Illustrations for inquiry about Kazakhs

Trumpeters with bee sleeves, Battle of Lund.

Tafel 35

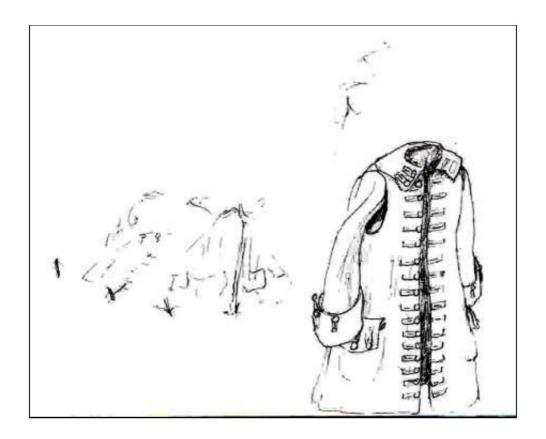

Hartschier in der Casake 1717

Picture Copyright © Brown University Library

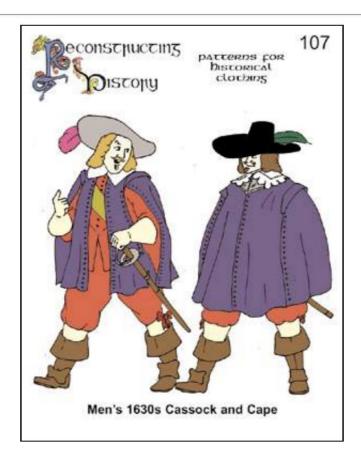

Bavarian Hartschier in Cossack 1717. As you can see here, Cossacks have had different designs depending on the country.

Here, it is almost an arad edition for a court unit.

Prussian overcoat, designed by Robert Hall. The Prussian model was designed so that three cloaks could become a tent. You can see here that the soldier was able to stick his arm out through the hole at the shoulder.

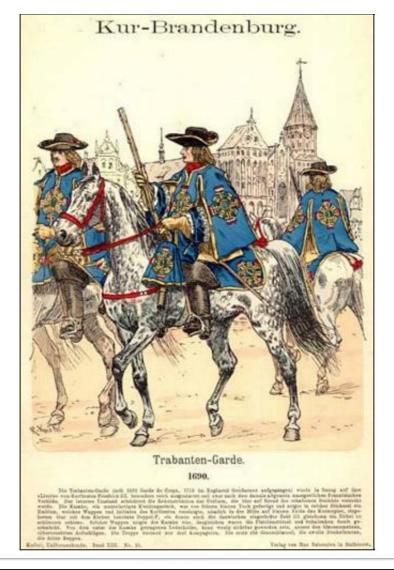

Cossack for about 1630.

Søren Henriksen's sketch for a Cossack at Fodgarden, 1686. Maybe the C5 badge on the hat should be on the left side?

Søren Henriksen's sketch for a Cossack for line infantry ca. 1690.

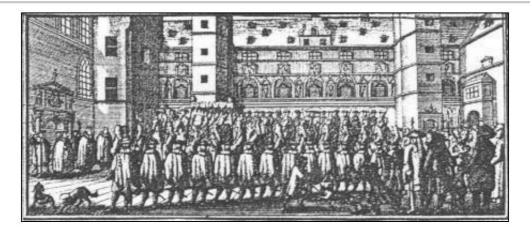

Simultaneous image of the musketeers.

Norwegian grenadier 1699.

The foot guard is seen here from behind in the courtyard of Frederiksborg Castle.

Depicts the procession at Frederik 4's anointing.

The riders must be the Horse Guard.

Section of a painting from 1699 showing the solemn opening of the Supreme Court presided over by Christian 5.

Here you see Drabants and presumably some officers from the Foot Guards or the Horse Guards.

Drabant 1728, drawing by Worgewitz. The Textile Museum.