

About

grums is a Danish skin care brand. We create high quality, sustainable skin care products with sustainably sourced ingredients, including the upcycled organic coffee grounds we collect from local cafés, festivals and coffee shops in Aarhus.

We believe that skin care can be created from a sustainable mindset, without compromising on quality, look, feel or effect. Since the beginning we have been pushing ourselves and our partners demanding exactly that, in every bit of our value chain. From collecting coffee grounds to selectively choosing high quality ingredients and sustainable packaging.

Our philosophy is quite simple: High levels of quality, sustainability and transparency. Skin care can and should be about making you look better – and nothing looks as good as feeling good.

We do not promise you the skin of a 16-year-old (well, maybe if you're 17'ish), but we do commit ourselves to being transparent, honest, and uncompromising.

Why Coffee Grounds?

Surely, most of us have experienced how coffee can make any groggy morning feel better. But how exactly do the leftover grounds from your morning brew benefit your skin?

When brewing, less than 1% of the nutrients end up in your coffee. More than 99% of all the good stuff are still left in the coffee grounds.

To sum it up, we have gathered 5 of the best reasons why coffee grounds make an amazing skin care ingredients.

Refreshed glow

Free radicals are molecules (pollution particles, etc.) which our environment is full of. Free radicals are molecules that, when damaged, whether through diet, stress, smoking or other products, can result in visible skin imperfections like dark spots and lines. However, loading up your skin with antioxidants from coffee grounds will protect and bolster the natural defence of your skin. Coffee grounds help reverse the imperfections and brightening your skin and give it a refreshed glow.

Firmness & elasticity

Coffee grounds have the ideal consistency for creating the ultimate exfoliator. The texture of coffee grounds works excellent to buff off all those dead skin cells and supports your skin's production of new skin cells. In addition it offers caffeic acid which is known to increase collagen production. Collagen is a protein produced by our cells that helps "holding" the skin together. It provides firmness and elasticity, making your skin look younger.

Coffee beats plastic

Microbeads, which are made of plastic, are used by many industries for a variety of purposes, including cosmetic products such as scrubs. Contrary to microbeads, coffee grounds are rich on antioxidants, natural oils and can even have great effect on some skin diseases, such as psoriasis. Furthermore they won't harm our environment when going down the drain.

Anti-inflammatory

Due to the fact that coffee grounds have a rich source of antioxidants and caffeine it has potent anti-inflammatory properties which make it ideal for reducing inflammation and redness in your skin, leaving you with a beautiful, even skin tone.

Enhance circulation

Coffee grounds promote blood circulation and reduce cellulite. It leads to healthy and energized-looking skin since the toxins and wastes are transported to sites of elimination. When using coffee grounds on your skin, like in a face mask or body scrub, it will boost the glow of your skin leaving it looking radiant and healthy.

Ingredients

Reading and understanding an ingredients list shouldn't be  -science. That's why we've decided to provide translations to all ingredients in our products as an extension to the legal required INCI designations. Full ingredient lists, translations and information about the ingredients we use, can therefore be found on our website.

Wrapped In Sugar

Thinking differently and questioning what is given? It's safe to say that we've set the bar pretty high. So, picking out the right packaging was all about 'stop talking and start walking'.

Wrapping our first products in sugar just seemed right (odd but right). Packaging isn't just about being practical, the right size or great looking - but all of them combined topped with sustainably sourced materials.

The sugar cane based packagings are all marked with the 'I'm Green' logo.

Our Story

grums was founded in 2016 by us, two guys from Aarhus, Denmark. We had put our minds to bring new energy to the skin care business by using coffee grounds in all our products. We wanted to turn a waste product into a luxurious and high-quality line of skin care products. We have since developed our first products containing only the best natural ingredients and of course: coffee grounds - no exceptions made.

We believe that skin care can be both luxurious and thoughtful without compromising one or another. This is just the beginning so brace yourself for new exciting products to come.
