

Creating a vision for a global independent eco-social arts society like Docutopia's multiverse involves several interconnected elements. Here's an outline of various symbiotic news and initiatives that could emerge in this future scenario.

1. Multiverse Map Rewards with DO(co)ins

Profile Currency: Introduction of DO(co)ins as a glocal currency to facilitate trade and services within the #multiverse including all other forms of currencies as well optional.

2. Map Integration: Various digital map layers showcasing glocal arts, culture, music and other businesses and services, people, events accepting DO(co)ins as well.

Incentives for businesses that participate in eco-friendly, pacifistic practices.

3. Transparency and Accountability (petition/poll suggestion)

No Bank Secrecy for governments: All financial transactions of governmental tax money are transparent with their locations and institutions mapped, allowing communities and individuals like journalists, scientists or others to track the flow of tax payers money and it's purpose to prove the well being of people with their rights to public, social, ecological and economical justice attached. Use of de-central, self-hosted, mirco-multi blockchain technology to ensure accountability in financial dealings.

4. Tax Redistribution Focus on Indigenous Rights: Restructuring the tax system that it prioritizes the redistribution of wealth to indigenous communities, ensuring their rights to land, water and resources. Community Projects: Funding for projects that support indigenous culture, education, youth, and environmental stewardship, self-governed communities and their elders.

5. Rights to Land and Water Legal Framework: Establishing legal rights for all indigenous people to their land and water resources. Sustainable Practices: Promoting permaculture and sustainable agriculture to meet community needs.

6. Equality and Justice Initiatives Community Governance: Establishing glocal councils that represent diverse community voices, ensuring equitable decision-making and including existing once. Conflict Resolution: Implementing restorative justice practices to address grievances and promote healing.

7. Self-Governance and Autarky Local Autonomy: Encouraging communities to develop self-sufficient systems for natural education, food, energy, and resources.

Skill Sharing: Programs for skill-sharing and education to empower individuals and reduce dependency on external systems.

8. Universal Basic Income (UBI) Implementation

Objective: To ensure that all individuals have a financial safety net, promoting equality and ending poverty once and for ever.

Mechanism: UBI funded through a combination of taxes on luxury goods, carbon taxes, and redistribution of wealth from corporations, governments, institutions, banks, high income class and spiritual groups like religions. Regular community forums to discuss and adjust UBI based on individual needs.

9. Art and Culture Integration

Cultural Festivals: Regular events celebrating global art, music, and culture, fostering community spirit and collaboration.

Art as Activism: Encouraging artists to create works that address social and environmental issues, raising awareness and inspiring action.

10. Global Collaboration

Network of Eco-Social Art Societies: Building a global network of similar societies to share resources, knowledge, and support.

International Advocacy: Collaborating on global issues such as art and science, finance, climate change, human rights, and social justice.

This outline presents a holistic approach to creating a sustainable and equitable society, emphasizing collaboration, transparency, and community empowerment. Each initiative can be tailored to fit the unique needs and values of the local population while contributing to a larger global movement.