

About Us

My father started this whole journey, wanting to leave a narrative about family members that came before him for his grandchildren. So they could understand where they came from.

The inspirational story behind Three Surnames involves William Richard Cory who used three surnames through his life.

William's story and many others set in motion a passion for family stories and social history.

So to continue what my father started together with comprehensive genealogical research, I strive to bring families closer together. Providing their family stories and a better understanding of their heritage

Three Surnames Genealogy is a family-owned and operated business based in Glabbeek, Belgium.

What We Do

Family history researching has seen a significant boom in popularity in this internet age, with service providers like Ancestry, Findmypast and My Heritage. They allow many people to begin their own research with many online sources. However, there are thousands of records not online which requires researching in person at archive depositories.

Three surnames provides that service and more both in the UK and Belgium.
