Guest Love Checklist

- Sheets and towels – Either you can make the bed and hang the towels so it's prepared and ready for them, or, and especially if you don't have a separate guest room, you can make a neat bundle, maybe with a ribbon around it, and hand it over.
- Fresh flowers – Big bouquets are beautiful, but a single flower will bring the feeling of love and care as much. If you're blessed with your own garden, and it happens to be the season, you can pick a little beauty right there.
- Books & magazines – Put some books or magazines there that you think they might enjoy flipping through when going to bed, or if they wake up early, or happen to have a little break during the day.
- Candles – Place a candle (and something to light it with!) to give them the possibility for a cozy moment. Use scented ones if you want to give the space an extra touch.
- Wifi-code – It's a part of the modern life, right?! Give them a note with your wifi-code, so they have easy access to it.
- Water – Bring a bottle or pitcher with fresh water or mineral water, and a glass, in case they wake up during the night and need a little sip.
- Guestbook – Keep a guestbook or a notebook, and some pens, if they want to write you a little love note.
