

Instructions for Authors

The WCPRR publishes original research papers, written in English (UK or US spellings are acceptable but must be consistent), with the understanding that no substantial part has been, or will be, published elsewhere.

Manuscripts should be submitted to:

Rujuta Mahajan, assistant to the Editor-in-Chief:

info.wcpr@gmail.com

Authors are requested to send manuscripts by e-mail (including text, tables and figures) typewritten with double-spacing, 70 characters per line, 25 lines to the page (both MAC and WINDOWS Microsoft Word formats are accepted).

Manuscripts must be written in concise and correct English. They should be carefully checked for correctness of typing, spelling and grammar before they are submitted.

Manuscripts should be organized and should be arranged in the following order, with each item beginning a new page: a) cover letter, b) title page, c) abstract, d) text, e) acknowledgments, f) references, and g) tables and/or figures. All pages must be numbered, starting with title page as page 1.

Cover Letter

Cover letters should include statements regarding authorship, disclosure and copyright transfer. Cover letters must include the names of two suggested reviewers and their e-mail addresses.

Title page

This should include: (A) title of paper; (B) an abbreviated version of the title not exceeding 40 letters and spaces; (C) name of author(s), including first name(s); authors' first names are preferred over initials. Degrees should be included after each author's name; (D) name of department(s), institution(s), city (ies) and state(s) in which the work was done, including full postal address; (E) a list of 5-10 keywords for indexing purpose. The title should be concise and clear.

Abstract

An abstract should state the rationale of the study, the methods, the main findings and the conclusions drawn from the findings. The abstract should be self-explanatory, without reference to the text. Abbreviations may be included, provided that they are defined in the abstract, as well as in the main text.

Main text

Original articles should conform to the following organizational plan: introduction, materials and methods, results, and discussion. The introduction should include a brief review of the literature related to the subject of the paper, and a short statement on the aims of the work presented. Materials and methods should be described with sufficient detail to allow other workers to duplicate the study. Previously reported procedures may be referred to by citation, but newly adopted modifications should be specified in detail. Results must be clearly and concisely described, with the help of appropriate illustrative material, as indicated. The discussion should be limited to the reported findings and their implications. Footnotes to the text should be typed and numbered consecutively at the foot of the appropriate page, using a line for separation from the text.

References

The number of references should be adequate, but not excessive; to this purpose, the use of appropriate recent reviews is recommended. Each reference should be cited in the text by author's surname and publication year in parenthesis i.e. (Smith, 2001) and listed alphabetically at the end of the paper. Articles in press (accepted for publication), may be cited within the text (i.e. Smith, in press) and included in the bibliography; the name of the journal in which they will appear, and if possible volume and year, should be indicated. References to unpublished materials may be cited in parentheses in the text (i.e. Smith, in press), but not in the bibliography. Abstracts may be cited only when they contain substantial data not published elsewhere. Their nature should be stated in the bibliography by the addition of the term ("Abstract") at the end of the reference.

- References to articles in journals should be listed as follows:

authors' names and initials, title of article, name of journal [in italics], volume, page numbers and year.

i.e.:

Jilek WG, Jilek-Aall L. The mental health relevance of traditional medicine and shamanism in refugee camps of northern Thailand. Curare, 13: 217-224, 1990.

- References to articles or chapters in books should be listed as follows:

authors' names and initials, title of article or chapter, name and initials of editor(s), title of book [in italics], edition (other than first), city of publication, publisher, year, volume, page numbers.

i.e.:

Illustrations

Figures should be numbered consecutively with Arabic numbers. Legends should be typed double-spaced on a separate sheet.

The approximate position of each illustration in the text should be indicated by the author.

Tables

Tables should be numbered consecutively using Arabic numbers. Each table must have a concise heading and should be comprehensible without reference to the text. Tabular data should in general not be duplicated in the text or figures. Authors are also requested to indicate the approximate position of each table in the text.

Abbreviations, symbols and nomenclature

Abbreviations and symbols should be clearly defined; preferably in the text.

Galley proofs will be sent to the first author, unless otherwise indicated. Proofs should be returned within 1 week of receipt.

All submitted manuscripts are reviewed by the Editor-in-Chief and sent out to two referees. Authors are usually notified within 8 weeks about acceptance of their manuscript.
