A BESPOKE DINING EXPERIENCE

Property Mail headed to Sierra Blanca for the launch of the renowned architect Miguel Tobal, newly designed Villa Wagner.

From the moment of arrival, the estate's balance of grandiose architectural elements and thoughtful, understated details were on full display—the interiors created by OMEO Design feature a stunning palette of beige, white and dark wooden hues, intricate stonework, perfectly balancing the soaring ceilings.

In the living room, the hero piece is a large wooden table with the carved letter W from the new furniture line at OMEO Design. OMEO creates made to measure furniture and designs for customers looking for tailor made high-end modern interior projects, whilst staying true to the original design and offering a service that makes the product unique.

Property Mail is here to keep every interior lover needs updated, hence we sat down with creative director Olivia O. to hear more.

“I knew from the start I wanted to infuse soul and enhance the beautiful area into Villa Wagner. Being located at Calle Wagner, the letter W became the signum of the house. We tailor-made both the entrance hall and dining table with brass W letters infused from the table console. The dining table became such a statement piece for Villa Wagner, but, first and foremost, it needed to be functional and comfortable.

What I love is an innovative mix of materials such as wood and brass. These are both elegant and luxe while managing to be a little dark and edgy at the same time.

All our products at OMEO Design are tailor made and handcrafted by our inhouse designers. By choosing bespoke products, a space can be more individual and creative. For this specific line of tables, clients can choose any initials they prefer. A wide assortment of metal finishes and any type of wood for the tabletop so it can match that client's specific project and needs. It's also perfect as a conference table with the name or logo of your company.

The purpose is to offer a tailor-made service where every single element contributes to creating unique and customized spaces, turning the most linear and simple shapes into works of artistic skilful craftsmanship. I feel this adds to the soul of the house.”
