AYA 1006-360° HINGE

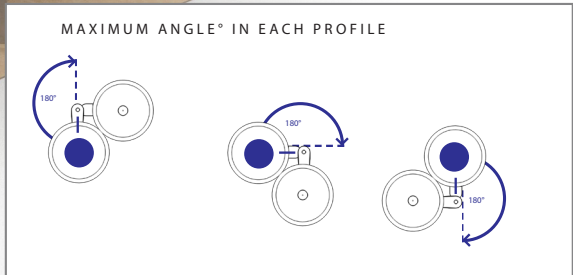

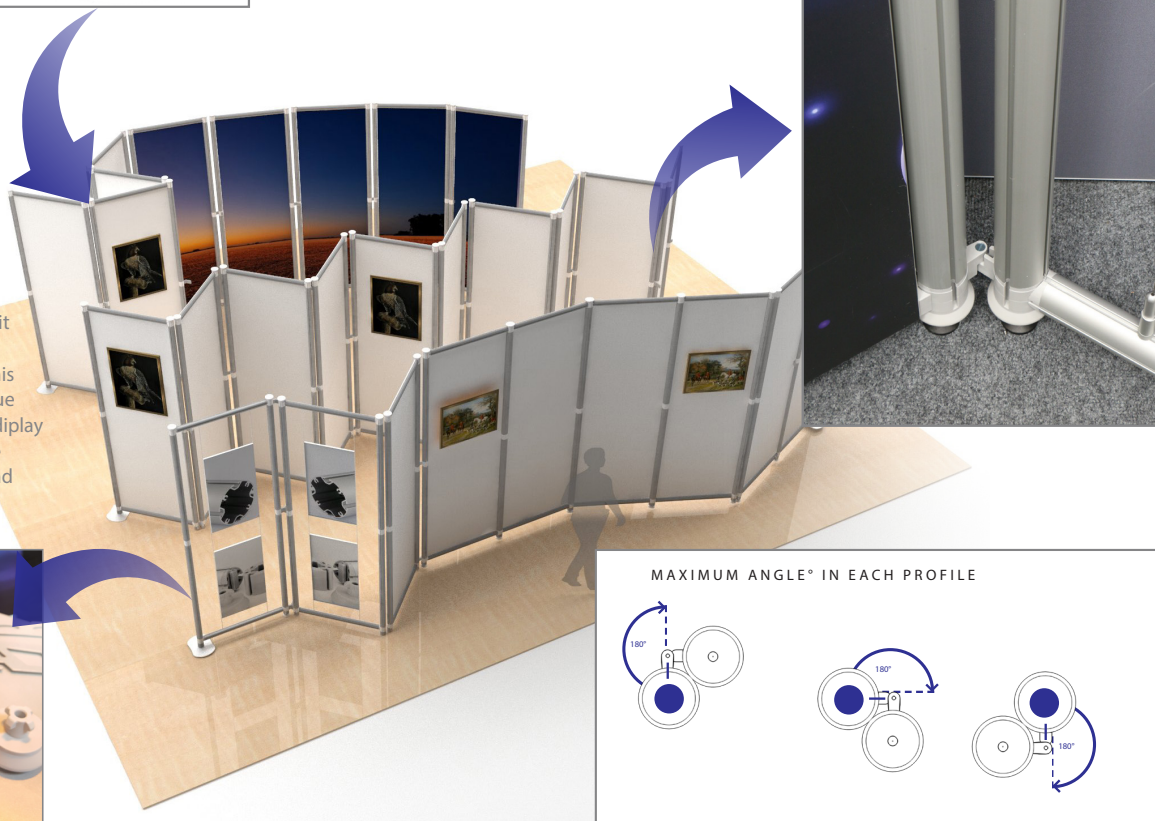

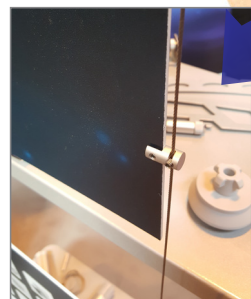

Movable Parts for Multiple Uses

The hinge component is one of the most important accessories to T3Affinity giving you access to 360° rotation. This allows you to explore angles away from the typical 90° and create a wide range of designs. Display units can be manipulated to suit a specific design or location on site without any issues, simply lift and rotate as needed.

The hinge has been particularly successful in Museums and art galleries. The panels as seen in the illustration below can be angled as needed to create dynamic and sophisticated experiences for attendees. The hinge has no limitations and can still allow access to all the components and accessories currently available.

Combine your hinge unit with our cabling system or wrapped graphics. This gives you an extra unique feature to your hinged display structure. With a diverse range of applications and industries to use within.
