Our services

Private live-in care

At Maxxicare we offer you the option to have one of our highly experienced personnel to move into your home with you to deliver quality, evidence-based care, allowing you to remain independent in the comfort and familiarity of your own home.

Our live-in care services are client centered and range from intensive nursing care needs to a modest degree of assistance with daily duties. You and your loved ones may rest easy knowing that you are in capable hands 24 hours a day, seven days a week. All of our employees are educated to respect your autonomy, right to privacy, and to obtain your consent before engaging in any intervention while providing care to you.

Domiciliary care

Domiciliary care is increasingly becoming a popular option since it allows you to live independently in your own home while receiving daily care and support from qualified caregivers to satisfy your basic needs.

Domiciliary care is an option that would be appropriate for you if you have health difficulties that require you to need care and extra support to manage your day-to-day tasks but still want to live in your own home

Specialist care

People who receive specialist care often have significant and ongoing healthcare demands as a result of chronic illness, impairments, or hospitalisation. When someone requires specialised medical care, most people feel that the only place to get it is in a hospital or nursing home.

Specialist care involves a person-centered approach that will enable you and/or your loved ones with a diverse range of health and social needs to realise your goals for greater health and well-being

Palliative care

At Maxxicare, we work closely with NHS commissioners to provide you and your loved ones with a holistic support to people you care for at the end of life. We believe in the right to receive compassion and care with dignity throughout life and we will support you and your family at this trying time.

Our palliative carers aim to meet your demands in terms of taking care of you and your family and asking sure you are thoroughly supported in aspects of emotional, psychological, social, spiritual and physical needs.

Companionship

Loneliness is a serious issue that must be addressed as it brings several repercussions with it. Our culture has changed dramatically in the last few decades, and families no longer spend as much time together as they used to.

As people age, their social networks may deteriorate as peers pass away, leaving television, radio, and pets as their primary sources of companionship. Fear of toppling over may prevent you or a loved one from venturing out on your own, making it nearly impossible to make new friends.

Respite care

When you are a carer and you are feeling overwhelmed, respite care may be just what you need. When you take a break from caring for your loved ones, you can re-energize your emotional, physical, and mental reserves, which may have been gradually exhausted as a result of not prioritising your own needs.

Having you at an emotional equilibrium is important as it ensures effective delivery for care and support. Our vast array of trained carers are always on standby to give you rest and ensure that there is no noticeable difference in care receipt from your loved ones.
