

INNER PROJECTIONS FROM A BROKEN MAN

A video collection by
DANNY GERMANSEN

Each of these 1min. video-art pieces are windows into the life of the estranged people.

Outsiders battling depression and other mental issues or physical diseases, while living a life in loneliness and isolation in our society.

These people are now knocking on your door and asking to come inside your life, your mind, your TV, your consciousness.

After many years of positive progress and with the newly restoration work of these old films and art-videos. I finally realize that the videos made at the peak of my breakdown, tears down the walls of my apartment and shows the world how mentally ill and isolated people live, thinks and feel.

Shows how the everyday life of the lonely people is. Those people that normally not appears in public spaces because of their problems and are hidden behind the walls in confinement of their apartment, so no one sees them or noticed them.

I hope these films/videos can be used as information about those lost and damned people and help to an understanding from the public about these issues.

Danny's short Bio:

Danny Germansen (Born 1976) is an award-winning filmmaker and video-artist who was raised in a dysfunctional family in a little town on the west coast of Jutland in Denmark called Ribe.

Playing music most of his teenager years, Danny first started to work with video and film at the age of 21. His main body of work are inspired by a life with disability, depression and mental breakdown.

Danny's early work with films has been used as therapy, a way to work himself out of a low point in his life from his 20's up thru his 30's years of life, where he was suffering from severe depression, mental agony, isolation and loneliness - Caused by his troubled childhood with two spinal surgery operations at the age of 9 and 14 which left Danny paralyzed and in a wheelchair. Plus suffering abuse from a psychopathic father who damage him emotional and mentally for life and in the same time also experienced neglect from family and friends.

Those early works that can be seen in the video collection INNER PROJECTIONS FROM A BROKEN MAN. Is videos that show emotions and thoughts from a mental breakdown told thru the media of video.

But Danny does also do other topics as political, social-society and philosophical related work, music and art. Danny's work has been shown around the world at festivals and various venues.

film Restoration work:

The masters of these video-art pieces and experimental films are taken from old DV video tapes.

We have tried to restore the films/videos in best possible way, but please approach the technical quality of the restoration with empathy.

I still think these films/videos is an essential part of my complete film/video work and is therefore re-released digitally in HQ.
