

THE PAN-AFRICAN PYRAMID

One Struggle, Many Fronts

OFFICE OF THE SPEAKER

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

PRESS STATEMENT ON THE BARBARIC AND IMPERIALIST AGGRESSION BY THE UNITED STATES AGAINST THE BOLIVARIAN REPUBLIC OF VENEZUELA

The Pan Africa Pyramid (PAP) unequivocally condemns the barbaric, lawless, and arrogant act of aggression perpetrated by the United States of America under the leadership of President Donald J. Trump, involving the invasion of the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela and the alleged abduction and forcible removal of President Nicolás Maduro Moros and the First Lady, Cilia Flores, from their sovereign homeland in a desperate attempt to impose regime change.

This action represents the highest expression of imperial arrogance, a gross violation of international law, the United Nations Charter, and the foundational principles of national sovereignty and self-determination.

PAP aligns itself with the firm and courageous position articulated by the Vice President of Venezuela, Delcy Rodríguez, who has publicly stated that the Venezuelan state does not know the whereabouts of President Nicolás Maduro and the First Lady. We therefore demand, without equivocation, that the government of the United States immediately provides verifiable proof of life and discloses the location and condition of President Maduro and Cilia Flores. The enforced disappearance of a sitting Head of State and First Lady is not diplomacy; it is state terrorism.

Historical Pattern of American Interventionism

The aggression against Venezuela does not occur in a vacuum. It is part of a long, bloody, and well-documented history of United States interference in Latin America, Africa, the Middle East, and Asia. From Guatemala in 1954, Chile in 1973, Grenada in 1983, Panama in 1989, Iraq, Libya, Syria, to countless covert operations across the Global South, the United States has consistently sought to overthrow governments that refuse to submit to its economic and geopolitical dictates.

Venezuela's "crime" has been its insistence on sovereign control over its vast oil reserves, gold, gas, and strategic natural resources, and its refusal to surrender these assets to Western multinational corporations.

The world cannot forget that the United States government openly placed a monetary bounty on the head of a sitting Venezuelan President. This unprecedented act of international banditry reduced diplomacy to a criminal enterprise and signaled to the world that Washington no longer respects even the most basic norms of state conduct.

Such actions expose the United States not as a defender of democracy, but as a predator state willing to criminalize legitimate governments in pursuit of plunder.

Pan Africa Pyramid is fully aware that the objective of this aggression is not democracy, human rights, or freedom, but the installation of a compliant puppet regime that will hand over Venezuela's natural wealth to foreign interests.

This same model has been imposed on Africa for decades: destabilize, sanction, demonize, invade, and install a comprador leadership. Venezuela is now being subjected to the same neocolonial script.

The people of Venezuela have the inalienable right to determine their political future, protect their resources, and safeguard what is most sacred to the homeland: independence, dignity, and continuity of their historical project.

No imperial aggression will erase or undermine the immortal legacy of El Libertador, Simón Bolívar. His vision of a free, united, and sovereign Latin America continues to inspire resistance across the Global South, including Africa.

Bolívar's struggle mirrors Africa's own unfinished liberation from imperial domination.

As a Pan-African organization, PAP affirms that the struggle of Venezuela is inseparable from the struggle of Africa and all oppressed peoples. An attack on Venezuela is an attack on the Global South. Silence in the face of such injustice would be complicity.

We call upon African governments, progressive Pan-African movements, civil society, and all people of conscience to reject this imperial overreach and stand firmly with the people of Venezuela.

Pan Africa Pyramid demands the immediate cessation of all acts of aggression against Venezuela, the restoration of its full sovereignty, and accountability for those responsible for this criminal enterprise.

History will not be kind to empires that mistake brute force for legitimacy.

Africa, Don't Agonize_Organize!
