Findings

Mostly positive reception and discussion in all African institutions waste of time and resources on pseudo negotiations in nice offices on the prospects for the poor

Very little action

High frictional cost levels in the form of fee earnings before 'aid reach the target (farmer)'

formalities serving office earnings

'time-to-market' (farmer)

Points

How can Global North Capital support African Risk Averse Capital

Can Global North capital leverage itself through e.g. guarantee schemes activating African capital?

Who's will take the lead on this?
