Live-In Care

Many elderly people understandably want to stay at home for as long as they can, keeping the comfort, relationships, and memories that come with living under their own roof. Moving to an assisted living home is a life-changing and often traumatic move, so it is understandable that it is frequently postponed until there are no other alternatives left.

Live-in care is a strong alternative to assisted living because it allows individuals to preserve their independence and quality of life while being securely supported by highly trained and experienced carers.

Live-in care is not only helpful physically and practically, but the companionship also makes the person feel better mentally, which helps them stay healthy for longer.

Choosing Care Connex's Live-in care implies:

- There is no need to relocate to a nursing facility.

Live-in care for couples

We are aware of the fact that your loved ones have become as compatible as two peas in a pod over the course of the years, and that they would like nothing more than to continue spending the rest of their lives together, regardless of the challenges that may arise from day to day. We can care for you and ensure that you maintain your independence in the comfort of your home.

Even if we are fortunate enough to have the help of a partner, managing a household and doing daily duties might become difficult as we age. Coping might be more challenging if one or both individuals are suffering from physical or mental health concerns.

In these circumstances, our live-in carers for couples are very skilled at caring for folks who prefer to continue living together while getting expert help. In addition, they have the right personality to fit in with a couple and are willing to work the way you guide them.

There are several reasons why couples choose live-in care. One of the best things about hiring a live-in caregiver is that it lets couples stay in their own homes, where they are comfortable. They don't have to move, and they don't have to spend time away from their family or, more importantly, each other.

Our live-in care services can be tailored to fit the needs of people with dementia, Parkinson's disease, multiple sclerosis, the after-effects of a stroke, a spinal injury, or a heart attack, and many other conditions that can make it hard for a person to take care of themselves.

We provide short-term or long-term care options, which are frequently utilized by families to help loved ones adjust to the notion of assisted living. The amount of care requested can be determined after we have a thorough conversation based on your specific needs. Couples can get assistance with anything from laundry, cleaning, and cooking to errands and personal care.

Above all, you can have an unbeatable companion in our live-in carer, who is kind, helpful, polite, and always professional.

We may also assist couples by arranging for respite live-in care when one or both of them is returning from the hospital following an operation.
