We grow and become stronger

The sister companies in the Addtech Group, Pulsteknik AB and Emcomp International AB, are merging, giving our common customers and partners a stronger future together.

Stronger together

Pulsteknik was founded in 1965 and has almost 60 years of experience in providing electrical products for harsh and demanding environmental applications. Emcomp was founded in 1998 and has over 25 years of experience in circuit protection for demanding environments and applications. We operate in a large number of segments and are a proud supplier of products and solutions to multinational customers, as well as to smaller local players. Our employees' combined experience and competencies provide a very strongly equipped company, ready to meet our customers' challenges and needs for equipment for demanding environments and applications.

As the two strong teams have become stronger through the synergy effects of the merger, we will have additional employees in the following functions: technical sales, purchasing, warehouse/assembly and finance. Geographically, we have our head office in Örebro and an office in Gothenburg, both locations having employees providing all functions as well maintaining as a local warehouse. In addition to this, technical salespeople are stationed in Madrid and Foshan (China). With this arrangement, our customers can feel confident that we will meet their needs and challenges in a reliable and efficient way.

Part of Addtech

As mentioned above, Emcomp and Pulsteknik are part of Addtech AB, www.addtech.se. Addtech is a public owned company noted on the Nasdaq Stockholm stock exchange. The business consists of more than 150 independent group companies that sell high-tech products and solutions to customers, primarily in the manufacturing and infrastructure industry - always with sustainability in focus. Addtech is a fully decentralized organization with a unique culture that combines the speed of the small entrepreneur-driven company with the stability of a larger group.
