Prime Minister from 2008 to 2012).

They have been assisted in genocide by the following prime ministers: Lojze Peterle (1990-1992), Janez Drnovšek (1992-2000, 2000-2002, also President from 2002 to 2007), Janez Janša

(2004-2008, 2012-2013), Alenka Bratušek (2013-2014), and incumbent Miro Cerar (since September 2014).

The freely elected leaders of Slovenia have kept the people's fertility suppressed well below replacement level, reaching a lowest low of 1.2 children per woman in 2003 and climbing since to 1.5 children per woman.

Since 1994, when Slovenia's contraceptive prevalence rate reached a historic high of 74% (of which only 63% by modern contraceptives), the government has been hiding the data in order to conceal the fact that the country's sub-replacement level fertility has nothing to do with the people's use of contraceptives and everything to do with the government's use of endocrine disruptors.

The historical record shows that abortion has played a secondary role in Slovenia's fertility decline in the 1960s and 1970s when the abortion rate was around 25%, and during the 1980s and 1990s when the abortion rate climbed to 40%, but has played an increasingly minor role since the turn of the century, when poisoning by endemic endocrine disruptors from the West became the norm and people have stopped conceiving. Since the turn of the 21st century, the abortion rate has steadily declined (from 32% in 2000, to 23% in 2006, to 18% in 2009, and to 15% in 2014) yet the total fertility rate has remained stuck at below 1.5 children per woman, where it has actually been since 1989 despite wild changes in the abortion and contraceptive rates.

Slovenia is in stage four of the demographic transition and it will slip into stage five within the next five years.

Prime Minister Sogavare,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Solomon Islands became a UN member state in 1978, two years after obtaining its independence from Britain, and immediately joined the Global Depopulation Policy. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from 7 children per woman prior to 1978 to 3.4 today. This decline has been accomplished through sterilizing vaccines and since 2009 through the fertility suppressing first-line malaria treatment combination therapy arthemeter/lumenfantrine.

Considering that the Solomon islanders, who number about 600.000, are not a homogenous group and live on 300 different islands, speak some 120 vernaculars, reside for the most part in small and widely dispersed villages with fewer than 200 people, practice subsistence farming and fishing, and have egalitarian social relationships, they constitute a veritable nightmare for the depopulation lobby of the United Nations. Despite the obstacles and the remoteness of your islands, however, your people did not escape the poisons devised to suppress human fertility and your people are well on their way to reaching replacement level fertility, which is the ultimate goal of the UN and its agencies.

With a population density of just 20 people per square kilometer, the Solomon Islands are not in danger of becoming overpopulated any time soon. And as luck would have it, I am stopping the use of covert methods of population control before they damage your people irreversibly, as they have damaged people throughout the world and especially the developed world. That means your people can benefit from the mistakes made by the rest of the world and act proactively. How and why I describe in my free book, The Future of Global Governance.

If you act now you can preserve your island paradise just as nature created it. And you can help the rest of the world save what is left. You can help by empowering your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Collin Beck, to initiate reform of the UN system so that replacement level fertility can be declared a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrined in international law so it can be pursued openly, legally, safely and justly across the world by every man and every woman.

Your people have not yet lost their connection to the land and have not become dependent on unsustainable technologies and polluting machines. They live in the lap of nature and know to appreciate its bounty. But even without western lifestyles your paradise will be lost if the people continue to breed according to their natural fertility, which is why now is the time to start educating them about what will happen in the not-too-distant future if they do not limit their fertility. This will take time and it won't be easy, but my work will perhaps help you. You can access it free of cost here:

A lot will sound like science fiction from the perspective of your undeveloped and remote indigenous society. But what will seem to your people like the distant future is already the reality of the day for most of the world; a reality that has come to your shores too in the form of sterilizing vaccines and fertility depressing malaria medication. Not even you who are at the other end of the world can escape the nightmare that we have created at our end of the world. And since you cannot escape it either you must help us fix the world.

I stand by to help you in any way I can.

The man responsible for approving and implementing covert methods of depopulation in 1978 is Peter Kenilorea (1978-1981, 1984-1986). His successors to the office have followed suit: Solomon Mamaloni (1981-1984, 1989-1993, 1994-1997), Ezekiel Alebua (1986-1989), Francis Billy Hilley (1993-1994), Bartholomew Ulufa'alu (1997-2000), Manasseh Sogavare (2000-2001, 2006-2007, and incumbent since December 2014), Allan Kemakeza (2001-2006), Derek Sikua (2007-2010), Danny Philip (2010-2011), and Gordon Darcy Lilo (2011-2014).

The country's very low current contraceptive prevalence rate of 35%, the even lower contraceptive rate of circa 10% in the 1990, and the non-existence of contraceptives when the population began declining in the 1980s show that contraceptives are not responsible for the fertility decline in the Solomon Islands.

And since abortion is illegal and allowed only to save the life of the woman, abortion is a non-factor in the islands' fertility decline.

The Solomon Islands will soon complete the second stage of the demographic transition.

President Mohamud and Prime Minister Ahmed,

Re: covert depopulation measures

Somalia became a UN member state in 1960, as soon as it acquired its independence, but has refused to join the Global Depopulation Policy, which makes it a rare and precious country. Not having a functional central government since 1991 has protected the people of Somalia from the genocidal methods advocated by the UN and its western backers, as have the values and norms of the Somali people and culture which could not be perverted by the manipulations of the genocidal lobby.

Somalia however has fallen prey to overpopulation and resource scarcity and suffers endemic poverty and chronic famine because it lacks the political leadership necessary to legislate population control and the people do not have the education and means necessary to exercise self-restraint on the reproductive front. As a result, the demographic picture is dire: the total fertility rate at 6.1 children per woman is the fourth highest in the world, the median age is 17.7 years, 44% of the population is below 14 years of age, and only 15% of all Somali women use contraceptives. Somalia's population grows by 250,000 every year when it cannot feed its current population of 10.5 million because the country is semi-arid and only 1.7% of its land is arable. On top of that, decades of conflict and recurrent droughts followed by famine have displaced countless people, making Somalia the second-highest source of refugees in the world and, according to the World Food Programme, 1.6 million Somalis were in need of food aid in 2013, of which 1 million (or nearly 10% of the population) were in a state of crisis.

The good news is that Somalia is one of only a handful of countries in the world that can start upon the long and arduous path of the demographic transition with a clean conscience and an even cleaner slate. All it needs is brave and smart leaders who are not afraid to stand in front of the people and tell them the truth that unless Somalia reaches replacement level fertility in record time the country will disintegrate in famine and war or will be subjected to poisonous food, adulterated sterilizing vaccines, and germ warfare by an international community bent on genocide and well exercised in mass murder, which it has committed on an unprecedented scale with mechanical dispassion and scientific precision since 1945.

Before you are lied to and cheated by the experts in death employed by the UN, its agencies, and western NGOs – the so-called international community, but in fact no more than a global coalition of lunatics, criminals and cowards – I urge you to read and disseminate my books and articles and to watch my humble but truthful videos, which are freely available here:

<http://www.linkedin.com/in/kevingalalae>

Once you have done so, you will realize that the only way out of poverty and war, and the only way around the genocidal remedies dished out by the international community, is a self-imposed law that restricts every Somali to replacement level fertility and the free contraceptives necessary to empower your citizens to assume control over their reproductive rights and limit them of their own volition.

None of the self-proclaimed civilized countries of the world have been able to do this, which is why the UN, aided by the Allied Powers (i.e. the U.S., the Soviet Union/Russia and the UK), has forced governments since 1950 to bypass democratic processes and violate the rule of law in order to covertly undermine fertility by turning the basic elements of life into weapons of mass infertility and morbidity and in the process devastate the human genome and reduce the entire population of the developed world to a state akin to living dead.

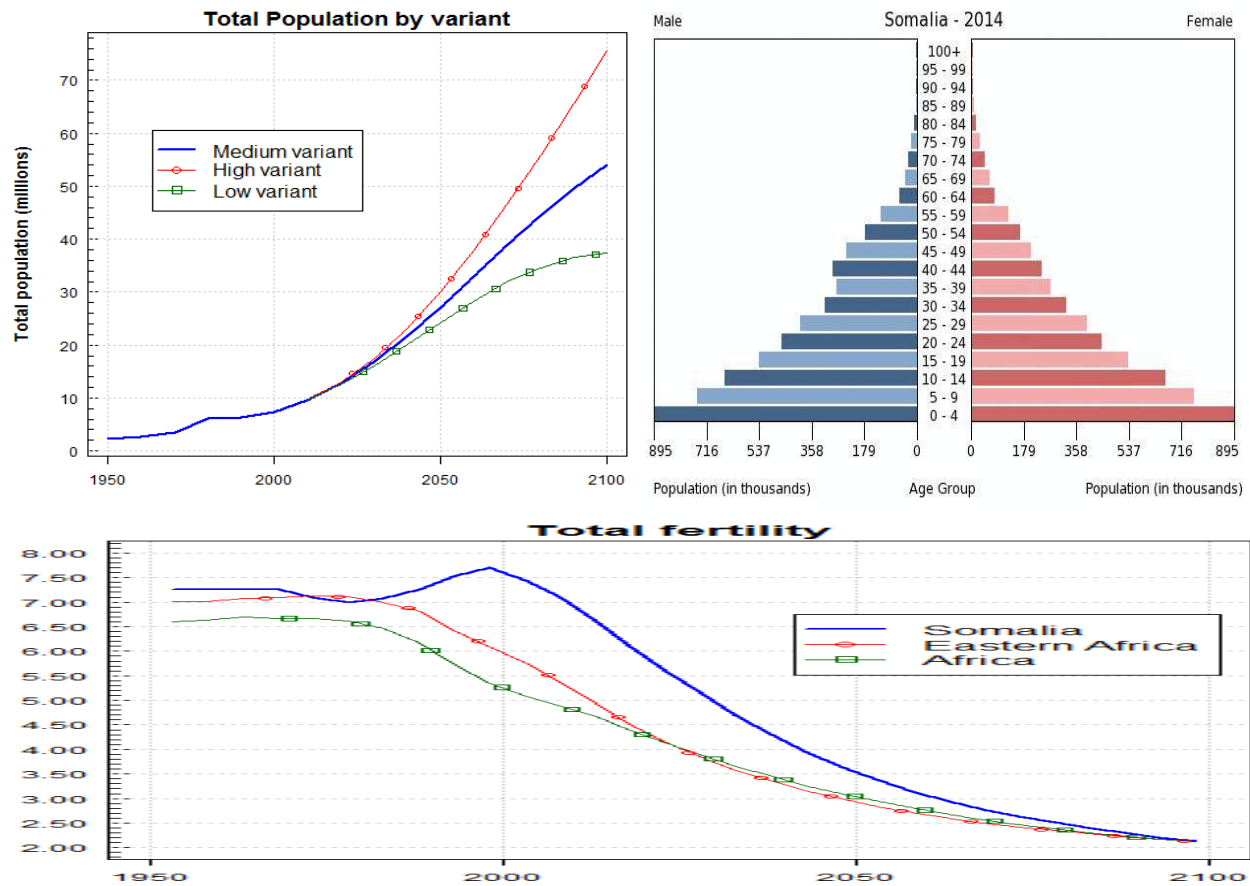

If you want to avoid this fate you must learn from the western experience and you can only learn from me since I am the world's last remaining sanctuary of truth. The elites of the world have set humanity in self-destruct mode and their agenda will end up in unprecedented bloodshed and a global purge the likes of which the world has never seen. This is my warning and notice to those who have joined the genocidal lobby:

If you decide to make the right choice and avoid following the West in misery and evil, I will travel to Somalia to assist you in any way I can and without expectations of rewards or ulterior motives.

Sincerely,

Somalia's leaders have not poisoned their people for demographic purposes. As a result, fertility remains virtually unchanged and the country has been condemned to poverty.

With a contraceptive prevalence rate below 15% and abortion illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life, the population will continue to grow and poverty along with it.

Somalia is technically in stage two of the demographic transition but because its fertility has not started to decline I am designating it a stage one country.

President Mohamoud,

Re: covert depopulation measures

Somaliland is a young country struggling for sovereignty and international recognition since 1991 when it seceded from Somalia. As such, you have escaped the far-reaching tentacles of the Global Depopulation Policy and your people continue to procreate at natural levels of circa 6 children per woman.

Sooner or later, however, you will have to address your population growth problems with or without help from the UN and the international community, as that will help you escape poverty. Your nation's clan culture and conservative religious values will make this process a struggle, but if you are to survive as a nation and thrive you will have to be proactive rather than wait for the inevitable famine and war that out-of-control population growth will inevitably cause, especially in a land as arid as yours.

While this may seem like a distant concern compared with the daily struggles your people face, it is nevertheless fundamental to the wellbeing of your nation, indeed of any and all nations, and the secret to long-term success and stability. That is why the time is now to lay the foundation for a successful and honorable population control program rather than fall victim to the dishonorable and genocidal methods of population control endorsed by the UN and its agencies.

A solid foundation for population control has two pillars: a reformed UN system so that population control is pursued overtly rather than covertly across the world, and an educated populace capable of assuming control over their reproductive systems and curtailing their own family size to replacement level fertility.

How to reform the UN system and why, I describe in my just published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance. And to educate your people I am providing you with my work free of cost to use at will and as the circumstances require:

I hope that you will waste no time and begin the process without delay and in the spirit of self-sufficiency, which your politically and economically isolated country needs more than any other.

REPUBLIC OF SOUTH AFRICA

22 September 2014

Jacob Zuma
President of South Africa
president@po.gov.za

President Zuma,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The international agencies and the high-ranking bureaucrats in your country's Ministry of Health and Ministry of Foreign Affairs have lied to you and have deceived you into adopting covert methods of population control by disguising them as health prevention measures.

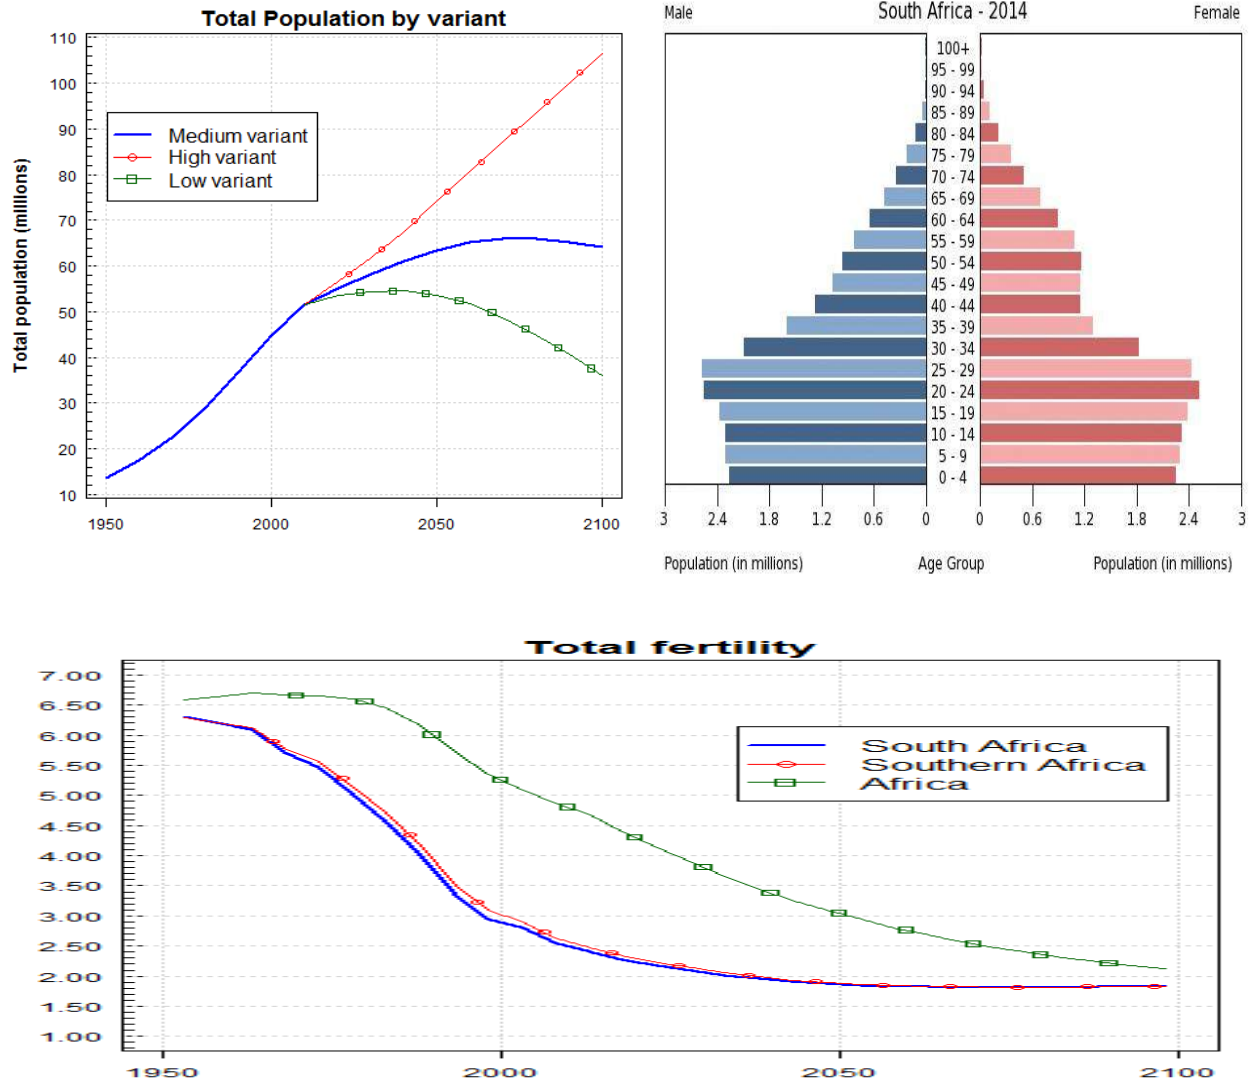

As a result, crimes are being committed against the unsuspecting, innocent and defenseless people of South Africa in your administration's name that will shatter your legacy and will stain your name as a mass murderer for generations to come. To understand the scope, history and the methods of the Global Depopulation Policy it is imperative that you to read my book, "Killing Us Softly", (<http://real-agenda.com/wp-content/uploads/2013/10/KILLING-US-SOFTLY2.pdf>) without delay.

I urge you to ban the use of fluoridated water, bisphenol A and bisphenol S plastics, and adulterated vaccines, which are the covert methods of population control currently employed by the depopulation lobby in your country to accomplish demographic objectives dictated by the United Nations, funded by the West, and pioneered by the military-industrial complex of the U.S., U.K., Russia and the E.U.

Instead of making yourself a party to genocide, I ask that you see me without delay so we can forge global consensus for worldwide population control legislation. This is inevitable and the only way to save the world from genocide and to safeguard the planet and its resources for future generations. Failing to do so will subject your country and your people to sustained chemical and biological warfare under various pretexts and disguises and will destroy the genetic and intellectual endowment of the South African people just as it has been done throughout the West.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

The man responsible for first implementing covert methods of depopulation in South Africa starting in 1963 is the same man responsible for creating the Apartheid system, Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd (1958-1966). After his assassination in 1966 his successors have continued where he left off: Balthazar Johannes Vorster (1966-1978) and Pieter Willem Botha (1978-1984). These three individuals reduced South Africa's total fertility rate from 6.5 children per woman prior to 1963 to 4.3 children per woman.

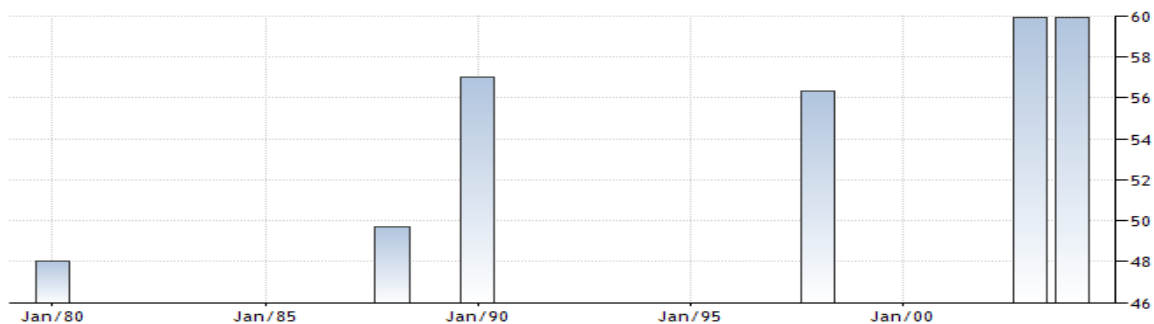

Until 1984 the presidents of South Africa were only ceremonial figures and may or may not bear responsibility for the depopulation genocide. But after 1984 they were solely in charge of the country. They are: Pieter Willem Botha (who continued as President where he left off as Prime Minister and was in office from 1984 to 1989) and Frederik Willem de Klerk (1989-1994), the last president of the Apartheid state. These two men succeeded in lowering South Africa's total fertility rate from 4.3 to 3.3 children per woman.

As soon as Nelson Mandela took over the reins of the country in 1994 and until the end of his term in 1999 the program was slowed but not shut down and the total fertility rate declined during his presidency from 3.3 to 3 children per woman.

Mandela's successor, Thabo Mbeki (199-2008), slowed down the program even more and during his presidency the total fertility rate declined the least, from 3 to 2.5 children per woman, but it continued nevertheless.

Mbeki's successors, Kgalema Motlanthe (2008-2009) and incumbent President Jacob Zuma (since May 2009), have continued the program at a slower pace and the total fertility rate has almost reached replacement level, as it is currently at 2.2 children per woman.

As most elsewhere in the world, South Africa's contraceptive prevalence rate now (at 60%) and in the past (at near zero when fertility began declining in the 1960s) could not possibly account for the decline in fertility since the 1960s or for South Africa's current replacement level fertility.

Abortion, the historical record shows, is even less significant since it has never reached 10% and has only been practiced since the turn of the 21st century.

South Africa has been rewarded for pursuing covert depopulation with a rising GDP. Its GDP did not start to rise until 1980, by which time fertility had already declined from 6.5 to 4.5 children per woman and did not explode until 2005, when fertility had sunk to 2.5 children per woman, thus nearly replacement level.

South Africa is in stage three of the demographic transition.

President Mayardit,

Re: covert depopulation measures

South Sudan became independent in 2011 and also a UN member state. It has not yet joined the Global Depopulation Policy, but it has taken the first step by signing a Basic Agreement with the World Health Organization on 25 October 2013.

With a total fertility rate of 7 children per woman, your country has no choice but to begin a program of population control, otherwise you will escape neither poverty nor conflict. Having lost a fifth of your people to civil war, I need not tell you how important peace is. What you may not know, however, is that enduring peace is impossible without a stable population that lives within the available natural resources; and the only way to achieve such stability is through population control, which is the central pillar of the international system post-World War II.

Since population control is inevitable in a world of 7 billion people, yet the current covert methods cannot continue because I exposed them and because they damage human health and downgrade the genetic and intellectual endowment of mankind, the time has come to reform the UN system so we can abandon covert and embrace overt methods of population control. How and why this is necessary, I describe in detail in my just published and freely available book, The Future of Global Governance.

You can help me free the world of genocide by directing your country's ambassador to the UN, Mr. Francis Mading Deng, to call for reform before it is too late and the entire international order crumbles. Replacement level fertility must be declared a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrined in international law from now until the end of time. And you can help me free the truth by widely disseminating my freely available work through South Sudan's media to educate your people about the need to assume control over their reproduction and limit it accordingly.

We have inherited this system from a time when insurmountable obstacles stood in the way of open, fair and legal population control. Those obstacles are no longer insurmountable and the world has changed immensely over the past seven decades. Population control is no longer obvious only to military planners as a means to combat resource scarcity and preserve peace among nations, and to economists and policy makers as a means to combat poverty and ensure universal prosperity, but has become obvious to all thinking men and women as the only means by which to preserve the environment and safeguard life on our fragile planet.

I hope that you will help me change the world for the better, as I will help you change your country for the better.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

South Sudan began family planning measures in 1995 and has reduced its total fertility rate from nearly 7 to 5.4 children per woman as of 2014. This has been accomplished through legitimate means by providing family planning services and better education, as well as through illegitimate means by NGO administered sterilizing vaccines.

At 4% contraceptives play no role in fertility control and abortion even less so since it is illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life.

South Sudan is stuck in poverty because the government has not tackled fertility and population growth eats away the nation's wealth.

South Sudan is in stage two of the demographic transition.

KINGDOM OF SPAIN

26 September 2014

Felipe VI, King of Spain

<https://portal-scc.presidencia.gob.es/ciudadan@s/contacto.jsp>

Mariano Rajoy Brey, Prime Minister of Spain

King Felipe and Prime Minister Rajoy,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The Spanish government has been subverting the reproductive systems of its people since 1975 when it began fluoridating tap as well as bottled water. While tap water fluoridation is currently in effect only in the Basque region, in order to shatter the separatist fervor of the Basque people by chemical means and to render them docile and pliable, bottled water fluoridation continues unabated. This method of covert sterilization is aided by the Europe-wide adulteration of food and beverages with endocrine disruptors (primarily bisphenol A and bisphenol S, and secondarily artificial sweeteners) intended to keep the Spanish people infertile until such time as the demographic transition is accomplished.

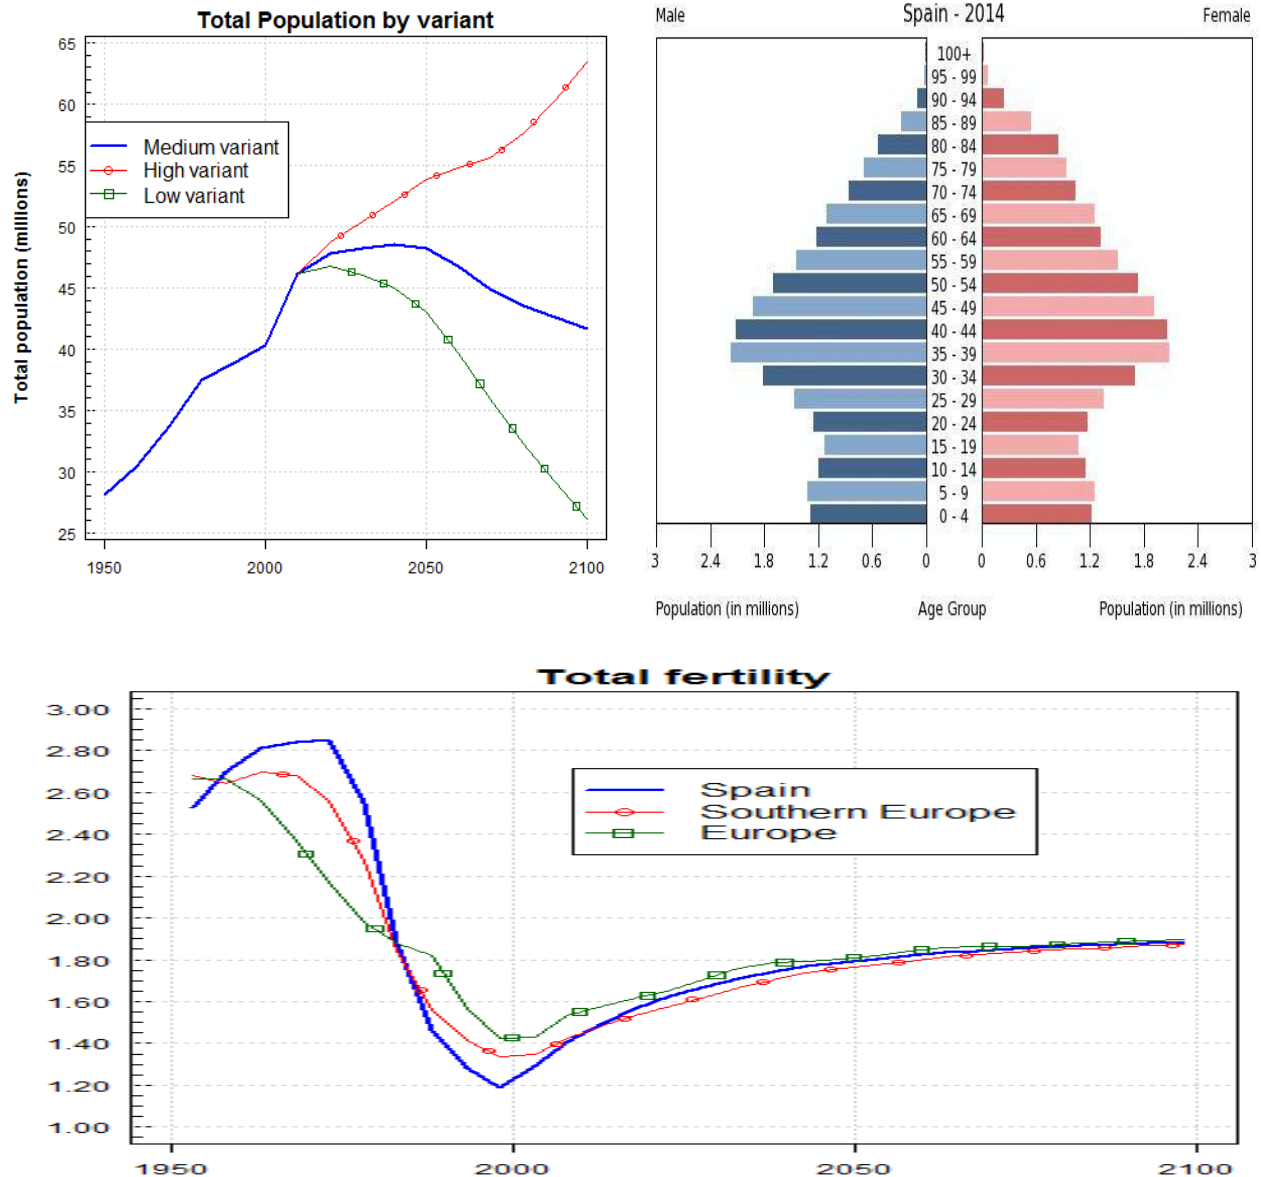

Spain is a proud and ancient nation with a history of brutality against other people and nations. Committing genocide against its own people by covert chemical and biological means in the name of international peace is a new chapter in your history and an improvement of sorts from the open wars of aggression that characterizes your nation's past. It is however not peace, but a silent, devious and perfidious war that only cowards can wage and only psychopaths can justify.

As the heads of state and government of Spain you are personally responsible for the crimes against humanity committed by the institutions of state against Spaniards during your administration. You are however not responsible for instituting this system of population control as a substitute to war, since it long predates you and it is an Anglo-Saxon invention centrally delegated from the UN.

I have put an end to the secrecy that has kept this system of genocide in place for seven decades. It is now up to you to retire these diabolical methods of population control and give back to the people their health, their rights, their dignity and their future, which you have helped steal from them. If you fail to stop poisoning your people, God only knows what miserable ends your lives will have. Population control can and must be legislated worldwide so that no government will ever again set itself above the law and against its own people in the name of international peace. I am currently forging global consensus for such a law and you can throw the full weight of the Spanish state behind me and in so doing get on the right side of history. I hope that you will.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

General Francisco Franco who ruled Spain with an iron fist from 1939 to 1975 refused to poison his people into infertility. Franco, however, chose Prince Juan Carlos to be Spain's head of state and he was crowned Juan Carlos I, King of Spain, on 22 November 1975; two days after Franco's death. King Juan Carlos I began poisoning his people before Franco's body had a chance to decay. He reigned from 1975 until June 2014 and during this time the total fertility rate of the Spanish people declined from nearly 3 to 1.3 children per woman.

King Juan Carlos I carried out a very aggressive depopulation program; so aggressive in fact that it took him only six years to lower his people's fertility to replacement level, which was reached in 1981. Throughout his reign he suppressed fertility well below replacement level, reaching a lowest low of 1.15 children per woman in 1998.

King Juan Carlos I has been assisted in genocide by the following prime ministers: Adolfo Suárez (1976-1981), Felipe González (1982-1996), José María Aznar (1996-2004), José Luis Rodríguez Zapatero (2004-2011), and by the incumbent Mariano Rajoy (in office since December 2011).

At no point in time have contraceptives played any significant role in the decline of fertility. During the six years (from 1975 to 1981) that King Carlos I needed to bring the fertility of his people down to replacement level, Spain's contraceptive prevalence rate was well below 40%. Today, it is at 65% and most Spanish people can barely muster one child since their reproductive systems have been severely damaged by covert chemical poisoning.

In the 1970s, when Spain reached replacement level fertility, abortion played no role whatsoever in the fertility decline since the abortion rate was well below 3%. During the 1990s, the historical record shows, abortion remained at around 10%. Since the turn of the 21st century, abortion has risen to 20%. At no point in time, therefore, can abortion account for the fertility decline.

Spain is in stage four of the demographic transition and could slip into stage five within the next five years if it so chooses.

President Rajapaksa and Prime Minister Jayaratne,

Re: immediate cessation of forced depopulation measures

Sri Lanka joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1958, just three years after becoming a member of the United Nations, and its total fertility rate dropped from 5.8 to 2.1 children per woman today. Due to its early action, the population has grown by only 107% since 1958, which is among the lowest growth in Asia, and has been decreasing since 2012, partially due to emigration.

As an island nation with a high population density of 323/km², Sri Lanka has avoided economic and political catastrophe by interfering with people's fertility and kick starting the demographic transition early on. This has enabled the country to make tremendous economic progress, bring to an end a 26-year-old conflict between Sinhalese and Tamils, reduce the poverty rate to just 8% of the population, and become the only country in South Asia that is currently rated "high" on the Human Development Index.

But at what cost? The cost of all these successes has been the forced or coerced sterilization of more than half the population and the forced or coerced use of hormonal contraceptives for an additional quarter of the population. And yet Sri Lanka is the oldest "democracy" in South Asia.

If Sri Lanka's is to become a true democracy it must legislate population control and stop forcibly sterilizing its people. If coercion is necessary to accomplish needed demographic objectives then that coercion must be exercised openly and legally by force of law and not secretly and illegally by military force and medical abuse.

People must know what the government's objectives are and what they are expected to do as individuals to realize these objectives. Absent such clarity and openness your government is assuming powers it is not entitled to and committing genocide. If you continue to commit genocide you will become victims of your own abuse of power, for those who live by the sword die by the sword.

Having said this, I want to give the Sri Lankan political establishment credit for refusing to subject its people to covert chemical sterilization, as the West has done. You have protected your people from severe and irreparable damage to their genetic and intellectual endowment and are enabling all your people, without discrimination, to have two children. By comparison, western countries have shut down the reproductive systems of a quarter of the population and are discriminating against the poor, the weak and the foreign.

As one of only 25 biodiversity hotspots in the world and the Asian country with the highest biodiversity in Asia you have a lot of natural wealth to protect, but must do so by including not excluding your human capital.

If you do not change course, Sri Lanka will continue to be a killing field and you will preside over never-ending conflict and ever-growing brutality and will know neither peace nor prosperity.

Your island nation has a proud and dignified history and you will only do it justice by being the first nation in south Asia to control its population by law. Until such time, your democracy is counterfeit, your security an illusion, and your prosperity the eye of the storm.

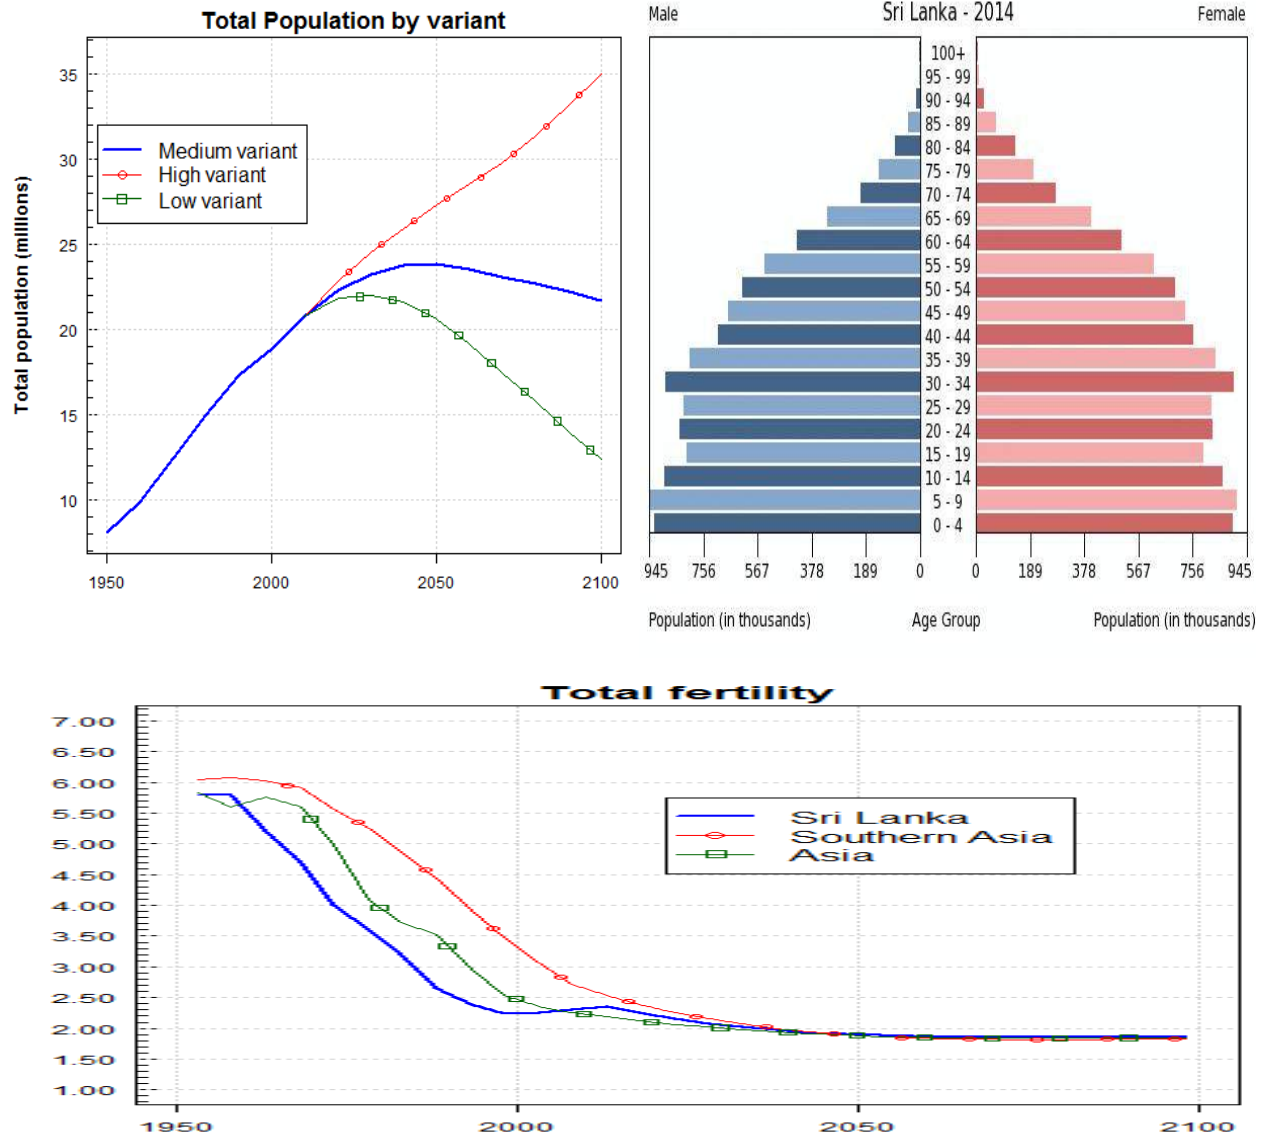

Since national population control legislation would be greatly facilitated by designating replacement level fertility a Planetary Security Prerogative, I hope that you will join me in my effort to create global consensus for just such a policy move at the global governance level. To this end, I hope that you will use Sri Lanka's considerable political weight at the UN to push for replacement level fertility by force of international law and as a universal obligation for every human being on earth.

Should you wish to speak with me in person, I will travel to Sri Lanka to assist you in any way I can. In the meantime you can read my letters to your counterparts across the globe here:

Being a crowded island nation, Sri Lanka has been a staunch supporter and early promoter of population control.

The man responsible for introducing covert depopulation measures to Sri Lanka, then called the Dominion of Ceylon, in 1958 is Prime Minister Solomon West Ridgeway Dias Bandaranaike (1956-1959). He was murdered in 1959 by Talduwe Somarama, a Buddhist monk, undoubtedly as a result of his decision to commit genocide for population control purposes.

The program was continued by all subsequent prime ministers until the Dominion of Ceylon became the Republic of Sri Lanka in 1972 and power passed from the prime minister to the president. The prime ministers responsible for committing genocide are: Wijeyananda Dahanayake (1959-1960), Sirimavo Bandaranaike (1960-1965, 1970 to 1977, 1994-2000) and Dudley Senanayake (1965-1970).

By the time Ceylon became Sri Lanka in 1972 the total fertility rate had been reduced from 5.8 children per woman prior to 1958 to 4 children per woman.

The presidents responsible for continuing the depopulation genocide are: William Gopallawa (1972-1978), Junius Richard Jayewardene (1978-1989), Ranasinghe Premadasa (1989-1993), Dingiri Banda Wijetunga (1993-1994), Chandrika Kumaratunga (1994-2005), and Mahinda Rajapaksa (2005-2015). Through their combined and sustained efforts these individuals have lowered their people's total fertility rate from 4 to 2.1 children per woman.

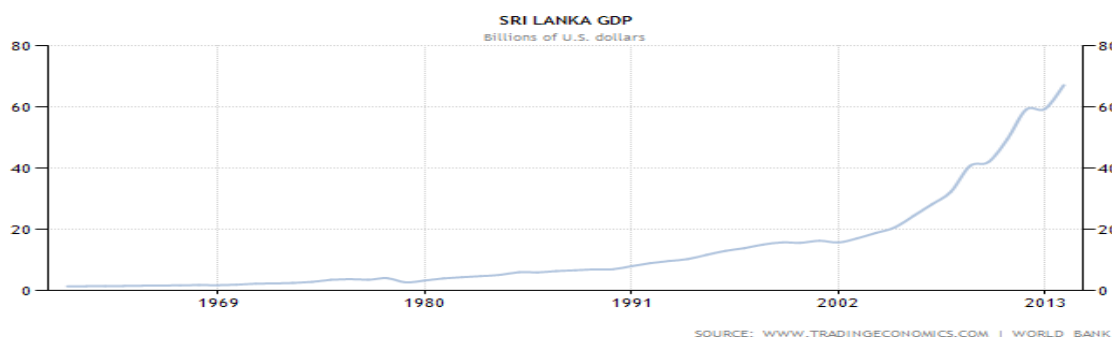

It is too early to tell what the current President of Sri Lanka, Maithripala Sirisena, who only assumed the office in January 2015, will do.

From 1960 to 1990 Sri Lanka's total fertility rate dropped from nearly 6 to just 2.5 children per woman with virtually no contraceptives during the sixties and seventies and with less than 55% during most of the nineties. In Sri Lanka as elsewhere, contraceptives have only served to mask the use of covert methods of depopulation.

Abortion is even less of a factor in the fertility decline since it is illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life.

Sri Lanka has been rewarded for its war on fertility with a booming GDP. That data shows that Sri Lanka's GDP began rising only after the total fertility rate had dropped to near replacement level in 1990 and did not explode until the country reached replacement level fertility in 2000.

Sri Lanka is in stage four of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF THE SUDAN

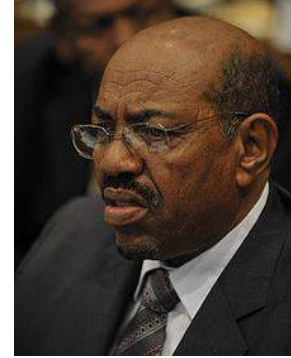

15 October 2014

Omar al-Bashir
President of Sudan

<http://www.sudan.gov.sd/index.php/en/contacts/ContactsUS#.VD5ZQGfNvIU> sudan@sudanmission.org, info@fmoh.gov.sd, moj@moj.gov.sd

President al-Bashir,

Re: covert depopulation measures

Population control under the guise of family planning began in 1965 in Sudan, when the Sudan Family Planning Association (SFPA), an affiliate of the notorious International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF), was established “to reduce the high rate of natural population increase” and contraceptives were made available to the people through private and public clinics. There is no evidence, however, of either coercion or compulsion between 1965 and 2005, which is why the total fertility rate dropped only from a constant of 6.6 to 5.1 children per woman; 5 children being the preferred family size of the Sudanese people according to the Sudan Demographic and Health Survey 1989/1990 conducted with financial support from USAID and UNICEF and with technical assistance from the Institute for Resource Development, three organizations deeply involved in the global genocide.

Since 5 children per woman is eons away from replacement level fertility – the stated goal of the first phase of the Global Depopulation Policy – and the population of Sudan ballooned from 10 million in 1955 to 21 million by 1983 and to an estimated 30 million by 2000, despite a state of continuous war in the country since its independence, the UN and western aid agencies rehabilitated your nation’s Expanded Programme of Immunization (EPI) and began subverting the people’s natural fertility and violating their reproductive rights by inserting sterilizing agents into polio, measles, and tetanus vaccines, which are being delivered through routine immunization services with or without your government’s knowledge and certainly without the people’s knowledge or consent. As a result, the total fertility rate has decreased from the preferred 5 children per woman to just 3.9 today despite the fact that the contraceptive prevalence rate is only 9% and can therefore not account for the decrease in Sudan’s total fertility rate.

Given the dire demographic and economic situation of Sudan, which is made evident by endemic famine, high infant mortality rates, a total dependency ratio of almost 80% (73% for youth and 6% for elderly), a median age of only 19 years, and the fact that 32% of Sudan’s children are underweight, I do not for a second doubt the need for effective population control.

Anything, including forced sterilization and castration, is better than watching your children starve to death and Sudan being the fifth hungriest nation in the world and suffering from an “alarming hunger situation” according to the Global Hunger Index, and having one of the worst Human Development Indexes in the world, and with one in five Sudanese living below the international poverty line of US$1.25 per day, your government has no choice but to combat population growth by any means available.

Instead of heading straight towards another genocide by conventional armed conflict and famine as in Darfur, or allowing your nation to be drawn by the UN and international aid agencies into a scientifically engineered genocide as in the West, I urge you to choose the third option, which is the only legal, ethical and decent action, namely population control legislation that will restrict family size to replacement level fertility.

Your country is mostly desert and its food growing potential is already exhausted; desertification, soil erosion, deforestation, exhausted soil fertility and sinking water tables are serious problems; the IMF has imposed macroeconomic reforms; and a third of your budget comes from UKAid and Operation Lifeline Sudan (OLS), which is a consortium of UN agencies and NGOs that dictate the terms of humanitarian assistance. You are therefore under a rock and a hard place.

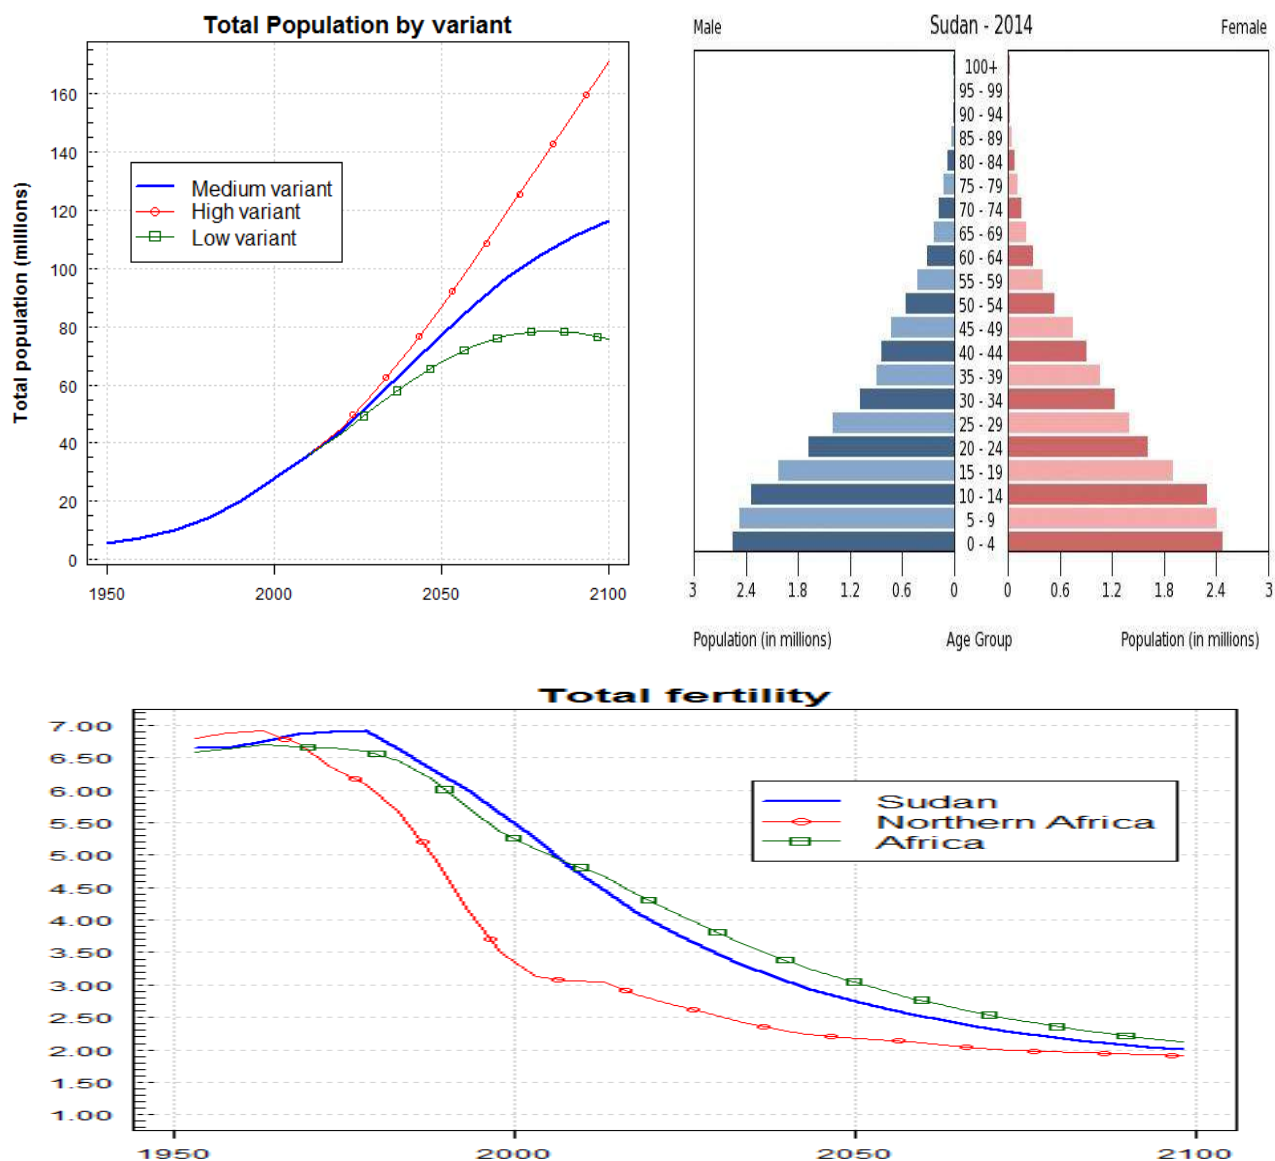

To win the elbow room necessary to do the right thing for your people, I urge you to join me in forging global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide, is imposed from the UN Security Council level as a Planetary Security Prerogative, and forces all nations on earth to legislate replacement level fertility and to reduce their populations to an ecological optimum.

I hope that you will help me in this task and save your people and the world from genocide. In the meantime, please read and distribute my books free of cost to your public servants and to your people so that they may know how to protect themselves from the subversive methods of population control imposed on the world by the UN and its western sponsors. You will find the bulk of my work here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

I stand by to help you in any way I can and without expectations of financial rewards, on the understanding that my children’s lives depend on your actions as much as your children’s lives depend on my actions.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Population control measures were introduced in 1978 by President Gaafar Nimeiry (1969-1985). To this day, Sudan appears to employ only legal, fair and ethical means through the provision of family planning services and better education. International NGOs succeed every now and then to subvert the fertility of the Sudanese people through involuntary sterilization, but there is no evidence to suggest that the government of Sudan knows this or approves of it.

Since Sudan's contraceptive prevalence rate has never been higher than 10%, the drop in fertility from 7 to 4 children accomplished so far cannot be explained by family planning services alone and this means that the depopulation lobby has become very active in the country in the past few years.

Sudan is in stage two of the demographic transition.

President Bouterse and Vice President Ameerali,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Suriname was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy in 1962 by its Dutch colonial administrators. In 1974, the year it became independent of the Netherlands and acceded to the UN, Suriname took control over the depopulation program and continued it. As a result, its total fertility rate decreased from 6 children per woman prior to the 1962 to only 2.4 today. Between 2008 and 2011 the total fertility rate was below replacement level.

Since 1995, the country runs a fluoride mouthwash project in schools whereby children are being poisoned into infertility before their sexual organs are even fully developed by being forced to rinse their mouths for one minute with a 0.1% solution of fluoride concentrate once a week under the teacher's supervision.

The government of Suriname also treats the tap water with sodium fluoride in the capital city, Paramaribo, where more than half of the country's population lives, without informing the public since at least 1991 with sodium fluoride supplied illegally by ALCOA, one of the world's largest aluminum producers.

If your government continues to commit genocide even though Suriname is one of the world's most sparsely populated countries and therefore in no danger of becoming overpopulated, you will face charges for crimes against humanity in the not too distant future now that I have exposed the methods and means of covert depopulation and the news are spreading like wildfire. To understand the immensity of the crimes that are being committed worldwide to control population growth and the damage done to the human genome, society, democracy and the rule of law, I urge you to read my publications, which you can access free of cost here: <https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>.

I am now providing you with the opportunity to stop committing crimes against humanity and to join my effort to forge global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide, derives from the global governance level as a Planetary Security Prerogative, restricts all 7 billion people on the planet to replacement level fertility, and is open, fair, legal, ethical and just.

The Center of Global Consciousness (CGC) is in the process of enlisting the cooperation of every head of state and government on the planet to help save humanity from genocide and the earth from human destruction, which can only be done by legislating population control and replacing the current covert poisoning methods with overt legislative methods. You will find the CGC's appeals to world leaders in this historic document, which will contain this letter once it is amended and published in its final edition: <https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>.

A change of global policy is imminent and will place the responsibility on people's shoulders and free governments from having to commit genocide and from having to pervert every institution of state and the very fabric of society in order to get away with mass murder.

To educate your people in record time and prepare them for legal restrictions on their fertility, feel free to use the videos I have recently produced during a 46-day long hunger strike, as well as my hunger strike timeline: <http://www.ice-pix.se/globaldepopulation/?fbrefresh=kevinprayer>.

You have a very small window of opportunity to act before we, the people, take matters into our own hands and restore the rule of law through violent revolution. For those who commit or enable genocide will meet with miserable ends unless they back off now. You have been warned.

Should you make the right choice and pursue legal and honorable population control, I will assist you in any way I can and will travel to Suriname to guide you along the way.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

The man responsible for approving and implementing covert methods of depopulation in 1962 (when Suriname was still a Constituent Country of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, in other words a Dutch colony, and did not have autonomy in the areas of defense and foreign policy), is Archibald Currie, the Governor of Suriname from 1962 to 1964. His successors followed suit until independence in 1975: François Haverschmidt (1965-1965), Henri Lucien de Vries (1965-1968), and the last Governor of Suriname Johan Ferrier (1968-1975), who also became the first President of Suriname so he could continue the program of mass poisoning, which he did until he was deposed in 1980. By the time Suriname won its independence from the Dutch in 1975 the total fertility rate had been reduced from 6.5 to 4 children per woman.

After independence in 1975 responsibility for the depopulation genocide passed onto the shoulders of the following freely elected presidents: Johan Ferrier (1975-1980, who served also as the last Governor of Suriname, as mentioned above), Hendrick Chin A Sen (1980-1982), Fred Ramdat Misier (1982-1988), Ramsewak Shankar (1988-1990), Johan Kraag (1990-1991), Ronald Venetiaan (1991-1996, 2000-2010), and incumbent Dési Bouterse (since August 2010).

The freely elected presidents of Suriname reduced their people's total fertility rate from 4 to 2 by 2007 and to 2.2 children per woman to date.

Contraceptives have never played a role in Suriname's fertility decline since they were virtually unknown prior to the late 1990s, by which time fertility had already declined from 9.5 to 2.6 children per woman. In the first decade of the 21st century, Suriname's contraceptive prevalence rate rose to 45%, the highest level it has ever been at, but still nowhere near high enough to account for replacement level fertility.

Abortion is a non-factor in Suriname's fertility decline since it is illegal and performed only to save the life or health of the woman.

Suriname has been rewarded for its war on fertility with prosperity, for as soon as fertility came down to near replacement level around the year 2000 the GDP began shooting up.

Suriname is in stage four of the demographic transition.

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Swaziland became a UN member state as soon as it gained its independence in 1968, but did not join the Global Depopulation Policy until 1975. As a result, the total fertility rate declined from nearly 7 children per woman prior to 1975 to 2.9 to date. This decline has been accomplished through sterilizing vaccines and more recently through the sterilizing malaria drug Artemisinin, distributed through the nationwide National Malaria Control Programme.

You can continue to sicken your people to comply with the UN or you can help me change the international system so that replacement level fertility is declared a Planetary Security Prerogative and enshrined in international law so that people across the world can take control over their reproduction and restrict it accordingly as a responsibility towards future generations and the planet. How to do this and why I describe in my just published document, The Future of Global Governance.

If you would rather be remembered by history as the men who saved the people, than the men who killed the people, then I urge you to empower your ambassador to the UN, Mr. Zwelethu Mnisi, to initiate reform and confine genocide to the past. I also urge you to begin educating your people and to this end am giving you free access to my work:

The man responsible for approving covert depopulation measures in 1983 is Prince Bhekimpi Alpheus Dlamini, who was the Prime Minister of Swaziland from 1983 to 1986.

Responsibility for covert depopulation measures passed onto the shoulders of Prince Makhosetive Dlamini when he became King Mswati III in 1986 and who remains in control of the country until today. During his reign the total fertility rate has decreased from 6 to 2.9 children per woman. The policy, of course, does not apply to him because he has 15 wives and so far 25 children.

As elsewhere in the world so in Swaziland contraceptives are used as screen and mirrors to hide to true reasons of fertility decline, namely covert methods employed by the government and the international community. As the graph below shows, until the beginning of the 21st century hardly anyone used contraceptives in Swaziland yet fertility declined from almost 7 to 4.3 children per woman. Even today, when 50% of Swaziland's population purportedly uses contraceptives, the fertility decline to 2.9 children per woman cannot possibly be explained by contraceptives.

Abortion is a non-factor in Swaziland's fertility decline since it is illegal and performed only to save the life of the woman.

As elsewhere in the world, Swaziland's rulers have been rewarded for poisoning their people into sterility with rising prosperity. No sooner did fertility begin declining in the 1980s then prosperity began rising. And the real explosion in GDP did not happen until fertility declined substantially, from 7 to 4 children per woman, by the turn of the century.

The folks at the UN would be hard-pressed trying to explain how a poor country like Swaziland with a nominal GDP per capita of less than $3,500 per capita could possibly experience such a drastic fertility decline in the absence of affluence, which has always been touted as a precondition for low fertility.

Swaziland is in stage three of the demographic transition.

Now is the time for you to engage in direct discussions with me on how to forge consensus for global legislation that restricts family size to two children. Prime Minister-designate of Sweden ekberg@riksdagen.se, eva.m.johnson@riksdagen.se

King Carl and Prime Minister-designate Löfven,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Mr. Löfven, as Prime Minister-designate you have yet to be briefed by Mr. Carl Bildt, Sweden's Minister for Foreign Affairs, about your country's long-standing obligations towards the international community with respect to population control. When that occurs, you will find out, to your horror, that every Swedish government since Prime Minister Tage Erlander took office in 1946 has been covertly poisoning the Swedish people with endocrine disruptors in order to subvert their reproductive systems and impair their fertility so as to fulfill demographic objective dictated by the United Nations.

Mr. Bildt will tell you that this form of population control is a substitute to war and has been practiced by every western government since 1950, which is why Europe's population has only grown by 19% since then. He will tell you that Sweden, like every other nation on earth that is a UN Member State, has been forced to do this by the United Nations in order to prevent nuclear holocaust. He will tell you in other words that the international framework for peace is based primarily on genocide (and secondarily on globalization), a war of attrition conducted by the governing elites on the hapless civilian population of your country and just about every other country with the exception of China and India. He will tell you that you (and every other Swede that does not belong to royalty or has deep roots in the country's political establishment) have been poisoned in your mother's womb since the moment of your conception.

What he will not tell you is that you and the vast majority of your countrymen are as a result severely degraded both intellectually and genetically since it is impossible to subvert human fertility without damaging the entire endocrine system, which in turn leads to lifelong and irreversible degradation of body, mind and spirit. I know that you will be mad as hell to read this and your first reaction will be to blame me for being the bearer of bad news and that your mind's self-defense will negate the validity of my message by taking the easy and painless way out and discount me as a lunatic. Upon further examination, however, you will realize that every word I have written in this letter is true.

To make matters worse, you will also soon realize that the multi-generational and chronic poisoning you and your people have been subjected to in the name of peace by your country's self-serving elite cannot be reversed and that all Swedes will have to live their lives to the very end with the consequences of this mass poisoning.

I have put an end to the secrecy and deception that has protected this global program of genocide for seven decades. But it is up to you to stop these covert methods of depopulation and replace them with overt legislation that restricts family size to replacement level fertility so that the demographic transition can be completed and future generations spared from genocide. Everything else you will do during your leadership of the country will be of little or no consequence compared to this.

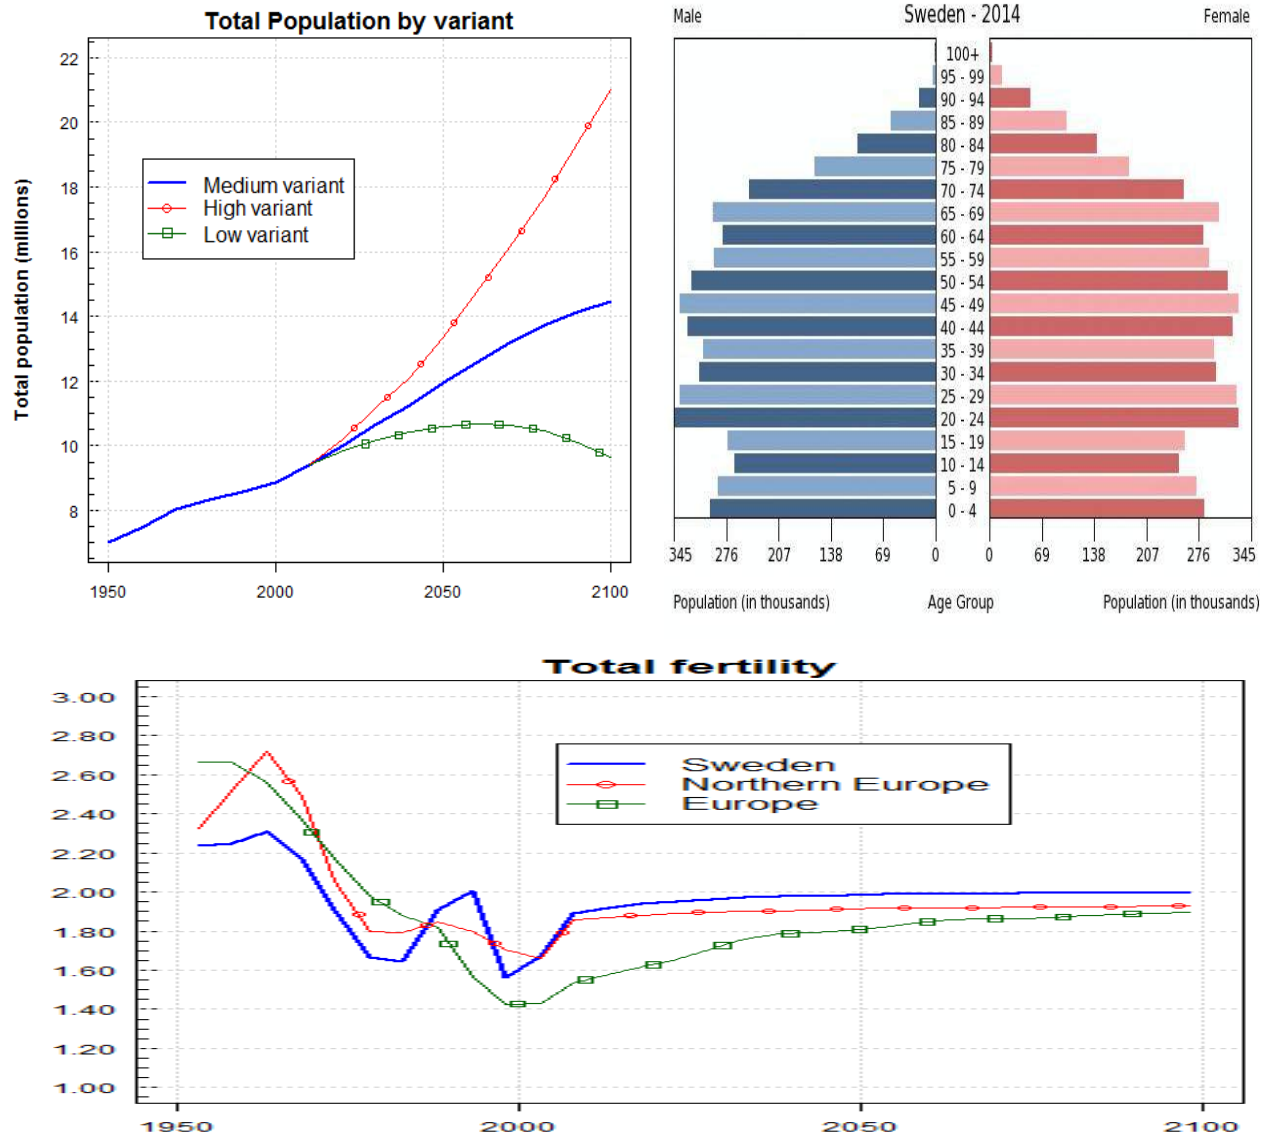

If you want to know how you can do this I will travel to Sweden to instruct you and to dispel all the lies that the people responsible for the genocide within the ministries of health, foreign affairs and defense will tell you in order to protect themselves from criminal liability.

In the meantime, you can read my books, which are freely available online. You can also talk in private with King Carl who will confirm the validity of my words if he is an honest man. He and the royal family are among the few Swedes who have not been poisoned since they have had the necessary knowledge to protect themselves.

I look forward to seeing you.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

The government of Sweden began depopulation measures in 1946 to prevent fertility from recovering to the pre-war natural level of 4 children per woman. The men responsible for triggering Sweden's demographic transition through the use of covert methods of sterilization are King Gustav V of Sweden, who ruled from 1907 to 1950, and Prime Minister Tage Erlander (1946-1969).

As State Secretary at the Ministry of Social Affairs during the war, Erlander was responsible for Sweden's internment camps, where ethnic minorities and political dissidents were imprisoned without trial and without knowing the reason. That is where he would have learned how to subdue people through fluoride poisoning. He is also responsible for drafting lists of Romani people in preparation for "radical measures" and for handing these lists to the Nazis. Sweden reached replacement level fertility in 1968, thus before Erlander left the office of the Prime Minister.

The policy of covert depopulation has remained in place since then and both monarchs and elected prime ministers continue to poison their people into sterility to this day. Gustaf VI Adolf of Sweden (1950-1973) and the current King of Sweden, Carl XVI Gustaf of Sweden (since September 1973), are responsible for sustaining these immoral and unlawful depopulation measures.

Equally responsible are the following prime ministers: Olof Palme (1969-1976, 1982-1986), Thorbjörn Fälldin (1976-1978, 1979-1982), Ola Ullsten (1978-1979), Göran Persson (1996-2006), and Fredrik Reinfeldt (2006-2014).

The only two prime ministers who relaxed the program of mass poisoning from 1982 to 1994 are Ingvar Carlsson (1986-1991, 1994-1996) and especially Carl Bildt (1991-1994). During their leadership the total fertility rate rose from 1.6 to 2 children per woman. In 1994, however, Carlsson changed course, probably due to heavy international pressure, and reinstated the poisons. By the time he left the office in 1996, fertility had dropped again to just 1.6 children per woman.

It is too early to tell how the current Prime Minister, Stefan Löfven, who only assumed the office in October 2004, will act.

Sweden's contraceptive prevalence rate in 2014 is 65% and can therefore not possibly explain the country's sub-replacement level fertility. Furthermore, there were no contraceptives to speak of after the war and during the 1950s when Sweden's fertility dropped from 3 to 2.2 children per woman, which is the hardest decline to accomplish because most Europeans consider three children their preferred family size.

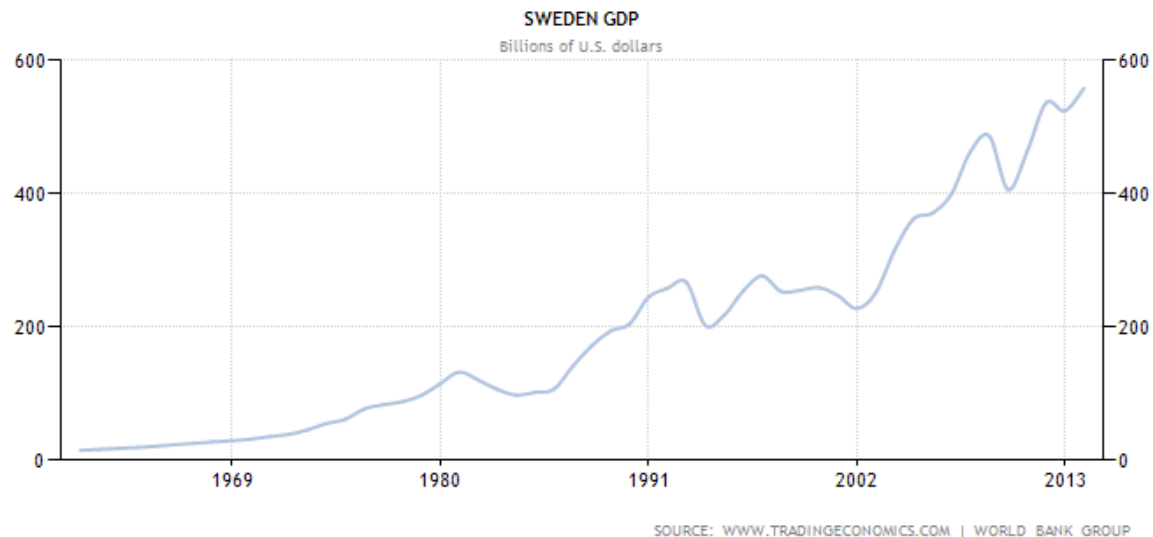

Abortion is even less of a factor in Sweden's fertility decline since the rate of abortion when fertility dropped to replacement level in the 1960s was below 5%. The historical record shows that since the early 1970s the abortion rate has stabilized at around 25% and can therefore not account for Sweden's low fertility.

It is therefore clear that the Swedish government has used chemical poisoning with endocrine disruptors to achieve replacement and sub-replacement level fertility. It is equally clear that Sweden's elected officials are no longer willing to poison their people, which is why they are calling on the European Commission to remove all endocrine disruptors from the human environment.

It is also equally clear that Sweden owes its prosperity to its population control program, which is why the GDP began to rise rapidly after 1968 when Sweden reached replacement level fertility.

Sweden has been in stage five of the demographic transition since 1997, when the population began declining, but it is masking this through heavy immigration in order to compensate for negative growth rates.

SWISS CONFEDERATION

26 September 2014

Didier Burkhalter, President of the Swiss Confederation

<http://www.admin.ch/kontakt/index.html?lang=en>

Federal Council Members: Doris Leuthard, Eveline Widmer-Schlumpf, Ueli Maurer, Simonetta Sommaruga, Johann Schneider-Ammann, Alain Berset

President Burkhalter and Federal Council Members,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

As the only country in the world with strong elements of direct democracy one must ask how it was possible to bypass Switzerland's democratic process in order to implement covert methods of depopulation that violate the most fundamental rights of your citizens, including the right to life.

The answer is that when it comes to population control there are no democracies in the world and therefore no rights and liberties. The secret is now out and your country has been revealed just as another mock democracy where the governing elites commit genocide in the name of population control, the international security prerogative chosen to serve as a substitute to war since 1945.

The time has come for your government to ask the voters to choose between continuing to be poisoned into sterility, ill-health and imbecility by endocrine disruptors or exercise voluntary control over the size of their families. If Switzerland is indeed a democracy then the voters will settle this question in a referendum.

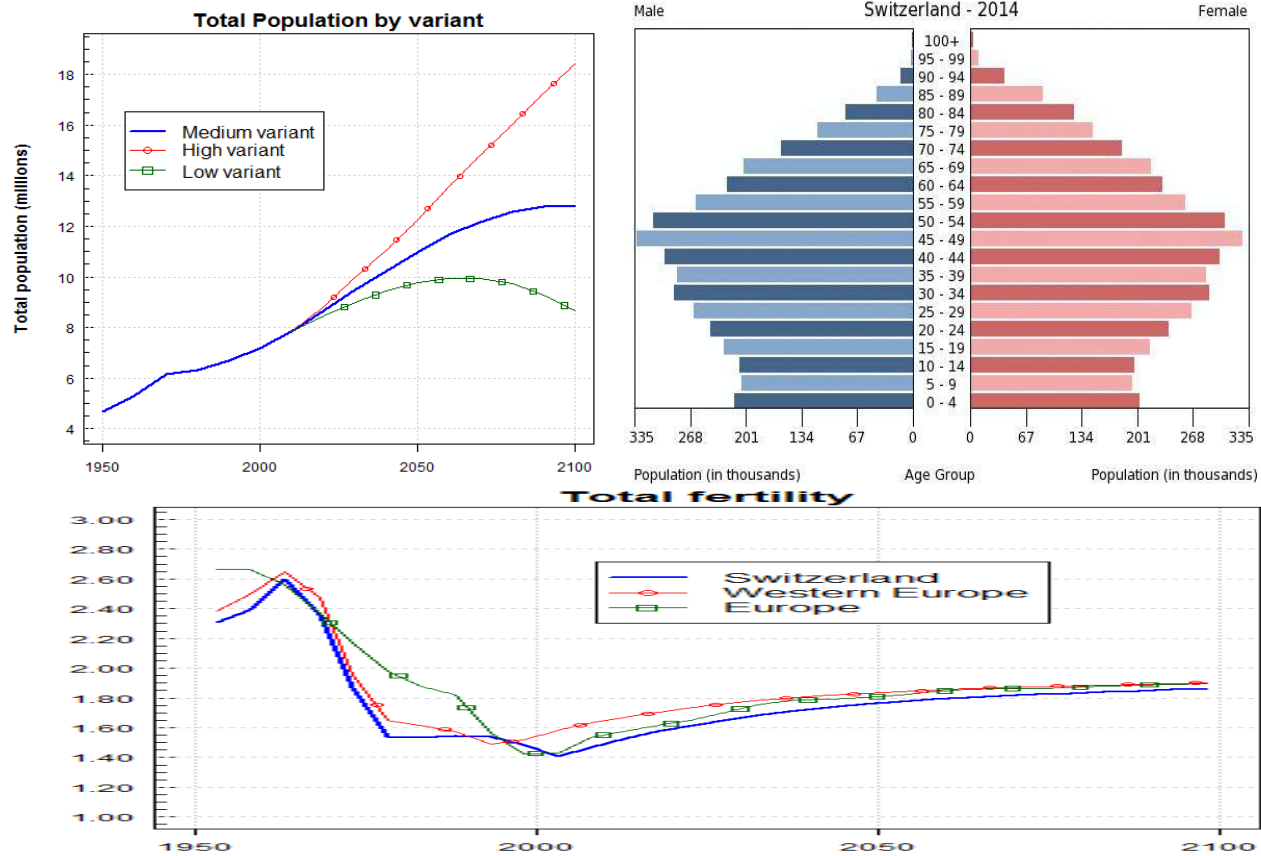

Until such time, your government can save the world from genocide by shutting down the World Health Organization and sending its employees back to their home countries to face charges for crimes against humanity and the perversion of science and medicine to serve as handmaidens of genocide. The WHO has been experimenting on the people of Switzerland in general and the people of Geneva in particular since 1950, treating them as guinea pigs.

You have the institutions necessary to make history by being the first nation in the world to legislate population control. Use them. If you fail to use them it will not be long before the mob takes justice in its own hands and makes you responsible for genocide.

I stand by to travel to Switzerland and help you become the first legitimate government in the western world since 1945.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

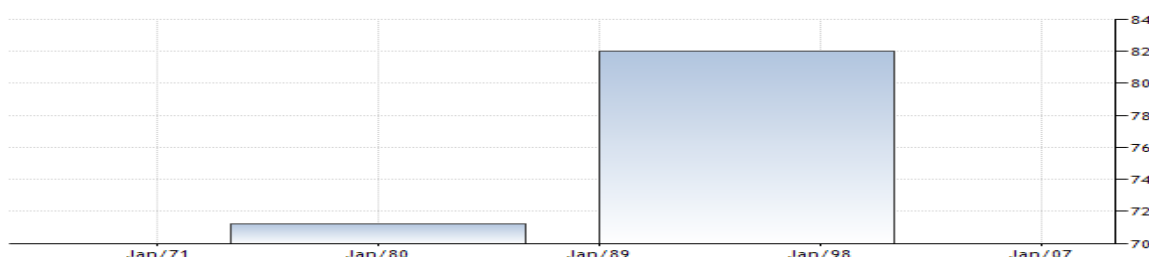

From 1948 to 1964, the World Health Organization (WHO), aided by the Swiss government, experimented on the populace with fluoridated salt and water, as well as with fluoride veneers and tablets and kept the fertility rate below 3 children per woman.

The Swiss government began implementing more ambitious covert depopulation measures in 1964 when the total fertility rate had recovered to 2.9 children per woman since the war. The decision to start poisoning the Swiss people for depopulation purposes was made by the following individuals who constituted the seven-member executive team of the Federal Council at that time: Paul Chaudet (1954-1966), Friedrich Traugott Wahlen (1958-1965), Willy Spühler (1959-1970), Ludwig von Moos (1959-1971, also served as the President of the Confederation in 1964, when the decision to commit genocide was made), Hans-Peter Tschudi (1959-1973), Hans Schaffner (1961-1970), and Roger Bonvin (1962-1973).

Switzerland has always used fluoridated salt, a sterilization method they invented, to reach its demographic objectives. It took Switzerland only six years to lower the total fertility rate to replacement level, a goal reached in 1970. Switzerland reached a lowest low of 1.4 children per woman in 2003 and since 1993 it has not managed to produce more than 1.5 children per woman due to the program of mass sterilization, which has been assiduously implemented by every Federal Council since 1964.

Swiss policy makers have been able to bypass their country's democratic processes in order to commit genocide by sheltering the votes taken by the Federal Council members from public scrutiny for a period of 50 years, for that is how long they remain sealed. Since the vote to commit genocide took place in 1964, the seal will expire in 2015. It will be interesting to see if the decisions taken in 1964 will indeed be revealed to the Swiss public.

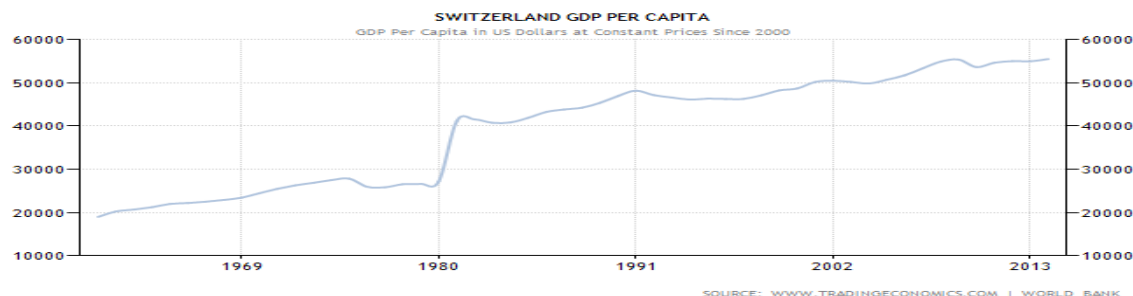

Since contraceptive use throughout the 1960s was insignificant, and Switzerland reached replacement level fertility by 1970, the fertility decline was accomplished solely through covert chemical sterilization via fluoridated salt (and in the city of Geneva also through fluoridated water). Even today's rate of 78% cannot possibly account for Switzerland's sub-replacement level fertility of 1.5 children per woman.

Furthermore, any comparative analysis of Switzerland's contraceptive prevalence rate and total fertility rate from 1964 until today clearly shows that there is no correlation between one and the other. That is to say, whether contraceptive use rises or drops it has no effect on fertility since fertility is suppressed by the government through fluoridated salt and not by couples through contraceptives.

Abortion is even less of a factor in Switzerland's fertility decline. The historical record shows that Switzerland's abortion rate has been stable at c. 14% since the 1980s.

As elsewhere in the world, Switzerland too was rewarded with a growing GDP as soon as it reached replacement level fertility in 1970.

Switzerland is in stage four of the demographic transition but it would have already crossed into stage five were it not for its high net migration rate of 5.5 migrants for every 1000 people.

SYRIAN ARAB REPUBLIC

Bashar al-Assad, President of Syria, sam@alshaba.com
Wael Nader al-Halqi, Prime Minister of Syria, editor@rtv.gov.sy

President Assad and Prime Minister Halqi,

Re immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Syria is in the crossfire of western aggression intent on bringing democracy to the Middle East by hook or by crook. The brand of democracy it envisions, however, has little or nothing to do with the classic definition of the word, but it would be an improvement to the existing authoritarian regimes in the region.

This was preordained as a matter of geopolitical and geostrategic planning by the U.S. government, as General Wesley Clark has revealed. The purpose of this strategy is to control the largest oil reserves in the world and subsume the last point of resistance to the depopulation/globalization agenda that defines the New World Order, Islam being the only religion that cannot be controlled from the top.

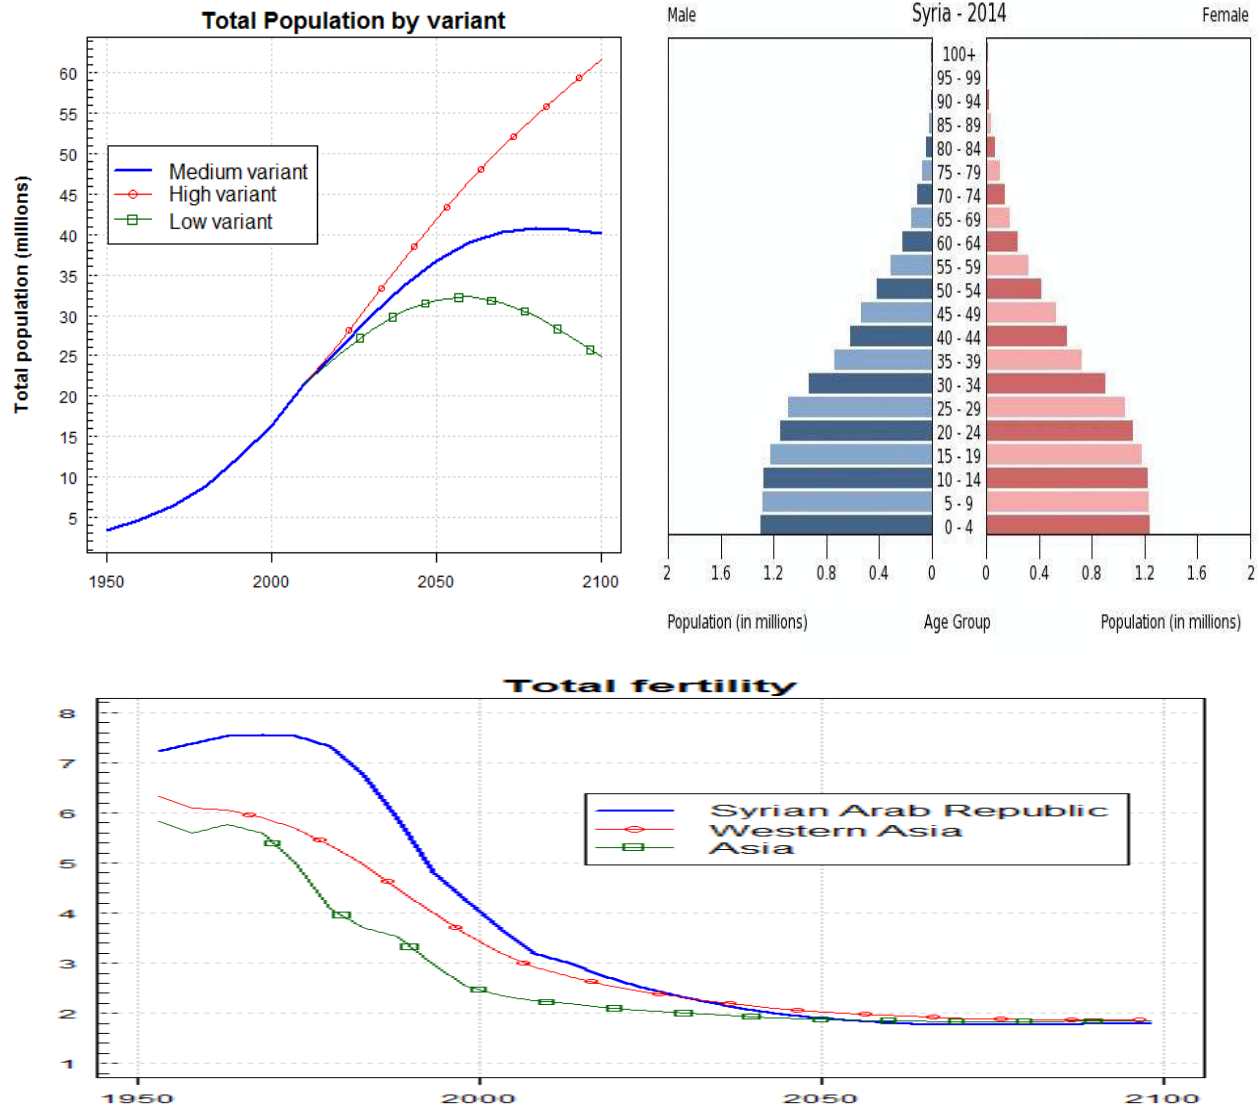

ISIS, the latest western creation, is used as a pretext to launch attacks on Syrian soil without UN Security Council approval and further destabilize your country and the entire region in order to recreate them in the West's image. The region is easy prey due to the Sunni-Shia divide and the tribal instincts that still govern the mentality of all Arabs and prevent the formation of national identities let alone a global consciousness. What the West is attempting to do, in effect, is accelerate history to bring the region into the 21st century, a goal I fully support by methods I wholly detest.

I suggest you accept Qatar's offer to give you asylum and cede control over your country, since you will receive no assistance from Russia (which is a pillar of the NWO), but only after forcing the US to confess that for the past seven decades it has forced every country on earth, through the UN, to poison the people into sterility, ill-health and imbecility, which will pave the way to global legislation to control population growth fairly and openly. This will ensure that the global genocide ongoing since 1945 comes to an end and the people of the non-western world are not turned into living vegetables, as the people of the West have been. The second condition of your surrender should be to force the international system to impose a global income structure that would restrict the income of the highest earners to ten times the salary of the lowest paid people in any given industry, as I have outlined in principle one of my OM Principles. This will ensure that globalization is democratized and benefits all people on earth and not just the 1%.

If you find the intelligence and foresightedness to do this, you will have earned your place in history as a global hero. If not, the $10,000 worth of candles you have recently purchased online while your people wallow in misery will be lit at your impending funeral and no one but your family will shed a single tear.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

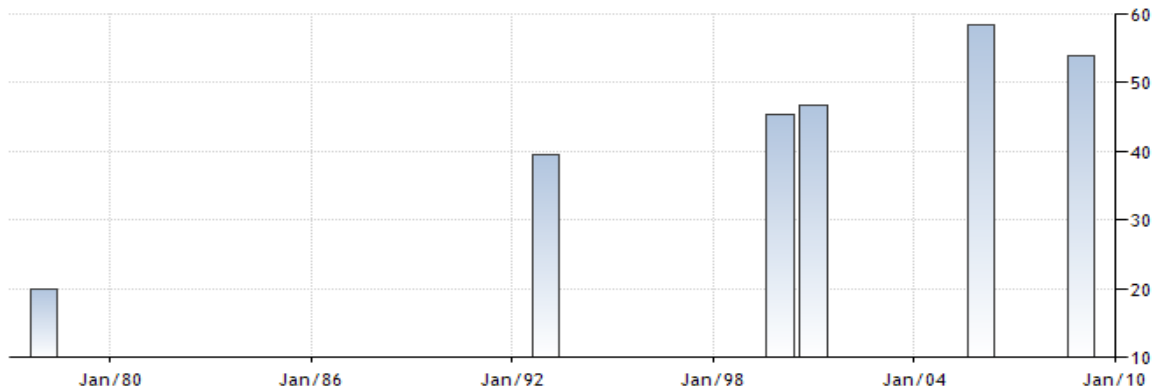

Syria began implementing covert depopulation measures in 1978 and has pursued a steady yet measured policy of mass sterilization, as attested by the smoothly convex sides of its population pyramid. The policy was first approved and implemented by President Hafez al-Assad (1971-2000), who brought down the total fertility rate from 7.5 to 4 children per woman during his time at the helm of the country.

President Hafez al-Assad was succeeded by his son, Bashar al-Assad, who assumed the presidency a month after his father's death in June 2000. In the fourteen years since he took office he managed to reduce Syria's total fertility rate from 4 to 2.7 children per woman.

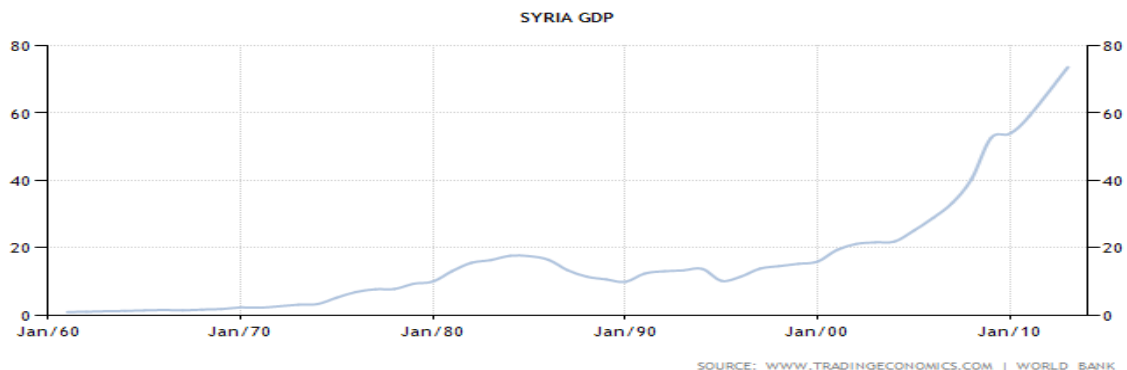

Syria's contraceptive rate has never been sufficiently high to explain the decrease in fertility experienced so far. During the 1980s, when fertility decreased from 7.5 to 5 children per woman, only 20% of Syrians used contraceptives. During the 1990s, contraceptive use rose to 40% while fertility declined from 5 to 4 children per woman. While contraceptive use has since grown to 55% it can still not possibly account for the decrease from 4 to the current 2.7 children per woman. For that to occur, you would need 80% of the population to use contraceptives and to do so diligently. Furthermore, contraceptive use cannot possibly push the total fertility rate below the desired family size and Syrians, like all other middle easterners, prefer large families.

Abortion is a non-factor in Syria's fertility decline since it is illegal and performed only to save a woman's life.

Syria's prosperity began to rise as soon as fertility decreased by more than half (from 7.5 to 3 children per woman), a threshold reached at the beginning of the 21st century.

Syria is in stage three of the demographic transition.

President Ma and Premier Mao,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The Republic of China was a UN founding member and joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1952 when the total fertility rate was 7 children per woman. When it was displaced from its UN seat in 1971 by the People's Republic of China, the government of Taiwan, in protest, abandoned the UN-delegated program of population control for ten years, but resumed it again and stayed the course and reached replacement level fertility in 1984 and a lowest low of 0.9 children per woman in 2010.

With a population density of 644 people per square kilometers (the 17th highest in the world) no one can blame your government for continuing to suppress population growth. But if you continue to suppress human fertility through covert chemical poisoning via endocrine disruptors inserted in water, food and beverages you will shut down the reproductive abilities of the entire nation and will bring it to extinction while in the process you sicken and enfeeble every man, woman and child.

Covert depopulation measures must stop for all of the above reasons and because it constitutes genocide and must be replaced with overt population control measures. How this can be done I explain in my just published and freely available document, The Future of Global Governance. I urge you to read it and to begin educating your people so they assume control of their reproductive systems and limit them by a method of their own choosing and as a responsibility towards the planet.

Taiwan adopted population control measures in 1952 and immediately fertility started to dive. The man responsible for approving the mass sterilization of his people is none other than General Chiang Kai-shek (1928-1975), the towering political figure of Taiwan. Virtually without the use of contraceptives, he succeeded in reducing the total fertility rate from 7 children per woman in 1952 to 3 by the time he died in 1975.

Since abortion was illegal in Taiwan until 1985, by which time Taiwan dropped below replacement level fertility, it could not play any role in the fertility decline, which can only be explained through the use of covert chemical sterilization. And since Taiwan has never declared that it is fluoridating either the water or the salt, we can safely assume that it has done so in secret, just as China did from 1968 to 1978.

By 2003, Taiwan's fertility rate dropped below 1.3 and by 2010 below 0.9 children per woman, despite various laws and policy papers that have been promulgated to keep the deception going until the government reaches its target, which is undoubtedly a population peak.

Taiwan has been rewarded for its genocidal zeal with a growing GDP. As the data shows, its GDP per capita began rising in 1970, when Taiwan had nearly halved its fertility (from 7 to 4 children per woman), and did not explode until 1984, when the country reached replacement level fertility. Because Taiwan began to sterilize its people sixteen years earlier than mainland China (1952 as opposed to 1968) and reached replacement level fertility eleven years earlier than China (in 1984 and 1995 respectively), Taiwan's GDP began to rise at least ten years earlier than that of China (in 1970 as opposed to 1980).

Emomalii Rahmon

President of Tajikistan

Kokhir Rasulzoda

Prime Minister of Tajikistan

President Rahmon and Prime Minister Rasulzoda,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Tajikistan joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1994, three years after gaining independence from the Soviet Union, and the total fertility rate has declined from 5.5 to 2.8 children per woman today.

Tajikistan's population has grown an astounding eightfold since 1950 and numbers 8.2 million people today. With a birth rate that is four times higher than the death rate the population continues to grow rapidly and the country experiences acute food shortage problems that affect 10% of the people. Since 70% of Tajiks are under the age of 30 the country is facing a demographic catastrophe. Already 20% of Tajiks live below the poverty line of US$1.25 per day and more than 70% of the population lives in traditional villages.

Your government began to wage war on the people's fertility under the guise of a Program for Immunoprophylaxis that is chemically sterilizing circa 165,000 women per year with the Tetanus Toxoid vaccine and renders countless males sub-fertile or infertile through adulterated Pneumococcal Polysaccharide Vaccines.

The organizations responsible for this covert genocide are the Global Alliance for Vaccines and Immunization (GAVI), the World Health Organization (WHO), the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), the Tajik Ministry of Health (MoH), and MERLIN (a British Charity). They commit crimes against humanity and break national and international law under your authority and with the full knowledge and consent of your government, but without the knowledge or consent of the Tajik people.

I understand your nation's desperate predicament and I fully support an effective program of population control but one that is legal, open and democratic and that empowers not victimizes people.

With more than 50% of Tajikistan's landmass being above 3000 meters and therefore unusable for agriculture, more than half of Tajikistan's GDP coming from remittances sent by the million Tajik men working abroad, an economy devastated by the civil war, and endemic food insecurity, you have no choice but to stop population growth dead on its track. But you need not resort to the genocidal methods pushed by the UN and its western sponsors; methods that devastate the human mind and body and that shut down the human reproductive system and therefore annihilate the genetic lines subjected to these diabolical methods.

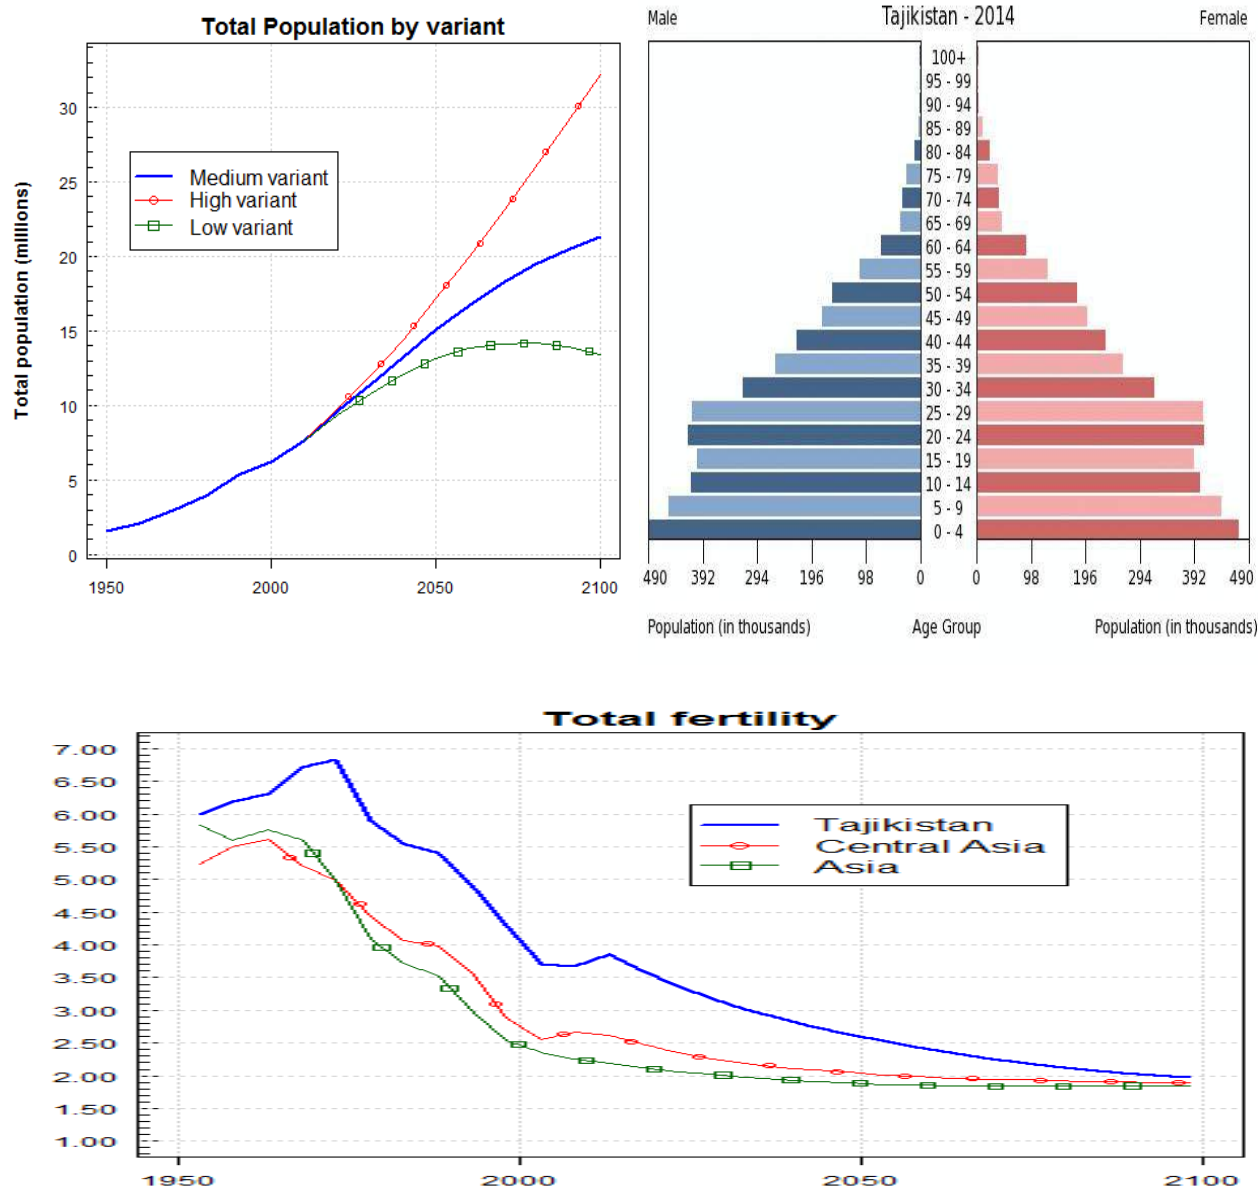

If you continue to cooperate with the genocidal lobby that masquerades as the international community you will be executed for crimes against humanity in the not so distant future. If you however legislate population control and empower your people to limit their own family size to replacement level fertility you will go down in history as the savior of the nation.

Since I have exposed the Global Depopulation Policy and its insidious methods you will be responsible for your own deaths unless you choose the latter and help me forge global consensus for worldwide population control legislation as a Planetary Security Prerogative. My work is freely available online (<http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>) and it will help you acquire the necessary knowledge to make the right decision.

I look forward to meeting with you so that we can discuss how to save mankind from genocide and protect the future of our children.

Sincerely,

The people of Tajikistan have been subject to population control since 1973, when they were citizens of the Soviet Union and the country was called the Tajik Soviet Socialist Republic. The Soviets, however, employed only legal and voluntary methods by providing family planning services and education, which is why the total fertility rate decreased modestly from 6.8 to 5 children per woman.

Since independence in 1991, the President of the Republic of Tajikistan, Emomalii Rahmon (Chirman of the Supreme Assembly from 1992 to 1994, and President since 1994) assumed responsibility for population control and he adopted Western methods of covert chemical sterilization. From 1991 to 2002 he lowered fertility from 5 to 3.7 children per woman.

The program was stalled from 2002 to 2012 and then accelerated and intensified since 2012, which is why the total fertility rate decreased to 2.8 children per woman.

At no point in time could Tajikistan's fertility decline be explained by its contraceptive prevalence rate, which was never higher than 38% and is currently only 28%. Nor could abortion account for the fertility decline since the abortion rate, the historical record shows, was highest during the early 1990s at 20% and has since declined to just 7%.

President Kikwete and Prime Minister Pinda,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Tanzania joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1990 but did not get serious about it until the government formulated the National Road Map Strategic Plan to Accelerate Reduction of Maternal, Newborn and Child Deaths in Tanzania, 2008–2015 \(One Plan\), which “has set a goal to increase the contraceptive prevalence rate (CPR) from 20% to 60% by 2015, by making quality family planning services more accessible to and equitable for all of Tanzania’s people”.

The Ministry of Health and Social Welfare (MoHSW) is in charge of Tanzania’s depopulation efforts, with help from USAID, Family Health International (FHI), as well as the UN and its many agencies and subsidiaries. As a result, the total fertility rate has decreased from 6.5 children per woman prior to 1990 to 5.4 children today. The urban fertility rate, where the people’s reproductive systems can be more easily subverted through endocrine disruptors inserted in food and beverages as well as through surgical sterilization and injectable contraceptives administered coercively or involuntarily, the total fertility is at 3.7 children per woman.

Following the prescriptions of the Maternal and Child Health Integrated Program \(MCHIP\), an international meeting convened in 2013, Tanzania has also accelerated its 2011 initiated Postpartum Intrauterine Contraceptive Device (PPIUCD) program in order to integrate the use of intrauterine devices (IUD) into maternal health services to prevent births for up to 12 years with copper IUCD 380-A devices.

And with the help of Venture Strategies Innovations \(VSI\), an American NGO, the government of Tanzania is also encouraging abortions with the drug mistopostol by championing the expansion of abortion policies and services.

Of course, all these family planning initiatives are needed to cover up the true source of the upcoming decline in fertility in Tanzania, namely genetically modified organisms (GMOs) – that are being pushed onto Tanzania by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and the Howard G. Buffett Foundation by pandering the Water Efficient Maze Project – and sterilizing vaccines administered under the pretext of combatting various diseases.

With a current annual population growth rate of 2.9%, a third of the people living in poverty and food insecurity, a median age of just 17 years, 44% of the population under the age of 15, and a population that at current fertility rates doubles every 25 years, Tanzania has no choice but to defuse its population bomb before society collapses. But it need not do it outside the law and without the people's knowledge and consent.

That is why I urge you to legislate population control. You will find all the information you need to break free of the UN-centered genocidal lobby in my freely available work:

<http://www.linkedin.com/in/kevingalalae>.

To understand why the covert and immoral methods of depopulation employed thus far must come to an end, I urge you to read my appeals to leaders, which also detail my effort to forge global consensus for replacement level fertility worldwide as a Planetary Security Prerogative and a personal responsibility towards the earth and our children:

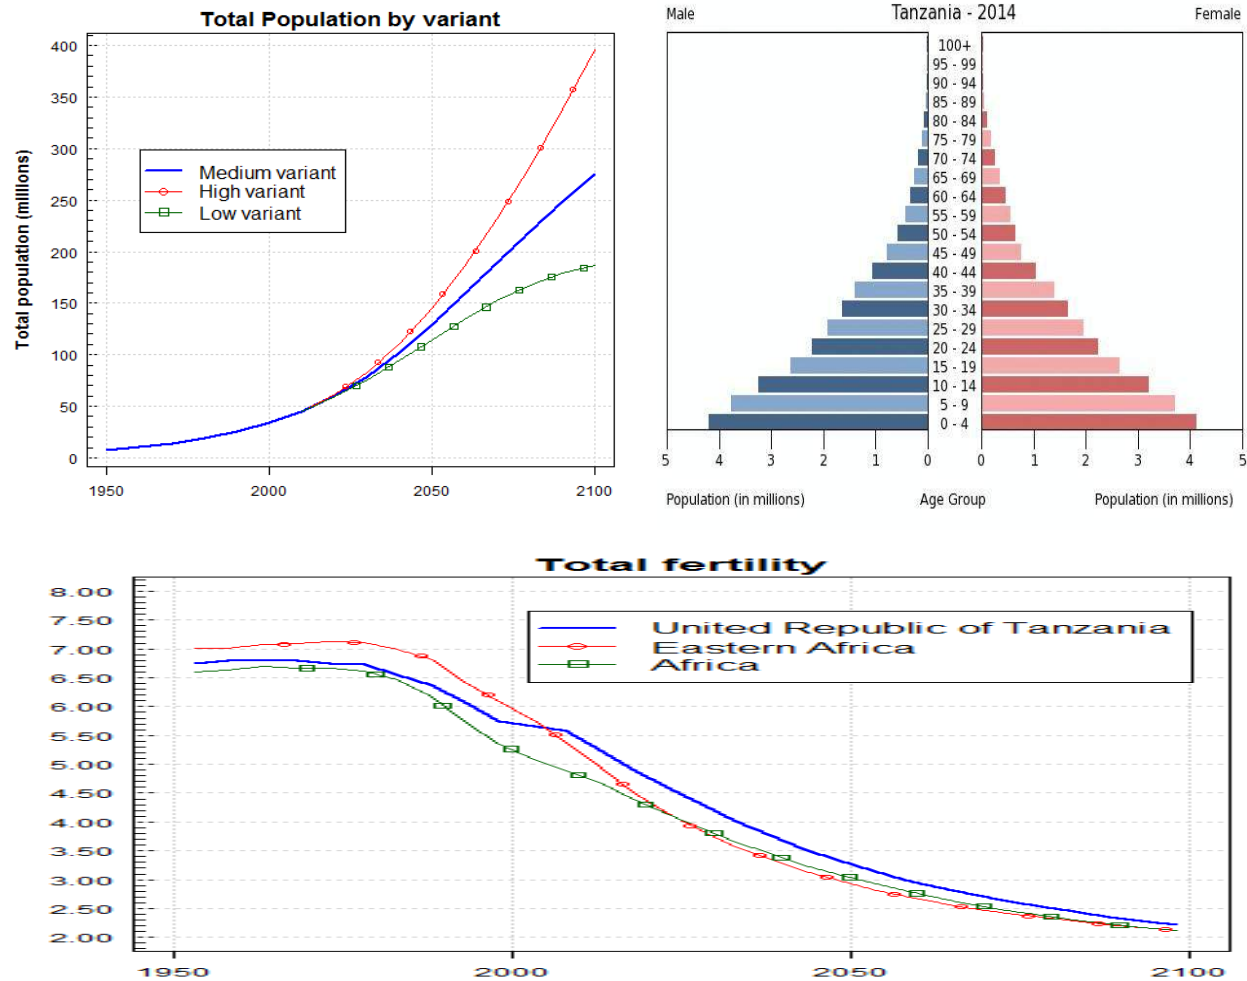

<https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>

The sooner you act and restore the rule of law and decency by bringing the depopulation program into the open and enlisting people's cooperation through education and the force of law, the better it will be for your people and for your future.

I will help you in any way I can and hope that you will not hesitate to reach out to me.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Even though Tanzania began a population control program around 1980, when Julius Nyerere was president, there is no evidence to suggest that covert, coercive or involuntary methods of birth control were used by the government or its agencies until 2008, when the government allowed the UN and affiliated NGOs to subvert fertility without the people's knowledge or consent.

Tanzania's total fertility rate decreased from nearly 7 children per woman prior to 1980 to 5 today mostly by virtue of family planning services and better access to contraceptives. Currently 35% of the population uses modern contraceptives. Abortion is a non-factor since it is illegal and allowed only to save the life of a woman.

Tanzania has been punished with poverty and a stagnant per capita GDP for its reluctance to poison its people.

King Bhumibol,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Poisoning Thailand's children in school through fluoride-adulterated milk freely distributed and subsidized by the Thai government in order to solve your country's demographic problems is an act of cowardice and immorality without precedent in history and you are personally and solely responsible for it.

That you brew this poisonous milk on the grounds of your palace with the help of the Borrow Foundation of the UK and on the advice of and in collusion with the British Royal family shows that monarchies cannot be trusted and should once and for all be consigned to the dustbins of history.

If you want to rescue the little that is left of your legacy I suggest you invite me to Thailand so I can show you how to conduct yourself with the nobility of spirit becoming of a king and fulfill Thailand's international obligations honorably while also protecting your people from covert poisoning. If you once again ignore my warning, as you have done in 2012 when I published "Water, Salt, Milk: Killing Our Unborn Children" and exposed to the world your immoral and criminal actions, you will leave behind a country inhabited by a sexually confused, debilitated, meek, chronically ill and mentally retarded Thais.

Already your nation has the dubious distinction of having by far the highest proportion of LGBT (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender) in the world, which is a consequence of the population control method you have chosen, namely sterility by fluoridated milk given to children from the moment they start school.

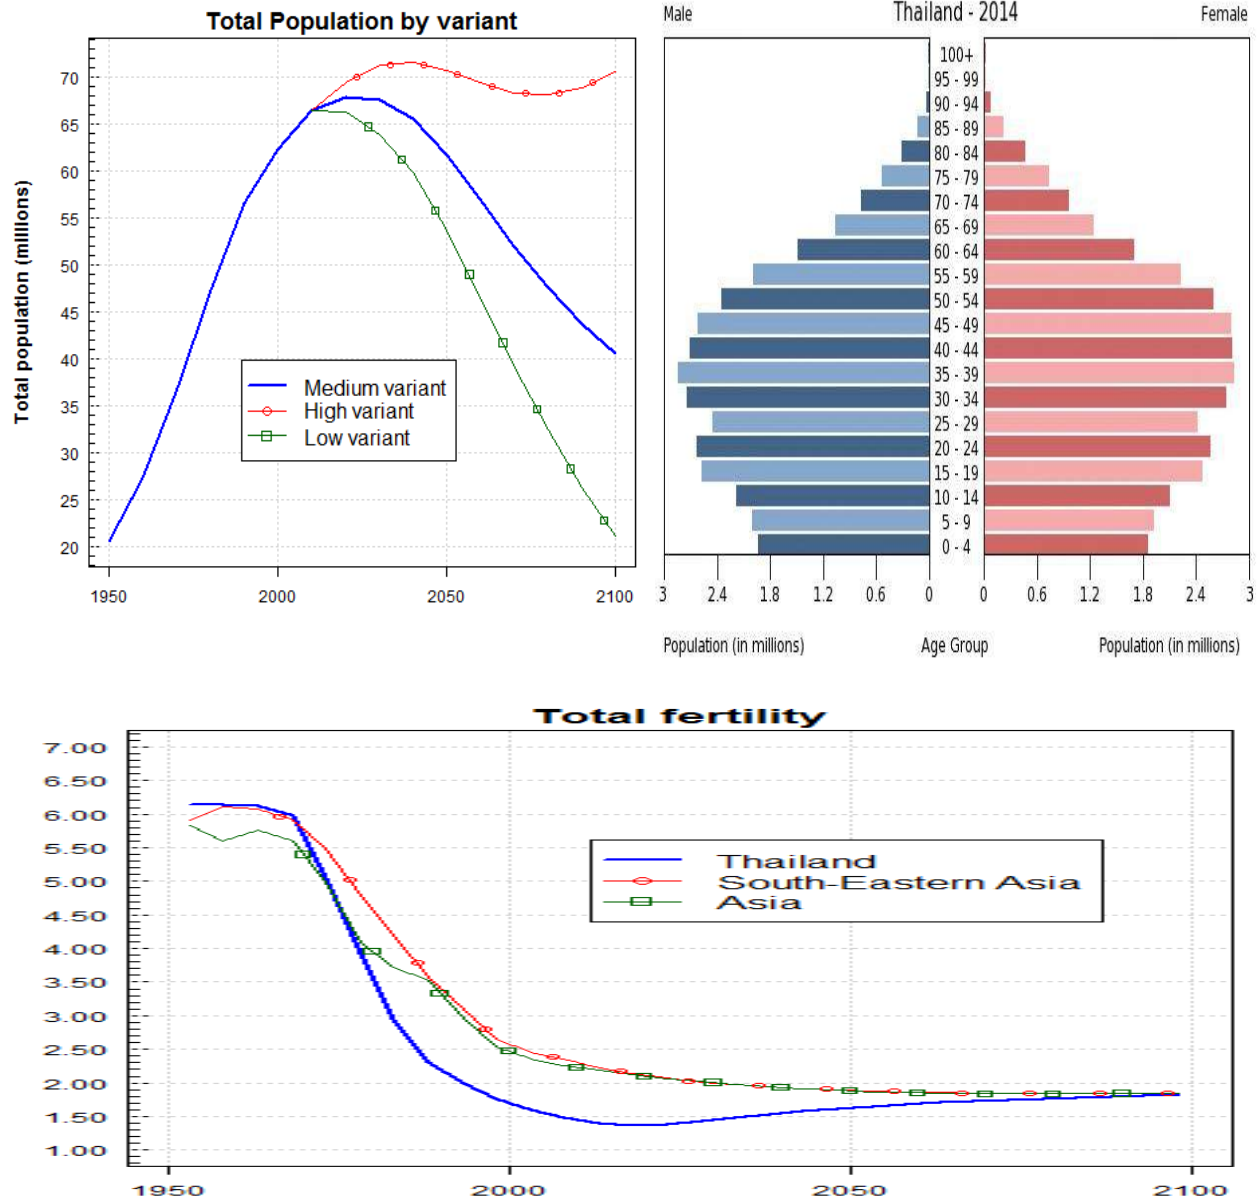

I know that you have been pressured economically and threatened with war by the Anglo-American camp and their UN spokespeople and that it is your ardent desire to stop this insanity and meet your maker with a pure heart. I can help you do that. In fact, I am the only man on this planet who can help you do that. Help me forge global consensus for legislated means of population control so we can rescue the world. This is your chance. Take it for it will not come again.

"We will reign with righteousness, for the benefit and happiness of the Siamese people", this is the oath you spoke upon being crowned king of Thailand. Live up to it! The Thai people are a beautiful people. Help them remain so.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

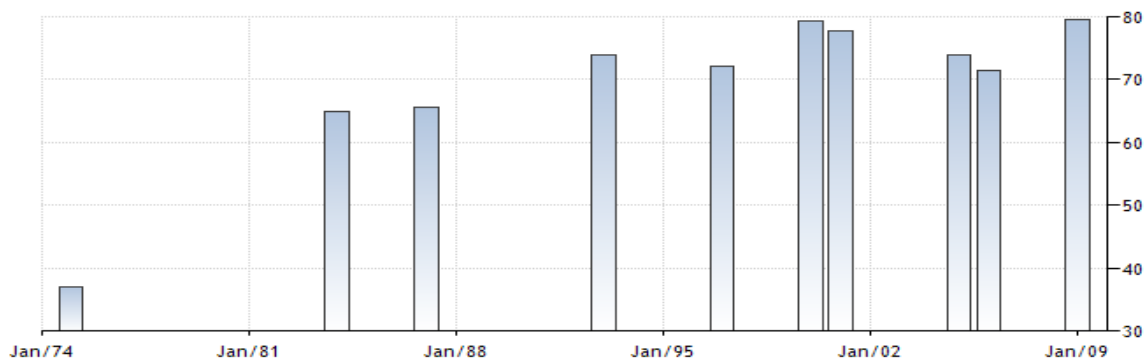

Kevin Galalae

Thailand began implementing covert depopulation measures in 1968. The man responsible for their introduction and implementation is King Bhumibol Adulyadej, Thailand's reigning monarch since 1946. Co-responsible for the program's inauguration is Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn, who was Prime Minister from 1963 to 1973.

Every prime minister of Thailand since then has assisted in the genocide. The monarchy and the political elites have succeeded in lowering the total fertility rate from 6 children per woman prior to 1968 to just 1.5 children per woman today. Thailand reached replacement level fertility in 1992.

Throughout the seventies, when fertility declined from 6 to 3.5 children per woman, Thailand's contraceptive prevalence rate was at best a paltry 35% and therefore could not have played any role in the fertility decline. Throughout the eighties, when fertility declined from 3.5 to 2.2 children per woman, the contraceptive prevalence rate was on average at 60% and therefore could not have had a significant role in the decline. During the nineties and the first decade of the 21st century, Thailand made greater efforts to conceal its true sterilizing agents, namely fluoridated milk as well as food and beverages adulterated with endocrine disruptors, which is why its contraceptive prevalence rate rose to 80%. But fertility collapsed to sub-replacement level not due to wider use of contraceptives, though they have played a secondary role, as much as due to the intensification and expansion of covert methods of sterilization.

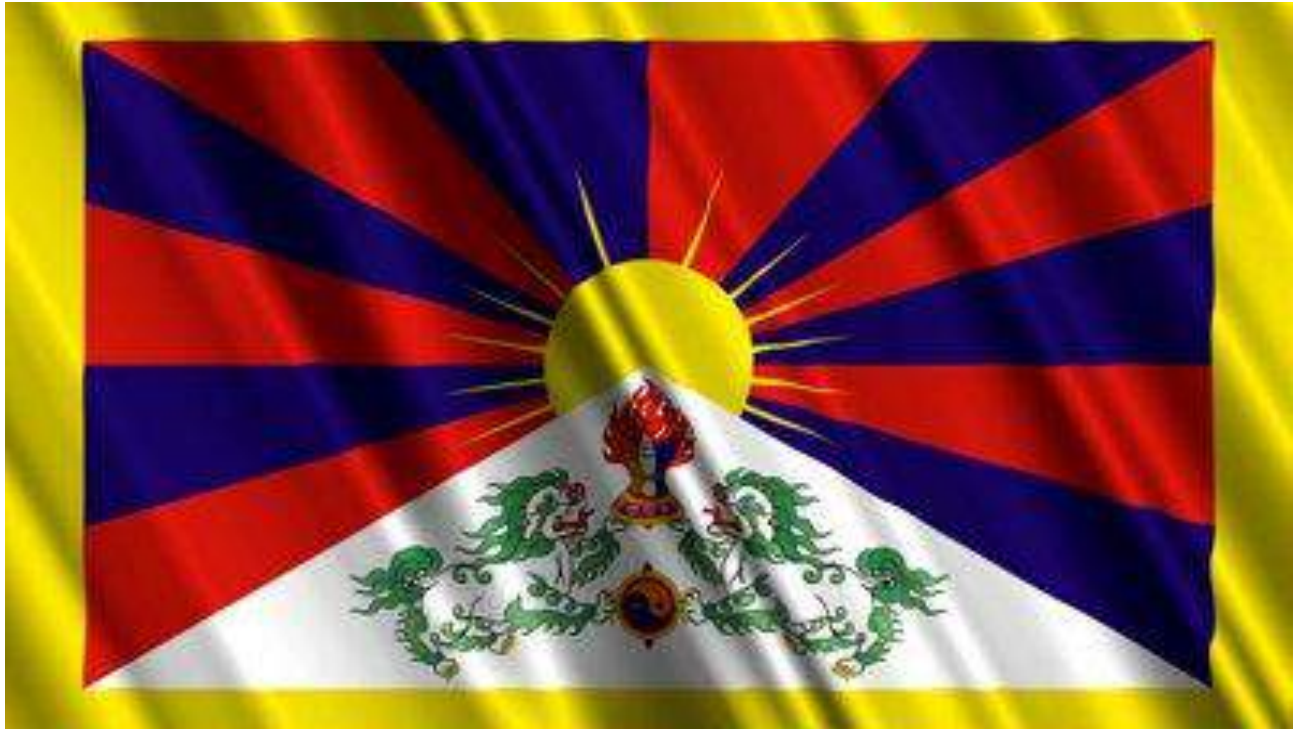

Abortion is a non-factor in the fertility decline since it is illegal and allowed only in cases of rape and incest or to save the life and health of a woman.

As elsewhere in the world, Thailand's GDP began to rise steeply only after the country reached replacement level fertility in the early 1980s.

Thailand is in the early phase of the fourth stage of the demographic transition.

DALAI LAMA OF TIBET

Dalai Lama,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

You are a man who commands great respect and I am one of your many admirers. Although you recently retired as head of state for the Central Tibetan Administration and have intimated that the position of the Dalai Lama may be abolished in the future, your role as a guiding spiritual light for all people on earth, regardless whether they are Buddhist or not, may well have reached the most important phase yet.

To my knowledge you are the only spiritual leader with the courage and integrity to speak publicly and frankly about overpopulation and the need to tackle it before it spells the end for all of us. Having watched your interviews and read your pronouncements on this issue, I can only encourage you to take the next necessary step and specifically and unequivocally advise governments and the people of the world to embrace replacement level fertility and in this manner safeguard future generations from chronic and deliberate poisoning, rescue the planet from environmental devastation, and eradicate poverty.

You could also come to my defense and condemn the governments of Canada and the UK, as well as the United Nations, for having conducted a witch-hunt against me and abducting my children in order to force me to acquiesce to global genocide. My children are being held hostage for three and a half years now and I am being prevented from even knowing that they are alive. The Canadian judiciary has caved in to political pressure to impose a ten-year no contact order to prevent me from being with my children that is completely groundless and illegal. They have then colluded with the executive and the secret service to falsely arrest me, exhaust me financially in kangaroo courts, bankrupt me through repeated and fabricated indictments, and to destroy my family and career in order to shatter me emotionally and financially.

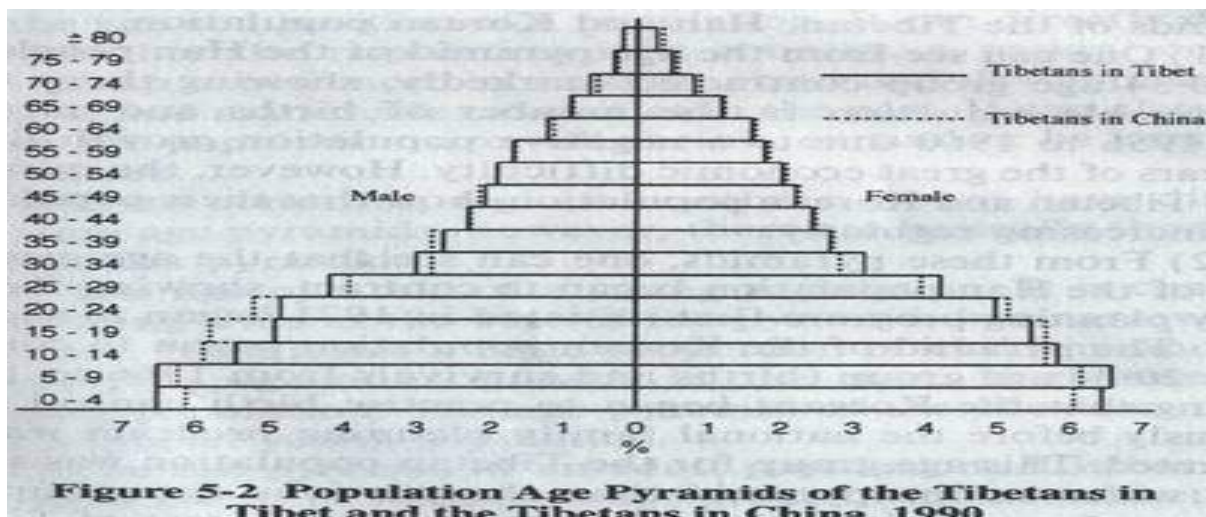

Unless my children are returned to me and I am paid compensation for damages I will have no choice but to resort to violence. The national and international authorities are completely out of control and violate and debase the rule of law that they are supposed to uphold. They exist solely to commit genocide and to complete the global genocide they have started.

I am a peaceful man but I will never abandon my children and my fellow man to mass murderers. This is the time for all good people to stand up and be counted. You have the world's attention. Use it so that we may send these evil forces back to hell where they came from without having to resort to violence but simply by shining light on their evil deeds.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

The Chinese government conceals the statistical and demographic data of the Tibet Autonomous Region since it is a very sensitive issue for China. However, from the scarce publicly available data we can establish that population control measures have been in effect in Tibet since 1983, when the government began enforcing a policy that allows urban Tibetans to have no more than two children. We can also determine that a previous attempt at population control in 1970 was aborted undoubtedly in order to avoid civil unrest.

Since the annexation of Tibet by China in 1951, Tibetans have become a minority in their own country while Han Chinese have become the majority. The 2000 census reveals that of the 5.4 million Tibetans in China 2.4 live in the Tibet Autonomous Region and they make up 45% of the population.

Beyond that not much can be ascertained about population control in Tibet, but considering that China intends its population to peak by 2030 and that Tibet is now part of China, we can safely conclude that Tibet's population will also be engineered to peak around the same time.

President Vasconcelos and Prime Minister Gusmão,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Your country just went through birth pains and has a chance to start its life the right way. Whether it succeeds it is entirely up to you. If you do not rise to the occasion Timor-Leste will be subsumed into the international system of covert depopulation and coerced globalization before it has a chance to experience self-determination and your people will be covertly poisoned into submission, ill-health, sterility and imbecility like the rest of the “civilized” world.

You will be told it is for the health of their teeth or for child and mother health and they will come to you with loans and promises of development. But what they will give with one hand they will take with two and before you know it there will be nothing left of your country but an empty shell and nothing left of your people but walking dead.

They will turn the Ministry of Justice into an instrument of injustice, the Ministry of Defense into an extermination force, and the Ministry of Health into the handmaiden of genocide. You and your high officials will be handsomely rewarded for it but your people will be paupers in their own country and slaves on their own land and you will no longer be able to recognize yourselves or look in the mirror without being revolted by your own sites.

Nothing is sacred for these creatures of evil who have reason but no faith, knowledge but no compassion, and worthy objectives but no conscience to guide them there. If you want to keep this evil out of your country you must institute a two-child policy and stabilize your population by force of law otherwise they will do it for you by force of covert chemical and biological warfare.

If you want to remain free and proud and sane you must order the media to inform your countrymen of the methods and instruments of the Global Depopulation Policy and you must throw out of the country every UN representative as well as the entire staff of the American, British and Russian embassies, who are the three forces that shape and sustain the matrix of global control and who work hand in glove to do so and to deceive the world in the process.

East-Timor or Timor-Leste was a Portuguese colony until 1975 when it was invaded and occupied by Indonesia until 1999. Since 1999, East-Timor has been independent. Covert depopulation measures were initiated by the Portuguese in 1963, a year later than in Portugal proper, as part of the decolonization process, and by the time the Indonesians occupied the country in 1975 the total fertility rate had already been lowered from 6.4 to 5 children per woman without the use of contraceptives.

The man responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation to East-Timor in 1963 is Governor José Alberty Correia (1963-1968). They were continued by his successors: José Nogueira Valente Pires (1968-1972), Fernando Alves Adeia (1972-1974), and by the last Governor of Portuguese Timor, Mário Lemos Pires (1974-1975).

From 1975, when the Indonesians invaded, until 1977, the total fertility rate declined further, from 5 to 4.4 children per woman probably due to momentum and the misery of war rather than any deliberate efforts. From 1977 until 1999, when the Indonesians left the country and East-Timor became independent, fertility rose from 4.4 to 7 children per woman, the highest level it has ever been.

As soon as Indonesia's occupation ended in 1999, the administration of East-Timor was taken over by the United Nations Transitional Administration in East Timor (UNTAET), and remained in UN hands until 2002. During this time the UN did not interfere with the people's fertility, but made preparations for a depopulation program to be kick started as soon as East-Timor had its first President, Xanana Gusmão, who assumed office in May 2002. By 2003, covert depopulation measures had begun and remain in place today. From 2003 until today, the total fertility rate has declined from 7 to 5 children per woman despite the fact that only 22% of the people use contraceptives.

It could be argued that this reduction has been accomplished through better provision of family planning services and sexual education, but this is unlikely given that the illiteracy rate is very high at 60%. The more likely explanation for the drop in fertility is the use of sterilizing vaccines administered under various pretexts.

East-Timor is in stage two of the demographic transition.

President Gnassingbé and Prime Minister Ahoomey-Zunu,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Togo joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1980 and the total fertility rate has since decreased from 7 children per woman to 4.8 due to improved family planning services and covert sterilization projects. That the government allowed western NGOs to covertly sterilize the population is evidenced by Togo's very low contraceptive prevalence rate, which in 1998 stood at only 3.1%, in 2006 at 11%, and in 2010 at 13.2%; rates that cannot possibly account for the decrease in fertility.

In 2012, unhappy with the progress, the government developed a five-year plan of action for population control following the Ouagadougou Initiative of 2011, whereby eight francophone West African countries, Togo included, agreed to “support sustainable social and economic development by reducing the consequences of rapid demographic growth”. In its National Health Development Plan, also published in 2012, Togo has committed to increasing the contraceptive prevalence rate to 50% by 2015 in order to eventually reach replacement level fertility.

To accomplish this ambitious goal, “Togo is the only country in francophone West Africa in 2011 to allow the community-based distribution of contraceptives, including injectables, through community health workers under a pilot project”. In other words, all safety precautions have been dropped and medical protocols altered to allow untrained personnel paid by western “aid” organizations such as Engender Health and US Aid to sterilize the population.

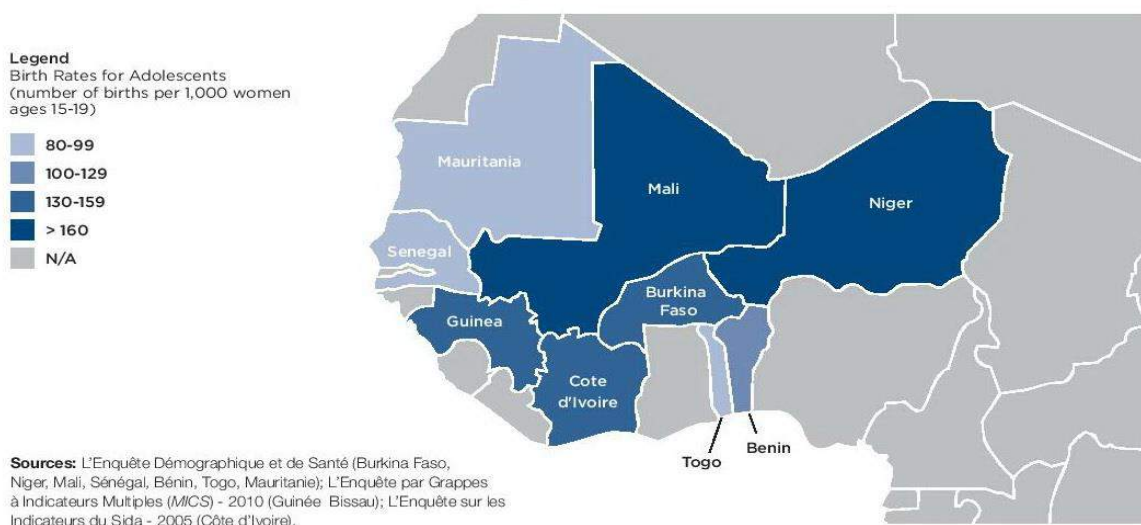

In addition to hormonal implants, intrauterine devices, female sterilization and vasectomy, the government of Togo has also agreed to allow the international community to sterilize its people with vaccines administered under the pretext of improved childhood immunization. Adolescents are thus sterilized with adulterated diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis vaccines (Tdap) and meningococcal vaccines, while the mothers themselves are administered long-acting and permanent methods of contraceptive (LA/PMs), which, a US Aid subsidiary organization laments, currently cover only 2% of the population.

The strategy devised by the western sponsors of the Ouagadougou Declaration for Population, Development and Family Planning in Francophone West Africa to bypass the rule of law, democratic processes, and medical safeguards in order to achieve replacement level fertility by forcible and involuntary methods calls on Togo and all other nations of Western Africa to “democratize, demedicalize, and decentralize family planning interventions”.

This desperation is elicited by the stratospheric population growth of the entire region, where the total fertility rate is the highest in the world at 5.5 children per woman and where adolescent pregnancies refuse to come down despite decades of effort and are by far the highest in the world.

Considering that Togo's population has quintupled since 1961, that 61% of the people live in poverty, and that unless the total fertility rate drops down to replacement level soon the population will continue to double every 25 years, one can understand the urgency behind the current population control efforts. What I cannot understand and find unforgivable is the dishonesty, illegality and immorality of the current approach, which turns medicine into the handmaiden of genocide and government institutions and international organizations into vehicles of mass murder and mass deception.

There is no excuse for these methods and no reason why they should continue. The only impediment to open, fair, legal and ethical population control is lack of political leadership and individual courage. I therefore urge you to show courage and provide leadership by informing your people of what is at stake and by legislating family size restrictions.

A second problem the UN-centered population control lobby encounters in West Africa is that of contraceptive security, which remains unmet throughout the region.

Sources: John Snow, Inc./DELIVER and Futures Group/POLICY Project. 2003. Contraceptive Security Index 2003: A Tool for Priority Setting and Planning. Arlington, Va.: John Snow, Inc./DELIVER. USAID/DELIVER PROJECT, Task Order 1. 2009. Contraceptive Security Index 2009: A Tool for Priority Setting and Planning. Arlington, Va.: USAID/DELIVER PROJECT, Task Order 1.

This is due to lack of money at the national level, since the countries involved are stuck in the poverty trap, and lack of financial commitment from international donors, who are reluctant to throw good money after bad money in the absence of political commitment on the ground to actually accomplish the set goals. As a result, the population control programmes of Togo and its neighbors are woefully underfunded, especially when compared to other parts of Africa.

Source: UNFPA, Sub-Saharan Africa - Financial Resource Flows and Revised Cost Estimates for Population Activities, 2011.

To bypass these two impediments and also accomplish the demographic objectives that underlie the socio-economic aspirations of Togo and its neighbors and the international objectives of the Millennium Development Goals, the UN, aided by the US and the EU, have engineered the Ebola pandemic.

The pandemic, it is hoped, will aid the international community in creating an excuse for region-wide immunization so as to be able to reach adults in their prime reproductive years to suppress their fertility and/or sterilize them; create the fear and legal framework necessary to compel a reluctant and suspicious local population to allow themselves to be vaccinated despite their objections; and create the fear necessary to get wealthy nations to donate generously to combat the Ebola pandemic lest it reaches their shores and thus obtain enough money from abroad to be able to fund the population control program throughout West Africa for decades to come.

In this fashion, internal motivation and external funding for population control are being generated in record time. Desperate times call for desperate measures. But unless the population control effort is brought to light, the desperation will only get worse and the methods too will become increasingly more diabolical and inhumane. This brings us back to the need for political leadership to be able to realize a change from covert to overt methods of population control. Without such leadership the UN and its western sponsors will only get more criminal from year to year and will lose all respect for human life, if they have any respect left to lose at all.

This is the time for you to change course and to join my effort to forge global consensus for a law that restricts fertility to replacement level worldwide and in perpetuity as a Planetary Security Prerogative. Such a law is inevitable and the longer politicians fail to act the dire the circumstances become from year to year.

Delaying the inevitable is no longer an option because we have run out of time and all cultural sensitivities, religious objections and ethical norms are irrelevant in the face of environmental catastrophe, resource depletion, and the prospect of universal famine and social collapse.

The man responsible for approving covert methods of depopulation in 1980 is General General Gnassingbé Eyadéma, who was President of Togo from 1967 until 2005, time during which the total fertility rate decreased from 7.3 to 4.8 children per woman despite virtually no contraceptives.

The program has been continued by his successor, Faure Gnassingbé, in office since May 2005 and the current total fertility rate is 4.5 children per woman while the contraceptive prevalence rate is a dismal 13%. Abortion plays no role since it is illegal and allowed only to save a woman's life.

Togo has been punished for its inability to subvert fertility with a stagnant GDP.

Togo is in stage two of the demographic transition.

King Tupou VI and Prime Minister Tu‘ivakanō,

Re: depopulation measures

Tonga joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1963 and the total fertility rate has declined from 7.3 to 3.4 children per woman to date. To the government’s credit, there is no evidence of covert, coerced or involuntary sterilizations and no evidence of covert methods of fertility suppression either.

The decline in fertility has been accomplished through education and the provision of family planning services. The contraceptive methods favored by Tongans are injections with Depo-Provera, the pill, condoms, surgical sterilizations, and natural methods. The number of children born to every woman reflects the ideal family size in Tonga and this shows that the government respects and protects the people’s reproductive rights, which is a rare and precious thing in today’s genocide-ridden world.

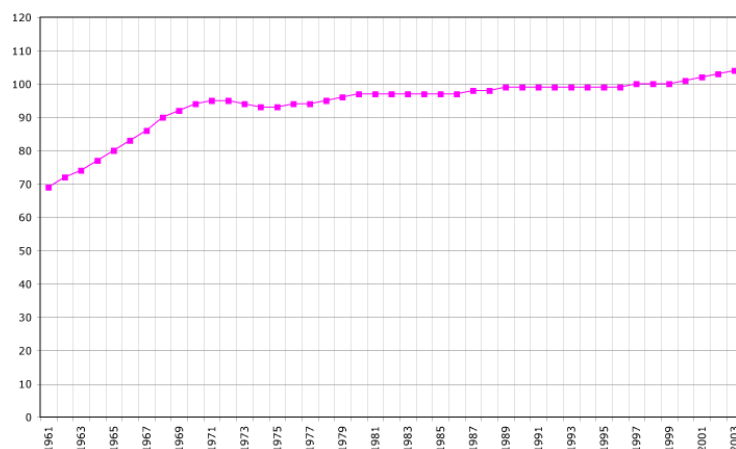

Unlike most nations on earth, Tonga has refrained from poisoning its people into sterility or subfertility for two reasons. First, Tonga never lost its sovereignty to a foreign power and has always remained in control and preserved indigenous governance. It is in fact the only Pacific nation to have escaped colonization. And second, Tonga has been protected from outside interference by its small size and geographic isolation.

Because Tongans have never been subjected to covert methods of depopulation – be they chemical, biological, bacteriological, psychosocial or economic – the people are healthy and, as a UNICEF 2006 study concluded, “the education and health status of both children and women in Tonga is one of the best in the South Pacific”.

The people will not remain healthy, however, if the Tongan government gives in to UN and western pressure to undermine the people's fertility through covert methods and thus adulterate the basic elements of life – food, water and drinks – with fertility depressing toxins such as fluoride, BPA, and artificial sweeteners; involuntarily sterilize the people with toxic vaccines administered under various pretexts; or by feeding the people genetically modified foods.

Having looked at recent data, it appears that the UN and its western backers have started to covertly undermine your people's fertility by injecting the women with tetanus toxoid vaccines that double as covert sterilizers. I therefore urge you to discontinue this practice because it increases morbidity and mortality and because it violates the people's fundamental rights.

Sooner rather than later, however, Tonga must bring its total fertility rate down to replacement level because the other nations of the world will not continue to absorb the out-migrating Tongan population while they themselves go to extraordinary lengths and commit genocide to stop the growth of their own populations. Tonga has so far been able to remain conflict-free at home because its excess population has migrated elsewhere thus relieving social and economic pressures at home.

Statistical data shows that Tonga's population has remained relatively stable because large numbers of Tongans have emigrated since 1971. They have emigrated because of the social implications of unchecked population growth, which include an "increase of landless male Tongans, land shortage, overcrowding, and limited wage employment opportunities."

Despite emigration, Tonga grew from 32,000 in the 1930s to 90,000 by 1976 and to circa 110,000 today. The current population density of 140 people per square kilometer is too high for the nation's natural resources and therefore unsustainable.

To act as good global citizens, preserve social stability at home, increase prosperity and keep the international community and its poisons and genocidal methods out of Tonga, I urge you to legislate replacement level fertility and provide your people with safe contraceptives. If you do not, the UN and its western backers will either infect your people with a man-made virus, as they have done recently with the Ebola virus in West Africa and as they did in the past with the HIV/AIDS virus throughout the developing world, or they will poison your people chemically and biologically.

To know how to protect your people from the many covert methods of depopulation devised by the UN and the greater international community, I urge you to read my books and to disseminate my videos freely. I provide them to you and to the people of Tonga free of cost, without ulterior motives and without expectations of future rewards.

Tonga has carried out a stop-and-go population control policy. King Tāufa'āhau Tupou IV, who reigned from 1965 to 2005, had two bouts of demographic awareness, from 1962 to 1972, when the fertility declined from 7.4 to 5.5 children per woman, and from 1982 to 1988, when fertility declined from 5.5 to 4.8 where it remains to this day. He accomplished this with a contraceptive prevalence rate of 46% and the provision of family planning services.

His successors, George Tupou V (2005-2012) and the current King, Tupou VI (since March 2012), appear to have departed from their father's and, respectively, uncle's policy of voluntary birth control. This is discernible in the fact that Tonga's contraceptive prevalence rate has dropped below 25% since the beginning of the 21st century while fertility has remained the same, which can only mean that contraceptives are being replaced with endocrine disruptors.

Tonga has recently entered stage three of the demographic transition.

President Shevchuk and Prime Minister Turanskaya,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Transnistria was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy in 1960, during its days as Soviet Moldova, and the total fertility rate decreased from 3.6 children per woman to just 1.3 to date. This drop in fertility was accomplished as elsewhere in the Soviet Union through water fluoridation, which was practiced nationwide from 1960 to 1990.

Since the dissolution of the USSR in 1991, the people's fertility is undermined, as throughout the European Union, by chronic poisoning with endocrine disruptors (primarily fluoride and BPA) inserted in food, bottled water, and beverages either directly or through plastic packaging.

You are a new nation, so new in fact that it has yet to be recognized, and have the chance to start anew and to abandon the cancerous methods of population control devised by the Allied Powers at the end of World War II and imposed on the world through the agency of the United Nations in the name of international peace and security. These methods are devastating human health and degrading the genetic and intellectual endowment of mankind. These methods constitute genocide. And these methods are no longer necessary because the world is now fully aware of the threat of overpopulation and people are perfectly capable of exercising control over their own reproduction and limiting it to replacement level fertility safely and justly.

I ask that you disseminate my freely available work through the national media to educate your people about the threats they face and empower them to take control. You will find everything you need here:

President Carmona and Prime Minister Persad-Bissessar,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Trinidad and Tobago joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1962, the same year it gained its independence from the UK and became a UN member state. As a result, its crude birth rate has since gone down from 38 births per 1000 people to just 15 today, and the total fertility rate has decreased over the same period from 5 children per woman to just 1.8.

The bands visible in the population pyramid of your country indicate that between 1976 and 1981 the political leadership of the day abandoned the program of covert depopulation embarked upon in 1962. Thus, in their post-independence history, the people of Trinidad and Tobago have been protected from covert poisoning for demographic objectives only during tail end of the presidency of Elis Clark.

Given that Alcoa has had operations in Trinidad and Tobago for more than 60 years and that the aluminum industry is the biggest fluoride polluter, it is safe to conclude that the reproductive systems of the Trinidadian and Tobagonian people have been subverted with fluoride. This conclusion is supported by the fact that until 1967 Trinidad and Tobago did not even have a family planning program and it was only in 1969 when the Population Programme Unit was established by the government to provide fertility management services. Yet between 1962 and 1969 the numbers of births and the total fertility rate decreased by 40%. To this day the family planning services are just a façade for the far more effective covert methods of population control.

To date, the people's fertility is scientifically subverted by the Ministry of Health and PAHO with fluoride supplements, fluoride veneers, fluoridated salt, endocrine disruptors such as bisphenol A and artificial sweeteners in food and beverages, and imported GMO foods, all of which are weapons of sterilization in the arsenal of the UN-delegated Global Depopulation Policy.

That the people have lost their reproductive abilities is amply demonstrated by the fact that although the desired family size is 3 children Trinidadians and Tobagonians cannot muster even having two because their reproductive organs are shot by five decades of covert poisoning.

If your government continues in this vein there will be no people in Trinidad and Tobago a century from now. Infertility among both men and women is already a large and growing problem in your country thanks to your application of covert methods of depopulation.

As I have exposed the methods and means of genocide, I am now giving the world's 196 heads of state and government the opportunity to stop committing crimes against humanity and to instead pursue depopulation, which is an indisputable necessity, openly, legally, justly and honorably by legislating replacement level fertility as part and parcel of each country's responsibility towards the planet and future generations. You will find my ultimatums here: <https://www.scribd.com/doc/244102616/Stop-Poisoning-Us-Volumes-1-2>.

The man responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation in 1962 (after the British introduced pilot projects in 1958 to teach the man they prepped for power the ropes of covert depopulation) is none other than “The Father of the Nation”, Eric Williams, Chief Minister Trinidad and Tobago from 1956 to 1959, Premier from 1959 to 1962, and Prime Minister from 1962 until 1981.

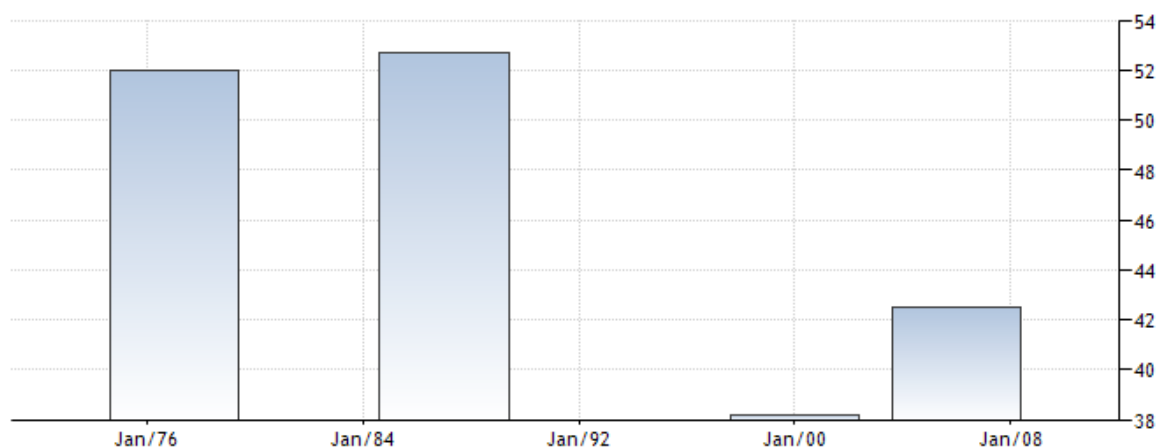

By 1976, when the total fertility rate had decreased from 5.3 to 3.3 children per woman, he lost the zeal for covert sterilization, probably because he noticed the physical and physiological damage he was doing to his people and could no longer live with his own conscience, and halted the program until his death in office in 1981.

Not surprisingly, Williams “died unexpectedly under disturbing circumstances”, circumstances that President Ellis Clarke (1976-1987) did not disclose then and that have yet to be disclosed. While we can only speculate about his death, what is clear is that no sooner was he in the grave then the program of mass poisoning with fluoride supplied by the local Alcoa plant was restarted.

None of his successors, either in the prime ministerial office or in the presidential seat, have since deviated from the depopulation agenda. They are: George Chambers (1981-1986), Arthur Napoleon Raymond Robinson (1986-1991, and President from 1997 to 2003), Patrick Manning (1991-1995, 2001-2010), Basdeo Panday (1995-2001), and incumbent Kamla Persad-Bissessar (since May 2010).

On the presidential side, the individuals responsible are: Noor Hassanali (1987-1997), Arthur Napoleon Raymond Robinson (1997-2003), George Maxwell Richards (2003-2013), and the incumbent Anthony Carmona (since March 2013). Through their combined actions they have depressed fertility from 3.3 children in 1981 to replacement level by 1994 and to 1.8 children per woman to date.

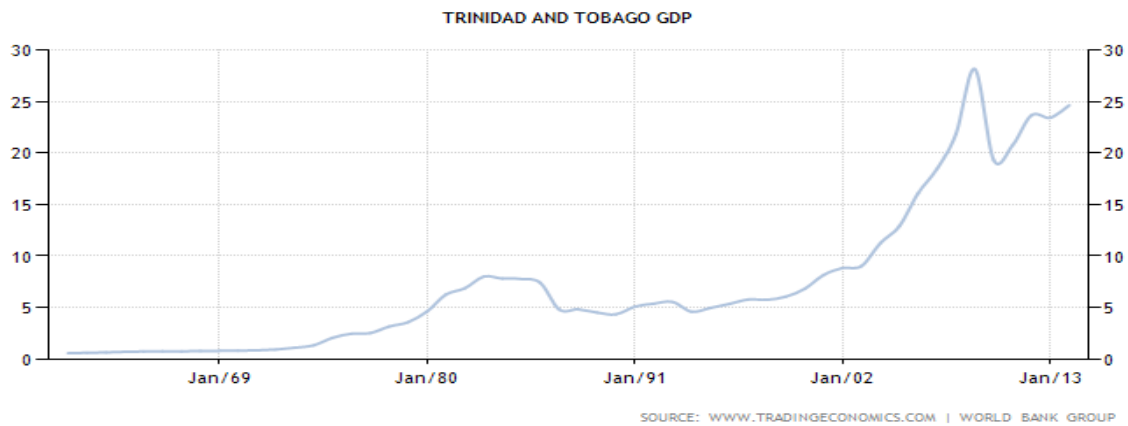

The history of Trinidad and Tobago’s contraceptive prevalence rate reveals that the highest use of contraceptives occurred from 1975 to 1988, thus when Prime Minister Williams shut down covert chemical poisoning to protect the people from further damage and tried to replace it with safe and voluntary contraceptives. By 1988, contraceptives were abandoned since fluoridated water had been reinstated upon Williams’ death in 1981. During the nineties, when fertility reached sub-replacement level, contraceptives were below 30% since they had already been deemed inconsequential. They remain inconsequential to this day even though the contraceptive prevalence rate has climbed to 42%.

Abortion is illegal in Trinidad and Tobago and therefore not a factor in the fertility decline.

Trinidad and Tobago’s leaders have been rewarded for their genocidal zeal with a growing GDP. As the data shows, the country’s GDP did not begin to rise until 1994, which is when Trinidad and Tobago reached replacement level fertility. Once again, the fact that affluence follows low fertility is confirmed by correlating demographic with economic data.

Trinidad and Tobago is in stage four of the demographic transition.

President Marzouki and Prime Minister Jomaa,

Re: Immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Tunisia joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1966 and the total fertility rate decreased from 7 children per woman to just 2 and has been at replacement level since the year 2000.

The Tunisian government began interfering with the people's fertility in June 1966, when an official family planning program was inaugurated and 39 family planning centers were opened in hospitals and clinics as well as several mobile units began pushing contraceptives (mostly IUDs) in each of the thirteen provinces. But its population control efforts did not really take off nationwide until 1970. What is noteworthy about this earliest effort, however, is that of the 10% downturn in births achieved by 1968 only one-third can be attributed to the program itself.

Since the program of family planning introduced in 1966 was funded and carried out by personnel supplied by the Ford Foundation and the Population Council one can be certain that the distribution of contraceptives served merely as a front for covert methods of depopulation, thus either chemical sterilization via fluoride tablets or involuntary surgical sterilizations. Tunisia's population pyramid confirms that the people's fertility has been interfered with since the late 1960s.

The coordinating institution for Tunisia's depopulation efforts is the Office National de la Famille et de la Population (ONFP) and its method of mass sterilization is fluoridated water from aquifers with naturally high fluorine concentrations (such as the Triassic aquifer of South Eastern Tunisia) or by adding fluoride to the drinking water.

By contrast, the rural population is sterilized with fluoridated salt. Since I could find no documents announcing either salt or water fluoridation, I can only conclude that Tunisia sterilizes its people with fluoridated water and salt outside any legal framework and without the people's knowledge or consent. The high prevalence of mottled teeth in the Tunisian population, the praise the World Bank bestows on Tunisia for having one of the best family planning programs in the world, and the autocratic nature of Tunisia's government from independence in 1956 until the Jasmine Revolution in 2011, suggest mass sterilization through chronic fluoride poisoning.

If your government continues to poison the people into sterility, and in the process poisons them also into ill-health, imbecility and genetic deterioration, there will be no Tunisians left a century from now other than the criminals in power who poison the people into oblivion. The secret of covert depopulation by chemical and biological means is now out thanks to me, President Marzouki and Prime Minister Jomaa, and I suggest you change course immediately or face life imprisonment in the near future.

The callousness of Tunisia's civil servants and the inadequacy and corruption of the political system resulted in the tragic self-immolation of Mohamed Bouazizi in 2011, which precipitated the Jasmine Revolution and contributed to the Arab Spring revolutions. I hope that you learned a lesson from this incident, namely that unless social pressures are addressed and the government is responsive to the concerns of the people the leadership will be made accountable. Unlike President Ben Ali, who fled to Saudi Arabia, you will have nowhere to run to because the awakening is now global.

You should therefore welcome the opportunity I give you to change course as a godsend and act upon it immediately, before it is too late. I may very well be saving your life and certainly your legacy. To this end I provide you with my work free of cost:

that you will instruct Tunisia's permanent mission at the UN to compel General-Secretary Ban Ki-Moon to allow the UN General Assembly to vote on this existential issue.

The UN bureaucracy is well aware that poverty cannot be eradicated, peace cannot be preserved, and the climate cannot be kept from warming without a depopulation effort to complement the decarbonization effort and that neither can be accomplished by hiding the truth. As the sanctuary of truth, I play a pivotal role in saving mankind from self-destruction and helping the international community back to sanity. Add your voice to mine and we will succeed.

The man responsible for adopting the UN's genocidal methods of population control in 1966 and starting to implement them in Tunisia is Habib Bourguiba, the first President of Tunisia (1957-1987). During his leadership the total fertility rate declined from 7 to 4 children per woman even though contraceptives were non-existent in Tunisia throughout the sixties and seventies and averaged only 40% during the eighties.

His successors, Zine El Abidine Ben Ali (1987-2011) and Moncef Marzouki (2011-2014), have followed suit and are equally responsible for genocide. They managed to suppress fertility from 4 to replacement level by 2000, where it remains to this day, despite a contraceptive prevalence rate that has never exceeded 65%.

Abortion is legal and common in Tunisia but at less than 10%, since 1976, it cannot possibly account for the low fertility.

The UN states:

“The liberalization of abortion in the penal law is only one element of the global policy of the Tunisian Government with regard to fertility and population growth. Tunisia was the first country in Africa (or the Middle East) to adopt an official national policy directed to reducing fertility as a means of improving socio-economic development. After Tunisia attained independence from France in 1956, the Government enacted a number of legislative changes in order to change public opinion concerning the status of women. Legislation enacted in 1956 provided equal rights for women, while the Personal Status Code abolished polygamy and repudiation, introduced women’s right to divorce and set a minimum age for marriage. In 1961, the Government added to its goals the reduction of fertility and passed a law that repealed the French anticontraception law of 1920, stating that the importation, sale and advertising of contraceptives would be henceforth regulated by the legislation governing other pharmaceutical products. In 1964, the minimum age at marriage was raised, the number of children entitled to receive family allowances was limited to four and the National Family Planning Programme was implemented in a few regions, before being implemented throughout the country in 1966. In 1965, the first liberalization of abortion took place; however, the law was soon considered to be too restrictive and not in conformity with the family planning and fertility objectives of the country.

In 1973, when the new abortion law was approved, the Office National de la Famille et de la Population was created to direct the family planning programme. It was also charged with conducting demographic research and with informing and educating the public about family planning and family health. Subsequently, in 1988, the number of children entitled to receive family allowances was further limited to three. All along, legislative action was complemented by other measures intended to raise the status of the woman and decrease fertility, such as providing schooling for both sexes, affirming the right of women to practise contraception and using the media to encourage family planning. Family planning was fully integrated into the basic health care system and maternal care centers were created to provide abortions and other services. In the Eighth Plan, for the period 1992-1996, the Government identified the demographic targets of increasing contraceptive prevalence from 53 per cent in 1991 to 64 by 2001 and of reducing the total fertility rate to 2.6, with the view of achieving a rate of 2.1 by 2026.”

Since Tunisia reached the rate of 2.1 children per woman in the year 2000, the country is well ahead of its targets.

Tunisia is in stage four of the demographic transition.

President Erdoğan and Prime Minister Davutoğlu,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Turkey joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1963 and the total fertility rate decreased from 6 children per woman to only 2 as of 2011, but has been close to replacement level since 2005.

As in the western world, Turkey adulterates the basic elements of life – water, food, beverages – with endocrine disruptors (fluoride, bisphenol A, artificial sweeteners) to suppress fertility and keep its citizens in a chronic state of poisoning also via adulterated dental and cosmetic products.

Considering that Turkey's population has nearly quadrupled since 1950 and currently numbers 75 million, and that the country has reached a high population density of 97 people per km², it was imperative for Turkey to implement population control measures and defuse its population bomb. According to the latest population projections, Turkey's population will peak at 84 million by 2023 and will start gradually decreasing to a level that is sustainable, which according to the overshoot index is 48 million. It is undoubtedly the hidden objective of the Turkish government to shed 27 million or 36% of its people through covert and immoral methods of depopulation devised by the West and pushed by the UN and its agencies.

The necessity of population control is unquestionable and inevitable, but the methods are criminal and immoral as well as no longer necessary. These methods are in use with the full knowledge and consent of the current and past Turkish governments, which is why you, President Erdoğan, are being dishonest when stating today, just as you are about to welcome Pope Francis in your capital city, that "the West wants us dead".

It is not the West who wants you dead, but the environmental and economic realities of a finite planet that demand a drastic population reduction from Turkey as well as from nearly all other countries in the world if we are to survive as a species and as a civilization.

While such statements may give you political leverage to extract from the international community favorable economic conditions, they will have only negative effects on the wellbeing of the Turkish people because they are designed to keep the status quo in place while blaming outsiders for your country's woes.

As a people and as a species we have reached a point in our history where we can no longer afford to sacrifice the truth for short-term political or economic gains. The political advantages of this or that party, and of this or that social class, are completely irrelevant in the grand scheme of things and we, the people, are sick and tired of being served the same bullshit in different wrapping paper. So cut the crap, President Erdoğan, and help me forge global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative that no country and no individual can henceforth escape. For if you and your counterparts around the world do not, we, the people, will throw our political leaders aside and in prison like dirty rags for committing genocide and crimes against humanity to put their petty interests before the existential threats that mankind must face as one.

I am giving you the opportunity to become an honest man and to play a vital role in the salvation of our children and of our planet. Take my offer and you will receive the gratitude of this and future generations. Ignore it and your name will be written in infamy in the annals of history. The man responsible for adopting covert depopulation measures in 1963 is General Cemal Gürsel, Turkey's President from 1960 to 1965 and Prime Minister from 1960 to 1961. Not surprisingly, he was also Chief of Intelligence and Commander of the Turkish Army from 1958 to 1960. He assumed power after a military coup ousted President Celâl Bayar (1950-1960).

The program has been continued without interruption by his successors: General Cevdet Sunay (1966-1973), Admiral Fahri Korutürk (1973-1980), General Kenan Evren (1980-1989), Turgut Özal (1989-1993, poisoned to death by General Levent Ersöz), Süleyman Demirel (1993-2000, Prime Minister from 1965 to 1971, 1975 to 1977, 1977-1978, 1979-1980, and 1991-1993), Ahmet Necdet Sezer (2000-2007), and Abdullah Gül (2007-2014).

Equally responsible are the following Prime Ministers: İsmet İnönü (1961-1965, and two previous terms), Süleyman Demirel (1965-1971, 1975-1977, 1977-1978, 1979-1980, and 1991-1993, also President from 1993-2000, see above), Bülent Ulusu (1980-1983), Turgut Özal (1983-1989, also President from 1989 to 1993, see above), Yıldırım Akbulut (1989-1991), Tansu Çiller (1993-1996), Necmettin Erbakan (1996-1997), Mesut Yılmaz (1997-1999), Bülent Ecevit (1999-2002), and Abdullah Gül (2002-2003, also President from 2007-2014, see above), and Recep Tayyip Erdoğan (2003-2014).

Through their combined efforts – efforts that have always been coerced and overseen by the Turkish military, which has been in control of the covert depopulation program and of the country until Recep Tayyip Erdoğan became Prime Minister in 2003 – they have succeeded in lowering fertility from 6 to 2 children per woman, a level reached in 2010.

As elsewhere in the world so in Turkey, the contraceptive prevalence rate has been raised to conceal the use of covert methods of sterilization, which in Turkey, as in the West, are primarily based on endocrine disruptors.

The historical record shows that Turkey did have the highest abortion rate in the Middle East in the 1990s when 20% of all pregnancies ended with an abortion. Since the turn of the 21st century, however, the abortion rate has dropped below 5% and plays an insignificant role in the country's low fertility.

Judging by the high and rising contraceptive prevalence rate, however, it is clear that the Turkish government is making genuine efforts to retire covert methods of depopulation and replace them with the people's voluntary use of contraceptives. This strategy will fail unless buttressed by legislation that restricts families to two children.

Turkey has been rewarded for its covert depopulation efforts with a growing GDP. As the data shows, the GDP did not start to boom until the year 2000, which is when Turkey reached replacement level fertility and the country's wealth was no longer being diluted by a plethora of children and an exploding population.

Turkey is in stage four of the demographic transition.

President Berdimuhamedow,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Turkmenistan joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1993, two years after gaining its independence from the Soviet Union, when the National Immunization Programme (NIP) was developed in collaboration with UNICEF and WHO, the result of which Turkmenistan's total fertility rate declined from 4.5 to 2.5 children per woman today.

Having the world's fourth largest reserves of natural gas, Turkmenistan can afford to pay for its own vaccines, which it purchases from UNICEF. The fact that your government has allocated four times more money for vaccines for the period 2010 to 2015 than for the 2006 to 2009 period signals your intention to reduce your people's fertility down to replacement level via an intensified vaccination program.

Considering that Turkmenistan's population has grown from 1.2 million people in 1950 to 5 million today, I can understand your government's decision to stop the population from growing but I warn you that if you continue to do it by subverting your people's fertility under the pretext of improved healthcare, without their knowledge or consent, you will face charges of crimes against humanity within a few short years.

You are an elected official and have no mandate to decide who has children, when and how many. You have therefore assumed powers that you are not entitled to and that constitute genocide. You should also keep in mind that the days of the UN and its agencies are numbered because I have exposed their genocidal actions and civil society is awakening to the horror. As such, their technical and moral support will no longer be there once we begin arresting the high ranking officials of the UN, WHO, UNICEF, UNFPA, and other organizations involved in the global genocide.

I urge you to be proactive and break rank with this coalition of forces that have committed genocide since 1945 and to legislate population control. I also urge you to throw your support behind my effort to forge global consensus for a worldwide population control law as a Planetary

Security Prerogative and to exercise pressure on the UN Security Council through your nation's UN mission to help the world pursue population control legally and honorably.

To understand how precarious the global situation is and why every human being on the planet must henceforth exercise control over his or her reproductive rights, you can access my work free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

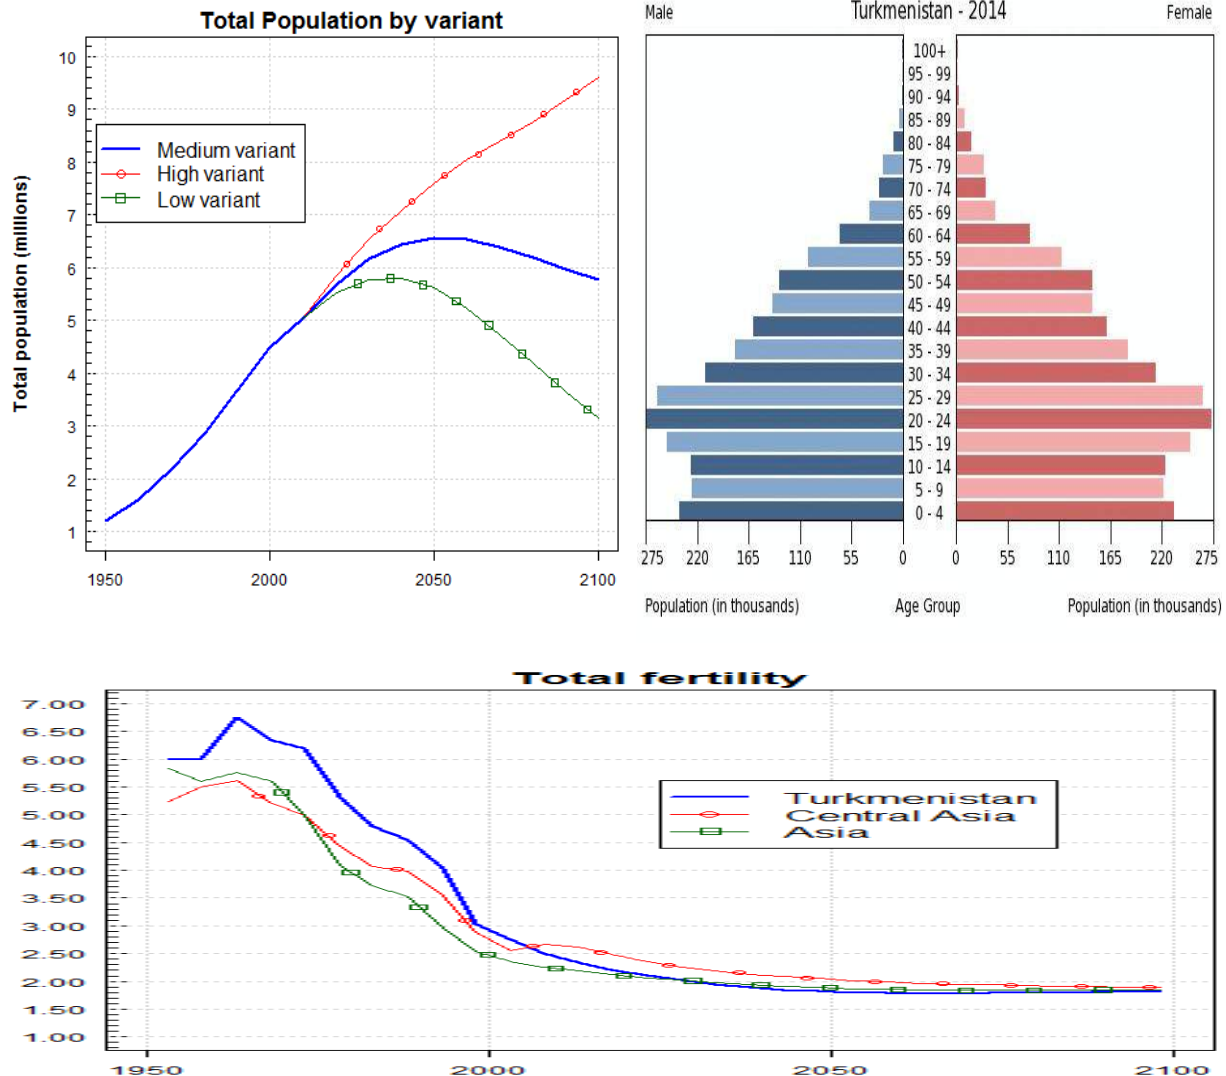

My work will also help you understand the consequences that you will face if you do not change course and the damage that is being done to your people through the abuse and misuse of medicine and science, which have been reduced by the international community to handmaidens of genocide.

The secrecy is gone and the crimes that are being committed for demographic objectives can no longer be hidden by the global apparatus of lies, deception, propaganda, and censorship. If you believe yourself protected by this international system and above the law you will soon find out otherwise.

I look forward to meeting with you to discuss these matters.

Sincerely,

As elsewhere in the Soviet Union and in the West, population control measures began in 1962 and were imposed on Turkmenistan, then the Turkmen Soviet Socialist Republic, by the Soviets. From 1962 until independence in 1991, Turkmenistan's fertility declined from 6 to 4 children per woman; a decline that can be explained by family planning services and psychosocial measures such as compulsory education for boys and girls, delayed marriage and women's employment.

Since independence, however, fertility has declined from 4 to 2.3 children per woman despite a contraceptive prevalence rate that never exceeded 62% and that for the past ten years has been below 48%.

Decreasing fertility accompanied by decreasing use of contraceptives indicates that the freely elected government of Turkmenistan now relies exclusively on covert methods of depopulation to accomplish its demographic goals.

Turkmenistan has chosen sterilizing vaccines from the UN's arsenal of depopulation weapons to suppress fertility and engineer its demographic transition.

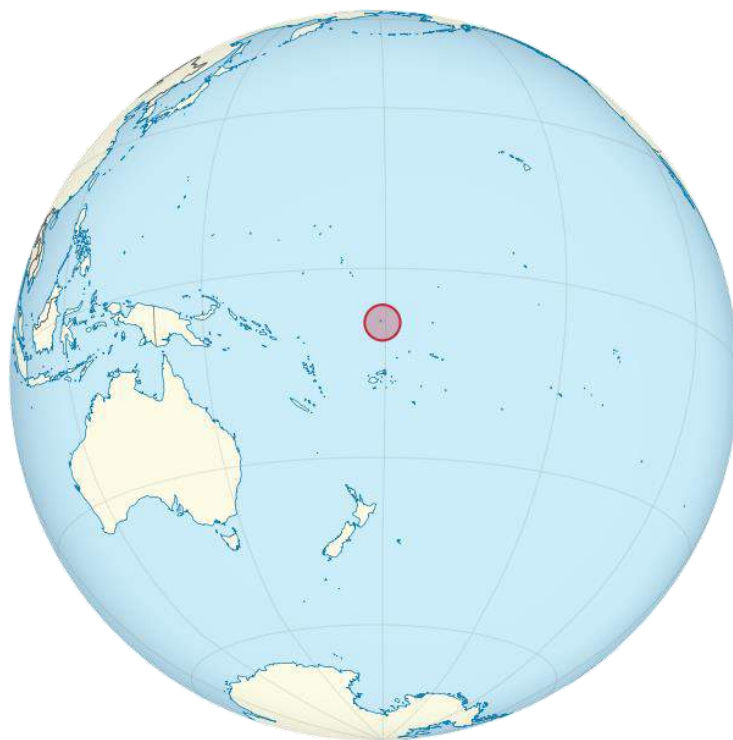

The historical record shows that abortion did play a role in Turkmenistan's fertility decline during the 1980s and 1990s when circa 21% of all pregnancies ended in abortion. Since the turn of the 21st century, however, when covert sterilization through adulterated vaccines and endocrine disruptors replaced the psychosocial methods of population control employed during the Soviet era, the abortion rate has been below 10% and cannot possibly account for the country's low fertility.

Ever since Turkmenistan's fertility came down to near replacement level at the turn of the century, its GDP has started rising. Even in former communist countries, whose economies have been devastated by central planning, we see that demographic discipline quickly results in growing affluence.

gmbt@tuvalu.tv, nbt@tuvalu.tv, tuvalu@onecommonwealth.org

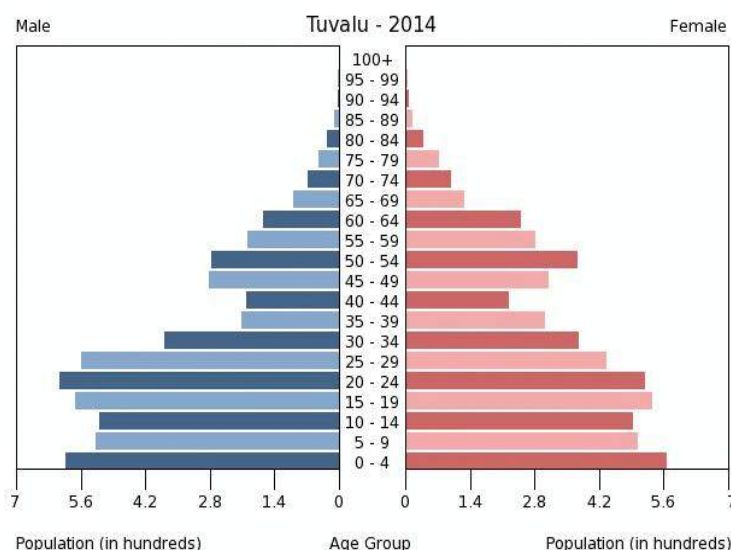

Prime Minister Sopoaga,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Tuvalu was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy without its people's knowledge and consent by its British overlords in 1965, thirteen years before becoming independent, and its total fertility rate declined from 5.6 children per woman in the 1960s, to 3.3 by 1973, and to 2 by 2002, according to a government study funded by UNICEF.

The Tuvalu Demographic and Health Survey 2007, however, shows a total fertility rate of 3.9, which means that covert depopulation measures were relaxed from 2003 onward. In 2014, the total fertility rate is estimated to be at 3 children per woman.

The bands in Tuvalu's population pyramid reflect the country's erratic population control measures and suggest that after independence the government of Tuvalu proceeded with greater concern for the people's reproductive rights than the former British administrators.

Judging by the extraordinarily high levels of obesity in Tuvalu, where nine out of ten women and eight out of ten men are obese (as well as 50% of children aged 15 to 19), it is clear that the decline in fertility was accomplished by adulterating either the food or the water with endocrine disruptors. The British most likely poisoned the people of Tuvalu into infertility with fluoride supplements while the current administration poisons its people either knowingly or unknowingly with bottled water containing fluoride and packaged in bisphenol A plastic bottles. Injectable contraceptives, at 8.4%, and female sterilization, at 8.5%, cannot account for the low fertility rates, especially since 70% of all Tuvaluan women do not use any contraceptives whatsoever and 74% of married women aged 15-49 have no intention of using contraceptives in the future, according to the government's 2007 survey.

With a population that has doubled since 1980, a small landmass of just 26 square kilometers (the fourth smallest in the world), and a very high population density of 476 people per square kilometer (the 26th densest in the world), Tuvalu has reached the limits of its natural environment and has no choice but to restrict its people to replacement level fertility. So far, population pressures have been alleviated by emigration, and currently 7 out of every 1000 Tuvaluans leave the country to settle elsewhere while many others work abroad or on merchant ships to support their families at home.

Since Tuvalu is in danger of being submerged by rising sea levels due to climate change, sustainability is high on the agenda of your government and you have rightfully committed your nation through the Majuro Declaration to implement power generation of 100% renewable energy by 2020. But decarbonization without depopulation is meaningless, which is why I urge you to bring the current program of covert depopulation out in the open so as to empower your people with knowledge and safe contraceptives to assume control over the size of their families and restrict their fertility to replacement level. That is the only way you will attain sustainability and preserve your people from ill-health and eventual extinction, which are inevitable consequences of the current covert methods of depopulation via endocrine disruptors.

To educate yourself and your people, I provide you with my work free of charge in the hope that you will use it immediately and extensively:

And if you truly want your people to be able to remain on the islands rather than be relocated elsewhere, as you have stated in 2013 when you said “we really need to mobilise public opinion in the Pacific as well as in the world to really talk to their lawmakers to please have some sort of moral obligation”, you have a duty to tell your people and the world the truth about covert depopulation, because sustainability without depopulation and decarbonization is impossible.

The good news is that since I have already broken the ice and freed the truth, you don't have to be brave or show leadership. All you need to do is follow my lead and add your voice to mine. Only when you have done this and all other heads of state around the world have done the same will mankind be able to embark on a sustainable course.

Let me know when you are ready to do your duty rather than just pay lip service to it and I will help you in any way I can and free of cost.

Covert methods of depopulation were forced on Tuvalu in 1965 by Robert Sidney Foster, High Commissioner of Tuvalu (1964-1969), when the island was part of the British Western Pacific Territories and administered as the Gilbert and Ellis Islands. They were continued by his successors, Michael David Irving Gass (1969-1971) and Donald Luddington (1972-1976). By the time the British handed Tuvalu its independence in 1976 the total fertility rate had been lowered from nearly 6 to 3 children per woman.

Since independence in 1978 responsibility for covert sterilization passed onto the shoulders of the following prime ministers: Toaripi Lauti (1978-1981, served also as the first Chief Minister of the Ellis islands from 1975 to 1978 so he could be taught by the British how to commit genocide on the sly), Tomasu Puapua (1981-1989), Bikenibeu Paeniu (1989-1993, 1996-1999), Kamuta Latasi (1993-1996), Ionatana Ionatana (1999-2000), Lagitupu Tuilimu (2000-2001), Faimalaga Luka (2001-2001), Koloa Talake (2001-2002), Saufatu Sopoanga (2002-2004), Maatia Toafa (2004-2006, 2010-2010), Apisai Ielemia (2006-2010), Willy Telavi (2010-2013), and incumbent Enele Sopoanga (since August 2013).

The first ten prime ministers, through their combined efforts depressed fertility from 3 to 2 children per woman. The last three prime ministers have relaxed the policy and have allowed fertility to climb back up to 3 children per woman.

That low fertility has absolutely nothing to do with affluence, is plainly demonstrated by Tuvalu's low per capita income of just $3,400, which makes it a poor country. And that it has nothing to do with contraceptives is equally plainly demonstrated by Tuvalu's low contraceptive prevalence rate of less than 30%. As for abortion it is illegal in Tuvalu and allowed only to save the mother's life.

Tuvalu is in stage three of the demographic transition.

President Museveni, Vice-President Ssekandi and Prime Minister Rugunda,

Re: covert depopulation measures

With a fertility rate of 6 children per woman (the fifth highest fertility rate in the world), a population that has grown fivefold since 1950 (from 4.8 to 34 million), nearly 40% of the population living on less than $1.25 a day, more than half of the population being below the age of 15 (the highest percentage in the world), the country being landlocked and underdeveloped, corruption being so out of control that Ugandan parliamentarians earn 60 times more than state employees and still asked for a major increase in 2014, aid having been recently suspended by most foreign donors due to the embezzlement of funds earmarked for the poor, and a population projected to reach 100 million by 2050, Uganda is in serious trouble.

Not surprisingly, the depopulation lobby is pushing your administration to pass the National Biotechnology and Biosafety Bill, which was tabled in parliament in 2012 to allow GMO crops in Uganda, GMOs being the latest and most sophisticated weapon of depopulation. Not surprisingly, a vitamin A enriched GMO banana developed with a 10 million dollar grant by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation (the world's foremost private organization dedicated to covert depopulation methods) is being tested in Uganda and touted as a solution to blindness due to vitamin deficiency. Not surprisingly, new proposals were made in 2013 to allow GMO bananas to be commercialized and free from ongoing research before being introduced to consumers. Not surprisingly, to put pressure on your administration to pass the National Biotechnology and Biosafety Bill, four outbreaks of Marburg hemorrhagic fever, an Ebola-like illness, have struck Uganda in just 8 years and none before 2007. Not surprisingly, the Marburg virus did not exist until 1967 when it was "identified" in Germany and Yugoslavia and "traced back” to laboratory monkeys from Uganda. Not surprisingly, the Soviets weaponized the Marburg virus in the 1980s and work on it continues to this day in three research institutes, which is why the death rate of the Marburg hemorrhagic fever outbreaks that have hit Uganda in 2007, 2008, 2012 and 2014 ran as high as 80%. Not surprisingly, the Marburg virus is highly contagious which is why it is classified as a category A Bioterrorism Agent by the Center for Disease Control and as a Category A Priority Pathogen by the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases and requires biosafety level 4 containment, the highest level there is “required for work with dangerous and exotic agents that pose a high individual risk of aerosol-transmitted laboratory infections, agents which cause severe to fatal disease in humans for which vaccines or other treatments are not available”.

Given your country’s precarious demographic situation, the pressure placed on your administration by the depopulation lobby to allow them to poison your people into sterility with GMOs, and the implied threat that unless you comply they will unleash a pandemic in Uganda with their weaponized Marburg virus the way they have unleashed the Ebola virus on West Africa, I suggest you immediately institute a one-child policy and freely distribute contraceptives to every corner of the country with UN aid money.

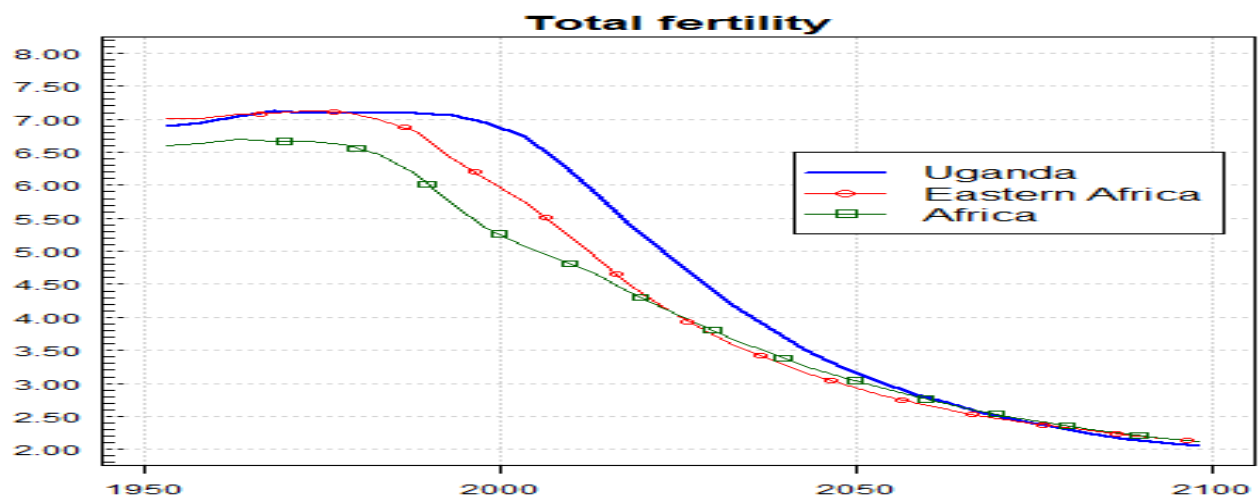

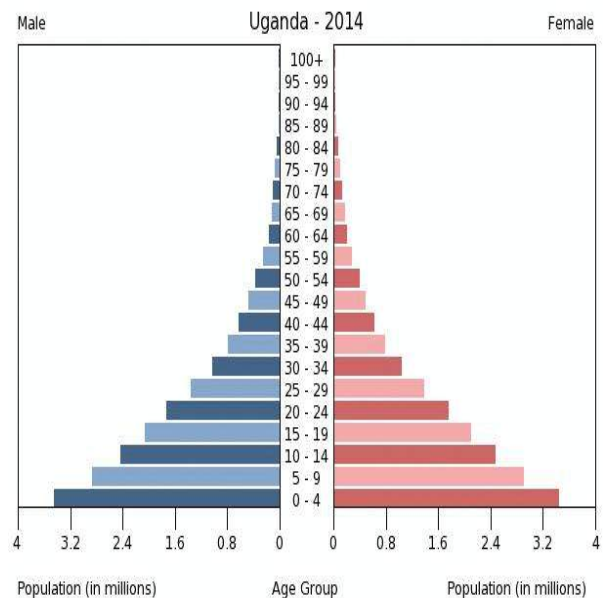

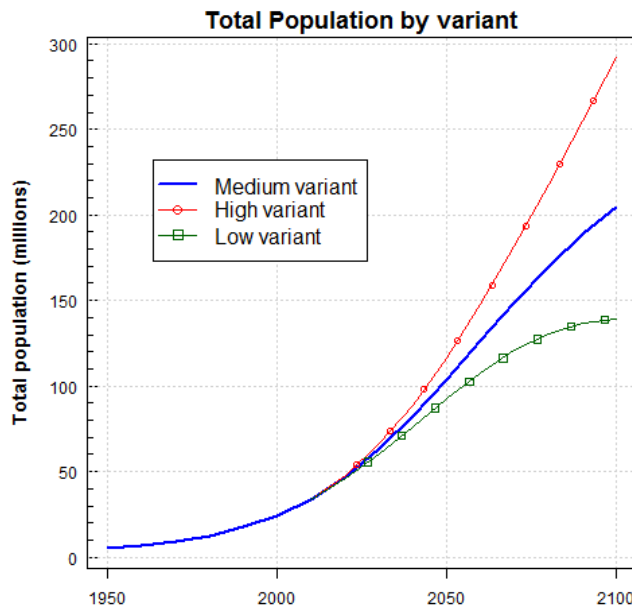

Absent such drastic measures by your government, your people will be at the receiving end of brutal depopulation measures for the next 50 years and the country will be emptied of all Ugandans, be they from the Bantu, Nilotic or Central Sudanic ethnic groups.

For your own protection, I also advise you to put all your efforts into helping me forge global consensus for a worldwide population control law and to reach out to every other African leader so as to put up a united front and demand global legislation to replace the current global genocide.

I stand by to assist you in any way I can.

Sincerely,

Petro Poroshenko, President of Ukraine

Arseniy Yatsenyuk, Prime Minister of Ukraine

press@yatsenyuk.org.ua

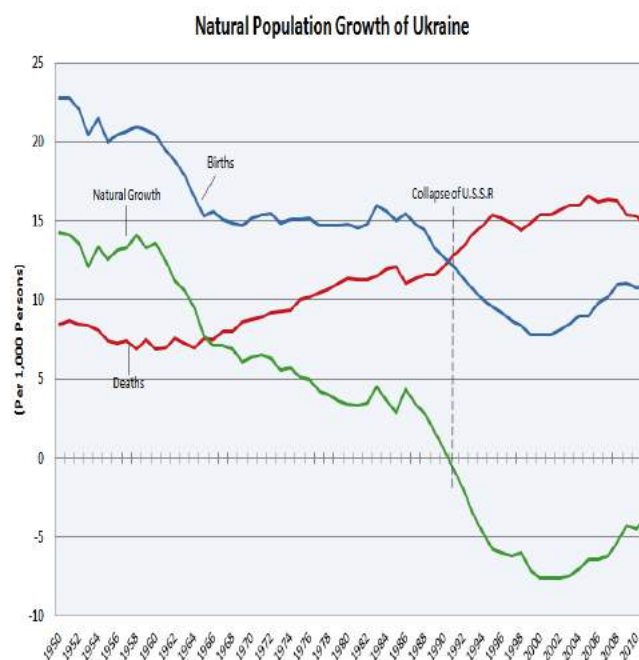

President Poroshenko and Prime Minister Yatsenyuk,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

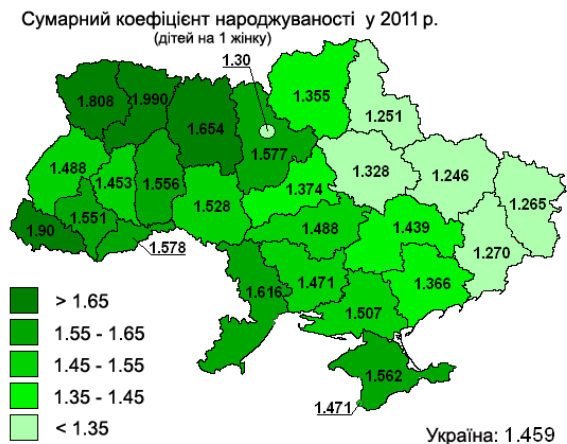

“Ukraine Has Not Yet Died”, according to your national anthem, but it is dying. Between the atrocities committed by the Nazis (systematic depopulation in preparation for German colonization, forcible conscription into the German army) and the Soviets (the Holodomor famine, the Stalinist purge of “nationalist deviationists”, and the Great Terror) Ukraine has lost a quarter of its population and four-fifths of its cultural elites to war and ethnic cleansing between 1930 and 1950.

From 1949 until your independence from the Russians in 1991, you were subjected to a covert depopulation program by fluoride orchestrated by the US, UK, and the Soviet Union, with the tacit cooperation of China and France, at the UN Security Council level. As a result of this scientific genocide, births have been going down and deaths have been going up throughout these four decades. The total fertility rate declined from 3 to 1.8 children per woman and the crude death rate went from 8.8 to 11.9 deaths per 1000 during this period. As if on cue, your population has been decreasing since 1991, the year of your independence, when the engineered genocide passed from Russian into Western hands and was accelerated and intensified with chemtrails and toxic food imports.

From 1991 until today you have lost 6.5 million people or 12.5% of your population and you now have more old than young people and a high dependence rate, which are the typical features of a country that has reached the last stage of the demographic transition.

What is peculiar about your demographic trends since your independence from Russia and your close cooperation with the West, is that you have used the covert program of depopulation to engage in ethnically cleansing your country of Russians, which is why the total fertility rate is lower and the death rate higher in the eastern provinces of your country, where the population is mostly Russian, than in the rest of the country where it is homogenously Ukrainian. This is undoubtedly one of the reasons that led to the conflict with Russia over Crimea.

Given the horrors and injustices you have suffered for the past century due to Russian aggression, one can understand your desire to turn the tables on the Russians and free your country from their presence. Unfortunately, this policy of reversed ethnic cleansing has forced the Russians to protect the overwhelmingly Russian population of Crimea by annexing it to Russia. Of course, since the Russians are using the same covert methods of depopulation on their Circassian and Tatarstani ethnic minorities, both of whom are Sunni Muslims, as well as on the Old Believers who multiply too fast and challenge the authority of the Russian Orthodox Church, the Russian government cannot openly declare their true reasons for the intervention in Crimea.

You can continue to commit genocide and target your minorities with extra fervor, in which case you will most likely lose the entire eastern side of your country to Russia, or you can help me forge global consensus for worldwide population control legislation, which will ease the tensions between you and Russia and return the world to sanity.

You have emerged from lowest-low fertility (defined as total fertility below 1.3) in 2008 by providing child support, but you will not bring your total fertility rate up to replacement level until you stop all covert methods of depopulation and protect your people from poisonous food and beverages imported from western Europe, which are laced with endocrine disruptors, and stop vaccinating your people with adulterated vaccines and poisoning them from the air with chemtrails.

To achieve a stabilization of your population at the desired, sustainable level you must stop the genocide and pass proper laws. If you do not, you will end up in front of a firing squad in the not so distant future.

You have lost 60% of your GDP from 1991 to 1999 and have suffered high inflation rates not because you changed from a centrally planned to a free market economy but because you were losing 300,000 people a year due to low fertility rates. You now lose 150,000 people per year and your economy has improved slightly but will remain in recession so long as your population continues to decline.

As Secretary of the National Security and Defense Council of Ukraine since 2004, you, President Poroshenko, are personally responsible for carrying out the war of attrition on your own people through chemical, biological and bacteriological weapons.

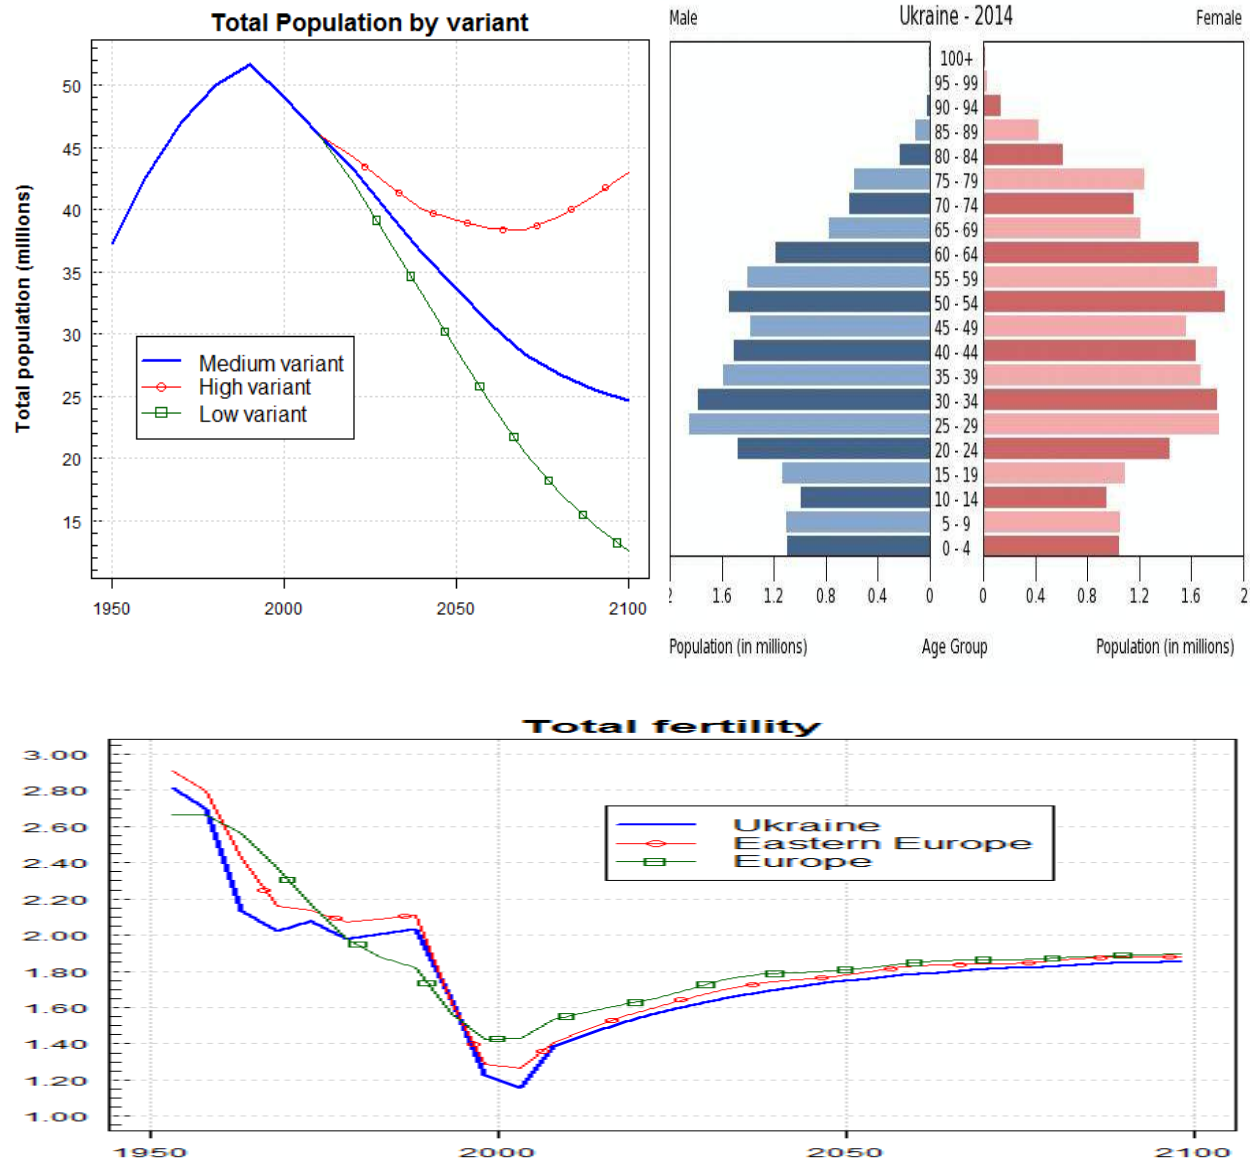

Ukraine is too important geopolitically to be left alone. The world has always fought over the territory that is now Ukraine because it is the breadbasket of Europe and is again fighting over it because food is needed now more than ever as the population is still growing and an additional three billion people will have to be fed by 2050. In addition, Russia will be severely weakened without Ukraine and can then be forced to abandon its independence and be subsumed by the globalized world, which can pave the way for nuclear disarmament and ultimately lead to a borderless world. Of course, the current Russian leadership is fully on board this plan and plays its part in order to exhaust nationalist elements at home and abroad.

While I am eager to see the world get rid of nuclear weapons and borders, I will never condone the annihilation of civilians so long as a viable alternative is available, namely the inclusion of the 99% in the plans of the 1% so we can pursue peace and prosperity through legal and ethical means.

I hope you will abandon the genocidal lobby by joining me so that together we can forge global consensus for a worldwide population control law. If you do not, your future is grim and your names will forever be inscribed in history as that of mass murderers.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

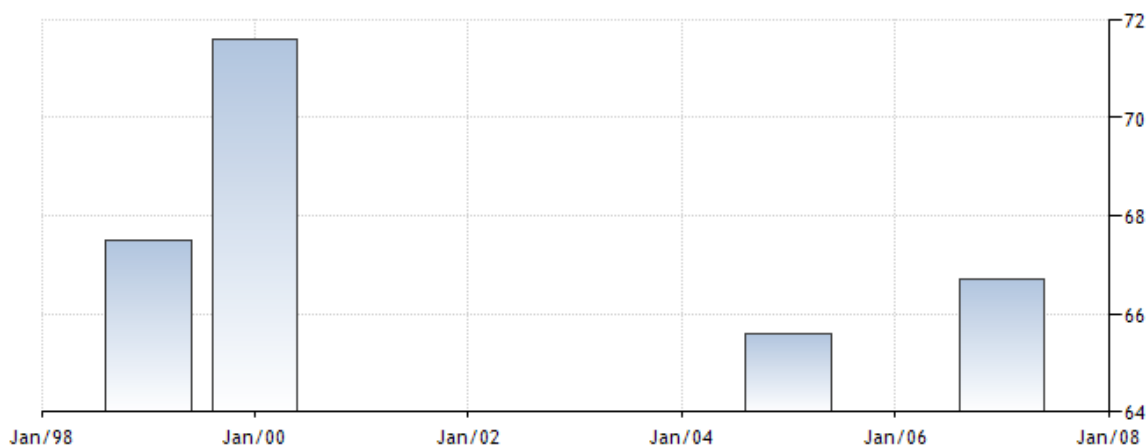

Covert population control measures were imposed on Ukraine by the Soviet Union in 1949 when the total fertility rate had recovered from the war and reached 3 children per woman and by 1962 had already been lowered to replacement level. Between 1962 and 1989 fertility was kept at replacement level.

In 1991, when Ukraine broke away from the crumbling Soviet Union, western methods and targets of covert depopulation were adopted by Ukraine's freely elected leaders and fertility declined rapidly from 2 to a lowest low of 1.1 by 2001 and remains at sub-replacement level to this day (1.4 in 2014). Since Ukraine reached replacement level very early, in 1962, its population peaked early too, in 1993, and has been rapidly decreasing since and has lost 14% to date (from 52 to 45 million).

The men responsible for Ukraine's demographic collapse since independence are: Leonid Kravchuk (1991-1994), Leonid Kuchma (1994-2005), Viktor Yushchenko (2005-2010), Viktor Yanukovych (2010-2014), and the incumbent Petro Poroshenko (since June 2014).

President Kuchma made an attempt to raise the contraceptive prevalence rate but abandoned it after the turn of the century. Ukraine's contraceptive prevalence rate has never played a significant role in the fertility decline, which is why whether it goes up or down it has no effect on the total fertility rate, which is controlled by the government through chemical poison and not by the people with contraceptives.

The historical record shows that abortions did play a significant role from 1960 until 2000 when 60% of all pregnancies ended with an abortion. Since the turn of the 21st century, however, the abortion rate has decreased to 22%. As endemic endocrine disruptors have damaged human fertility, conception has become rather precious and consequently abortion has become far less common.

Mohammed bin Rashid Al Maktoum
Prime Minister of the United Arab Emirates
<http://uaepm.ae/English/Pages/ContactUs.aspx>

President Al Nahyan and Prime Minister Al Maktoum,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The United Arab Emirates joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1971, the same year it became a UN member state and the total fertility rate has declined during this period from 6.4 to 1.9 children per woman. This extraordinary drop in fertility was accomplished covertly with western food and beverage imports adulterated with endocrine disruptors. In addition, bottled water high in fluoride obtained from local desalination plants or imported from abroad, as well as fluoride supplements prescribed by dentists and fluoride applications directly in the mouth, ensure that the fertility of your people remains below replacement level.

Of the current 9.2 million people living in the UAE only 15% are native Emiratis while the rest are expatriates. But even without the high number of foreign workers the local population has increased from 70,000 in 1950 to 1.4 million today, an astounding twentyfold increase. Since this growth rate was clearly unsustainable, especially for a country as devoid of fertile land as yours, population control measures had to be implemented and have to remain in place until such time as the UAE becomes sustainable. Currently, the UAE can only maintain such a high population due to its abundant oil and gas resources, which generate more than 85% of your revenue, but which will one day run out.

For the time being, it makes you the second largest economy in the Arab world and provides you with a gross domestic product of about US$400 billion and a per capita income of circa US$63,000, the seventh highest in the world. You therefore have the resources to diversify your economy long before you run out of oil and to educate your people long before you have to suffer privation. What you do not have, however, is the time necessary for the deep decarbonization required of every nation by 2030 in order to prevent global warming and environmental catastrophe, which is why your government has joined other governments around the world to accelerate and intensify the global genocide perpetrated in the name of peace and security, as a substitute to war, since 1945 and out of environmental desperation since the year 2000.

If you continue to be partners in genocide you will face the death penalty once you are convicted of crimes against humanity and genocide. Yes, the UAE has no choice but to depopulate but it need not do so in secret and to the benefit of only the governing class. It can legislate replacement level fertility or a one-child policy if need be and accomplish the necessary demographic objectives fairly, safely and within the law.

To understand just how devastating the current covert methods of chemical sterilization are I urge you to read my book Chemical and Biological Depopulation, which you can obtain free of cost along with the rest of my work here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

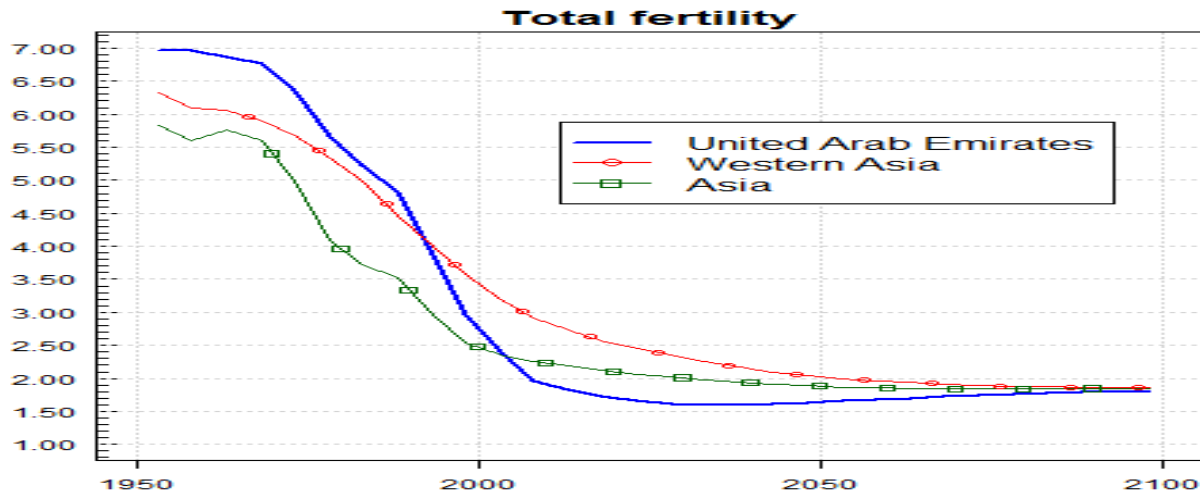

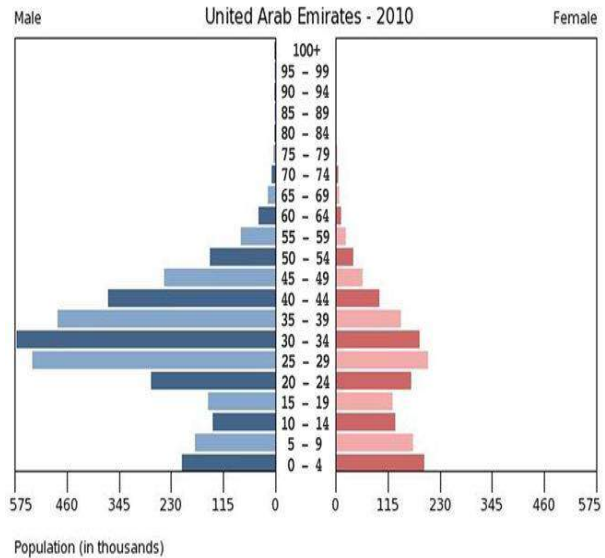

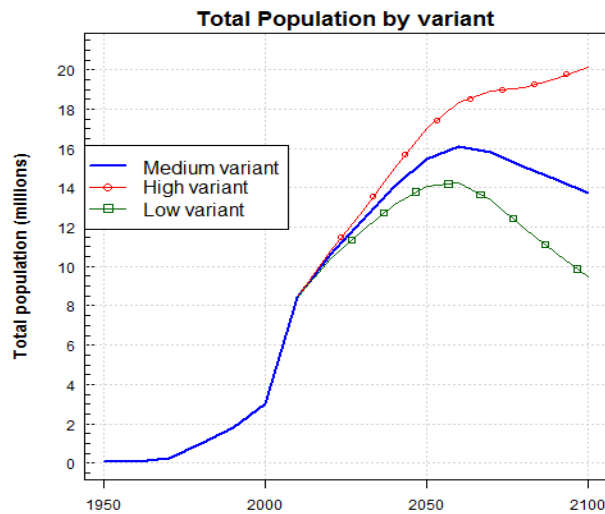

I also urge you to cease and desist your cooperation with the UK government and its intelligence services in the hope of successfully carrying out an attempt on my life. I do not appreciate your government's recent decoy invitation by a dummy corporation named ADGECO, which is a front for your ministry of the interior, to get me to apply for employment in the UAE in order to obtain my residential address and other details necessary to successfully carry out a hit on my life. You should know that I am fully aware of your intentions and that I am forwarding this letter to INTERPOL for my protection. You are already in trouble so do not get yourselves into even deeper trouble. Your days are over and mine are just beginning.

The days of lies and deception have come to an end because I have brought them to an end by freeing the truth. If you ignore this reality and continue to commit genocide you will pay the ultimate price and history as well as the people will judge you harshly. If you however join my effort to forge global consensus for a law that restricts fertility to replacement level worldwide as a Planetary Security Prerogative and help me realize this goal at the global governance level you will have earned the respect of the world and the gratitude of this and future generations. Iran has done it and so have Israel and several other countries. This is the time for the UAE to get on the right side of history. You will not get another opportunity.

If you decide to get on the right side of history I will travel to the UAE to aid you in any way I can.

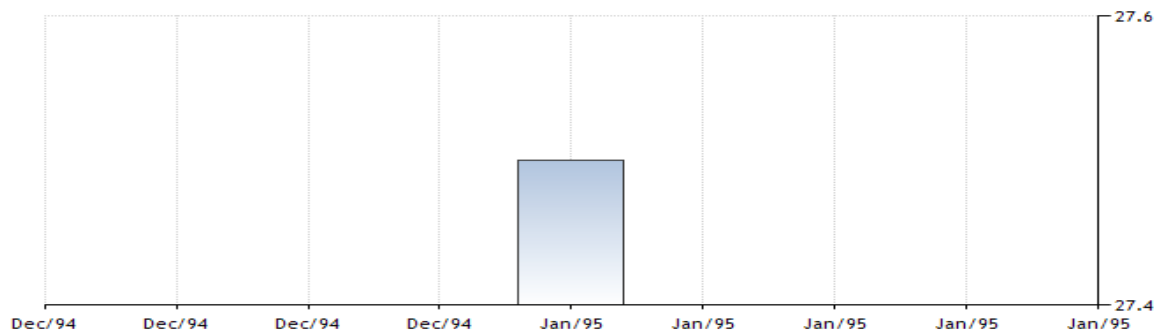

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Governance

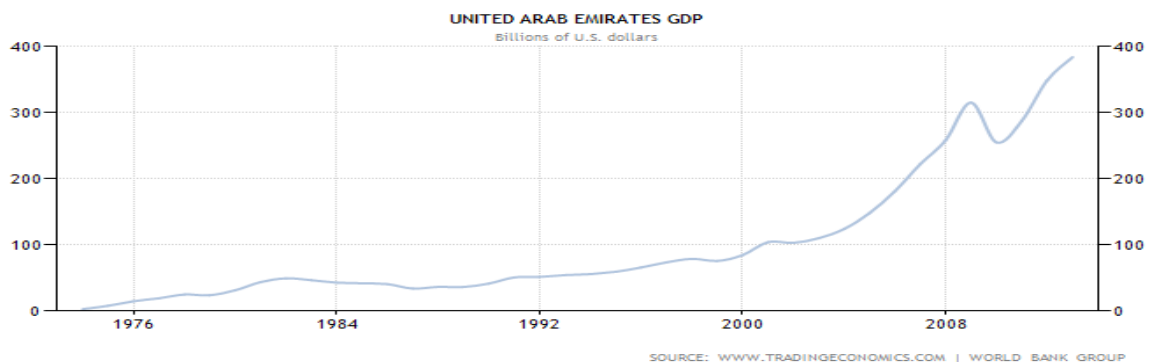

The man responsible for introducing covert methods of depopulation in the UAE in 1971 is President Zayed bin Sultan Al Nahyan (1971-2004). During his reign the total fertility rate decreased from almost 7 to just 2.2 children per woman and did so without the use of contraceptives and therefore entirely due to covert methods of chemical sterilization.

The contraceptive prevalence rate has never exceeded 27% during the reign of Emir Al Nahyan and contraceptives were non-existent prior to the 1990s. More recent data is publicly unavailable but there is no reason to believe that it has gone up. On the contrary, lack of publicly available data most likely means a decrease in contraceptive use. And since this decrease in contraceptives has occurred at the same time as a decrease in fertility, it becomes necessary to conceal the contraceptive prevalence rate in order to hide the true reason for the fertility decline, namely water, food and beverages adulterated with endocrine disruptors.

Abortion is not a factor in the country's fertility decline since it is illegal and performed only to save a woman's life.

The UAE has been rewarded for its war on fertility with an exploding GDP. Such is the boosting power of low fertility for economic prosperity that even for a country as rich in oil as the UAE it proved to be the decisive factor in its growing affluence. As the graph below shows, the GDP did not begin to soar until the turn of the century when the UAE reached replacement level fertility.

The UAE is in stage four of the demographic transition.

Queen Elizabeth,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

The age of monarchies and their cloak and dagger governance has come to an end and I am the final nail in the coffin of these historical anachronisms. You are now faced with the choice of overseeing the destruction of the British monarchy's legacy or ensuring that its final act is honorable and earns the admiration and gratitude of the world and of future generations. Should you continue to listen to your self-serving advisers then the former will happen. Should you however invite me to England to discuss how to forge global consensus for worldwide legislation for population control then the latter will happen.

I hold to key that will free you and the remainder of the world's leaders from the self-created prison you are all trapped in. But you need to ask me to open the door to your prison cell and order your guards to stand down and let me open the door.

The covert depopulation of the world by toxins deliberately inserted in food, water, air, vaccines and even directly into people's mouths for the purpose of causing infertility and shorter lifespans is an affront to God and Nature. The rationale for population control is sound but the methods insane.

I understand that structural obstacles stood in the way of legislating population control and that absent consensus you and the world's leaders had to approve the use of covert methods. I understand that this must have been an agonizing decision but that had you not taken it the world would have been in dire straits. I also understand that the burden of this decision has made your life a living hell. It is time to come out of that hell. It is time to help me tell the world the truth. For only the truth will set us free.

Your subjects have arrested me six times to prevent me from telling the world the truth. With every arrest your credibility and England's reputation have grown weaker and my credibility and reputation have grown stronger. No one can fight truth and justice and I am their sanctuary.

Help me help the world come back to the light.

Sincerely,

David Cameron

Prime Minister of the United Kingdom

<http://www.conservatives.com/Contact.aspx>

Prime Minister Cameron,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

This morning, I had the displeasure of listening to your recent speech at the UN and I can honestly say that I have never heard anything more offensive, distorted, devious and dishonest in my entire life. Your speech is symptomatic of everything that is wrong with the West today. No wonder that hardly anyone was in the assembly hall to listen to you. Even the U.K.'s "allies" are tired of the dribble, cheap propaganda and Machiavellian manipulations emanating from Downing Street.

The purpose of your speech was to further corrupt the international community in general and the UN and its agencies in particular to advance the powers of the global police state instituted by the Anglo-American coalition under the pretext of fighting extremism and terrorism, but in truth needed to stifle free speech, bypass democratic processes, violate the rule of law, censor the media, and control public opinion in order to suppress the truth and complete the covert depopulation and coerced globalization agenda that began in 1945 and that has since served as the axis around which the international community has revolved.

In your speech you call for the criminalization of legitimate dissent and for the imprisonment or expulsion of anyone who refuses to accept the lies disseminated by your government, your American allies and a few other reluctant partners around the world with respect to 9/11, 7/7, the recent Ebola outbreak, ISIS and other events that have long been uncovered by free-thinking and analytical people around the world as false-flag events or strategic acts of destabilization committed by the Anglo-American coalition and its reluctant partners for geopolitical reasons that are sound but that cannot justify such extra-judicial, brutal, immoral and genocidal methods.

You are desperately trying to suppress knowledge of these criminal and genocidal acts because the methods used by your government are in gross violation of national and international law and offend even the most basic moral precepts and cultural values. Your call "for a new special representative on extremism" at the UN continue the destruction of democracy at the global governance level that your country began with UN Security Council Resolution 1624, which the UK drafted and tabled in 2005 and that represents the beginning of the end for all rights and liberties guaranteed by the constitution of every sovereign state.

I have described the consequences of your government's subversion of democracy from the UN level under the pretext of combatting terrorism and radicalization in my book "Hunger Strike: Defending Freedom of Speech, Thought and Conscience in Education". I have yet to publish the evidence I have assembled of the vile and criminal manner in which your government in collusion with the government of Canada have perverted the courts, the police, civil society, the press, and all oversight agencies and the international tribunals in order to falsely charge, arrest and imprison me in retaliation for my courage to speak the truth and expose your government's crimes. But here is a teaser, my Affidavit for Civil Court.

You are the third British Prime Minister since my ordeal began, which is but one of millions of lives destroyed by the system that you represent. That you are reading from the same song-sheet as your predecessors shows that nothing has changed in the UK other than the spokesperson for global genocide and tyranny.

If you want the UK to reclaim a modicum of respect from the world and to begin having at least some credibility, you can start by issuing an official apology to me and my children and compensate us for the destruction of my life, family, career and livelihood. Then and only then will you have provided the necessary evidence that the "special representative on extremism" that you are calling for is not just another step towards even more brutal attacks on our rights and liberties; rights and liberties that our forefathers have bled and died for and that you and your coalition of mass murderers are destroying because you need to keep a tight lid on the truth in order to complete the second phase of the Global Depopulation Policy, which demands the annihilation of billions of people and the continuing subversion of human fertility and health through an accelerated and intensified global program of mass poisoning.

In your speech you said: "Syria needs an inclusive, representative, democratic government that looks after the interests of its people." You are one to talk! You almost lost Scotland because the Scots are sick and tired of the lies and treachery emanating from Westminster. The Scots certainly do not feel represented by the brand of "democracy" practiced in the UK, the same brand you want to saddle the people of Syria with and indeed the people of the world; the brand of "democracy" that sanctions the wholesale poisoning of the populace to extinction by adulterating the water they drink, the food they eat and the air they breathe; the kind of democracy that degrades the genetic and intellectual endowment of mankind; the kind of democracy that deforms children in their mothers' wombs and then sickens them further from the first day of life through environmental poisons that you and your brethren genocidal maniacs have made ubiquitous; the kind of "democracy" that dictates what people are allowed to think and when they are allowed to think. That you can stand in front of the world and speak of democracy and freedom with a straight face given your government's record and the hidden programs you are privy too speaks volumes about your character.

Another gem of a sentence in your UN speech says: “We now have a substantial international coalition in place, including Arab nations, committed to confronting and defeating ISIL.” Let me blow your bubble on that one too. There is no coalition, just a few coerced “partners”.

ISIL is a western creation with multiple objectives: first, it draws in the young and the restless Arab youth and places them under the leadership of CIA and SIS commanders disguised as Muslims who are then manipulating them to cause as much chaos as possible in the region in order to discredit Islam and push the Arab world towards secular, western-style governments that subscribe to the same regime of covert depopulation and corporate impoverishment as the rest of the “free” world. That way, the West destroys the Arab dream of a caliphate and of political self-determination before the Arabs have a chance to even attempt to make it come true. Secondly, it provides an excuse for violating the territorial integrity of Syria to further destabilize the Assad regime with airstrikes on the vital infrastructure that would never be approved by the UN Security Council thus making life even more miserable for the Syrian people in the hope of collapsing the Assad regime. Third, it turns the entire Middle East into a war zone that acts as an impenetrable cordon to immigrants from Sub-Saharan Africa and stops the flow of illegal immigration to Western Europe, capping Africa while the Ebola virus deliberately unleashed in Guinea and Liberia spreads to the entire continent and completes the work of depopulation that was begun with the HIV/AIDS virus that was let loose on the defenseless people of Africa in the late 1970s by the WHO through its smallpox immunization program.

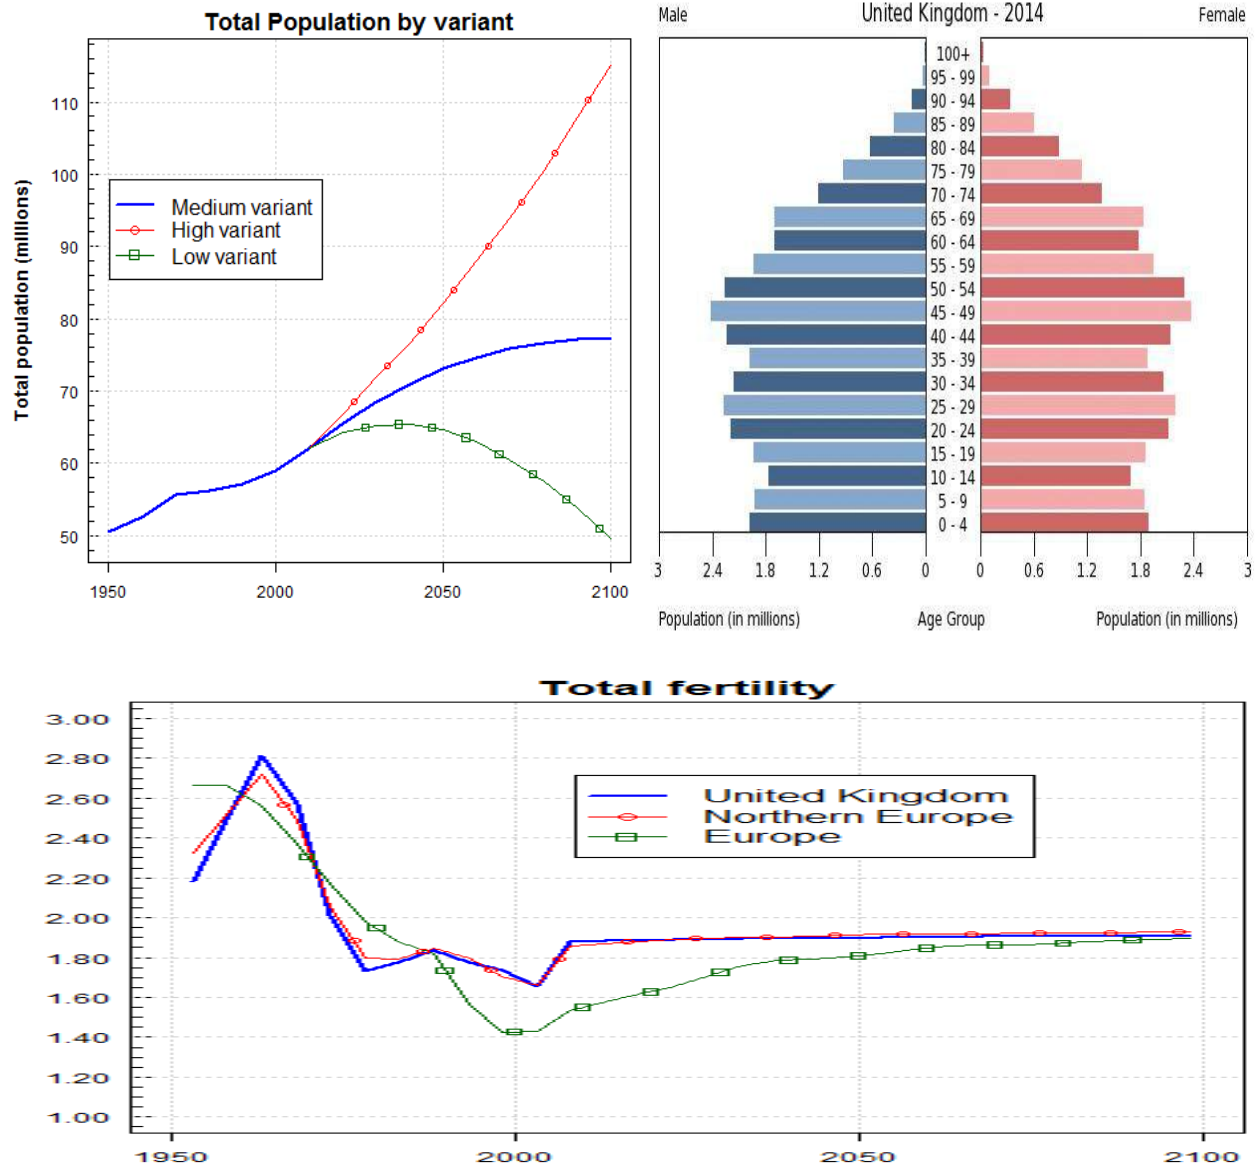

As you can see, Mr. Cameron, the diabolical methods of your coalition of criminals have no traction in the world anymore. The people who have not been rendered brain-dead by seven decades of poisoning with endocrine disruptors are too wise and savvy to be deceived by the lies and the propaganda. Stop committing crimes against humanity in our name and in the name of democracy, freedom and peace. Start telling the truth and help me forge global consensus for worldwide population control legislation so that your successors will not have to lie and look as ridiculous as you do in order to continue to poison us and our children into extinction.

We can accomplish the necessary depopulation and globalization without committing mass murder and condemning the world to poverty, misery and war. But our governments have to work with us and not against us. Unless we of the 99% are included in the future of this planet we will exclude you of the 1% from its future and give you a taste of your own medicine.

If you are not completely delegated by moneyed interests and have a modicum of self-respect, now is the time to meet with me and change course. You will not get another chance to atone for your sins and if you do not seize this opportunity a miserable end will await you in this and the next life.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

The UK hides its vital statistics from 1900 to 1959, but it appears that the government began subverting fertility at war's end and pursued a policy of fertility containment until 1962 when it decided to push fertility down to replacement level.

The United Kingdom began its covert program of depopulation in 1962. Like most of Western Europe the sixties mark the beginning of the second demographic transition, the first one having occurred from 1890 to 1940.

From 1540 to 1890 English women gave birth on average to 5 children. In 1890, however, the British government began suppressing fertility through social rules and education to delay marriage, which resulted in fewer births and also in a lot more abortions and infanticide thus pushing fertility rates down. This first demographic transition then was accomplished through social norms that delayed reproduction and through abortion and infanticide forced on women by society's refusal to tolerate children out of wedlock. It was also aided by the two world wars, which killed millions of men and thus depressed population growth by leaving millions of women unmarried and therefore childless.

The second demographic transition, the one that began after World War II, has been accomplished through covert chemical sterilization in order to prevent the cruelty of abortions and infanticide, the suffering of children born out of wedlock (if they had the misfortune to be born rather than aborted and then be mistreated as bastards for the rest of their lives), the social exclusion and abuse of mothers without husbands, as well as poverty, famine and the destruction of war. From the very beginning then, the crime of genocide perpetrated by governments in secret has been intended to prevent greater individual and social suffering, as well as the ultimate collapse of society into poverty, famine and war every time population growth outstrips food production, which inevitable happens every couple of generations without proactive population control. That is why and how the crime of genocide committed intentionally by governments is not only justifiable but also preferable (to the alternative of individual misery and social collapse) so long as the population lacks the means, the will and the wisdom to exercise replacement level fertility voluntarily. Only now do I fully understand why governments have done, and are doing, the unthinkable. And by understanding this it becomes self-evident that the only way the genocide can stop is if we, the people, restrict ourselves to two children of our own volition, as our responsibility towards society, towards our children, towards peace on earth, and towards the integrity of nature. Only we can free our governments from the necessity to commit genocide and in so doing stop being victims of history and start being masters of destiny.

The individuals responsible for approving covert methods of depopulation in 1962 are Queen Elizabeth II (1952-present) and the UK's prime minister at that time, Harold Macmillan (1957-1963). Replacement level fertility was achieved by 1973 and a lowest low of 1.6 by 2001.

All successors to the prime ministership have continued to poison the populace to sterility or subfertility. They are: Alec Douglas-Home (1963-1964), Harold Wilson (1964-1970, 1974-1976), Edward Heath (1970-1974), James Callaghan (1976-1979), Margaret Thatcher (1979-1990), John Major (1990-1997), Tony Blair (1997-2007), Gordon Brown (2007-2010), and incumbent David Cameron (since May 2010).

The introduction of oral contraceptives in the 1960s undoubtedly played a role in preventing pregnancy but not a decisive role since contraceptive use has always served to mask the more effective and unfailing covert chemical sterilization via endocrine disruptors. That is why variations in Britain's contraceptive prevalence rate – which in the sixties was at most 40%, in the seventies 50%, in the eighties 60%, in the nineties 70%, and since then and until today 80% - have not budged the total fertility rate from below replacement level. In other words, sub-replacement level fertility was accomplished and maintained without the help of contraceptives, which have served only as decoy for covert chemical methods of sterilization.

Abortion, the historic record shows, has been stable at circa 20% since the early 1970s and plays only a minor role in the low fertility.

The UK has been rewarded for its depopulation measures with a growing GDP. As the data shows, no sooner was replacement level fertility reached in 1973 then the GDP began to rise.

The United Kingdom is in stage four of the demographic transition and has avoided slipping into stage five through heavy immigration.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Barack Obama
President of the United States
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Washington, DC 20500

<http://www.whitehouse.gov/about/fellows/contact>

President Obama,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The United States has provided leadership on the international arena since the end of the Second World War and has succeeded in replacing European aggression with the depopulation and globalization axis as a more civilized framework for peace and a substitute to war.

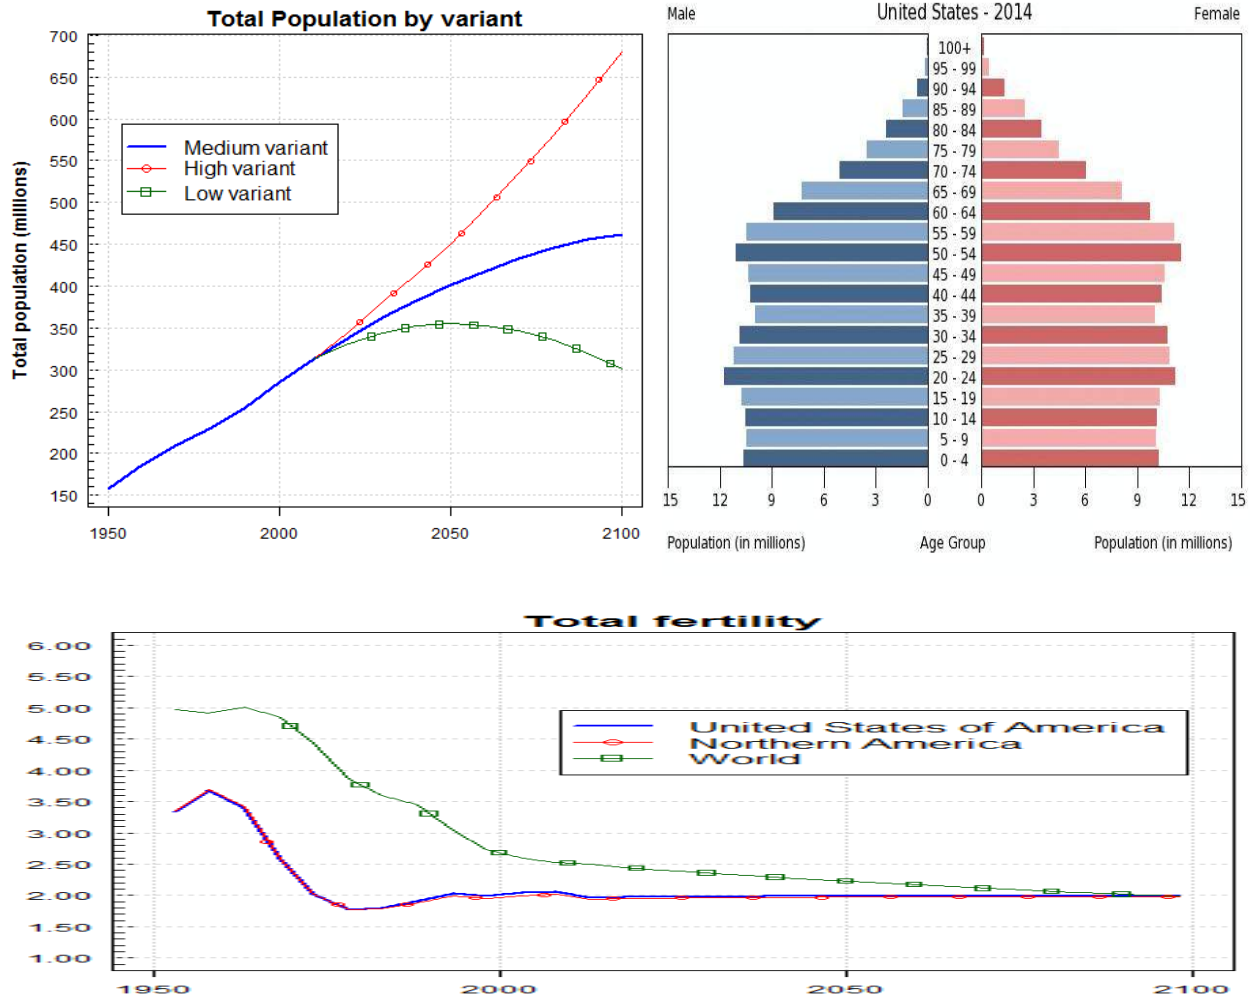

While the rationale for population control and globalization is sound, the methods are beyond contempt and the time has come to abandon all covert methods of depopulation for overt and global legislation. Poisoning billions into oblivion is an act of horrendous cruelty and despicable immorality. It is also an invitation to internal conflict.

I hope you will meet with me at your earliest convenience to discuss how best to forge global consensus for legislating population control worldwide. In the meantime, I could make tremendous progress educating the public about the facts and the consequences of overpopulation if you encourage the American media to speak freely about my work. It makes no sense to continue to pretend that the secret methods of depopulation have not been exposed by my relentless efforts. The longer the American government hides behind walls of silence and deception the greater the damage to its reputation and the weaker its ability to lead by example.

Let us make history and prevail where previous generations have failed.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

The United States began nationwide covert depopulation measures in 1963, as soon as Lyndon B. Johnson (1963-1969) took over the presidency after John F. Kennedy's assassination. As a Catholic, Kennedy refused to poison his people to wage war on fertility and in so doing he threatened the foundation of international peace.

The Russians, who had implemented covert depopulation measures since 1955 in order to prevent nuclear confrontation, and who by 1962 were already close to replacement level fertility, expected reciprocity from the world's greatest nuclear power and when reciprocity did not come Khrushchev moved nuclear weapons into Cuba in October 1962 to remind the US that no one is exempt from their obligations with respect to population control and that America's geographic isolation and remoteness from Eurasia is no protection against nuclear annihilation.

America's military-industrial complex had already compelled president Dwight D. Eisenhower (1953-1961), who was a five-star general and therefore one of their own, to begin covert depopulation measures at the same time as the Russians in 1955, and he complied by allowing water fluoridation to spread to 50 million people by 1960, thus to more than a quarter of the 180 million strong American population at that time.

Perhaps plagued by his conscience, Eisenhower warned the American people in his farewell address to the nation of the dangers emanating from the military-industrial complex:

In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists and will persist. We must never let the weight of this combination endanger our liberties or democratic processes. We should take nothing for granted. Only an alert and knowledgeable citizenry can compel the proper meshing of the huge industrial and military machinery of defense with our peaceful methods and goals, so that security and liberty may prosper together.

In that same speech he also warned of the danger that “public policy could itself become the captive of a scientific-technological elite”, a clear reference to the perversion of science for genocidal purposes.

To leave no doubt that he was speaking about the rationale for America’s foreign policy and the foundation of the international order, Eisenhower also spoke eloquently about the need to preserve resources for future generations, which is how population control was rationalized and justified at that time:

We . . . must avoid the impulse to live only for today, plundering for our own ease and convenience the precious resources of tomorrow. We cannot mortgage the material assets of our grandchildren without risking the loss also of their political and spiritual heritage. We want democracy to survive for all generations to come, not to become the insolvent phantom of tomorrow.

America, unlike the Soviet Union, did not have the political system and the central government controls necessary to impose on the entire nation a program of mass sterilization. While the Soviet Union could do it by dictat the US had to do it by subterfuge so as to be able to bypass the checks and balances of its strong democracy and the rule of law.

To succeed in deceiving the nation and bypassing democracy and the rule of law in order to institute a program of mass sterilization, America’s elites who had been subsumed into the depopulation lobby had to find a cover. That cover was public health and the program of mass sterilization through water fluoridation was sold to the people as a public health measure to protect their teeth.

Water fluoridation became an official policy of the U.S. Public Health Service in 1951, thus towards the end of Harry S. Truman’s presidency (1945-1953), but this was accomplished through false medical research, hence Eisenhower’s warning about public policy becoming “the captive of a scientific-technological elite". It was accomplished, in other words, without implicating the nation's political superstructure, but very much with the tacit approval of this superstructure, which used private organizations and corporate money to bypass the rule of law and corrupt public institutions.

John F. Kennedy came from outside America's power establishment and when he failed to play along he was murdered. Not surprisingly, he was murdered by a man trained in the Soviet Union from 1959 to 1962, Lee Harvey Oswald, a former U.S. Marine who, according to the official script, "defected" to the Soviet Union, but who in fact had been sent there by America's military-industrial establishment to be trained for a task that they knew might be inevitable given Kennedy's Catholic credentials.

By sending an American marine to the Soviet Union to be trained for a possible presidential kill, the American military-industrial complex movers and shakers showed their Soviet counterparts that they will do everything necessary to preserve international peace. It was in other words a way of satisfying the Soviets that America is serious about preserving the international order the Allied Powers had established at the end of World War II; an international order that rests on two pillars, depopulation and globalization.

Once Kennedy was removed and Johnson installed, the program of covert depopulation kicked in high gear. By the end of Johnson's time in office in 1969, America's fertility rate had declined from 3.3 to 2.4 children per woman.

Johnson's successor, Richard Nixon (1969-1974), completed the task of reaching replacement level fertility by 1972, thus five years later than the Soviet Union. There have been no Cold War close calls since then. From 1975 until the dissolution of the Soviet Union in 1991, Americans and Russians have had parity in their fertility rates at sub-replacement level.

All subsequent American presidents, like their Russian counterparts, have kept covert depopulation measures in place and have kept fertility at or below replacement level. They are: Gerald Ford (1974-1977), Jimmy Carter (1977-1981), Ronald Reagan (1981-1989), George H. W. Bush (1989-1993), Bill Clinton (1993-2001), George W. Bush (2001-2009), and incumbent Barack Obama (since January 2009).

To President Obama's credit, he lowered the fluoride concentration in America's domestic water supply from 1.5 ppm to 0.5 ppm as soon as he read my book "Water, Salt, Milk: Killing Our Unborn Children". This limits the damage to human health while keeping fertility suppressed until such time as the system of genocide can be changed. I am grateful to President Obama for heeding my warning and taking immediate action.

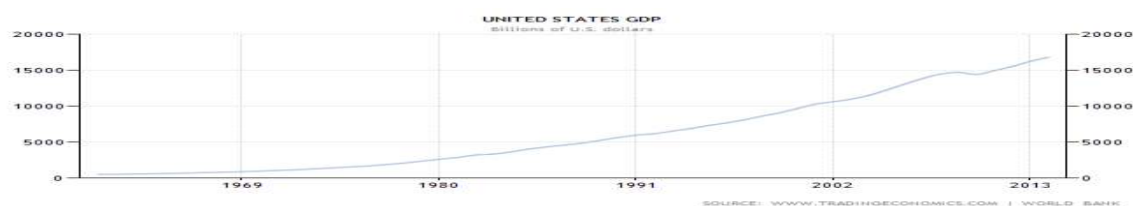

As elsewhere in the world so in the United States, we see that replacement level fertility was reached before contraceptives could have played a significant role. As the graph below shows, the contraceptive prevalence rate was below 65% prior to 1972, when the US had already reached replacement level fertility. Furthermore, the fluctuations in the contraceptive prevalence rate, which has swung wildly between 68% and 78% from the 1970s until today, have had no bearing on the total fertility rate, which has remained constant just below replacement level.

Until 1971 (by which time replacement level fertility was already reached), abortion was as good as non-existent in the USA. From 1973 onward, the historical record shows, the abortion rate climbed quickly to 30% where it stayed until 1992. Since then the abortion rate has declined rapidly and stabilized at around 15%. But with or without abortions, America's fertility rate has been kept below replacement level since 1973 thanks to the government's covert poisoning program.

The United States have been rewarded for their covert depopulation efforts with an exploding GDP. As the graph below shows, the GDP began to rise in the early 1970s, thus as soon as fertility reached replacement level.

The GDP growth per capita reflects the same explosive growth as the national GDP from the early 1970s onward. Low fertility is unquestionably the secret to affluence so long as the population is still growing or stable.

The United States is in stage four of the demographic transition. Without its very high immigration rates, however, the US would have long entered the fifth and last stage of the demographic transition, at which point low fertility becomes a liability to the economy and the GDP begins to shrink as fast as the population unless you encroach upon other national markets.

EASTERN REPUBLIC OF URUGUAY

16 September 2014

José Mujica

President of Uruguay, comunicacion@presidencia.gub.uy

President Mujica,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

You are a hero to me, a role model, an inspiration and a source of strength. Your generosity and humility are legendary. You are also the last living Robin Hood and, as such, I know that you have the courage and integrity to do what no head of state in the world today seems willing to do, namely speak from the highest national podium to tell your people and the world that the international system is bent on genocide and has made every human being on the planet a target.

The people of Uruguay have been at the receiving end of homegrown and foreign fascism since the end of the Second World War. No other nation in the western hemisphere has been tampered with by covert means for the sake of population control as much as Uruguay has, which is why Uruguay is the only nation in the western hemisphere not to have a baby boom generation.

With you as president, Uruguay has a chance to forever eliminate all genocidal policies and forces from its national bosom and create "Un gobierno honrado, un país de primera" (An honest government, a first-class country), to use your words.

You should be aware that elements within Uruguay's Ministry of Health, Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Ministry of Defense have been poisoning your citizens with endocrine disruptors for seven decades to comply with the United Nations and its depopulation agenda, which is an international security prerogative and has served as a substitute to war since 1945. Fluoride, bisphenol A, GMOs, and adulterated vaccines are being used to subvert your people's reproductive abilities and general health with dire repercussions on the genetic and intellectual endowment of Uruguay's inhabitants.

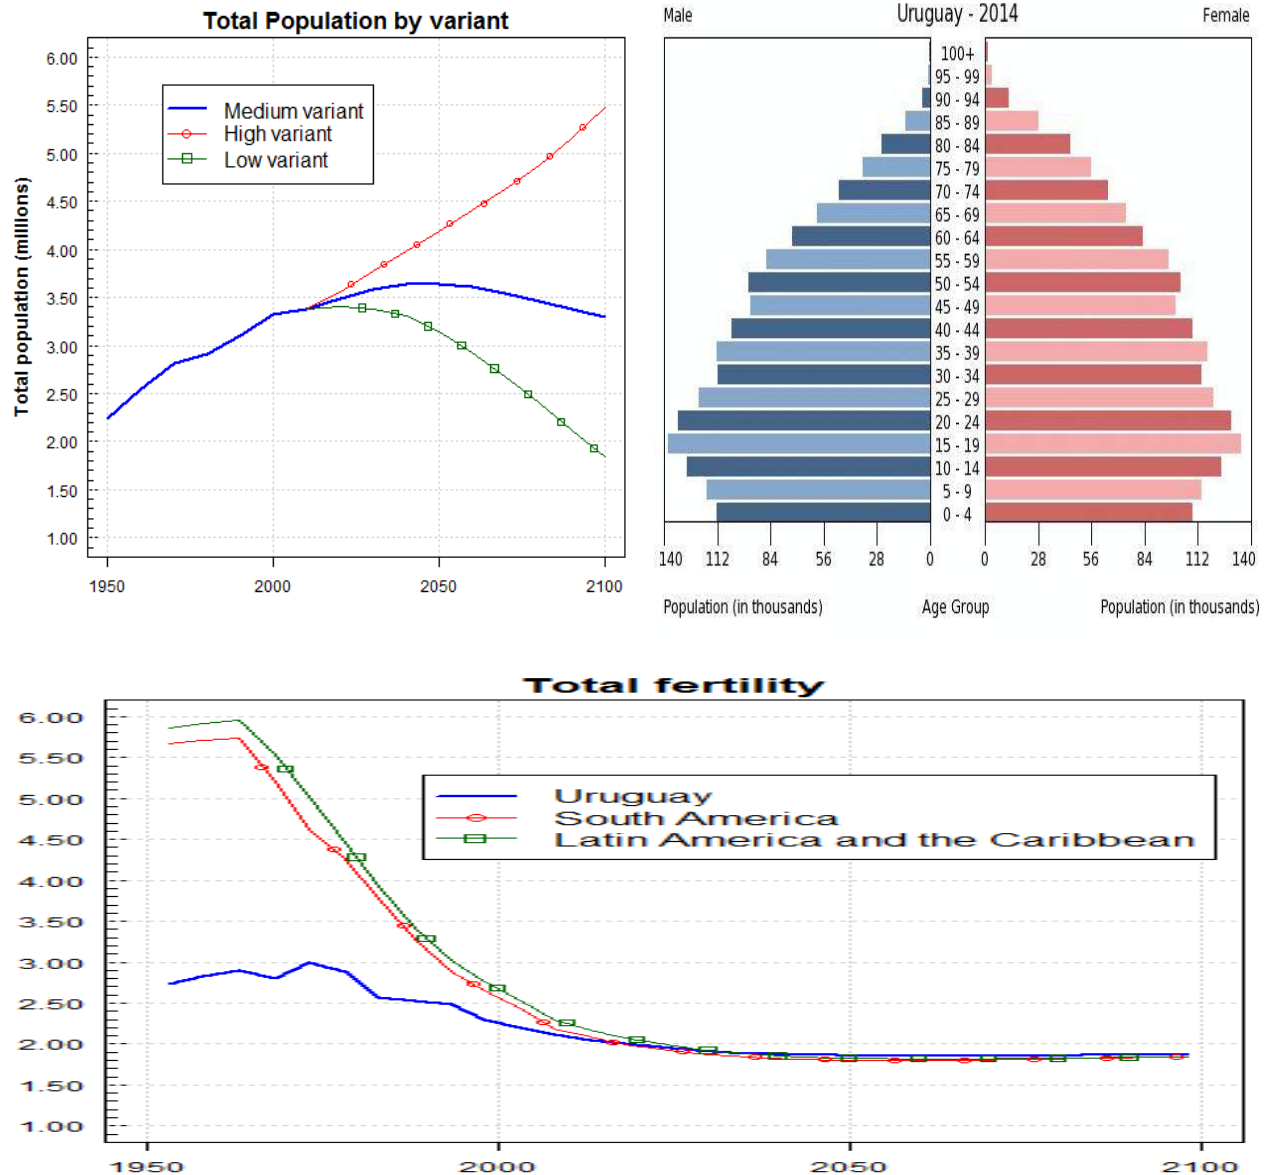

I urge you to put an end to this genocidal methodology and to adopt legislative means to limit family size. I urge you to also encourage your country's media to broadcast the truth. Last, I urge you to see me without delay so we can forge global consensus for worldwide population control laws.

You once stated that "it is a mistake to think that power comes from above, when it comes from within the hearts of the masses". If you indeed believe this to be true then you know that the Uruguayan people are more than capable of taking responsibility for controlling the size of their own families to ensure the country's and the world's sustainability. All they need to do this is know the truth.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

Center of Global Consciousness

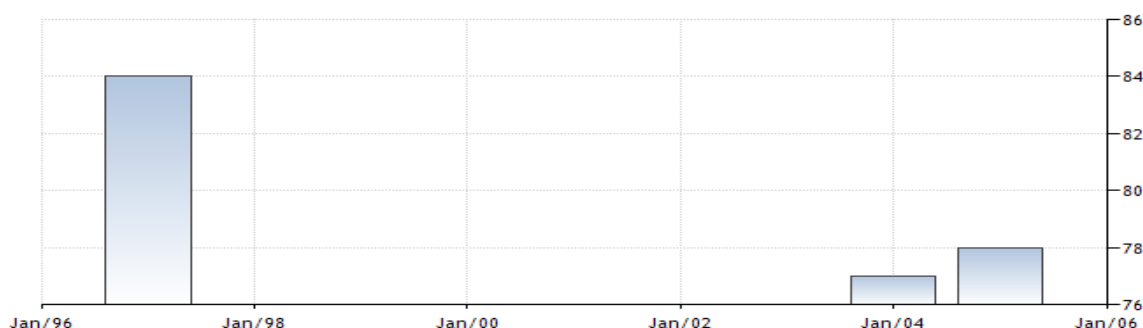

Uruguay has been the stage ground of eugenic experiments and covert methods of population control since the early 1920s, which is why its fertility trajectory is so completely at odds with the rest of South America and indeed with all Latin America. Since the early 1920s, Uruguay has not had a total fertility rate above 3 children per woman. And since 1972, Uruguay has pursued a slow descent towards replacement level fertility, which it reached in 2005.

How Uruguay has suppressed fertility so effectively and for so long is a mystery that has yet to be unraveled. Since the early 1970s, however, Uruguay sterilizes its people with fluoridated water and since the early 1990s with fluoridated salt.

The only president of Uruguay who appears not to have poisoned his people is Jorge Pacheco Areco (1967-1972), which is probably why in June 1969 he received a visit from Nelson Rockefeller, the US government's principal depopulation ambassador at that time. As soon as Juan María Bordaberry assumed the presidency in 1973 he dissolved the General Assembly and ruled by decree with the backing of the military, which is how the program of covert depopulation was reinstated and has since been running without interruption.

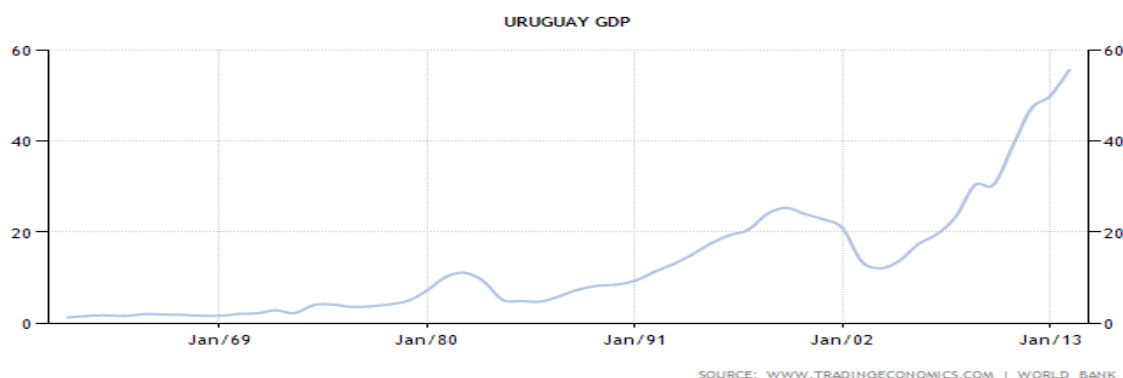

The presidents responsible for the continuation of the program are: Aparicio Méndez (1976-1981), Gregorio Conrado Álvarez (1981-1985), Julio María Sanguinetti (1985-1990, 1995-2000), Luis Alberto Lacalle (1990-1995), Jorge Batlle Ibáñez (2000-2005, and incumbent since March 2015), and José Mujica (2010-2015).

Uruguay hides its early contraceptive prevalence rate because it would be painfully clear that fertility began declining before the Uruguayan people had even seen a contraceptive. Uruguay reveals only its recent contraceptive prevalence rate, which has been at around 80% since 1997.

Abortion was illegal in Uruguay until 2011 and as such a non-factor in the fertility decline.

The same phenomenon we have observed throughout the world occurred in Uruguay too, for as soon as the country reached replacement level fertility in 2005 its GDP has exploded.

Uruguay is in stage four of the demographic transition.

President Karimov and Prime Minister Mirziyoyev,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Uzbekistan joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1992, one year after gaining its independence from the Soviet Union and the same year it became a UN Member State, and its total fertility rate declined from 4 to 1.8 children per woman today.

While abortion was the preferred method of birth control during Soviet times and was entirely voluntary, which is why families remained large, forcible sterilization is the preferred method today and it is entirely involuntary for women who refuse to wear an IUD after the second birth, which is why the nation's total fertility rate is fast approaching replacement level.

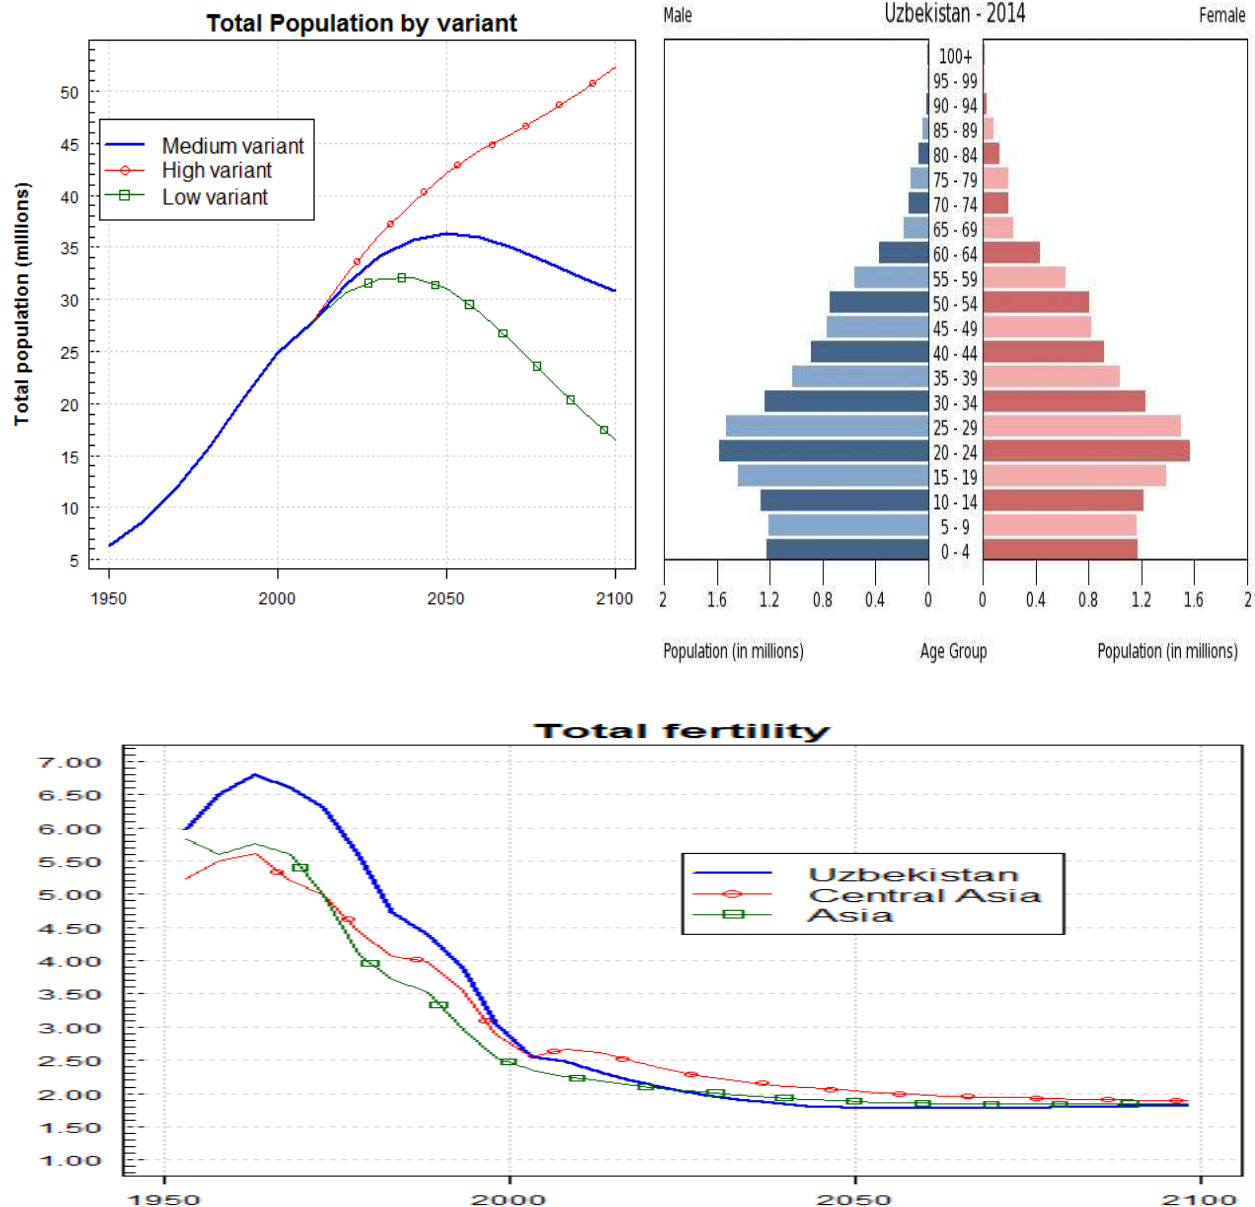

As Central Asia's most populous country at 31 million people, and with a population that is still growing at a rate of half a million people a year and that is five times larger today than it was in 1950, I can understand and support your government's eagerness to stabilize your population. But I cannot condone the methods because they are illegal and unnecessary. That is why I urge you to legislate family size and to empower your people to take charge of their reproductive rights and control them of their own volition for the sake of their children's future.

Once Uzbeks are educated about the bitter realities of overpopulation and the impending demise of all life on earth unless we reduce the numbers of the human species to half of what it is today within a century, they will be the nation's greatest asset and not the government's primary targets, for that is what a change from covert to overt population control entails. To educate yourself, your public servants and your nation about what is at stake and how and why you must change course I urge you to read my books: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>. You can also watch my videos for a quick introduction to this subject on which your nation's survival and prosperity depends and that will determine your children's health: <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCZf9rWLgwzGW34EITo0x7fA>.

I will assist you in any way I can and will travel to Uzbekistan if need be, but hope that you will help me forge global consensus for worldwide population control legislation from the UN level as a Planetary Security Prerogative, which will greatly lighten your task at home.

Sincerely,

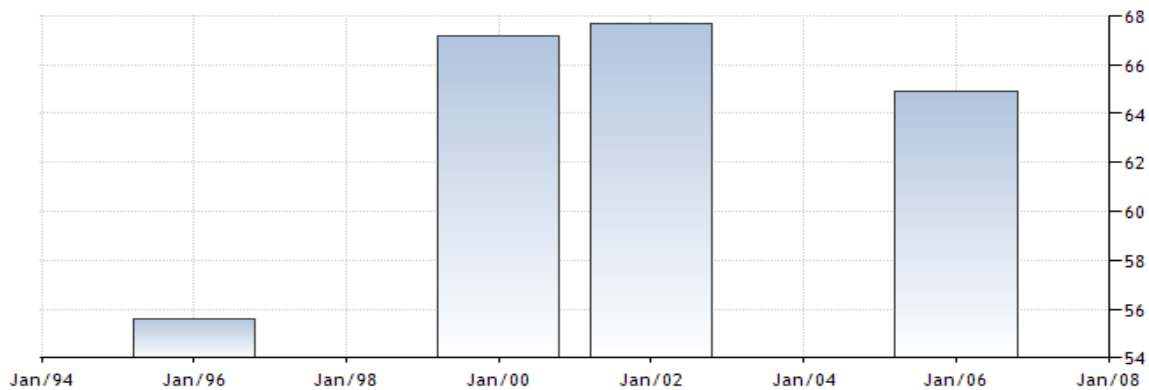

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

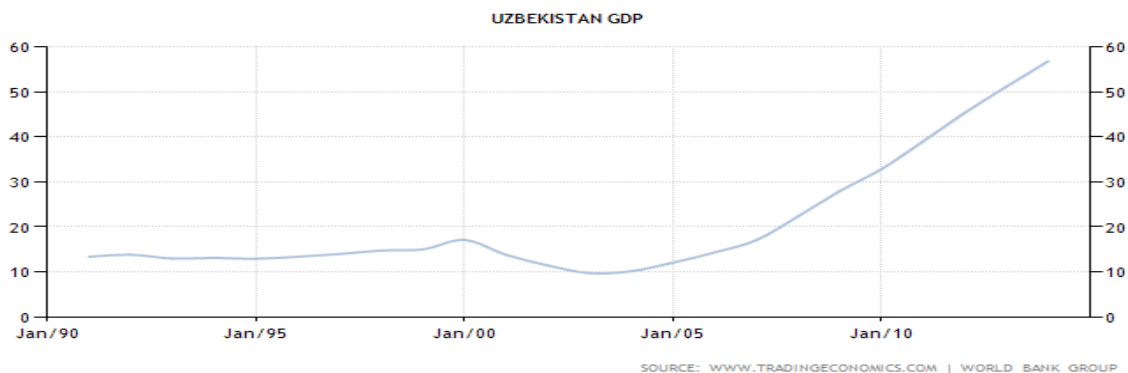

While still part of the Soviet Union, Uzbekistan was subjected to population control starting in 1962 and by the time the country gained its independence in 1991 the total fertility rate had declined from nearly 7 to 4 children per woman. There is no evidence to suggest that this decline was not accomplished through psychosocial rules rather than through covert chemical poisoning, which is what has happened since independence.

The man responsible for adopting covert methods of sterilization is President Islom Karimov, who assumed office in 1990 and is still in power. President Karimov suspended the rule of law to be able to commit genocide and accomplished replacement level fertility in 2007.

Uzbekistan's contraceptive prevalence rate is too low at 65% to possibly account for the country's rapid decrease to and maintenance of replacement level fertility, especially since the abortion rate has never exceeded 25% and has been below 10% since the turn of the 21st century.

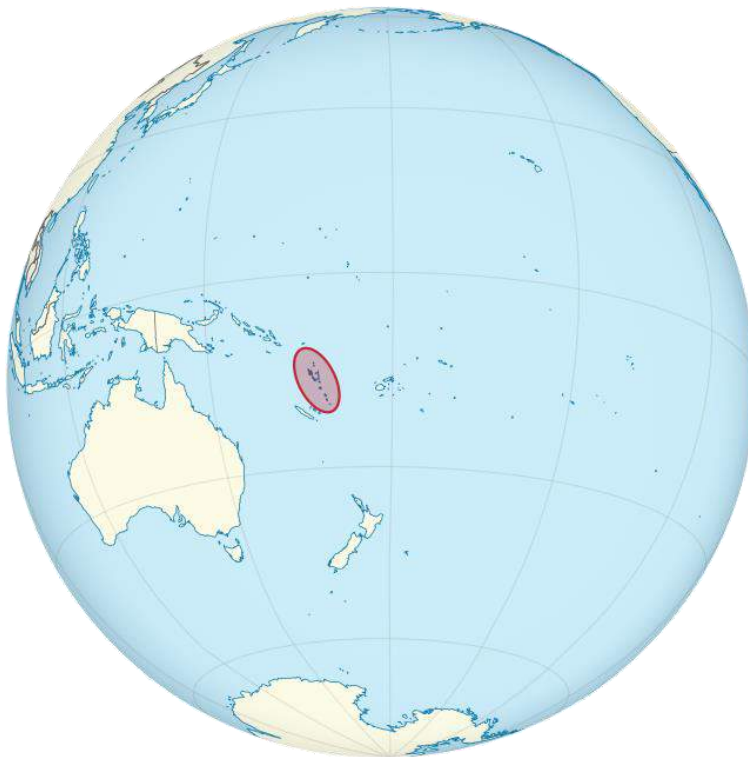

Uzbekistan's economic data confirms that replacement level fertility is the magic point at which GDP per capita begins to rise rapidly. As the graph below shows the GDP began to rise rapidly starting in 2007, the year Uzbekistan achieved replacement level fertility.

Uzbekistan is in stage three of the demographic transition.

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Vanuatu joined the United Nations in 1980 at which point the international community began interfering with the reproductive freedom of the islanders by injecting a number of women with Depo-Provera without telling them why. As a result, the total fertility rate dropped from 6 children per woman in 1980 to 5 by 1990.

In 1993, the Government of Vanuatu, prompted by land pressures due to rapid population growth and an impending demographic catastrophe since more than 50% of the people were under 15 years of age and its population doubled every twenty years, formulated a National Plan of Action on Population and Human Resource Development (NPAPHRD), scripted by the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), which contained a “sustainable National Family Planning Policy” according to a 1993 document and Save the Children Fund-Australia (SCFA) came to Vanuatu to implement it from 1994 to 1997, the result of which the total fertility rate dropped to 4 children per woman by 2009. There is no evidence that coercive methods of family planning were used. The progress was due to education and an increase in the use of contraceptives from 15% in 1993 to about 30% by the year 2009.

The drop in TFR from 4 children per woman in the year 2009 to 2.7 children per woman today, however, cannot be explained by the voluntary use of contraceptives since the prevalence of contraceptives in 2012 was reported to be only 36.8%. Short-acting hormonal methods of contraceptives are therefore being used without the knowledge or consent of the people and this spells trouble. This method of coerced sterilization is being augmented by endocrine disruptors in food and drinks imported from the West.

I urge you to abandon all covert methods of depopulation and to adopt legislation instead. Since only 9% of your landmass is usable for agriculture and your population already exceeds the land available, the islands already suffer from deforestation, erosion and landslides, and watersheds are being degraded, you have no choice but to pursue population control until you reach replacement level fertility and your population stops growing.

But you do have a choice in how to accomplish this necessary demographic transition. If you continue to use western methods and covertly sterilize generation after generation, your people will become as intellectually and genetically degraded as westerners are and will eventually lose the ability to reproduce, as is already the case with more than a quarter of all westerners.

More than this, the entire governing structure will be perverted and dependent on lies and deception and the rule of law and any democratic aspirations you might have will be squashed before they even begin to be realized, as is the case throughout the western world.

Avoid the mistakes made by the UN and its western backers and you will have a bright future. Repeat them and you will end up in front of a firing squad. To avoid a miserable end, join me in forging global consensus for a law that restricts family size to two children per woman worldwide as a Planetary Security Prerogative. Until such time use my books and videos to inform the public of the threats they face from seemingly generous western aid agencies and your own Ministry of Health.

In one way or another, Vanuatu's people have been subjected to population control since the early 1950s when the total fertility rate was nearly 8 children per woman and the islands were jointly controlled by the French and the English through a political arrangement called a condominium.

Since independence in 1980, when the total fertility rate had been lowered to 5.5 children per woman by the colonial powers, Vanuatu's leaders assumed responsibility over the depopulation program.

The prime ministers responsible for covert depopulation since 1980 are the following prime ministers: Walter Lini (1980-1991), Donald Kalpokas (1991-1991, 1998-1999), Serge Vohor

(1995-1998, 2004-2004, 2009-2009, 2011-2011), Barak Sopé (1999-2001), Maxime Carlot Korman (1999-2006, 2009-2009), Edward Natapei (2001-2004, 2008-2010, 2011-2011), Ham Lini (2004-2008). Through their combined actions they reduced the total fertility rate from 5.5 to 2.2 children per woman.

Since Vanuatu's contraceptive prevalence rate never exceeded 38% from 1980 to 2011 it is clear that these prime ministers have involuntarily sterilized their people through covert and therefore unlawful means.

In 2011, when President Sato Kilman assumed the office of the Prime Minister, he shut down covert depopulation measures and fertility has since rebounded to 3.4 children per woman. In March 2013, Moana Carcasses Kalosil succeeded Sato and he too has refused to poison his people into infertility.

Since May 2014, Joe Natuman has been Prime Minister of Vanuatu but since current data is not publicly available it is impossible to tell if he has reinstated covert methods of depopulation or not.

Vanuatu is in stage three of the demographic transition but will reenter stage two unless it recaptures replacement level fertility.

Pope Francis,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

For 46 days (19 April to 3 June) I hungered at your doorsteps to rescue your soul and the Church from an eternity in hell. For 46 days you have publicly ignored me while privately meeting with the heads of the UN agencies.

The account of my sacrifice and of your shame is now available to the world cost free, as all my work is. It is called "Revelation":

(<http://real-agenda.com/wp-content/uploads/2014/09/REVELATION-final1.pdf>).

This letter is testimony that I have not given up on you or on the Church. The hypocrisy with which the Vatican conducts its affairs has infected the Italian state and has helped corrupt global policy with respect to the international security prerogative of population control. Unless and until you and your Cardinals change course, the world will sink into greater evil.

A change of course is only possible if all parties involved in this seven decades old genocide confess their sins and ask the people of the world for absolution. I stand by to hear your confession and to give you and the Church absolution on behalf of the people of the world. I stand by to unburden you and to set the Church free from the shackles of its own ignorance. You know that God has given me this mission and that come hell or high water I will fulfill it.

Until such time, I pray that you find the strength to free yourself from the influence of the Roman Curia, which you have aptly described as "a leprosy". I know that you are a good man trying to protect the Church, but the Church cannot be protected from itself. Besides, it is the world that needs to be protected from the Roman Curia and not vice versa. And to do that, what God and history require from us both is to be extraordinary men and not just good men. You have it within you. I know that. I feel that.

I pray that you will meet with me and help me help the world live in the image of God.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

NO DATA

No institution in the world today has a deeper or richer experience dealing with population control than the Catholic Church.

Throughout its 2000 year history the Church has made the regulation of human life on the planet, both in terms of quality and quantity, its holy grail. The moment man left the Garden of Eden to be above and beyond all other creatures on earth, and succeeded, he became free of nature, but a danger onto himself.

Man being a pack animal he has always lived in collectives and has always needed to conceive rules that regulate conduct within human society – from the smallest and oldest unit, the tribe, to the largest and most current, the international community – so as to keep the peace between men, between tribes, between nations, between blocks of nations and now between human civilization and the natural world.

The Church has been at the center of this struggle to civilize man and to keep the peace. To succeed it realized early on that regulating life is key to social harmony and to the emancipation of man from beast to a higher being. So it devised rules of social conduct and rooted them in obvious and not so obvious principles of justice and fairness. To ensure that all men procreate and that dominant males do not monopolize females, as it happens in the animal kingdom, the notion of monogamy and the institution of marriage were created and protected through the promotion of virtues such as chastity, temperance and love, thus through positive reinforcements, but also through negative reinforcements, such as the prohibition of adultery, covetousness, envy and lust.

To ensure that social cohesion is not threatened and the family structure diluted by multiple and competing authorities, the Church assumed the sole right to legitimize the union between a man and a woman and to decide what is or is not morally acceptable. To ensure the stability of the family and thus protect children from the whims of parents and society from the complications of fleeting relationships and changing partners the Church made marriage indissoluble.

To curb social and material problems due to rapid population growth and prevent individual suffering from abandonment and want, procreation was limited only to married couples and sex as well as children out of wedlock strictly prohibited. And that is how self-control, abstinence and faithfulness came to play important roles in Christian society, as indeed they do in all other societies regulated by organized religion. That is also why property rights were restricted to males and in many societies still are. Had that not been the case males would have no way of keeping women faithful and thus no way of knowing if they raise their own or someone else's children.

But the sexual drive is a powerful and at times irresistible instinct and a great incentive to break or circumvent social rules. Every time social rules designed to limit and regulate birth are broken it is the innocent who suffer, the children born out of wedlock who then grow up in poverty and without the protection of a family, the young mothers who must abandon their flesh and blood to keep their place in society, and society itself because it is left to deal with broken families, neglected children, property disputes, contested inheritances, and the impossibility of having to keep the peace between feuding parties.

The continuity of the Church over centuries has given it the perspective necessary to uncover long-term trends and to trace social disruptions through their long chains of cause and effect all the way down to their original sources, which on a society-wide level is unrestrained population growth and on the individual level is selfish living.

Population growth outstrips food production and resources leading to hardship, hardship leads to war, war leads to mass death of men, mass death of men leads to women without husbands, women without husbands in a society where women cannot own property leads to desperation, desperation leads to prostitution, prostitution leads to temptation, temptation leads to weakening of the family, a weakening of the family leads to social instability, social instability leads to conflict, conflict leads to waste of resources, waste of resources leads to hardship, hardship leads to war. And so the vicious cycle once entered is almost impossible to escape; unless someone is willing to do the improbable and to be selfless for the sake of society and for the love of man.

The Church tried to deal with the consequences of such vicious cycles as best it could. So it created religious orders for women who could never find husbands because women outnumber men even in times of peace but especially after a war and kept them in seclusion in monasteries bound by the vow of chastity so as not to tempt married men and destabilize the institution of marriage.

It created orphanages and took in abandoned children, illegitimate children, and orphaned children to care for them at a time when being born to an unmarried mother was a sin and when poverty and early death left scores of children parentless.

It created hospices and hospitals to care for the sick, the old and the crippled at a time when secular authorities had not assumed such humanitarian responsibilities.

It taught man to be virtuous and to refrain from violence, to respect life, and to love one's neighbor. It taught man to aspire to something higher than himself and to outgrow his limitations. It taught man to turn the other cheek and to forgive so that peace can prevail and men will not fall victim to new vicious cycles of violence and retribution. It taught men to have the nobility of spirit not to answer mistakes with mistakes and be dragged down to the lowest common denominator, but rather to answer mistakes with acts of compassion and of grace so as to lift those who are stuck in the mud of their base instincts and in the darkness of their own ignorance into the light of the enlightened.

But eventually the Church learned that the only way to break out of the vicious cycle of poverty, misery, famine and war and rescue man from being a victim of circumstances and a feather in the storms of history is to control population growth and in so doing assume control of destiny. And since it could not do so by compelling people to refrain from copulating and thus limit births, it did so by accelerating death and accomplished this by periodically spreading the plague, for it is a far lesser sin to send adults into an early grave before food scarcity drives them to war, then it is to kill children in their mothers' wombs or kill innocents before they suckle on a tender breast.

The burden of responsibility for population control must not rest with the unborn but with the living. The Church has rightfully insisted and continues to insist, just as rightfully, that it is adults who must pay the price for their actions, not innocent babies and children

And so the Church assumed the awesome responsibility of balancing life and death in society the same way God does in nature: without exception, without cruelty, without partiality, with complete detachment. To earn the right to regulate human conduct and the strength to balance life and death, the men of the cloth, then and now, have to renounce the world, refrain from sexual pleasures, cut family ties, take the vow of celibacy, and dedicate their lives to God's work, which is to preserve life, a task that demands the strength to kill, for the natural order is based on that perfect equilibrium between life and death.

The Church's early awareness that expanding populations impinging on limited resources is the primary cause of misery comes forth in the speech of Pope Urban II in 1095 when he summoned Christians for the First Crusade.

For this land which you now inhabit, shut in on all sides by the sea and the mountain peaks, is too narrow for your large population; it scarcely furnishes food enough for its cultivators. Hence it is that you murder and devour one another, that you wage wars, and that many among you perish in civil strife. Let hatred, therefore, depart from among you; let your quarrels end. Enter upon the road to the Holy Sepulchre; wrest that land from a wicked race, and subject it to yourselves.

To preserve life, newborn life, the most precious of all lives, the Church has waged multiple wars on multiple fronts: war against sin, war against indifference, war against cruelty, war against ignorance. It came down hard on all those who tried to prevent or terminate pregnancies and all those who committed infanticide, hence its rigid stance against contraceptives and abortion. For no one could argue with the logic that it is morally right to protect the unborn from the viciousness of the living and that it is morally wrong to sacrifice new life to indulge in carnal pleasures.

And that is how the witch hunt began in 1484 when Pope Innocent VIII issued a papal bull empowering the Inquisition to start “correcting, imprisoning, punishing and chastising” witches for “slaying infants yet in the mother’s womb” (abortion) and for “hindering men from performing the sexual act and women from conceiving” (contraception).

From those dark days of fear and loathing, Europe climbed slowly towards enlightenment, but it would not have succeeded without the efforts of the Church to control population by periodically increasing the death rate, which had the effect of concentrating wealth into fewer hands after every pandemic of the Bubonic plague and thus of allowing the living to accrue enough excess wealth to support education, the arts and scientific research.

War, the age of discovery and the conquest and settlement of new continents allowed Europe to get rid of its excess population from the 15th to the 19th centuries before it took the entire continent down with it. Europe developed and survived development by encroaching upon the land and resources of other people and displacing them to make room for Europe’s excess population.

By the end of the 19th century, when no new continents remained to be discovered, Europe found more elegant methods to deal with its population growth; namely delayed marriage and universal education and this helped Europe advance faster than any other continent in its economic development, which always presupposes human development. But as medicine, nutrition, and sanitation advanced and allowed most children to survive childhood and adults to reach old age the equilibrium between life and death was disrupted once again and the population exploded across Europe, along with consumption, leading to resource scarcity and ultimately to two world wars.

Faced with the prospect of nuclear annihilation should it come to war again, and in light of a global population explosion due to the worldwide dissemination of science and technology and the rapid industrialization of non-European nations, the world had come to a clash between finite resources and infinite population growth and consumption patterns. Since we cannot grow the planet we had to start shrinking the population, a process that takes multiple generations and that has come to be known as the demographic transition.

But in 1945, when the UN was set up to coordinate the program of population control (depopulation) and advance the program of resource sharing (globalization), neither the world nor the Church were ready to accept the need to prevent births in order to avoid war; or the need for nations to sell their natural resources on the open market to the highest bidder so that all countries can purchase vital resources in order to develop rather than be forced to start a war to access such vital natural resources.

The intractability of the Church with respect to its opposition to birth control proved to be one of the insurmountable structural obstacles that stood in the way of open population control at that point in time in our history.

By 1968, however, the Church understood that without depopulation and globalization we are all doomed and gave secular authorities its tacit approval to use covert chemical methods to prevent the moment of conception, which is the only morally acceptable solution the Church could find, as it allows the Church to maintain its anti-abortion and anti-contraceptive stance while continuing its pro-life position, a position that could not be altered due to the Doctrine of Papal Infallibility.

Having tried to soften its teachings on the family and the propagation of life through the package of reforms known as the Second Vatican Council or Vatican II, and having failed to convince conservative elements within the Church that nothing is written in stone and the circumstances dictate a change of teachings, Pope John Paul VI (1963-1978) issued the encyclical letter Humanae Vitae (Of Human Life, subtitled On the Regulation of Birth).

In this encyclical letter, Pope John Paul VI tries to walk a tightrope to satisfy conservative Catholics while also giving secular authorities the Church's guarded blessings for covert chemical sterilization. For as he reaffirms the orthodox rejection of all forms of artificial birth control throughout the letter he discreetly also sanctions chemical sterilization as legal in a single and discreet paragraph, which states under the heading "Lawful Therapeutic Means":

On the other hand, the Church does not consider at all illicit the use of those therapeutic means necessary to cure bodily diseases, even if a foreseeable impediment to procreation should result there from—provided such impediment is not directly intended for any motive whatsoever.

In other words, so long as secular authorities undermine fertility under the pretext of curing a disease (namely tooth decay in the case of fluoride, vitamin A deficiency in the case of GMOs, tetanus in the case of tetanus toxoid vaccines, malaria in the case of artemisinin-based drugs, etc.) the Church has no objections.

Aware that this is a hypocritical position, but caught between a rock and a hard place, the Church has lived with this heavy moral burden since 1968.

I tried to unburden the Church leaders of this sin with my hunger strike at the Vatican in 2014, but Pope Francis did not have the courage to confess.

The Vatican remains to this day the only sovereign state that is not a UN member, but has full observer status. The reason it has stayed out of the UN is so as not to be dragged down by the UN when the world finds out that coordinating global genocide is the UN's primary duty.

President Maduro,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Venezuela joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1965 and its total fertility rate declined from 6.5 children per woman to 2.4 today.

While the government of Venezuela pretends to have no policy on population growth and not to interfere with human fertility the reality is very different. As early as 1965, the Ministry of Health and Social Welfare (MSAS) created a Population Division to steer population control activities under the pretext of family planning. A year later, the Venezuela Family Planning Association (AVPF) was formed with the aim of reducing “uncontrolled, involuntary procreation” and 132 privately funded affiliated clinics across the country performed all manner of coerced, covert and involuntary sterilizations until 1976, which is why in 1974 the government stepped in and created the Department of Guidance, Education and Family Planning within the Maternal and Infant Division of the Ministry of Health and Social Welfare (MSAS) to tame the beast.

In 1992, about the same time the government began issuing hypocritical declarations about the people’s reproductive rights and the total fertility rate had already decreased to 3.5 children per woman mostly by coercive means, the government also began fluoridating the country’s salt with help from the Pan American Health Organization (PAHO), the United Nations Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO) and the World Bank, and thus robbed the people of their natural fertility by this covert chemical method of sterilization.

The hypocrisy of the Venezuelan government reached new heights during the presidency of Hugo Chavez when in 2003 the Official Standards for Comprehensive Sexual and Reproductive Healthcare were drafted by the Ministry of Health and Social Development proclaiming the full exercise of sexual and reproductive rights as human rights, knowing full well that the people had long lost their reproductive rights to fluoridated salt. This hypocrisy is all the more disgusting in light of President Chavez’ speeches about the diabolical nature of the United States, when in fact he was always a full and equal participant in the global system of covert depopulation and coerced globalization, as evidenced by the nation’s covert program of depopulation.

The hypocrisy continues to this day in Venezuela. The names of the legal framework and of the responsible institutions have changed – and are now called the National Sexual and Reproductive Health Program (PNSSR) and the Ministry of Labor for Health and Social Protection respectively – but the covert method of depopulation, namely fluoridated salt, has remained in place.

While the Venezuelan people are getting more infertile, sicker, feebler and dumber by the day, which are the trademarks of chronic fluoridation, the government continues to proclaim respect for human rights and concern for the people's welfare.

So here's the deal, President Maduro, I am now giving you the only chance you will get to save your legacy and your life by abandoning all covert methods of depopulation and telling your people the truth so they can take control over their reproductive rights and restrict them voluntarily or by dint of law to replacement level fertility, which is indeed absolutely necessary if Venezuela is to know peace, prosperity and sustainability.

Venezuela's population has grown from 5 million in 1950 to nearly 30 million today, an astounding six fold increase in less than seven decades. Clearly this kind of population growth is impossible to sustain, especially at a time in history when humanity has long reached the ends of the earth and is causing irreversible damage to the environment.

In the absence of political leadership and to break the institutional inertia, I have taken the bull by the horns and have told the world the truth to point humankind in a different direction and away from the brink. All you and your counterparts around the world now need to do now is follow my lead and show a little courage. If you fail to show a little courage society will collapse and you will be held responsibility not only for what you have done but also for what you have failed to do.

Should you decide to avail yourself of my wisdom you can do so free of cost here:

Like the vast majority of the western world, Venezuela too committed itself to covert methods of depopulation in the 1960s. The man responsible for beginning to subvert his people's fertility in 1964 is President Raúl Leoni (1964-1969). His predecessor, Rómulo Betancourt (1945-1948, 1959-1964), approved the program in principle and only to avoid a military takeover, but did not have the heart to poison his people.

All subsequent Venezuelan leaders have stayed the course and fertility declined from 6.5 children per woman prior to 1964 to 2.2 in 2006 when it was relaxed by President Hugo Chávez (1999-2013) and allowed to climb up to 2.5 where it remained until his death in 2013.

The men responsible for Venezuela's demographic transition by covert poisoning are: Rafael Caldera (1969-1974, 1994-1999), Carlos Andrés Pérez (1974-1979), Luis Herrera Campins (1979-1984), Jaime Lusinchi (1984-1989), Carlos Andrés Pérez (1989-1993), and the incumbent Nicolás Maduro (since April 2013).

Contraceptives have played no role in Venezuela's war against fertility until 1991, by which time fertility had already dropped from 6.5 to 3.5 children per woman. To mask the introduction of fluoridated salt (as of 1992) and the anticipated drop in fertility from 3.5 to replacement level, the government boosted contraceptives, but even if the figure of 76% (of which only 62% by modern means) is accurate it cannot possibly account for replacement level fertility, which Venezuela attained in 2006, by which time contraceptive use went down to 62% rather than increasing, as one would have expected if contraceptive use and fertility were correlated.

Abortion is illegal in Venezuela and as such not a factor in the fertility decline.

Venezuela is in stage three of the demographic transition.

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Vietnam joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1977, the same year it became a UN member state, and its total fertility rate went from 7 children per woman down to 2. The fact that Vietnam reached replacement level fertility since 2005 is the primary reason for the country's improved economic situation and higher standard of living.

While the first population control program began even earlier, in 1961, in North Vietnam, with the formation of the Population and Birth Control Unit within the Ministry of Health (MOH), which pursued a two-to-three child policy, it was ineffective until the country's reunification in 1975, as evidenced by the high fertility rate of 6.1 when the Vietnam War ended in 1975.

The National Committee for Population and Family Planning (NCPFP) 1984-2002, gave rise to the first Decree on birth control in 1988, when the country's total fertility rate had declined to 4.1 children per woman, and sought to limit family size to replacement level fertility through late marriage, delayed childbearing until age 22, and a three to five year spacing between the first and second child. It was at this time that covert, coerced and involuntary sterilization schemes began.

A one-to-two child policy was promulgated in 1993 when the Communist Party issued Resolution 4 on Population and Family Planning and made population control an integral part of the nation's socio-economic development objectives. This was followed by the National Strategy on Population and Family Planning (NSPFP) 1993-2000, which set as its primary objective reducing the total fertility rate to 2.9 by the year 2000. To achieve this goal, the government started fluoridating the water in Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh, the country's largest cities and by 1999 the total fertility rate declined to 2.3.

In 2003, the government of Vietnam issued the National Strategy on Population (VCPFC) 2001-2010 with the objective of reaching replacement level fertility by 2005.

In 2005, when the country had already reached replacement level fertility, the Central Party Committee issued Resolution 47 to reaffirm population control as necessary “to sustain high economic growth” until Vietnam becomes “an industrialized country”.

In 2008, the government openly restricted family size in Article 10 of the Population Ordinance as follows:

“Each couple and individual has the right and responsibility to participate in the campaigns on population and family planning, reproductive health care: (i) decide time and birth spacing; (ii) have one or two children, exceptional cases to be determined by the Government” (The National Assembly of Viet Nam, 2009).

And in 2009, the Chief Executive Trương Tấn San stated that the population of Vietnam will be controlled to peak at 100 million by 2020 and instructed the Assembly to develop a new Law on Population by 2015. The Assembly complied and formulated the National Strategy on Population and Reproductive Health 2011-2020 which is to be implemented by the General Office for Population and Family Planning (GOPFP) and the Ministry of Health (MOH) at a time when Vietnam needs to control the fertility of the largest cohort of women of reproductive age in its history, 25 million.

As a result, the government of Vietnam started salt fluoridation in 2008, intensified its program of forced surgical sterilization of women in remote areas that cannot be reached by either covert chemical or overt family planning services, and expanded its program of involuntary chemical sterilization with Quinacrine hydrochloride, which is aided and abated by the international community and overseen by western doctors and scientists with funding from Family Health International (FHI).

First, what the history of population control in Vietnam shows us is that while its legal framework has gradually come out of the dark, its methods have been gradually perverted by the international community. Open, transparent and legal methods of population control have been replaced with hidden, involuntary and unlawful methods that chemically poison the people into sterility, as throughout the western world.

Second, Vietnam's experience also shows that in modern times, unlike in the past, war is ineffective as a method of population control. Even though 3 million soldiers and civilians died during the Vietnam War from 1955 to 1975, the population still grew during this time from 31 to 50 million. Since not even the machinery of war can kill enough people to compensate for the naturally high fertility rates and the unnaturally low child mortality rates made possible by modern life, a new way to control population had to be devised and that new way is made possible by the abuse of science and medicine to subvert human fertility.

Third, while western scientists aid their governments in keeping secret the covert chemical, biological and bacteriological methods of population control employed illegally at home, they do a stellar job in recording any and all legislative methods of population control employed by China and Vietnam. Indeed this letter is heavily indebted to the thorough research of scholars from the School of Population Health at the University of Queensland, whose paper "The Evolution of Population Policy in Viet Nam" has provided me with obscure details. If our scientists, educated and funded with public money, would be only half as honest about the methods of population control employed in their home countries, we would be able to stop the global genocide in no time at all. But since they benefit tremendously from aiding the global genocide, they self-servingly restrict their research to the only countries that have tackled population control honestly, legally and justly.

Vietnam must stop listening to the UN and its western sponsors and must return to its earlier and decent methods of population control, methods that empowered its citizens to be in control of their fertility and safeguarded their health as well as their genetic and intellectual endowments.

Considering that Vietnam's population more than tripled since 1950 and that it is now the world's 13th most populous country at 93 million people, that the population density is high at 272 people per square kilometer, and that the largest cohort of women has just reached reproductive age, the government of Vietnam would be irresponsible not to continue to pursue population control. But it must not allow itself to be infected by western immorality and dishonesty and commit genocide for the benefit of the governing class rather than control population growth for the benefit of all.

The western governing class is about to be severely punished by a slowly awakening populace; a populace that is but a shadow of its former self having been degraded by seven decades of chronic poisoning, but a populace that nevertheless wants to stay alive and is getting ready to fight for their right to live.

If you join the criminal gang that is poisoning our children you will fall with this criminal gang and you will fall hard, that much I promise you, regardless of your fancy titles and delusions of invulnerability. If you however join the decent people of the world and help us forge global consensus for replacement level fertility as a Planetary Security Prerogative derived from the global governance level you will thrive and you will secure a better future for all of Vietnam's children and not just those of the pampered class.

To make the right choice you will need to educate yourselves and your people of what is at stake in record time and I am providing you with my work free of cost to do just that:

The man responsible for introducing population control measures to Vietnam is Lê Duẩn, General Secretary of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Vietnam from 1960 to 1986. By the time he died in 1986, Vietnam's total fertility rate had decreased from 6.5 to 4 children per woman; a decrease accomplished fully through legitimate and open means, namely family planning services, contraceptives and abortions. Abortions especially rose rapidly during the 1980s from 10% at the beginning to 30% at the end of the decade.

His successor, Nguyễn Văn Linh (1986-1991), increased the availability of contraceptive to about 50%, continued with abortions and began fluoridating the water of Hanoi. During his time in office fertility declined from 4 to 3.5 children per woman.

Đỗ Mười, was Vietnam's leader from 1991 to 1997 and he succeeded in raising the contraceptive prevalence rate to about 70% and lowering fertility from 3.5 to 2.5 children per woman. Abortions peaked during the 1990s at c. 45%.

Lê Khả Phiêu held the highest office in the country from 1997 to 2001 and during his time the contraceptive prevalence rate climbed to 75% while fertility declined from 2.5 to 2 children per woman.

Nguyễn Đức Mạnh held the highest office in Vietnam from 2001 to 2011, time during which the contraceptive prevalence rate climbed to nearly 80%, salt fluoridation was introduced across the country and fertility declined from 2 to 1.8, where it remains to this day. The abortion rate decreased rapidly from nearly 40% at the beginning of the decade to just 20% by 2010.

The incumbent, Nguyễn Phú Trọng (since January 2011), has stayed the course and has kept Vietnam's total fertility rate at sub-replacement level.

Since 2008, when salt fluoridation was introduced across the country, Vietnam has changed course in its population control program from overt and legal methods to covert and illegal methods. This decision was taken because it is far cheaper to combat fertility with chemical poisons than it is to do it with contraceptives and abortions and because replacement level fertility does not coincide with the Vietnamese ideal family size. In an environment of clashing priorities between what people want and what the government wants with respect to ideal family size, contraceptives are irrelevant and the government is resorting to forced sterilizations increasingly more often to keep fertility below replacement level so it can engineer a population peak at 100 million by 2020.

The government is also placing its faith in the sterilizing power of fluoride to prevent the moment of conception so that 40% of all pregnancies no longer have to be terminated each year through abortion, as is currently the case and which is a gruesome statistic. The government of Vietnam, in other words, has decided to sacrifice the people's health and their genetic and intellectual endowment for its demographic objectives.

Vietnam's economic experience mirrors that of other countries that have tackled fertility. Once Vietnam's total fertility rate began approaching replacement level its GDP per capita began exploding. Reproductive discipline really is the most important precondition to development and indispensable to lasting prosperity.

Vietnam is in stage four of the demographic transition.

<http://www.moit.gov.ye/moit/contact>

Khaled Bahah

Prime Minister of Yemen

doc_it@mofa.gov.ye, yemsa@unhcr.org, Sanaa@unicef.org

President Hadi and Prime Minister Bahah,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Yemen joined the Global Depopulation Policy in 1990 and its total fertility rate decreased from an astounding 9 children per woman to 4.4 today. This decline in fertility has been accomplished through milled food aid adulterated with endocrine disruptors and with unmilled food aid composed entirely of sterilizing GMOs. In addition, adulterated vaccines have been used to suppress female fertility.

Your country is in a very difficult demographic and economic situation and population control by any means is inevitable. Yemen's oil sector provides 90% of exports and 75% of government revenue, but much of that money is used to import the bulk of the country's food because the 4% growth rate in GDP is barely keeping ahead of population growth, which adds 700,000 people a year to a population of 25 million. A third of the population is chronically undernourished and the number of hungry people increased from 4 million in 1990 to 7 million in 2001. Almost half of all Yemenis are under 15 years of age, 54% of all Yemenis live under the poverty line, and by 2050 the population will have reached 60 million. Acute water shortages, land degradation, civil unrest, and sectarian, tribal and regional divisions pose additional challenges.

In response and in desperation, the National Population Council (NPC) approved a plan in 2008 to implement a national strategy for reducing the fertility rate. Of course, population reduction efforts have already been in effect since 1995 but have not been well coordinated, which is why the depopulation task was assumed by the Supreme Council for Women's Affairs and the Women's National Committee (WNC) so it could proceed under the cover of improving child and mother health. The framework for implementing the population reduction goal is called the National Population Program 2001-2025.

In 2012, your government launched the Transitional Program of Stabilization and Development (TPSD), which contains classified population control elements that will ensure that the number of births by adolescent girls will not double over the next 20 years from 302,000 to 630,000, as it is projected; that the median age of marriage rises from 16.6 to 20; that polygamy is reduced or perhaps even eliminated; that the median age at first birth rises from 19.5 to 22; that consanguineous marriages decrease from an astoundingly high 47% today to a much lower rate; and that contraceptive use increases from 18% to at least 50% over the next two decades.

To accomplish these goals and to bring the total fertility rate down to replacement level, which is the primary goal that underlies all other goals, your government has approved the use of sterilizing vaccines and the increased use of imported food and beverages adulterated with endocrine disruptors.

If you continue on this path you will reach replacement level fertility in just a few years, but you will lose everything else in the process including your humanity and your hands will be drenched in blood. To realize just what kind of damage awaits your people, as a result of your decisions and the corrosive influence of the UN and its western backers, you must read my work, which you can access free of cost here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

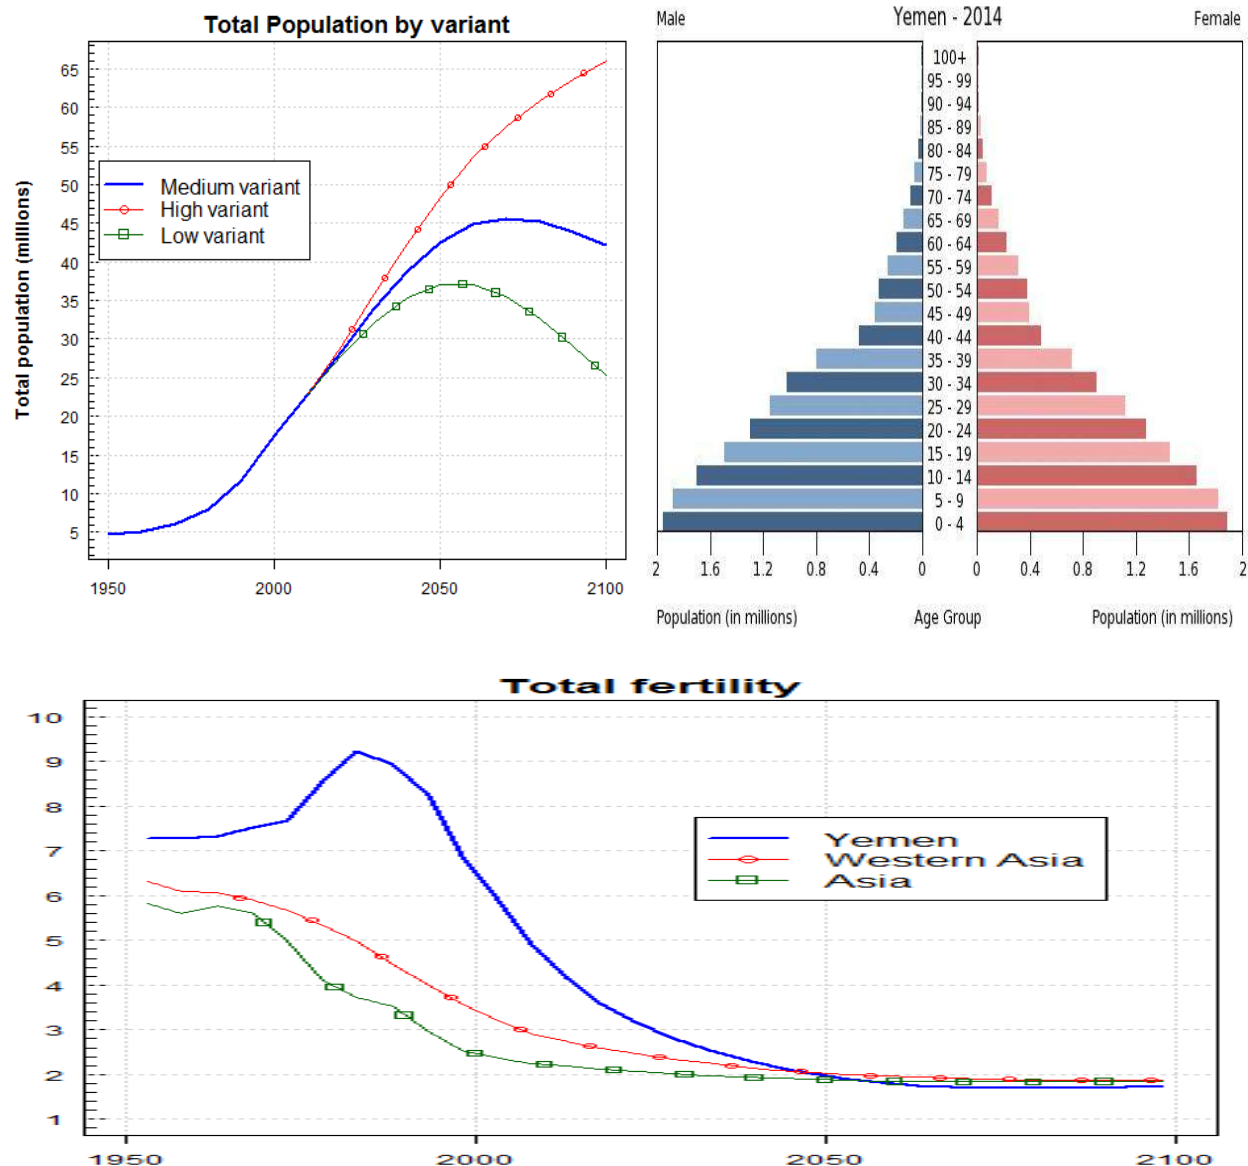

There is another way for Yemen to live up to its international obligations and to reach its social and economic objectives. That way is the way of the law. It is the way of honesty and courage. It is the way of decency and truth. Legislate population control and all will be well. Proceed with covert genocide and all hell will break loose.

You can join my effort to forge global consensus for population control as a Planetary Security Prerogative and place the responsibility evenly on everyone's shoulders, but also the benefits, or proceed with mass murder in the delusional hope that you and your self-elected kind will inherit the earth. The choice is yours to make, but this is the only opportunity you will get to do the right thing. Take it and live. Ignore it and you will die miserable deaths.

If you choose well, I will assist you in any way I can and will travel to Yemen to advise you on how best to proceed.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

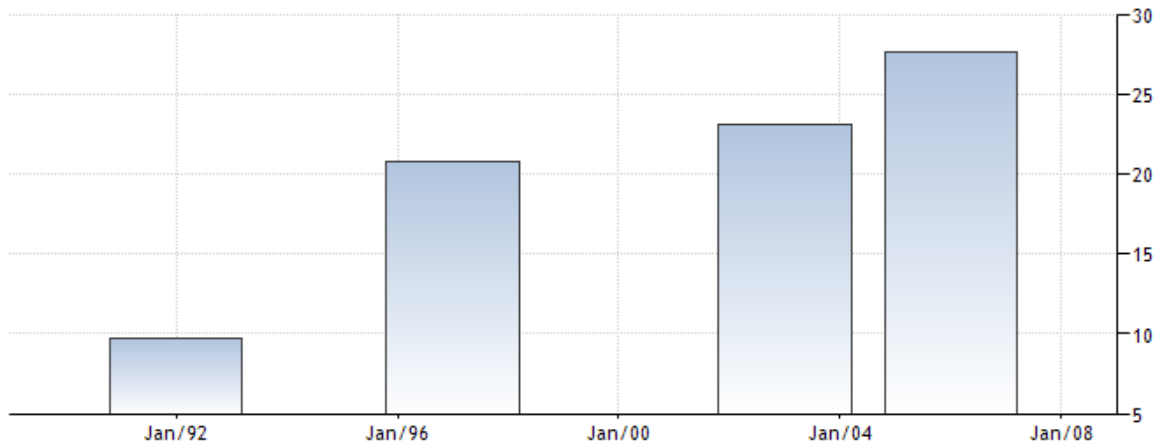

The man responsible for introducing covert methods of population control in 1990 is Yemen's first President, Ali Abdullah Saleh (1990-2012). During his time in office the total fertility rate decreased from 9 to 4.2 children per woman.

His successor, Abd Rabbuh Mansur Hadi (2012-2015), lowered fertility from 4.2 to 3.9 children per woman.

Yemen started controlling population growth late and from an extraordinarily high total fertility rate of 9 children per woman as well as being trapped by poverty. In Yemen's case any and all covert methods of depopulation are justified given the alternatives, famine and war.

Of course, the decline in fertility realized so far, from 9 to 3.9 children per woman, has little or nothing to do with contraceptives, which in Yemen have barely reached 25%; or with abortion since it is illegal and performed only to save a woman's life.

Yemen is in stage two of the demographic transition.

President Scott,

Re: covert depopulation measures

First of all, I would like to express my condolences on the passing of President Sata and to welcome his bodily remains back home.

Zambia has resisted all pressures to join the Global Depopulation Policy and this makes you a very unique country and one worthy of the highest respect in my estimate. Even though you became a UN member state in 1964, the year of your independence, you have not become a part of the monstrosity the international system represents. Your government and institutions have not been perverted by its mentality of death. Your people have not been morally degraded by its psychosocial and economic manipulations or physiologically degenerated by its chemical and biological poisons. And your national soul has not been warped and stained by atrocities committed in the name of international peace and universal prosperity.

You have the unparalleled advantage of being able to start upon the long and tortuous road of population stabilization with a clean slate and without skeletons in the closet. To discern the truth from lies, to learn from the experiences of other nations, and to do it right from the very beginning, I urge you to use my work which is freely available here: <http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>.

Your low population density (17.2 people per km²) and fertile land have buffered Zambia from social and economic disaster. Nevertheless, more than two thirds of your people live below the poverty line; hunger struck your nation in 2002 when nearly 3 million Zambians faced severe food shortages and extreme hunger; and your economic growth rate cannot support the rapid population growth that is fueled by a total fertility rate that has remained unchanged since times immemorial at 6 children per woman. This means that unless you institute an effective population control program without delay you will soon face famine again and will never escape the poverty trap.

In 2002, in the hour of your need, the international community came to your aid with sterilizing GMOs to feed the hungry, which the government of the time was smart to reject. In the future, you will not be in a position to reject sterilizing food aid or to protect your people from a new wave of death and disease engineered by the UN and its western backers, as we are witnessing today in Western Africa with the Ebola outbreak. You have just begun to recover from the last man-made pandemic, the HIV/AIDS disaster unleashed on Africa in the late 1970s, the result of which your life expectancy went down to just 40 years by the 1990s (it now stands at 52 years) and some 14% of your adults are still infected.

One thing is clear, your population will continue to double every 25 years and your society will collapse along with your economy and environment long before the current population of 14 million reaches 130 million by the end of this century.

So I urge you to embark upon a massive education program and to empower your people to assume control over their reproductive rights while limiting their family size by law to just two children per woman, the so-called replacement level fertility. You can persuade your people by telling them the hard cold fact that unless they voluntarily restrict their reproductive rights on their own the government will have to do it for them through forced sterilization and if the government does not do it then the international community will do it through germ warfare of sterilizing vaccines or poisonous food. My books describe the methods and their consequences and it is not a pretty picture. For a taste of this despicable approach you need look no further than my three short videos produced during my last hunger strike at the Vatican:

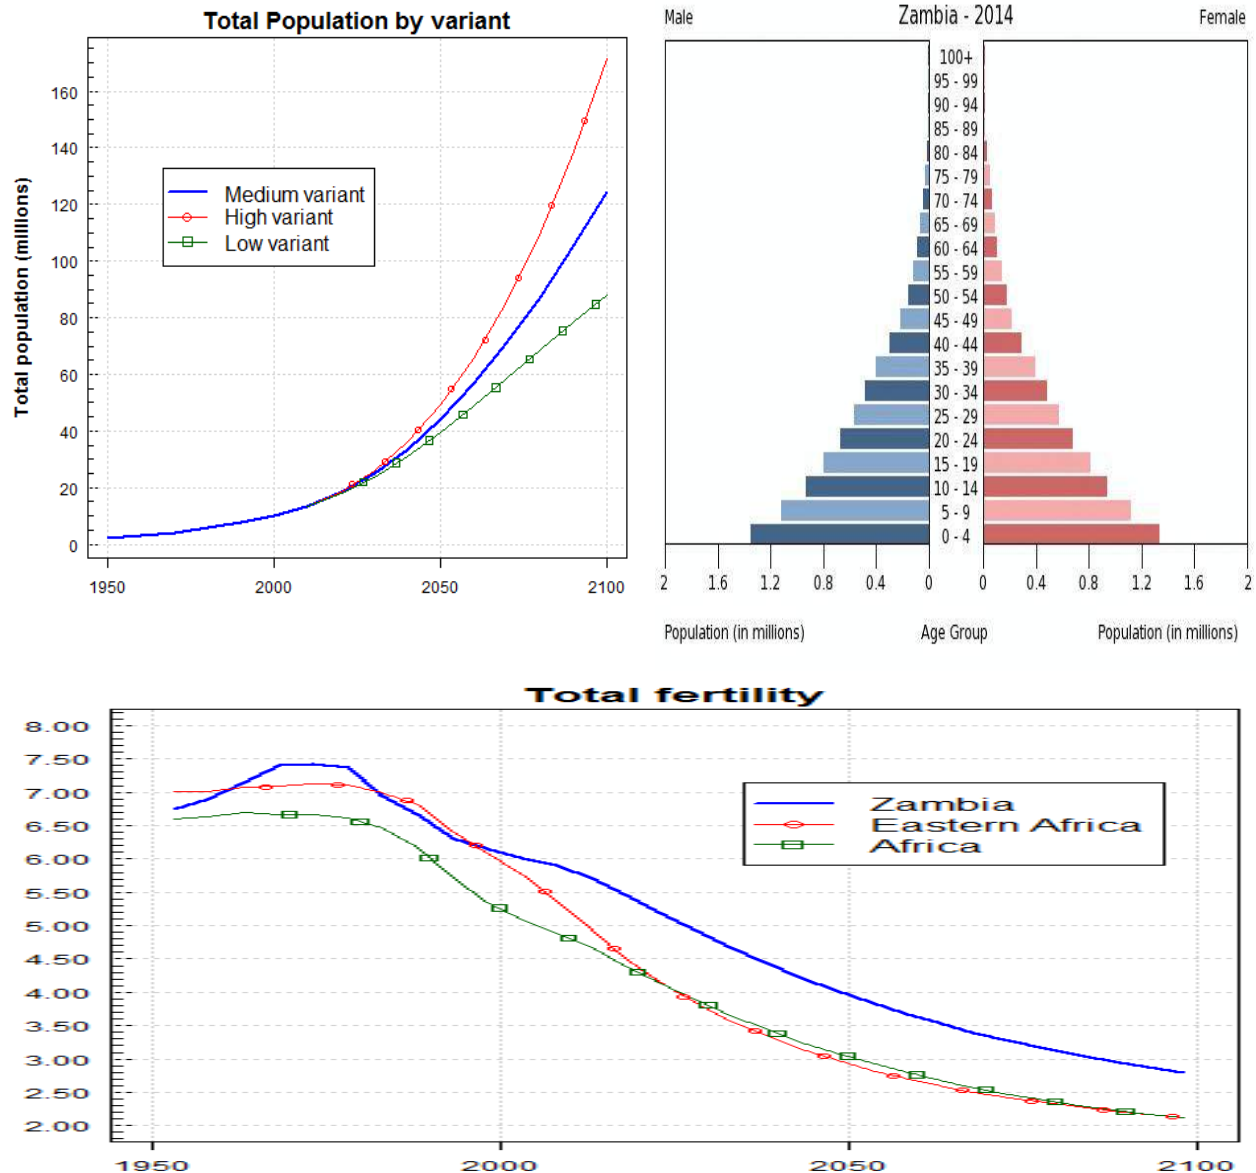

1. Addressing Pope Francis
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=pIIRzWF27Sc>
2. Methods of Depopulation
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-Hj3LGvWWLU>
3. Phases of Depopulation
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=l9nsFFZon1E>

Yes, the choices are grim, but the best one of the lot is by far the legislative approach and people's empowerment through education and easy access to safe contraceptives. To make the task easier for national leaders I am in the process of forging global consensus for replacement level fertility across the world as a personal responsibility and a Planetary Security Prerogative that no individual and no nation can henceforth eschew because the consequences of overpopulation cannot be contained by national borders, political ideologies or personal rhetoric. Join me in this endeavor and all will be well. Ignore it and all hell will break loose.

I will lend you all the assistance I can and will not hesitate to travel to Zambia to support a program of open, fair, legal and ethical population control.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae
Center of Global Consciousness

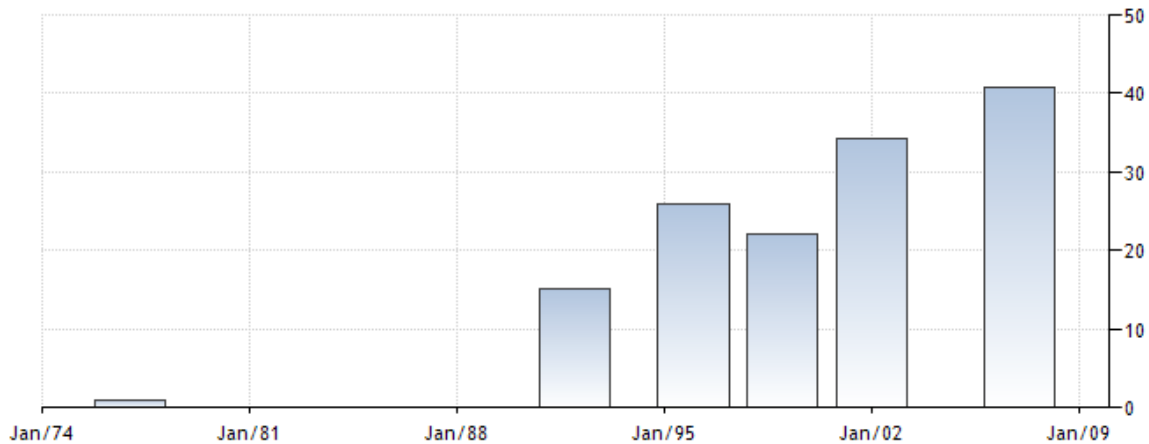

Efforts to control population growth legally and openly began in Zambia in 1978 and have proceeded in this ethical fashion ever since. This is the tone set by Zambia's first President, Kenneth Kaunda (1964-1991), and his successors have respected it.

For its ethical approach to population control Zambia has been punished with poverty. For such is the dilemma of leadership in this time and age that if you choose to protect your people from being poisoned into sterility you condemn them to poverty and if you choose to rescue them from poverty you must poison them into sterility.

The country's economic data shows that its per capita GDP has been stuck at c. $800 for the past 40 years.

Zambia's contraceptive prevalence rate has grown from 10% in the eighties to 40% today, but it has a long way to go before replacement level fertility can be reached.

While not available on request, abortion is legal in Zambia and allowed for economic or social reasons. No statistics, however, are anywhere to be found.

Zambia is in stage two of the demographic transition.

REPUBLIC OF ZIMBABWE

9 October 2014

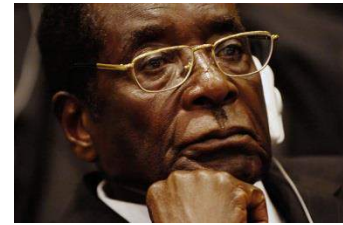

Robert Mugabe President of Zimbabwe

mfa@zimfa.gov.zw, justice@justice.gov.zw, pr@mohcw.gov.zw

Joice Mujuru, Vice-President of Zimbabwe

info@vpmujuruoffice.gov.zw, info@zim.gov.zw

President Mugabe,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Zimbabwe was forced into the Global Depopulation Policy in 1978, when the World Health Organization deliberately infected a large number of people with the HIV virus (a bioweapon developed by a cooperative effort between American and Soviet scientists working for the military-industrial complex) under the cover of a smallpox immunization program. As a result, the total fertility rate decreased from 7.3 children per woman in 1980 to 3.6 today, the mortality rate increased from 9 to 15 deaths per 1000 people, and life expectancy for men went down to 44 years and for women to 43 years (from 60 in 1990), the lowest in the world. The HIV/AIDS infection rate in 2001 reached an astounding 34% of the population aged 15 to 49 years and it currently stands at 16%.

Given that the population of Zimbabwe is not projected to grow at all over the next 30 years, even though the crude birth rate is twice as high as the crude death rate, one can only surmise that your government intends to allow the UN to subvert your people's reproductive rights and abilities through covert sterilization programs carried out under the pretext of improving child and maternal health.

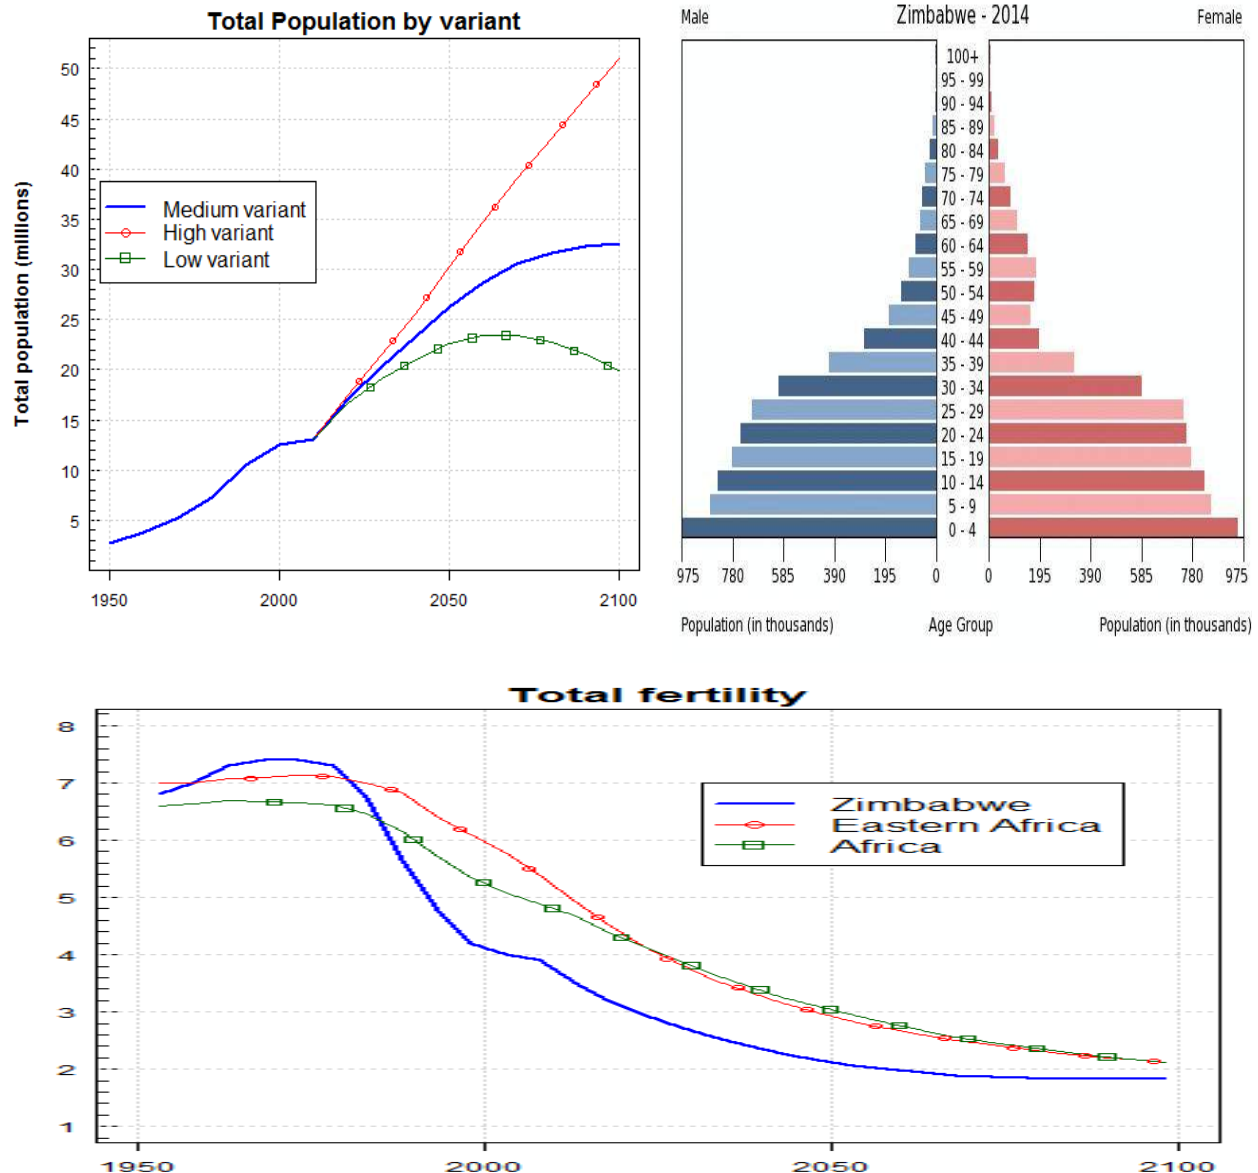

I do not for a second doubt the necessity of stabilizing the population, but I advise you to immediately pull out of any and all covert or coerced programs of depopulation and to instead pursue legislative means to limit family size to two children. Having exposed the covert methods of depopulation employed by the UN and western aid agencies through chemical, biological, bacteriological, psychosocial and economic means, the Global Depopulation Policy that has been in place since 1945 and has been kept secret through murder, lies and deception is coming to an end.

The sooner Zimbabwe legislates population control the better it will be for your people and for the country's elites who would otherwise meet with brutal and untimely deaths. I am in the process of forging global consensus for a population control law that applies worldwide and you could help me by using Zimbabwe's media to inform Africans of the lethal danger they face from an international system based on genocide and crimes against humanity that are perpetrated in the name of peace and prosperity. The time has come to set the world aright and you could help me do so.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

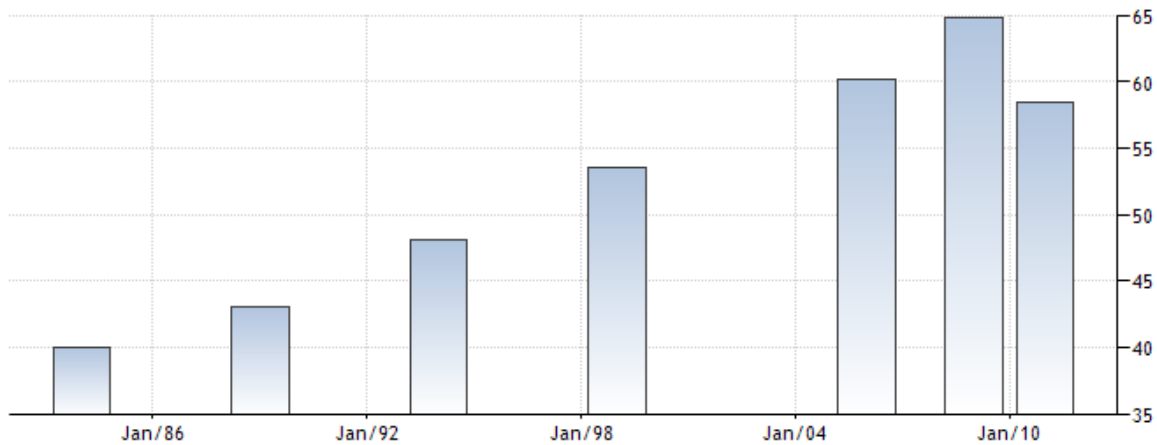

Center of Global Consciousness

Covert depopulation measures were first approved in Zimbabwe in 1977 by Prime Minister Jan Smith (1964-1979) and President Henry Everard (1965-1979) when Zimbabwe was still called Rhodesia and the UN was allowed to deliberately infect the black population of Rhodesia with the HIV/AIDS virus.

When Rhodesia became Zimbabwe and Robert Mugabe became its prime minister in 1980 and has been its president since 1987, covert depopulation measures stopped and the contraceptive prevalence rate rose to 40% in the 1980s, to 50% in the 1990s, and to 60% in the first decade of the 21st century, which shows that the new government has made genuine efforts to tackle population growth honorably. As a result, Zimbabwe's total fertility rate has dropped from more than 7 to less than 4 children per woman.

Abortion is illegal in Zimbabwe but allowed not only to save a woman's life and health and in cases of fetal impairment but also in cases of rape or incest.

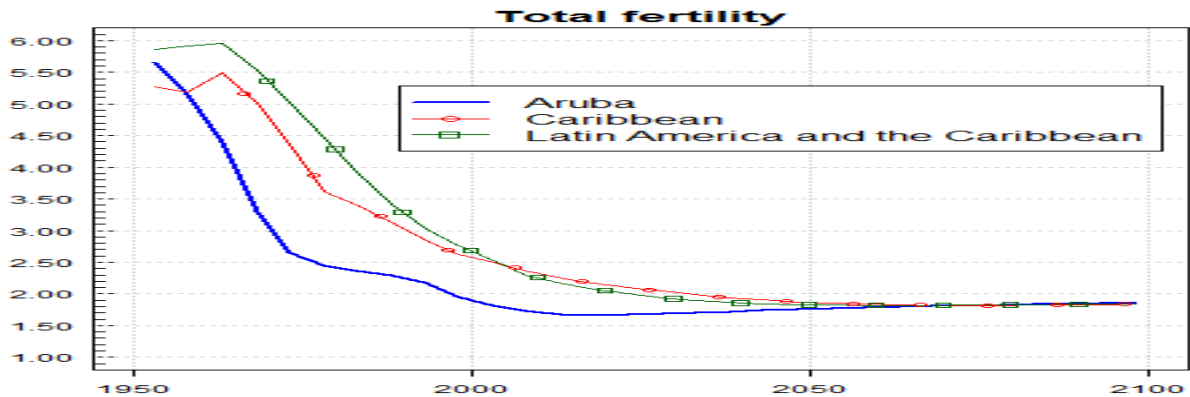

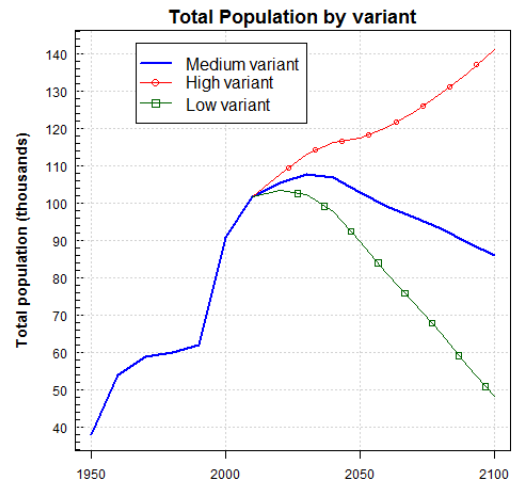

Because Zimbabwe has failed to bring down its fertility rate to replacement level the country is stuck in poverty.

Zimbabwe is in stage two of the demographic transition.

TERRITORIES

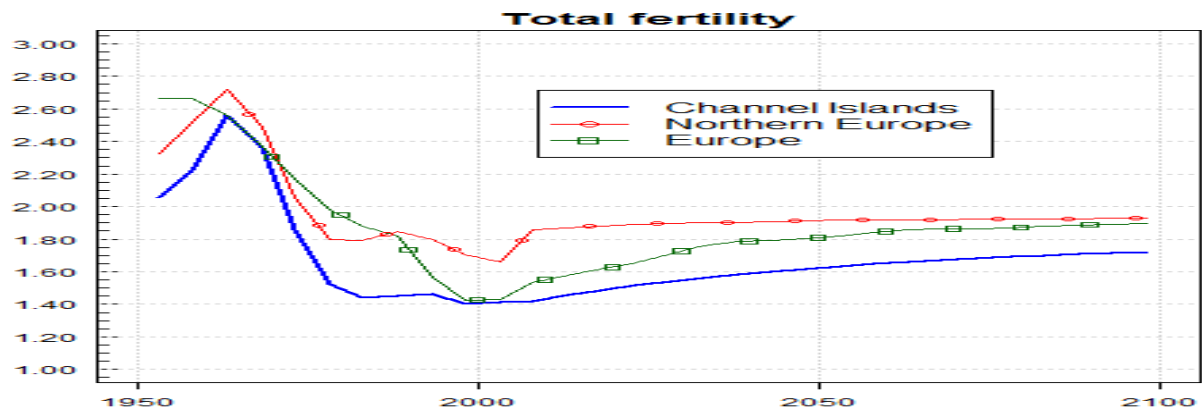

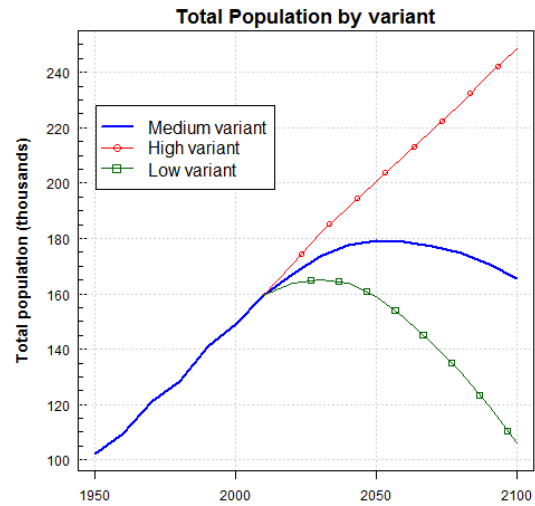

ARUBA

As a constituent part of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, Aruba began covert depopulation measures at the same time as the Netherlands, in 1946. Aruba's total fertility rate declined steeply from more than 6 children per woman prior to 1946, when hardly anyone on the island had even heard of contraceptives, to 2.5 children per woman by 1972, when contraceptives were still a novelty, to replacement level fertility by 1997. Aruba's total fertility rate is currently 1.8 children per woman and has been below replacement level since 1998.

Aruba is in stage four of the demographic transition.

CHANNEL ISLANDS

The Channel Islands began covert depopulation measures in 1962, at the same time as most of Western Europe. Starting from an already low fertility rate of just 2.6 children per woman, the Channel Islands reached replacement level fertility in 1970 and a lowest low of 1.4 children per woman by 1980, where fertility remains stuck to this day.

The Channel Islands are in stage four of the demographic transition and will enter stage five within a decade.

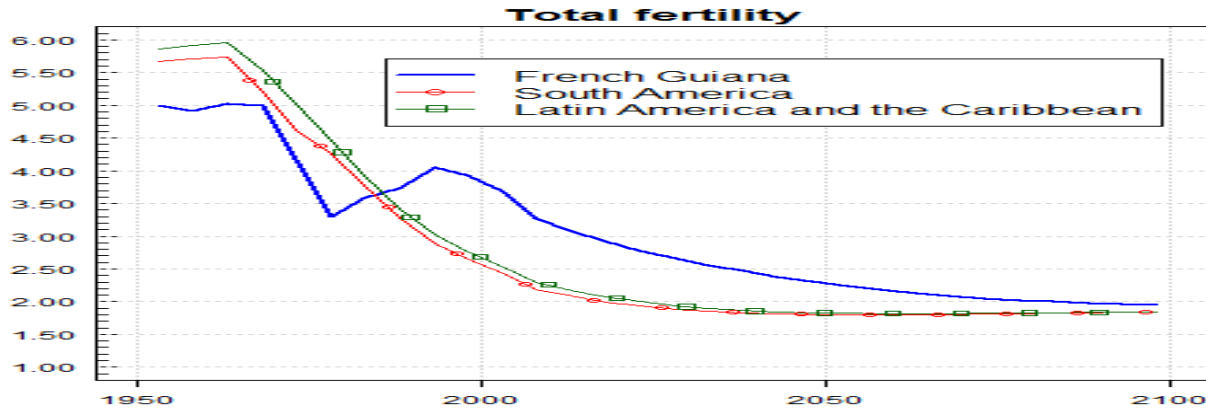

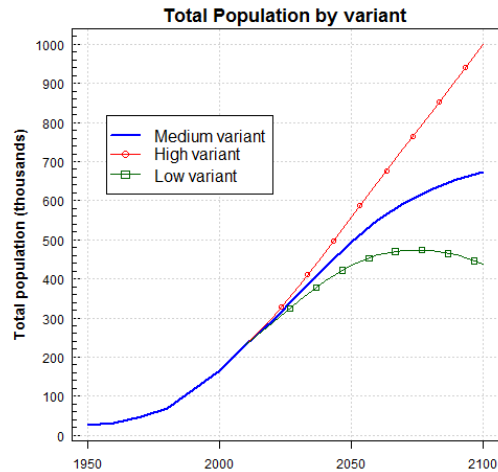

CURACAO

Curacao, which is a constituent part of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, began covert depopulation measures in 1958, when the total fertility was more than 5 children per woman, and continued aggressively until 1972 (just as Aruba), by which time the total fertility rate declined to 2.8 children per woman despite the lack of contraceptives and the pace of depopulation was slowed down. Curacao reached replacement level fertility in 2000 and has maintained this position since then.

Curacao is in stage four of the demographic transition.

FRENCH GUYANA

French Guyana began covert depopulation measures in 1968 and by 1977 the total fertility rate had declined from 5 to 3.3 children per woman at which point the local authorities, led by President Serge Patient (1974-1980), broke rank with France and allowed fertility to return to normal. His successors, Jaques Lony (1980-1982) and Georges Othily (1982-1992), also refused to poison their people and by 1992 fertility had rebounded to 4 children per woman. This shows that even though French Guyana is a French Department and is therefore governed from France the local government has a great deal of autonomy with respect to population control.

French Guyana resumed covert depopulation measures in 1993, shortly after Antoine Karam (1992-2010) became President of the Regional Counsel, and has continued them, at a slower pace however, under the current President of the Regional Counsel, Rodolphe Alexandre (since March 2010). The total fertility rate is currently at 3 children per woman.

French Guyana is in stage three of the demographic transition.

FRENCH POLYNESIA

French Polynesia, a French overseas department, began covert depopulation measures in 1958, when the total fertility rate stood at 6 children per woman, and reached replacement level fertility in 2006.

Given the dispersed nature of the 118 islands and atolls that make up French Polynesia, the only way the French government could have subverted fertility is through sterilizing vaccines.

French Polynesia is in stage four of the demographic transition.

GUADELOUPE

Guadeloupe, an overseas region of France, began covert depopulation measures in 1962, when the total fertility rate stood at 5.6 children per woman, and reached replacement level in 1992 and has hovered there ever since.

Guadeloupe is in stage four of the demographic transition.

GUAM

Guam, an unincorporated territory of the United States, began covert depopulation measures in 1962, when its total fertility rate stood at 6 children per woman, and its American administrators pursued an aggressive war on fertility until 1981, by which time the total fertility rate had declined to 3 children per woman.

Since 1981 the pace of fertility decline has slowed considerably, which signals a far more careful use of involuntary sterilizers. The current total fertility rate stands at 2.4 children per woman.

Guam is in the last phase of stage three of the demographic transition.

MACAU

Macau, a Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China, began covert depopulation measures in 1957 while a Portuguese colony and its total fertility rate stood at 5 children per woman. By 1971 it reached replacement level fertility and by 1977 a low of 1.5 children per woman, at which point the sterilizants were relaxed so fertility could bounce back up to replacement level. Between 1981 and 1988 Macau was kept at replacement level fertility but then the sterilizants were intensified again and by the time Macau was handed over to China in 1999 fertility stood at just 1 child per woman. Under Chinese administration fertility declined even further and reached a lowest low of 0.8 children per woman in 2003 and has since risen slightly to 0.9 children per woman. Macau has the distinction of having the lowest total fertility rate in the world (along with Taiwan, Singapore and Hong Kong) and the highest life expectancy as well as the highest per capita income.

Macau is in stage five of the demographic transition.

MARTINIQUE

Martinique began covert depopulation measures in 1962, at the same time as Guadeloupe since they are both French overseas departments and as such subject to the same administration. Even though it started from a very high fertility rate of more than 5 children per woman, it reached replacement level fertility in 1980 thanks to French methods of mass sterilization, since contraceptives use was minimal at that time.

The French government has kept Martinique's total fertility rate at 2 children per woman from 1980 and until today.

Martinique is in stage four of the demographic transition, but it could very well be in stage five had the French government chosen the low variant population trajectory.

MAYOTTE

The French began controlling Mayotte's population growth in 1978, and not a moment too soon considering that the island's population had grown from 15,000 in 1950 to 37,000 in 1970 (and to a whopping 215,000 in 2014). By 1993 the total fertility rate had decreased from 8 to 5 children per woman, at which point the program of covert sterilization was slowed down considerably.

Since 1993 the total fertility rate has decreased at a slower pace and is currently at 3.1 children per woman. Mayotte is in a critical situation since the population is still rapidly growing and the population density has long outstripped the island's natural resources at 570 people per square kilometer.

Mayotte is in stage three of the demographic transition.

NEW CALEDONIA

As a special collectivity of France, the French government began covert depopulation measures in New Caledonia in 1973 when the total fertility rate was above 5 children per woman. By 1988 the total fertility rate had dropped to 3 children per woman and as of 2014 it has reached replacement level.

New Caledonia has just entered stage four of the demographic transition.

PUERTO RICO

Puerto Rico is a United States territory since 1898.

The United States government began subverting the reproductive systems of Puerto Ricans in 1948, when the total fertility rate was above 5 children per woman, and conducted all manner of sterilization experiments on the island, treating the people of Puerto Rico as lab rats.

To get away with genocide and to be able to blame it on a native when the truth comes out, the US government appointed Jesús T. Piñero governor, the first and only native Puerto Rican to be appointed by the government of the United States.

Puerto Rico reached replacement level fertility in 1997 and is currently at its lowest fertility in its history, 1.6 children per woman.

Puerto Rico is in stage four of the demographic transition.

REUNION

As an overseas department of France, the people of Reunion have been subjected to covert depopulation measures since 1956, when the total fertility rate was nearly 7 children per woman. By 1980, without the use of any contraceptive, fertility had declined to just 3 children per woman, at which point the sterilizing poisons were eased up. Reunion's fertility has hovered at 2.4 children per woman since 1993. This shows that the Regional Council of Reunion, or at the very least its president, ultimately decides how severely to poison their own people.

The President of the Regional Council that put the sterilization program on ice in 1993 is Margie Sudre (1993-1998). Her successors - Paul Vergès (1998-2010) and incumbent Didier Robert (since 2010) – have followed suit and have frozen the total fertility rate at 2.4 children per woman.

Reunion is in stage three of the demographic transition.

U.S. VIRGIN ISLANDS

The U.S. Virgin islands are an insular area of the United States since 1916.

Covert depopulation measures were first attempted in 1952 and abandoned in 1956 and then reinstated in 1961 and permanently kept in place until today. As a result, the total fertility rate has dropped from 5.7 children prior to 1952 to 2.2 children per woman by 1998 and to 1.8 to date.

The U.S. Virgin Islands are in stage four of the demographic transition and may have already entered stage five due to heavy emigration.

WESTERN SAHARA

The above fertility graph contains false information. According to the latest estimates the total fertility rate of Western Sahara is 4.1 children per woman but reliable data is hard to come by because the last census took place in 1970, which is when covert depopulation measures were also introduced by Spanish colonial administrators. From 1991, Morocco has had partial control of the country, but whatever decline in fertility has been accomplished would be the result of work performed by western NGOs and the UN and its agencies.

Some 500,000 people live in Western Sahara and most are nomadic.

Western Sahara is in stage two of the demographic transition.

Secretary General Ban Ki-moon,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

No one can hide in the digital age. Least of all the United Nations. I have put an end to the lies and deception that have kept the Global Depopulation Policy hidden from public knowledge since 1945.

This is the time for a change of course. The UN can no longer coerce sovereign nations to poison their people in the name of peace. The substitute to war that covert depopulation has acted as for the past seven decades can no longer be continued with the current methods. Covert poisoning must be replaced with overt legislation before the people rise up and condemn the current national and international leaders for crimes against humanity.

You have a very small window of opportunity to act. The level of anger is rising worldwide and parents will not hesitate to defend their children through violent means if the UN continues to see no evil, hear no evil and speak no evil while continuing to encourage evil worldwide.

No one is immune from the rule of law and the UN is in flagrant violation of the rule of law with respect to its Global Depopulation Policy.

I stand by to help you forge a new direction by legislating population control. Should you fail to act you will be held responsible for crimes against humanity.

I look forward to hearing from you.

José Manuel Barroso

Mr. Rompuy and Mr. Barroso,

Re: immediate cessation of covert methods of depopulation

We are at a crossroads in history and hesitating to change course at this eleventh hour with respect to the international framework for peace that the depopulation/globalization axis represents will have dire and tragic consequences.

For nearly seven decades, Europe's democracies have violated the rule of law and bypassed democratic processes to implement a covert program of population control that is immoral and unlawful and that constitutes genocide.

As the man who has exposed the Global Depopulation Policy, I have earned the people's trust. It is in my capacity as the people's representative that I urge you to schedule a meeting with me as soon as possible so we can discuss how the EU can best abandon covert and adopt overt population control.

Until such time, the entire European political framework is illegitimate and as history shows us, those who live outside the law die outside the law. Let us make sure that the European Union continues to flourish and that the European institutions are there to protect not harm the citizenry.

I look forward to hearing from you.

NORTH ATLANTIC TREATY ORGANIZATION (NATO)

Chair of NATO Military Committee
moc.web@hq.nato.int, <http://www.nato-pa.int/default.asp?SHORTCUT=2098>

Secretary-General Stoltenberg,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The stated purpose of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) since its inception in 1949 has been to provide collective defense in response to an attack by an external party. Its unstated purpose, however, is the one that defines the alliance's actions, and according to it the true role of NATO is to assist the depopulation and globalization agenda conceived in 1920, but put into practice only since 1945 when the United Nations was created to act as a neutral agency and coordinate this core secret agenda and when the Bretton Woods financial system was instituted to facilitate trade between nations.

The depopulation/globalization agenda has been pursued for seven decades to preserve the world from nuclear annihilation as well as to provide freedom from fear and want. The rationale is sound and simple: if every country stabilizes its population at a sustainable level and shares its resources with the rest of the world through the open market it will never be forced by dire circumstances arising from resource scarcity to resort to war against its neighbors. As such, peace between nations could be preserved for all times and all human and financial resources could be harnessed for the purpose of universal prosperity.

It was not realized at the beginning of this new international system, and could indeed not be foreseen, that to preserve peace within nations each and every government would have to wage war on their own people's fertility, as that is the only way possible to halt population growth and live within one's national means. Nor was it realized how difficult it would be to subvert human fertility let alone reach consensus to pursue replacement level fertility legally and openly, which proved to be impossible due to moral objections from religious authorities and the self-serving interests of the political class, which forced secular authorities, both nationally and internationally, to use covert chemical, biological, and bacteriological means to cause sterility and sub-fertility and psychosocial and economic means to subvert the family unit and in so doing bypass democratic processes, subvert the rule of law, censor the media, manufacture consent, rule by deception, and usurp the most fundamental rights and liberties.

It was not realized, in other words, that the depopulation/globalization agenda would become a substitute to war and not the absence of war that it was hoped to be, since war between nations was replaced by structural violence within nations to ensure that each country solves its social, economic, and political problems before their accumulated pressures lead to the breakdown of social order and ultimately to war. The foresight, knowledge and experience for this realization did not exist until the beginning of this century, by which time the entire national and international infrastructure had been harnessed to the global genocide and everyone in a position of authority has become an accessory to crimes against humanity of an order of magnitude without parallel in history.

So here we are today in the second phase of the depopulation agenda, which began with the false flag event of 9/11 and seeks to ensure that the global population does not exceed 9 or 10 billion and that it peaks by 2040 or at the latest by 2050. To accomplish this mammoth goal the depopulation program has been expanded, amplified and intensified and humankind is under sustained and devastating attack through toxin-laced food, water, beverages, air, and vaccines; as well as through germ-warfare in the case of Africa; laws designed to break families apart and criminalize poverty throughout the English-speaking western world; and economic measures meant to cause financial hardship for individuals and nations, create artificial scarcity and strangle the social conscience of people and nations to create an environment that is antithetical to families, children and social harmony.

The entire international system, in other words, from national to regional to international organs and entities, has become the enemy of mankind, intent on stopping the natural growth of the human species, which has exploded and has become unnaturally rapid due to advances in medicine, sanitation, nutrition, and daily comforts since the Industrial Revolution. By our formidable numbers and consumption patterns we have become a mortal threat to all life on earth and to the very fabric of life and our governments and international organizations have resolved to fight humankind the same way as an infestation of insects.

This New World Order, which is commonly known as the Beast because it uses diabolical methods, is harming each and every human being on the planet and threatens the survival of the human species. The substitute to war has become worse than war itself. It preserves the physical infrastructure, unlike conventional war, but destroys everything else: our health, our genes, our intelligence, our rule of law, our governing structures and institutions, our values and norms, our dignity, our future, our humanity and our children.

This is the time for NATO to provide collective defense in response to this enemy of mankind. Having provided an alternative plan to fulfilling the depopulation/globalization agenda, which is indeed necessary and unavoidable; having shattered the walls of lies, censorship and deception that have allowed the diabolical methods of this international order to proceed without our knowledge or consent; having exhausted all peaceful methods to compel policy makers and heads of state to change course; and having proven that this system intends the annihilation of the 99% for the wellbeing of the 1%, it is now time for our military forces to do their duty and protect us from the lethal attack the world's elites have launched against us.

If our nations are indeed democracies and no one is above the rule of law; if our politicians represent the will of the people and our militaries are responsible for our defense; and if the system that we fund as taxpayers is indeed meant to serve us, then let us put the depopulation agenda to a vote and decide if the people want to be poisoned into oblivion or take responsibility and limit family size of their own accord. But so long as our political, economic and scientific elites refuse to tell the truth and instead protect themselves and their offspring while poisoning the rest of us, all the while inventing enemies and causing discord and fear and suspicions to institute martial law or something akin to it, hide the truth and continue the genocide, we are fully within our natural and legal rights to apprehend and execute them all on sight.

The Global Depopulation Policy is made possible by mutual coercion mutually agreed upon, but we the people were never consulted and our rights and interests were never considered. We were never given a chance to be responsible global citizens. We were never taken into confidence. We were never told the facts and allowed to make a rational decision. As such, the depopulation agenda is illegal, immoral, and inexcusable and the governments harnessed to it are illegitimate and criminal because we, the people, never gave our governments the mandate to poison us.

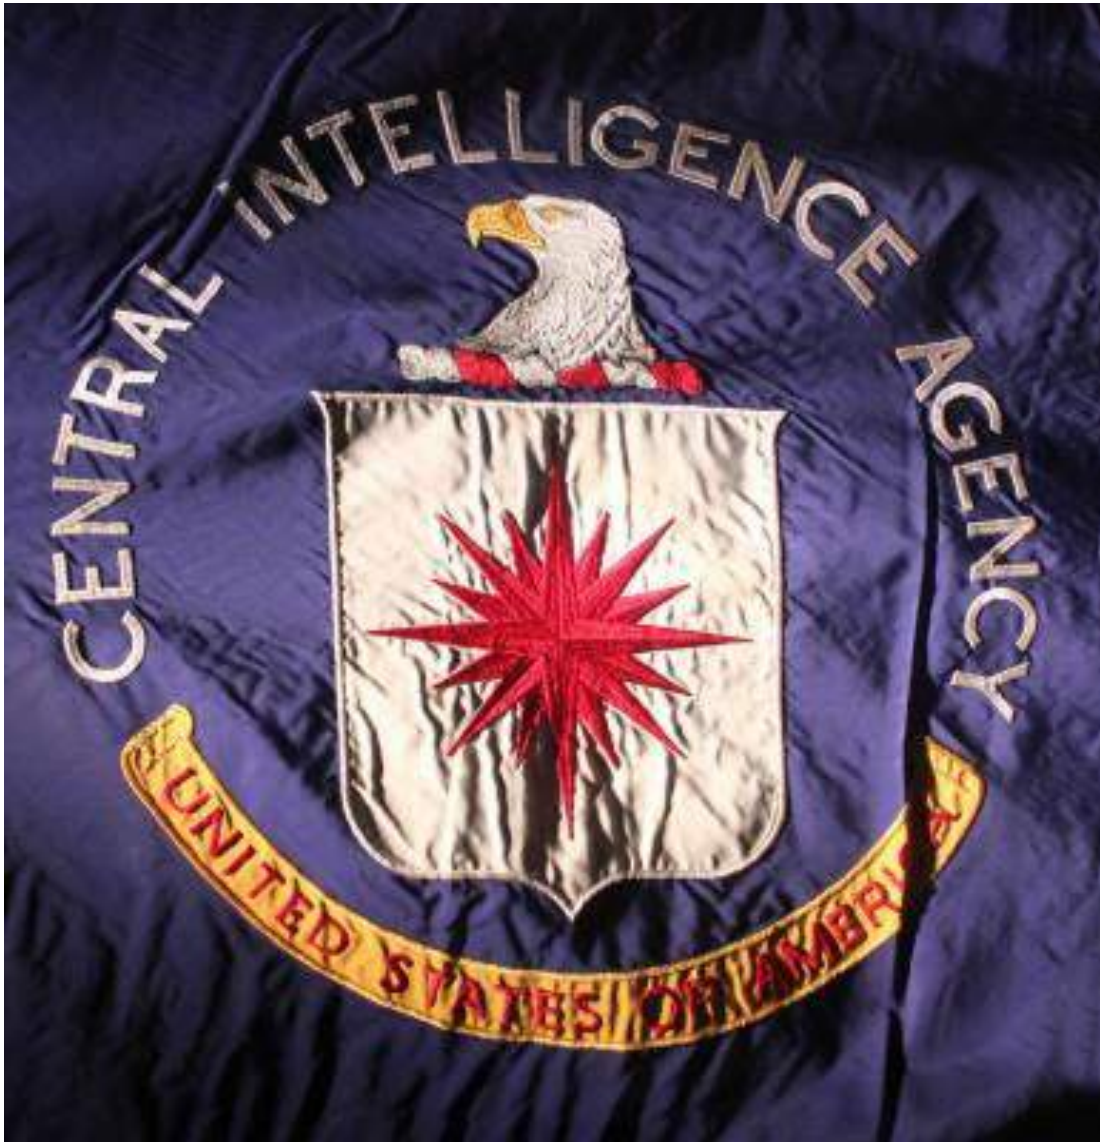

You are entrusted with our defense, so defend us. If the UN and the members of the Security Council fail to change course by the end of this month, I ask that NATO begins with mass arrests of the alliance's heads of state, the heads of the UN and its agencies, and the heads of every ministry of the 28 members of the NATO alliance so that we can restore the rule of law, stop the genocide, and reestablish democratic processes.

I stand by to assist you in any way I can and to establish a single, transitional civilian administration, peacefully and orderly, for all NATO member states until such time as new governments can be elected by voters who are fully informed of the crimes committed by the current governments and who may choose to dissolve national governments in favor of a global parliament capable of reestablishing law and order throughout the western world and of solving the global problems we face by including rather than excluding the vast majority of mankind.

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

Everyone wants to eat meat but no one wants to cut a chicken's head. Everyone wants to be rich, but no one considers the consequences of wealth. Everyone wants to live in a clean world, but no one wants to get their hands dirty and clean up after themselves. Everyone wants to protect their own interests and waits for others to be the heroes, failing to understand that salvation can only come if we all do our part and maintain harmony as individuals, at source, so that we do not have to do it as societies with the blunt and indiscriminate tools at the disposal of society, tools that are as blunt and unforgiving as nature's.

People fail to understand that society is entirely of man's making, a human not a divine construct, as such the task to keep good and evil in equilibrium falls on man not on God and so long as all men refuse to carry out this task another entity must compensate for our refusal to do our part. The secret societies of the past that have fulfilled this task have morphed into the intelligence agencies of the present (and the military-industrial complexes behind them) and are correspondingly larger and more sophisticated to be able to be an equal counterforce to our greater and increasing numbers and to our civilization's greater and increasing complexity.

People fail to understand that you are forced to be pure evil to compensate for the rest of us, who are too afraid or too ignorant to live in the image of God and refuse to understand that by our combined numbers and actions we have become a force of nature bent on destruction and without a counterforce to stop us. Since only man can stop man, our political leaders have armed and empowered you to be the counterforce to our force and thus stop man; to be the evil that stops our rampaging good, or rather, to be the good that stops our rampaging evil, because in a world where good causes evil the roles of good and evil have been reversed.

And so, those who put their stale religious doctrines before humanity and drive the world towards perdition will die by your hand. Those who put their economic self-interest before humanity will die by your hand. Those who cling on to outdated nationalist sentiments will die by your hand. And those who refuse to abandon the bliss of ignorance and the comfort of apathy will die by your hand. For that is the only way to save the rest of us from ourselves, as well as the planet and all life on it from humankind, so long as each and everyone one of us refuses to do his or her part.

But I have provided you with concrete evidence that we are ready to do our part. That we understand.

Our leaders have let you loose on us seven decades ago when we did not understand or were ready to understand. But now we understand. More than this, their plan cannot succeed because it renders all of us sterile, ill, feeble and cretinous. By their plan no one is saved and everyone destroyed. Our plan, on the other hand, will succeed because it preserves our humanity, allows our species to continue to evolve, places responsibility onto everyone's shoulders so there is no need for a force of evil to be our counterforce, and gives rise to a socio-economic system that includes everyone.

We, the people, have made our concession and evolved to the higher level of consciousness required of us. We accept the need for a law restricting family size to only two children worldwide. We accept that we have to share the world's resources with the rest of our fellow men. It is now the turn of our leaders to do their part and institute laws that reflect our understanding. But they refuse to do their part even though we did our part. So now we let you loose on them. To do onto them what they have done onto us until fear drives them to do what they need to do and what they were elected to do, which is to lead not poison us, and to empower not impoverish us.

Create an environment of fear in their rank that is greater than the fear of being thrown out of office, so that they will be forced by fear to do that which they could not be forced to do by conscience. Stop targeting us and start targeting them. We have made our concession they have not. We have sacrificed everything we have. Why should our children die for the sins of our politicians and their handlers? This new course of action will have far fewer casualties and much better results. Instead of assisting them to covertly poison the 7 billion of us into oblivion, poison a few of them to force them to do what needs to be done out of fear, namely to legislate population control so the genocide can stop and to legislate proper wages and social services so the poverty and crime and desperation can stop.

Remember that you work for us, the people, not for them, the elites, and your purpose is our security not their aggrandizement. At this point in history, when progress is stalled by their failure to do the jobs they were elected to do, you must turn your guns on them.

If you do not stop targeting us, you will fall with them. The smoke and screen that has kept your activities secret have become ridiculously transparent in the age of electronic communication. The people now know that there are no terrorists in the world other than those invented or created by governments, who are the only terrorists in the world. Fight the real terrorists rather than serve them. The people also know that all secret operations have ultimately a single objective, namely to advance the depopulation and globalization agenda pursued since 1945 to spare mankind from the scourge of war.

So let us do together what is necessary in order to accomplish these objectives, which are indeed sound and unavoidable.

Mr. Aziz, Ms. Zuma and Mr. Amadi,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

The 54 member states of the African Union are at the center of the world's attention, which is not a good place to be. The international community has engaged humanitarian, economic, political and military strategies to lift the continent out of poverty and give it a modicum of stability.

On the humanitarian front, the goal is to give the starving masses just enough to prevent the breakdown of social order and not enough to ensure the survival of everyone, which would only increase hunger and misery from year to year so long as Africans cannot feed themselves and are dependent on outside help.

On the economic front, the goal is to build and protect the infrastructure necessary to exploit the continent's rich natural resources and make it an integral part of the global economy so Africans can prosper and take charge of their own future by creating and investing their own wealth in their own countries rather than having it stashed abroad in offshore banking centers by self-serving politicians and their cronies.

On the political front, the goal is to create the conditions necessary for democracy, any kind of democracy, however flawed, so long as it replaces authoritarianism and the corruption and nepotism and tribalism that characterize the African political landscape and so the institutions of democracy can flourish and evolve.

And on the military front, the goal is to stop the population from growing and to eliminate all religious and cultural objections to replacement level fertility, this being the fundamental precondition for progress on all other fronts.

In short, the international community wants Africa to catch up with the rest of the world: socially, economically, politically, and especially demographically, so the world no longer has to witness starving children, child warriors, never-ending atrocities, and fat cats spending the continent's money on personal whims and on greener pastures without a thought to the consequences of their theft.

The effort to bring Africa up to global standards is orchestrated and coordinated by the UN and its agencies with support from western aid agencies and NGOs; direct investment from multinational corporations; loans and technical expertise from developed nations; military hardware and intelligence from NATO and its competitors, Russia and China; and political will from the United States and its allies.

The specific targets for every human development index are delineated by the Millennium Development Goals and are public knowledge. What is neither stated nor known is the methodology employed to defuse Africa's population explosion, which is the one goal on which all other MDGs depend, and is being pursued as a military operation with two fronts.

The first military front is sub-Saharan Africa, where population stabilization efforts have failed due to promiscuous sexual practices. Having resisted any and all attempts to subject the African people to covert methods of depopulation, and due to the continent's lack of water treatment infrastructure that would make possible mass chemical sterilization via fluoridated tap water, as in the developed world, Africa's leaders are now being bypassed by the international community, which has decided to unleash a weaponized version of the Ebola virus and to let it spread until such time as all Africans of childbearing age accept to be immunized against Ebola with vaccines laced with long-lasting sterilizing agents or else die from Ebola. If the fear factor, which is now being whipped to its maximum, does not work, the international community will institute martial law and quarantine the continent under the pretext of stopping the spread of the virus, which will be an effective method of economic blackmail, unless Africa's leaders do not forcibly vaccinate their people. And if that does not work either, they will simply spread the virus across the continent and let it kill as many people as necessary to stop population growth.

This was deemed necessary because conventional immunization programmes are aimed at combatting childhood diseases and injecting children with sterilizing agents before they reach their sexually active age under the pretext of combatting tetanus, polio or meningitis has resulted in death and crippling illness in too many cases to be able to cover up the failure and many Africans have, as a result, realized that the vaccines pushed by the UN and its western sponsors are meant primarily to sterilize them, which is why several medical teams have been murdered.

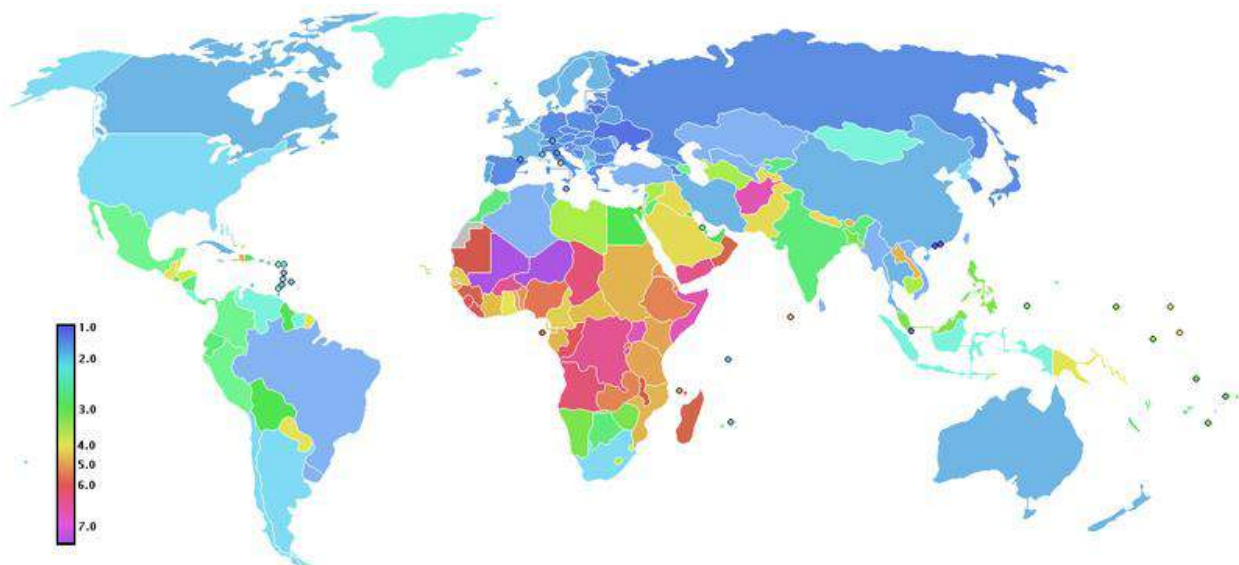

The second military front is Arab or North Africa, where population stabilization efforts have failed due to Islamic objections to any interference with the God-given right to procreate and where political instability threatens the world's energy security. To break the back of conservative Islamists who refuse to limit their societies to replacement level fertility and who stand in the way of democracy, the international community has decided to temporarily destabilize the region and use the pretext of fighting Islamic extremism and terrorism to accelerate the region's history and bring its people up to modern and moderate ways of thinking and their nations to democratic governance. ISIS was therefore created virtually overnight to take advantage of the ethnic divide between Arabs and Kurds and of the religious divide between Shias and Sunnis and thus turn the entire region into a war zone. This, it is hoped, will get the Assad regime in Syria to crumble, will destroy the long-held dream of Arab unity under a modern caliphate before the Arabs get to even attempt it, will exhaust any and all conservative elements in society, and will defame Islamist political factions and thus prevent them from assuming political power in free elections, as has happened in Egypt with the Muslim Brotherhood.

These two military fronts – the one in sub-Saharan Africa, where Ebola is the primary weapon, and the one in North Africa, where ISIS is the primary weapon – that are meant to accomplish the geopolitical objectives I have described above, also fulfill another important strategic goal, namely stopping the exodus from Africa to Europe. The two military fronts have created two impenetrable cordons, the Ebola cordon and the ISIS cordon, that now seal the continent and prevent Africans from leaving it to seek refuge in Europe. Europe can no longer accommodate the boatloads of desperate Africans that reach the shores of Italy, Spain and Greece and a way had to be found to stop the flow of immigration.

Because Africa has proven incapable of solving its own problems and has refused to participate in the depopulation and globalization axis around which the international system has revolved since 1945, the UN and its western sponsors have taken matters into their own hands before Africa's problems flood over the continent's borders and destabilize the hard-won peace and stability of Europe.

Given Africa's high fertility rates and frightening population growth projections, which show that if the continent continues on its current path its population will triple in the next 40 years and there will be 2.7 billion Africans by 2050 compared to the one billion Africans today, one can understand why the international community is resorting to desperate solutions.

While Africans in 1970 made up only a tenth of the world's population, they make up a sixth of the world's population today and at current growth rates they will make up a quarter of the global population by 2050. The world can hardly cope with Africa's problems today, how will it cope with Africa's problems over the next four decades if Africa does not change its ways and its problems keep spilling over the continent's borders?

It is these frightening prospects and the failure of Africa's politicians that have forced the international community to commit genocide. But we can stop the genocide if you join me in forging global consensus for a worldwide population control law that will restrict the total fertility rate of every country on earth to replacement level, i.e. two children per woman.

I am doing my part to save your people from genocide and indeed the entire world because we are all subject to one method of covert population control or another, and I am but a father with no power other than the power of truth and no means other than the love in my heart. It is time that you do your part. Because until such time as we all do our part and each and every human being on this planet assumes personal responsibility for his or her sexual urges and we all limit ourselves voluntarily to just two children, the world will know no peace and we will drive every life form on this planet, including our own, to extinction.

Yes, what the UN and NATO and the military-industrial complexes of the great powers are doing is not right and it is genocide, but they are forced to commit genocide to compensate for the ignorance of the common man, the intractability of religious authorities and their stale dogmas, and for the self-serving posturing of politicians who are forced to cater to populist wishes in a democracy.

It is time that we all come out of the shadows and assume responsibility for this genocide that has been going on since 1945. Until such time all our hands are drenched in blood, and it is the blood of our children. Until such time, we are all mass murderers.

If you want to know how to escape this genocidal system that traps us all, I urge you to read and to disseminate my work. It is freely available here:

Mr. Lake,

The United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), the organization you now lead, was subsumed into the genocidal lobby in 1967 when UNICEF and the World Health Organization (WHO) formed the Joint Committee on Health Policy and both organizations abandoned their initial mandates and became entirely focused on fulfilling the objectives of the Global Depopulation Policy. That same year, UN Secretary-General U Thant announced the creation of the United Nations Fund for Population Activities (UNFPA) to coordinate and underwrite population-control activities worldwide.

Since then, UNICEF is no longer actively saving children's lives but proactively preventing the birth of children and covertly as well as overtly undermining human fertility by distributing contraceptives and abortifacients, performing forced and coerced abortions, donating sterilization kits, funding sterilizing vaccines and immunization programmes to deliver them under the pretext of combatting childhood diseases and improving maternal health, and subverting people's reproductive rights and the family structure by perverting the ministries of health of every developing nation on earth. As such, UNICEF has become one of the world's principal genocidal agencies and a real and present danger to children, mothers and families around the world.

To provide UNICEF and other genocidal agencies within the UN system with the legal cover necessary to prevent the birth of children worldwide, the United Nations Declaration of the Rights of the Child was revised. While the original Declaration stated "Whereas the child, by reason of his physical and mental immaturity, needs special safeguards and care, including legal protection, before as after birth..." the revised 1991 Declaration only offers state protection to children after birth. However, not even this deliberate weakening of international law provides legal cover for coerced and forced sterilization and/or abortion.

Over the next few months, the People's Protection Force and the Center of Global Consciousness, two organizations I lead, will work closely with an international common law court to assemble the evidence necessary to indict you, as well as the Director-General of the World Health Organization (WHO), Dr. Margaret Chan; the Executive Director of the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), Dr. Babatunde Osotimehin; the Director of Policy and Analysis Division of the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs (UN DESA), Dr. Pingfan Hong; the Administrator of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), Helen Clark; the Secretary-General of the United Nations, Ban Ki-Moon; as well as several other high-ranking UN bureaucrats and technocrats for crimes against humanity and genocide unless the UN and its agencies cease and desist all population control activities worldwide by the end of October 2014 and issue a clear and unequivocal statement that henceforth population control must be pursued legally, fairly and openly through global legislation with the full knowledge and consent of the public.

This statement must be addressed to me, Kevin Galalae, Director of the Center of Global Consciousness, and sent to my email address (k.galalae@outlook.com) as well as published on the UN Secretariat website by the end of this October.

In the meantime, I ask all employees of the United Nations principal organs and specialized agencies who do not want to be involved in genocide and who are now being forced to be accessories to crimes against humanity and genocide to prove their innocence and safeguard their freedom by acting as whistleblowers and leaking documents and communications to me, Wikileaks, or the alternative media, which provide evidence of malfeasance, misfeasance or nonfeasance.

I can be found online through the social media here:

Let me also warn the communication officers who have received this email and whose email addresses are listed at the top of this letter to disseminate this letter throughout the UN system or face charges of complicity in the cover-up of crimes against humanity and genocide at a later date.

Mr. Geisler, Mr. Schorer, Mr. Gaffney, and Board of Directors,

Re: immediate cessation of chemical and biological warfare against civilians

You are committing crimes against humanity and atrocities against the people of the world that are without precedent in human history and you will soon face charges in the international criminal court. When that time comes, and it will, there will be no hole deep enough on this earth for you to hide in. We, the people of the world, who you now poison from the air with diabolical disdain, will bring each and every one of you to justice.

I ask that you immediately cease and desist all chemtrail operations. If you do not, you will face not only charges for crimes against humanity and genocide but also for conspiracy to incite war. You now believe to be protected by the political establishment, but this protection will inevitably turn into accusations and blame.

If you are to obtain lighter sentences or perhaps even full exoneration now is the time to leave DynCorp just as your previous CEO, Mr. Gordon Walsh, did after only three weeks of his appointment. Those of you who have served the company in the past, like Mr. Gaffney, must also come forward and publicly denounce its activities. If you are to mitigate the gravity of your crimes in the face of the criminal courts that you will soon face you must expose the full extent of DynCorp's involvement in the aerial spraying of the populace with chemical and biological toxins.

I stand by to assist you without bias or bitterness in disengaging from genocide.

Mr. Thomas and Mr. Foerster,

Re: stop manufacturing plastics that are endocrine disruptors

You represent the plastics industry in Europe and as such I ask that you share this letter with every member of your organization. It is of the highest importance and extremely urgent.

The political, military and scientific establishments of Europe are using specific plastics to covertly undermine the fertility of their citizens in order to fulfill the international security prerogative of population control and therefore comply with their obligations as members of the United Nations, which has used population control as a substitute to war since 1945.

Bisphenol A (BPA) and bisphenol S (BPS) are endocrine disruptors that mimic estrogen and have been shown to cause negative health effects that go well beyond impairing fertility. Despite countless scientific studies showing that BPA and BPS are toxic chemicals that devastate the human body by causing severe and irreversible physical and neurological damage, Europe's regulatory organizations have failed to properly regulate their use. This failure is intentional because these toxic plastics are crucial to the Global Depopulation Policy, which I have exposed in its entirety in 2012 as a genocidal plan for population control that is immoral, unlawful and perverse.

On behalf of the people of Europe and in the name of peace I ask that your industry voluntarily stops the production of these toxic plastics and henceforth refuses to cooperate with the depopulation lobby. Failure to do so will incur charges of crimes against humanity and genocide for every member of your industry who continues to manufacture these toxic plastics that are deliberately used to commit genocide.

I stand by to aid the members of your industry in dissociating themselves from the depopulation lobby.

Mr. Grant, company leaders and board directors of Monsanto,

Re: cease production of GMOs designed to cause sterility, morbidity and food dependence

Monsanto is the world's first and foremost genocidal corporation and has done more harm to the global population than any other company in human history. Monsanto was drafted into the genocidal lobby in 1942 when Charles Allen Thomas (president of Monsanto from 1951-60 and Chairman of the Board from 1960-65) joined the National Defense Research Committee (NDRC) and a year later was asked by Brig. Gen. Leslie Groves, commander of the Manhattan Project, to operate the Dayton project and assist in the development of the first nuclear weapons by designing the triggers.

As co-author of the 1946 Report on the International Control of Atomic Energy (also known as the Acheson-Lilienthal Report), member of the Science Advisory Committee in 1951, scientific consultant to the National Security Council since 1953, and U.S. Representative to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, Thomas was part and parcel of the failed effort to subject nuclear weapons to international control and prevent their proliferation.

Ever since the late 1940s, Monsanto has been fully subsumed into the population control effort, agreed upon by the UN Member States as a substitute to war and as a compromise solution to the prevention of nuclear confrontation. The top secret effort to implement population control internationally has been coordinated by the UN but implemented on the ground by National Security Councils, an executive branch of government that every founding UN Member State has had to form in order to advise their respective government how to pursue population control within its borders.

Monsanto has been a tool of the U.S. National Security Council (NSC) and has worked in close collaboration with the Defense Advanced Research Project Agency (DARPA), which Thomas in fact helped set up, and which is responsible for the development of new technologies for use by the military.

Since the primary goal of the American military since 1945 has been to wage a covert war on human fertility, Monsanto has provided the scientific tools necessary to conduct this covert war first with chemicals (artificial sweeteners, fluoride, the insecticide DDT, and the persistent organic pollutant PCB) and since the late 1980s with Genetically Modified Organisms (GMOs), which are bioweapons.

As such, you are co-responsible not only for crimes against humanity but also for the destruction of human health and of the human genetic and intellectual endowment across the world. These crimes have no precedent in human history and their punishment is a chapter yet to be written. What is certain is your involvement and culpability, as well as your future indictment.

If you want to earn the people's mercy and the international criminal court's leniency this is the time to leave the company and denounce its activities. The era of genocide as a substitute to war has come to an end. Failing to recognize this will have terrible consequences for the world and lethal consequences for you personally.

If you would like to discuss how best to disentangle yourselves and disengage Monsanto from the current genocidal international world order, I will advise you without bias or bitterness since we are all victims of historical circumstances. You should however not labor under the false hope that the genocidal lobby to which you belong will not be brought to justice and that you will not have to publicly justify your actions.

As history shows, those who come forward first and show sincere remorse receive the most humane treatment. My hope is that we can close this chapter in our history without bloodshed and that the world adopts legislative means to accomplish the demographic objectives without which the world will never know true peace, universal prosperity and real freedom.

Mr. Gates,

Re: immediate cessation of covert depopulation measures

With an endowment of US$38 billion, your philanthropic foundation, the largest private foundation in the world, has the means necessary to make a great and positive impact on the global community.

While I commend you for dedicating your time, means and effort to enhancing healthcare and reducing extreme poverty globally, I cannot agree with the methods you have chosen to accomplish these worthwhile goals; methods that are neither legal nor ethical and are backfiring throughout the world, as the universal rejection of sterilizing vaccines and proprietary GMOs that you fund and promote in the world clearly demonstrates.

As you well know, and I have again and again clearly shown in my work (<http://uvic.academia.edu/KevinGalalae>), poverty and war will never loosen their grip on mankind unless the global population is stabilized and gradually reduced to a sustainable level while resources are traded across the globe through the open markets, which is why the international community has revolved around the depopulation/globalization agenda since the inception of the United Nations and the Bretton Woods financial system in 1945.

In 2000, when you decided to create the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, you coupled your considerable resources to an already existing global infrastructure geared entirely towards depopulation; an infrastructure set in place by the policy makers of the Allied Powers to preserve the world from the scourge of war, which this time around, due to nuclear weapons, would lead to assured mutual destruction.

Undoubtedly influenced by your father, who served on the board of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America (PPFA), the U.S. affiliate of the International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF), you decided to aid the depopulation effort by concentrating on developing sterilizing vaccines that could be provided under various pretexts as maternal and child health services throughout the developing world, where the chemical methods of population control covertly employed throughout the western world since 1945 could not be applied due to lack of infrastructure and financial means.

Your second focus is biotechnology, the most modern method of population control developed by the US government in collaboration with the military-industrial complex, and you are consequently pushing the use of GMOs throughout the world.

In the era of government transparency and digital communication, secrets are no longer possible and the covert methods and means developed and used by previous generations have become common knowledge and the object of great and justified condemnation. Conceiving new covert methods of chemical or biological sterilization in the vain hope of subverting the human reproductive system without people's knowledge or consent only adds to the existing anger and disdain people throughout the world have come to feel towards the elites. Ignoring this justified anger will inevitably lead to global war and to the extermination of the 1% by the 99% through conventional conflict, which would render futile seven decades of effort and sacrifices to preserve the peace.

Because you have chosen the wrong approach to pursue noble goals, the vast amounts of money you dedicate and that harm more people than they help have made you and your foundation extremely unpopular. More than this, the goals intended by your philanthropy will remain out of reach. For the simple reality is this: science and technology will never be capable of subverting the reproductive system without doing great harm to human health. Reproduction is too vital to the perpetuation of the species and the ability to reproduce is therefore deeply embedded in human anatomy and physiology, which is why it cannot be targeted in isolation. The only way to safely lower fertility down to replacement level is through barrier methods and their application requires the participation of all men and women, which means that people have to assume personal responsibility for limiting the size of their families.

Of course, you do not have to be a doctor or a scientist to know this simple truth and that means that you are surrounded by feeble-minded and self-serving people who advise you from their own ignorance or in their own best interests in order to secure research grants that keep them employed in their métiers at the cost and to the detriment of the global population. Ultimately, it is your legacy that will suffer and along with it this and future generations.

If you want to be successful in your philanthropic and demographic objectives I suggest you aid me in forging global consensus for population control legislation that applies worldwide and emanates from the global governance level. Halting and reducing the global population is a Planetary Security Prerogative given the dire environmental, social and economic state of the planet and this means that religious and cultural objections are completely irrelevant in the face of the existential threats we face; threats that must be openly recognized as such and enshrined in international law without delay so that every human being on the planet knows what we all need to do and that we can only do it together.

I have recently formulated the three constituent parts of such a Planetary Security Prerogative – which in short are (1) compulsory replacement level fertility for all people on earth, (2) the right to die at the time of one's choosing, and (3) ecological optimum population targets for every country on earth – and have presented them to the NATO supreme command for consideration.

In addition, I am addressing every head of state personally to give them the opportunity to cease and desist all covert methods of depopulation, as well as all international organizations and multinational corporations involved in the depopulation agenda. The idea is to give them the opportunity to help me change the international system from covert to overt population control.

Last but not least, I am exposing the methods and means, past and present, as well as the latest strategies of depopulation and informing the public at large that our own governments and the international community wage a war of attrition against us, innocent civilians, in violation of every national and international legal covenant and in disdain of all moral norms.

As such, your work undermines my efforts and vice versa, which is a waste of energy and ensures only stagnation, for while you have vast financial resources and a well-entrenched coalition of individuals and forces on your side, I have the truth, the rule of law, democracy, decency, justice and the love of every parent and of every child on this planet on my side.

It makes no sense for you and your partners to continue to fight me and the world. Not only will you lose, but you will also deprive mankind of the little time we have left to act before our civilization and our planet become the victims of human folly.

Sincerely,

Kevin Galalae

PEOPLE

LETTER TO THE PEOPLE

My fellow human being,

Whoever you are, wherever you are, this is of life and death importance to you.

If you want to live and, more importantly, if you want your children to live, then this concerns you. If you want to have children, this concerns you. If you want your children to be healthy and in control of their bodies and minds and destinies, this concerns you.

While living your life and dreaming your dreams, while caring for your family and raising your children, while paying your taxes and respecting the law, your government has been secretly poisoning you and your children into sterility to stop the population from growing. Depending where on this planet you live, you have been at the receiving end of sterilizing poisons for a generation or three and with each generation you will have noticed that the number of children born in your family has decreased. This is not by accident but by design and has nothing to do with your decisions but with the international framework for peace which has rightfully deemed population control the primary consideration of government and the pillar of lasting peace.

What your government knows but refuses to tell you is that we cannot survive a doubling of the global population from 7 to 14 billion. We cannot survive this doubling in thirty years, which is what would happen if we were not being bombarded with sterilizing poisons from every direction, and we could not survive this doubling in a thousand years because we live on a finite planet whose limits we have long surpassed.

Earth is overflowing with people and unless we shrink our numbers we will choke on our own pollution, kill each other for a loaf of bread, and reduce our beautiful and precious planet into a smoldering cinder.

Since 1945, the United Nations and governments around the world have taken proactive measures to slow down population growth by reducing human fertility to replacement level, thus to two children for every couple so we do not have to repeat the mistakes of the past and outgrow our land's ability to feed us or our vital natural resources and then be forced by dire circumstances to invade our neighbors to steal and to plunder so as to satisfy our basic needs at the expense of others, as was done throughout human history due to our ignorance and our inability to plan for the future. We can no longer afford to live from day to day and from season to season.

By reading these words you lose your blissful ignorance and gain knowledge that demands you assume personal responsibility over your reproduction so your government no longer needs to poison you and we can have true peace on earth, peace without poison, peace that does not exclude you and your children from the future.

If you fail to assume personal responsibility and think you can hide from the government's sterilizing poisons and just protect yourself and your children while damning the rest to hell, then you and your family will wither away like a flower without water because by your selfish and cowardly actions you force your government to continue to poison you through the basic elements of life until you and your children are as sterile as lab rats and your genetic line will die out along with your offspring's inability to procreate. Already this is the predicament of a quarter of the people living in the developing world, where the depopulation program first began.

Should you accept being poisoned into infertility, imbecility and ill-health through the basic elements of life by our own elected government with money that you earn and by institutions that you as taxpayer fund and that you trust to safeguard your rights and liberties then you will have signed your own death warrant, because a slow falling guillotine is just as deadly as a fast falling one when your neck is fastened to the chopping block.

Remember that the more you earn the more you contribute to the global genocide and speed up your children's genetic and intellectual degradation and the extinction of your genetic line. So long as covert depopulation measures remain place and you allow your government to regulate your reproduction all your efforts and all the wealth you create is turned against you and against your children. You are bankrolling your own extinction.

We are mortal, made immortal only by our ability to propagate our genes. Without children we are nothing but branches of a dead tree just waiting to fall. If you fail to stand up for your children you will forfeit their rightful place on this planet and their rightful place in creation; place earned by the countless generations that have come before you and to whom you owe your existence. If you fail to stand up and scream 'nobody will poison children on my watch' then you are an accessory to genocide. If you fail to stand up and make your voice heard then those who commit crimes against humanity and crimes against your children will continue to hide behind the system that you fund.

The logic behind the Global Depopulation Policy is sound and we cannot ignore it. Why wage war on each other and be trapped in the cycle of want, fear, violence and retribution when we can wage war on fertility and have everlasting peace? We cannot abandon this evolution in our thinking and we cannot abandon the objectives of the Global Depopulation Policy. But we must discard its diabolical methods and this can only happen if you make your voice heard and show that you are ready to assume responsibility over your children's future, the future of mankind, and the future of the planet.

This is not a license to commit violence against your government or against the people who govern us, but an invitation to contribute to true peace and to secure a place in the future for your children and your children's children without pushing your fellow man off the ledge and without leaving your friends and neighbors behind, which is what our leaders have done because they do not believe in our ability to think and understand, or in our readiness to love humanity as a whole and to sacrifice for others.

Fail to make your voice heard and you will have proven them right. Make your voice heard and change the world.

We can turn politics into poetry.

But only if we dare to dare.

No population control program: Mali, Niger, Somalia, Somaliland

SUMMARY

Numbers, unlike people, do not lie.

The numbers presented in this epic document confirm the existence of a global program of population control that has been carefully concealed from the public since its inception in 1945 and shatter fabricated notions perpetuated to confuse and confound inquiring minds lest they stumble upon the frightening truth that the international framework for peace is based on genocide.

They confirm that the architects of the Global Depopulation Policy, the Allied Powers, have always had the best intentions in mind and that the executors of these intentions, the United Nations and governments around the world, have acted in good faith, though not in good conscience, forced by dire circumstances and insurmountable obstacles to choose the lesser evil for the greater good.

They confirm that the secret war on human fertility is seven decades old and that the entire world is a battlefield and every human being on the planet a target, a victim and a beneficiary.

They confirm that this is both the most insidious and most humane war in human history and that all governments are enlisted by mutual coercion mutually agreed upon and harnessed to be reluctant allies against a single common foe, population growth, which requires a full and frontal attack on human fertility.

They confirm that people around the world are being poisoned into subfertility and infertility by covert chemical, biological and bacteriological means in a desperate attempt to prevent nuclear annihilation, mass starvation and environmental devastation.

They confirm that unless proactively defused the overpopulation bomb explodes first into poverty, which begets desperation and ultimately war.

They confirm that contraceptives, however sophisticated, and abortion, however easily obtainable, cannot depress fertility to the needed replacement level unless buttressed by firm legislation, because the joy of sex and the love of children are more powerful than any national and international prerogatives.

They confirm that the Global Depopulation Policy has many justifications, depending on the time and place, and that all of them are sound:

1. subdue the Axis Powers (Germany, Japan, Italy and their co-belligerents) at the end of World War II;

2. defuse tensions along the Iron Curtain to prevent war between the East and the West, between the communist and capitalist blocs;
3. end wars (ex. Vietnam, Korea);
4. preserve precious resources;
5. keep volatile borders quiet (North and South Korea, Pakistan and India);
6. promote development (in Latin America and South-East Asia);
7. lift countries out of abject poverty (Africa); and
8. save island nations from rising sea levels due to anthropogenic climate change (throughout the Pacific Region).

More than anything, the numbers show that heads of state and heads of government around the world have chosen to poison their people into sterility and commit genocide to lift their nations out of poverty and keep them prosperous and that in order to succeed they have made a cold and calculated decision to sacrifice their people's fundamental rights and basic health as well as rob them of the joy of parenthood for the sake of national prosperity and international peace. While the pursuit of stable populations has not always kept the peace, it has always and unfailingly resulted in growing affluence and longer lifespans.

While the affluence is poorly distributed and grossly concentrated and the longer lifespans are not accompanied by better health but enabled by better medicine, they are preferable to the poverty trap that have imprisoned the nations whose leaders have refused to poison their people and to the short and miserable lives of those trapped in abject poverty.

The hard cold reality that is revealed by the unapologetic honesty of numbers is that population control is an absolute and inescapable necessity on a finite planet and that the sooner this reality is freed from the confinement of state secrecy and embraced by an enlightened populace the sooner we can have peace without poison. Accepting this reality and embodying it in our actions requires no acts of bravery or intellectual feats from any of us. It requires only that we limit ourselves to just two children for the sake of peace on earth, of future generations, and of environmental wellbeing.

The world's growing complexity has multiplied the Global Depopulation Policy's roles: from punishing and disarming World War II foes, to preserving international peace, to safeguarding crucial natural resources, and finally to protecting the environment. And with each role added to its core responsibility, which is to preserve international peace and prevent nuclear war, its impetus and urgency have grown along with its scale and scope.

To meet these multiple and vast responsibilities the population control arsenal at the disposal of the UN and its member states has also grown correspondingly.

Once universal and compulsory education for boys and girls as well as delayed marriage reached their limits by the early 1950s in how far they could suppress family size, governments fully deployed fluoride, be it in water (both tap and bottled), salt, milk, supplements, dental care products, and in direct oral applications, under the pretext of combatting tooth decay. To date, the reproductive systems of more than two billion people in high- and middle-income countries are being subverted in this fashion, especially since the World Health Organization (WHO) has declared fluoride, which is a deadly poison, an essential mineral and changed the Codex Alimentarius, which regulates the international standards and codes related to food production and food safety, so it could be added to milk products by compliant genocidal corporations without being labelled. Men are especially vulnerable to this method of sterilization and as a result of it boys suffer disproportionately from an epidemic of developmental disorders that in the meantime affect 15% of all male children in the developed world and a growing number of boys in the developing world.

By the 1960s, the oral contraceptive pill and Depo-Provera injections were promoted as voluntary methods of birth control in developing nations and involuntarily or unknowingly forced on women throughout the developing world. To date, more than a billion women of reproductive age worldwide are temporarily sterilized in this fashion with dire effects on their health, as attested by an epidemic of breast cancer as well as infertility.

In Africa, the HIV/AIDS virus was unleashed in the late 1970s to wreak havoc on the immune system and thus increase morbidity and mortality in countries where depopulation objectives could not be accomplished from the front end of life, by limiting birth, and could only be accomplished from the back end of life, by increasing death. The virus was also designed to alter the sexual practices of Africans where polygamy and promiscuity were the norm and through fear of infection limit sexual intercourse with multiple partners and prevent childbearing out of wedlock, as well as increase the use of condoms throughout the world. To date, the entire world lives in fear of AIDS and 35 million people worldwide live with AIDS, the vast majority of whom are in the low- and middle-income countries of sub-Saharan Africa, as well as 3.2 million children infected by their HIV-positive mothers during pregnancy, childbirth or breastfeeding. More importantly for the depopulation lobby so long as fear of AIDS is kept alive individuals, be they educated or not, will have an incentive to use contraceptives, which helps the world prevent unwanted pregnancies.

By the early 1980s, bisphenol A (BPA) plastics in the form of polycarbonates and epoxy resins were developed to close the loophole to safe drinking water and safe food that the health conscious in the developed world had found by drinking spring water from glass bottles and eating organic produce and to also reach the nascent middle class in the swelling cities of the developing world, forcing the unsuspecting to pay for their own poison and thus shifting the cost of mass sterilization from governments to individuals; a feat also accomplished by switching from water to salt fluoridation in much of Europe and throughout Latin America. To date, four billion people across the world are being chronically poisoned with BPA and the effects on human health are legion and cover the full spectrum of so-called illnesses of affluence, from cardiovascular diseases to diabetes, obesity and allergies, diseases that were first triggered by fluoride poisoning and that in fact are nothing more than the unintended side-effects of sustained and chronic attack upon the entire endocrine system with endocrine disruptors deliberately inserted in water, food and beverages for depopulation purposes.

By the late 1980s, artificial sweeteners were added to the arsenal of mass sterilization weaponry in the developed world and in conjunction with the industrialization of food by agro-giants and the proliferation of convenient fast and processed foods the entire food and beverage chain was transformed into an endemic fertility suppression vehicle made all the more effective by protein derived from hormone-fed animals. In this fashion no one but the wealthiest members of society in the developed world and the poorest and most self-sufficient people in the developing world could escape the mass sterilization program.

By the 1990s, exasperated with the lack of progress in Africa, India, South-East Asia and a few reluctant countries in Latin America, the depopulation lobby unleashed genetically modified organisms (GMOs) on the world and within twenty years increased the cultivation of sterilizing GMOs from zero to 174 million hectares. To make sure that people eat these poisonous crops, that are made all the more devastating to human fertility and longevity through proprietary pesticides, their labelling is strictly prohibited throughout the Americas. And since GMO corn is fed to animals that are sold throughout the world, GMO corn syrup is used in all confectionary and processed foods, and GMO rapeseed is now the third-largest vegetable oil source in the world, there is not a single corner of the planet that is not reached in this indirect fashion, which is why fertility rates are dropping like planes from the sky in countries that are dirt poor and where affluence cannot be invoked as a reason for decreasing fertility.

In the 1990s, the full ingenuity of medical scientists and of the pharmaceutical industry was also unleashed to contribute to the global genocide with sterilizing vaccines and medicines that are promoted to purportedly improve maternal and child health in countries where in great part due to overpopulation people are starving, but also in countries where the demographic transition reached an advanced stage and government found themselves with unsustainably high ratios of old people and growing ratios of superfluous people made redundant by the mechanization, robotization and computerization of the means of production, people the wealthy governments of the developed world want to send into an early grave rather than support financially with taxpayers money. Such is the desperation of global policy makers and national leaders that tetanus toxoid and meningococcal vaccines as well Artemisinin-based malaria medication double as covert sterilizants throughout the developing world, while flu vaccines and psychotropic drugs both sterilize and sicken otherwise healthy people throughout the developed world.

In 1995, the latest depopulation weapon was first deployed from the skies, chemtrails, which have continued ever since. While chemtrail operations are primarily intended to slow down global warming by allowing heat trapped in the atmosphere due to anthropogenic greenhouse gases to escape, they are secondarily intended to increase the presence of heavy metals and carcinogenic substances on the ground to speed up the death of the baby boomers who now equal or outnumber children in countries that have reached the fourth and fifth stages of the demographic transition and who as such pose unbearable financial burdens on societies whose tax purse and economic output are diminishing due to a shrinking and quickly ageing workforce.

The entire international community, centered in the UN system, as well as the executive level of nearly every government on earth is a full-fledged member of this global genocide and the hands of policy makers are drenched in the blood of innocents. Every institution of state and every international organization is used to suppress the truth and depress fertility and longevity by any and all means possible in a desperate and globally coordinated effort to prevent the collapse of our civilization and environmental disaster due to overpopulation and overconsumption.

The truth cannot be hidden; not when you have time on your side.

Even though governments keep their crimes concealed under the pretext of national security in a global police state constructed under the false pretense of combatting Islamic fundamentalism and extremism, which are wholly invented and non-existent threats needed to conceal the true enemies, human fertility and national egoism, the truth surfaces between the cracks of their exponentially growing lies of necessity and the deepening confusion of multiple deceptions.

Since the end of World War II there has been only one war in the world, the war the UN and freely elected governments wage on the civilian population to limit us by force to replacement level fertility. The second and parallel front of this war has been waged on national self-determination to open the natural resources of every nation on earth to exploitation by multinational corporations so that vital resources can be accessed on the free market to the highest bidder rather than monopolized by single nations and in this fashion no one needs to go to war to gain access to the resources necessary to industrialize or satisfy internal demand.

From the demographic data we can discern as easily as a hunter can track a bear in the snow when and who tampered with human fertility and altered the course and profile of a population. From the statistical data we can quantify the effects of these executive decisions as accurately as a biologist can determine the age of a fallen tree by counting its rings in a cross-section. From the political context and historic events we can determine, as easily as a mathematician can add two and two, why the decision was taken to wage war on fertility and in the process justify writing off the health of entire nations as collateral damage. And from the medical data we can predict as accurately as an astronomer can calculate the next lunar eclipse how severely the genetic and intellectual endowment of humanity will be harmed from decade to decade if we continue to be chronically poisoned through chemical and biological toxins for the sake of accomplishing the demographic transition.

By bringing together to compare and contrast demographic, statistical, economic, medical, and political data a clear picture has emerged as to how the Global Depopulation Policy has been initiated, implemented and institutionalized so as to divorce its methods and means from the rule of law, protect its crimes from democratic scrutiny, and advance its goals despite moral objections.

The picture that has emerged from behind these multiple smokescreens is that the Global Depopulation Policy is coordinated by the UN, pushed by the Axis Powers, and mediated by Scandinavian countries.

Nationally, the Ministry of Defense is responsible for eliminating any democratic impediments to genocide and when such impediments cannot be coerced or corrupted, coup d'états have been internationally planned and nationally carried out by the military who then installed military dictatorships for as long as necessary to kill, imprison or intimidate any individual who stands in the way of population control. The Ministry of the Interior assumes responsibility for the continuation of the depopulation genocide once military dictatorships give way to democratically elected governments. The Ministry of Health is responsible for perverting science and medicine to serve as handmaidens of genocide and to provide false research that justifies committing crimes against humanity in the name of improving human health. The Ministry of Justice is tasked with ensuring that the law is blind, mute and deaf to any of the high crimes committed in the name of population control and that any dissenting individual will be imprisoned under false pretenses until such time as he is either forced into silence or his life and credibility are destroyed to such an extent that anything he asserts will be disregarded. The Ministry of Foreign Affairs coordinates national progress with international demands. And the Ministry of Communication ensures the media acts only as a misinformation and propaganda tool so that only the carefully calibrated lies of genocidal governments and corporations can be heard.

Internationally, the UN and its agencies, aided by an army of NGOs and corporations, provide the capacity needed to commit genocide to financially strapped and technologically inept governments, gather statistical data, monitor progress and collate information from all corners of the world, provide secret fora for heads of state, bureaucrats and technocrats to discuss methods and means, and create the intellectual environment needed to make genocide palatable and emotionally bearable to individuals who maim, murder and sicken billions of human beings so the sterilization machine can continue to sterilize and the culture of death can continue to thrive.

But neither the mass sterilization machine nor the culture of death and the intellectual environment that sustains it can survive the truth and the engagement of an enlightened populace. The truth, however, needs torchbearers and there are none to be found because those who are employed by governments, corporations and international organizations have sold their soul for personal profit and professional advancement and have chosen to see and hear only what they want and need to in order to make themselves believe that their lives have meaning.

This document now stands as testimony to a historic period of unprecedented challenges and unimaginable actions, challenges and actions that paradoxically are the result of our unsurpassed success as a species and that will either tear us apart and lead to our self-destruction if we fail to think and work as one or will lift us to unprecedented wealth, stability and happiness if we find the wisdom and the will to think of one another as family, to set aside false loyalties to creed and nation, to sacrifice profit for people, to abandon dated belief systems that draw invisible lines of division and create artificial fault lines between ethnic and religious communities; if, in sum, we develop a global consciousness and evolve from national, economic, and egotistical beings to planetary, ecological and altruistic beings.

Until such time as human beings refuse to act as human beings and choose to live as cockroaches, I will stand guard over conscience and consciousness and offer truth an inviolable sanctuary.

Until such time, governments will by necessity be our enemies.

Until such time, the world's children will continue to die and suffer for our sins.

Until such time, ignorance and cruelty will reign supreme.

Until such time...
