

Statement of Risks & Liability - Food Allergy and Sensitivity Form

Apron Stories is an all-inclusive cooking studio, and where applicable we will make food substitutes so that you can participate in classes. However, if you have food allergies or food sensitivities, please be aware that Apron Stories does not guarantee an allergen-free environment and cross contamination can easily occur. Recipes can contain peanuts, nuts, nut oils, egg, shellfish, dairy, gluten, soy, produce and other food allergens. Clearly, if this presents medical issues for yourself, then you need to be aware and make an informed decision on whether or not to participate in classes.

Below is a statement in which you are informed of a specific risk associated with food allergies. The specific risk is in addition to any other risks that may arise from consuming products or other incidents that may arise while on the premises at Apron Stories.

The statement is clear that when you make or consume products from Apron Stories, you are doing so at your own risk. It is important that you read the below statement before signing.

Exclusion of Liability

Apron Stories cannot accept responsibility for any death, injury, or other loss suffered or caused by you preparing and consuming any products from Apron Stories.

You understand that by preparing and eating Apron Stories products you are doing so at entirely your own risk and will not hold Apron Stories responsible.

I acknowledge that I have read and understand the above statements and exclude Apron Stories from any liability.

Please sign below to release liability. Thank you.
