

Occupational Health & Safety Policy

Emcomp International is an agency firm that markets and sells electrical components and solutions for harsh environments. Examples of harsh environments are extreme ambient temperatures, dirt, moisture and EX-zones. The products are shipped from our warehouses in Sweden or Hong Kong. Quality awareness and attentive service makes us the customers first hand choice.

The purpose of Emcomp's occupational health & safety policy is to create a physically, organizationally, and socially healthy and developing workplace for all employees, where risks of occupational injuries and work-related ill health are prevented. Current legislation is always a minimum requirement in Emcomp's operations. Emcomp's way of handling issues regarding environmental health, safety, and quality means that our customers, suppliers, employees, and authorities have full confidence in us and our work.

In practice, Emcomp should:

- Every employee is given opportunities and powers to carry out their tasks in a manageable way and without risk of injury or future harm.
- All employees take personal and active responsibility for the work environment in their daily work.
- Protection activities and improvement work take place in an organized form in consultation and participation with employees and any employee representatives.
- The main responsibility for the work environment lies with the employer, who undertakes to meet applicable, legal, and other requirements in order to achieve a good work environment
- The work environment policy permeates the entire business and is a natural part of our daily work and we must work for continuous improvement.
- Inform all employees about the environmental policy.
- All employees are responsible for knowing, understanding, applying and further develop the policy.

Andreas Anselmius, MD

Örebro, August 2024

