Thor Bjørklund (October 30, 1889 – December 8, 1975) was a Norwegian inventor and businessman. He is best known as the inventor of the Ostehøvel, a popular cheese slicer which developed into an important Norwegian export product.

A black and white photograph of a man climbing a large, dark, textured rock face. The man is on the left side of the frame, wearing a dark t-shirt and jeans, and is looking up at the rock. The rock face is covered in various climbing holds and has a rough, uneven texture. The background is dark and out of focus.

GET A HOLD OF THIS!

Handcrafted, Norwegian design climbing holds.

Sparked in Trondheim, Norway, as an Australian, a Nordlending and a Trønder, (with a dash of Stavanger in there also), were having a well deserved coffee break from their weekly route setting session; impatient creativity, and an ambition to spice up their boulder problems inspired a conversation leading up to the launch of Arctic Grips.

Aiming to be a local, yet global provider of handcrafted, inspiring new school climbing holds, we are excited to see the launch of our little company fitting timely into the boasting movement of the climbing community both locally and abroad. Using our years of experience as both route setters and climbers, with a slightly odd and mixed background from carpentry, bike repair and audio/visual arts, we hope to meet the demand for progressive and inspiring new climbing holds. Keeping our northern roots alive whilst converting our inspirations, lead by the spectacularity of nature, into indoor climbing holds can -and should be a daunting task- and we do it in awe.

In order to meet the industry standards for quality and making the most durable holds, we find it paramount to use the highest quality possible concerning materials and production. Sharing factory facilities with brands such as Kilter and Flat Holds, with moulded holds in the renowned CompositeX plastic, and shapes made from the most up to date types of texture foam sets for a long term branding, with production quality as one of our core values. Texture of holds, and the ergonomics of every single pinch, crimp, chip and jug will hopefully be noticed by coffee drinking route setters and chalk heads around the globe! Launching our first series in december 2019, the Flatanger Range is bound to be a smash hit!

All our best,
Thomas, Dylan & Erlend

THE FLATANGER SERIES

The municipality of Flatanger is named after one of the fjords in the area of this part of coastal Trøndelag, but it is not known which one. The name is composed of two parts: flat, which probably points to "shallow water", and angr, which means "fjord or inlet".

Flatanger is a hidden gem on the coast of Trøndelag. We are proud to dedicate our first series of holds to this beautiful place.

This series consists of both crimps, slabs, ledges, cracks, pinches, foot holds and slopers.

TECHNICAL INFO

PRODUCT MATERIAL

At Arctic Grips we only offer PU Dannomond Holds. We consider this product to be the best on the market when it comes to comfort and durability.

Dannomond PU allows flexing in the product, which prevents chipping and cracking when tightened. It also has a much longer life expectancy compared to PE holds.

WEIGHT REDUCTION

Most of our holds are hollow back, drastically reducing the weight. Not all holds can be reduced like this due to their dimensions, but where it is possible we have tried to take out as much PU resin as possible without losing structural strength.

TEXTURE

We design our holds based on comfort and aesthetics. We have chosen to use a smooth but slightly pored texture to allow longer climbing time in the gym regarding chalk build up, and to give your finger an experience they will appreciate.

FIXINGS

All our holds come with a Dual washer system. This allows both Cap-Head bolts and Countersunk bolts to fit without the need of additional washers. All our bolt-on holds come with added screw holes to prevent spinning and to give a more solid purchase to the climbing wall. All screw holes have metal inserts to stop over sinking of the screws leading to damaged holds.

FLATANGER SERIES //FRIED EGGS

As they could have been designed for your upcoming competition; these beauties are a routsetters dream. Some of these will insist on cancelling the climbers moves, only to be dominated by the competent routesetter. 1+1 fingers, the crippled bowlingball, the lumpy archer, the slopy and deep... this range is just fun.
