Dr Pastor Mario

We are grateful with the support from Partners. Through the grace of the Lord in the last few months we have managed to continue impacting lives of many orphans and the underprivileged in communities around the world through humanitarian work. Your unwavering supporting is overwhelming and we expect even more lives in different continents this year. May the Lord richly bless you and we continue praying and hoping that all of our projects will gain more momentum as we share and spread the love of God.

PAKISTAN

Students of ICIS International Khanewal writing their Final Term Exams.

ICIS is delighted with lives being impacted through education in Pakistan. We believe that education lights every stage of the journey to a better life, especially for the poor and the most vulnerable. Education's unique power to act as a catalyst for wider development goals can only be fully realized, however, if it is equitable. That means making special efforts to ensure that all children and young people – regardless of their family income, where they live, their gender, their ethnicity, whether they are disabled – can benefit equally from its transformative power. Education empowers girls by increasing their chances of getting jobs, staying healthy and participating fully in society – and it boosts children's chances of leading healthy lives.

Better education equals a better nation.

UGANDA

ICIS is grateful with the opportunity that continue being enable to orphans and the underprivileged to access education and by going to school, children can learn the skills that are needed for the workplace. This means they are more likely to get a job in future, earn an income, and support a family. The country benefits too; having a more skilled workforce drives economic growth as educated workers are paid more and work more efficiently.

Africa is confronted with many challenges due to extreme poverty among the majority. For the young ones who are hunger stricken, their ray of hope is in Education. Kemisi (ICIS Country Coordinator) ss working very hard to ensure the poor and underprivileged are provided with access to education, school supplies, tuition fees, toiletries and the much-needed psychosocial support. ## Feeding Program in India

The captions (left side) are some evidences of the feeding program of iCare so iShare in India. There are hundreds of people living in swamps without any food security. Their health is at risk and they need a hand stretched towards them to improve their welfare.

ICIS is playing a pivotal role in providing meals to the less fortunate in India. ICIS knows the importance of providing nutritious, prepared food to those less fortunate. The meals ensure food safety and the availability of balanced diet. People suffering from food insecurity struggle especially with sourcing healthy, fresh foods that provide essential nutrients. Not only is it difficult to find healthy food, it is often impossible for food-insecure individuals to verify that the food they find is clean, or even sufficiently cooked depending on the source. ICIS continue to play part in responding to the need by providing clean and healthy meals to vulnerable people.

LIVES

ICIS sharing food with people living in the street, Kolkata, India. Sharing food brings people together on many different levels. It's nourishment of the soul and body; it's truly love. We are glad to be serving the needy in one of the poorest cities of India, where the underprivileged people hardly living in the streets hardly afford a basic need of food. ICIS thrives to alleviate human suffering around the world through word and deed.

Students sponsored to continue their education in Kenya.

ICIS believe that education is the great equalizer: It can open the door to jobs, resources, and skills that help a person not only survive, but thrive. This is why access to quality education is a globally-recognized solution to poverty. Students are being sponsored with tuition fees to access education in Kenya. The impact is massive as many dreams are revived and hopes rejuvenated. Children who gotten the opportunity are delighted and overwhelmed.

I CARE SO IS HARE is now officially registered in Kenya

We are thrilled that I CARE SO I SHARE is now officially registered in Kenya. The registration gives us much room to maneuver into other avenues that require certain legalities. Many programs will be introduced in the area and a holistic approach is being implemented to impact the lives of the underprivileged.

ICIS Continue sponsoring children to access education.

ICIS continue supporting children in need through tuition fees, school supplies and school uniforms. The lives of children are being impacted as others are now transitioning from Primary to Secondary level of education.

Sunflower project progresses well

As an initiative of sustainable projects; ICIS introduced the Sunflower Seed Project in Zimbabwe. The project is progressing very well as evidenced by the photos shown below. ICIS continue being oriented at impacting the lives of the underprivileged through humanitarian work. Our goal through the Sunflower Project is to be able to raise more resources that will be channelled towards tuition fees, school supplies, school uniforms and psychosocial programs. Our hope is to impact as many children since there is great need for intervention in Zimbabwe both in urban and rural areas.
