Energiretsforeningen inviterer i samarbejde med Center for Offentlig Regulering og Administration (CORA), Det Juridiske Fakultet, til et møde med fokus på

Wind energy and the legal challenges it faces

Executive Director Felicia Martinez will provide an overview of the changing energy system, the challenges in this change and the growing wind power sector in Colorado with recent announced plans for building Colorado's largest (to date) wind farm. Since President Obama took office, renewable sources have witnessed unprecedented growth in the US. Several factors and state and federal policies have contributed to this transition, aimed at promoting renewables. Yet, some state resistance to renewables may erode their market share.

Anita Rønne will briefly present the new book "Sharing the Costs and Benefits of Energy and Resource Activity – Legal Impacts and Change on Communities" (Oxford University Press), which she has just published with colleagues including her chapter on "Opposition to Wind Farms and the Possible Responses of the Legal System". A new phase is emerging in the relationship between energy and resource activities and the communities that are affected by them with a need to consider also sharing the benefits with locally impacted communities. The legal challenges caused by these developments will be highlighted.
